Newton man indicted for Alabama bank robbery

By TAYLOR BECK tbeck@covnews.com

We meet or beat any price you have in writing.

ALBERTVILLE, Ala. A federal grand jury has indicted a Covington man on a bank robbery charge, U.S. Attorney Prim F. Escalona and FBI Special Agent in Charge Johnny Sharp Jr. announced Thursday.

A one-count indictment filed in U.S. District Court charged Nekyle N. Chaney, 45, of Covington, with bank robbery, a news release stated. Chaney is accused of robbing a Regions Bank in Albertville, Alabama, on Feb. 18 "by force, violence, or intimidation." Chaney and three other

Georgia men — Theodore

Nekyle N. Chaney

David Kemp, 46, of Decatur; Ronnie Lee Jones, 31, of Atlanta; and Shermaine Nashawn Caison, 32, of Ellenwood — were also arrested after the alleged robbery.

charged with conspiracy to commit a first-degree theft of property.

Kemp and Jones were both

Caison was charged with tampering with evidence after he attempted to flush marijuana down the toilet once he arrived at the Albertville City Jail. He was not charged for any involvement in the robbery.

According to Albertville Police Chief Jamie Smith, Chaney was the only one to enter the bank Feb. 18.

The chief told told The Sand Mountain Reporter, a local newspaper, Chaney attempted to cash a counterfeit check before forcibly taking cash from the nearest teller drawer and fleeing.

Smith said a customer saw what happened and chased Chaney into a nearby shopping center until police were able to apprehend him.

After a white Chevrolet Equinox was seen leaving the bank, police in the neighboring city of Boaz soon located the vehicle at Jack's Restaurant and

Williams opens up as she prepares to retire from city council

By TAYLOR BECK theck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. During the week of qualifying in 2005, Hawnethia Williams said she was hesitant to solidify her candidacy for a seat on the Covington City Council. She waited and waited before making the trip to city hall, until finally her nerves were calmed by Scripture that echoed throughout her conscience.

"For what I do for the least of them, you do unto me," Williams said, paraphrasing a passage from Matthew 25 in the Bible. Sixteen years later, as Williams announced she would not pursue a fifth term in office, she's still living out those words and relying on God to lead her into her next chapter.

COVINGTON, Ga.

 Newton County has received a donation of 80 acres of undeveloped land adjoining the Rockdale line for recreational uses.

Southern Conservation Trust announced its donation Thursday, Aug. 26, of more than 120 acres of land to Newton and Rockdale counties.

The property donated to Newton County includes a total of 80.04 acres in two tracts on the north and south sides of Old Covington Highway at the Rockdale County line.

Newton County has owned the land since December, according to tax records. It includes a 68-acre tract on Old Covington Highway's south side that adjoins the Rockdale part of the donation, and a 12-acre tract on the north side of the road.

County Recreation Director Dwayne Mask said plans for the land are in the early stages of development. Nothing had been decided about its usage, he said. However, the Newton County Board of Commissioners recently voted to apply for a Georgia Department of Natural Resources grant totaling $200,000 for construction of trails — which could be used in the donated area, he said.

Jeffrey Scott Gouge

Eternal Hills Funeral Home

Jeffrey Scott Gouge, age 62, of Covington, Georgia, passed into Heaven on Saturday, July 31, 2021, after a struggle with Parkinson's disease and related complications after being bedridden for months. Scott was born Nov. 27, 1958, Thanksgiving Day, in Atlanta to James Howard and Peggy Jean Gouge. He was a devout Christian who loved Jesus and knew the Bible well. Praying for others was a passion that he always enjoyed. Scott's devotion to his mother after his father passed away in 2011 was always a constant. He was an avid reader and learning was something that came easily to him, leading to his excelling in school and earning an Associate's Degree from Perimeter College. Scott loved their cat Willie and was a huge fan of the Atlanta Braves. Survivors include his mother Peggy Gouge, brothers John Gouge and wife Laverne of Covington and Brian Gouge and wife Monica of Roswell. A visitation for Scott will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 4, 2021, from noon to 1 p.m. at Eternal Hills Funeral Home. Funeral services will occur on Wednesday, Aug. 4, 2021, at 1 p.m. in the Eternal Hills Funeral Home Chapel with Dr. Cody McNutt officiating. A burial occurred Wednesday, Aug. 4, 2021, at 2:30 p.m. at Corinth Baptist Church Cemetery, 1836 Rockbridge Rd., Stone Mountain, GA 30087. Fond memories and expressions of sympathy may be shared at eternalhillsfuneralhome.com for the

Newton BOC offers new law department job to county's longtime contract attorney

By TOM SPIGOLON tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON,

Ga. — Newton commissioners took a step toward hiring a staff attorney for the county government Tuesday by voting to offer the job to someone they have employed on a contract basis since 2015.

However, the Board of Commissioners split on how they wanted to offer the job to Megan Martin, who has been the Jarrard & Davis law firm's main attorney for Newton County.

The Board, during a special called meeting, voted 3-2 to offer a six-month contract to Martin to lead the new department overseeing legal work for most of the county government.

Contributed

Newton County commissioners held a special called meeting Tuesday to offer attorney Megan Martin a 6-month contract to oversee the county's new law department.

It voted after District 4 Commissioner J.C. Henderson made a motion for the six-month contract that overrode a motion by District 1 Commissioner Stan Edwards to offer a contract without a time limit attached.

Commissioners

Demond Mason, Alana Sanders and Henderson voted for his plan while commissioners Edwards and Ronnie Cowan supported an open-ended contract offer.

Henderson said after the meeting he wanted a six-month limit on the contract so the Board could review the attorney, County Manager Lloyd Kerr and longtime County Clerk Jackie Smith when their positions come up for renewal around the same time.

Newton school board passes millage rate reduction

By TOM SPIGOLON tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga.

- Newton County

— Newton County Board of Education members Tuesday voted to lower the school district's part of the property tax bill by 7.6%.

Members voted 3-2 to lower the property tax rate to 18.288 mills — a 7.6% decrease from the current 19.788 mills.

Board members Trey Bailey of District 1, Shakila Henderson-Baker of District 3 and Abigail Coggin of District 5 voted for the new rate. Eddie Johnson of District 2 and Anderson Bailey of District 4 voted against it.

Superintendent Samantha Fuhrey recommended a rate of 18.5 mills, but Trey Bailey responded that he wanted Fuhrey to consider the rollback rate of 17.737 mills.

State law requires that a rollback rate be calculated that would produce the same amount of revenue as the previous year if reassessments had not been done. It defines any rate above the rollback as a tax increase.

Trey Bailey said the purpose of the law is to prevent "indirect tax increases" for property owners when values increase "due to inflation."

"We should do our part to roll that rate back," he said. "For us not to (roll it back) would be for us to miss the opportunity to relieve our tax base." He noted that since

2009 the tax digest has doubled in value but the student population has remained roughly the same.

Porterdale to hold referendum on allowing retail liquor stores

By TOM SPIGOLON

tspigolon@covnews.cor

PORTERDALE, Ga.

— Porterdale voters likely will have only one choice when they go to cast ballots Nov. 2 in the city's election.

City Council members voted 3-1 Thursday, Aug. 19, to place a special referendum election on the Nov. 2 ballot asking if Porterdale voters want to allow the city council to issue licenses for the package sale of distilled spirits inside the city.

The ballot also was to include a choice of candidates but only incumbents Michael Patterson in Post 3, newly appointed Jill Minnoia in Post 4 and Lowell Chambers in Post 5 qualified — allowing each to be unopposed, said City Clerk Kathy Bouttry.

Unless write-in candidates appear by Friday, Aug. 27, each will qualify for new four-year terms beginning Jan. 1 and their names will not appear on the Nov. 2 ballot, said City Manager Frank Etheridge.

Council members appointed Minnoia earlier this month to complete the term of Mike Harper after he resigned recently. The term ends Dec. 31.

Patterson, Minnoia and Post 2 Councilwoman Linda Finger voted to include the referendum on the Nov. 2 ballot, and Post 1 Councilwoman Kay Piper was the lone "no" vote. Chambers was absent.

The referendum will ask voters to vote yes or no to the question: "Shall the issuance of licenses for the package sale of distilled spirits be approved?"

If approved, it will authorize the Porterdale City Council to consider issuing licenses for retail liquor sales.

State law formerly required at least 35% of the registered voters in a city or county to sign a petition to initiate a referendum for retail liquor sales.

The Georgia General Assembly approved legislation in May that allowed a governing body to pass an ordinance to place the referendum for retail liquor sales on a ballot.

Council members began considering a referendum earlier this year after Rebekah Ali asked them to consider annexing the site of a convenience store her family operates at the corner of Brown Bridge and Crowell roads.

She said she planned to operate a package store in the same building and prompted city officials to consider placing the question on the ballot.

Liquor by the drink and retail beer sales already are allowed in the city.

Patterson, pastor of a Conyers church, said he had concerns about the possibility of easier access to liquor for some residents.

However, he said he believed any time the council can give voters a chance to vote on an issue they should do so

"I can support it, with concerns," Patterson

Councilwoman Linda Finger said she supported giving voters the choice rather than the council making the final decision.

"It's their town also," she said. "I think it's the residents' decision."

The council would need to amend its zoning and other ordinances to add package stores and could set the conditions for their operation. Finger suggested using distance requirements to limit the number of stores in the city.

Deadline for registering to vote in the Nov. 2 election is Oct. 4.

Rockdale County to name teen center after Grady Jarrett

A teen center at Johnson Park in Rockdale County will be named the Grady Jarrett Resource Opportunity Center, honoring local graduate and Atlanta Falcons defensive lineman Grady Jarrett.

County officials plan to host a ribbon cutting ceremony for the new center, located at 1781 Ebenezer Rd SW in Conyers, on Aug. 31 at 5 p.m.

At approximately 700-square-feet, the center is expected to have state-of-the -art technolgy and e-sports equipment.

The center will also serve as a place to help teens register for college, apply for employment and host e-sports tournaments and leagues.

Jarrett was a star at Rockdale County High School before attending Clemson University from 2011-2014. He was selected by the Atlanta Falcons in the fifth round of the 2015 NFL Draft.

Kemp fights virus surge with guardsmen

With COVID-19 cases and hospitalizations still on the rise in Georgia, Gov. Brian Kemp deployed the Georgia National Guard Tuesday to hospitals across the state.

Kemp announced that 105 members of the Guard with medical training will head to 10 hospitals.

"These guardsmen will assist our frontline health-care workers as they provide quality medical care during the current increase in cases and hospitalizations," the governor said.

"This Georgia National Guard mission is in addition to the 2,800 state-supported staff and 450 new beds brought online I announced last week, at a total state investment of $625 million through December of this year."

The Guard personnel will be assigned to the following hospitals:

- Southeast Georgia Health System in Brunswick
- Northeast Georgia Medical Center in
- Gainesville • Wellstar Kennestone
- Hospital in Marietta
- Piedmont Henry Hospital in Stockbridge
- Phoebe Putney Memorial Hospital in Albany

State Supreme Court hears challenge of tax on strip clubs

Georgia's 1% tax on strip clubs to raise funds to combat child sex trafficking unfairly punishes businesses with no connection to the sexual exploitation of children, a lawver for the clubs said Wednesday. But a lawyer for the state told the Georgia Supreme Court studies have shown strip clubs are frequented by child sex traffickers to lure customers, and taxing them is less harmful to those businesses than banning them altogether.

The General Assembly passed the Safe Harbor Act in 2015 to create a source of tax revenue to support rehabilitative care and other social services for sexually exploited children. The following year, Georgia voters overwhelmingly approved a referendum adding the act to the state Constitution. The Georgia Association of Club Executives (GACE) challenged the law in a lawsuit filed in 2017. Last year, Fulton County Superior Court Judge Constance C. Russell declared it unconstitutional because a section of the law that applied the tax to businesses that charge customers to view "persons exhibiting or modeling lingerie" was vague and could resort in arbitrary enforcement. On Wednesday, Alexander Volokh, a lawyer representing GACE, argued the tax unfairly targets strip clubs to raise money to combat criminal activity for which they are not responsible.

"They're being blamed and penalized for a problem they're not involved in and don't contribute to," he said.

But Georgia Deputy Solicitor General Ross Bergethon said members of the General Assembly, in passing the law, relied on studies showing that both adult and child prostitution often occur inside strip clubs.

Courts have routinely upheld the right of governments to ban clubs that combine nude dancing with the sale of alcohol from their jurisdictions, Bergethon said.

"There's no reason to treat this minimal tax on the same combination any differently," he said.

Volokh cited U.S. Supreme Court rulings that nude dancing is a constitutionally protected form of expression under the First Amendment's right to freedom of speech. But Chief Justice David Nahmias told Volokh the case doesn't just involve nude dancing because the clubs are engaged in a combination of nude dancing and the commercial sale of alcohol.

The court is expected to rule on the case later this year.

Top dog' Biden all bark, no bite resident Joe Biden has held numerous press conferences since the Taliban completed its swift takeover of Afghanistan, though it took him a minute to actually get in front of the cameras.

Taliban fighters completed the takeover of Afghanistan on Aug. 15, while Biden was on vacation at Camp David. Weeks before. the president said he believed such a takeover was highly unlikely. Boy, was he wrong.

After initially saying he'd address the nation in a few days, Biden spoke publicly the next day, Aug. 16, but only after facing intense, bipartisan backlash.

He's held numerous press events since that time, and each has been memorable, but not in the way that's reassuring or hopeful. In fact, nothing he actually said was noteworthy, because the words he spoke seemed empty, disconnected and incoherent on occasion, as if he were reading it all for the first time.

What strikes me about these events is a continual, resounding image of Biden turning his back on reporters, refusing to take or answer questions. The one time he did try to answer a question, the audio was cut — a coincidence, I'm sure — making his answer inaudible.

These press events were a prime opportunity to showcase the strength and power the U.S. holds on the world stage. It was an opportunity to let Biden remind the world that "the U.S. does not negotiate with terrorists." It was an opportunity to invoke confidence and hope for Americans trapped in Afghanistan.

Instead, our president — a position so often referred to as the most powerful in the world appeared weak. He stuck to a script, pointed fingers of blame in some instances, and never shouldered any of the responsibility. Biden also seemed in a hurry to get away from the cameras and avoid all questions. Again, turning his back on the nation.

It wasn't until Thursday, Aug. 26, that Biden finally took a few questions from the media, and that was only after waiting five hours to address the nation after suicide bombings left 12 American troops dead and many other injured in Kabul. And many of his remarks weren't inspiring.

This is our president. But hey, at least he isn't the big, mean orange man, right?

Before he was elected, Biden's slogan was "Build Back Better," which was not only geared toward his plan to defeat COVID-19, but also improve the economy and tackling environmental issues. He also ensured American voters that he was the man for the job because he excelled in foreign policy — something the President of the United States must always be ready and willing to do. He promised to put an end to amateurism and once again restore the country's status as a "top dog" on the world stage.

Here we are, now 220 days into his presidency, and it appears Biden was all bark, no bite. In fact, thanks to Biden, we're no longer viewed as "top dog," or even a close second. The U.S. is now seen as that one dog we've all seen on YouTube who, when playing fetch with their owner, doesn't bring back a ball, but somehow manages to fetch a potato instead.

In addition to our foreign failures, we're also facing problems on the homeland. We've reached record inflation rates, which is essentially taking money away from our paychecks. We're still struggling to fight off COVID-19, despite the president's plan to beat the virus, also touted on the campaign trail. Don't forget about the ongoing crisis at the southern border. And let's also not forget that Biden's decision to end to the Keystone Pipeline, which not only cut hundreds of thousands of jobs but also effectively severed our nation's path to energy independence. I'll give credit where it's due. Biden's administration did help lead a historic infrastructure bill through Congress, which should be helpful for generations to come. But getting our infrastructure to where it needs to be today is going to take a long, long time.

Based on these issues, as well as various others not mentioned, I do not see our country being "built back better," and I don't fully believe Biden's leadership is putting us on the right track to doing so. And based on USA Today's latest presidential approval rating poll, it appears nearly 60% of you agree.

If Biden doesn't take control of the Afghanistan situation and get a grip on the pertinent issues facing our country. not only will the world view of America's governing leaders continue dwindling to that of a sad laughingstock, but don't be surprised when bipartisan calls for Biden's resignation really begin to heat up, too.

eggs. A lot of the chickens are skittish and don't particularly enjoy interaction, but there are always a couple that do. Watching my 8-year-old cart around one of their favorites, Fluffy, has always been a joy of mine. He doesn't hold her away from his body because her feathers are stained with red Georgia clay. He holds her under his arm and talks to her as if she understands.

Over the course of the year and a half that they have had chickens, several have died, with the most tragic being those caught by dogs as the chickens escape the safety of their pen to wander around and find the greener grass on the other side.

There are also times of betrayal, like when a baby chick that they have raised from just days old turns out to be a rooster. Once the rooster starts strutting around and ringing out his cock-a-doodle-doo, they start carrying a shovel when they go into the pen, because inevitably, that rooster will fly up at them as he valiantly protects his ladies. But the boys are undeterred in their responsibilities of taking care of these pets of theirs and just learn how to position themselves to not be too close to a rooster.

There have been tears and sadness through this process, but as I watch my sons, I see a genuine joy in them. I have seen them sit for an hour in a chair, just watching the chickens wander around and do their thing. I have also seen them doubled over in laughter as they watch the chickens for a "laugha-thon," which is when they throw egg shells into the pen and watch the chickens chase each other around as they all seek a coveted piece of egg shell to eat (yes, kind of strange, but they eat their own egg shells and it gives them calcium for their future eggs). The boys commentate on the "athletes," as a piece amazing.

There's a lot to learn from their feathered friends, for example, the power of the pecking order. That is a real thing for chickens, and they all know their place in the order. Everyone knows the order of who gets to eat and if you work within the constraints of that order, you can save yourself a peck in the head. Chickens also make friends and are really social. If two chickens are friends, and one dies, the other will be a loner as they mourn the loss of their friend. Also, at night, when they sit on their roost in the coop, the chicken on each end of the roost is the watch-woman and she sleeps with one eye open to keep watch. They switch spots through the night to give everyone a chance to sleep safely. Just last week, one of the active watch-women, Fluffy, started to get sick. She is the chicken that my sons love to lmost 900. That is the number of children who died in the United States since 1998 in hot cars. All of these deaths were preventable. One good thing about the pandemic was the number of children who died in hot cars was down as people stayed at home. In 2020 there were 24 deaths, compared to 53 in each of 2018 and 2019 the highest years on record, according to Jan Null at http://NoHeat-Stroke.org. For those people who travel with their pets in their cars, the number of reported deaths of pets in hot cars is in the hundreds every year. Historically, just over half of the deaths were caused by a caregiver forgetting the child in the car. Many people cannot imagine how this happens. Families who lost a loved child thought the same thing, until it happened to them. In 2019, statistics show 32 of the 53 children who died were unknowingly left in the wrong.

The highest number of deaths occur on Thursdays and Fridays, at the end of the workweek.

About a quarter of the deaths occurred when children got into a vehicle on their own, either into an unlocked car or trunk. During 2020 about half of the deaths were due to children gaining access to a parked car as families were at home more.

20% were knowingly left by a caregiver who thought the child or children would be OK if left in the car.

While the most attention is focused on the times an adult caregiver deliberately leaves a child in a hot car with the intent to cause harm to that child, those cases are extremely rare.

Think these deaths only happen in the summertime?

Think again. Already in 2021 one child in North Carolina died in April when left in the car for several hours on a relatively cool day with temperatures in the 70s. Temperatures inside the car can reach 89 degrees within five minutes and 113 degrees in an hour when the outside temperature is only 70. When outside temperatures hit 90, it only takes five minutes to reach 100 degrees in the car, and 133 degrees in an hour.

What can be done to prevent hot car deaths? A lot.

Campaigns with slogans such as Look Before You Lock and Where's Baby? are designed to remind caregivers to check the car every time before walking away.

Another suggestion is to leave yourself a gentle reminder by keeping a stuffed animal in your child's car seat, then moving that item to the front seat when baby is in the back seat. Or place your phone or wallet in the back seat.

Keep communication clear between the caregivers who transport the child. Daycares and preschools can call the caregiver when the child does not show up at the expected time. Alterations in typical routines are often cited by caregivers as a cause when a child has been left in a car.

Although there is an increase in technology in cars to alert a caregiver that a child is still in the car, it is not available on all cars and does not take the place of simply checking the back seat every time.

Hyundai just announced the addition of a Rear Occupant Alert system in many of its cars that honks the horn and sends an alert to the driver's smartphone if motion is detected in the back seat after the driver leaves the vehicle and locks the doors.

The land surrounds a perennial stream that flows into the Yellow River and will protect the water resources downstream, the release stated.

It will be the future anchor for Newton County and Rockdale County trails and green space projects, it stated.

The Southern Conservation Trust worked with the developer to place the full 120 acres under a perpetual conservation easement in December 2018. The easement placed was unlike most and restricted the use of the property to public recreation.

"After walking the property we realized it was ideal for public passive recreation," said Nick Kilburg, director of Parks and Education for the Southern Conservation Trust.

The Rockdale County part is 40.33 acres and had been approved for development in the past, the news release stated.

It is adjacent to the existing Earl O'Neal Sports Complex and will add a passive nature element to an already established and heavily utilized park.

Southern Conservation Trust is a Fayetteville-based nonprofit that protects private and public lands from development throughout the Southeast. Founded in 1993, SCT has protected more than 57,000 acres in 11 states since 2016.

In Georgia, the Trust has protected more than 32,000 acres, including 1,200 acres of public nature areas, with an additional 400-plus acres of public lands currently in progress.

Durham to 40 years with the first 20 in prison. He was ordered to have no contact with any member of a criminal street gang and numerous other conditions once he is on probation, McGinley said.

The case was prosecuted by Senior Assistant District Attorney Alex Stone, Assistant District Attorney Hunter McCreight, Investigator Colin Cunningham, and Victim Advocate Cindy Hooper.

The Porterdale Police Department, Newton County Sheriff's Office, Covington Police Department, Department of Juvenile Justice, and Newton County District Attorney's Office investigated and handled the arrest.

"This conviction demonstrates the District Attorney's office's commitment to aggressively prosecute violent acts committed against our citizens by gang members. Criminal street gangs do nothing but hurt and terrorize our communities," Mc-Ginley said.

McGinley confirmed Durham's conviction was related to an August 2017 incident that escalated into gunfire in Porterdale.

Durham was originally charged with seven counts, including the two for which he was convicted and Attempted Murder, Aggravated Assault, Possession of a Firearm during the Commission of a Felony, and two counts of Cruelty to Children,

McGinley said. The incident began after Durham and a teenager, who was not named, began arguing with a man and woman. The woman ultimately lost several teeth when she was hit in the face and knocked unconscious. Durham also shot at the man and his bullet struck the man's back.

Prosecutors said during the trial they had evidence Durham was a member of the Crips gang. He said evidence showed members often responded violently when they felt they had been "disrespected," McGinley said.

Durham also made jail calls to his witnesses which included terms associated with the gang, according to evidence presented by the state.

LAW: Continued from A2

"It's about work performance," Henderson said. "I love (Martin) but this is something that is very important to the citizens of Newton County."

Martin has been the main attorney serving Newton County government for the Cumming-based law firm for six years.

In response to a question from The Covington News Tuesday about his motion, Edwards said Martin "has served the county faithfully for over six years and has done everything we asked her to do.'

"Her knowledge and experience is unmatched and we offered her a six-month contract?" he asked. "There were several candidates that met the 'minimum' criteria set by the county but there was or is no one more qualified for this position than Megan Martin," Edwards said. "My hope is that she accepts the offer and we go from there.

"(She) only takes action when asked by the board — never autonomously," he said. "She has helped us through extremely difficult scenarios during that time and come to understand the nuances of our community, the department heads, and the board."

He said he wanted to "make sure this point is clear" that Martin is a "subject matter expert" on legal needs for the Association County Commissioners of Georgia (ACCG).

The ACCG is the chief organization that provides training and serves as a source of legal information for all 159 county governments in Georgia.

It uses Martin as a resource on such issues as county government personnel matters. She also is "a frequent speaker for Georgia Local Government Personnel Association and often provides in-house training on particularized employment issues to counties throughout the state," according to the ACCG.

Edwards said he voted against Henderson's motion in hopes the Board would reject it and act on his motion, which ultimately did not get a vote.

The Board began the meeting Tuesday, Aug. 24, at its normal location in the Historic Courthouse before moving across nearby Usher Street to the county administration building.

They then heard from five candidates for the $185,000 per year position and discussed it during a three-hour closed session.

State law allows governing bodies to exclude the public from meetings in which personnel, land acquisition or legal matters are discussed.

The Board has heard calls for creating its own in-house law department since at least 2009 because of legal costs found to be considerably higher than surrounding counties.

In 2015, the Board voted to fire a Covington-based law firm led by Tommy Craig that it had employed for 39 years amid questions about rising costs and his work as a consultant on a multi-million-dollar reservoir project the Board ultimately scrapped. Then, after voting the same year to hire an in-house attorney, board members voted to hire Jarrard & Davis on an interim basis and decided to employ the government-focused firm full time the following year. Chairman Marcello Banes in August 2020 said a study he conducted found Newton County had legal costs as much as seven times higher than comparably-sized counties like Fayette and Bartow; and higher than neighboring counties like Walton and Rockdale. Banes then asked the Board to consider hiring a staff attorney as a cost-saving measure. The county put out calls for applicants earlier this year. The chairman's study included the legal costs of the sheriff's office which controls spending within its part of the county budget after the county commission appropriates the funding.

The sheriff's office uses Craig's law firm despite most of the county government using Jarrard & Davis full time since 2015.

Councilwoman Hawnethia Williams helped lead the way in getting the Harristown Park senior apartment complex - a development she referred to as her "baby" — built in Covington.

WILLIAMS:

"I'm a little leery, still .. but I know when the Lord says he's got something else for me to do, I know he's got it," she said.

Williams, who was born and raised in Covington, said the decision to retire from public service was not easy, but it was a decision she made for her family.

"Every time my family wanted to do something, they had to consult my calendar," she said. "But when I also looked around and realized that I was the senior member, that prompted me to start thinking about it.

"I wanted to be able to enjoy the fruits of my labor over the years both from teaching and serving on the council," she added. "You know, there are times or seasons in life. Times do to certain things ... a time to do what I can and then a time to step away."

Having the ability to serve was not a contributing factor to her decision, Williams said. Kather, she believed it was time for her to open the door for others "younger minds" – which she feels is part of her next chapter in life to serve as a men-

"It's time to move onto another stage while I'm still healthy enough to do it," she said. "I'll be supporting from the sidelines.

"I'm still going to be involved and be an advocate for this community," Williams added. "In the words of the late John Lewis, I told the council that I'll probably be giving them a little 'good trouble.' I still want to be involved in politics as a mentor and be able to sit and talk with younger people to help teach them about this city and the way things work."

Being an advocate for her community is what reeled her into politics all those years ago, the longtime school teacher said.

Her first taste of politics came shortly after graduating from Clark College, now known as Clark Atlanta University, when she was a teacher in Pike County, before integration.

When word got out that a principal, who Williams believed did an excellent job leading the school, wouldn't be hired on after integration, she said various

"civil rights giants"

came to the area. Protests were held and students even boycotted the school.

"There were days I'd only have five students in class," she said.

Soon after, Williams accepted a teaching job at Monroe-Area High School. After spending more than 20 years there, she decided to come home and join the staff at "the original" Newton High School.

During this time, Williams became an advocate for the Harristown community an area she refers to as the "village that raised me." She said she would often go with residents to city council meetings to voice concerns and petition necessary changes.

At the turn of the century, Williams was approached by a local ministers group with a request: become more than an advocate and run for city council.

With her husband ill at the time, Williams turned down the propo-

"I felt like the Lord wanted me to devote my time to my husband," she said. "I felt like that's where he wanted me to be at that time."

In 2000, Williams said, her husband passed away. In 2001, she decided to retire from teaching after 33 years in the profession.

After spending time traveling, enjoying time with her family and still advocating for her community, the ministers group approached her again, Williams said.

"I told them I was going to go out of town and spend some time with my family and think about it," Williams recalled. "Well, I did just that."

With the support of her family, she ran for a seat from the West Ward and took office in 2006.

One of the proudest moments of Williams tenure came when she helped lead the effort in bringing the Harristown Park senior apartment complex — a project she calls her "baby" to Covington.

'[Former Covington Mayor] Kim Carter and I worked very hard to get it here," she said. "We had to get support from the community ... and we got it.

"I promised to be there and be a part of the building process every step of the way," Williams continued. "When it was finished for the grand opening, the company's leadership group asked me to cut the ribbon ... just thinking about it still brings tears to my eyes ... because I knew how great this was going to be for our community.

"The completion of it was just like, wow," she said. "At some point, there were about 3,000 applicants on the wait list. It may be around 1,000 now."

Despite various personal accomplishments, Williams said she was grateful to have served alongside many wonderful council members, mayors and staff members and being able to "work together as a unit for the good of the city."

-5.70%

"I've enjoyed the ride," Williams said. "It's been a roller coaster. You know, there's been plenty of ups and downs over these last 16 years come November, I guess, but I can honestly say I've enjoyed the ride.

"I'm so thankful for the support from not only my constituents in the west side, but also from the entire city," she continued. "I've just enjoyed the Lord allowing me to serve this city with his guidance. And I hope the city feels that way."

Williams has endorsed Charika Davis in the race for Williams' seat on the council, but she spared advice for whoever is elected come November.

"Don't look at people based on their socio-economic status. You want to do the best you can to help everyone," she said. "Take time to listen to the concerns and questions of residents, and let those concerns be your concerns. Don't turn people away ... You have to have a love for people. If you're putting on, they'll see it.

"If you can't devote your time, heart and soul into this," she concluded, "this isn't the arena for you."

according to the Georgia Department of Education.

Meanwhile, this year's tax digest — the total of assessed values of all real property in the county — is 60% higher than 2016.

"For us not to pull the rate back is not proportional to the increase we've seen over the years," he said.

Henderson-Baker made the motion for the 18.288mill rate. She said a property tax rate higher than the full rollback rate of 17.737 was needed to produce enough revenue to cover future funding needs.

"To go all the way down (to the rollback rate), you take a chance of having to turn around and disappoint the taxpayers and say, 'You know what? Now we've got to increase it back up," Henderson-Baker said.

She said the district is competing with neighboring school districts that offer higher pay for teachers, and the private sector that offers higher pay for bus drivers, she said.

Those who ask why the school system is not approving a decrease as sharp as the 14% the county commission approved may not be aware NCSS has higher funding needs associated with being Newton County's largest employer.

"There's no comparison," she said.

Johnson urged board members to choose a rate higher than 18.288 mills to allow the school district to gain enough extra funding to avoid asking for money if needed in the future.

"You've got to speak up with what revenue we're going to produce. We need more revenue than your recommendation," he told Henderson-Baker.

"We can't risk the performance of the schools on the low rate that we're talking about," Johnson said.

He said lack of funding

He said lack of funding could affect everything from the graduation rate to the school district's competition for teachers and bus drivers.

"We can't do this on 'nickel and dime.' It's better to have it and not need it, than to need it and not have it — that's the principle we should be going on," Johnson said.

However, a motion to approve a rate of 18.788 mills failed on a 3-2 vote.

Property taxes fund about 29% of the school board's General Fund budget, which is tentatively set at $233.8 million in the 2022 fiscal year — up more than $14 million from 2021.

Board members in June tentatively approved a tax rate of 19.788 mills — the same property tax rate approved for Newton schools the previous three budget years.

If approved, it would have produced significantly more revenue than last year because this year's county net tax digest is $3.47 billion — a 14.5% increase from $3.02 billion last year.

The net tax digest is the total of assessed values of all real property in the county after all exemptions are removed. Real property is generally defined as land and buildings.

Newton County's tax digest has increased 60% in five years since the 2016 digest totaled $2.16 billion.

Eastside running back Dallas Johnson (3) tries to run through the middle of Winder Barrow's defense during the first quarter of the Eagles' season opener. Shortly after kickoff, both teams were forced to wait out a lightning delay that lasted more than an hour.

Eagles take down Winder-Barrow after thunderstorms cause delay By GARRETT PITTS

WINDER, Ga. — The Eastside Eagles did not let the rain or lightning stop them from beginning their season as they took on the Winder-Barrow Bulldogs to start their 2021 campaign.

The Eagles were looking to replicate the same outcome as last season, when they opened the year with a 27-14 win over the Bulldogs.

After both teams opened the game with punts, the officials would place the game under a lightning delay that lasted an hour and a half.

Following a long wait in the locker room, play finally resumed, and the Eagles would waste no time getting on the scoreboard. Senior running back Dallas Johnson ran the rock up the middle and down into Bulldog territory which would lead to a 35-yard field goal from senior Rodney Williams to give the Eagles a 3-0 advantage.

The Bulldogs would not show any signs of rust either as they would quickly march down the field and take the lead on a 19-yard touchdown pass from Conyer Smith to Trevor Summerfield to give Winder-Barrow the 6-3 lead after a missed extra-point attempt. After multiple empty drives from both teams, the Eagles would stick to the ground and take the lead back on a fouryard rush by Kenia Grier to give Eastside the 10-6 lead halfway through the second quarter.

COVINGTON, Ga. – Late Wednesday afternoon, Newton County Schools announced that the Alcovy-Newton football game slated for Aug. 27 was

The cancellation came due to a COVID-19 exposure within the Alcovy football

According to a news release, Alcovy players and coaches had to follow quarantine requirements effective Aug. 25, which temporarily suspended "competition play and practice." Practice is expected to start back up for the Tigers on Tuesday, Sept.

As a result of the cancellation, Alcovy officials had to reschedule its annual homecoming celebration. Dr. Kristopher Williams, Alcovy High School principal, announced the Tigers' homecoming game would be played on Saturday, Nov. 6, against Evans High School at Sharp Stadium. It would also be Alcovy's senior night, he said.

Concerning Newton, Athletic Director Vincent Byams

told The Covington News that Friday night would serve as a bye week for the Rams, as they chose not to find a different team to play.

The Rams (1-0) will get back into action next Friday, Sept. 3, to take on county rival Eastside in a battle for the Chick-fil-A Newton Cup Newton defeated the Eagles 21-7 one year ago en route to calming its second straight Newton Cup. County rivals Alcovy, Eastside and Newton have played one another for the sought after cup for several years.

No plans to reschedule the matchup between Newton and Alcovy had been released prior to they publication's deadline.

"NCSS regrets any inconvenience this may cause," district officials stated in a press release. "However, the health and safety of our students must remain our primary concern."

Yellow Jackets look for changes in year three of Collins era

By MATT WINKELJOHN Associated Press

ATLANTA — With season three upcoming for the coach Geoff Collins era at Georgia Tech, words and phrases like "re-building" and "re-shaping" may no longer be pliable.

The Yellow Jackets

have been dreadful in the first two seasons after option offense aficionado Paul Johnson retired. Georgia Tech has gone 3-9 and 3-7 in its first two tries with Collins as head coach. It being 2021, Collins and Georgia Tech fans are looking for things to start turning around. As with so many teams, youth should no longer be an issue with the NCAA granting an extra year of eligibility to every player who played or opted out last season for COVID-19 reasons if they choose to keep playing. Yes, Tech has 25 true freshman scholarship players. They also have seven "really redshirt seniors" taking a sixth season of on-field eligibility and 12 players who are new via transfer from other college degrees. But with all the turnover and holdovers brings with it good news-bad news.

schools, several with

The Good: Tech's best players -- quarterback Jeff Sims and running back Jamhyr Gibbs — are back after solid, borderline spectacular-at-times-in-injury-speckled freshman seasons, plus several players are new to the program with starting experience at other big programs.

The Bad: Tech returns several players from a team that was among the nation's most penalized and field goal fruitless (3for-8) last season, and sub-standard in almost all categories that exist.

But they seem happy. "I thought when I came that I was going to get one opportunity to play here, and I got through with that season and I realized that I love this place so much that I wanted to stay," said offensive lineman Ryan Johnson, who figures to start again after transferring from Tennessee before last season.

BORN TO RUN

Paul Johnson caught flak for being run oriented, but Tech is so talented among people who run the football that when compared to passing it, running may be the better option rather than throw and throw.

Sims won three ACC Player-of-the-Week awards last season. more for rushing for 492 yards and six touchdowns than for modest passing statistics. Plus, there is running back Jahmyr Gibbs, who was All-ACC honorable mention despite missing 3.5 games because of injury and several-time junior Jordan Mason, who missed nearly half the season with injury. He was All-ACC as a first-time freshman. He missed 3.5 games last season due to injury. There's a guy named Jamious Griffin, too, who merits attention.

HANG ON

Saying Georgia Tech struggled last season getting out of its own way is a major understatement. The Yellow Jackets' 8.9 penalties per game ranked 121st in the country was nearly the worst in the country -- and they're no longer a high-volume number of plays offense. It was much worse on the road -11.8. Their penalties-per-snap was also among the highest, and 41 of 89 penalties were before the ball was snapped, like false starts, etc. "The culture is set," Collins said. "Now is the time to focus in on all the details that will take us to the next step in the development of our program."

SOLID DEFENSIVE BACKS

Georgia Tech looks good at safety, where Tariq Carpenter and Juanyeh Thomas roam; they're NFL-caliber good. The rest of the secondary is fluid, as cornerbacks Tre Swilling, Zamari Walton, Kenyatta Walker and even Myles Sims, a Michigan transfer from a couple years ago. Look for nickelback Wesley Walker to contribute.

HERE'S THE BEEF Georgia Tech will be much bigger along the offensive and defensive lines than in recent years. Left tackle candidate Devin Cochran, a Vanderbilt graduate transfer, was 317 pounds at last measure, not to mention is 6-foot-7. Looks like Georgia Tech will average well over 300 pounds along the offensive line. It's been a long time since that happened. The defensive line is bigger, too, with Old Dominion transfer DE Keion White looking to make a difference.

Georgia Tech made three of eight held goal tries last season. That was one of the least productive ratios in the history of modern college football. The Yellow Jackets hope that Brent Chimagha, a graduate transfer from Tennessee, can improve upon that. There is also a search to replace punter Percy Harvin, who was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in the 7th round. The Yellow Jackets know Gibbs is adept as a return man.

SCHEDULE Georgia Tech's schedule is challenging. The Jackets have games against Clemson, North Carolina, Miami, Notre Dame and Georgia. Those teams are all ranked in the Top 25, and Georgia Tech is widely considered to have one of the toughest schedules in the country.

Cougars fall road in opener

By CHRIS BRIDGES

news@covnews.com

WARRENTON, Ga. — It was a case of missed opportunities for the Piedmont Academy football team in its 2021 season opener Friday, Aug. 20.

The Cougars traveled to Briarwood Academy in Warrenton and dropped a 26-0 contest to a strong Buccaneers team. The game was scoreless late in the first quarter when Piedmont rushed the Briarwood punter who then scrambled looking to pass.

Piedmont was called for a roughing the passer penalty, which gave Briarwood possession inside Cougar territory. That helped the host Buccaneers take a 6-0 lead.

Despite having some impressive offensive numbers, missed scoring chances hurt Piedmont.

"The final score was not an indicative of how the game went," said Cougars head coach Clint Satterfield. "We have to finish drives. We finished the first half at their 8-yard line. We came out and stopped them defensively and then drove down and threw an interception at the 5-yard line."

Briarwood sealed

with the win with two long touchdowns runs in the second half.

"Defensively we need to line up correctly," Satterfield said. "If you take away four or five plays it would have been different game. We were not dominated by any means. We competed with them but they were a tough opponent to start the season with."

Quite simply, the new coach said his team has to finish scoring opportunities.

"We have to reach pay dirt," he said. "Sometimes in this type of offense you are going to have red zone difficulties occur. We are not in a panic mode. We just have to keep working and preparing."

Justin Reynolds was 18-of-42 for 143 yards. Brody Anderson had nine catches for 81 yards while Landon Conner caught six passes for 51 yards. Luke Welch and Joe Clark also had receptions.

Clark was the team's leading rusher with 12 carries for 45 yards. Michael Joseph added 22 yards on six rushes.

Defensively, Connor and Welch both had six tackles while Dalton Wallace recorded five and Spencer Carter made four tackles. Mason Tanner, Gavin Mask, Cole Wade, Mark Hicks and Clark all had three tackles. Anderson had an interception.

Newton's Collins commits to MSU

Piedmont was off this week and will travel to John Hancock Academy in Sparta on Sept. 3. While it is something unusual to have an open date after the first week of the season, Satterfield said it is a good thing for his team.

"I am actually glad we have it," the coach said. "We spent all day watching film with kids on Monday. In a typical week you don't have that time. With it being an off week, we put in plenty of film study."

The Cougars are already preparing for the game next week with JHA.

"It looks like we will see the triple option and you never have enough time to work on that," Satterfield said. "Offensively, we will work on completing drives and executing. We had a couple of costly drops and some receivers go inside on routes instead of outside and it led to a turnover. I would rather it happen now than in November."

Social Circle blanks Lincoln County in region opener

Phillip B. Hubbard | The Covington News

Starting pitcher Madalyn Spinks (14) threw four innings against Lincoln County on Aug. 24, striking out three batters and allowing no hits.

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD

phubbard@covnews.com

Social Circle was aggressive in its 9-0 win versus Lincoln County on Aug. 24. The win gives the Lady Redskins a 1-0 region record.

Five of the team's nine runs were scored in the bottom of the third inning.

After already leading 2-0, Kaylynn Scaffe scored on a fly ball by Gracie Jones. Through the assistance of a couple of errors by Lincoln County, Halie Richardson also scored to double Social Circle's lead.

Jones scored the fifth run on a Macy Langley double to left field.

Langley was brought home off a Morgan Chambers double and Chambers later scored when Avery Bedsole singled to center field.

Two more runs were scored by the Lady Redskins to give them a comfortable win.

Receiving multiple contributions impressed head coach Bryan Eades the most. "I think we go pretty deep in the lineup being able to swing the bat," Eades said. "If we can get contributions from throughout the lineup, it definitely makes us a more dangerous team."

In addition to hitting the ball efficiently, the Lady Redskins were very aggressive in their base running. As a matter of fact, that's how the first run of the game was scored.

Richardson, who was the lead off batter, reached on an error in the bottom of the first inning. After she reached first base, Richardson stole second base then advanced to the third on a Scaffe groundout.

Because Richardson was so aggressive, she was in the perfect position to score when Jones lined out to the shortstop.

Despite the shut out, Eades, who is in his first year as head coach, admitted the team has yet to find its identity.

"This was only our fourth game because of so many rain outs and such," Eades said. "I'm just trying to still learn and see what these kids can do. I'd love to be aggressive if we can and put pressure on the defense as much as possible."

The Lady Redskins also defeated Washington-Wilkes in a close 4-3 win in extra innings on Aug. 26. Next, they will play Prince Avenue and Stephens County on Aug. 28.

Both defenses would continue to make the necessary stops as the 10-6 score would carry over into halftime.

After being forced to punt on the opening drive of the third quarter, the Bulldogs would finally break through on defense as they would get in the backfield and block the Eagles' punt and force the safety to trim the Eastside lead to 10-8 early in the second half.

Running back Dallas Johnson later ripped off a 41-yard touchdown run to put the Eagles ahead 17-8 with 4:30 left in the third quarter.

With 7:37 remaining in regulation, Rodney Williams Jr. converted a 41-yard field goal to extend the Eagles lead to 20-8, which would be the final points of the contest.

Redskins brace Storm, eye 2-0 start

 The Redskins had to wait nearly an hour to take the field due to a passing storm, but once they did, it was a far harder task taking on the Providence Storm.

The Redskins struggled on offense for half the game but finally found its footing, while the defense smothered the Storm, causing seven turnovers and ultimately defeating Providence Christian 21-0.

Providence started with a long drive into Redskins territory, only to give it away on a long interception to KJ Reid.

Social Circle went three-and-out on the gift possession, however, and soon Providence was back deep in Redskins territory again.

Yet a quarterback scramble led to a loose football as the Storm fumbled it into the hands of Mehki Butts for the second turnover of the night.

The Redskins punted after another dud drive but forced the Storm to kick it back after a defensive stand early in the second quarter.

The Redskins earned their first first down of the game on the ensuing drive, but ran out of steam right after and punted yet again.

After another Storm punt, Social Circle gave the ball away with a first down fumble by Kameron Durden, setting Providence up at the Redskins 44-yard line.

Yet three plays later, Durden intercepted the ball and scrambled through a field of tacklers for a 56-yard picksix. Zavier Wallace kicked the ball through for a 7-0 lead.

Providence mounted a drive to score before the half, but Mason Moore intercepted the ball at the 11 to end the quarter.

Social Circle started the second half with the ball and drove deep into Storm territory, only to give it up on a punt after several holding penalties.

The Storm, backed up on their own 1, seemed in precarious territory, only to throw a 55yard pass to shoot past midfield.

The Storm reached the 13 and went for the end zone when Reid intercepted at the 1 and shot down the field to reach the Storm 32 midway through the third quarter.

The Redskins would surge to the 13 but faced fourth-and-7 there. Rather than settle for a field goal, though, Logan Cross threw a dart to Reid to score the first offensive points of the game. The kick was good for a 14-0 score.

Three plays later, the Redskins punched the ball loose and Tucker Cleary fell on it for the sixth turnover of the night.

The Storm would start another long drive before Moore intercepted, only to be called for pass interference. The Storm looked to push deeper, only for Moore to intercept again, this time cleanly, and end another Providence possession.

Social Circle went to the running game to burn clock and finally found a rhythm, letting Durden take the ball repeatedly and push down the field. Durden finally scored on a 7-yard touchdown run and the kick made it 21-0.

Another Providence drive started with promise, moving into Redskins territory with help from an interference call, only to see the drive falter and ultimately turn it over on downs with time draining away.

Social Circle was looking for a 2-0 start in on-field play for the first time since 2018. The Redsksins play at Walnut Grove on Friday.

Johnson Ferry spoils Peachtree Academy's season opener

 Peachtree Academy seemed to always be a step behind in its season opener loss against Johnson Ferry Christian Academy.

It all started with the opening kickoff.

Saints' return man Grant Steele gathered the kick from David Osborne at his own 18yard line. Steele then found a seam through the Panthers and jetted for an 82-yard touchdown return.

Just 12 seconds into the contest, Johnson Ferry led 6-0.

Things got worse for the Panthers from there. The Panthers surrendered 28 of the Saints'

Then, when they did hold back the Saints'

As a result, Boeckman threw two interceptions in the first half alone. To make matters

Georgia hospitals feeling the strain

Surge from delta variant drives patient diversion for ambulance cases

Denise EtheridgeTHE WALTON TRIBUNE

The delta variant surge among mostly unvaccinated Georgians has caused hospitals across the state to divert patients, including hospitals operated by Piedmont Healthcare — of which Piedmont Walton is a member.

Monroe Mayor
John Howard posted
this to Facebook earlier this week: "Ladies and gentlemen, our hospital is full. Covid is running rampant, and Piedmont
Walton is doing everything they can to care for every patient. Many hospitals are overflowing and have sent many of their cases to Monroe.

"Please keep the men and women of Piedmont Walton and the patients in their care in your prayers."

On Thursday, Piedmont Healthcare issued this statement: "Piedmont Healthcare COVID-19 patient population continues to reflect trends shown in reports from the state

Georgians should call 911 for treatment at their local hospital in case of an emergency, the state Department of Public Health said this week, but shouldn't go there just for a COVID-19 test. David Clemons | The Tribune

Piedmont Healthcare is closely monitoring and managing the available capacity within our hospitals. Understanding the strain this crisis puts on our resources, like all hospital and health systems nationwide, we review available resources daily related to current COVID volume, and where possible, we continue to shift resources as needed to maintain appropriate capacity - as we have since the pandemic began."

The Georgia Department of Public Health reported this week that Georgia hospitals, EMS personnel and resources are being stretched "to unprecedented levels" and in many cases are tempo-of Georgia. As a system, rarily unable to provide Piedmont Healthcare is closely monitoring and managing the available rarily unable to provide normal emergency care to patients arriving by ambulance.

"Diversion is a term specific to ambulance transports and is a request to ambulances to transport patients to other local facilities if possible," DPH spokesperson Nancy Nydam said in a news release. "Diversion does not apply to individuals seeking emergency medical care. Individuals experiencing a medical emergency should call 911 and ask for assistance."

To reduce the strain on EMS and hospital emergency rooms, Georgians are first being asked to get vaccinated; and second to seek COVID-19 testing at testing locations in their communities rather than showing up at hospitals to be tested.

Testing sites can be found on the DPH website, dph.georgia.gov/covidtesting.

Likewise, COVID vaccinations are available statewide and are considered the best means for ending the coronavirus pandemic and easing the burden on EMS, the health care system and health care providers.

The Pfizer vaccine received full approval from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration this week. The Moderna and Johnson & Johnson vaccines currently have emergency use authorizations from the FDA.

To find a vaccination location, visit dph. georgia.gov/covid-vaccine.

"Georgians aged 12 and older are urged to get vaccinated and wear a mask in public settings where social distancing is not possible and wash their hands frequently," Nydam said.

As of press time Friday, the hospital region that includes Walton County had 571 general inpatient beds in use out of 610 total beds, or 93.61% capacity, according to the Georgia Geospatial Information

MONROE

City considers land buy along highways

Goal is easing traffic woes on congested US 78, state Route 138

Denise Etheridge the Walton Tribune

The city of Monroe is considering buying land for a potential transportation project to help ease traffic congestion in the area of U.S. 78 and Georgia 138.

The Monroe City Council will discuss acquiring 34.68 acres from Liberty First Bank at a public hearing scheduled for 6 p.m. Sept. 14, at City Hall, 215 N. Broad St.

Propes

City Administrator Logan Propes said the property, which is set back behind Chick-fil-A, could be used for protective right of way and provide a way to alleviate traffic jams in the area near highways 138 and 78.

Propes said the recommended project would be "locally driven," but that city officials would welcome assistance from the Georgia Department of Transportation because of the benefit to state roads.

"It's very early in concept right now but we are trying to be proactive by ensuring we stay ahead of traffic growth as much as possible for the long term," he said. "Land acquisition is the most important aspect of the plan."

GDOT is proposing to improve roads within Loganville city limits and has asked the public to comment on a draft project.

In a news release, GDOT announced plans to improve state Route 20 at the intersections of Moon Road and Center Hill Church Road, Centerville-Rosebud Road and McCullers Road. The notice also describes GDOT's intent to widen Highway 20 between Tuck Road and Atlanta Highway (U.S. 78) to an urban four-lane roadway with a raised median to improve traffic operations and reduce crashes.

The Highway 20 rehabilitation project is in the preliminary design phase. The project's concept report must be approved and environmental studies must be conducted before the preliminary phase can be completed, according to GDOT.

The city of Loganville announced the proposed project on the city's Facebook page. For more information, visit http://www.dot.ga. gov/AboutGDOT/PublicOutreach and click on the "View Info" button under "State Route 20 Reconstruction and Rehabilitation."

Residents can find a link in the online release where they can provide comments. GDOT will accept comments through Sept. 13.

Park improvements

Monroe officials also offered an update on park projects.

Land along the southeast corner of the interchange of U.S. 78 and Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard (state Route 138) is up for sale, and the city of Monroe is considering buying it. The Monroe City Council will have a public hearing Sept. 14 at City Hall. David Clemons | The Tribune

"The town green is finishing up with engineering now," Propes told The Tribune on Thursday. "We hope to get that to bid fairly soon in time to break ground around the Bicentennial."

This week the city posted a detailed update on Phase II of its Mathews Park upgrades. The park is located at 1016 E. Marable St.

Plans include adding a 50-by-60foot pavilion, replacing the metal awning with a 22-by-44-foot pavilion to match the style of the wooden pavilion and providing electricity to the pavilions.

Mathews Park will get picnic tables that comply with the Americans With Disabilities Act, grills of varying sizes and shade structures for the benches around the lake not shaded naturally. Park improvements also include an additional restroom facility, concrete walkways to pavilions and restrooms, decorative fencing and landscaping at the roadside.

"The timing of these elements will be dependent upon the pavilion builds and restroom installation," states the online post. "At that point paving and walkways can be completed as weather cooperates, followed by entrance fencing and landscaping."

The John Reid Memorial Disc Golf Course at Mathews Park will receive new signage.

The city aims to complete the improvements by spring 2022.

The city has also moved ahead on other long-term projects.

The Monroe Police Department moved into a larger space in the old Food Lion store on Blaine Street in July. The Municipal Court shares one side of the renovated space with with the old Food Lion grocery conthe MPD.

"The new Police Department is still getting some kinks worked out in the building and we are working on the parking lot," Propes said. "Then we will look at doing a grand opening of sorts."

Monroe bought the 8.839-acre property for the new police department and Municipal Court four years ago for $1.5 million. Along sisting of about 30,000 square feet, the old shopping center property has an old Family Dollar consisting of about 15,000 square feet, and another larger section of old store frontage totaling about 45,000 square feet.

The old Police Department in a downtown building on South Broad Street will eventually be sold.

WALTON COUNTY

State continues investigation after man found dead in home

The Georgia Bureau of Investigation has not yet identified the man found dead earlier this month at a home in Walton County.

"We are awaiting crime lab results in this case," Nelly Miles, director of the GBI Office of Public and Governmental Affairs, told The Tribune on Friday.

The GBI said the landlord of a home on Jersey-Social Circle Road found the man dead at the home on Aug. 2. That's in unincorporated Covington.

The landlord called in the Walton County Sheriff's Office, which in turn called in the GBI. At the time, the GBI said it wasn't clear how long the man had been dead.

Anyone with information in the case is asked to call the Sheriff's Office at 770-267-6557 or the GBI in Athens at 706-552-2309.

Our View on the Issue

Get while the getting's good ur friends in Oconee County apparently feel railroaded by the Walton County Commission chairman in his efforts to get funding for a Hard Labor Creek Reservoir pumping station.

For sure, David Thompson's management style isn't always one of consensus-building. The term "hard-charging" comes to mind, but that's what you get when you elect based on fiscal management and look for someone who is very much not a politician.

And while some on our editorial board have expressed skepticism about Thompson's hopes of getting federal stimulus funds for the county jail project, we fully support the idea of lobbying our leaders in Washington for our share of infrastructure dollars.

The massive spending which wouldn't be happening without the swing and Raphael Warnock, both Democrats of Georgia — is tailor-made for this kind of project. A reservoir like Hard Labor Creek can fulfill the water needs of a growing metro Atlanta and help us land major industrial projects. We understand Walton, with nearly 100,000 people, is going to need to draw water out of the reservoir well before smaller Oconee does. Walton also has a more than 70% stake in the project.

Reporting in The Oconee Enterprise indicates leaders there are worried Thompson will bully through a pumping station, no matter the cost, and stick our neighbors to the east with 28.8% of the bill.

But any money we get out of Washington would reduce the amount of money both counties have to pay out of their general funds or through future bond issuances (read, paid back by higher property tax rates). Even if there are matching funds required, it still would be less than paying the entire freight ourselves.

If the federal government is going to invest in infrastructure anyway, this is a no-brainer. And if Oconee is concerned, it should consider selling some of its portion of the water that will be pumped to help pay back its share of the debt on this project and to stop buying from Bear Creek Reservoir in Jackson County.

This hasn't been an easy process, for sure, but it's one that figures to set Walton and Oconee counties — and by extension, all of metro Atlanta — up for success in the decades to

The Enterprise, in an editorial this week, writes that Thompson's predecessor, Kevin Little, pitched the idea for the Hard Labor Creek Reservoir to an Oconee County colleague over a meal at a Waffle House nearly 15 years ago.

Perhaps Thompson and Oconee Chairman John Daniell should take Ossoff and Warnock out for hash browns and a patty melt to lobby for their help in getting this paid for. They could do it at literally any time of the day and night the senators are available, and there's a store just 26 miles from the Capitol.

The reservoir was a wise investment, but we're only halfway there. Getting the pumping station would finish the job, and it's time we look at how to make that happen.

Our View is the opinion of The Walton Tribune editorial board, which includes Proprietor

Another View Oconee Enterprise

Walton is trying to railroad Oconee County

In 2007, then-Walton County Board of Commissioners Chairman Kevin Little met with Oconee Commissioner Chuck Horton at a local Waffle House to convince him that a regional reservoir was worth the investment.

At the time, nearly 50% of Georgia land was classified as D4, the highest category of drought, according to the National Integrated Drought Information System. That year, the Georgia Environmental Protection Division banned outside water use. Oconee formed a drought contingency committee that led to water conservation initiatives like retrofitting public toilets and even a communitywide prayer service. (Yes, the drought was so bad that citizens gathered at the high school stadium and prayed for rain.)

But Horton remained skeptical because of the power imbalance between the two counties. Walton, which has more members on an oversight board, would have a 71.2% investment in the reservoir, whereas Oconee's share would be 28.8%. And while

of the water, debt from capital costs falls on both counties. (Oconee ratepayers are currently paying off a $20 million, 40-year loan through the Governor's Water Supply Pro-

"We're setting ourselves up for a financial mugging on a long-term scale," read an editorial published in The Oconee Enterprise on Aug. 23, 2007. "Walton County has the last word. It has a blank check that can empty our wallets and those of our grandchildren. We won't control our own water future. Walton County will."

Fourteen years later, Walton County is attempting to expedite construction of a water treatment facility that Oconee County won't need for several more decades.

A reservoir is no good without a treatment plant, but it looks like Walton County doesn't have the luxury of waiting 25 more years to draw from the reservoir pool.

Newly elected Walton County Commission Chairman David Thompson took the lead on applying for a federal infrastructure grant. How much Oconee and Walton may need to contribute remains to be seen. If it's millions of dollars, Oconee's water and sewer customers may have to pay off the debt without getting anything in return. Horton said he doesn't want Oconee to have to raise water rates for something that's not needed for quite some time.

The Hard Labor Creek Regional Reservoir in Walton County is a multigenerational water source. But so is Bear Creek Reservoir in Jackson County.

Bear Creek, which supplies Oconee with up to 4.5 million gallons of water per day, also provides water for Jackson, Athens-Clarke and Barrow counties. In the midst of the 2016-18 drought, the county was warned spigots would run dry by 2015.

"We are expected to need water before 2014, aren't we?" Oconee BOC Chairman Melvin Davis asked in September 2007.

Oconee County actually did look at other alternatives for a reservoir, such as Barnett Shoals and Lake Oconee. An engineering consulting firm found a reservoir at Hard Labor Creek reservoir would have lower capital costs.

The Hard Labor Creek Regional Reservoir has the capability of supplying 52 million gallons of water per day to both Oconee and Walton counties.

But in 2018, former Oconee County Water Resources Director Wayne Haynie suggested upgrading Bear Creek's treatment plant and purchasing more water from other counties pulling from that reservoir.

"The treatment plant currently has a capacity of 21 million gallons per day and may be expanded in the future to 42 [million gallons per day]," according to the website of the Upper Oconee Water Basin Authority.

The Hard Labor Creek Regional Reservoir may have seemed like smart planning at the time, but maybe Oconee jumped the gun and should have had more faith in the Bear Creek Reservoir. Maybe we were too blinded by the chicken-little fear of a drought to see that the answer was right in front of us the whole time. This editorial appeared Thursday in The Oconee Enterprise in Watkinsville

Stephen Milligan An early start to new spooky season

Fall is nearly upon us. Oh, I know the calendar claims the season doesn't change over until the Autumnal Equinox on Sept.

22, but we all know fall is as much a state of mind as an actual changing of the weather.

school football has kicked off once more, and college football is mere days away from doing the same now. Summer days are gone and fall evenings returning, whether the leaves are changing colors yet or not.

In fact, according to the official records, autumn officially begins on the first day of September, at least as far as meteorologic fall is registered, wherein the autumn months are officially September, October and November. It's only on the astronomic seasonal scale that we have to wait for the equinox to officially consider ourselves back in the fall season once again.

That means we're leaving behind warm summer nights for brisk fall evenings ... eventually, given our wacky climate. But even if the summer heat lasts into October, it won't stop that particular seasonal atmosphere from laying claim to the year.

We were talking about that atmosphere just the other day in the office, as one of my co-workers brought up the unofficial concept of "spooky season," the extended celebration of Halloween that feels no need to wait until All Hallow's Eve actually dawns to start ringing in the scariest time of year.

There's no full agreement on when spooky season starts — some say the beginning of October, while others are ready to start as early as Sept. 1. There are probably some who just never stop and celebrate spooky season all year round, like those people who never take their Christmas decorations down, but with a lot more orange decor involved.

Last year, I marked off all of October as my spooky season celebration, using it as an excuse to work through my backlog of horror novels, scary movies and other assorted pop culture. It was a lot of fun, but left me with a lot of material still to go at month's end.

So, this year, I think it might be nice to start my spooky season shenanigans with the beginning of fall, giving me a full two months to try and work my way through my giant backlog of spooky material.

I doubt it will be long enough to get through ALL of it, even still, but it'll at least give me more of a head start this go round.

Now comes the hardest part, as September looms ahead, mere days away. What book or movie do I kick it all off with?

The difficulty of that decision may be the scariest part of it all... Stephen Milligan is the news editor of The Walton Tribune. His email address is stephen.milligan@waltontribune.com.

Letters to the editor

How did we get to this point in Afghanistan?

How? How did we as a once-great nation get to where we are today?

My answer has its basis upon the Pareto Principle. It states that 80% of consequences come from 20% of the causes. While its origin was derived from economics, it can also be used statistically and be applied to the current situation in Afghanistan.

How? Well, 80% of the consequences without doubt can be laid at the feet of President Biden. The 20% of causes can be spread at the feet of former Presidents George W. Bush, Barack Obama and Donald Trump.

Now, my premise is to use this tool not just to identify both causes and consequences. It is also written to motivate readers to give ample, reasonable thought to what I have written.

Let me provide some of my thoughts to the situation. First and foremost, in the last week what has occurred? The commanderin-chief has not commanded and, therefore, he should no longer be the chief. Recall how he hunkered down in his basement in Delaware during the campaign, hiding so as not to be exposed for what he really was. He was a 50year career politician without significant performance or results. However, he was touted by the press as an expert in foreign policy. Take a glimpse for yourself to the withdrawal from Iraq and its aftermath. The aftermath was not good.

Check for yourself! He was, in fact, personally given this responsibility.

The unplanned and uncoordinated premature withdrawal of troops from Afghanistan yielded a colossal debacle. In my 80 years I have witnessed some debacles, e.g., the Bay of Pigs. It was ill-conceived and it was also a major blunder of foreign policy. One main difference: John F. Kennedy took responsibility quickly.

Biden choose to return to his basement in Wilmington and/or his new hiding spot at Camp David. What happened to transparency? There were a few press briefings or statements, but those that occurred were worthless. Plus, while defiant and strongly defending his actions, he seemingly ignored any semblance of leading his administration, both the secretaries of Defense and State were not on the same page, so to speak.

Regardless of whether any of what I have written you agree with or not, please think about it!

Because it will have lasting negative impact on these United States for years to come. Consider our standing in the world and what our allies such as NATO will do in the future.

Can they count on us? Don't forget during the first few days there was no communication with heads of state elsewhere in the free world.

What will China and Russia do? And, these are just a few of the questions facing us in the near future.

Oh, yeah, I almost forgot.

What will the Taliban do? Will they escalate their terror as we near the Aug. 31 deadline? Will we successfully get all Americans out without further incident? What about all the Afghans who served and helped us?

Are we as a nation susceptible to another terror attack on our homeland?

This is certainly not the once great country I grew up in.

Chuck Leathery, Monroe

Herschel Walker should think this over carefully

Herschel,

The media is already assembling any negative remarks or past mistakes you have made.

You are respected as a hardworking, Christian, conservative thinking man who happens to be one of the greatest football running backs ever to play the game.

Do your Georgia citizens and fans a favor and put your full support behind the U.S. Senate candidate of your choice.

No need to muddy your current status for this cause. At the very least you will split the Republican votes for nomination and then face an ugly race against the Democratic smear assault.

You can help your state the most by not entering this upcoming ugly campaign.

County honored for financial reporting

Walton's finance department earns honor for the 10th year in a row from staff reports

MONROE — The Walton County government has again received top honors for financial reporting.

The Government Finance Officers Association of the U.S. and Canada awarded the Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting to Walton County for its comprehensive annual financial report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2020.

An impartial panel judged the report to meet the program's high standards, including demonstrating a "spirit of full disclosure" to communicate the county's financial story.

The GFOA awarded Walton its Certificate of Achievement for its report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2011, and each year following.

Milton Cronheim is the chief financial officer of the county, a position he has held since May 2020. He succeeded Linda Hanna.

EDUCATION

Local districts buck trend of slumping Milestones scores

Participate rates higher locally due to emphasis on in-person learning

Stephen Milligan THE WALTON TRIBUNE

The numbers were down for the Georgia Milestones tests around the state, both in scores and participation, but local schools saw gains in many areas despite the COVID-19-based interruptions witnessed in numerous places during last year's pandemic conditions.

Scores were slightly lower across Georgia last spring compared to previous years, and fewer students took the tests than previously, trends state schools Superintendent Richard Woods attributed to pandemic conditions and disruptions.

"Georgia Milestones was designed to measure instruction during a typical school year, and 2020-2021 was anything but," Woods said. "Rolling quarantines, rising case counts and shifting instructional models impacted the educational experience for students throughout the state. Given all this — along with statewide differences in participation —— we expected some decreases this year. Georgia educators and students have worked extremely hard, and these results do not reflect or diminish their efforts.

"With educators already working on getting students back on track and the vast majority of school districts offering five days a week of inperson instruction this year, I'm confident students will receive the support they need to make up any lost ground."

Yet the Walton County School District and Social Circle City Schools posted increases in many areas, with Walton County students matching or exceeding the state in all tested grade levels and subjects.

Social Circle produced gains in three out of the four content areas assessed.

Participation levels did drop in all systems, due in part to schools not requiring students to come in and take the tests if quarantined and due to state changes to testing weight for the last year.

The DOE sought a waiver from the U.S. Department of Education twice during the last year to scrap the tests for the 2020-21 school year because of the pandemic but was denied. The Georgia Board of Education responded to the federal decision by approving Woods' proposal to temporarily lower the weight the test scores counted toward students' final grades from 20% to just 0.01%.

Yet numbers were higher locally than statewide, as local systems never closed down or returned to digital learning only models in the last year. Participation rates in the WCSD ranged from 65% to 90% in elementary grades, compared to 59% to 79% statewide, while high school rates ranged from 78% to 88% locally, compared to 55% to 60% statewide.

"Due in part to our team's ability to offer an in-person learning option all year, Walton County saw significantly higher participation rates than the State," Nathan Franklin, the district's superintendent, said.

Compared to the Georgia Milestones tests administered during the 2018-19 school year, scores declined statewide by an average of 6 points in grades 3-8 and a range of 4-15 points in high school.

Yet local systems averaged higher than the state in most areas.

At elementary levels, WCSD students performed higher than state averages in all subjects, besting the state by 8 percentage points in fifth grade English, 12 percentage points in fifth grade mathematics, 17 percentage points in eighth grade science and 7 percentage points in eighth grade social studies.

High school had similar numbers, including 14 percentage points in American literature, 11 percentage points in algebra, 12 percentage points in U.S. history and 1 percentage point in biology.

SCCS students saw similar numbers over state averages, as high as 14 percentage points over the state in fifth grade English; 11 percentage points in fifth grade math; 9 percent in fifth grade science; 19 percentage points in American literature; and 13 percentage points in U.S. history.

Concerns remain over learning loss, as schools work to catch students up with where they'd ideally be had the pandemic not interrupted schooling.

"In a year that is unprecedented for students and teachers on a myriad of levels, we continue to exemplify an 'All In' focus on student engagement, student learning and high-quality instruction in every classroom," Robbie Hooker, the Social Circle schools superintendent, said.

"In the 2021-2022 school year, there is a renewed emphasis on literacy, math, effective use of technology for learning and supporting all students' social emotional learning. The Board of Education in Social Circle City Schools continues to commit the resources necessary to promote success for all students."

Still, local officials are pleased overall with where they are compared to region and state numbers around them.

"Despite the learning disruptions caused by COVID-19, our students have continued to excel at high levels," Franklin said. "I commend our teachers, students and staff for their continued hard work and excellence."

Dave Williams, the bureau chief of the Capitol Beat News Service, contributed from Atlanta.

Monroe man injured, facing charges after crash

Cantrell Deshun Smith, 36, of Monroe, was charged with driving under the influence after a head-on crash Aug. 19 on Sandy Creek Road in Morgan County. State troopers said Smith was driving a 1986 Nissan truck westbound and crossed over the centerline, hitting a 2013 Toyota van driven by Lee Kennedy, 58, of Madison. The vehicles came to rest on the south shoulder of the road. Both Smith and Kennedy were taken to hospitals. The road was closed for about two hours. Patrick Yost | Morgan County Citizen

MORGAN COUNTY SUPERIOR COURT

50-year sentence for child molestation

Morgan jury needs just half an hour to find Monroe man, 62, guilty of touching a 6-year-old girl in 2020

Patrick Yost Morgan County CITIZEN

MADISON — A Morgan County Superior Court jury on Thursday found a Monroe man guilty of child molestation.

Arnold Merle McDonald, 62, was sentenced to 50 years by Superior Court Judge Alison T. Burleson of Ocmulgee Judicial Circuit following the guilty verdict.

According to Morgan County Superior Court documents, Burleson ordered that McDonald spend the first 49 years of his sentence in incarceration and the last year on probation. McDonald is to be given credit for time served in incarceration at the Morgan County Detention Center since February 2020. The sentence essentially orders the 62-year-old man to spend the rest of his life in detention.

Court records state Madison police Sgt. Wes Thompson arrested McDonald on Feb. 21, 2020. A warrant alleged that between 7 and 7:30 p.m. the day before, McDonald enticed a 6-year-old girl by pulling the child into a closet and then removing his pants and the child's pants, then inappropriately touched the child.

The incident took place at a Micha Way residence. McDonald has remained incarcerated since his arrest.

McDonald was charged with one count of child molestation and two counts of enticing a child for indecent purposes. The jury returned a guilty verdict on all counts.

The one day trial ended Thursday. The jury deliberated about an hour and a half before returning the verdict. McDonald was sentenced to 20 years for child molestation and another 30 years for the two counts of enticing a child for indecent purposes.

cial Purpose Local Option Sales Tax was supposed to pay for the project, but it was never built when officials couldn't agree if the jail could be renovated, or if a new one was to be built, what site should be used.

David Thompson became the chairman of the Board of Commissioners in January and has said he wants to take care of the jail issue. However, he caved to public pressure — including a resolution by the Monroe City Council condemning the plan — and said by the end of July he was backing away from the East Church Street site.

Still, Thompson favors putting the jail near the Walton County Government Building. He's turned his attention to property off Georgia Avenue and Baker Street near the building that houses the state Division of Children and Family Services and Division of Child Support Services offices.

On a split vote Aug. 3, the Board of Commissioners voted to spend up to $15,000 for Precision Planning Inc. to study a jail on the newly considered site.

Eleven people spoke at that meeting, the first since the July vote to consider the East Church Street site. All 11 were opposed to the plans, even though Thompson already had announced he'd changed his mind.

At the Aug. 3 meeting, Thompson changed the rules to allow unlimited time for comments instead of the usual three-minute cap. He also moved the public comments to the end of the agenda instead of their usual spot before the call to order.

"We need to take care of county business ... then we'll stay to midnight if we have to," he said.

As it was, the meeting was gaveled in at 6:09 p.m. and adjourned at 8:14 well short of midnight but still longer than most meetings of the Board of Commissioners.

WALTON COUNTY

A month later, 'It's rough on us'

Neighbors continue to feel the effects after lightning sparks fire at inert landfill

Stephen Milligan the Walton Tribune

he fire continues to smoke and smolder at the Holder Inert Landfill and nearby residents are getting increasingly irate as the ash and smoke continues to drift over their homes.

The fire, ignited by a lightning strike back on July 27, has been ongoing for nearly a month, despite efforts to water down the landfill and bury much of the flames under drifts of soil and dirt.

The flames have mostly been beaten underground, where they continue to smolder under piles of driftwood and dry tree stumps, but the smoke has risen continually due to the blaze and it has left the residents of the nearby neighborhood of Squirrel Hollow complaining of the unending miasma floating through the streets.

Jerry Page, a resident of Squirrel Hollow, said he's tired of the conditions and feels more should be done to address the fire after almost a month of smoky air outside his home.

"This is affecting us bad over here," Page said. "It's a constant smell. You can smell it coming through the vents in the house. It's giving us symptoms like COVID, too. We all have sore throats, coughing fits, tightening of the chest. My girlfriend went and got a COVID test but it was just because of all the smoke."

Work began this week to move dirt at the Holder Inert Landfill in an effort to tamp down the smoke that has been omnipresent since a lightning strike last month started a fire. 'Low ceilings bring the smoke to ground level at night, and there are virtually no winds aloft,' Assistant Chief Craig League of Walton County Fire Rescue said. 'This wind pattern is why the burn ban is in effect during the summer months.' Stephen Milligan | The Tribune

Page said he felt little was being done to contain the fire after early efforts to smother and drown the flames in the first week of the blaze.

"I hauled dirt for a living for eight years," Page said. "I think they should have been able to end this in a couple of weeks if they were doing all they could. The rumor around town is they're just letting it burn so when they open back up there'll be more room in the land-fil."

Page said the isolated nature of the area, at the southern edge of town, has many in his neighborhood feeling they've been neglected.

"I feel there'd be more urgency to put an end to this if the fire was closer to a richer neighborhood in town," he said. Page said he's somewhat pleased to see new equipment out at the landfill moving dirt once more this week and a talk with Walton County Fire Rescue has partly convinced him more is being done to contain the fire than it seems. But he still is concerned over the health of his neighbors, the wildlife around the neighborhood and his own household, and feels even more could be done to end the ongoing smoke threat.

"I think they should have it under control by now," he said. "They should be fined every day until it's out, if that's what it takes."

Until then, he said, he and his neighbors will continue to tough it out as best they can as the smoke swirls down into their community day and night.

"It's rough on us," Page said.

SC makes the best of Storm miscues in win

Redskins start season 2-0 for first time since 2018 with WG up next

Stephen Milligan THE WALTON TRIBUNE

SOCIAL CIRCLE — The Redskins had to wait nearly an hour to take the field due to a passing storm, but once they did, it was a far harder task taking on the Providence Storm.

The Redskins struggled on offense for half the game but finally found its footing, while the defense smothered the Storm, causing seven turnovers and ultimately defeating Providence Christian 21-0.

Providence started with a long drive into Redskins territory, only to give it away on a long interception to KJ Reid.

Social Circle went three-and-out on the gift possession, however, and soon Providence was back deep in Redskins territory again.

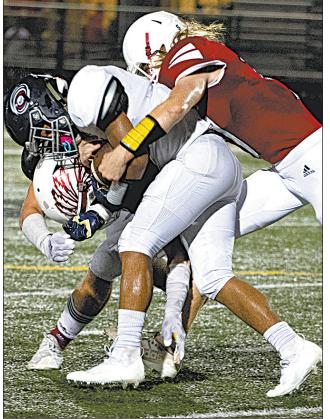

Yet a quarterback scramble led to a loose football as the Storm fumbled it into the hands of Mehki Butts for the second turnover of the night.

The Redskins punted after another dud drive but forced the Storm to kick it back after a defensive stand early in the second quarter.

ing drive, but ran out of steam right after and punted yet again.

After another Storm punt, Social Circle gave the ball away with a first down fumble by Kameron Durden, setting Providence up at the Redskins 44-yard

Yet three plays later, Durden intercepted the ball and scrambled through a field of tacklers for a 56-yard picksix. Zavier Wallace kicked the ball through for a 7-0 lead.

Providence mounted a drive to score before the half, but Mason Moore intercepted the ball at the 11 to end the quarter.

Social Circle started the second half with the Logan Cross threw a ball and drove deep into Storm territory, only to give it up on a punt after several holding penalties.

The Storm, backed up on their own 1, seemed in precarious territory, only to throw a 55-yard pass to shoot past mid-

The Storm reached the 13 and went for the end zone when Reid intercepted at the 1 and shot down the field to reach the Storm 32 midway through the third quarter.

Three plays later, the Redskins punched the ball loose and Tucker Cleary fell on it for the sixth turnover of the night.

The Storm would start another long drive before Moore intercepted, only to be called for pass interference. The Storm looked to push deeper, only for Moore to intercept again, this time cleanly, and end another Providence possession.

Social Circle went to the running game to burn clock and finally found a rhythm, letting Durden take the ball repeatedly and push down the field. Durden finally scored on a 7yard touchdown run and the kick made it 21-

Another Providence drive started with promise, moving into Redskins territory with help from an interference call, only to see the drive falter and ultimately turn it over on downs with time draining away.

Social Circle was looking for a 2-0 start in onfield play for the first time since 2018. The Redskins play at Walnut Grove on Friday.

The elements can't stop Eagles in opening win over the Bulldoggs

Garrett Pitts

SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE

WINDER — The Eastside Eagles did not let the lightning and rain stop them from beginning their season as they took on the Winder-Barrow Eagles to start their 2021 high school football campaign.

The Eagles were looking to replicate the same outcome as last season, when they opened the year with a 27-14 win over the Bulldogs.

After both teams opened the game with punts, the officials put the game on a lightning delay that would last for an hour and a half.

Following a long wait in the locker room, play finally resumed, and the Eagles wasted no time getting on the board. Senior running back Dallas Johnson ran the rock up the middle and down into Bulldog territory which led to a 35-yard field goal from senior Rodney Williams to give the Eagles a 3-0 lead.

The Bulldoggs did not show any signs of rust either as they quickly marched down the field and take the lead on a 19-yard touchdown pass from Conyer Smith to Trevor Sum-lead halfway through the second quarter.

Both defenses would continue to make the necessary stops as the 10-6 score would carry over into halftime.

After being forced to punt on the opening drive of the third quarter, the Bulldoggs would finally break through on defense as they would get in the backfield and block the Eagles' punt and force the safety to trim the Eastside lead to 10-8 early in the second half.

Running back Dallas Johnson later ripped off a 41-yard touchdown run to put Eagles ahead 17-8 with 4:30 left in the third quarter.

With 7:37 remaining, Rodney Williams Jr. converted a 41-yard field goal to extend the Eagles lead to 20-8. That's how it ended.

Winder-Barrow (1-1) plays at Glynn Academy next week. Eastside plays host to Newton.

Bryan makes history in Bulldog loss

First girl to score in varsity football game for GWA

Greg Yarman CORRESPONDENT

MONROE — George Walton Academy junior Sara Bryan made school history Friday night, becoming the first GWA player to score a point for the Bulldogs football program.

Bryan, who was an all-region selection at midfielder on the GWA soccer team this spring, came out for football this fall. She got her first extra point attempt Friday night with 9:20 remaining in the second quarter as the Bulldogs played host to Stratford Academy.

After a 2-yard touchdown run by Caleb Fortunat, Bryan's PAT was true.

That cut Stratford's lead to 28-7, but the Eagles continued to pour it en route to a 47-7 victory.

After an hour's delay following lightning strikes in the vicinity of Don Williams Stadium, George Walton got possession but gained just 4 yards.

On its first play from scrimmage after a punt, Shaun Wilmore dashed 42 yards for a touchdown. Nathan Haskell kicked it to 7-0.

Keondre Glover recovered a GWA fumble, giving Stratford a short field. After a 15-yard run by Glover, Nate Slappey took in the touchdown from 3 yards out and a 14-0 lead.

Shaun Wilmore picked off a pass and returned it to the GWA 31-yard line about midway through the quarter, setting up Glover's

8-yard touchdown run. Stratford led 21-0 after a quarter. The Eagles added to it in on a 24-yard touchdown pass to Keondre Glover from Lawson Cole just 10 seconds into the second quarter.

A face mask penalty tacked on to Fortunat's kickoff return set up 28and 2-yard runs by Fortunat, the second giving GWA its touchdown.

But Stratford added an 8yard touchdown run by Slappey and 15-yarder by Glover before halftime.

The teams played with a running clock in the second half. Stratford struck just once, on a 1-yard touchdown run by John Wade, and led 47-7 going into the fourth. That's where it ended.

Stratford put two players in triple-digits for rushing.

Wilmore ended at 109 yards while Slappey had 103.

Glover pitched in 57. GWA (0-2) will be off next week and look for its first victory Sept. 10 at Crawford County in Roberta.

Stratford (1-0) will be back home in Macon next week to welcome Westfield, a 51-21 winner Friday night over Trinity Christian.

LCA, Bethlehem Christian have intense first 24 minutes in earlyseason meeting of old GISA rivals

Chris Bridges Correspondent

LOGANVILLE — The ongoing rivalry between Loganville Christian Academy and Bethlehem Christian Academy continued Friday night although it took an extra 90 minutes to get the festivities started due to a lightning delay.

The delay did not dampen the intensity of the rivalry, however, as several personal foul penalties were called and several crunching tackles delivered.

The game was scoreless at halftime. Look for full coverage at WaltonTribune.com.

The teams traded punts to start the game. The visiting Knights moved from their 19 to the Lion 42 on the team's second series before punting again.

LCA started its third possession of

On the next play, however, Cody Craft recovered a fumble for BCA at its 6-yard line to stop the drive.

LCA alternated Gerrit Kemp and Josh Ruder at quarterback in the first half.

The rivalry between the neighboring county schools began when both were members of the Georgia Independent Schools Association.

Although LCA is now in the Georgia High School Association, the teams have continued the series.

Friday's game was much more than the two previous seasons when LCA won by a combined 81-7 score.

'Canes continue to roll with shutout

Monroe tops county rival Walnut Grove for second straight win

David Johnson
CORRESPONDENT

MONROE — Monroe Area entered the season unranked, unheralded and under the radar, picked at best to finish runner up in its region.

But for the second straight week, the Hurricanes played over their heads — two classifications to be exact — and emerged victorious.

A week after trouncing arch-rival Logan-ville by three touchdowns, Monroe returned to the Purple Pit and routed local foe Walnut Grove 35-0, giving the Class AAA Hurricanes a pair of wins over Class AAAAA opponents.

It was Monroe's fifth straight victory over the Warriors.

For the second week in a row, they were dominant on both sides of the ball. Junior running back Alan Jones led the attack with 10 carries for 117 yards and two touchdowns, all in the first half.

Senior quarterback Selatian Straughter had another solid performance with a pair of scores, one rushing and one passing. He closed out his career against the Warriors with 573 all-purpose yards and 10 touchdowns.

Meanwhile, on defense, the Hurricanes held the Warriors to just 18 yards in the first half. The second half was played with a running clock as both head coaches emptied their benches.

After a one-hour storm delay, the game got off to a sloppy start with both quarterbacks throwing interceptions. But while the Warriors could never get moving, the Hurricanes rolled, scoring on four straight possessions and getting a special teams touchdown.

to start the second quarter and went the distance in six plays, with Jones carrying four times for 52 yards and Straughter connecting with Jeremiah Anderson from 13 yards out for the score.

Walnut Grove picked up its initial first down on the ensuing possession but was forced to punt three plays later. Monroe's Bernard Manga blocked the kick and Jakyri Jones picked it up at the 20 and rambled in for a touchdown.

The Hurricanes finished out the first half with a nifty run by Jones, who took the ball moving left, reversed his field and sprinted down the right sideline for a 36-yard TD run.

The Hurricanes improved to 2-0 and will travel to Madison Friday to face Morgan County for the 52nd renewal of the long-time rivalry. Walnut Grove fell to 0-2 and will return home to face cross-county foe Social Circle.

THE WALTON TRIBUNE

everal times a

Marching Red
Devils head out to the edge of campus to practice in a vacant field, working long hours to perfect marching struments.

With a large number of students on the field, it's necessary for band director Josh Brandon to be visible to as many of his musicians routines and nail down patterns while playing their in-

as possible, so he stands on a platform to give him oversight of the entire area and make him a clear landmark to all his students.

The only problem with this solution was the platform itself was not in the best of shape.

"The old platform was barely holding together," 16-year-old Timothy Simmons, a junior at LHS and a saxophone player in the marching band, said. "It was extremely rickety and dangerous. It could have fallen apart at any time."

Timothy decided to do what he could to rectify the situation, talking with his band director, parents and Boy Scout Troop leader and ultimately deciding to make the rescue operation double as his Eagle Scout project.

So, this summer, Timothy and a host of volunteers, parents and young men, from Troop 536 out of Loganville First United Methodist Church, found themselves standing in the overgrown field, doing their best to erect a new, permanent stand for the band director that would serve as a much safer place for the band leader to perch and guide practices for years to come.

The first step was to secure access from the school itself, reaching out not only to his band director, but the principal and school board for all the necessary permissions.

Next up was the need for supplies, particularly the four support posts that would serve as the foundation of the project design.

Timothy reached out to local businesses and got a bite from Walton Electric Membership Corp.

"Walton EMC donated the telephone poles for the project," Timothy said.

The Scout took the poles in hand and, with help from his father, cut them to size to serve as the four corner poles of his 15-foottall bandstand.

Then, with help from his entire troop, the poles were loaded up and brought to campus, where they were erected, scaffolding put up and further work done, from creating the actual platform to putting up crossbars to bear weight to building a staircase around the outside of the structure to give easy access to the top without relying on ladders or less reliable steps.

Timothy said he's happy to see it all coming together with the help of his fellow Scouts and the various fathers in the Troop who lent a hand with tools, equipment and labor.

Now that the project's done, it's just a matter of getting it reviewed so he can earn his Eagle Sout rank.

"It's exciting," Timothy said. "And it's a bit nervewracking."

Here we grow again with new greenhouse at George Walton

Thanks to the support of George Walton Academy families and the generosity of one of the school's founders, GWA is adding a new sustainable living greenhouse to expand learning opportunities for students of all ages.

The greenhouse is named for John Sorrells, one of the founders of the Academy. Sorrells has seen three daughters and three grand-children graduate from the school, and his grandson will earn his diploma next spring.

Being raised on a farm and knowing the challenges of growing seasons, Sorrells and his wife, Perry Nell, made the needed gift to enable GWA to cross the finish line for the Sustainability Greenhouse Classroom.

The couple supported the idea of having a facility that will give students hands-on experience through planting and nurturing vegetables, fruits, and flowers.

"We love that GWA students of all ages can use the greenhouse as a living classroom to run experiments, test out engineering projects such as irrigation systems, and even have a place to make botanical sketches," Mrs. Sorrells said.

aid. Most of all, the Sorrellses see the value in students being able to learn basic skills for planting in a controlled environment.

"As a young man growing up on a farm, I remember that not all crops were successful due to the weather. I appreciate that the greenhouse classroom enables students to study and practice what it takes to grow vegetables without having to worry about weather conditions ruining a project," Mr. Sorrells said.

"Having been a part of GWA since its beginning, we have seen the school continue to strengthen and grow with each passing year. Supporting the students has always been first and foremost in our minds. We are glad for this opportunity to leave a legacy to the Academy by investing in a program that provides a long-lasting impact with students now and into the future."

The idea for the greenhouse came to Brian Cole, associate head of school for fine arts, as he was researching information for his sustainable living class.

Entering the third year of the class, Cole has led explorations in crafting chairs out of recycled cardboard, designing and planting a school garden, creating prototype shelters that could be distributed to the homeless population, building beehives to raise honeybees, composting and setting up hydroponic spaces to start seedlings and grow plants inside his classroom.

His real-life approach to teaching encourages students to learn practical skills while thinking about the world around them.

"It is our duty as teachers to try to teach students to be better citizens," Cole said. "Between the outdoor garden and the greenhouse, students will now have a full range of opportunities to learn about food production, crop rotation and sustainability."

ARIES

March 21 to April 20

Aries, this week will challenge your flexibility. It's possible you will have to change plans on the fly to accommodate developments at work or at home.

TAURUS

April 21 to May 21

Taurus, rather than trying to figure out why everyone is acting as they are, accept things and go with the flow. You will be much happier for it.

GEMINI

May 22 to June 21

You are capable of dealing with intense emotional energy most of the time, Gemini. So when someone needs a friend to confide in, you are the right person for the job.

Cancer, normally you are an easygoing person. But something this week has you rattled and you may be all fired up about it. Redirect that energy to some projects around the house.

LEO

July 23 to Aug. 23

Leo, try to stay away from conflict this week; otherwise, you may be pulled in one direction or another. It is important to remain neutral, especially at work.

VIRGO

Aug. 24 to Sept. 22

Virgo, don't worry too much about what other people consider to be right and wrong. Stick to your ideals and you won't be guided off course. You will find someone in your corner.

Oct. 24 to Nov. 22

Scorpio, if your emotions suddenly seem more intense, you may need to change your social circle and find one that aligns better with your point of view.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov. 23 to Dec. 21

Strong forces may be working against you, Sagittarius. But you won't let them derail your plans. Stay the course and things will work out just fine.

CAPRICORN

Dec. 22 to Jan. 20

Capricorn, keep conversations light and away from any controversial topics as you meet new people in the days ahead. Let them take the lead in conversation.

AQUARIUS

Jan. 21 to Feb. 18

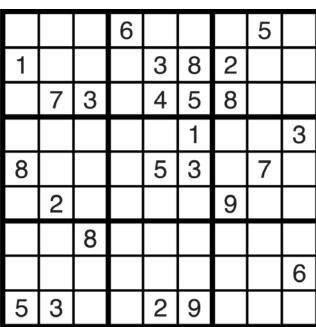

There is a great deal of opportunity and potential to follow through on some major projects this week, Aquarius. It's up to you whether you're looking for work or fun.

PISCES

Feb. 19 to March 20

Pisces, this may be an eventful week marked by some disruptions to your normal routine. Stay calm in the face of conflict.

About Church News

The Walton Tribune welcomes submissions for our Church News section, which is published each Sunday. Because of the large number of correspondents who submit information each week, we ask you to keep your church submissions as brief as possible. The deadline for submissions each week is 1 p.m. Tuesday. We ask the submissions be kept to 100 words or fewer. Items may be edited before being published.

Walton Ways submissions can be dropped off at The Tribune office at 121 S. Broad St. in Monroe, faxed to 770-267-7780 or emailed to community@waltontribune.com. Daily Planner items about church events should be submitted separately.

Not be Deceived," sharing from 1 Corinthians 10:1-13. His points Services Sunday morning will begin at 9 (contemporary, in the fellowship hall) and 11 (traditional, in the sanctuary).

A sermon series, "Jesus Confidential," on the Sermon on the Mount continues this week. The Rev. John Purrington's sermon will be "The Blessing of Comfort" from Matthew 5:6-12.

The second half of the Beatitudes leads us to see our way through the struggles of indignity, injustice and evil. Jesus' promise is not only God's care of us, but God's promise of triumph over evil and all its tentacles in this world.

Wednesday night activities have resumed with dinner at 5:30 and Bible studies at 6:30. A love offering will be taken and all FUMC preschool families eat free. To make reservations, contact office@ fumcmonroe.org or 770-267-6525.

Purrington will lead a Bible study at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary and 6:30 p.m. in the fellowship each Wednesday.

We are planning for our annual picnic to begin at 5 p.m. Sunday, at the Robertses' farm. Please start thinking about your favorite side dishes. Special thanks to Roy and Suzanne Roberts for hosting this wonderful event again this year! The address is 54 Nunnally Farm Road, Monroe, GA 30655.

Join us at the Southern Brewing Co. for a "Prayer and a Pint" the first Tuesday of every month at 5:30 p.m. All are welcome and each gathering will probably last no longer than one hour. For more information, please contact Bob Emmons at 404-406-1228 or bobemmons210@gmail.com. Southern Brewing Co. is located at 123 N. Lumpkin St. in Monroe.

To kick off a new beginning for our Episcopal Church Women group, a ladies lunch day is being planned. Starting Wednesday, Sept. 15, and every third Wednesday following, we will connect at a designated local eatery for lunch and fellowship. If you are interested, please call or text Sue Clayton at 469-261-4326 or email Sue at sue.clayton54@gmail.com.

Libby Martin is organizing the Coffee Hour and asks for two volunteer hosts per Sunday. The offerings will be limited and all snacks will be individually wrapped. Please sign up to host a Sunday Coffee Hour on the sheet provided on the round table in the Narthex. Please contact Libby at libmartin2 @hotmail.com if interested.

The first Saturday of each month, members of the Vitality Committee distribute complimentary water to the patrons of the Monroe Farmers Market on Court Street. This ministry is a continuation of last year's efforts to introduce downtown visitors to our parish, St. Alban's of Monroe, and invite them to church. We need volunteers to assist with handing out water bottles to those downtown visitors who wish to quench their thirst. We meet at the Parish Hall around 10:15 a.m. on the first Saturday of each month, then split up into a couple of teams and serve our downtown neighbors. Many thanks, Sue Clayton, Marvin Gray and Mallory Sanders.

Please join us in the Nave every Wednesday at 10 a.m. for prayer. Walton Ways » Page C5

Walton Ways: Churches offer services in person and online in these trying times

We encourage everyone to visit our website at www.saintalbans.org. The livestreamed worship services can be accessed via the top box on the right side of the website's home page labeled: WORSHIP SERVICES Live Streaming. Please feel free to make suggestions and recommend additions as the committee continues to evangelize and connect with those pursuing a church home in the greater Monroe area.

In addition to the Sunday worship service, John Henderson's "Answering God's Call to Discipleship" lecture series, and children's Bible stories are all available on the homepage of our website. Please share the website info with persons around Monroe as it truly reveals who and what St. Alban's is within the community and the world.

John Henderson continues to lead us in the Bible study of becoming His beloved, "Answering God's Call to Discipleship" every Saturday at 10 a.m. on YouTube, our Facebook page (St.AlbansEpiscopal), and our website, www.saintalbans.org. Please join John for a great insight into the Bible. If you have missed an episode, you can catch up through archives on our Facebook page or YouTube channel (see www.saint-albans.org).

If you wish to celebrate Eucharist while joining the worship service online, drop by the church and pick up your individual communion kits between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Just knock at the office door on East Highland Avenue or call Shirley Morgan to let her know you are here to pick up the kit(s).

Deepen your relationship with God through the Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius of Loyola and forms of reflective or imaginative prayer. Come to Ignatius House for a day or stay overnight. Visit https://www. ignatiushouse.org/registration.

We are looking for someone to help with our youth group. It is a part-time paid position. We need a female high school and a female middle school minister. We are hoping to build these groups up. So far our middle school attendance has been increasing, we do not want it to stop. Please if you can or if you know anyone let us know.

Father Dan is offering a bereavement group for all those in need if there is interest. Please contact him for more information.

Adoration is a wonderful way to grow in relationship with Christ during this season. Adoration is offered Fridays from 6 a.m. to noon. There is no set format for making a personal holy hour. You can simply look or talk with the Lord. Read Scripture or a spiritual book. Journal. Pray the rosary. How you prayerfully spend time with the Lord is up to you.

Our new audio and visual equipment is installed and streaming! We would like to train people at each Mass to help operate the equipment much like our other liturgy ministries. If you are interested in learning a new skill, please email Delilah Tanner at secretary@stannas.com.

St. Anna's officially has an app! Join us by downloading the MyUCD app on the Apple or Google app store today! Our Identifier Code is BuZqzzOSQk.

St. Anna's Meal Ministry needs YOU! The meal ministry is a great way to serve other members of our parish. We will be the hands and feet of Christ by delivering meals to those who have been sick, had a baby, had surgery, lost a loved one, etc. You do not have to be a chef to be a part of this ministry. Meals do not have to be homemade.

In times of need, a friendly face and a meal can speak volumes. Please contact Miranda Marlowe at st.annasmeals@gmail.com or 678-758-2905 if you are interested in being a part of this ministry.

Join RCIA today! For more information please contact Deacon John Duffield 404-423-7988 or ipduff@ bellsouth.net or Deb Farabaugh 814-602-7668 or debfarabaugh@ gmail.com for more information.

roadway with a raised

median to improve

traffic operations and reduce crashes. Median openings, RCUT intersections, U-turn facilities, and turn lanes are proposed at various locations to maintain

access throughout the corridor. Intersection

improvements are proposed at SR 20 and US 78/SR 10 to provide ad-

is proposed to be realigned with N Sharon

Church Road at SR 20

to tie into a proposed multi-lane roundabout.

Fesco Way is pro-posed to be realigned to increase intersection

spacing and to reduce conflicting traffic movements. The project begins about 1000 feet

west of the existing intersection of County

Route (CR) 118/Tuck

Road and SR 20 and ends at the intersection of SR 20 and Covington Street for a total project length of approximately 1.3 miles.

The purpose of this internet posting is to replace an in-person

meeting, while allowing

the public to review the proposed project,

provide feedback, or write in with questions.

COUNCIL OF JUVENILE JUSTICE ADMINISTRATORS

Oliver earns President's Award for work of helping youth

Former Social Circle police chief leads Department of Juvenile Justice

SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE

BRAINTREE, Mass. — Tyrone Oliver, who is the commissioner of the Georgia Department of Juvenile Justice, was announced Aug. 14 as the recipient of the Council of Juvenile Justice Administrators' 2021 President's Award.

Gov. Brian Kemp issued a statement about Oliver and his job performance since he tapped the Newton County native as commissioner in July 2019.

"Commissioner Oliver has proven himself to be a strong leader in our state's service to youth in the criminal justice system," Kemp said. "He has rightfully earned the CJJA President's Award because of his genuine commitment to bettering the lives of countless youth and fostering safe communities across our state.

"The Kemp family and the state of Georgia are thankful to Commissioner Oliver, and we congratulate him on this great achievement."

Council of Juvenile Justice Administrators Steve Lafreniere, left, who is also the executive director of the Alabama Department of Youth Services, stands with Georgia Department of Juvenile Justice Commissioner Tyrone Oliver and Mike Dempsey, the CJJA executive director, earlier this month as Oliver is named the CJJA President's Award winner for 2021. Special to The Tribune

Oliver, who is the former chief of the Social Circle Police Department, is responsible for the daily operation of the state agency that includes more than 3,500 employees. Its mission is "to transform young lives by providing evidence-based rehabilitative treatment services and supervision, strengthening youth and families' well-being, and fostering safe communities."

The department serves the state's justice-involved youth up to 21 years of age.

"It was my pleasure to award Commissioner Tyrone Oliver the President's Award for 2021," said Steve Lafreniere, president of CJJA and executive director of the Alabama Department of Youth Services. "If you have spent any time with him, then you know he is genuine and authentic. He took over during a challenging transition in his department and while learning his state system, he also stepped up when asked to assume additional responsibilities within CJJA."

The CJJA President's Award was created in 2013 to recognize a member who has made a significant contribution through participation in the organization's activities, according to the state DJJ. Awardees reflect a dedication to improving the youth's outcomes in their care and display an approach to leadership that values their staff and empowers them to be agents of change.

"I am honored to receive this award from the Council of Juvenile Justice Administrators," Oliver said. "I am truly grateful for the opportunity to serve the juvenile justice system as a member of this organization."

Oliver is a 20-year veteran of law enforcement who began his career in 1999 as a detention officer with the Newton County Sheriff's Office. Oliver was one of the first employees of the Brookhaven Police Department when the new city was formed in 2013. Oliver was named Social Circle's chief of police in January 2016.

In November 2018, he was appointed Social Circle's deputy city manager and served in both roles until Kemp tapped him for the statewide appointment.

Oliver is a graduate of Columbus State University's Law Enforcement Professional Management Program. He also completed the FBI's Law Enforcement Executive Development Program, FBI Leadership Trilogy, and attended the Georgia International Law Enforcement Exchange to Israel.

While in Social Circle, Oliver served on the board of Communities In Schools of Walton County, later the Student Success Alliance.

He and his wife, Aimee, have five children and one granddaughter.
