For the ladies of Delta Sigma Theta, community service and philanthropy projects are second nature.

Donning their traditional red and black colors, the goal for the sisterhood was to abide by the standards set all the way back in 1913 – to commit to providing assistance to those in need.

On Feb. 22, their commitment to service continued, as members from the Covington Area Alumni Chapter (CAAC) donated several care packages of supplies to the Rainbow Community Shelter.

The packages included everyday essential items that will be used to help the unhoused.

Tawonna Hutchinson, an organizer and member of the Delta Sigma Theta CAAC chapter, shared her thoughts on the significance of this project.

"We created some packages for the unhoused to help support those in our community and to let them know that they are loved," Hutchinson said.

In addition to Hutchinson, four other members including Yolanda Wyatt, Dione Mills,

A movie night featuring the movie “Black Panther” was shown at Legion Field right after the food truck Friday.
	As a precursor to the parade, patrons heard music from the Washington Street Community Center’s children’s choir as well as the MLK Community Choir.			The parade contained representation from a number of different organizations, including the Central GA East Black Chamber, East Metro 4 Social Justice, United States Veterans, the Newton County NAACP, the east suburban Atlanta Chapter Jack and Jill of America, the Georgia Top 10 club and the Regular Grand Lodge of Georgia A.A.R.			Community development director for the city of Covington, Ken Malcom, said that all of these events, paired with the growing crowd year-by-year for the parade show that community engagement is important.
	Moments before the parade, Terri James took the stage to lead everyone into the event. “Enjoy yourself. It’s a beautiful day, it’s a little chilly but we’re still gonna have a good time in Jesus’ name,” James said.			Additionally, members of the Delta Sigma Theta sorority and Omega Psi Phi fraternity were in attendance for the parade.			“The crowd is building from what we had last year and people gathered here to watch it and we want to continue to see that,” Malcom said.

Malcom said he hopes the event will be “bigger and better” next year and that his team will continue to work with the many partners involved with the event.
	Serving as honorary grand marshal was superintendent of Newton County School System (NCSS), Dr. Duke Bradley III.			A number of youth organizations were represented, too. Those include Clements Middle School, the Queen’s G.E.M.S. program, the Bomb Squad travel softball team and MBS karate, just to name a few.			The city of Covington plans to continue to make the event bigger and better for next year.
	Bradley shared that it was his first time participating in Newton County’s Black History Month’s proceedings, but said that the event summed up what Newton County is all about. “It was a beautiful coming together of our community,” Bradley said. “I really didn’t know what to expect, but what stood out was that everybody in our community participat-			Leading into the parade, the city of Covington held additional Black History Month events.			“Thanks to the dedication of the organizers, the city of Covington continues to see growth and participation for this annual event,” per a statement from the city of Covington. “Our downtown looks forward to hosting the parade again next year.”

Quick, before February is over I gotta get this out, a bit of pondering regarding Black history from the perspective of a southern white guy. And although it's a bit of a cliché, it bears repeating: in these United States, Black history is the history of all of us.

That was easy to be reminded of last week when I found myself quietly tooling around in my old beloved college town of Milledgeville. I attended Georgia College when it was a bit smaller (before it was redundantly and eye-rollingingly renamed "Georgia College & State University"). Back in those days, our sports teams were "The Colonials," and our colors were brown and yellow. (They tried to tell us that the "yellow" was "gold," but ...c'mom.)

My first stop: Andalusia, the farm home of Milledgeville's favorite daughter, Flannery O'Connor. It was good to get a pre-opening walk through the new Interpretive Center (the ribbon cutting is to be on March 24th). It intrigues me to see what becomes a venerable artifact when a famous person's house is cleaned out; among the items on display under glass cases are a six-pack of Cokes and some unopened rolls of toilet paper.

I must confess that when it comes to my personal relationships with institutions of higher education, like a child split between parents, my loyalty is torn between my alma mater, Georgia College, and my long-time employer, Emory University. I glow with pride that Georgia College has owned and maintained Andalusia since 2017. Meanwhile, Emory has obtained most of Miss O'Connor's papers, so – in a manner of speaking – Emory got the kids and Georgia College got the house.

When walking the grounds of Andalusia, it's easy to imagine what it was like as a working farm in the first half of the twentieth century. And I began thinking about one of America's most profound literary/agricultural coincidences; Andalusia's

Black History Month is Important

EVAN NEWTON
News Editor

This past Saturday, I was in attendance at the third annual Black History Month parade in Covington.

It was an event I had marked in my calendar for quite some time, as traversing to Covington on Saturday's isn't typical for me.

For those who may not know, I currently live in Monticello 30 minutes away and I typically spend my weekends in my college alma mater town, Milledgeville, which is an additional 45 minutes away. While I'll quite often write during the weekends, I typically don't travel in-person for work then.

But this weekend was different. This weekend was special and it was critical that I be there to witness history in motion.

And I'm so glad I made the drive, because the parade was absolutely incredible. From beginning-to-end it was captivating, it was powerful and it was moving. Kudos to everyone involved.

You see, this 22-year old, long haired hippie is a big supporter of Black History Month. It is important to realize that many pivotal moments in American history circle back into a number of stories that are so often told during the month of February. Of course, those stories include a quantity of not-so-glamorous stories that involve the senseless discrimination of African Americans over the years.

It's important that I, a white man, educate myself to the best of my ability to continue to make progress from the stories that I have grown up hearing and learning about.

It is also important that I, a white man, continue to educate myself on issues that are still persisting. Because while we've made progress, we still have a good ways more to go.

And rather than be a part of the problem, I hope to be a part of the solution.

Being a part of the solution means showing up to events like the Black History Month parade. It also means continuing to have those difficult conversations with my friends and peers who are Black.

It also means teaching the next generation what's right and how everyone should be treated with dignity and respect, but also realizing that times haven't always been that way.

That's how I'll continue to show support for a month that is critical to not just American history but the American future.

In the meantime, I'll be looking forward to next February 2025 and the next Black History Month parade where I hope I can continue to see the great community that is Covington and Newton County.

Celebrating Black History: Honoring the Legacy of African American Women in Leadership

ALANA SANDERS
Guest Columnist

As the first African American female elected to the Board of Commissioners in our community and the first minority to win my district, I am deeply honored to reflect on the significance of Black History Month. This annual observance serves as a poignant reminder of the resilience, contributions, and enduring legacy of African Americans, particularly Black women, throughout history. As we commemorate this month, it is essential to recognize the journey from the Civil Rights Movement to the present day and celebrate the progress we have made while acknowledging the work that still lies ahead.

The story of Black women's journey in America is one of strength, perseverance, and triumph in the face of adversity. From the days of slavery to the Civil Rights Movement and beyond, Black women have played pivotal roles in shaping our nation's history, often in the face of systemic discrimination and marginalization. Their voices, though often silenced, have been instrumental in advancing the cause of equality and justice for all.

One such inspiring story is that of Fannie Lou Hamer, a fearless civil rights activist who fought tirelessly for voting rights and social justice in the 1960s. Despite facing violence, intimidation, and imprisonment, Hamer never wavered in her commitment to the struggle for equality. Her courage and determination paved the way for generations of Black women to take their rightful place in positions of leadership and influence.

The significance of Black History Month extends beyond mere recognition; it is a time to reflect on the progress we have made and the work that still needs to be done. In 2024, African Americans have made tremendous strides in various fields, including politics, business, education, and the arts. However, systemic inequalities and injustices persist, reminding us of the ongoing fight for racial equality and social justice.

As the first African American female elected to the Board of Commissioners, I am acutely aware of the responsibility that comes with this historic achievement. I stand on the shoulders of those who came before me, trailblazers like Shirley Chisholm, the first Black woman elected to the United States Congress, and Barbara Jordan, the first Black woman elected to the Texas Senate. Their courage and perseverance inspire me to continue the work of breaking down barriers and creating opportunities for future generations.

Black History Month also provides an opportunity to celebrate the cultural richness and diversity of the African American experience. From the vibrant rhythms of jazz and blues to the soul-stirring poetry of Langston Hughes and Maya Angelou, African American culture has left an indelible mark on the fabric of American society. It is a testament to the resilience and creativity of a people who have overcome adversity and thrived in the face of adversity.

Looking at some serious monkey business in Bainbridge

DICK YARBROUGH
Syndicated Columnist

Today, dear readers, let us turn our attention to some serious monkey business currently taking place in the Great State of Georgia. And, no, I'm not talking about stolen elections and fake electors. I'm talking about monkeys. Real live monkeys.

It seems that Bainbridge, the home of University of Georgia football coach Kirby Smart and one of my all-time favorite political characters, the late Gov. S. Marvin Griffin, has a new claim to fame. It is the proposed site for the largest monkey-breeding facility in the U.S., which would house 30,000 long tailed macaques, a species native to southeast Asia. While the local chamber of commerce lists as one of its goals to improve the quality of life for all, I'm not sure this was what they had in mind. Certainly, the monkeys wouldn't argue with that.

The monkeys would be sent out from Bainbridge to universities and pharmaceutical companies for medical research. To my knowledge, no one has shared that small detail with the monkeys. With all due respect to Bainbridge, the macaques would probably prefer to keep their long-tails in the jungles of southeast Asia and let the mice deal with the universities and pharmaceutical companies.

Given that Bainbridge's population is 15,000, that works out to 2 monkeys per resident. Not many towns in Georgia can make that claim. (Hey, Thomasville. How many monkeys per capita do y'all have? Ha! Ha! Eat your heart out!")

It may have been that point of pride that led the Decatur County commission, the Bainbridge city council, the local school board and the local development authority to approve the 200-acre complex complete with tax abatements being proposed by the facility's owners, Safer Human Medicine.

As for the prospect of having 30,000 monkeys in town, Rick McCaskill, executive director of the Development Authority of Bainbridge & Decatur County, said, in effect, big whooping deal. "There are going to be a lot of monkeys, there's no question. We got more cows in the county than we got people, too, and we got more chickens in the county than we have people, too."

In the pantheon of politically-tone deaf comments, that ranks right up there with Marie Antoinette's "Let them eat cake." There is some question whether Marie Antoinette actually said that. There is no question this guy did.

So, the politicians dutifully approved the project to welcome this new monkey jungle to town. That is, until they didn't. The local homo sapiens, although greatly outnumbered by chickens and cows, ripped the city and the county a new one. After the uproar, the county, city, school board and development authority quickly withdrew their support for the monkey breeding facility.

Contributed Photo

SUBMITTED TO THE NEWS

The New Rock Legal Society has launched another year of service and commitment to the legal field with the installation of their new Executive Board on January 23, 2024, at the Rockdale County Magistrate Court. NRLS is a local bar association that recognizes the societal and legal contributions of attorneys of color in Rockdale, Newton, and Walton counties. They also promote civic engagement among their members in efforts to provide plans and programs towards the achievement of social, political and economic equality for all people.

The late Judge Horace J. Johnson was the first African-American to serve as a Judge in the Alcovy Judicial Circuit. He administered the oath for the inaugural executive board members of NRLS on August 19, 2011. Now, almost thirteen years later, NRLS continues their traditional aims including helping citizens understand rights guaranteed them by law, morality, and justice. DeKalb County Superior Court Judge Nora Polk administered this year's oath and shared words of encouragement to the new board. She expressed her excitement to see the group continually growing and thriving as a local bar association. The new executive board is comprised of Judge Destiny Bryant (president), Judge Maureen Wood (vice president), Attorney Travis Thomas (treasurer), and Sebrina Brown (secretary).

NRLS President Judge Destiny Bryant reminded the group of their rich history and boasted the society's progression by acknowledging the increased number of "first" African-American judges, attorneys, professors, and legal professionals who serve in the community while promoting the values of NRLS. She also conveyed her desire to promote physical, spiritual and mental wellness for members of the organization as they each strive to serve others.

This year's community events include assisting with Law Camp hosted by the Judge Phinia Aten, Chief Magistrate Judge of Rockdale County, a "Know Your Rights" seminar, and a Law Day event during the month of May to promote education about the law and democracy.

Membership with NRLS is open to attorneys, judges, law professors, government officials, legal support professionals and law students. Please contact NRLS at secretarynewrocklegal@gmail.com for more information about membership and future programs.

NCSS and Covington partner for 'The Dreams of a People' art exhibit

STAFF REPORT THE NEWS

COVINGTON, Ga. – The city of Covington and the Newton County School System (NCSS) partnered up for the "Dreams of a People" art exhibit.

Over 35 pieces of art created by students from NCSS were put on display in Legion Field as an homage to Black History Month.

The first day of the exhibit was on Feb. 12, with the event lasting until Feb. 16.

Among the schools representing the NCSS in the art exhibit were Alcovy High School, Cousins Middle School, East Newton Elementary, Fairview Elementary, Indian Creek Middle School, Middle Ridge Elementary, Newton County STEAM Academy, Newton High School, South Salem Elementary and West Newton Elementary.

A social media post from the official city of Covington Facebook thanked everyone involved in the project.

"We would like to thank the students for sharing their gifts with our community; Ms. Karen Anderson, Ed.S, for coordinating with art teachers throughout the district to obtain the art; the parents and guardians who nurture the talents of the students; and the gifted art teachers who have shared their love of art with their students," read an official Facebook post from the city of Covington.

Individuals receive Meritorious Service awards from CPD

STAFF REPORT THE NEWS

At the 2023 CPD Awards Ceremony, held on Feb. 20, eight individuals were recognized with Meritorious Service awards.

K-9 Bono and Officer Dustin Johnson: After responding to an armed robbery at a local establishment, Officer Johnson and Bono tracked the suspects into a wooded area. As Bono and Officer Johnson approached, they found one suspect on the ground who the duo apprehended. The other suspect attempted to climb a nearby fence and K-9 Bono leapt into action, grabbing the suspect's leg and then immediately releasing it upon command. One suspect was charged with possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, and both suspects were charged with obstruction of officers.

Sgt. David Stewart - Awarded for his investigative work in tracking down the person responsible for dealing drugs to an individual who died of a fentanyl overdose. Sgt. Stewart obtained video, conducted interviews, and wrote multiple search warrants to determine where the deceased obtained the lethal fentanyl. After a lengthy investigation by the Covington Police Department and the GBI, a search warrant was executed and the dealer was arrested and ultimately charged with murder.

Officer Cheyenne Fleming, Officer Keith Waddell and Officer Ryan Barrett (not pictured): Officers Barrett, Fleming and Waddell arrived at a home to find the residence engulfed in flames and a citizen trapped on the front porch. Disregarding their own safety, these officers assisted the citizen, who was on crutches and unable to walk, in getting to safety.

Officer Ryan Abadie - Awarded for his life saving actions when responding to a cardiac arrest of a female who had been found unresponsive by her husband. Upon arrival, Officer Abadie began CPR and continued CPR until EMS units arrived ultimately saving her life.

A Meritorious Service award may be granted to any employee for an "outstanding act where there was a threat of serious bodily injury or a life saving deed." It may also be awarded for "outstanding investigative performance or criminal apprehension."

"There are so many avenues in which our team protects and serves, whether through investigation or in the field, and it is our privilege to protect and serve Covington," a CPD Facebook post stated. "Thank you Officers for your selfless and heroic acts."

RAMS FALL IN SWEET SIXTEEN

Newton downed by McEachern in the final minutes

GARRETT PITTS
SPORTS EDITOR

POWDER SPRINGS, Ga. — The 2023-24 season for Newton boys basketball came to an end Saturday night. The defeat came on the road against the McEachern Indians in the Sweet Sixteen of the Class AAAAAA playoffs.

In a game that went down to the wire, 33 points from Indians star Ace Bailey proved to be the decider.

After trailing for the entire contest, Bailey had the ball in the final seconds of the third quarter.

Bailey took the ball to half court before releasing a shot that landed straight into the net. The buzzer beater from Bailey gave McEachern its first lead of the day at 47-46.

After the contest, Newton head coach Barry Browner spoke about the challenges that Bailey posed for his squad.

“Ace Bailey is a pro,” Browner said. “He is tough to guard. The rebounding situation — we just got out-rebounded. They are a tough team, we just did not capitalize on missed opportunities.”

Despite the Indians holding the momentum going into the final frame after the buzzer beater, Newton did not go down without a fight.

In the opening minute of the fourth quarter, Rams’ senior Jabez Jenkins grabbed a loose ball out of Bailey’s hands, which caused him to crash to the ground.

Jenkins then passed it over his shoulder to fellow senior Tay Jefferies on the fast break, who put up the layup to give the advantage back to the Rams.

However, late in the frame, two baskets from the Indians gave McEachern the room it needed.

of the Rams 59-54 with two minutes left.

In the remaining 120 seconds of the game, Newton pulled within three points after Jefferies knocked down a pair of free throws, but it was not enough to defeat the Indians.

Trailing by six in the final moments, a deep three at the buzzer from KJ White cut the McEachern winning deficit down to 67-64 as the Indians came away with the win in the Sweet Sixteen.

The contest was tight through and through, but an opening scoring barrage from Newton titled the game early.

In the opening frame, Newton’s Tim Prather knocked down all four of his attempts in what turned out to be a 12-point quarter for the junior.

In his final game as a Newton Ram, Jenkins led the team with 17 points.

Prather and White followed with 12 and 10 points, respectively.

In Browner’s first year as Newton’s head coach, the Rams finished with a 20-6 record while going 7-3 in Region 4-AAAAAAA play.

Following a season in which Newton lost Stephon Castle, Jakai Newton and MJ Whitlock, Browner spoke about the impact that his three current seniors had filling those roles.

“AJ, Tay and Bez — they were great leaders. Anytime you have a coaching change, it is hard,” Browner said. “They accepted me, we were all together. They were great leaders, we are going to miss those guys in the locker room.”

Newton expects to return in the 2024-25 season with players such as Prather, Ted Neal, Zach Harden and Jordan Green.

Holder eclipses 2,000-point mark at Piedmont Acadmeny

CHRIS BRIDGES
THE WALTON TRIBUNE

Piedmont Academy junior Marissa Holder has already reached many milestones during her storied athletic career. She recently surpassed another marker when she scored her 2,000th career point.

With more than a full season left in her high school basketball career, Holder may very well establish a mark that will be almost impossible to break.

“She is the type of player every coach wants, one who sacrifices so much striving to be the best,” said Gatewood coach Jordan Camp. “She fell in love with this sport and dedicated herself to being her best by spending hours upon hours in the gym. Not to take away from her teammates, but Marissa is the one. She is where all the strategizing goes into because of her skill on the court. She is the best player in GIAA AA girls basketball, no doubt.”

The list of athletic accomplishments is a massive one for Holder.

The junior, who was the GIAA Class AA Player of the Year a season ago, is looking to guide Piedmont to back-to-back basketball state championships. The state title for 2022-23 was the first in program history and Holder played a huge role in that.

Holder excels in any athletic endeavor she undertakes. From fast-pitch softball to flag football to basketball to track to golf, Holder always competes at a very high level.

Excelling at athletics is a family tradition. Her older brother, Ryan, also surpassed the 2,000-point mountain. Ryan finished his career with 2,025 points, a boys basketball record at Piedmont.

“I think it will be very tough for someone to break this record,” Piedmont girls basketball coach Michael Wilson said. “With another year left she may end up close to or at 3,000 points. Scoring 1,000 in a career is a huge deal. I coach really good players now who will come up short of that and that’s nothing to be ashamed of. To score that many points, a player needs to be physically superior from the start, stay healthy and be mentally tough. Add the fact that Marissa missed six plus games last season with an injury makes the fact even more impressive. There was pressure on her from the start of her eighth grade season to be that player that takes this program to the next level and so much pressure from me that I felt really bad at times because of that. I asked her to score for us when she was an eighth grader and that isn’t something that happens much.”

Holder averaged 16 points per game as an eighth grader, and by the end of the year she had Division I level talent guarding her.

“I don’t know any other eighth grader I’ve seen that could have scored like that against athletes she had guarding her as well as with coaches specifically game planning against her,” Wilson said. “For a coach, she’s a once in a career player, especially at a school the size of Piedmont.”

Marissa played tournament and travel baseball with and against boys until she was about 12. She’s played basketball at the recreation level, school and AAU since starting at Upward at age 5. She transitioned from baseball to softball in middle school and has played softball for Piedmont ever since helping lead that program to a state championship level. She’s played flag football at Piedmont for the last two years and has played on the golf team at Piedmont for the last two years.

What makes Holder such a special player on the court and in other sports requires a multi-leveled answer.

Lady Rams' bounce back year ends in Sweet Sixteen

GARRETT PITTS
SPORTS EDITOR

DALLAS, Ga. – The Newton Lady Rams’ season came to an end Friday night in the Sweet 16 of the Class AAAAAA playoffs.

On the road against North Paulding, the Lady Rams fell 48-37 in a game that was tight all the way until the end.

After going into the second half trailing 20-15, the Lady Rams could not pull closer due to North Paulding’s defensive presence in the paint.

Throughout the game, the Lady Wolfpack squandered many scoring opportunities for Newton inside.

On the defensive end for Newton, critical threes from North Paulding allowed it to pull ahead of the Lady Rams in the second half.

Early in the third quarter, back-to-back three balls from Marina Sippolo gave the Lady Wolfpack a 30-22 lead.

For the rest of the contest, Newton could not find a way to pull within six points as the North Paulding advantage stood the rest of the way to claim the Sweet 16 win.

The Lady Rams were able to stay close with the help of Sanaa Tripp and Alissa Sandifer. The two combined for 16 points in the second half.

The Lady Rams were led by Sandifer and Tripp with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Newton’s 2023-24 campaign came to a close with a 20-12 record. In Region 4-AAAAAAA play, the Lady Rams finished 8-3.

The 20-win season came after a year in which the Lady Rams only won three games.

Assessing his team’s improvement, Bailey gave the credit to his two seniors as one of the main reasons for Newton’s bounce back season.

“I just love the progress,” Bailey said. “It starts with our two seniors — two kids who were not a part of the program last year. Both were a part of the program recently but came back home and just made us so much better. Imari Humphrey and Sanaa Tripp — they both became leaders for us.”

Following the season-ending loss, Bailey emphasized how this year will be just the beginning of where the Lady Rams aspire to be.

“It shows that we are ready to make a jump,” Bailey said. “We just have to do the work in the offseason to get better and be ready to roll next year.”

Freshmen bolt onto Lady Redskins' scene

PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
MANAGING EDITOR

Eight freshmen are featured on the 2023-24 Social Circle girls basketball roster. In their first year as varsity players, they all have made an impact for the Lady Redskins. Sophia Fontenot, Marissa Morrell and Brielle Price are three “dynamic” players from this group, too, according to head coach Norman Jones. Morrell, in particular, was straightforward when asked what makes her and her classmates a unique group of players. “What makes us special is we put in the work,” Morrell said. Of the freshman class, Price leads the way averaging 5.2 points per game along with 2.5 rebounds. Fontenot is right behind with five points and a 2.7 rebounds per game average. Morrell averages 4.7 points and 2.1 rebounds per game. One specific area of the floor that this group has helped in is beyond the arc. Fontenot leads the overall team in three pointers made with 35. Price leads with a 30 percent three-point shooting percentage. On Jan. 23, Fontenot set her career-high in points largely due to her three-point shot. In that game, she connected on six, three pointers on her way to a 20-point outing. Afterward, Fontenot shared how she works on her shot. “I just practice, keep your hand up there and follow your shot,” Fontenot said. “Sometimes I practice with my dad and just take that into the game.” Morrell’s career-high came three days prior versus Monroe Area. She scored 14 points while dropping four threes in the contest. There was an added factor, though, as to why that game is Morrell’s favorite. “It was my birthday, so I was super excited for that game,” Morrell said. Price’s 20-point, career-high came in the same game against Monroe Area, but she’s also recorded 15-point performances on two other occasions. One aspect of their games that Fontenot and Morrell both feel like they improved in cannot be found on a stat sheet. They each stressed that they have built up confidence over the course of this season. “I did not expect it,” Morrell said. “At first, I was kind of nervous but, after a couple of games, I wasn’t nervous.” Fontenot’s confidence seemed evident when asked if she looked up to any players in the college or professional ranks. “I just want to be me,” Fontenot said. Even so, Fontenot believes her faith in herself has taken great strides. “With my confidence. I’m just working on my confidence knowing that I can do it,” Fontenot said. “Then go out there and play.” Social Circle saw a three-win improvement from a season ago with a 10-17 overall record. With its 3-4 finish in Region 5A-Division I, Social Circle claimed the No. 3 seed for the state playoffs. Upon entering region play, Jones shared a message to the players of “just have fun.” Jones believes that may be the reason for the eight freshmen’s belief. “I guess that’s why the shots have been going in. They don’t feel the pressure of, ‘We gotta win. We gotta win,’” Jones said. “They’re just having fun and letting it fly.” With the slew of freshmen making waves for the Lady Redskins, Jones feels confident the program is heading in the right direction. “These girls want to play basketball. So, we have basketball players now,” Jones said. “I think Social Circle, with these freshmen, we are in good hands for the next few years. I’m happy. The future is bright.”

Eagles suffer defeat to Chapel Hill in first round

DJ MOORE | CORRESPONDENT

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga — A slow start in the first quarter was the deciding factor for the Eastside Eagles as they traveled to Douglas County to take on the Chapel Hill Panthers in the first round of the Class AAAAA playoffs. The Eagles were defeated by the Panthers 48-44. Eastside did not score a single point in the first quarter and were trailing 12-0 heading into the second frame. In the ensuing quarter, they were able to outscore the Panthers 17-6. The scoring run was started by sophomore point guard Josiah Johnson. The Eagles took a brief lead in the third quarter after making consecutive stops coming out of the half. But ultimately, the Eagles season would come to an end after a critical turnover with under two minutes remaining in the ball game. The work that the Eagles accomplished did not go unnoticed by head coach Dorian Randolph.

“When I go in the locker room, I’m going to tell my guys there’s nothing to hang your head about,” Randolph said. “My guys fought to the very end and I’m proud that my guys continued to fight.”

The Eagles finished the season with a record of 12-15 while claiming the No. 3 seed in Region 8-A AAAA. In region play, Eastside finished with a 4-8 record. This is the second consecutive playoff appearance under Randolph and third in his four seasons as the Eagles’ head coach. Randolph believes that the real work starts in the offseason as Eastside looks ahead for the next basketball season. “Although the season is over with, the real work for next season starts now,” Randolph said. “At Eastside, we don’t have a ton of size and length, so we are going have to be a tough and resilient team year-in and year-out.” The Eagles will lose six seniors and they played a significant role in leading their teammates to playoffs. Guard Trebor Edwards led the team with 307 total points and 13.8 points per game. Ashton Washington led the team with the highest three-point field goal percentage at 38 percent. “The seniors didn’t give up and they fought through adversity all year long and I want to tell each of them, ‘Thank you for helping build the culture of Eastside Basketball,’” Randolph said.

“It’s a combination of about five or six different things,” Wilsons said. “She has more natural athletic ability than anyone I’ve ever been around, coaching or otherwise. It’s absolutely unreal what she can do. She has the ability to listen to instruction and implement whatever she is instructed to do and then she has a great work ethic on top of that. If she wants to do something she will work at it and work at it to be better than others. She is incredibly competitive and she uses any setbacks to just get better. You combine all those things and it just creates someone who becomes elite in whatever they do.” Despite all the individual awards and accolades, Holder stays grounded. She is not comfortable talking about herself, rather crediting others for her success.

“Getting to 2,000 points was a goal I wanted to make, but I couldn’t have made it so soon without teammates that work as hard as I do,” Holder said. “We are in this together and we will do what we need to do to be successful. If that means, I need to score 50 or more points in a game to win, we will do that, but if I’m not shooting well I know I have others around me who can pick me up until I get back on track. Scoring this many points is a team accomplishment.” With still another year and half of high school to go, the future is still undetermined. Holder said she would like to play basketball at the next level. She has also developed a love of golf and helped Piedmont win a state title last spring, competing with the boys. “This will sound strange but after having coached her for as long as I have I think she can compete at whatever level she wants to compete at in whichever sport she chooses,” said Wilson who coaches her in basketball, flag football and golf. “She stopped surprising me a long time ago when I realized she can do pretty much whatever she sets her mind to do. I know we are a small school who isn’t GHSA but in her career against schools from Georgia or Alabama who play in the ‘public school leagues,’ she has averaged 25 points, 10 rebounds and five assists for those games. It’s definitely a case of the bigger the stage the better she will perform. She’s not scared of competing at any level but it will be more of a case of where she feels most comfortable.” Wilson said it is an honor for him to coach Holder and looks forward to everything she will accomplish before her high school career is over. “She’s going to finish her junior year with 2,000 points, 1,000 rebounds, 500 assists and 400 steals,” Wilson said. “She’s

5-6 and those numbers are astonishing at any level, for any player. She’s 17 years old and has another year left. I honestly can say I won’t coach another player, in any sport, who posts such dominating numbers. You put her on a golf course and she hits her drives 280 yards, farther than most grown men and she’s only played the sport for a couple of years. In flag football, she understands route combinations and defense alignment and then can throw the ball 50 yards accurately. Everything I’ve coached her in, she does really difficult things with such ease it’s almost insulting to those of us who have tried and simply can’t do those things. Yet she does it all humbly and is so respectful that I haven’t had any adult from other schools say anything negative about her and I think that is the best that I can say about her.” For now, Holder’s immediate goal is to win another state basketball title with the Lady Cougars. Marissa typically has a target on her as her reputation as a standout player causes other teams to do whatever they can to slow her down the court. Often times, that means a tight defense and a very physical brand of play against her. Wilson said teams can take it too far and says it’s all he can do not to get thrown out pointing out defensive play that should be fouls. “She’s able to keep her cool,” her mom said. “When you are good at a sport, there’s always a target on your back. There are times that I don’t know how she’s able to control her temper, but she always manages to. We’re proud of her for that. Instead of retaliating, she proves herself with her play.” The full version of this story can be found at covnews.com/sports.

Carra Patterson and Carrie Preston in "Elsbeth"

A 'Good' return: Carrie Preston is back as lawyer 'Elsbeth'

Two shows on which she was featured are over now, but you can't keep Elsbeth Tascioni down.

The quirky, high-spirited lawyer portrayed by Carrie Preston — who won a Primetime Emmy for the role as a guest star in "The Good Wife," then reprised it in the spinoff "The Good Fight" — now has a show of her own as the character. Premiering Thursday, Feb. 29, on CBS and Paramount+ with Showtime, "Elsbeth" transfers Tascioni from Chicago to New York, where she has a secret agenda as she works with the city's police department in a special investigative job. Wendell Pierce ("The Wire") plays the stern police chief, Capt. C.W. Wagner, while Carra Patterson ("Straight Outta Compton," 2015) is Kaya Blanke, the officer partnered with Elsbeth.

"I could not be more thrilled," the friendly Preston says of giving Elsbeth her own showcase now. "It's been such a wonderful and interesting journey with this character. I started to play her 14 years ago, at the end of the first season of 'The Good Wife,' and you do these guest spots and don't ever think they're going to repeat. You hope you do it well and then you move on to your next job, but I knew there was something special about that character even back then.

"I felt so lucky and privileged that they would entrust me with it, because she was so unique," Preston continues. "She seemed to resonate with audiences, and then a [TV] season went by and I was like, 'Well, OK. I guess that's that.' Then they brought me back for more, and the audiences again seemed to respond to her and her unconventional way of doing things. And as the seasons [of "The Good Wife"] went by, I would hear, 'Why don't you do a spinoff that centres around her?' [Executive producers] Robert and Michelle King and I would touch base about that, but it wasn't the right time."

Instead, "The Good Fight" happened as the first spinoff, with Christine Baranski's ("Mamma Mia!" 2008) Diane Lockhart character front and center. "They would bring me back periodically [on that drama]," Preston notes, "and I even got to direct on that. Then at the end of 'The Good Fight,' we started talking a little more in earnest [about what has become 'Elsbeth'], and COVID-19 happened."

After the resulting delay, the Kings remain among the executive producers of "Elsbeth," which starts each story by showing the perpetrator committing the given week's crime. Elsbeth then matches wits with the felon — in the series premiere, a homicidal stage director played by guest star Stephen Moyer ("True Blood") — with her homespun manner cloaking her keen method of interrogation. If that sounds like the approach of a certain other television series and character, that's not a coincidence.

Preston says that at the peak of the coronavirus pandemic, the Kings "found that they were going back and watching reruns of 'Columbo,' and they just kept getting drawn to the structure of that show. Coincidentally, out of nowhere, a reporter wrote a piece about how she also was watching 'Columbo' ... and at the end of it, she wrote, 'We don't need a reboot of "Columbo." Just give Elsbeth Tascioni her own show.' [The Kings] already had the idea of Elsbeth doing something like that, then they called me and said, 'Let's come up with a pitch.'"

"Apples Never Fall" (Peacock — Mar. 14, Limited Series Premiere)

Based on Liane Moriarty's New York Times bestselling novel, this series centers on the seemingly picture-perfect Delaney family. Former tennis coaches Stan (Sam Neill) and Joy (Annette Bening) are ready to start their golden years, while they look forward to spending time with their four adult children (Jake Lacy, Alison Brie, Conor Merrigan-Turner, Essie Randles). But, everything changes when a wounded young woman knocks on Joy and Stan's door, bringing the excitement they've been missing. But when Joy suddenly disappears, her children are forced to re-examine their parents' so-called perfect marriage as their family's darkest secrets begin to surface.

BEST NEIL SIMON MOVIES

"After the Fox" (1966): This Simon-written vehicle for Peter Sellers casts the actor as a master-of-disguise crook who escapes from prison and poses as a movie director to steal a shipment of gold; co-stars included Britt Ekland, then Sellers' wife.

"Barefoot in the Park" (1967): Jane Fonda and Robert Redford had their second of several screen teamings in Simon's tale of newlyweds whose first apartment together challenges their temperamental differences.

"The Odd Couple" (1968): Not only did Simon score an out-of-the-park movie hit with Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau's pairing as mismatched roommates Felix Ungar and Oscar Madison, it has fueled several television versions, including the 1970s Tony Randall-Jack Klugman classic.

"The Out-of-Towners" (1970): In a story Simon wrote directly for the screen (remade in 1999), Lemmon and Sandy Dennis play an Ohio couple experiencing just about every mishap a traveler can encounter in New York.

"Plaza Suite" (1971): Simon's frequent movie muse, Matthau has the central male role in each of the three stories set at different times in the same suite at New York's Plaza Hotel; Maureen Stapleton, Barbara Harris and Lee Grant are his leading ladies.

"The Heartbreak Kid" (1972): The tale was adapted for a 2007 remake, but Simon's imprint is much more on the original version, casting Charles Grodin as a newlywed who falls for another woman (Cybill Shepherd) while he's on his honeymoon.

"The Prisoner of Second Avenue" (1975): Jack Lemmon and Anne Bancroft are terrific as a couple thrust into the writer's "Out-of-Towners" syndrome as New Yorkers plagued by nearly every problem the city can throw at them.

"The Sunshine Boys" (1975): George Burns became a late-in-life Oscar winner for teaming memorably with Walter Matthau as embittered ex-vaudeville partners maneuvered into a reunion.

"Murder by Death" (1976): Just about every famous literary detective, from Miss Marple to Charlie Chan, got a send-up in Simon's star-packed satire of the mystery genre.

Sally Field and Daniel Day-Lewis in “Lincoln”

Zombie House Flipping

A&E 11 a.m.

Planet Earth III

Sir David Attenborough narrates this brand-new documentary, which delves into forests: hidden worlds where the lives of animals are entwined, from temperate forests home to wild dogs, to rainforests where ninja treehoppers fight off assassin bugs.

Lincoln

TCM 8 p.m.

With the Civil War still crushing the nation, President Abraham Lincoln (Daniel Day-Lewis) uses his political skills, compassion and humanity to bring peace to the country and abolish slavery by championing the 13th Amendment in his final months.

Kill or Be Killed

OXY 9 p.m.

A jury is left wondering just who to believe when a teenager calls 911, saying that his grandmother shot him. But as police examine the scene, they discover drugs and serious family issues that cross generations. There may be enough guilt to go around.

Rachel McAdams went 'Live' for the first time

BY JAY BOBBIN

Q: I saw a reference made about Rachel McAdams' recent appearance on "Saturday Night Live" being her first time on the show. Is that true? – Jonathan Ford, via e-mail

A: It is, which might seem surprising, unless one considers that McAdams seems to eschew the limelight quite a bit — somewhat unusual for a celebrity, admittedly. She had turned down an opportunity to reunite with several other "Mean Girls" (2004) alums in a commercial recently, reasoning that it didn't quite feel like the right thing for her. (She later said that she hadn't known that so many other former co-stars of hers would be participating.)

Though she did television at the start of her career, McAdams has kept her main focus on movie work, the second season of HBO's "True Detective" and several episodes of FX's "Dave" being notable extensions later on. That made her previously unannounced stint on "Saturday Night Live," which amounted to her introduction of musical guest Renee Rapp (who assumed McAdams' Regina George role from the original "Mean Girls" movie in the recent stage and film versions) and participation in a skit as a Rachel McAdams look-alike, even more of a surprise.

Q: It's good to see "Ride" getting another opportunity for an audience with its current run on The CW. Will there be a second season of the show? – Tara Williams, Buffalo, N.Y.

A: Apparently not, which makes its CW pickup interesting since that network had to know it would be an automatically finite run — unless The CW should make its own move to revive it, but it's known that the intention there now is to keep production costs low, thus the many acquisitions of shows already produced elsewhere. CTV Drama ran the Nancy Travis-starring "Ride" in Canada, where the program originated, but there evidently aren't any plans beyond repeating the 10 existing episodes.

A story that began a decade ago with a family living in sunny San Diego, this spin-off of "The Fosters" follows along as Callie (Maia Mitchell) and Mariana (Cierra Ramirez) tackle the highs and lows of living their own, independent lives as young adults in Los Angeles. After endless career changes, relationships and new friends, the story now comes to an end, when the final episode of "Good Trouble" premieres Tuesday, March 5, on Freeform.
