Newton County Schools requiring masks

Reported 80 student COVID cases within first week led to district mandate

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — A total of 80 students confirmed as infected with COVID-19 in the first week of the school year led Newton County's superintendent to order a temporary mask mandate beginning this week for students and staff.

Beginning Monday, Aug.

9, the Newton County School System began requiring all students and staff to wear masks in school buildings and on school buses.

"We tried the mask-optional status but now must revert to requiring mask usage due to the considerable spike in cases," Superintendent Samantha Fuhrey said in a news release.

"No one likes wearing a mask. I understand that. But if parents and the community want our children to be able to attend school in person we must do this — at least for now," she said.

Some of Newton County's 19,000 students spent the 2020-21 school year learning virtually in response to the rise in COVID-19 cases — though more than half, 10,000, attended in-person, officials said.

Fuhrey said a "significant spike in student COVID-19

Warnock tells story of late Newton resident in push to expand Medicaid

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

WASHINGTON — A late Newton County resident was in the spotlight on the U.S. Senate floor recently.

Sen. Raphael Warnock, D-Ga., continued a "Medicaid Saves Lives" series of floor speeches with one featuring Lorie Davis, a Newton County resident who died in September.

It was part of Warnock's effort to convince the Senate to expand Medicaid in an upcoming economic package.

Warnock said in a speech Thursday, Aug. 5, that Davis worked as a trauma nurse at Grady Memorial Hospital in Atlanta before being diagnosed with pelvic adhesive disease — which pushed her to leave her nursing job, Warnock said.

"The chronic pain associated with this condition eventually pushed her to leave the nursing profession. After that, while also working to manage her own chronic condition, Lorie struggled to maintain steady employment in the restaurant industry," Warnock said.

"Health care professional. No longer able to serve in her profession as trauma nurse, working as hard as she could in the restaurant industry. She believed in working. She understood the dignity of work."

During this time Davis, who lived in Covington with her husband, Bob, could not afford health insurance but made too much to qualify for Medicaid, Warnock said.

"She made too much to qualify for Medicaid, but not enough to afford other insurance plans," he said.

"While in this limbo, Lorie had to wait many years for her Social Security dis-

Some Newton commissioners may seek changes to governing structure

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Some commissioners say they may want to consider changes to the county government's management structure after the person they hired to lead its day-to-day operations asked them to "go through me" before contacting employees in the future.

Commissioners Aug. 3 voted to delay action on a resolution stating that county commissioners "shall deal with county officers and employees" solely through the county manager if the employees are under his supervision.

Chairman Marcello Banes said he believed the issue was "cut and dried."

"The Board of Commissioners has had communications and given directives to some county employees," Banes said. "I think (County Manager Lloyd) Kerr is asking that we eliminate that. It's been causing some issues."

But District 2 Commission-

er Demond Mason said he believed there "should be some amendment" to the government's organizational document to allow commissioners to have direct communication with department heads.

"At a minimum I believe the Board of Commissioners should be able to reach out to the director of any department and not necessarily have to go through our county manager," he said.

District 4 Commissioner J.C. Henderson also said he wanted to consider changing the document to allow "at the very least" the chairman and vice chairman to "talk to the employees" now under the county manager's supervision.

The resolution is in accordance with the enabling legislation the Georgia General Assembly approved in 2016 that changed the county government to a commission-manager form in January 2017.

Kerr said the 2017 legislation designated the county manager position as direct supervisor for heads of departments other than those led by the Board of Commissioners cases" among the system's 19,000 students prompted the action.

She said more than 200 students were sent home to quarantine in the first five days of the 2021-22 school year that began Aug. 2 — in addition to the 80 confirmed positive cases of student infection, Fuhrey said.

The numbers represent a significant increase from COVID numbers from the previous school year that ended in late May, Fuhrey said.

Weekly data reports from the second semester of the 2020-21 school year showed student cases averaged less than 20 — and often under 10 — confirmed cases per week, she said.

Fuhrey said information from Gwinnett-Newton-Rockdale Health Department Friday confirmed the increased infection rate among children in Newton County in recent weeks.

"Our primary concern is the health and safety of our students and staff," Fuhrey said. "As such, we must move forward with a temporary mask mandate until such time that the number of positive cases decrease in our schools and community."

LOCAL NUMBERS

Fuhrey said Friday the Department of Public Health identified Newton County as having a high rate of transmission of COVID-19 and the numbers were trending upward.

"Unfortunately, we've also been informed that less than 33% of the total population of Newton County has been vaccinated which contributes to the spread of the virus in our community," she said.

The Georgia Department of Public Health reported 328 new cases of COVID-19 in Newton County between July 19 and Aug. 6

The Seven-Day Moving Average — the average of the previous seven days' confirmed case counts — was 30.4 on Friday, Aug. 6, compared to 3.7 on July 6 in Newton County, the DPH reported.

Meanwhile, Newton County had 33% of eligible residents fully vaccinated and 38% with at least one dose of the vaccine on Friday, Aug. 6 — much lower than the statewide average of 41% fully vaccinated and 47% with one dose, according to information from the Georgia Department of Public Health.

ability claim to be adjudicated, and she finally qualified for benefits in 2017.

“But even then, she was unable to qualify for Medicaid because of her and Bob’s combined marital income. And this left Lorie in the coverage gap. Unable to purchase coverage because it was financially out of reach.

“Lorie went without health insurance for years, relying on her own medical training, and free health care clinics, to treat her chronic condition.

“Then, in August 2020, Lorie began feeling ill. Her condition got noticeably worse. Fearful of costs, she delayed seeking health care.

“Unable to follow the advice that she no doubt had provided to other patients: seek healthcare early — many things are preventable if you can get there earlier rather than later. She was not able to follow her own advice.”

He said in the next month — September 2020 — she was admitted to the hospital with pneumonia.

“While there, she learned, sadly, that she had lung cancer — a treatable condition had she received an earlier diagnosis.

“Put together, it was too much. On Sept. 17, 2020, Lorie passed away," he said.

“This is the human face of our public policy. These are the tragic casualties of the games that politicians play."

“As a pastor, I am praying for Lorie’s family as they mourn her unspeakable and perhaps unnecessary loss and the legacy she left behind.

“As a senator who believes that health care is a human right, a sacred obligation, I refuse to stop fighting until Georgians like Lorie Davis have access to the care that they need — when they need it."

Warnock also urged the Senate to pass his new legislation, the Medicaid Saves Lives Act, as part of the forthcoming economic package the Senate is working on.

The legislation would provide the same full benefits of Medicaid and cover the nearly 500,000 uninsured Georgians and 4.4 million uninsured Americans in non-expansion states, he said.

Medicaid is a joint federal and state program that, together with the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP), provides health coverage to more than 72.5 million Americans. It is the single largest source of health coverage in the U.S.

To participate in Medicaid, federal law requires states to cover certain groups of individuals. Low-income families, qualified pregnant women and children, and individuals receiving Supplemental Security Income

(SSI) are examples of mandatory eligibility groups.

The Affordable Care Act of 2010 allowed states to expand Medicaid to cover nearly all low-income Americans under age 65. Eligibility for children was extended to at least 133% of the federal poverty level (FPL) in every state and states were given the option to extend eligibility to adults with income at or below 133% of the FPL.

Warnock encouraged his colleagues to pass his “life-saving” legislation, and to consider the faces of people— like Lorie Davis — behind the Senate’s policy making.

In his remarks, Warnock said Davis' story is just one of the many examples of under- or uninsured low-income Americans being denied affordable health care because they live in Georgia or one of the 11 other states that had not expanded Medicaid.

“As members of this body, we should be ashamed that in the richest nation in the world, a country with all of our resources, all of our medical technology that some citizens would choose not to seek treatment – even when they know better – because they fear they cannot afford the price tag of life-saving care.”

or the four constitutional officers — sheriff, Probate judge, clerk of courts and tax commissioner.

It also spells out the division of duties, with board members being the policy-making arm and responsible for the government's executive functions, and the county manager leading day-to-day operations and supervising employees.

"There have been occasions when, quite frankly I think there's been maybe a few things where there've been some issues," Kerr said.

"I think it's best to simply remind everybody that anything related to operations would need to go through me," he said.

Kerr did not give details but said some lines "have been crossed" between specified duties of commissioners and the county manager and "it's best to address it before we have any more."

"I think it's best for all," Kerr said.

or work habits of said employee, or to request any service or actions on the part of said employee except through the county manager."

It also states that it "shall not limit contact by members of the board as a matter of inquiry to obtain information necessary to allow said members to carry out their duties."

Mason said he often contacts department heads directly because he receives numerous questions about zoning and recreation. He said he then copies Kerr and Chairman Marcello Banes on his emails with the department heads.

Mason said, in the past, Kerr had directed him to speak with the department head if Kerr did not know the answer.

Commissioner Alana Sanders said Kerr's resolution was unnecessary because it merely restates what the enabling legislation already says.

Commissioner

Stan Edwards said he agreed the "integrity of the chain of command" needed to be maintained. He said "nothing undermines" it more than an employee "thinking they have more than one boss."

However, he admitted he was guilty of bypassing Kerr and directly contacting employees.

Kerr told the commissioners some of the 600 employees he leads "kind of look at you all as very special people who have a tremendous amount of power."

Some employees were "easily intimidated" when commissioners contacted them directly with any number of requests for their districts, Kerr said.

"While I know you don't mean to be intimidating, sometimes it does come across that way to them," Kerr said.

"There's also a lot of times when an employee may agree to something that they don't necessarily have the ...

authority to agree to or they may not know there's some other plan of action," he said.

The Board tabled the resolution until Sept. 7 to discuss and make any additions they wanted in order to take final action on Kerr's resolution.

Georgia anxiously awaits Herschel's decision

Back during his famous football carrying days at the University of Georgia, Herschel Walker became a household word by being one of the fastest and strongest players in collegiate history.

Walker could take it to the house on any given play which made you never leave the television or more often the radio back in those days when every game was not televised. Almost as quick as lightning, Walker would be off to the endzone for another six points. “Suddenly!” beloved UGA radio announcer Larry Munson would exclaim. “Herschel’s gone. There goes Herschel all the way.” We have now been waiting for Herschel to decide his political aspirations. Some political followers say it is a done deal that he will run for the U.S. Senate in 2022. Others are not so sure having doubt creep into their minds during the delay which continues to drag on. Certainly, Herschel has some advantages if he decided to run for the Republican nomination. First and foremost, his name recognition is out the roof. Even though it has been almost 40 years since he played for the University of Georgia, Walker remains a household name in these parts. He guided the Bulldogs to the national title in 1980 and should have won the Heisman Trophy that season. The only problem was voters would not give the Heisman to a freshman even though he was, without a doubt, the best player that season. Second, Walker would have the backing of former President Trump who remains extremely popular in Georgia. Once upon a time, Trump owned the New Jersey Generals of the USFL. Walker played for New Jersey and has been friends with the billionaire since. Third, many Georgia Republicans believe that with Walker being an African-American, it would offset some of the advantage for Democratic incumbent Raphael Warnock. It was just last year that Warnock made state history by becoming the first African-American U.S. Senator in state history. There are some disadvantages for Walker. First, he has lived out-of-state for years. Is he tuned into what is going on in his home state? Some would contend that doesn’t matter but shouldn’t a senator live in the state he or she wants to represent? Second, Walker has openly dealt with some mental health issues. On one hand, it is commendable that the one-time Heisman Trophy winner has been open about these issues, but there have also been some disturbing reports (that he does not deny) about altercations with his ex-wife including a history of stalking. Third, would non-football fans in Georgia vote for someone who has never been elected to any office? It’s not that former athletes or coaches have not held office. Former college football coach Tommy Tuberville currently represents Alabama in the U.S. Senate. Former professional wrestler Jesse Ventura was elected governor of Minnesota in the 1990s. Even legendary UGA football coach Vince Dooley thought about running for statewide office in the late 1980s. His popularity was also an asset although he eventually decided against jumping into politics. Finally, the GOP primary would not be a cake-walk for the football great. Several candidates have already announced their intentions including popular current state agriculture commissioner Gary Black who has been on the campaign trail for months. The nomination is not going to be handed to Walker and I think he knows that although some potential candidates have said they will not run if the former football great enters the race. Plus, the national political spotlight is different than the spotlight of football. With the country so evenly divided there is a great deal riding on the outcome of the Senate contest. A bumper sticker seen recently declared “Run Herschel Run!” Whether the man who once held a state record for most touchdowns in a high school season actually runs for Washington, D.C. is still anyone’s guess. The clock is ticking, however. It is now at least third down. A decision needs to be reached soon before Walker’s political game clock runs out.

No Gold for Barbie: Mattel creates an inaccurate Olympic collection

Dear Editor: The Olympics have finished in Tokyo, although there is still the Paralympics to start, and it has been a great success for the whole world in a time of difficulty. There have been many stories of success but not the Barbie one. Mattel, the manufacturers of Barbie have created an incomplete and inaccurate Olympic collection. There seems to be no doll of Asian appearance with only white and dark skin example available despite this being run in an Asian country. There does not appear to be any representatives of the LGBTQIA+ community despite a number of participants from these groups, both publicly known and some not yet willing or able to identify themselves so. It would also seem that Barbie only wins Gold Medals. There is nothing wrong with being second best in the world or 50th, it’s the participation that is important. There needs to be role models for young people, and it appears to be the athletes themselves and not the Barbie versions of the athletes. Regards,

It’s finally time to return to school ... we hope

It’s back to school time, at least for now. Can we be sure of anything these days? After the students return, if the new COVID variant starts spiraling out of control, will it soon be “back to home” time again? As an education reporter. I have learned that being an educator is stressful even in good times. Long before masks, distancing, and vaccinations, teachers had enough to worry about. Who knew that we would someday long for the days when the hottest school topics were dress codes, standardized tests, and a shortage of substitute teachers? Now more than ever, principals have my utmost respect and even sympathy. On top of everything else (hiring a faculty and staff, overseeing academics and discipline, and attending umpteen meetings at central office), now they must supervise several hundred kids and adults, all on edge about the potential virus spread. Most of the principals I know understand my role. If their school has great test scores, or wins a big award, I should put it on the news. But if their school is vandalized, or a teacher gets in trouble, I must report that too. Early on, a few principals hit me with this painful accusation: “You only come here when something bad happens.” Sadly, too often they were right. I pledged to give them positive coverage when something good was going on too. That is still my goal. As you might expect, I get plenty of complaints from parents. They rarely complain about their own children, who are of course, perfect angels. Most of the complaints are about bus drivers, teachers, and principals. I look into each one. Most are the result of poor communication, and when the two sides actually talk, the problem usually resolves itself. The best principals are the ones who understand what I believe to be the three most important parts of their job. I often tell them they should spend 40% of their time on academics, 40% on discipline and 40% on public/parent relations. Yes, that adds up to 120%, but any principal will tell you they put in that extra time. That is especially true for high school principals, who are paid quite well. But who among us wants to unlock the door at 6:00 a.m., be responsible for the safety of hundreds of teenagers in this unstable world, and attend every athletic event, PTA meeting, dance and fundraiser? Folks, they earn their money. Most of them understand they’re the face of their school, and the good ones set the right tone for their campus. One of my favorite principals is at a rural high school. Walking down the hall with him one day, I saw him spot a ninth grader out of dress code. “Boy, you better get that shirt tail in, or I’ll whup your (butt),” he said sternly. He could tell I was a bit startled by his colorful language. “Aw, that’s nothing,” he said. “I grew up with that boy’s daddy. That’s the only kind of talk he understands. And he knows I’m not really gonna whup his (butt). I’d let his daddy handle that.” A relatively new trend is an increase in female high school principals. When I ask superintendents (many whom are also female) about this, they say, “Today’s principals attend many more meetings, and are responsible for far more accountability and record-keeping than in the past. The high school principal job used to be a last stop for male coaches, and other disciplinarians, but now they’re just not interested. And frankly, the female principals are very detail-oriented, and that’s the kind of person we need.” Sadly, all public schools are not created equal. The richer schools benefit from wealthy community members, and many poor schools get much-needed help from the government. But schools “in the middle,” those that fall just short of the poverty level, get very little from any source. And while some students have full access to great arts programs, musical instruments, uniforms, and athletic facilities, others get by on duct tape and hand-me-downs. Having said that, it makes me cringe when I see a politician wearing a thousand-dollar suit, promising to “fix” schools. Truth # 1: He probably didn’t attend public school.

Truth # 2: His children will never attend a public school. Truth # 3: He will never support a funding increase for public schools, because his voter base (mostly older) stopped worrying about them long ago. So, as classes resume, I hope there’s a special place in your heart for our friends who trying to keep school open during an unprecedented time. Last year was tough. This year brings new, equally frightening challenges. After observing school leaders quite closely, especially during the past year, I can say this with certainty: I’d rather report on principals than be one. David Carroll is a Chattanooga TV news anchor, author and radio host. He may be reached him at RadioTV2020@yahoo.com.

Fun by the Numbers

Here’s How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Federal grants to fund studies of coronaviruses at Georgia State

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — A professor at Georgia State University has received federal grants to study two coronaviruses, the school announced Monday. Christopher Basler, director of Georgia State’s Center for Microbial Pathogenesis, will use a $387,534 grant to focus on Middle East respiratory syndrome (MERS) and a $429,000 grant to study SARS-coV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19. MERS has a much higher case fatality rate than SARS-coV-2. However, MERS also spreads less easily between infected and uninfected people.

“The goal of the MERS coronavirus study is to understand how the virus defeats the body’s innate immune response that is designed to provide rapid protection from viral infections,” Basler said. “The findings of this work should help explain why this virus is so deadly.”

The second study Basler will undertake seeks to understand how SARS-coV-2 relies on fats within an infected cell to grow and spread. The hope is that understanding what features of the cell the virus relies on will provide insight into how the virus causes disease and suggest new treatment strategies. Early data from the study indicates the virus relies on cellular pathways that are also of interest to drug makers trying to treat cancer, diabetes and obesity. Both grants are being underwritten by the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

Poll puts Walker at top among potential Republican US Senate candidates

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Herschel Walker is not running for the U.S. Senate, at least for now, but he would be the strongest Republican in the race to unseat Democratic Sen. Raphael Warnock, according to a new poll. Walker, a University of Georgia football icon, trailed Warnock 48% to 46% in a survey of 622 Georgia voters conducted Aug. 4 and Aug. 5 by Public Policy Polling, a North Carolina-based Democratic polling firm.

Walker fared slightly better than former Republican Sen. Kelly Loeffler, who lost her seat to Warnock last January. She trailed Warnock 47% to 44%. Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Gary Black, the only one of the three Republicans who actually has entered the race, trailed Warnock 46% to 38%.

Herschel Walker

Black’s biggest problem, according to the poll, is lack of name recognition. When asked whether they had a favorable or unfavorable opinion of Black, 70% of the respondents said they didn’t know enough about him to give an answer. Walker scored a 41% favorable response to 28% who viewed him unfavorably. Loeffler was viewed unfavorably by 47%, while 28% gave her a favorable rating. A slight plurality of 43% approved Warnock’s job performance, to 42% who disapproved of the job he’s done in the Senate. The poll also asked respondents to rate President Joe Biden and former President Donald Trump. Biden’s job performance got a thumbs down from 48% of the voters surveyed, while 46% approved of his performance. Trump received a favorable rating from 43%, while 48% viewed him unfavorably. On the issue of COVID-19 vaccinations, 55% of respondents said they were fully vaccinated, with 4% saying they were partially vaccinated. Respondents who were not vaccinated but planning to get the vaccine accounted for 11% of those polled, while 18% said they were not planning to be vaccinated. Eleven percent of the respondents said they weren’t sure whether or not they would get the shot. The poll’s margin of error was plus-or-minus 3.9%.

Medical technology company expanding in Georgia

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — A pioneer in robotic-assisted surgery is expanding its presence in Georgia with an investment of more than $500 million that will create about 1,200 jobs, Gov. Brian Kemp announced Aug. 4.

Intuitive will add to the approximately 180 professionals already based in Gwinnett County.

The company, which has been in Peachtree Corners for a decade, plans to grow its campus to include more than 750,000 square feet of manufacturing and engineering operations, state-of-the-art training facilities for surgeons and hospital care teams, and administrative offices.

“With our advanced medical environment, dynamic workforce, pro-business policies, and thriving economy, Intuitive made the right decision in choosing Georgia,” Kemp said.

Headquartered in Sunnyvale, Calif., Intuitive is the manufacturer of the da Vinci robotic-assisted surgical systems, which surgeons worldwide have used in more than 8.5 million procedures.

Growing demand for robotic-assisted technologies spurred the Gwinnett expansion.

“Intuitive needs a highly educated, committed, and diverse workforce, quality infrastructure and the right geography to meet the rising demand for minimally invasive surgical technologies,” Intuitive CEO Gary Guthart said.

“We’ve found that here, and we’re excited to continue to grow in the state.”

Intuitive is expected to open its new campus in phases, with completion by 2024.

State tax collections up slightly in first month of new fiscal year

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — The new state fiscal year began last month with a slight increase in tax collections, the Georgia Department of Revenue reported Friday.

The revenue agency brought in $2.16 billion in taxes in July, up just 0.4% compared to July of last year.

The slight increase resulted from a large hike in sales tax revenue coupled with a somewhat smaller decrease in individual and corporate income taxes.

With Georgia businesses much more active last month than a year ago — when the economic impact of the coronavirus pandemic was more severe — net sales tax revenue in July increased by 17.2% over July 2020.

Individual income tax collections, however, fell by 9.1% last month. While income tax refunds soared by 293.8% in July, that was partially offset by a 246% increase in tax payments.

Corporate income tax receipts also fell in July by 24.9%, driven largely by a 115.5% increase in corporate tax refunds.

Georgia’s motor fuel tax collections rose by 6.4% last month compared to July 2020, reflecting a rebound in car and truck traffic to pre-pandemic levels.

Survey finds health care, economic aid top priority for federal COVID-19 relief money

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Health care and economic assistance should get top priority when it comes to spending $4.8 billion in federal COVID-19 relief Georgia is receiving through the American Rescue Plan (ARP), according to a new poll.

The survey of 1,042 registered Georgia voters commissioned by the Georgia Budget and Policy Institute (GBPI) found that 33.8% rated restoring economic security to Georgians affected by the pandemic as their top priority for the federal money. Health care was next, with 24.1% of respondents rating it as their highest priority.

The poll, released Thursday, was conducted July 21-24 by the University of Georgia’s School of Public Affairs Survey Research Center.

Gov. Brian Kemp has appointed three committees to review applications for the federal funding from state agencies, local governments, businesses and nonprofits. The committees, which began taking applications this week, will focus on three categories of projects: broadband deployment, water and sewer improvements, and projects aimed at offsetting the economic impact of COVID-19.

“As COVID cases continue to rise, Georgia leaders face a unique opportunity to invest in our state’s people and help our communities recover and thrive,” GBPI spokeswoman Caitlin Highland said.

“Although the state currently plans to focus on one-time investments ... polling shows the majority of people want the state to build on these priorities by enacting solutions that leverage the power of our people — through increased support of health care, economic opportunity and education.”

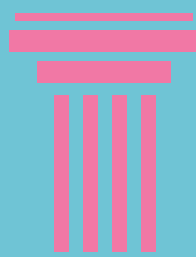

Indeed, 63.7% of those who responded to the poll called for spending Georgia’s allocation of ARP funding on priorities other than broadband, water and sewer projects and economic impact.

A huge majority — 84.1% — called for using the money to restore budget cuts Kemp and the General Assembly imposed during the early months of the pandemic last year. While Georgia ended the last fiscal year June 30 sitting on a large surplus, Kemp has asked most state agency heads not to request spending increases in next year’s budgets. Solid majorities of those voters surveyed supported converting the federal funds into various forms of direct payments to low-income Georgia families. Nearly 70% called for the creation of a state-level Earned Income Tax Credit.

Almost 76% of the respondents supported increased funding for state elementary and secondary schools, with the money dedicated to students from low-income families. In keeping with the respondents’ desire to use the federal money for purposes other than those being focused on by the three committees, 43.1% said the funds should be allocated by the General Assembly through the normal budgeting process. Only 37.5% supported having the governor’s office distribute the federal aid.

‘Bigger than the Super Bowl’

Covington native coaches in Olympic Games

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

Coach in the Olympics – check! A Covington native checked off a personal goal this year. Chris Woods took his coaching talents to the big stage of the 2021 Tokyo Olympics from July 25 – Aug. 8.

Woods is the head track and field coach at his alma mater, Mississippi State University. During the Olympics, he was the personal coach to Marco Arop who was a member of the Canadian track and field Olympic team. This experience was like no other for Woods. “For track and field athletes and coaches the Olympic Games are bigger than going to the Super Bowl,” Woods said. “The difference is, you have the opportunity to go to the Super Bowl every year. The Olympics, you only have one crack at it every four years.” While in Tokyo, Woods had a front row seat to the world’s best athletes competing at the highest level. Not only did he get the opportunity to coach, but he had a few former athletes he coached competing as well.

Former Bulldogs were members of the U.S., Canada, Portugal and Grenada Olympic teams. This is quite an accomplishment, Woods recognized.

Seeing his former student-athletes succeed on any level is his favorite part of coaching.

“For the collegiate student-athletes, the most satisfying thing to watch as a coach is the overall growth of young adults,” Woods said. “For the professional athletes, it is really special to watch someone put his/her all into something and watching them develop into one of the best on the planet as what he/she does. There’s almost 7 billion on earth, and to be in the top-32 (Olympic standard), is a tremendous feat.”

As the head coach of the Bulldogs track and field team, Woods specifically focuses on middle distances. That’s actually how he was presented this opportunity because Arop also runs middle distances, specifically the 800 meters.

Though coaching in the Olympics was a cool experience for Woods, he hasn’t forsaken other aspirations.

For instance, he aims to capture an NCAA Division I National Championship for the Bulldogs. His biggest objective above all else is to help all the student-athletes that he comes in contact with earn their degrees and reach their educational milestones.

Woods recognized the way the Newton County community helped shaped him into the person he is today.

Now, he wants to use his stage as a way to help inspire the next generation of the Covington community.

“I want every young person and young adult in Newton County/Covington that if I can do these things, so can you,” Woods said. “Like many of you, I come from humble beginnings, but if you are confident, educated and pour yourself into your talents, you can do anything you put your mind to doing.”

Lady Tigers set sights on playoffs in 2021

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

At the beginning of every season, teams across the country establish a set of goals. Whether it be obtaining a championship or finishing with a winning record, each team’s set of goals is important to them.

For the Alcovy Lady Tigers, however, they’ve established one simple goal for 2021: make a playoff appearance. And, while others may doubt the likelihood of accomplishing this feat, they have the full faith of their head coach.

“We want to compete every single game,” head coach Miranda Lamb said. “I hope we can make a playoff run. I’ve said it in years past, but I think this is the group that could do it. Overall, we look good.”

The biggest obstacle standing in the way of earning a state playoff spot will be the overall youth of this year’s squad. But, as the season progresses, it could also be an asset.

After not graduating a single player from last year’s team, every player is a year older with another year of experience. That could pay dividends for the Lady Tigers, especially during the early stages

Phillip B. Hubbard | The Covington News

Alcovy head softball coach Miranda Lamb says defense will be key for the Lady Tigers’ success early on, as she expects it might take time for her players’ bats to come to life.

of the season. “We’re going to be young,” Lamb said, “but young means getting that experience early and hopefully it’ll pay off in the future.”

The Lady Tigers have four seniors on this year’s squad and welcome five freshmen to the varsity team.

Another bump in the road is the lack of hitting. Lamb highlighted how it was a slow-go that gradually became more consistent for her team in 2020. With that, the Lady Tigers plan to lean on defense for the first weeks of 2021.

According to Lamb, she has full confidence in the defensive play of her players in their respective position. That hasn’t been the case in years past.

Normally, Lamb feels she is one or two players shy of a complete attack on the field. For this year, though, Lamb said that she’s noticed a maturity and growth in each of her players as a result of receiving substantial playing time a year ago.

All of their experience, albeit limited, should help the Lady Tigers reach their ultimate of earning a state playoff berth. In fact, Lamb wholeheartedly believes that, once her team earns their inaugural appearance, the players will be more motivated to get there for future years.

“I think once we’re there, we’ll go back-to-back-to-back, because they’ll realize what it takes to get [to the playoffs],” Lamb said. “Then, they’ll realize how awesome it feels to be there.”

The Covington News

Taking spinach to another level

Metro Creative Service

Spinach doesn't have to be the dull side item one might imagine. Use this recipe to "spice" things up.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Lighter fare is in season every summer. Salads may dominate menus, while vegetable-rich side dishes can dress up barbecues, brunches or outdoor buffet meals.

Spinach not only packs a nutritional punch, it can add flavor to any dish. According to Judy Joo, a French-trained Korean American chef and author of "Judy Joo's Korean Soul Food" (White Lion Publishing), mature spinach has a heartier, meatier texture than its baby variety. Mature spinach is the star of the show in this recipe for "Seasoned Spinach," a nutritious side dish with a delicious dressing.

Seasoned Spinach

Serves 4 as a side dish

Ingredients:

1 pound mature spinach with stem and roots

Sea salt
Dressing
2 tablespoons roasted sesame oil
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon spring onion, finely chopped
1 teaspoon roasted sesame seeds, crushed
1 teaspoon sagwa-shikcho (Korean apple vinegar)
1 teaspoon brown sugar
1 garlic clove, grated or finely chopped
Black pepper, freshly ground

Directions:
Fill a large saucepan with water, salt well and bring to a boil. In a large bowl, prepare an ice bath.

Rinse the spinach with cold water to remove any dirt, especially around the roots. Remove any hairs from the roots. Cut the spinach into 1 3/4-inch-long pieces, keeping the purple roots intact. Split the roots in half horizontally and keep separately.

In a medium bowl, combine the dressing ingredients and stir until the sugar has dissolved. Set aside.

Blanch the spinach in two separate batches. In the boiling salt water, blanch the spinach stems with leaves until just wilted, about 1 minute, remove the spinach from the water and plunge in the ice bath. Repeat with the spinach stems with roots, but cook for 1 to 2 minutes before plunging into the ice bath. Remove from the ice bath, drain well and gently squeeze out any excess water.

Gently loosen the clumps of spinach with your fingers and transfer to a bowl. Toss well with the dressing. Cover and chill for about an hour to allow the flavors to mellow before serving.

Grilled ribeye steaks pair perfectly with Laurie McNamara's recipe for baked beans.

Serve steak alongside a backyard barbecue staple

news@covnews.com

A night of al fresco dining next to a grill in the backyard can be a great way to spend an evening. Nearly any type of food can be grilled, and steaks tend to be especially good when cooked over an open flame.

The following recipe for "Grilled Ribeye Steaks with Mushroom-Shallot Butter" from Laurie McNamara's "Simple Scratch" (Avery) is sure to please, especially when coupled with McNamara's recipe for "Baked Beans," a must-have staple for any backyard barbecue.

Grilled Ribeye Steaks with Mushroom-Shallot Butter

Serves 4 to 6

Ingredients:

8 tablespoons (1 stick) plus 3 tablespoons unsalted butter, at room temperature
1/2 cup sliced shallot
1 heaping cup sliced cremini mushrooms
2 large cloves garlic, minced
1 teaspoon coarsely chopped fresh thyme leaves
1/4 teaspoon kosher salt, plus more as needed

1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper, plus more as needed
4 to 6 steaks (such as ribeye, New York strip or porterhouse)

Directions:

Melt 1 tablespoon of the butter in a medium skillet over medium-low heat. Add the shallot and cook until golden and slightly crispy, 7 to 8 minutes. Use a slotted spoon to transfer the shallot to a clean plate. In the same skillet, melt 2 tablespoons of butter, then add the mushrooms, garlic, thyme, salt, and pepper. Stir and cook until the mushrooms are softened, about 5 minutes. Transfer to the plate with the shallot and let cool.

In a small bowl, use a rubber spatula to blend the remaining 8 tablespoons of butter with the cooled mushroom mixture until combined.

Place the butter in the center of a piece of parchment paper.

Bring the edges together and press with your fingers to form the butter into a log. Roll and twist the ends before popping the butter into the refrigerator for at least 20 to 30 minutes.

Set the steaks on the counter for 30 minutes to bring them up to room temperature. Meanwhile, preheat a grill or grill pan to medium-high or about 400 degrees. Season both sides of the steaks with 2 pinches of salt and a pinch of pepper.

Grill each steak for 6 to 8 minutes per side, depending on the thickness and the desired doneness. Tent with aluminum foil and let rest for 5 minutes.

Slice the mushroom butter into coins and top each of the steaks with two coins before serving.

Baked Beans

Serves 10

Ingredients:

2 15-ounce cans navy beans, drained and rinsed
4 slices applewood- or pecan wood-smoked bacon, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 cup diced yellow onion
1 1/2 cups ketchup
1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons unsulphured molasses
1/2 cup packed dark brown sugar
1 1/4 teaspoons ground mustard
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon kosher salt

Directions:

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees.

Combine the bacon and onion in a medium Dutch oven. Slowly cook over medium heat until the onion is tender and the bacon is cooked, 8 to 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, in a medium bowl, whisk together the ketchup, molasses, sugar, ground mustard, ground cloves, and 1 cup water to combine. Add the cooked beans and pour the mixture into the pot with the bacon and onion. Stir, cover and bake for 1 hour, stirring every 20 minutes.

Add the salt and stir. Uncover and let sit for 15 to 20 minutes before serving.

Lighten up meals with savory salads

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Some occasions call for a light dish, and such occasions tend to be more common in warm weather. Gone are the days of heavy, stick-to-your-ribs meals, and in their places are fresh, light and easy meals.

Salad is more than just lettuce and other greens, and that's notable in this recipe for "Salmon, Asparagus and Orzo Salad With Lemon-Dill Vinaigrette," courtesy of "Cooking Light Dinner's Ready" (Oxmoor House) by the Cooking Light Kitchens.

Salmon, Asparagus and Orzo Salad with Lemon-Dill Vinaigrette

6 servings

Ingredients:

6 cups water
1 pound asparagus, trimmed and cut into 3-inch pieces

Metro Creative Service

Salad can be more than just lettuce and other greens, and that's notable in this recipe.

1 cup uncooked orzo
1 (1 1/4-pound) skinless salmon fillet
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
Cooking spray
1/4 cup thinly sliced red onion
1/3 cup Lemon-Dill Vinaigrette

Directions:
Preheat broiler. Bring water to a boil in a large saucepan. Add asparagus; cook

3 minutes, or until crisp-tender. Remove asparagus from water with tongs or a slotted spoon, reserving water in a pan. Plunge asparagus into ice water; drain the ice water and set asparagus aside.

Return reserved water to a boil. Add orzo, and cook according to package directions, omitting salt and fat.

While orzo cooks, sprinkle fillet evenly with salt and pepper. Place fish on a foil-lined broiler pan coated with cooking spray. Broil 5 minutes, or until desired degree of doneness. Using 2 forks, break fish into large chunks. Combine fish, orzo, asparagus, onion, and Lemon-Dill Vinaigrette in a large bowl; toss gently to coat.

Lemon-Dill Vinaigrette

Yields 1/3 cup

Ingredients:

1/3 cup crumbled feta cheese
1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 teaspoons extra-virgin olive oil
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Directions:

Combine all ingredients in a small bowl, stirring well with a whisk.

Dax Shepard and Kristen Bell host "Family Game Fight!," premiering Sunday on NBC.

Kristen Bell and Dax Shepard stage a 'Family Game Fight!'

Kristen Bell and Dax Shepard enjoy playing games so much, they're bringing them into a new series.

Known for engaging in spirited contests on Ellen DeGeneres' syndicated talk show, the fellow-actor spouses go bigger with their competitive spirit as NBC's "Family Game Fight!" premieres Sunday, Aug. 8 (then settles into its regular slot Wednesday, Aug. 11). Not only hosts and (with DeGeneres, among others) executive producers of the program, Bell and Shepard assist their respective teams — otherwise consisting of four close acquaintances, be they relatives, friends, co-workers, etc. — as the squads vie to win $100,000.

"I would describe it as 'wild,'" Bell reflects ... with Shepard adding, "Anytime they tell you to bring a change of clothes to rehearsal, you know what you're going to get." The couple has partnered on such projects as the movies "Hit and Run" and "CHIPS" and the animated AMC+ series "Ultra City Smiths," and Bell maintains, "We love going to work together and playing off of one another. And if people seem to enjoy it, we're happy to do it."

"Family Game Fight!" comes naturally to the duo. "We love to watch fun game shows with our kids," says mother-of-two Bell, "so we thought, 'Why not venture into this category?'" Shepard cites a game he and Bell played on DeGeneres' show as "the apex of our interaction. It was the most frustrating three minutes for us ever. And it was in public." Indeed, Bell claims she and Shepard are "big fans of public embarrassment. They're the best kinds of jokes."

Those who play "Family Game Fight!" seem destined for similar feelings, from how the couple describes the contests. "Kristen is blindfolded," Shepard reports, "and I'm dipping my lips in random food products, then kissing her." Bell has to guess which food it is, and she declares the games "hopefully not too messy, but probably messy. For 'Banana Hammocks,' we put on giant banana costumes and try to catapult bananas from our knee area into the other team's basket." Deadpans Shepard, "Basically, we're clearing space on our shelf for a Nobel Prize."

Also reprising her role as the voice of "Gossip Girl" in the current HBO Max reboot, Bell says she and Shepard are "too competitive and too fun-loving to just want to sit on the sidelines" for "Family Game Fight!," noting that trying to win money for their teams is "all the more reason to play to the best of our ability." The co-host of the popular "Armchair Expert" podcast, "Parenthood" alum Shepard reveals that he and Bell "have a game night at least once a month. We just figured out how to get NBC to pay for it!"

An heiress steps into the kitchen in 'Cooking With Paris'

Paris Hilton isn't exactly an ace in the kitchen. She'll be the first to admit that, but she also doesn't mind bringing viewers along on her journey to cooking competence in a series currently streaming on Netflix.

In "Cooking With Paris," the socialite, heiress, businesswoman and media personality welcomes you into her kitchen as she learns how to slice, dice, sauté and sear. She's joined by celebrity friends, who engage in friendly banter with the host as she showcases her burgeoning culinary skills, her glamorous kitchen wardrobe and her formidable party-throwing talents.

The idea for the series came about from a video that Hilton posted to YouTube last year showing her making her "Paris Lasagna," which has garnered more than 5 million views since its debut.

"It was just a fun video that I filmed at home during quarantine," explains Hilton, who is also an executive producer here, "where I didn't take anything too seriously and I had no idea that it would take off like that. I started getting calls about putting together the show and the rest is history. ..."

"I learned to cook so many things that I've never cooked before," she continues.

"It was a lot of fun to learn all of these new skills, try new recipes and to bond with my friends."

In the episodes, Hilton tackles relatively simple items such as frittatas, cannolis and even vegan fries, helped by guests including singer Demi Lovato, TV personality Kim Kardashian and rapper Saweetie. And while she's not exactly Julia Child, she does appear to have some kitchen smarts, which she says she learned from her mother growing up. She also dresses to the nines, which in some cases has resulted in ruined clothing.

But this show isn't about education so much as entertainment. Hilton had fun filming the episodes with her friends and she hopes her experiences resonate with viewers.

"With everything that's happened in the world in the past year and a half, people want to be able to laugh and smile and watch something that makes them feel good and also learn," she says. "I think a lot of people have been cooking at home during this time and love making new things. It's such a fun experience to invite someone over and cook and bond with them. I hope that the show also inspires others to invite their friends over to cook and enjoy their company."

OF 'THE WINE SHOW'
ON SUNDANCETV, ACORN TV AND AMC+

Did you spend all of Season 3 in Portugal?

Yeah ... Matthew Goode and I did a road trip where we just go from – sounds like a tough call, doesn't it? – vineyard to vineyard and lunch to lunch, talking with winemakers, tasting their wares, finding out where they're from, what excites them, what gets them going in the morning.

So we did that for about two or three weeks and then Matthew had to go off and do another job, so then we pulled in Dominic

West to do the famous tasting – well, famous to us anyway – week, which is where we sit down and we just taste wine all week. And we generally do about 32 bottles of wine a day, tasting. Yeah, you have to have a strong live and a strong constitution. And this is the second season I've done so I'm now very wary that when I come home, I don't even look at a bottle of wine for maybe four or five months.

Do your taste buds get desensitized?

Not so much taste buds get desensitized but you're just like a sponge just soaked in wine.

Dominic West and I sort of became Dionysus one and two when we were shooting those scenes.

One of the things we don't do, for example, we're not good at spitting on camera because we don't think it's terribly attractive so we sip. And because this is my second season having done it, I'm now very wary – literally a tiny sip on each glass. Dominic, not quite, because this is his first run 'round the block and just didn't take my hint. I told him over and over, "Don't. Take it easy on the wine." Doesn't listen to a word I say.

tonight's PICKS

Whitney Houston

Riverdale

8 p.m. on WUPA

All heck broke loose in last March's midseason finale, as Riverdale's villainous Hiram Lodge (Mark Consuelos) unleashed chaos on the community after his mining operation inadvertently released several dangerous criminals from the local prison. Elsewhere, Reggie Mantle (Charles Melton) set fire to the timberlands after Cheryl Blossom (Madelaine Petsch) defied Hiram in a business deal. Now, as this dark soap returns to finish Season 5, Jughead (Cole Sprouse) is missing, and someone with a gun may pose a deadly threat to Archie (K.J. Apa).

The Challenge

8 p.m. on MTV

The groundbreaking show credited by many with creating the reality competition genre returns for its 37th season comprising 19 action-packed episodes. For the first time, the season will feature 17 international players alongside an equal number of Americans. As play begins on the picturesque Mediterranean coast of Croatia, elite U.S. Agents team up with an assortment of International Operatives for spy games that could net them a share of the million-dollar winning team jackpot. T.J. Lavin is the host.

Superstar

10 p.m. on WSB

An offshoot of ABC News' long-running primetime flagship program "20/20," this new limited docuseries profiles major celebrities who shaped American culture. Each one-hour episode will spotlight a different superstar, starting with tonight's premiere devoted to Whitney Houston, who died in 2012. In addition to never-before-broadcast personal videos of Houston, the episode also includes archival interviews of the singer and her ex-husband, Bobby Brown, plus new chats with Brandy, Chaka Khan, Bebe Winans and Darlene Love.

Andy Samberg

Brooklyn Nine-Nine

8 p.m. on WXIA
The Emmy-winning cult comedy hit returns for its eighth and final season, which will see loose-cannon Detective Jake Peralta (Golden Globe winner Andy Samberg) and his colleagues of New York's 99th Precinct trying to navigate a strange new world for police personnel, especially in the aftermath of a pandemic. Not exactly standard comedy fodder, but the show's writers seem up to the task. Andre Braugher, Joe Lo Truglio, Terry Crews, Melissa Fumero and Stephanie Beatriz are among the other returning regulars.

Walker

8 p.m. on WUPA
Coming off a 15-season run on "Supernatural," Jared Padalecki proved he's got the star power to go it alone as a TV leading man in this reimagining of an old Chuck Norris action series. This makeover boldly emphasizes Walker's role as a family man more than a villain-kicking lawman, but the results clicked resoundingly with the actor's fan base. Season 1 ends tonight with the finale "Drive," in which Walker receives some shocking news that leaves his world shattered.

grown-ish

8 p.m. on FREE
Zoey (Yara Shahidi) and her crew hit the Los Angeles streets to raise their voice in support of racial justice and equality in the new episode "Put Your Hands Where My Eyes Could See." Meanwhile, Nomi (Emily Arlook) confronts her own feelings of "white fragility," while Ana and Javi's (Fracia Raisa, Henri Esteve) relationship reaches the boiling point.

Mountain Men

8 p.m. on HIST
Josh Kirk watches as a bison gives birth to the first calf of spring in the season finale "Mountain Strong." Meanwhile, brothers Kidd and Harry Youren transport a mule downriver in their boat through some raging rapids.

Joanna and Billy (Kristin Kreuk, Peter Mooney) both are completely blindsided when Joanna becomes the target of a mysterious criminal investigation in the new episode "From Out the Gloomy Rack." Meanwhile, Luna (Star Slade) races back to Millwood to aid her sister, and Owen (Meegwan Fairbrother) helps Kip (guest star Skye Pelletier), who is wrestling with a personal problem. As Taylor (Anwen O'Driscoll) continues her investigation, she makes a shocking discovery.

This new Disney original TV movie from Indian director Manjari Makijani stars Avantika Vandanapu as Rhea Kumar, a bubbly Indian-American teenager who discovers her previously untapped creative side through the unique world of DJ culture. It isn't long before Rhea discovers she has a passion — and a real gift — for creating mixes that combine the aural textures of her Indian heritage with the contemporary world around her. Meera Syal, Michela Luci, Kerri Medders and Anna Cathcart also star.

After she completes a major renovation on a home, beautiful interior decorator Ava finds herself developing a (literally) mad obsession with the handsome owner of the residence. It's not long before she starts fantasizing about a happily-ever-after with Mr. Right in this dream home she herself created for them. That means her next makeover will involve getting rid of the inconvenient family who currently shares the home with her future soulmate. Kelcie Stranahan, Matthew Pohlkamp, Ashlynn Judy and Pauline Egan star in this 2021 thriller.

What's Available NOW On

“Marvel Studios’ ‘What If ...?’ ” (Aug. 11)

Fans of the Marvel Cinematic Universe will want to check out this animated series that reimagines famous events from films in the MCU, thus creating a multiverse of infinite possibilities. Among the characters appearing are Peggy Carter, T’Challa, Doctor Strange, Killmonger and Thor. (ORIGINAL)

“Aquamarine” (Aug. 11)

Alice Hoffman’s 2006 novel of the same name served as the basis for director Elizabeth Allen’s (“Ramona and Beezus,” “Carwful What You Wish for”) 2006 family comedy about two Florida teens (Emma Roberts, JoJo Levesque) who find a mermaid (Sara Paxton) in their beach club’s swimming pool following a storm. Jake McDorman, Arielle Kebbel and Claudia Karvan also star.

“Mrs. Doubtfire” (Available now)

As if the sight of Robin Williams in a dress, affecting a Scottish-accented falsetto weren’t funny enough, this 1993 comedy gives him a few more outlets — making his character a cartoon voice-over artist, for example. Williams plays a newly single dad who finds a unique way to move back in with his beloved kids: as their new nanny, Mrs. Doubtfire. Sally Field also stars.

“The Sandlot” (Available now)

Scotty Smalls (Tom Guiry) desperately wants to fit in with the other boys in his new neighborhood, but one thing stands in his way: They all play baseball, and he knows nothing about the sport. When the local star player (Mike Vitar) takes Scotty under his wing, Scotty learns the game and builds valuable friendships. This 1993 heartwarming story also stars Patrick Renna.

The Zoo: San Diego 8 p.m. on ANPL
A hippo named Funani who welcomes an adorable addition to the family is just one of the sweet stories in a new episode called “Baby Miracles.” Meanwhile a team travels to Kenya to share their innovative milk formula for elephant calves. Another segment highlights an orphaned koala joey named Omeo.

Say Yes to the Dress 8 p.m. on TLC
In the new episode “I’m Not Crying, You’re Crying,” Alex looks for a black gown that would please both Morticia Adams and Lucille Ball, while bride-to-be Prashanthi needs a dress ASAP, but her appointment is in trouble when her future brother-in-law asks to see a topless dress.

Sealed With a Kiss: Wedding March 6 9 p.m. on HALL
Jack Wagner and Josie Bissett reprise their fan-favorite roles as engaged inn owners Mick Turner and Olivia Pershing in this final installment of the “Wedding March” TV movie franchise. As this 2021 romance opens, the pair are readying their Willow Lake Inn for the intimate nuptial celebration of Curt and Autumn (Nathan Witte, Caitlin Stryker), a refreshingly down-to-earth younger couple. Things start to spiral out of control, though, when a film crew leaks news of the wedding while interviewing Curt, a rising actor, about his upcoming movie.

All Creatures Great and Small: Between the Pages

7:30 p.m. on WGTV

This new 90-minute behind-the-scenes documentary takes fans inside the production of the hit period drama “All Creatures Great and Small on Masterpiece,” which is scheduled to return for Season 2 in early 2022. Such cast members including Nicholas Ralph, Samuel West, Callum Woodhouse and Anna Madeley reflect on their series roles and speculate on the new season.

Chesapeake Shores

8 p.m. on HALL

After an extended hiatus, the hit romantic drama returns for Season 5 with a new showrunner at the reins: TV veteran Phoebe Sutton, an Emmy winner for his work on “Cheers.” Robert Buckley (“iZombie”) joins the cast as Evan McKenzie, a successful young entrepreneur who brings a new development project into the community. That may put him at odds with Abby O’Brien (Meghan Ory), now a business partner of her father, Mick (Treat Williams).

Wellington Paranormal

9 p.m. on WUPA

Officers Minogue and O’Leary (Mike Minogue, Karen O’Leary) definitely are not in for a day at the beach when an investigation takes them to the ocean, accompanied by Sergeant Maaka (Maaka Pohatu). The trio are making this trip to get to the bottom of reports that as many as 10 anglers have disappeared under mysterious circumstances from around Wellington Harbour.

Invisible Monsters: Serial Killers in America

9 p.m. on A&E

This new three-part docuseries — airing nightly through Tuesday — interweaves the stories of five infamous serial killers — Ted Bundy, John Wayne Gacy, Jeffrey Dahmer, the Green River Killer and BTK — to explore the perfect storm that was unfolding in American culture, allowing all five of these murderers to wreak terror concurrently over the same 20-year span.

tonight's PICKS

Abigail Herlinger

Bachelor in Paradise

8 p.m. on WSB
Probably because a new season of this popular "Bachelor" spinoff last aired in summer 2019, Season 7 — which is set at a resort in Mexico — already has attracted even more attention than usual, as well as attendant spoilers. Early reports suggest that as many as 32 contestants will appear in this season. Among the featured couples are Noah Erb and Abigail Herlinger, Brendan Morais and Natasha Parker, Tammy Ly and Thomas Jacobs, Demi Burnett and Kenny Braasch, and Ivan Hall and Jessenia Cruz.

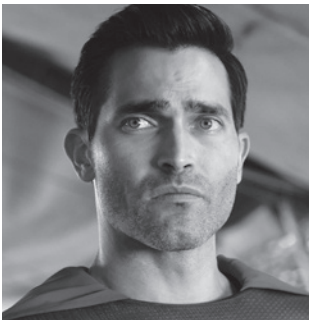

The Republic of Sarah

9 p.m. on WUPA
When unseasonably warm weather quickly melts the snow from the recent blizzard, Greylock faces the threat of massive flooding in the new episode "From Simple Sources." Realizing the community could be completely underwater in a matter of hours, Sarah (Stella Baker) is forced to ask for help from Paul (guest star Xander Berkeley), the last person she wants to rely on. Meanwhile, Bella and Tyler (Landry Bender, Forrest Goodluck) take a big step in their relationship, and Grover's (Ian Duff) therapist urges him to embrace what makes him happy.

Ben & Jerry's Clash of the Cones

9 p.m. on FOOD
A specially constructed ice cream lab on the grounds of the Ben & Jerry's factory in Vermont is the setting for this new culinary competition, in which host Molly Yeh challenges six ice cream masters from across the country to create flavors inspired by a designated celebrity or pop culture icon. When their concoctions are ready, the competitors let the public pick their favorite flavor, with the winner receiving immunity from elimination. In the premiere, Kevin Bacon invites them to create a flavor in his name that incorporates up to six ingredients.

tonight's PICKS

Tyler Hoechlin

Fantasy Island
9 p.m. on WAGA
Daphne and Zev (guest stars Odette and Dave Annable), two guests whose marriage has grown stale, come to the island in search of the ultimate adventure together in the new episode “His and Hers; The Heartbreak Hotel.” In another story, widower Brent (guest star Francois Chau), trapped in a grief-stricken slumber for 35 years, must decide whether he’s ready to confront his loss in an awake state. Roselyn Sanchez and Ki-ara Barnes star; the guest cast also includes John Gabriel Rodriguez and Michelle Cortés.

Superman & Lois
9 p.m. on WUPA
Lois (Elizabeth Tulloch) confronts the lethal Leslie Larr (guest star Stacey Farber), while Clark’s (Tyler Hoechlin) worst nightmare comes to life in the Season 1 finale “Last Sons of Krypton.” Meanwhile, Lana, Kyle and Sarah (Emmanuelle Chriqui, Erik Valdez, Inde Navarrette) agree to stay in Smallville to help General Lane (Dylan Walsh). Jordan Elsass, Alex Garfin, Wolé Parks and Adam Rayner also star in this episode, which was directed by Tom Cavanagh (“The Flash”).

Motherland: Fort Salem
10 p.m. on FREE
Suspicion and distrust in Alden begin to mount as Abigail and Tally (Ashley Nicole Williams, Jessica Sutton) prepare to put pressure on those in positions of authority to make some important changes in a new episode called “Mother of All, Mother of None.”

Body Cam
10 p.m. on ID
In Colorado, an empathetic officer is able to talk a despondent military vet out of committing suicide in the new episode “Crisis.” Meanwhile, in Georgia, a woman gives birth in the middle of a car crash, but afterwards, no one is able to find the baby. Elsewhere, in Ohio, an attempted break-in leads to a van hijacking and a dangerous, high-speed car chase.

'The Crown' shares ... well, the crown for most Primetime Emmy bids

Q: Which show got the most Emmy nominations this year? – Liz Pratt, via e-mail

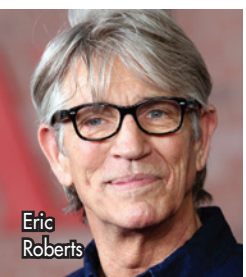

A: "The Crown" (Netflix) and "The Mandalorian" (Disney+) share the position of being the most-nominated program, with those shows scoring 24 Primetime Emmy bids each.

Another Disney+ series, "WandaVision," follows those with 23. The 73rd annual honors for excellence in television will be handed out Sunday, Sept. 19, in a ceremony to be broadcast by CBS and streamed by Paramount+; Cedric the Entertainer will serve as host, and the plan is for there to be a limited on-site audience on hand at Los Angeles' Microsoft Theater.

Q: It's been interesting to see Eric Roberts keep popping up in the TV-movies Vivica A. Fox makes for Lifetime and LMN. Why does he do them? – Al Burke, Columbus, Ohio

A: Without being able to jump into his head and get a direct answer, we'd surmise that he enjoys the juicy roles the films typically give him ... plus, he clearly likes being part of the creative "family" that Fox has built for the cable dramas she frequently produces and stars in, including the recent "Keeping Up With the Joneses" trilogy. She told us not long ago that she appreciates being to call upon colleagues she can count on to deliver time and again, and she evidently counts Roberts among them.
