City manager changes forthcoming in Porterdale

CHIP MATTHEWS | CORRESPONDENT

PORTERDALE, Ga. — A motion passed unanimously at the Feb. 5 city of Porterdale meeting to appoint Lance Jones to serve as the interim city manager.

Jones is set to take the place of current city manager Frank Etheridge, who accepted the assistant city manager job in Lula last month. Etheridge's last day as Porterdale city manager will be Wednesday, Feb. 28.

While the city is set to make a change at city manager, the city wants to ensure its history does not fade.

With this, the council unanimously appointed Kay Piper as the city historian.

In her new role, Piper will work to preserve and maintain the history of one of Georgia's oldest mill communities.

Piper was born and raised in Porterdale and says her family has been in the community since the 1800's. Prior to her appointment she served two terms on the Porterdale city council.

Following her second term, Porterdale mayor

Michael Patterson approached her with the opportunity to serve as the city's historian, which she accepted.

Piper emphasized her new role with the city. "Those of my generation will pass one day and if we don't write this down and keep it alive it will be lost forever," Piper said.

While the city looks to keep its history intact, a new bit of history will soon be created.

Porterdale will have a new option for food and drinks, as the city council granted the application for Yellow River Ale House for onsite consumption of alcohol. The motion passed 4-0 with Post 1 representative Bekah Sewell abstaining.

The owners—who were present at the meeting—are optimistic that their business will start a chain reaction.

"What we want is to be the catapult that brings other businesses," said Yellow River Ale House owner Julie Freeman

Yellow River Ale House is scheduled to open in spring 2024 at 2001 Main St. in Porterdale.

Man sentenced to life following arrest in Newton County

EVAN NEWTON | NEWS EDITOR

WALTON COUNTY — A jury in Walton County found Gregory Deonte Norwood guilty of a number of charges including malice murder and was sentenced to life in prison without the possibility of parole.

Norwood was first arrested on April 16, 2022 for killing his girlfriend Crystal Powell by stabbing her 14 times in front of the victim's children.

After the oldest child called 911, Norwood traveled to Newton County where he was arrested by the Newton County Sheriff's Office. According to the press release, Norwood was found with blood on his shoes, matching Powell's DNA.

At the trial, Norwood claimed Powell stabbed herself and that he, too, was stabbed by her.

According to a press release, the evidence shown at the trial told a different story.

"At trial, the State presented evidence of prior domestic violence by the defendant against the victim," a press release stated. "The medical examiner who performed the autopsy testified that the death was caused by the stab wounds and that the injuries were not consistent with being self-inflicted."

The press release also stated that the five children testified in the trial.

Less than an hour of deliberation the jury found Norwood guilty of all charges, which include malice murder, two counts of felony murder, aggravated assault, family violence battery and five counts of cruelty to children in the first degree.

Emma Grace Lumpkin, a senior at Eastside High School and the NCSS STEM Institute, is Newton County School System's 2024 STAR Student, after attaining the highest SAT score in the district—a 1510 out of 1600. The Eastside High School STAR Student selected Ryan Allred, her engineering teacher at the STEM Institute, as her STAR Teacher.

Lumpkin was recognized Thursday by the Kiwanis Club of Covington, official sponsor of the local STAR Student recognition program, at the club's weekly meeting.

To obtain the STAR nomination, high school seniors must have the highest score on a single test date on the SA, a national college entrance exam some colleges and universities utilize to measure critical thinking skills students need for academic success in college.

In order to qualify for STAR Student recognition, the student must also be in the top 10 percent or top 10 students of his or her class based on grade point average.

The Kiwanis Club recognized each of the school system's three high school STAR Students along with their STAR Teachers during a special lunch meeting on Feb. 8.

Historic jail to begin renovation process

EVAN NEWTON | NEWS EDITOR

NEWTON COUNTY – The Newton County Board of Commissioners opted to approve a bid awardance that will kick start the process of renovating the historic jail.

Board members opted to unanimously approve a contract bid from Sunbelt CM Design Build in the amount of $56,500 to begin the process of restoring the historic jail.

The funding will come from the 2011 SPLOST – which allocated $1,132,000 for this project.

Project manager Jeff Prine stated that this was the only company in contention, as the other company in the bidding process was not up to compliance and did not provide all of the necessary paperwork.

Before the vote, District 4 representative J.C. Henderson asked if the asbestos had been removed from the building. Henderson also wanted to know what would be done with the jail once it was completed.

“This is something we’ve been struggling since I’ve been on this board is about completing that historic jail and then once we completed [it] I mean what exactly what were we going to do,” Henderson said. “At one point it was going to be some kind of museum and for all of Newton County, which I was just wasn’t for that.”

Prine answered the first question from Henderson, stating that a property analysis would be done to start the process of rehabilitating the exterior part of the building, and not the interior.

The project manager also clarified that the $56,500 would be used for the design services, property assessment design and pre-construction.

“The intent is that we will work with the stakeholder group which is the Newton 6 for the historic element of the building and then 4-H and the county extension who will be moving into the building for their facilities,” Prine said. “We will be working with both of them in the design phase and we’ll come back to you to guarantee a maximum price for construction and rehab.”

Henderson, however, had a disagreement with this.

“I don’t think that any afro-american history should be in a jail,” Henderson said. “I think it took a long time to get out of the jail. I think it should be a neutral area whereas if we’re going to do history, let’s put all our history together in it rather in a jail.”

District 3 commissioner Alana Sanders asked Prine for clarification on what the $56,500 would be used for. After Prine answered, Sanders would then question the practicality of the money allotment.

“Wouldn’t it have been feasible to have done it all together and came with us with the full price,” Sanders said. “Having the actual company go inspect the building and come back with their price then you have your renovation price and have been a collective effort.”

Prine would state that the design and preconstruction would need to take place before anything else could take place. The design process would be the first phase in this project.

Following the discussion, the vote passed 5-0.

Other business

A number of other items were also approved at the latest board meeting.

- A conservation zoning decision for the Twin Rivers subdivision (Approved 3-1-1; Sanders opposing, Henderson abstaining).
- An intergovernmental agreement between the NCBOE, Newton County School System and the Covington-Newton County 911 for a radio expansion between the three entities.

This will be of no cost to Newton County (Approved 5-0).

- A clarification of ARPA funds for low income senior home repair program approved at the July 18 BOC meeting (Approved 5-0).
- A request of approval to accept the FY24 COSSAP Naloxone grant from the criminal justice coordinating council in the amount of $3,250 (Approved 5-0).
- An approval of an alcohol license at Kroger on Salem Rd in District 3 (Approved 5-0).
- An approval of the Jan. 16 BOC minutes (Approved 5-0).

I want to thank all those that came to court in support of Crystal and her family, as well as all those supporting them that couldn’t come,” McGinley said. “This verdict, after such a heart wrenching trial, is a result of so much hard work by so many. the 2024 holiday schedule was approved unanimously.

This year’s schedule includes June-teenth National Independence Day, taking the total number of holidays recognized to 11. Last year the city observed 10 days.

The full list of upcoming holiday dates include:

- Monday, May 27 Memorial Day
- Wednesday, June 19 June-teenth
- Thursday, July 4 Independence Day
- Monday, Sept. 2 Labor Day
- Monday, Nov. 11 Veterans Day
- Thursday, Nov. 28 Thanksgiving
- Friday, Nov. 29 Day after Thanksgiving
- Tuesday, Dec. 24 Christmas Eve
- Wednesday, Dec. 25 Christmas Day

Following the approval of the holiday schedule, council members motioned to table the appointments of the zoning commission and the historic preservation commission due to a lack of applicants.

According to Etheridge, there are four applicants for the zoning commission and two for the historic preservation commission.

Patterson stated that the time is not yet right to move on a motion.

“It would be of no benefit if we appointed people tonight and then still not meet because we did not have a quorum,” Patterson said.

Citizens can apply at city hall if they want to join either committee.

The council also unanimously passed a motion to enter into a contract with CivicPlus Ultimate Design and Archiving. The company will potentially host, design and manage the city’s website and social media pages. CivicPlus will also archive the city’s social media pages, which is a state requirement.

The motion also gave Patterson the authorization to sign the contract once complete.

After passing the motion for the contract with CivicPlus, Etheridge presented the proposed 2024 budget to the council. There will be two public meetings to discuss the budget on Feb. 15 and Feb. 22, both at 6:30 p.m. The budget also will be adopted on Feb. 22.

The public is welcome to view the proposed budget, copies being made available at city hall.

During the meeting, Patterson also acknowledged Black History Month and shared his insight on the month-long celebration.

“I believe we are called to stand in solidarity with our Black brothers and sisters,” Patterson said. “To listen to their stories, to learn from their experiences and to work alongside them in their ongoing pursuit of justice, equality and reconciliation. Now is the time to commit ourselves to a more equitable and just society for all.”

During the citizen comment portion of the meeting, citizen Hugh Burnett thanked the council for completing phase 1 of a lighting project at the ballfield.

A new switch allows park patrons to turn on the field lights for an hour. The lights cut off automatically when the timer expires or at 9:30 p.m. – whichever comes first. Patterson said the city plans to upgrade the switch to allow for a long duration. Phase 2 of the project will include updating the streetlights near city hall.

One of the last topics of discussion during the council meeting was the staff report. Porterdales police chief Jason Cripps reported the department received 17 Panasonic Toughbook laptops from the Tybee Island chief of police.

According to Cripps, new Toughbooks cost around $6,000. The donation from Tybee Island Police Department saved the city thousands and gave the department a much-needed upgrade.

State Senate targeting controversial library organization

DAVE WILLIAMS | CAPITOL BEAT

ATLANTA – Two years ago, the Republican-controlled General Assembly passed legislation letting parents petition school principals to ban from school libraries books they consider obscene.

This year, the state Senate is considering two additional bills aimed at making it easier to ban books from school libraries.

But a third bill before the Senate would take the push against material considered harmful to minors on a different front. Senate Bill 390 would prohibit city, county, and regional libraries from using either tax dollars or private funds on any materials offered by the American Library Association (ALA).

“They have expanded beyond school libraries,” said Lisa Morgan, president of the Georgia Association of Educators. “Now, they’re going after public libraries as well.”

The ALA has become controversial in right-wing circles in recent years for promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) in the selection of library materials and for opposing book banning and other forms of censorship. Its president, Emily Drabinski, became a lightning rod in 2022 when she characterized herself as a “Marxist lesbian.”

“The ALA has proven it is not an organization of political neutrality,” Taylor Hawkins, director of advocacy for FrontLine Policy Action, a Christian advocacy group, told members of the Senate

Government Affairs Committee Feb. 7. “This is an organization that cannot be trusted.”

Sen. Larry Walker III, R-Perry, Senate Bill 390’s chief sponsor, told committee members the ALA came to his attention when the Houston County Library sought a $20,000 grant from the organization, only to be told any materials the money was used to purchase had to promote DEI or deal with LGBTQ+ issues.

“That was not a reflection of the morals and values of our community and was inappropriate, especially in the children’s section,” Walker said. “They (the ALA) should be apolitical. They should not weigh into these controversial arenas.”

Walker’s characterization of the ALA grant drew pushback from a grassroots group called STOP Moms for Liberty, which bills itself as a defender of public education.

The group contended in a news release that the materials the grant purchased were E-books and E-audios not on the library’s physical shelves and were for adults and young adults. The ALA did not direct the selection of the materials, STOP Moms for Liberty also asserted.

Julie Walker, vice chancellor for libraries and archives with the University System of Georgia, which oversees the state’s public libraries, said local library boards determine what materials to place on their shelves.

“Selection of materials is not influenced by the ALA,” Walker told the Senate panel.

Sen. Walker told the committee an “unintended consequence” of his bill needs to be worked out as it makes its way through the General Assembly. Since the bill would essentially dissolve the state’s relationship with the ALA, it would leave working librarians and students of library sciences without a way to gain certification.

David Slykhuis, dean of the College of Education & Human Services at Valdosta State University, home to Georgia’s only master’s degree program in library sciences, said graduating students need ALA certification to get jobs.

“Losing accreditation would eliminate Valdosta State as a viable program for most students,” Slykhuis said.

Walker said the states of Texas, Missouri, Montana, Alabama, Wyoming, and South Carolina have left the ALA. He suggested Georgia library officials work with their counterparts from other states to identify an alternate organization that could be used to accredit library sciences degree programs and certify graduating students.

“Other options will spring up more in line with Georgia values,” Hawkins said.

The committee did not vote on Walker’s bill at the Feb. 7 hearing, but it stands a good chance of passage. It enjoys the backing of influential Republican cosponsors, including Senate Majority Leader Steve Gooch, R-Dahlonega.

State issues draft permits for titanium mine near Okefenokee

DAVE WILLIAMS | CAPITOL BEAT

ATLANTA – The Georgia Environmental Protection Division (EPD) has released draft permits for a controversial proposed titanium mine near the Okefenokee Swamp.

Alabama-based Twin Pines Minerals is planning to mine titanium dioxide on Trail Ridge, the Okefenokee’s eastern hydrologic boundary.

While company executives have said the project would not harm the swamp, scientific studies have concluded the proposed mine would significantly damage one of the world’s largest intact freshwater wetlands.

“This is a dark day in Georgia’s history,” Josh Marks, an environmental lawyer and president of Georgians for the Okefenokee, wrote late Friday in an email to Capitol Beat.

“EPD may have signed a death warrant for the Okefenokee Swamp, our state’s greatest natural treasure, by moving forward with a project that independent scientists say will draw down the swamp’s water level, making it three times more likely to suffer drought conditions and increasing the risk of landscape-level fires that will destroy private property and release tens of millions of tons of CO2 (carbon dioxide) into the atmosphere.”

The project’s opponents have bombarded the EPD with more than 200,000 public comments against the mine, while more than a dozen cities and counties in the region and across the state have passed resolutions calling for protecting the Okefenokee. Legislation before the General House of Representatives would ban surface mining near the swamp.

Twin Pines President Steve Ingle called the EPD evaluation of the company’s application for permits a “thorough” review of the proposed mine.

“The exhaustive hydrology, geology, biology, and herpetology studies, as we have said all along, have been validated,” Ingle wrote in a prepared statement. “We expect stringent government oversight of our mining-to-reclamation project, which will be fully protective of the Okefenokee Wildlife Refuge and the region’s environment.”

The Southern Environmental Law Center (SELC) urged Georgians concerned about the proposed mine to respond during the 30-day public comment period on the permits.

“While this moves Twin Pines one step closer towards its goal to dig for minerals on 8,000 acres along Trail Ridge, these permits are only drafts,” said Bill Sapp, a senior attorney with the SELC. “The reason Georgia EPD posts draft versions of the permit is because our state leaders give the public a chance to make their voices heard.”

New state Senate committee investigating Fani Willis vows nonpartisan approach

DAVE WILLIAMS | CAPITOL BEAT

ATLANTA – The chairman of a state Senate committee formed to investigate allegations swirling around Fulton County District Attorney Fani Willis’ election interference case against Donald Trump vowed Friday to oversee a fair but thorough probe.

“This is not going to be a partisan process,” Sen. Bill Cowsert, R-Athens, said during the initial meeting of the Senate Special Committee on Investigations. “It is not the charge of this committee to disqualify counsel ... criminally prosecute anybody ... (or) disbar anybody.

“Our job is to investigate these troubling allegations, determine what the facts are, and shine light on these facts.”

The Republican-controlled Senate voted along party lines late last month to form the committee after one of Trump’s co-defendants in the case filed a motion accusing Willis of being involved in an improper relationship with the special prosecutor she hired to pursue the investigation. Trump later joined the motion, which seeks to disqualify Willis from the case.

BILL COWSERT

A federal court hearing on the motions is scheduled for Feb. 15.

The state Senate has the legal authority to launch investigations, including the power to subpoena witnesses and take depositions from witnesses testifying under oath.

But Cowsert noted senators have rarely sought to make use of that investigative authority. In light of that, he drafted a dozen rules that will govern the committee’s activities.

The rules guarantee that at least one minority Democrat must sit on each subcommittee the main panel decides to form, and that Democrats will be afforded the opportunity to attend depositions and ask questions. The nine-member committee includes three Democrats.

Senate Minority Leader Gloria Butler, D-Stone Mountain, a member of the committee, praised Cowsert for ensuring Democrats will have a say as the investigation moves forward.

“A political witch hunt or show trial would damage Georgians’ faith in our political system,” Butler said

After the committee approved the rules unanimously, Cowsert said he will begin hiring staff for the panel, including outside legal counsel.

He said the committee likely will meet within seven to 10 days to start its work and continue meeting every two weeks moving forward.

Cowsert promised the committee will take its work seriously and not use it to score political points.

“This will not be a public media circus,” Cowsert said. “We’re not doing this for publicity.”

Embracing Change, Plan Now: Navigating the Evolution of Newton County

TREY BAILEY
Local Columnist

“There’s nothing to do in this town!” This was a phrase that I would hear all the time in my teens. Growing up in Newton County, the landscape was peaceful but lacked the vibrant pulse of entertainment options and local hangouts. Fast forward to today, and the winds of change have swept through our community, bringing both cheers and concerns.

Many argue that our community’s growth is a double-edged sword, citing increased property taxes, traffic, and crime as unwelcome side effects. But as someone who has witnessed this evolution firsthand, I find myself struggling between the positives and negatives that accompany progress.

The once limited array of entertainment options has grown into a diverse tapestry of shopping and leisure activities. Gone are the days of searching for a spot to gather with friends; today, Newton County boasts a variety of places to eat, relax, and create lasting memories. This growth not only adds vibrancy to our community but also opens doors for economic opportunities and job creation.

Serra Hall, Executive Director of the Industrial Development Authority, recently reported that the Newton County median household income has increased from $48,000 in 2013 to $72,000 in 2023. That is 50 percent more income per household in just 10 years which is an incredible financial improvement for Newtonians!

But some will argue that ANY growth is negative and unwanted. While I understand the sentiment, I feel like this is unrealistic. If we look around, particularly to our NW, we’ll see that metro-Atlanta keeps pushing this way. So, rather than close our eyes and pretend that growth won’t happen here, I think a more reasonable approach is create a solid visionary plan to help guide the growth to the appropriate areas, and at a pace we can sustain.

“Where there is no vision—the people perish.” (Proverbs 29:18)

And during this transformation, it’s essential to appreciate the coexistence of single-family homes on expansive tracts of land AND multi-family complexes. This balance preserves the charm

Leaning into the complexities of life during Lent...

LYN PACE

When our son was five, we started a family prayer practice that we’re still doing with our eleven-year-old today. Like most of the good ideas in our family, it started with my spouse. “Let’s each share a high, low, and grateful from our day,” she said, and we all agreed it was a good idea. I was also searching for a more meaningful way to introduce prayer to our son.

A couple of years into the practice, Sam looked at us one night and said he thought we should add more to the list. Remarkably, this was right around the time Covid was roiling in the world around us. “Okay, what should we add?” I asked. We all thought for a while, but he eventually filled the silence. “Let’s add a beautiful and a wow.” So, we did and, on most nights, unless he’s super tired, we each name our five prayers for the day. We still call them our “H. L. G’s.”

I recently returned from my professional conference where each year I learn from and network with friends and colleagues doing college and university chaplaincy around the United States. The night before I was dreading going. It had been a long day, and I was tired, and it was the weekend. The older I get, the harder it is to get on a plane for some reason too. Ami reminded me that I would probably regret not going and, well, I already had the flight and hotel booked.

The conference was in Los Angeles at the University of Southern California (USC). It should have been sunny, but it turns out LA was getting the rain-storm of the decade. An atmospheric river, they called it. It even had a name, “The Pineapple Express.” It was my first visit there and other than the first evening when I arrived, I never saw the sun.

There was flooding and some landslides, but the area of LA I was in was mostly ok. The Grammy’s still happened about a mile and a half from my hotel despite all the rain. In that building that night, the world was reminded of how beautiful music is—the making of it and our listening to it. We saw it in all the stars of our day, but we also were taken back across the years with artists like Stevie Wonder, Joni Mitchell, and, of course, Tracy Chapman as she performed for the first time in public in years. How’s this for unbridled hypocrisy? Fani Willis, who is prosecuting Donald Trump and others for election fraud, said when running for the job as Fulton County district attorney that she would not date any of her subordinates. According to video footage first reported by the Washington Free Beacon, Willis said on the “The Patricia Crayton Show” in April 2020, “I will certainly not be choosing to date people that work under me,” adding, “I think that what citizens are really, really concerned about is if you chose to have inappropriate contact with employees. There’s nothing I can say on it other than that it is distracting, it is certainly inappropriate for the No. 1 law officer in this state, and it really, really saddens me.” If I’m not mistaken, isn’t she currently canoodling with her underqualified, overpaid assistant, Nathan Wade? I wonder how she will justify this latest revelation? Play the race card again? . . .

A favorite target of the media is the Georgia Department of Corrections. That is where a lot of really bad people are housed and guarded by not enough folks paid not enough money, given the risks they face daily. Much of what has been reported are situations that occurred in the past under different management. I have confidence the current commissioner Tyrone Oliver is the right man for the job. I served as a member of the State Board of Juvenile Justice when he came on board as our commissioner in 2019. He is an excellent, unflappable manager who will make as much of a positive difference as can be made in that difficult and dangerous environment. Wait and see. . . .

Sadly, one of the shining stars of the 1996 Centennial Olympic Games has left us. Banker Jim Mathis was a major player in bringing the Olympic rowing and canoe/kayak venue to Gainesville. It was a huge success during the Games and it still is. Today, the site is known as Lake Lanier Olympic Park, one of the few remaining sports venues from the 1996 Games. A lot of people in Gainesville deserve credit, but none more than the low-key Jim Mathis. He will be missed. . . .

Watching Joe Biden react to a special counsel report on his handling of classified documents in his news conference was like watching a slow train wreck. He sought to assure us of his mental acuity after it was alluded to in the report and then in talking about the Gaza conflict, Biden referred to the president of Egypt as the president of Mexico. Donald Trump, on the other hand, says his GOP rival, Nikki Haley, was in charge of Capitol security when a mob of his supporters stormed the building. He meant then-Speaker Nancy Pelosi. Trump also says Biden could lead us into “World War II.” That war was over 90 years ago. And these are our only two choices for president? . . .

Jennifer Crumbley, the mother of the teenager who killed four students at an Oxford, Michigan, high school in 2021, was found guilty last week of four counts of involuntary manslaughter. The prosecution argued she was responsible for the deaths because she was “grossly negligent” in giving a gun to her 15-year-old son and failing to get him proper mental health treatment despite obvious signs. Crumbley’s defense attorney argued, “Can every parent really be responsible for everything their children do, especially when it’s not foreseeable?” Absolutely, including not giving a gun to an unstable kid who is 15. . . .

Week Five under the Gold Dome

BRIAN STRICKLAND
Senator

We have officially completed five weeks of legislative business under the Gold Dome, and it’s hard to believe that we are nearly halfway through the 2024 Legislative Session. While I am proud of the legislative progress we have made as a Senate body, we have plenty of work left to do for both the 17th district and our state. I am excited to work with my fellow senators and Republican caucus members to continue our mission of passing meaningful legislation for Georgia. As a majority, we have enjoyed a highly effective session and biennium, and it’s important that we finish the drill.

Since the start of the legislative session, I have been drafting and advocating for legislation that enhances community safety located in all parts of the legislative process. Specifically, I am happy to say that House Bill 166, which I carried in the Senate, received final passage this week. HB 166 would revise the eligibility criteria for constables by requiring them to be at least 21 years old, citizens of the United States, registered voters and possess a state-accredited high school diploma or GED diploma. The objective is to standardize and update the qualifications required for constables in Georgia to ensure that local officers are better equipped and trained. As we move into the final half of the legislative session progresses, I will continue to do the people’s work and push for legislation that achieves these priorities.

Additionally, my colleagues and I joined members of the House to hear from Chief Justice Michael P. Boggs as he delivered the State of the Judiciary address. During the address, Chief Justice Boggs updated the Georgia General Assembly on several meaningful judicial efforts, including judicial security and retention. As lawmakers, we must protect our law enforcers both in the line of duty and on the bench. By protecting our law enforcers, we can play a key role in retaining judges who are committed to preserving justice in our great state.

This week, Senators took part in their respective appropriations subcommittees. In these hearings, members listened to budget requests from state agencies related to the Amended Fiscal Year 2024 budget. As I mentioned in our week two update when legislators participated in “Budget Week,” these meetings are essential as we continue to maintain our AAA bond rating and $16 billion surplus – all thanks to practical fiscal conservatism. PACE on CONT. FROM A4 their now shared hit of "Fast Car" was a snapshot of hope.

My conference was good too. I reconnected with colleagues, a few of them mentors to me over these twenty-one years in chaplaincy. The USC Trojan Band showed up to play for us at the opening of the first night's dinner. And the actor Rainn Wilson (who played Dwight on the television show, "The Office") talked about his new book, Soul Boom: Why We Need a Spiritual Revolution.

I made it back home to Georgia just in time for our prayer practice on Tuesday night. In part, it helped me get caught up on some of the things I had missed at home. In my prayers, I recounted much of what I just shared here in this article. Trying to capture my prayers from the entire weekend. Including a low for the people in the LA area and all the weather they endured. A grateful that my travels had been safe. And a wow that we can somehow be on one side of this ginormous country in the morning and on the other later that same day. It still blows my mind.

I love our prayer practice. Because it encourages us to think about our days with greater intention not only at the end of the day but all throughout. Perhaps the greater meaning, though, is related to the upcoming Christian season of Lent. These forty days that lead us to Holy Week and Easter are days of pilgrimage. We journey through the season with the opportunity to more deeply understand how we live amid the complexities of life. That the highs and gratefuls of our life sit right beside the lows too. That a wow may be a glad surprise, or it may very well shake us to our core. Sometimes it's both. The season of Lent is a season that reminds us of this, especially as it winds its way to Holy Week, a week of tremendous highs and lows in the life of Jesus.

Divisive politics. Flights that return home safely. Weather disasters. Joy of new life. Woes of war and death across the globe. We need prayer and other contemplative practices that help us learn how to live with these complexities. Our life is full of them – ones that affect us personally and others we, perhaps, only see on the news or in the prayer concerns in our worshipping community.

The season of Lent gives us time and space to journey into the paradox of life. I'm both awed by that and grateful for it.

STRICKLAND diligence at every level:
CONT. FROM A4 from subcommittees, to committees and on the Senate floor. Georgia's working-class families deserve legislators dedicated to balancing dollars and cents, and the Senate's Republican majority is proud to continue leading this charge.

As always, I want to invite students between the ages of 12 and 18 to serve as a Capitol Page. This program encourages Georgia's next generation of leaders to participate in the legislative process by providing a front-row seat to a day's work in the Georgia Senate. Many of our current legislators participated in this program and first became interested

BAILEY while
CONT. FROM A4 accom- mo- dating the needs of a growing population. Let's cherish the roots of our past while fostering the branches of our future.

As we stand at this crossroads, local leaders hold the key to steering our community towards a harmonious future. It's time to craft a new comprehensive strategic plan for Newton County, one that elinates urban sprawl, ensures organized development, continues our focus on walkability with trails, and fosters green spaces. A well-thought-out plan is not a shackle; it's a compass guiding us towards sustainable growth.

This plan needs to incorporate the vision of the people and the voice of the businesses and land-owners. I feel certain there is a beautiful picture, a preferred future, for what we want our community to look and feel like. There must be a middle ground where we can gain consensus, for the sake of our kids and our grand-kids.

The urgency for this strategic plan cannot be overstated. Now, with industry giants like Archer Aviation, Rivian, Takeda, Amazon, and Meta choosing Newton County as their home, the time is ripe for concerted action. These companies don't just bring jobs; they usher in a new era of prosperity for our community.

But if we are not careful, industry and apartment complexes could take over our beloved town. Industry, housing, and economic development businesses rarely ask moral questions. This isn't to say that businesses are bad or immoral; they are businesses. They exist to make profit. There's nothing wrong with that. We need that in our community. However, they do not ask, "Is this business (development) the right thing for our community at this time?" Nor should they. But someone should. And whoever that "someone" is, now is the time.

Yes, we need business of all sizes in our community.

Yes, we need housing for all income sectors.

And yes, with growth comes some complexity...but it does not have to be disordered.

So, let's dispel the notion that growth is synonymous with chaos. Instead, envision a Newton County where organized planning transforms potential urban sprawl into thoughtfully designed neighborhoods. Picture parks, trails, and green spaces weaving through the fabric of our community, creating a haven for residents to connect in serving Georgia citizens because of their time spent as a Capitol Page. I encourage any students interested in the legislative process who want to spend a day at our Capitol to apply for our program using the link: <https://www.legis.ga.gov/senate/staffing>.

Please never hesitate to contact my office if I can assist with legislative matters.

with nature and each other.

To our long-time locals, I assure you that embracing change doesn't mean abandoning our roots. It's about preserving the essence of Newton County while welcoming progress at the right pace and at the right time. The recipe for success lies in striking a delicate balance that accommodates the influx of opportunities without sacrificing the soul of our community.

As a beacon of hope in the fog of metro-Atlanta, let's view this transformation as an opportunity for Newton County to SHINE. Our past may be the foundation, but our future is a canvas waiting to be painted. Together, let's urge our local leaders to seize this moment and create a collective vision for our community and a strategic plan that will guide Newton County toward a future where growth and tradition coexist harmoniously.

Hammer named GPTC student of the year

STAFF REPORT
THE NEWS

A home-schooled 20-year old with nine siblings has been named the student of the year for Georgia Piedmont Technical College.

Medical assisting student and 2024 Georgia Occupational Award of Leadership (GOAL) winner for Georgia Piedmont, Allison “Ally” Hammer of Covington, calls herself “number four in the lineup” of 10 children; she has five sisters and four brothers.

Hammer jokes that she chose Georgia Piedmont Technical College while searching the college website at three in the morning one day in August.

She “went down the rabbit hole of the amazing technical programs” and quickly found herself hooked by all the offerings and enthusiasm of everyone she contacted.

Hammer started in the practical nursing program but transferred to medical assisting when she saw how many opportunities it offered. She is set to finish her program in August of this year.

“I would recommend GPTC or any technical education to others – especially high schoolers,” Hammer said. “When it comes to education, I believe that technical/trade programs are incredibly important and make the world run. You are pretty much always guaranteed a job immediately after completing the program.”

There were ten other nominees for the GPTC 2024 GOAL award: Gabriel Butts, Hannah Dockery (finalist), Subharda Gupta, Marcilla Johnson (finalist), Taylor Russell, Angela Saldana, Angela Taylor, Viviana Villanueva (finalist), Rodrigous Williams (finalist) and Selam Wondimagegn.

Hammer collected a $500 award from the GPTC Foundation.

Hammer will go on to compete regionally in March. Regional winners will vie for the state title in April. Statewide winners will be advocates for Georgia’s technical education system for the next year and the GOAL winner will drive home in a new car.

STAR

Emma Grace Lumpkin, Eastside High School and NCCA STEM Institute (DISTRICT STAR RECIPIENTS)

Lumpkin has taken AP World History, Physics, Calculus, Statistics and Seminar during her high school career. In addition, she has taken several dual enrollment courses, including English, American Literature, US History, Economics and Public Speaking.

She is President of the NCCA TSA Chapter, competes on the VEX Robotics team, serves as captain of the math team, represents her school on the Superintendent’s Student Advisory Council, competes on the Academic Team, serves as STEM Ambassador and STEM Mentor and she also is on the NCCA Associate Board of Directors.

Despite her heavy schedule, Lumpkin also plays soccer.

Lumpkin will attend Georgia Tech in the fall where she plans to major in mechanical engineering with a possible concentration in robotics. She would like to pursue a career in the field of mechanical engineering and would one day like to work for NASA building robotics.

Lumpkin chose Allred as her STAR Teacher.

This is Allred’s fifth time being selected as a STAR Teacher, but Lumpkin shared why she chose him to be her STAR Teacher.

“I’ve had Mr. Allred all four years. He is my TSA advisor and I’ve spent so much time with him throughout high school,” Lumpkin said. “It’s through what he taught me that helped me see that I’m interested in engineering. His class is always fun and enjoyable. He’s a great teacher.”

Ella Whitehead, Alcovy High School and NCCA STEM Institute

Ella Whitehead is a senior at Alcovy High School and the NCCA STEM Institute and she was named Alcovy High School’s Star Student after scoring 1210 out of 1600 on the SAT.

Whitehead has taken numerous Advanced Placement courses throughout high school, including World History, US History, Biology, Language, Literature, Seminar, Calculus and Chemistry. She has also been a dual enrollment student and earned credit for collegiate level courses such as economics, sociology, and psychology from Georgia State University.

Whitehead is active in clubs and other extracurricular activities at both Alcovy High School and the NCCA STEM Institute. She is the president of the Crochet for a Cause Club, has competed in the Reading Bowl, serves on the Youth Action Team and also the Youth Leadership team at church.

Whitehead also volunteers for the Repairers of the Breach.

Whitehead has earned a full ride scholarship to her dream college, Duke University. In addition to the full scholarship, Duke University will also be funding a GAP Year for Whitehead, where she will spend nine months participating in a Mission Race through Thailand, Guatemala, Romania and Cambodia.

When she returns to her studies, she plans to major in marine biology with a minor in Oceanography. Her career goal is to become a marine biologist.

Whitehead selected her NCCA STEM Institute science instructor, Laura Lambert as her STAR Teacher. This is Lambert’s third time being named a STAR Teacher.

Whitehead’s admiration for Lambert led to her STAR Teacher selection.

“I’ve had Ms. Lambert all four years of high school. I really admire her as a teacher and a person,” Whitehead said. “She inspired my love for research and has been a big role model in my academic career.”

Savannah Jones, Newton High School and NCCA STEM Institute

Savannah Jones is a senior at Newton High School and the NCCA STEM Institute. She earned the Newton High School STAR Student honor after scoring 1460 out of 1600 on the SAT in one sitting.

During her high school career, Jones has taken numerous Advanced Placement courses, including World History, US History, Calculus, Language, Physics, Macroeconomics, Literature, Seminar and Statistics. She is also active in extracurricular activities, which include TSA, FBLA, Art Club, Youth Action Team and Yearbook at both Newton High School and the STEM Institute, where she serves as chief editor.

Jones has applied to several colleges and universities, to include her first choice, MIT, as well as Columbia, Georgia Tech, University of Michigan, Cornell, Harvard, Spelman and the University of Georgia. She is waiting to hear back on all her applications before making a final decision.

Although she has not finalized where she will attend college, Jones does know she would like to major in civil engineering with a possible minor in environmental law or graphic design. She would like to pursue a career as a civil engineer and work in residential or transportation systems to create more sustainable infrastructures.

Jones chose Trina Burroughs, her journalism teacher at Newton High School, as her STAR Teacher. This is Burroughs’ second time being named a STAR Teacher.

Jones explained why she selected Burroughs.

“I just like her energy. She is fun and outgoing, and she pushes her students to succeed. As my yearbook teacher, she presented me with the opportunity for my first solid leadership position and she taught me how to be a better leader in the classroom,” Jones said. “She is very supportive, and I have really enjoyed my years in her class. Plus, she makes a mean banana pudding!”

Dr. Duke Bradley III recognized the accomplishments of all three students.

“Congratulations to our outstanding STAR Students, Emma Grace Lumpkin, Ella Whitehead, and Savannah Jones, for their remarkable achievements on the SAT,” Bradley said. “Their dedication and academic excellence shine bright, setting a high standard for our school system.”

“I want to express my appreciation to their STAR Teachers, Ms. Laura Lambert, Ms. Trina Burroughs, and Mr. Ryan Allred, for their guidance and commitment to student success. Well done to our students and thank you to our teachers and the entire school system for preparing them for this success. Your accomplishments make us proud and showcase the excellence of the Newton County School System.”

Rams enter new era with Delvin Jordan

GARRETT PITTS | SPORTS EDITOR

The Newton Rams baseball program looks to get to new heights in 2024 under first-year head coach Delvin Jordan.

Jordan was named as the Rams' new skipper over the offseason, and he was impressed with the team's work ethic upon his arrival.

"I saw some guys who grinded," Jordan said. "It was nice to take over a team that has some kids who have leadership and really work hard. I was excited to see that and we have a lot of potential."

Along with Jordan came his expectations for the team to be great.

The standard of the program is something that Jordan has been harping on to the team as they head into the season.

"I wanted to bring an identity," Jordan said. "An identity that the culture is going to be set that we expect to win. The expectation is to come in and demand excellence."

The Rams are coming off a 11-18 season in which they finished 4-11 in Region 4-AAAAAA play.

With last year's 11 wins being Newton's highest win total since the 2017-2018 season, Jordan is looking for the current Rams squad to set the bar higher.

"I have been preaching since I got here that, 'Winners win.' The guys have bought in, and that is the standard. The goal is to win 20 games," Jordan said.

One area where Jordan feels comfortable is his pitching rotation.

BROWN SEES GROWTH ACROSS BULLDOGS CAREER

PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
MANAGING EDITOR

For the past four years, Gino Brown has taken the court for the Covington Academy boys basketball squad. In his last hurrah as a Bulldog, Brown eclipsed 1,000 career points, which was a goal for the senior.

Over the offseason, Brown was intentional about improving facets of his game to help check this particular item off the list.

"I've been working a lot on shooting off the dribble and creating my own shot, but not trying to force shots and kind of let the game come to me," Brown said.

Throughout the season, Brown has taken note that his high school career was coming to an end.

"After the game, it's like, 'This is one less game I have left in high school,'" Brown said. "During the game, I don't really think about it. I'm just trying to think about playing well so we can win and just do everything I can for my team."

Brown's start on the hardwood began when he was in the fifth grade. Prior to that, he played baseball until a moment happened that piqued his interest in his current No. 1 sport.

"My whole life, I grew up playing baseball," Brown said. "And then one day I saw my friends playing basketball outside and I was like, 'Oh yeah, I like this. This is something new."

From there, Brown played two years at the Newton County Recreation Department on the Seminoles and Thunder. At Liberty Middle School, he played in seventh and eighth grade as, when Brown was in middle school, sixth graders could not play.

He has played in the AAU circuit as well.

Brown then transitioned to Covington Academy where he has played high school ball all four years.

Across each season, Brown has noticed a change in himself on and off the court.

"Coming to Covington Academy, every year I've learned that it's not always about being perfect, it's about knowing when you mess up to go back and get the ball back. As long as you're giving it 100 percent, it doesn't really matter what happens," Brown said. "I've gotten more confident knowing that I've put in the work and seeing the work I put in translating to the game. It makes you more confident and you start betting on yourself more."

Head coach Trell Grimes described how special of a player Brown has been for the Bulldogs throughout his career.

"He gives you everything he has every night," Grimes said. "He never complains and does what is asked of him regardless if he agrees or disagrees."

When Brown graduates from Covington Academy in May, he will leave with two state titles in his freshman and sophomore seasons as well

TIGERS HAVE REGION TITLE ON THEIR MIND

Alcovy looking for more after third place finish in 2023

JET RAWLS
CORRESPONDENT

Last year, Alcovy made strides to claim its first finish over .500 since the 2012 season.

This year, The Tigers have their eyes on much more than just a winning record.

In their first season under head coach Kareem Hayes, the Tigers saw a 10-game improvement from the 2021-22 stretch which netted them the No. 3 seed in the playoffs for Region 3-AAAAAA. The third place playoff berth was the best finish the Tigers have had since the 2015 season.

The 2024 Tigers took to the diamond for the first time as a team on Feb. 7 in an 8-7 scrimmage victory against Stockbridge. First baseman Parker Gassman slammed a homerun in the win. Hayes was pleased with the team performance in the scrimmage.

“We played extremely well, not having much time to prepare with the weather and whatnot,” Hayes said. “But we’re just making sure these guys know the little things. Make sure we’re focusing on the little things, hitting-wise, fielding and pitching”

Captain Cooper Duncan, who led Alcovy with 23 RBIs last year, emphasized that the team had a lot to improve upon throughout the season.

However, the junior left no doubt about the Tigers’ goals for the 2024 season.

“First off, we’re looking for a region championship,” Duncan said. “Coming off a third place finish is a little disappointing. But, as a team, we want to get to the region, play our game and just go from there and get past the first round.”

Duncan is not the only pitcher looking to make big strides this season.

Sophomore Chris Guillory was selected to participate in the MLB Dream Series, where over 80 players from across the country learn from former big-league stars.

“He’s grown so much,” Hayes said. “Just from being a freshman last year to a sophomore now, he’s grown so much. Maturity level, he’s grown. Baseball-wise, learning from the different major league guys has definitely helped his game and his knowledge of the game.”

To claim the region title, the Tigers have to go through the defending champion Woodward Academy.

Last year, Woodward Academy blazed through the region with an undefeated, 14-0 region record. Alcovy mustered just one run in both games of the series, but will likely need more when the teams clash on March 18 and 20.

Behind Woodward, Forest Park stands between the Tigers and first place in the region. The schools split the series last year with Alcovy taking home the last head-to-head contest. Alcovy will head to face the Panthers on March 27, and play host to them two days later on March 29.

Fellow captain Reece Payne will suit up for one final season in a Tiger uniform.

The slugger batted .450 as a junior and crossed the plate 32 times, the most on the team. Payne said that he has learned a few lessons throughout his first three seasons.

“I learned that you’re not going to win every game,” Payne said. “I learned that, at the end of the day, you just have to stay positive. Don’t worry about the little things.”

Alcovy’s quest to reach the top of the region will begin on March 4 against Mundy’s Mill.

Hayes confirmed the team’s goal was to win the region championship, but his goal as a coach was something far different.

“Just making sure these guys are better men at the end of the day,” Hayes said. “Making sure they’re better human beings and understanding the game of baseball and loving the game of baseball.”

The state title his sophomore year is a memory that still jumps out to Brown today, too.

“I feel like that was one of my better games I played,” Brown said.

Now, with his high school graduation coming up soon, Brown is eager to continue his playing career in the college ranks.

“Right now, it’s all about, ‘I want to play at the next level,’” Brown said. “Whether it’s NEIA or Division III or even if I have to go the JuCo route for a year to get my name up there so I can transfer. But for right now, I just want to go play basketball at the next level and get my degree in business administration. So, one day I can open up my own company.”

Jordan named Jordan Nolley, Caden Brown, Lucas Ballard, Rome Mays and Devon Hardeman as just a few of the guys will take the mound for Newton in 2024.

“I have a stable. I have eight guys that I feel like I can trust,” Jordan said.

As far as at the plate, Jordan is looking for Newton to have an uptick in its power numbers from a year ago while sticking to the fundamentals.

“I think last year they hit about three home runs together. I think this year we should see about 10 home runs,” Jordan said. “But at the end of the day, if they put the ball in play — hit doubles, run bases, get our bunts down, be good on the bases and barrel some baseballs, then I’ll be excited.”

Jordan tabbed Brown as one of Newton’s leaders on the diamond.

Brown started Newton’s scrimmage against Jackson County last Thursday. The junior picked up a double and a triple while striking out two batters in just one inning of work.

Outside of Brown, Jordan spoke about seniors Ballard, Mays and Nolley as leaders in the Rams dugout.

As Newton goes into the 2024 season, Jordan looks to turn the page into a new era of Rams baseball.

“I am excited to take over a new program and take it to new heights,” Jordan said. “I think they have won around a combined 30 games the past three seasons, and I expect to break that quickly with the work we put in and setting the foundation.”

Sarah Gilman in Season 3 of "CSI: Vegas"

Back to the lab: 'CSI: Vegas' returns to prove one of their own's innocence

When a famed forensics lab drops everything to prove your innocence, your days being held in custody for murder are numbered, right? That's what lead investigator Josh Folsom (Matt Lauria, "Kingdom") is hoping for in the season premiere of "CSI: Vegas," airing Sunday, Feb. 18, on CBS. After Folsom's mother's killer was found dead in last season's finale episode, the investigator was dragged away, suspected to be responsible for the death.

The whodunnit cliffhanger has kept audiences on their toes for months in the extended break between seasons of "CSI: Vegas," affected by the strikes last year. It doesn't seem like the killer's identity and Folsom's fate will be a mystery for very long, per the premiere episode description from CBS, as the new season opens with "the CSI team [combing] through every crumb of forensic evidence to determine his innocence or guilt."

Paula Newsome ("Barry") leads the team as Maxine Roby, head of the crime lab, supported by Mandeep Dhillon ("Avoidance") as investigator Allie Rajan, Ariana Guerra ("Promised Land") as Det. Serena Chavez, Jay Lee ("Looking for Alaska") as investigator Chris Park, Lex Medlin ("Drop Dead Diva") as investigator Beau Finado, Sara Amini ("Lucky Hank") as chief medical examiner Sonya Nikolayevich, Sarah Gilman ("Those Who Can't") as rookie investigator Penny Gill, and reprising her role as investigator Catherine Willows from the hit establishing series "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation," Marg Helgenberger ("All Rise"), the only original series cast member to appear in more than one season of the "Vegas" reboot.

Ahead of her first appearance last season, Helgenberger spoke with Entertainment Weekly about her return to the franchise, praising the new cast.

"They couldn't have been more welcoming. But it was interesting because I had played Catherine Willows for so many years, It's like a part of me," said Helgenberger. "In terms of establishing a camaraderie or an instant chemistry, it was pretty natural, I have to say, and I think it's because I played this character for so long."

Meanwhile, Folsom's fate is in the hands of the CSI team, but it's not just work for some members of the lab. Det. Chavez herself may just be a little too close to Folsom to help build a case for his innocence — the pair have established a romantic relationship when they are off the clock. Complicating matters more, Allie, in addition to being a senior investigator in the lab, is Folsom's ex. Bolstering a former boyfriend's innocence is all in a day's work.

It's no secret that salacious, outlandish cases are part of the DNA of any "CSI" series, and "Vegas" is no exception. The procedural has a habit of using comedy to create some levity over gory crime scenes and graphic medical examinations. Suspicious deaths at a clown hotel, a secret sex dungeon and a masquerade party are just a few examples of the cases that have ended up in the lab over the course of the show's first two seasons, not to mention more than one elaborate frame up. Nothing less could be expected from the crimes of Las Vegas.

"CSI: Vegas" moves from Thursday nights to a coveted Sunday prime time spot on CBS, alongside action drama "The Equalizer," returning for its fourth season, and the brand new series "Tracker," starring Justin Hartley ("This Is Us"). The second season of "CSI: Vegas" upped the episode order from its first season's 10 episodes to a whopping 21 episodes, however this season is back to a tight 10. Many network procedurals have premiered abridged seasons of 10 to 13 episodes given the work stoppage during the writers and screen actors guild strikes.

BEST JUDY GARLAND MOVIES

"The Wizard of Oz" (1939): Well, of course. Generations continue to regale in the adventures of Dorothy Gale, Garland's character who is whisked from a Kansas farm — along with Toto, of course — into a magical land where she makes fast friends with the Tin Man, the Scarecrow and the Cowardly Lion (Jack Haley, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr).

"Babes on Broadway" (1941): One of the best of the variations on the "Let's put on a show!" theme well-covered by Garland and Mickey Rooney, this musical-comedy finds their characters staging a charity benefit.

"For Me and My Gal" (1942): Garland and Gene Kelly are expectedly terrific together as a performing team whose act — and budding romance — may be bashed by wartime obligations.

"Meet Me in St. Louis" (1944): The duet of "Under the Bamboo Tree" by Garland and Margaret O'Brien is an irresistible part of this tale of four sisters who resent their father's job transfer to New York — which means they'll have to move from their beloved St. Louis with him.

"Easter Parade" (1948): You surely know on which holiday this picture always makes a television appearance. Irving Berlin's score fuels this saga with Garland, Fred Astaire and Ann Miller as performers whose career choices largely are dictated by their romantic ties, past and present.

"In the Good Old Summertime" (1949): The premise of unidentified loves that also has driven "You've Got Mail" services this great musical, which — as Liza Minnelli points out in "That's Entertainment!" — features her, at a very young age, with her mom Garland in the closing scene.

"Summer Stock" (1950): Reunited with Gene Kelly, Garland is highly enjoyable as a farmer who lends her barn to a theater troupe, with typical MGM-musical romantic complications following in 3 ... 2 ... 1.

"A Star Is Born" (1954): Garland is the main factor setting this version of the much-told tale apart as she plays Esther Blodgett, whose showbiz career rises — under the stage name Vicki Lester — as that of the man she loves, Norman Maine (James Mason), sinks. Standout musical performances by Garland include "The Man That Got Away" and "Born in a Trunk."

"Judgment at Nuremberg" (1961): Garland hadn't made a movie in several years when she became part of director Stanley Kramer's all-star cast in this gripping drama about war-crime trials.

“Pupstruction” - Season 1, New Episodes (Feb. 21)

This imaginative and vibrant animated series follows the adventures of the Pupstruction team, a hard-working construction crew that includes Phinny, the crew leader, an innovative young corgi; Luna, a comically spontaneous sheepdog; Roxy, a can-do rottweiler; and Tank, a lovable, snack-obsessed mastiff. Although Phinny might be the smallest pup on the crew, he proves that you don't need big paws to have big ideas. Together, the Pupstruction crew uses mud, sweat, drool and plenty of heart to build and create.

“Star Wars: The Bad Batch” - Season 3 (Feb. 21)

The third and final season of this animated series makes its debut. The Batch will have their limits tested in the fight to reunite with Omega (Michelle Ang) as she faces challenges of her own inside a remote Imperial science lab. With the group fractured and facing threats from all directions, they will have to seek out unexpected allies, embark on dangerous missions, and muster everything they have learned to free themselves from the Empire.

“The Space Race” (Available Now)

Weaving together the stories of Black astronauts seeking to break the bonds of social injustice to reach for the stars, including Guion Bluford, Ed Dwight and Charles Bolden, among many others, this film, from directors Diego Hurtado de Mendoza and Lisa Cortés, profiles the pioneering Black pilots, scientists and engineers who joined NASA to serve their country in space, even as their country failed to achieve equality for them back on Earth.

“Genius: MLK/X” (Available Now)

The fourth installment of the “Genius” anthology series, “MLK/X” follows both King and X from their formative years, where they were molded by strong fathers and traumatic injustices, to their rich, parallel stories as they shaped their identities and became the change they wished to see in the world. The ensemble cast includes Kelvin Harrison Jr. as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Aaron Pierre as Malcolm X, Weruche Opia as Coretta Scott King and Jayme Lawson as Betty Shabazz.

Tracing an award winner's Field of TV dreams

BY JAY BOBBIN

Q: I recently saw the movie "The Way West" on cable, and the opening credits said, "Introducing Sally Field." Hadn't she done a TV series before that? – Victor Smith, Orlando, Fla.

A: The then-future Oscar and Primetime Emmy winner had the title role in ABC's series version of "Gidget" during the 1965-66 season, and she had a recurring part in the NBC sitcom "Hey, Landlord" early in 1967. "The Way West," released in the spring of 1967, was Field's first major movie credit (after an uncredited appearance in the 1962 Disney feature "Moon Pilot").

In fact, 1967 was quite an active year for Field. That fall, she began her three-season run in ABC's "The Flying Nun," and she then stayed largely with TV work by upping her drama cred with parts on other series and in TV-movies. However, she also did another sitcom, NBC's "The Girl With Something Extra" (1973-74). As it happens, that show and "Gidget" are included in a weekend-long Catchy Comedy marathon of Field's television efforts that continues Sunday, Feb. 18.

Feature-film employment increased for Field after "Stay Hungry" (1976) and the enormously successful "Smokey and the Bandit" (1977), and she stayed principally in that venue until she returned to TV in a recurring role in NBC's "ER" and a starring part in ABC's "Brothers & Sisters." She also was featured later in the Netflix drama "Maniac."

Q: I enjoyed Barry Manilow's Christmas special. Will he be doing another special soon? – Kim Bright, via e-mail

A: No plans had been announced for that as of this writing, but the ever-popular music superstar is sure to keep popping up on various programs from time to time, as he did recently on NBC's "Christmas in Rockefeller Center," the syndicated "The Kelly Clarkson Show" and ABC's "The View." It's also likely that his "A Very Barry Christmas" special for NBC will get repeats in future holiday seasons.

As Manilow told us at the time of that latter show's first airing, he basically delivered it ready-made to NBC, since it was a slightly condensed version of the performance he presents in live appearances during the holiday period each year. However, he added his belief that the lighting and extra decor for the TV version made it that much more special.

Judges Simon Cowell, Heidi Klum, Howie Mandel and Mel B have faced a roller coaster of emotions throughout this special season of "AGT," battling it out as they face the twists, turns and surprises involved in the big leagues. Thankfully, the end is nigh, as a winner will be crowned in the season finale of "America's Got Talent: Fantasy League," airing Monday, Feb. 19, on NBC.
