SCCS show improvement on most recent CCRPI score

By STEPHEN MILLIGAN
The Walton Tribune

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. – The Georgia Department of Education (GaDOE) released the indicators known as the College and Career Ready Performance Index (CCRPI) reports that rate Georgia's public schools. The results provide stakeholders in Georgia's public schools with data points to analyze and take stock of both strengths and needed areas of growth within the schools.

The scores received by Social Circle City Schools (SCCS) show a large improvement at the elementary school level, where the school outperformed the state in three of the four categories, even scoring a "100" in the Progress category, indicating large growth in English language arts and mathematics.

Also of note, Social Circle High School (SCHS) outperformed the state graduation rate component, scoring an overall rate of 95.3 percent compared to the State of Georgia's graduation rate of 84.9 percent. Social Circle Middle School (SCMS) scored its highest result in the Readiness and Progress categories.

"Social Circle City Schools is dedicated to preparing our students for the real world," said SCCS superintendent Dr. Carrie Booher. "The data we receive from the state is extremely valuable for us to review and utilize to inform our school processes. We are confident that our district and school leaders are responding to the areas of weakness while finding ways to replicate our strengths throughout our system. The teachers and staff in Social Circle continue to work to the highest standard for our students. We will continue our mission to empower our students with an excellent and equitable education."

LOCAL

Musulyn's to host America's Best Restaurants this month

STAFF REPORT
news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. – Local restaurant Musulyn's International Restaurant will be hosting a visit from America's Best Restaurants (ABR) later this month. America's Best Restaurants, a national media and marketing company focusing on bringing attention to local, independently-owned restaurants, will bring its ABR Roadshow to the restaurant on Jan. 10th. Popular dishes will be highlighted, along with an extensive on-camera interview with owner Carmenia Morgan-Tyrus about the restaurant's special place in the community. The episode will be aired extensively on social media channels at a later date. Morgan-Tyrus began her career in the nursing field, and learned to cook from her sister. They had a dream to open their own restaurant, but unfortunately her sister, Musulyn, passed away before the dream could be realized. "I promised her I would continue the journey," Morgan-Tyrus said. "Here I am. I started off with catering and now I have my own storefront." The storefront opened just last year. Morgan-Tyrus, who emigrated in the 1980s from Liberia, West Africa, cooks all kinds of international cuisine but with a focus on her heritage, African food. Items that may be showcased on the episode include the egg rolls, filled with curry beef, seafood, or collard greens; homemade non-alcoholic ginger beer; Egusi and Fufu, a favorite African stew made with different meats; and Liberian jollof rice, which is a blend of rice with tomatoes, spices, and peppers. America's Best Restaurants will be filming on location on Wednesday Jan. 10 from 2-5 p.m. EST. The restaurant's finished episode premiere date will be announced on their Facebook page and will be featured on America's Best Restaurants' website. Morgan-Tyrus is hopeful the episode showcasing her unique cuisine will help introduce the community to what she has to offer. "When you tell the story about your food, I think you sell the food," Morgan-Tyrus said "Of course, when you taste the food, definitely you want to come back for more. The food will sell itself but also I would love to introduce the food to [people]."

Collins, Williamson criticize Colorado ruling

By CHRIS BRIDGES
The Walton Tribune

Congressman Mike Collins (R-Jackson) was clear where he stands on Tuesday’s ruling by the Colorado Supreme Court keeping former President Donald Trump off the state’s ballot in 2024.

“The news that Colorado’s Supreme Court has barred former President Trump from the state’s ballot in 2024 is yet another deplorable demonstration that Democrats will do anything to prevent a fair fight at the ballot box,” Collins said. “They’re set on interfering with an election they’re afraid of losing.”

The Colorado Supreme Court ruled 4-3 that former President Trump cannot appear on the March 2024 Colorado Republican presidential primary. It also said write-ins for him cannot be counted. The majority opinion is 132 pages and the dissent is 25 pages, according to Ballot Access News.

The case is all but certain to go before the U.S. Supreme Court.

State Rep. Bruce Williamson, who represents Monroe at the State House, was also unhappy with the decision.

“The Colorado Supreme Court ruling removing a political candidate who has not been convicted of any crime, is terrible,” Williamson told The Walton Tribune. “If sustained, it would weaponize state courts to the detriment of our Democratic Republic. Regardless of whichever party has majority control in any of our 50 states, it is a bad idea. I hope the U.S. Supreme Court rules unanimously against it.”

The Colorado Court stayed its own opinion until Jan. 4, probably because it expects Trump to file an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. Assuming Trump does appeal, and the U.S. Supreme Court takes the case, that will be the first ballot access case the court has accepted since it heard State Board of Elections v. Lopez-Torres, which was heard in 2008 and concerned primary ballot access in New York for candidates for delegate to party judicial nominating conventions. In that case the U.S. Supreme Court ruled against the candidate and in favor of the state.

Overshadowed by the Colorado ruling was that on the same day the state of North Carolina officials votes to allow Trump on its 2024 ballot.

All other motions to keep the former president off the ballot in various states have failed.

Another recent challenge in Arizona failed to keep Trump off its ballot. The former president will be on Georgia’s GOP presidential primary ballot in March 2024.

Within a day of Colorado’s ruling, Trump said he would appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Republican candidates approved to be on the Colorado ballot include Ryan Binkley, Chris Christie, Ron DeSantis, Nikki Haley, Asa Hutchinson, Vivek Ramaswamy and Rachel Hannah “Mohawk” Swift.

Colorado will also feature eight candidates on the Democratic primary ballot for president including Joe Biden, Gabriel Cornejo, Franki Lozada, Stephen P. Lyons, Jason Michael Palmer, Armando “Mando” Perez-Serrato, Dean Phillips and Marianne Williamson.

Some election experts have expressed surprise by the ruling in Colorado as Trump has not been convicted of any crime.

In a split ruling, the Colorado high court ruled there was “clear and convincing evidence that President Trump engaged in insurrection.”

“A majority of the court holds that Trump is disqualified from holding the office of president under Section 3 of the 14th Amendment,” it concluded.

Section 3 disqualifies from federal office people who engage in “insurrection or rebellion” against the Constitution.

It dates from the post-Civil War era and was an attempt to stop people who supported southern states leaving the Union from returning to government posts.

This is the first time Section 3 has been used to disqualify a presidential candidate.

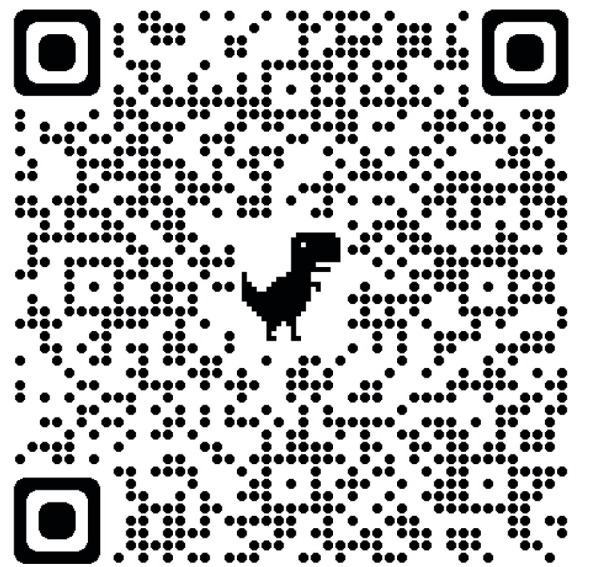

It was a split ruling, 4-3, meaning three judges on the court believe there is no legal basis to exclude Mr. Trump from the ballot.

The lengthy 213-page ruling said Trump’s actions in the build-up to Jan. 6 did constitute insurrection.

His lawyers had argued in Colorado that he should not be disqualified because he did not bear responsibility for the riot.

nents, Social Circle Primary and Elementary School Principal Dr. Maria Hargrove said, “These data indicators provide evidence that we are moving in the right direction. Our focus on literacy from primary school through fifth grade is a major reason for the success we are seeing. I am extremely proud of our students and staff who work hard to make our school the best it can be.”

Under the federally mandated Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), each U.S. state is required to have a “statewide accountability system” that provides information on how well schools are performing. The CCRPI meets that requirement in Georgia. ESSA earned bi-partisan approval in 2015. States were freed from their No Child Left Behind (NCLB) waiver agreements and are responsible for developing state plans to support education. ESSA significantly scaled back the authority of the Secretary of Education and the U.S. Department of Education.

Though ESSA gave states additional authority and flexibility over their education system, wholesale flexibility was not granted, and statutory requirements vary in specificity from issue to issue. Georgia has sought maximum flexibility while creating a cohesive and aligned plan that is responsive to stakeholder feedback and supports the system’s vision of offering a holistic education to each and every child in the state.

- Content Mastery addresses whether students are achieving at the level necessary to be prepared for the next grade, college, or career. This component includes achievement scores in English Language Arts, Mathematics, Science, and Social Studies on Georgia Milestones and Georgia Alternate Assessment 2.0.
- Progress measures how much growth students demonstrate in English Language Arts and Mathematics and how well English learners are progressing towards English language proficiency. The English Language Arts and Mathematics indicators utilize Student Growth Percentiles (SGPs) to measure how much growth students demonstrated relative to academically-similar students.
- English Language Proficiency measures whether students are improving within a performance band or moving up to another performance band, thus moving towards English language proficiency.
- Closing Gaps sets the expectation that all students and all student subgroups make improvements in achievement rates.

This component is based on CCRPI improvement targets for academic achievement, which are represented by improvement flags, and it provides an opportunity for schools to demonstrate the progress made in improving student performance among all student subgroups.

- Readiness measures whether students are participating in activities preparing them for and demonstrating readiness for the next level, college, or career. The indicators for elementary and middle schools include at or above grade-level reading, student attendance, and beyond the core.
- High school indicators include at or above grade-level reading, student attendance, accelerated enrollment, pathway completion, and college and career readiness.
- Graduation Rate measures whether students graduate from high school with a regular diploma in four or five years. This component includes the four- and five-year adjusted cohort graduation rates and only applies to high schools.

Biden grants clemency to two Georgians imprisoned for drug offenses

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA - President Joe Biden granted clemency Friday to two Georgians incarcerated on cocaine charges, part of a group of 11 Biden said are serving “unduly long” sentences for non-violent drug offenses. The two Georgians to be released early are Anthony Ewing of Union City and Darryl Allen Winkfield of Augusta. Ewing was convicted of conspiracy to distribute cocaine and crack cocaine and sentenced to 20 years in prison. Winkfield was convicted of possession of cocaine and crack cocaine with intent to distribute and three counts of distributing cocaine hydrochloride - a local anesthetic - and sentenced to a life term. Biden commuted both sentences to expire on April 20, 2024. In a prepared statement, Biden said all 11 people receiving clemency would have been eligible for significantly lower sentences if they were charged with the same offenses today. “I have exercised my clemency power more than any recent predecessor has at this point in their presidency,” Biden said. “And while today’s announcement marks important progress, my administration will continue to review clemency petitions and deliver reforms that advance equal justice, address racial disparities, strengthen public safety, and enhance the wellbeing of all Americans.” Biden also issued a proclamation Friday pardoning those convicted of possession and use of marijuana under federal and District of Columbia law. He urged governors to do the same for those convicted of the same offenses under state law.

Raffensperger renews call to end general election runoffs

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA - Georgia Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger has renewed his call for the General Assembly to end general election runoffs in the Peach State. In a statement released last week, Raffensperger said getting rid of runoffs following the November elections would give Georgians a holiday-season pause from politics. “Next year, there will be a contentious presidential election - and families across Georgia will be settling down for the holidays shortly after,” Raffensperger said. “Let’s give them a break and take another costly and unnecessary election off the Thanksgiving table. I’m calling on the General Assembly to visit this topic next session and eliminate this outdated distraction.” Raffensperger raised the issue of runoffs last December after incumbent

U.S. Sen. Raphael Warnock, D-Ga., defeated Republican challenger Herschel Walker in a runoff. However, it didn’t gain any traction during this year’s legislative session. While some second-place finishers in general elections have gone on to turn the tables and win runoffs, Warnock finished first in both the 2022 general election and runoff, lending credence to the argument that general election runoffs are an unnecessary waste of tax dollars. Georgia lawmakers have made changes to the vote threshold general election candidates must meet to avoid runoffs since 1968, when voters approved a constitutional amendment requiring the governor’s race to go to a runoff if none of the candidates received a majority of votes in the general election. After Democratic incumbent Sen. Wyche Fowler lost to Republican challenger Paul Coverdell in a 1992 runoff, the General Assembly’s then-Democratic majority reduced the 50 percent-plus-one vote requirement to avoid a runoff to 45 percent. That worked out for the Democrats four years later when the late Max Cleland won the seat of retiring Sen. Sam Nunn with more than 45 percent of the vote but less than 50 percent. Republicans responded to that 1996 loss when the GOP won control of the legislature in 2004. During their first legislative session in power, Republicans changed the requirement back to the 50 percent-plus-one threshold. Georgia and Louisiana are the only two states that feature general election runoffs. A handful of other states - mostly in the South - limit runoffs to primary elections in which no candidate receives a majority of the vote.

Barry Fleming tapped for Superior Court judgeship

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA - Gov. Brian Kemp has appointed longtime state Rep. Barry Fleming, R-Harlem, to a Superior Court judgeship in the Columbia Judicial Circuit succeeding the retiring Judge James Blanchard Jr. Fleming, a lawyer, has served two stints in the Georgia House. He was first elected in 2002 after serving as chairman of the Columbia County Board of Commissioners. Fleming stepped down in 2008 in an unsuccessful bid for Congress. He returned to the General Assembly in 2013. Fleming has served in various leadership posts, including as House majority whip and chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. He lost a bid for House speaker last year when he was defeated by current Speaker Jon Burns in a race to succeed the late Speaker David Ralston. Fleming also headed a committee that steered controversial election reform legislation through the House two years ago. Kemp must call a special election within 10 days of Fleming’s resignation from the House. The timing of his judicial appointment could put the special election on the same ballot as Georgia’s March 12 presidential primary. Fleming’s 125th House District includes parts of Columbia and McDuffie counties.

2023: No state elections but plenty of politics

VIA CAPITOL BEAT

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

While 2023 was not an election year in Georgia, politics was front and center throughout the last 12 months. From January street protests of the proposed Atlanta Police Training Center derided by critics as “Cop City” to the General Assembly redrawing Georgia’s congressional and legislative maps in December under a federal court order, various forms of politics were playing out during the year. Here’s a look at the top Georgia stories of 2023: Jan. 9 - The Georgia Bulldogs trounce Texas Christian University 65-7 to win their second consecutive college football national championship. Jan. 18 - Activist Manuel Esteban Paez Teran, 26, is shot and killed by police during a “clearing operation” at the wooded area that is the site of the proposed Atlanta Police Training Center. A Georgia State Patrol officer is shot and seriously wounded in the same incident. April 28 - The first dispensaries for selling low-THC cannabis oil to eligible patients open in Macon and Marietta, one day after the agency in charge of Georgia’s medical cannabis program grants the first dispensing licenses to two companies that already have been awarded manufacturing licenses. July 1 - Georgia Pathways, Republican Gov. Brian Kemp’s limited Medicaid expansion initiative, begins covering residents between the ages of 19 and 64 with household incomes up to 100 percent of the Federal Poverty Level. The program is plagued initially by low enrollment as Democrats continue to call for a full expansion of Medicaid coverage in Georgia. July 31 - The first of two new nuclear reactors being built at Georgia Power’s Plant Vogtle goes into commercial operation. The second of the new reactors is due to begin operating by the end of March. Aug. 14 - Former President Donald Trump is indicted in Fulton County on racketeering charges accusing the Republican of trying to overturn the 2020 presidential election in Georgia that saw Joe Biden become the first Democrat to carry the Peach State since 1992. Aug. 30 - Hurricane Idalia strikes South Georgia as a Category 1 storm, downing trees and powerlines and flooding local roads and highways. One fatality is reported when a tree falls on a vehicle in Lowndes County, one of the hardest-hit areas. Nov. 16 - Atlanta is awarded the 2025 Major League Baseball All-Star Game, two years after the city loses the game in protest of the General Assembly’s passage of an election law adding new restrictions critics attacked as voter suppression. Nov. 19 - Former First Lady Rosalynn Carter dies at age 96 at her home in Plains two days after entering hospice care. She was married to former President Jimmy Carter for 77 years. Dec. 7 - The General Assembly adopts a new congressional map for Georgia, two days after approving new legislative maps. Kemp ordered the special session after a federal judge ruled maps the legislature’s Republican majorities had approved in 2021 violate the Voting Rights Act.

DAVID SHRIBMAN COLUMNIST

Three candidates; three definitions of ‘is’

It depends on what the definition of “is” is. Right now former Governor Nikki Haley is considered Donald Trump’s biggest threat to winning his third consecutive Republican presidential nomination.

DAVID SHRIBMAN

She’s remaining competitive, barely but bravely, in Iowa, the site of the first caucuses of next year’s nomination fight. She is surging in New Hampshire, the site of the first primary, and perhaps is even within striking distance of former President Donald Trump. She’s a phenom, a minority woman whose ethnic background and gender have not raised substantial notice until recent days, and then only glancingly. Hillary Rodham Clinton did not have that advantage eight years ago. Barack Obama did not have that advantage 16 years ago. Nor, on the question of religion, did Mitt Romney a dozen years ago nor John F. Kennedy 64 years ago.

In short, America is “ready” — that is the cloying word that the earlier four pioneers faced — for an Indian-American female to sit where 44 white men have sat, there in the president’s chair. The remaining question now is whether the Republican Party is ready to move on from Mr. Trump.

Present and future

So if America is ready, and Ms. Haley, a former ambassador to the United Nations, is willing and able — and her experience is at the heart of her campaign — why does so much depend on what the definition of “is” is?

There are three reasons to consider the definition of “is” in this complex context.

The first is that the word is in the present tense. She’s gained 18 percentage points on Mr. Trump since September in New Hampshire, according to the recent CBS News/YouGov poll. There’s more: Chris Sununu, the governor of the Granite State, has endorsed her, and the fact that Independents (and in some cases Democrats) can vote in the GOP primary makes her an attractive magnet for those who want Mr. Trump consigned to the dustbin of history.

But the word “is” is operative here because Governor Ron DeSantis of Florida leads her in Iowa. He can’t afford to finish anything short of second place to assure that his White House dreams are not finished. If the ESPN sportscaster Chris Berman were to characterize Mr. DeSantis’s status in Iowa he would say he was “back, back, back, way back” behind Mr. Trump — 36 points to be precise.

But the word “is” is in the present tense. The election is in the future tense.

So...if Mr. DeSantis were to do better than the paltry 22 percentage points he now registers in Iowa, might he emerge on the cusp of New Hampshire as the best alternative? In three weeks or so we will know the answer, and the word “is” might migrate to him.

A delicate dance

The second “is” is even more complicated. It’s whether Mr. Trump is the best candidate to defeat Joe Biden at a time when it now seems as if the best candidate to beat Mr. Biden is Joe Biden himself. Again, the word is in the present tense, and there is much time in the

Feeling No Pain

Somehow, I still have most of my original teeth. There is no reasonable explanation for this. You’ve heard of the kid in the candy store? That was me. I grew up in one. It wasn’t exactly a candy store, but my family’s general store had a huge candy counter.

DAVID CARROLL

As soon as I was tall enough to reach the cash register, I went to work. Sure, I could have been doing regular kid stuff, but I learned quickly that when my parents were busy, it was easy to grab a Tootsie Roll or some bubble gum. Too easy.

Throughout my childhood, my mom took me to Trenton, Georgia for annual dental check-ups from Dr. Ray Ridge. He was a kind fellow, and I actually looked forward to those visits. Twice each year Dr. Ridge would scrape away the effects of my daily sugar intake.

When I became old enough to drive, I switched to a dentist in Scottsboro, Alabama, named Dr. Ralph Sheppard. My visits to his office concealed an ulterior motive. I had become obsessed with becoming a radio announcer, and he owned the local FM radio station. In my dreams, I imagined him looking deep into my mouth proclaiming, “This is the throat of a disc jockey! Put him on the radio, now!” Despite my dental chair auditions, he only seemed interested in cleaning, filling, and flossing.

Then came the dark years. As I hit my twenties, and was out from under my parents’ watchful eyes, I avoided the dentist. For about ten years, I made excuses and told outright lies when my mother questioned me about dental care. After all, I figured my teeth would last forever, and I found more enjoyable ways to spend money.

Around the time I hit thirty, it became evident that my lazy approach to dental hygiene was not getting the job done.

My mother had gotten to the point in her life where she was totally honest. Up until then, she was totally positive about me. “You look so handsome today!” “Look at that wavy hair!” And then one day, the truth came out. “Why aren’t your teeth straight anymore?” I looked in the mirror that night. She was right.

So I shopped around. “Know any painless dentists?” I asked a few co-workers. One dentist came highly recommended, and he even had the sign “Painless Dentist” on his door. He soon began salvaging the wreckage inside my mouth. Mom was on target about those crooked teeth. At the age of 35, I had to wear braces. My new dentist was laying down the law. “You’re on TV, right?” “Yes sir, I am.” “Then, take better care of your teeth!” It made sense. As for the painless dentist part, after I shrieked in pain, I said, “I thought you were a painless dentist!” He paused and said, “I didn’t feel a thing.”

I later switched to an older dentist. Miraculously, it seemed for many years, my check-ups were joyous occasions. An assistant would clean my teeth, and the elderly doc would come in, take a quick look inside, and mumble, “Everything looks good.” I was free to go.

Unfortunately, things weren’t really so good. I detected some issues, so I switched dentists again. It turned out the old fellow had neglected some serious problems. It was back to the grind.

To this day, it’s a thrice-yearly round of poking and prodding. Occasionally, my dentist will lean in to his assistant, whispering something about a maxillary axial occlusion on the first cousin molar, twice

Words matter, but they can be twisted, too, especially when Elise Stefanik is involved

Watching coverage of The Three Equivocating Presidents on TV — that is, the recent House Committee on Education hearing that featured testimony from three lofty academics — I found myself marveling that such a trio of seeming nonentities had been put in charge of prestigious universities in the first place.

Never mind the Ivy League. I told a friend. The athletic director at the University of Arkansas would have explained himself far better. Of course, that fellow faces hostile public inquisitions all the time.

Despite the chronic ugliness of campus politics, academic administrators are less familiar with televised interrogations. By trying to please everybody, the presidents of Harvard, Penn and MIT ended up satisfying nobody.

Never mind that the gist of what they said was entirely correct. Whether students or faculty should be punished for expressing antisemitic tropes on campus depends completely upon context. Are they expressing an unpopular opinion about the Israel-Palestine conflict or actively threatening violence? The first is permissible; the second is a crime.

Particularly in Republican hands, a congressional hearing is anything but a search for understanding. Basically, the three academics allowed themselves to be sandbagged by U.S. Rep. Elise Stefanik, R-N.Y., previously famous for embracing the white supremacist “replacement” theory alleging that American Jews are conspiring with elitist Democrats to grant citizenship to illegal immigrants for the purpose of outvoting white Christians.

That’s what those torch-bearing geeks who marched across the University of Virginia campus a few years back, chanting “Jews will not replace us,” were talking about. It’s also the reason a crazed gunman murdered 10 Black people in a Buffalo supermarket in Stefanik’s own state.

Stefanik’s dangerous talk

But American Jews, who mainly vote Democratic, are one thing; Israeli Jews are quite another. As a self-described “ultra MAGA warrior,” Stefanik has no problem using QAnon rhetoric to describe political opponents as “pedo grifters.”

It will be recalled that then-President Donald Trump also had no problem with the Charlottesville marchers — which, as somebody who spent four of the best years of my life on the University of Virginia campus, I confess to taking personally.

How Stefanik trapped the removed, and say, "I've never seen anything like it, have you?" I feel certain those x-rays will soon be published in the the Journal of the American Dental Association.

As for the pain, when it comes time to crown a tooth, they don't even ask anymore. "Give him the gas," the dentist says. For the next hour, I'm in toe-tin-gling heaven, grinning under the influence of nitrous oxide. Just recently, they started charging for it. I was too giddy to complain.

Someone asked me, "Have you ever had TMJ?" Nope, but I have definitely helped several dentists buy a new BMW.

three college presidents in their own rhetoric was outlined in a brave column by The New York Times' Michelle Goldberg, a proud Jew. First, Stefanik got Harvard's Claudine Gay to agree "that the use of the term 'intifada' in the context of the Israeli-Arab conflict is indeed a call for violent armed resistance against the state of Israel, including violence against civilians and the genocide of Jews."

But a call for armed resistance during a war isn't the same thing as a call for genocide, and Gay was foolish to play along. Having declared that such "hateful, reckless, offensive speech is personally abhorrent to me," she found herself intellectually disarmed when Stefanik came back later in the hearing demanding to know why Harvard students weren't being expelled for using it.

But "intifada" means rebellion, not genocide. Also, it's entirely possible to express sympathy for the Palestinian cause without supporting Hamas. "After all," Goldberg wrote, "even if you're disgusted by slogans like 'From the river to the sea, Palestine will be free,' their meaning is contested in a way that, say, 'Gas the Jews' is not." Although it's also true that Harvard probably leads the Ivy League, and maybe the USA, in "canceling" speech deemed offensive by protected categories of people.

In that sense, the three presidents can be said to have been hoisted by their own petard. No less an authority than former Harvard president Lawrence Summers has written, "It seems to be that there is a kind of creeping totalitarianism in terms of what kind of ideas are acceptable and are debatable on college campuses." A veteran controversialist, Summers wouldn't have been so easy buffaloe by the likes of Stefanik.

Meanwhile, I'll tell you who should resign: Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, whose incompetent scheming set this whole appalling disaster in motion. But that would require a sense of shame, and there's no sign he's got any. He's the Vladimir Putin of the Middle East.

Over the years, Netanyahu's government funneled hundreds of millions in cash to the extremist, murdering lunatics of Hamas, whose monstrous terrorist attack on Oct. 7 began the slaughter of innocents it was meant to provoke.

Netanyahu's Likud faction did that even as it encouraged extremist Jewish "settlers" to seize Palestinian property in the West Bank by violence on the (pardon me) mad premise that God had promised "Judea and Samaria" to the Jews and that Palestinians who'd lived there for centuries had no valid rights.

By encouraging Hamas fanaticism, Netanyahu openly intended to prevent a "two-state" solution. As many centuries of European history can attest, the slaughter of infidels is what happens pretty much whenever God becomes the head of state. What's going on in Gaza today fits the very definition of genocide. Except it's not Israeli Jews being massacred.

How like us to quibble over legalisms in the face of catastrophe.

future for that to erode.

Here is one way it might.

This is, of course, a little like playing Chinese checkers in three dimensions, but give this mind-bender a try:

(1) If Mr. Trump is considered the best bet to defeat the president — and half of New Hampshire primary voters believe he is right now; and

(2) If Mr. Biden is himself endangered for re-election, and all polls suggest he is right now; then

(3) Does the decline in Mr. Biden's re-electability ratings itself undercut what many Republicans believe is the former president's most important electoral asset; and thus

(4) Does that make it more plausible that another Republican — less disorganized, less undisciplined, less crude and coarse, less alienating — might seem attractive, especially since

(5) Mr. Trump's adversaries in the primaries surely are going to point out that he can serve only for four additional years while they can serve for eight?

These five steps of political dance — jump, turn, gesture, transference of weight and stepping — are, to be sure, unlikely to be performed with ease, especially in this climate. The CBS/YouGov New Hampshire poll shows that 51 percent believe Mr. Trump can beat Mr. Biden, followed by Ms. Haley at 32 percent.

Another factor demands our attention at this moment. More than half the public believes Mr. Biden's policies have hurt them, according to the latest Wall Street Journal Poll. At the same time, more than half believe Mr. Trump's policies helped them. That changes the dynamic in a way that has no precedent, except perhaps in 1892, when former President Grover Cleveland returned to the White House by defeating sitting President Benjamin Harrison: The challenger is running with the advantage incumbents often get.

The courtesy extended to all former occupants of the presidency except for Ulysses S. Grant and Dwight Eisenhower applies to Mr. Trump. He gets to campaign as President Trump. (General Grant and General Eisenhower had their military titles restored after their presidencies ended.)

Expectations matter

All this leads us to the third "is." It depends on what the expectation for Mr. Trump is.

It surely cannot be that what is projected today will stay the same. Because a mere 15-point New Hampshire victory by a former president against a national-politics rookie isn't a particularly impressive performance, especially since the prevailing narrative is that Mr. Trump is, Berman-style, way, way, ahead of any pretender to his throne atop the GOP.

Some perspective: Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine went into New Hampshire with a 29-point lead in national polls over Senator George McGovern of South Dakota in 1972. Mr. Trump holds a 51 percentage point lead in national polls.

Mr. Muskie defeated Mr. McGovern by nine percentage points in 1972 — finishing with 46 percent of the vote in New Hampshire, far less than the 60 percent that was the expectation for a candidate from a neighboring state. The message coming out of Manchester, N.H., that night — and I was there — was a big blow to Mr. Muskie, who didn't reach the finish line at the Miami Beach convention.

The expectations for Mr. Trump are even higher — and his New Hampshire numbers are about even with Mr. Muskie's final Granite State total. Actually, they are two points below.

Conclusion: We can't reach any conclusion at this point. The definition of "is" is constantly changing.

Editor's Note: The Covington News Athlete Alumni Check-In is a space to highlight former Newton County student athletes while also providing updates on where they are in their respective careers.

Ashton Hagans, Darius Green and Tess Preston are the athletes featured in this week's edition.

Ashton Hagans
Ashton Hagans was part of Newton's 2018 graduating class and is currently starting for the Rip City Remix basketball team in the NBA G-League.

During his time on the court for the Rams, Hagans propelled up recruiting rankings before earning multiple honors including Gatorade Player of the Year along with Mr. Georgia Basketball honors.

Hagans forewent his senior year at Newton to enroll at the University of Kentucky, where he played during the 2019 and 2020 seasons.

At Kentucky, Hagans earned SEC Co-Defensive Player of the Year in his freshman season. In both seasons for the Wildcats, Hagans made the SEC All-Defensive Team.

Following his junior season, Hagans declared for the 2020 NBA draft. After going undrafted, Hagans signed a two-way contract with the Minnesota Timberwolves.

In October 2023, Hagans signed with the Portland Trailblazer's G-League team, the Rip City Remix.

Hagans is currently averaging 11.2

points per game in 2023.

Tess Preston
Tess Preston graduated from Social Circle in 2022 and is currently playing soccer for Young Harris College.

In her final season for the Lady Redskins, Preston led Social Circle to a Class A-Division I state championship.

During her high school career, Preston scored 167 goals.

Preston signed to Young Harris during her final year at Social Circle.

In just her first season with the Mountain Lions, Preston earned the starting position and was named as a team captain in her sophomore year.

Her freshman season ended with Preston being named to the Peach Belt Conference Honor Roll.

Darius Green

Darius Green graduated from Newton in 2021 after signing to Minnesota during his senior season.

Green was a defensive back for the Rams and was a consensus three-star recruit by the end of his high school career.

After being redshirted in his first season with the Golden Gophers, Green played in all 13 games of his second season.

Green finished the 2022 season with 13 tackles, but his 2023 season was a breakout for the redshirt sophomore.

In 2023, Green ended the year with 51 tackles along with three tackles for loss and a quarterback hurry.

The accolades for Green go beyond the football field.

Green earned academic All-Big Ten honors in 2022 and 2023.

The big flash of the quarter came late in the frame when a Greenforest player took the ball down court for a slam that erupted the small gym.

Seconds later, the Rams sent the ball back their way to Wilson who produced a dunk of his own.

On the next Greenforest transition, the Eagles took a deep three that connected to keep the pace and maintain the lead.

The Eagles ended the quarter with a lead of 37-28.

In the final frame of the game, Newton's 10 points were matched by Greenforest, resulting in the Rams' second loss of the season with a 48-38 defeat on day one of the Tournament of Champions.

For the Rams, the scoring was led by Harden and Jenkins, who both finished with 10 points.

The Eagles were led by Daniel Daramola with 14 points.

The loss sets the Rams up to play Fayette County on day two of the Tournament of Champions at Chattahoochee High School on Thursday, Dec. 28 at 2:30 p.m.

Following the tournament, Newton faced St. Anne-Pacelli at home on Tuesday, Jan. 2 before beginning its Region 4-AAAAAAA slate against South Gwinnett on Friday, Jan. 5.

RAMS FALL IN DAY ONE OF TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS

JABEZ JENKINS (LEFT) AND NICK HARDEN JR. (RIGHT) LED THE RAMS IN POINTS AGAINST GREENFOREST WITH 10 POINTS EACH ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT. GARRETT PITTS

By GARRETT PITTS

JOHNS CREEK, Ga. — The Newton Rams stumbled in its matchup with Greenforest on Wednesday, Dec. 27 to begin the Tournament of Champions Holiday Classic. The Rams fell 48-38 in the final game of the day at Chattahoochee High School. Nine games into the year for Newton, things could not seem to be better for first year head coach Barry Browner, who coached the Rams to an 8-1 record going into the tournament.

Heading into Wednesday night's game, the Rams were riding a seven game win streak and were matched with the Eagles in the American bracket.

The first four minutes of the game belonged to Greenforest.

Offensively, the Eagles had success getting to the basket while knocking down the occasional jumper.

After finding themselves down 7-0 halfway through the opening frame, the Rams went on a run to take the lead.

The man leading the run was Zack Harden Jr.

Harden's first basket of the game came from the perimeter and set the tone for the remainder of his eight-point quarter.

Jabez Jenkins, Tim Praither and Tay Jefferies put points up as well to lead the Rams to a 14-9 advantage going into the second frame.

After the Rams scored 14 in the opening eight minutes, Greenforest put the clamps on Newton before halftime.

For the entire duration of the second quarter, the Rams only scored two points, courtesy of a slam dunk from RJ Wilson over an Eagles' defender.

This allowed Greenforest to even the score going into halftime at 16-all, and its momentum did not stop there.

Five different Eagles players reached the basket in the third quarter. They were able to score from all levels of the court while playing physical on the defensive end.

utes of regulation as the Huskies closed the game on an 8-2 run to nab a four-point victory.

Overall on his freshman season Castle is averaging 8.1 points, 4.1 rebounds and 2.7 assists per game in 19.4 minutes per contest. The rookie has made three starts in his seven overall appearances and is shooting 45.5 percent from the floor while adding four blocks and seven steals.

The Social Circle varsity wrestling team traveled to North Augusta, South Carolina to compete in the Rumble on the River tournament.

The event included 32 different teams that participated in a double elimination style bracket that took place over a two-day period.

Weigh-ins were conducted the morning of Dec. 21, and all Redskins' wrestlers made weight before beginning the tournament at 10:00 a.m. that same day.

The Redskins started off the first day strong and let that momentum carry them into Day 2.

As a whole, Social Circle had 13 point-scorers that contributed to the team's total. The Redskins accrued 343.5 points — the most by any Social Circle team in program history.

Eight Redskins finished at the top of their weight classes, two finished as runner-ups and

Add an old English twist to your holiday cocktails with sloe gin: Here are 4 recipes

By LOUISE DIXON
Associated Press

LONDON (AP) — Sloe gin is a festive old English drink that’s especially well-suited to the winter holidays. You can drink it over ice, try it in a cocktail, or forage for sloe berries and make a home batch.

Family recipes have been passed down for generations, but for novices, it’s easy to experiment at home

THE BERRIES

Sloe gin’s origins go back to the hedgerows of blackthorn bushes that served as fences all across England when common farmland was divvied up in the 17th century. Their plum-like, inky blue-purple sloe berries became synonymous with the English countryside.

After realizing that the raw berries tasted tart and astringent, people tried to make wine from them. But the astringency remained, and then “someone had the bright idea of resting it on a spirit,” says Joe Horning, the liquid quality and innovations manager at the London-based Sipsmith Gin.

By steeping sloe berries in alcohol, the low-quality gin of the time was transformed into a more palatable tipple. As distilling methods improved, a more refined drink was created. And bartenders further elevated its profile with the invention of the famous Sloe Gin Fizz in the early 20th century and pre-Prohibition cocktails like the Charlie Chaplin.

GREEN AND SEASONAL

There’s been a resurgence recently in the popularity of sloe gin, according to Siobhan Robinson, owner of the East London craft distillery Mother’s Ruin.

“As we got more interested in the environment and foraging and what we’re doing to the world, I think there’s been a renaissance of people making their own sloe gin, and a real interest in sloe gin,” she says.

Sloe gin also has a Christmas association because the berries are at their ripest in the autumn, and its “earthy warm flavor” suits the time of year, she adds.

She suggests using it in hot cocktails, like a Hot Sloe Gin Punch, a Hot Toddy with whiskey, or even adding a slug to hot chocolate for a punchy festive treat.

Technically, sloe gin isn’t a gin at all, Robinson says. With the addition of sugar and sloes, it becomes a liqueur, and has a far lower alcohol content than a standard gin, around the same strength as a strong wine.

While sloe gin is traditionally drunk over ice as a digestif, it is also versatile in modern cocktails.

Horning suggests substituting raspberry flavors like Chambord for a twist on a French Martini or a Kir Royale. He also recommends a Sloe Negroni, reducing the measures to allow for a shot of sloe gin in addition to London Dry Gin, Campari and sweet Vermouth.

FORAGING AND DIY

When you forage for sloes, Horning says, feel the berries for ripeness, but also look for a yeast powder on the berry’s core, “a telltale sign that the fruit’s ripe.” As for quantity, “the more the merrier.”

Old traditions dictate that each berry is given a pinprick to let the juices flow into the base spirit, but Horning recommends freezing the berries instead. That causes small ruptures in the skin, allowing the juices to come through, and is far less time-consuming.

The sloes should be rested in a Mason jar of gin, filled just below the liquid level. Resting periods can vary from months to a year. There are no hard-and-fast rules; Horning recommends two to three months, while Robinson thinks the longer the better.

Either a sugar syrup or honey should be added at the end, and less is more.

“Sweeten cautiously, because you can always add more sugar if need be, but you can’t take away,” Horning advises.

Both he and Robinson agree it’s all about experimentation and play.

If sloe berries aren’t readily available, you can substitute damsons, a similar fruit, or experiment with any fruits and a base of gin or even vodka.

“Pick your fruit, put it in alcohol, add sugar, leave it for a long time, drink it and see if you like it,” Robinson laughs.

Veronica St. Clair in "La Brea"

Sink in: Final season of 'La Brea' premieres

Science fiction stories help us escape the reality in which we live to fantastical worlds that are sometimes literally turning themselves inside out. The final season of "La Brea," the sci-fi drama that explores a world full of time-bending portals and sinkholes, premieres the first of its last six episodes on NBC Tuesday, Jan. 9.

Natalie Zea ("Justified"), Eoin Macken ("I Used to Be Famous," 2022), Zyra Gorecki ("Chicago Fire") and Jack Martin ("All Rise") all return as the Harris family, who have been searching for each other, along with some answers about the La Brea tar pit sinkhole that opened up and separated them, for two seasons.

"La Brea" will wrap up its story this season with six action-packed episodes tying together the threads between its several timelines. It all began in present-day Los Angeles, when a massive sinkhole opened up in the middle of the city, sending everything and everyone deep into the past. Sinkhole survivors land in what they learn is the place from which they fell, but all the way back in the year 10,000 BCE.

Two members of the Harris family were sent through the sinkhole time portal: mother and office manager Eve (Zea) and her teenage son, Josh (Martin). Now separated physically from her estranged husband, former Air Force pilot Gavin (Macken), and her daughter, Izzy (Gorecki), Eve struggles to understand the new world she was dropped into and tries to find her way back to solid ground in present-day L.A.

Chiké Okonkwo ("Being Mary Jane") is Dr. Ty Coleman, a therapist who befriends Eve and Sam in 10,000 BCE. Ty is living with a terminal brain tumor when he is sent through the sinkhole, an unimaginable event that changes his perspective on life. His adventure into the past includes falling for Paara (Tonantzin Carmelo, "The English"), a Tongva woman who connects with him over complicated past relationships. Though their relationship had its struggles — they come from two completely different centuries, after all — the pair married in a rare moment of celebration among the survivors.

Eve and Ty emerge as leaders among the new sinkhole society early on, joined by former Marine and surgeon Sam Velez (Jon Seda "Chicago

P.D."), who entered 10,000 BCE with his daughter, college student Riley (Veronica St. Clair, "Unbelievable"). Rohan Mirchandaney ("The Newsreader") is Australian stoner Scott Israni, whose knowledge as an anthropology graduate student becomes a commodity after he winds up falling through the sinkhole. Scott becomes close with Josh and Riley, but often gets himself into dangerous situations with others — like when he was almost killed by The Exiles before Gavin stepped in last season.

A well-armed group of warriors who, like the "Sky People" who fell from L.A. into the distant past, The Exiles seem to have arrived from another time. Led by Taamet (Martin Sensmeier, "Alaska Daily"), who happens to be Paara's ex-husband, The Exiles use steel weaponry, something that is not historically consistent with 10,000 BCE. The Exiles are foes, not friends, to anyone new they encounter, taking Eve hostage in the second season, along with Veronica (Lily Santiago, "Vineyards," 2023) and former Air Force pilot and longtime friend of the Harris family, Levi Delgado (Nicholas Gonzalez, "The Good Doctor").

Veronica is a strong-willed, religious young woman with a shocking past. When the man who calls himself her father is killed shortly after falling through the sinkhole, the awful truth about her family comes out — he was never her father, and he had kidnapped Veronica and the girl who appeared to be her sister, Lilly (Chloe De Los Santos, "The Bureau of Magical Things"), calling them his daughters to cover his lie.

As if one sinkhole and time portal wasn't enough to try to get to the bottom of, there are multiple timelines and interconnected stories within them in "La Brea."

(Brace for Season 2 spoilers ahead.)

It was revealed last season that the event that caused the sinkhole was orchestrated by a mysterious organization in the future. With natural resources completely tapped out, The Lazarus Project attempts to reach back in time from their place in 2076 to bring those necessary resources back with them and potentially end extinction entirely.

BEST PRIME TIME CARTOONS

"The Flintstones" (ABC, 1960-66): Fox's "Grimsburg" joins the category when it premieres Sunday, Jan. 7, but this was the first animated series made specifically for evening television. The Hanna-Barbera classic succeeded largely because it offered something for everyone, including the appealing animation of the prehistoric characters for youngsters, and the smart parallels drawn between past and modern times for adults.

"The Jetsons" (ABC, 1962-63): It only made sense, if Hanna-Barbera had success in delving into the past, for the studio to follow up by taking the concept into the future. Instead of Fred Flintstone, George Jetson was the hapless head of the household, relying on Rosie the Robot and pet dog Astro to help him through life.

"Jonny Quest" (ABC, 1964-65): Hanna-Barbera took a more realistic approach to adapting Doug Wilder's comic about adventurous youngster Jonny (voice of Tim Matheson), his scientist father and their comrades in danger.

"The Simpsons" (Fox, 1989-present):

Animation hadn't been a part of prime time for some time when Homer, Bart and the rest of Matt Groening's Springfield-based characters — originally seen in short subjects on "The Tracey Ullman Show" — were spun off into their own series that continues to run strong all these years later, often with big-name voice guests.

"The Critic" (ABC, 1994; Fox, 1995): The world of a movie reviewer (voice by Jon Lovitz) supplied the framework for this comedy, which frequently incorporated parodies of popular or famous films into the episodes.

"South Park" (Comedy Central, 1997-present): Kenny has survived countless killings to stay with one of television's most proudly irreverent shows.

"Futurama" (Fox, 1999-2003): Wanting more from "Simpsons" mentor Groening, Fox commissioned this saga of a modern man defrosted in the future, where he worked for a courier service. Two forthcoming seasons of the show have been ordered by Hulu.

"Family Guy" (Fox, 1999-2002, 2005-present): Seth MacFarlane's satire of domestic life had such strong performances on cable and DVD, Fox had to reconsider after canceling the show.

"Drawn Together" (Comedy Central, 2004-07): Virtually every type of character was sent up hilariously, and with a decidedly adult bent, in this parody of both cartoons and reality shows.

"Archer" (FX, 2009-16; FXX, 2017-23): The misadventures of a mishap-prone secret agent (voice of H. Jon Benjamin), part of a team that often didn't agree on procedure, fueled this recently concluded comedy.

"Bob's Burgers" (Fox, 2011-present): A family-run restaurant, whose owners face constant personal and professional dilemmas, furnishes the basis for this Emmy-winning sitcom.

“Monsieur Spade” (AMC/AMC+/Acorn TV — Jan. 14, Limited Series Premiere)

This six-episode series centers around the infamous protagonist of Dashiell Hammett's 1930 classic novel, “The Maltese Falcon.” In 1963, the legendary detective Sam Spade (Clive Owen) is enjoying his retirement in the South of France. By contrast to his days as a private eye in San Francisco, Spade's life in Bozouls is peaceful and quiet. But, the rumored return of his old adversary will change everything — six beloved nuns have been brutally murdered at the local convent. As the town grieves, secrets emerge, and new leads are established. Cara Bossom, Denis Ménochet, Louise Bourgoïn and Chiara Mastroianni also star.

'Yellowstone' and CBS: Is that marriage about to be over?

Q: Will "Yellowstone" repeats continue to be shown on CBS? – Bill Meredith, via e-mail

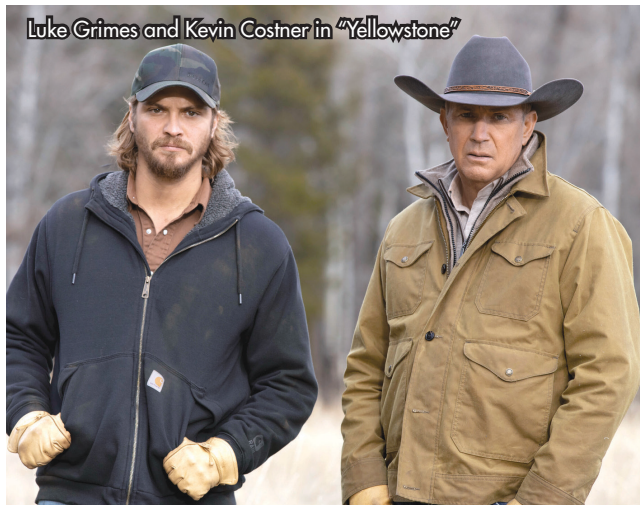

A: With the network ready to present its originally intended Sunday lineup starting in February, following the entertainment-industry strikes that shut down much production, the reruns of the Kevin Costner-starring Paramount Network drama series will be suspended by CBS after its Season 3 runs later this month.

It's likely not being ignored, nor will be forgotten, how well "Yellowstone" has performed ratings-wise for CBS at a time when it was needed to fill slots in the broadcast network's schedule. Thus, we wouldn't be surprised to see CBS call the show back into action at some future point, perhaps in summer. Clearly, the numbers suggest that many viewers discovered the program anew during its CBS engagement, so there will be one-and-a-half existing seasons they haven't seen yet if they didn't watch the series in its original home.

Q: I've seen a lot of James Bond movies on TV lately. Which actor starred the most times as Bond? – Greg Carmody, Toledo, Ohio

A: If you're counting only the "official" Bond adventures that were made by producers Albert R. Broccoli and Harry Saltzman (and only by Broccoli, eventually), Roger Moore had the most turns as Agent 007 with seven examples, from "Live and Let Die" (1973) through "A View to a Kill" (1985). The movies' first Bond, Sean Connery, comes in second with six of the films ... unless you count the "unofficial" entry "Never Say Never Again" (1983), which was made by different producers who had gotten the rights to remake 1965's "Thunderball." If you do count that one, Connery ties Moore by also having seven projects as the British secret agent. As for other Bonds, George Lazenby played the part once, Timothy Dalton twice, and most recent occupant Daniel Craig five times.
