NEWTON COUNTY - On Wednesday, Aug. 2, Stryten Energy and Snapping Shoals EMC celebrated the installation of a vanadium redox flow battery (VRFB) system. A ribbon cutting ceremony was held at Snapping Shoals’ office on Brown Bridge Road. The VRFB system marks the first of its kind in Georgia. The partnership between Stryten Energy and Snapping Shoals will demonstrate the VRFB’s energy storage capabilities and evaluate other uses for its long-duration technology. The battery promotes clean, renewable energy and holds a capacity of 100 kilowatt hours, which equates to 26,000 AA batteries. Attendees of the ceremony included U.S. Rep. Mike Collins, representatives from the General Assembly, a representative from Senator Jon Ossoff’s office, Georgia Public Service Commissioner Tim Echols and leaders from both Stryten Energy and Snapping Shoals. Tim Echols spoke on his enthusiasm for clean energy, comparing the benefits of the VRFB to bacon. “We are entering a very high tech time, a very smart time in the energy world, where devices like this make everything better,” Echols said. “It’s kind of like bacon. It just makes everything better out there. It makes solar better. It makes resiliency better. It makes the Snapping Shoals grid better. It is bacon in a box.” Though the VRFB is currently a “pilot project,” it will cardiac catheterization and vascular services, hospital bed expansion, a cancer center and multiple off-campus outpatient departments. Petrini is the fourth female CEO Piedmont has appointed to run a hospital since the start of 2023. “I am very happy to welcome Lindsey to Piedmont Newton,” said Michael Burnett, chief executive officer of Piedmont Athens’ clinical hub, of which Piedmont Newton is part. “Lindsey has extensive strategic and operational experience as a senior leader, including in service line expansion, physician recruitment and capital planning, that will help her expand the range of health services available in Newton County to meet the needs of the community both now and in the years ahead.” Petrini has also served on multiple boards and committees throughout the North Fulton area over the years. directly affect Snapping Shoals customers. The battery is connected to Snapping Shoals’ utility grid, but will only travel a certain distance due to its small size as a demo. According to Robbie Young, vice president of Engineering and Developing Technologies for Snapping Shoals, effectiveness of the VRFB will be assessed by monitoring devices that provide energy values for engineers to analyze. With the installation of the new VRFB, Young hopes to gain a better understanding of the battery in order to improve it for future use. “We hope to learn a good bit about the technology itself,” Young said. “Our engineers here will be watching it and we hope to be able to get reliability and efficiency up where it’s cost effective. It will be used on a larger scale.” Stryten designed the VRFB over the course of 18 months with three principles in mind: safety, reliability and recyclability. Scott Childers, vice president of essential power at Stryten, is also hopeful about the future of the project and its benefits for the community. “We’re in an active energy trading market right here,” Childers said. “Snapping Shoals is every day of the week, buying and selling energy on the market. That gives us the ability to test the performance of the system and the economics of the system is one place. This is a really super opportunity for us. “This project is far reaching, from simply reducing your electric bill to driving energy independence, and even national security. The flow battery technology we’re using here at this location is set up and our joint relationship with Snapping Shoals is seriously a one of a kind scenario. We look forward and it gives us the ability to solve some of the world’s most pressing energy challenges together.”

Georgia Public Broadcasting gets new CEO

CAPITOL BEAT
News Service

ATLANTA - A veteran administrator at Georgia Public Broadcasting (GPB) is stepping up to become the state network’s CEO, Gov. Brian Kemp announced Friday.

Bert Huffman began working at GPB in 2014 as its first vice president for development and marketing. He later became senior vice president of external affairs before being named president in 2021.

“I want to congratulate Bert as he steps into this role and continues his service at GPB,” Kemp said. “I know he will help ensure the agency remains a valued part of the lives of Georgians through informative content.”

“His record of dedicated service helped to set him apart throughout the process of finding the agency’s next leader,” added Brian Dill, chairman of the Georgia Public Telecommunications Commission, which oversees GPB. “We know he will help guide GPB in fulfilling its missions across its television, radio, and educational services throughout the state.”

GPB is currently crunching its financial numbers to make ends meet. This year’s state budget cut the agency’s funding by more than eight percent.

Before joining GPB, Huffman held top management roles at The Atlanta Opera and Emory University. He earned a bachelor’s degree from Tennessee Wesleyan University and a master’s degree from Kennesaw State University.

Huffman succeeds Teya Ryan, who retired from GPB last spring.

Korean construction materials manufacturer coming to Georgia

CAPITOL BEAT
News Service

ATLANTA - A Korean manufacturer of construction materials will build its first U.S. plant in Georgia, Gov. Brian Kemp announced Thursday.

Duckshin Housing will invest more than $15 million in a plant in Athens that will create more than 100 jobs.

The addition of Duckshin brings the number of new jobs the state has helped bring to Athens-Clarke County since 2019 to more than 3,400 and the amount of investment in that community to more than $900 million, Kemp said.

“We’re proud to welcome Duckshin Housing as the latest job creator in this growing list as we continue to bring opportunity to all parts of the state,” he said.

Duckshin Housing, established in 1980, produces architectural deck plates and frames made of galvanized steel and rebars.

“Construction companies of all sizes need new types of well-designed and efficiently made deck plates for workers to work safely from,” said Myung Hwan Kim, Duckshin’s chairman. “By coming to Athens, we can be closer to growing and new construction projects in Georgia and all states of the U.S.”

Construction of the new plant is expected to begin later this year. Once the plant is completed, the company will be hiring welders, machine operators, forklift drivers, and other operational workers.

The Georgia Department of Economic Development’s Global Commerce team worked to attract Duckshin to the Peach State, in partnership with the Athens-Clarke County Unified Government and Georgia EMC.

South Georgia medical school’s first graduates

CAPITOL BEAT
News Service

ATLANTA - Facing a chronic shortage of physicians in mostly rural South Georgia, the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine (PCOM), which already had a branch campus in Gwinnett County, launched Georgia’s first medical school south of Macon in 2019.

In May, PCOM South Georgia graduated its first class of 51 doctoral students. A new class of 59 first-year students will arrive at the Moultrie campus this month.

“The experiment is working,” Bryan Ginn Jr., chief campus officer at PCOM’s branch in Suwanee, told an audience of South Georgia political and business leaders late last month at a forum on workforce development sponsored by the Georgia Chamber of Commerce. “We’re delighted by that.”

Moultrie was a natural fit for PCOM South Georgia to set up shop. Its central location in the region provides easy access to population centers in Albany, Tifton, Thomasville, and Valdosta.

Also, PCOM already had established a hospital residency program for graduates at Colquitt Regional Medical Center in Moultrie.

A major barrier to workforce development in rural areas across the country has been convincing young people who grew up in rural settings to go back after they graduate from college or other post-secondary training to start their professional careers.

“The [South Georgia] students we were bringing into Suwanee from rural communities were not going back where they were raised,” said Joanne Jones, chief of campus operations at PCOM South Georgia. “We’re sending our students down to South Georgia to try to get them to come back home.”

The strategy is paying off. Of the 51 graduates in PCOM South Georgia’s first class, 15 are participating in residency programs inside the state, including four at Colquitt Regional and two at Archbold Memorial Hospital in Thomasville.

“It’s really good that they’re staying in the state,” PCOM South Georgia spokeswoman Cindy Montgomery said. “Those who don’t are still going to rural areas. ... They chose us because they’re interested in rural medicine.”

Allison Tresner, one of the PCOM South Georgia graduates doing her residency in family medicine and psychiatry at Colquitt Regional, isn’t from Georgia. But the Michigan native said she was drawn to stay in South Georgia after graduation because she likes the region’s Midwestern vibe.

“South Georgia has been very welcoming,” she said. “The people are nice and genuine and make you feel like family.”

Tresner said she gravitated toward health care as a career early in life after losing her father to complications from diabetes. She chose family medicine during clinical rotations at PCOM South Georgia, the time when medical students learn various specialties first hand.

“I liked everything,” she said. “They say if you like everything in health care, family medicine is for you. ... I really like the continuity of care. I can be with patients all of their lives.”

Tresner said she is proud to have been a member of PCOM South Georgia’s first graduating class of physicians.

“We were the pioneers,” she said. “It was very special to be part of the program from the beginning.”

Whether Tresner remains in South Georgia

after she completes her residency is a decision she has yet to make.

“I like to keep an open mind,” she said. “I would have to find a place to beat this. I haven’t found it.”

Meanwhile, PCOM South Georgia soon will get some company educating and training physicians in the region.

Augusta University’s Medical College of Georgia (MCG), the state’s only public medical school, plans to open a branch at Georgia Southern University’s Armstrong campus in Savannah in the fall of next year. The new campus will allow MCG to accept 40 more students per year.

“Georgia ranks 40th in the nation for both the number of active physicians and the number of primary care doctors,” said Georgia House Speaker Jon Burns, R-Newington, whose South Georgia district includes portions of the Savannah area. “Georgia needs more doctors, and I’m proud we are making this investment in our future.”

TREY BAILEY COLUMNIST

Captivating Music and Vibrant Communities have this in Common: Honest Harmony

I love great music. I believe that most beautiful music in the world has, as one of its elements, harmony. When two or more different voices or instruments unite on the same song and are in perfect harmony, it is something that is beyond words. It is a thing of beauty. Art. Harmony has a way of making us feel something. We feel something that we can't even explain. We've all experienced it before, whether from a church choir, a great song on the radio, from a string ensemble, or from an acapella act, or maybe just from the simple chord of an acoustic guitar. Harmony is noticeable. In short, when we see or hear true harmony...we are moved by it.

Growing up in this community: I played baseball at Mobil, McGregor, Baker and City Pond Fields. In middle school, me and my buddies would walk to the Square and climb the famous courthouse clock tower to see the gears and the giant bell from the inside. My first job was a bag boy at Red & White Grocery store where Scoops and The Lofts now reside. Before there was a Wal-Mart, I worked at the J.C. Pool Company and sold men's suits, Pointer brand coveralls, and Stacey Adams dress shoes. I took swimming lessons at the community pool where the Covington Family YMCA now sits. I bought cassette tapes from Record & Tape World in Newton Plaza where the teenagers would cruise on Friday nights. And I've even eaten chitterlings at Henderson's Restaurant (RIP Henderson's). I say all of that with great pride, and with NO shame, and that's because I love this town.

Of course, at the time I had NO IDEA how great Covington/Newton County was. As a matter of fact, I couldn't wait to graduate from Newton County High School and get out of here. I wanted to see the city. I wanted to see how other people lived. I wanted to experience a different kind of diversity.

So, after high school I tried my hand at college at the University of Georgia, but the University wasn't offering a degree in club-hopping at the 40-Watt or the Georgia Theatre. So, I did what all good UGA students did back then, I started a band with a buddy of mine. We got lucky and ended up with a Nashville recording contract. And for several years we toured a good bit of the United States.

I'm not boasting. Don't get me wrong; I'm glad I had the opportunities that I did. But living out of a van and cheap motels and eating pizza every night is NOT what you read about in Rolling Stone Magazine.

I learned a lot from being a musician and a starving artist. I learned how individual notes make a chord. And how a chord creates harmony. I also learned the value of hard work and thrifty living. And maybe most importantly, I learned that the U.S. is filled with towns just like Covington.

Sure, each small town had its own ethos...its own vibe. But for the most part, they all seemed the same to me. Each state had a big city surrounded by the metro area, and then further out were the rural small towns. And all the small towns were the same, just with a different accent.

In all my traveling, I didn't find a place that ever felt like home.

And that's because, it is the PEOPLE that make a community.

Not the landmarks, the restaurants, the civic groups, or even the churches. No, it is the PEOPLE, living in harmony, that make a community.

Business and economic growth is important. A good school system is important. Vibrant authentic churches are key. A history and legacy that attach you to something bigger than yourself is important. Top-notch public service is important. And cultural diversity gives depth and beauty.

But it always comes down to the PEOPLE! And that's why I came back home. Because of the PEOPLE.

Covington/Newton County, with all our flaws, and believe me, we've got some flaws, this is still an incredible place to live. Despite the changes of scenery, the increase in traffic, a few more apartments, and increasing property values...it is still about the people. I believe IN the people of Newton County. And I believe our best days are still in front of us.

The Apostle Paul in the book of Colossians 3:12-14 implores his readers to:

"...put on (or to wear) compassionate hearts, kindness, humility, meekness, and patience, bearing with one another and, if one has a complaint against another, forgiving each other, as the Lord has forgiven you...and above all these put on LOVE, which binds everything together in perfect harmony."

Isn't that the character we want for our community? Harmony!

Harmony, like in music when different parts (soprano, alto, tenor, bass) and different instruments come together to make one beautiful chord...Harmony!

And when there is a simple wrong note, a small mistake, we look past it. Because sometimes it is ME who sings the wrong note, and I need your grace. And believe it

DICK YARBROUGH COLUMNIST

Being a proud Georgian is nothing to sneeze at

I'm about to get myself in trouble again. I'm still smarting from the Trump Harrumphs who accuse me of being a left-wing Commie pinko because I'm tired of his whining about losing an election Ronald Reagan would have won in a landslide.

I have also upset a lot of Baptists who inform me I'm destined for hell-fire and damnation because I have questioned why Apostle Paul decided 19 centuries ago that women weren't qualified to be preachers. If I am headed to the nether-world, I no doubt will meet a lot of Methodists there because we think our female ministers can out preach the Baptist guys six days a week and twice on Sunday. Amen.

I am beginning to wonder if all the Trump Harrumphs are Baptists or all the Baptists are Trump Harrumphs, given that both groups seem to be seriously humor-impaired. I have a feeling my mail over the next few weeks will clear up that question for me.

So, into what new pool of hot water am I about to stick my toe? It's the Great State of Georgia. I love the place passionately and I love to brag about it. That is where I get in trouble. The more I extol its virtues, the more likely people from above the Mason-You-Know-Where line will want to move here and make fun of the way we talk. Those of you born and raised here tell me you want to keep our state low-profile so émigrés will decide to move somewhere else, like Montana or Canada.

(I get those two places mixed up.)

It may be too late. We've got close to 11 million folks here already and they seem to keep on coming. And why not? We've got the Blue Ridge Mountains to the north and the Golden Isles to the south. In between, there is Augusta National and the Little White House and Callaway Gardens and more state parks than you can shake a fishing rod at.

We've got the Vidalia Onion and we produce some of the best olive oil anywhere. (I'll bet you didn't know that.) We've got azaleas and pecan orchards and barbecue and a flagship university that has produced two back-to-back National Football Champions and the last I looked, 25 Rhodes Scholars. And did I mention the greatest state song in the history of the world, "Georgia on my Mind," as sung by Ray Charles Robinson, of Albany, Georgia?

But wait! There's more! Did you know that we rank fifth among all states when it comes to being concerned about our health? According to a firm called Great Green Health Wall, we go to Google regularly to assess our well-being. That includes clicking on "sinusitis" 13,266 times in a month. (Okay, so maybe we do have a little pine pollen on occasion. I never said we were perfect.) At least we aren't like Maryland, where their citizens looked up "canker sore" 10,858 times in a month. Could be their crabs or maybe it's being too close in proximity to

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In reference to the July 26, 2023 article, "See Their Future", I would like to compliment the NCSO for the Art Program with following Exhibit made available to their inmates. What a wonderful opportunity for inmates to be encouraged to exercise their creativity through artistic expression.

As an art instructor for over 55 years, I have seen the many benefits of self expression through the arts. People of any age can partake in this activity. I have seen students work through the personal loss of someone dear as they thoughtfully apply paint to canvas. The finished project might be a portrait, a place or even colors and textures which convey a feeling. Art can act as a release valve for deep seated emotions of which a person may not even be aware. Many students tell me that their art is their therapy. I know it is for me.

Artistic expresion can be threatening to those who are vulnerable. By placing their efforts before the eyes of others, it can be devastating to hear criticism, especially if that work is seen as an extension of themselves. Encouragement is so important. A safe place where they are allowed to try and fall short of their envisioned goals. We all crawl before we walk and walk before we run. That is how living and learning is achieved.

However, the very process of creating art is so rewarding and fun within itself, it can't help but be therapeutic. And then, as an added benefit, to receive applause for our efforts; it helps build self esteem

On behalf of the State Bar of Georgia, I am writing to extend congratulations to Alcovy Judicial Circuit Senior Superior Court Judge John M. Ott on his appointment by Gov. Brian Kemp to serve on the statewide Prosecuting Attorneys Qualifications Commission Investigative Panel.

All Georgians will benefit from Judge Ott's service on the newly established commission, which has the power to investigate and discipline district attorneys and solicitors general in specific instances. The investigative panel is responsible for investigating and prosecuting alleged conduct that constitutes grounds for discipline under state law.

By accepting this appointment, Judge Ott demonstrates his continued commitment to serving the public and the justice system. We wish him well in this new capacity of statewide leadership.

and confidence. Art is problem solving. Which color should I chose? How dark should that be? How large? Should I change the angle of that line? And there are choices that may be better than others but only if you know what results you are trying to achieve. But ultimately it is only paper or perhaps canvas, neither of which are life altering. So, we can experiment and see where different selections take us. It becomes play and we can lose ourselves in it. Often times artists experience the “happy little accidents” that Bob Ross used to talk about and we embrace them. They become a part of our creation. They may even be a turning point for the piece, taking it in a completely different direction or finishing it. There are so many things that art has taught me that are applicable to my life’s journey. I have come to believe that there are certain truths that can be applied to every aspect of life. And those truths will always produce pleasing results.

I applaud Sheriff Ezell Brown, Capt. Brice Smith and Workforce or not, there will be a moment when you sing the wrong note, too. And I’ll show you grace. We may not always sing perfectly, but we CAN sing in harmony.

But sometimes, every now and then, we can find ourselves in dissonance. Dissonance is when the notes collide. Dissonance is the absence of harmony. It is in these moments of dissonance that we need a Simon Cowell. You know Simon Cowell, the brutally honest British fella from American Idol and The X-Factor. He’s the guy who doesn’t mind telling the poor off-pitch girl singing her heart out, “You are the worst singer I’ve ever heard.”

Here’s what I mean when I say we need a Simon Cowell in our lives. While we won’t get all the notes right every time, there’s grace. But when we get it wrong repeatedly, yet we THINK we’re singing the right note, we find ourselves deceived. And we need a Simon Cowell to tell us the bitter truth we cannot see.

Maybe sweet ole grandma told us we sounded great. Maybe our loyal friends told us we sounded awesome. But truthfully, we’re awful, and we’re simply singing the wrong note over and over, again. It takes a truth-teller like Simon Cowell to tell us what we can’t believe about ourselves.

In other words, maybe there are times when we believe we are doing the right thing. Whether it be an extreme right or left political viewpoint, or a dogmatic religious belief, or our personal thoughts on community “progress”. We excuse our beliefs and behavior with justifications like, “this is just the way it is”, or we’ve been jaded by real life experiences, or worse we’ve been indoctrinated by the media. And so, we perpetuate our biases, our presuppositions, our implicit racism, and we continue to sing off key. But all along we’ve got people telling us that we’re nailing it. And what we truthfully need is an objective Simon Cowell; someone who will tell us the truth.

To move our community into the future, to continue being a great place to live, work and play...I ask you to speak up. Be a Simon Cowell to your friends, to your department, to your sphere of influence. When you see someone who is singing off key, and they don’t realize it, speak up! And whatever you do, don’t encourage, or ignore their dissonance. Oh, and be ready to hear the truth about your own singing too.

If we truly want harmony in our community, then we need humble ourselves and allow others to correct US. Over time we become tone death to our own prejudices. We become jaded. We can begin to believe that we are justified and right...yet all along we’re ignorantly singing the wrong note.

Let’s speak up when we hear the wrong note in our own social circles. Together, let’s aim for harmony. Harmony NEVER happens in a solo. Harmony only happens when there is more than one note being sung. And harmony happens not when we master our own note...but when we LISTEN to what others are singing and adjust our note to match theirs. You don’t have harmony if everyone is singing their own note, and no one is listening to each other.

So, be brave and speak up. Tell your friends and tell your co-workers when you realize they are singing off key. Don’t be like grandma and placate them. Be brave enough and CARE enough about true harmony to speak up and speak the truth in love. And be ready to accept that you might not have perfect pitch too.

As the psalmist writes: “How good and pleasant it is when God’s people live together in unity!” (Psalm 133:1)

The harmony of our great community depends on YOUR honesty. Be brave. Be honest. Listen to each other. And let’s endeavor to sing in perfect harmony.

Because health is part of our wealth, plus all the other good things going on in our state, you may be concerned that even more people who wouldn’t know a mess of collards from a stack of flea collars may want to move here. If so, then you need to know this: You just might be the problem.

A recent survey of 3,000 travelers, commissioned by Gunther Kia, a Fort Lauderdale car dealer, finds that we are among the friendliest and most welcoming people in the U.S. To quote from the survey, “Georgians are known for their down-to-earth nature and generous spirit, which often manifests in friendly greetings and a readiness to help others. Also, many of the state’s community-oriented ways of life also seem to resonate with travelers. A strong sense of camaraderie and togetherness exists in small towns and big cities alike.” Bless your heart.

Bottom line: When it comes to Trump Harrumphers and Bible-thumpers, I will own that. As far as the influx of newcomers who talk funny coming here and telling us we talk funny, this one is on you. I would suggest the next time some out-of-towner plays on your down-to-earth nature and generous spirit which often manifests in friendly greetings and all that other stuff, you recommend they check out Montana or Canada instead. Tell them that here in Georgia, we all suffer from terminal sinusitis. Then sneeze on them. That should do the trick.

swept in-county rival Newton, Monroe Area, Salem and Walnut Grove.

No matter the result, Johnston wants to see her team go out each match and give it their all.

“We just want to be more competitive. If we’re going to lose, let’s compete while we’re doing it. If we’re going to win, I want it to be a competitive match. I don’t want us playing down to the other team’s level,” Johnston said. “I would like for us to have those matches where we fight for every point and the outcome will take care of itself after we do that.”

Leading the charge for Eastside are the squad’s two seniors — Lauren Hall and Josie Kursh.

Johnston labeled them as the vocal leaders while junior Bailey Franklin seems to be the “go-to hitter.”

The Lady Eagles take the court for the first time on Aug. 8 versus Shiloh and Ola high schools. Then, Eastside will go to play against Eagles Landing Christian Academy (ELCA) and Sandy Creek two days later.

On Sept. 7, Eastside will face-off against Loganville on the road for the inaugural Region 8-AAAAA contest. The Lady Eagles will compete against Flowery Branch in the same match.

Johnston is excited to see how her team’s pre-season mission statement comes to fruition.

“Just seeing their vision come to life in that match,” Johnston said. “It’ll be cool to see whatever they come up with and point it back to how they did that in that first match and how we can improve to live that out in our matches moving forward.”

How much of ‘doing it for coach Hardin’ was motivation for the team?

IJ: The role it played in it was that those guys all had her in their head. They could hear what she would be saying. I had just to remind them about several things they needed to remember. It definitely played a part.

It was a difficult year for them, too. They knew she was sick and they cared a lot for her. It was emotional at times.

Coach, you’ve been a part of four of the seven straight national titles....Does this one mean a little bit more because of ‘doing it for coach Hardin?’

IJ: For me it was, because we had to do it without her and it was hard. I told her, ‘This is not what I wanted to do.’ I liked being her assistant. I liked her telling me what to do. This was a totally different experience for me feeling the pressure.

Gwen, who was my assistant and just as much of a head coach as I was, we did it together. We shared the responsibility. She was great. We just soldiered on, we prayed a lot and did the best we could with the guys. It was a hard year for us. We’re not used to doing all that. Coach Hardin usually handled all that and I just did what she told me to do.

I’d go talk to her and she’d say, ‘You have to be me’ and I’m like, ‘I can’t be you.’ When she said that, she meant I had to tell them the hard things. Like, ‘You aren’t going to do this. You’re going to do what we tell you to do’ sort of thing. And we had a great group of guys, so it was good.

What makes the men’s tennis program at Emory at Oxford such a special program?

IJ: For coach Hardin, she put a lot of effort and time into recruitment and making sure these men were not just good tennis players, but they were men capable on and off the court. Being gentlemen, to be kind, handle themselves on the court, learn to handle their emotions. To her, it was all about the whole person. It wasn’t just tennis on a tennis court.

And she lived by saying, while she fought her cancer, it was ‘One day at a time.’ And they’re on the court, they got to play one point at a time. It wasn’t about winning. It was about going out there and doing your best.

I think that’s what makes it so great. First, she was really careful who she recruited. When I say, I don’t mean she always knew they were the best player around. It was just somebody who was coachable and that wanted to grow as a person.

I can’t underestimate her faith and mine as being a huge part of it and Gwen as well. Praying for these boys that they will do their best. They knew where we stood. We didn’t preach to them, but when they were on the court, they were supposed to come play and have fun. When they walked onto that court, they were to leave their studies, all their girl problems, everything behind and were to come out and play. It was a time to play.

Now, we worked hard. But they were to work hard and have fun while they did it. She was really good at making it fun.

articles. With our annual Football Preview Magazine publishing in less than two weeks, I met with the four football coaches at their practices. And then I began working on our softball previews for the 2021 season.

It was an uneasy feeling walking up to those practices knowing that the coaches and players had no clue who I was. Putting a recorder in their faces after just meeting them did not help the awkwardness at all, either.

I did that for all sports in my first year. It was a challenge, to say the least. Even so, I knew, if we were going to tell meaningful stories as an entire sports coverage team, I needed to take the lead in developing these relationships.

Fast forward two years later and those strong relationships have paid off.

It would be easier for me to just email, call or text for everything, but it’s more rewarding and beneficial to actually show up to cover the action. Sharing worthwhile content that people are eager to read can only be done from the sideline or at a practice.

You get better quotes, a better sense of the story within the story and, as a Johnny Cash song says, “You were there when it happened, so you guess you ought to know.”

By showing up on a regular basis, too, my name has changed for a few people. Oftentimes nowadays, people don’t even refer to me as my “real name” anymore, which I absolutely love. A few people call me “The Cov News guy,” “Phil” or “Hubb.” There are the players who call me “Mr. Hubbard,” but, to be honest, that just makes me feel old.

Clearly, the work put in getting to know coaches, players and school officials has benefited myself as well as the paper. It seems others are noticing, too.

The Georgia Press Association awarded our storytelling with our coverage team sweeping the Sports Feature Story category.

That doesn’t happen if we’re disconnected or have no clue who and what we’re covering. But, it’s made possible with strong connections and our team being a constant presence at sporting events.

With that said, year No. 2 has been much more enjoyable than year No. 1 ever was. Not only that, but the stories we’ve shared have been better, in my opinion.

I’ve had a blast getting to know people more — example: our summer series of athletic director profiles — and it’s been fun covering each school’s athletic programs.

Now, with the school year already started, I’m even more excited to see what year No. 3 holds.

If it’s anything like the first two years, it is sure to be a good one.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

DYNASTY CONTINUES

Q&A: Jones talks motivation to win seventh straight title

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
Sports Editor

OXFORD, Ga. — On May 13, the Emory at Oxford men’s tennis squad captured its seventh consecutive national title. It was the program’s 10th overall, too.

Zach Ravel, Tyler Yamato-Chang, Jahaan Sachdeva, Aerie Golubenko, Alex Szymanski, Anders Orr, Ryan Talano, Oliver Catanzaro, Mark Li and Sheryar Lakhani were the 10 players who carried the Eagles to the title.

Ina Jones served as the team’s interim head coach after head coach Pernilla Hardin had to step down due to her battle with cancer.

In an interview with The Covington News, Jones described how the team’s attitude toward winning it all for Hardin played a part in the championship quest.

What was the moment like winning the most recent national championship?

IJ: That’s a real complicated question this year, because I’ve been with coach Hardin for most of them. But this year without coach Hardin, it was sort of muted for me, but exciting at the same time that we were able to do it even though she wasn’t there.

I was excited for our guys this year particularly this year, because all 10 got to play and all 10 are national champions. That was particularly meaningful for me. We actually knew that we had clinched on Saturday. We just had to win our finals on Sunday for them to be champions individually. But we knew as a team they had already won.

For the guys, I was really, really excited. We wanted to do it for coach Hardin since she

First year relationships pave way for year two storytelling

During the past few weeks, our sports section has featured each high schools’ softball team. To gather content for the articles, I went around to the squads’ preseason practices to interview the head coaches and players.

When arriving at each of those practices, I didn’t need a roster in hand to know the players’ names. I didn’t have to start each conversation, “Hey, I’m Phillip with The Covington News. Nice to meet you.” Nothing like that.

The experiences I have enjoyed the last few weeks attending practices was a far cry from what I experienced around this time two years ago.

I officially became the sports editor of The Covington News on July 27, 2021. On day one, I remember intentionally staying in our office to first get to know my coworkers better. Beginning on day two, I hit the ground running.

My first stop was to meet each high schools’ athletic directors for “State of the Program”

EASTSIDE VOLLEYBALL PREVIEW

Lady Eagles begin year in ‘beast mode’

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
Sports Editor

COVINGTON, Ga. — Going into each season, head coach Maggie Johnston allows the Eastside Lady Eagles to come up with their own mission statement.

Two years ago, the statement centered around connecting more. Last year, it was about developing a “competitive fire.”

For the 2023 campaign, the players’ primary aim is to be in “beast mode.”

Johnston shared why she wants the players to form the theme for each season.

“When they do that, they have more of a buy-in of why they’re here,” Johnston said. “ It’s important to have this mission statement that they created so when they have those down moments we can say, ‘Hey wait a minute. This is what y’all are striving for. This is what we need to do every day at practice and in the games.’”

Eastside concluded the 2022 season at 16-14 overall with a fifth place, 2-4 record in Region 8-A AAAA.

The overall win total increased by three compared to 2021 and the Lady Eagles finished a place higher in the region standings.

The Lady Eagles’ two region victories were against Clarke Central and Heritage. They also

Pitbull as seen in "Superfan" 'Superfans' assemble: CBS premieres new competition series honoring music fans

After decades of competitive reality shows committed to finding the most talented singers, dancers, performers and the like, CBS launches an unscripted series dedicated to the fans — well, to the “superfans,” to be exact. Honoring the most loyal of six celebrities’ fan bases, the network’s new competition series tests a group of contestants’ knowledge in exchange for a chance to meet their idols up close and personal. Originally scheduled to arrive in June, “Superfan” premieres Wednesday, Aug. 9, on CBS, the CBS app and Paramount+.

Created by executive producers Keltie Knight (“Footloose,” 2011) and Jodi Roth (“Inappropriate Jeff,” 2014), “Superfan” makes use of a classic game show model — think BBC’s “Mastermind,” if you’ve seen it — testing players on a smattering of facts about the musician they all share a love for. Each week, beginning with LL Cool J (“NCIS: Los Angeles”), one music star is welcomed to perform and look on as their biggest fans settle the No.1-fan question once and for all.

The series has a six-episode freshman season, and it is hosted by Canadian TV personality Knight and Canadian-American former NFL wide receiver Nate Burleson (“The NFL Today”). It features one new musical celebrity per episode, and following LL Cool J’s inaugural episode, the weekly guests of honor include: Canadian country music legend Shania Twain (“That Don’t Impress Me Much,” 1997); Cuban-American pop sensation Gloria Estefan (“Rhythm Is Gonna Get You,” 1987); Alabama-born country four-some Little Big Town (“Pontoon,” 2012); rapper and Miami native Pitbull (“I Know You Want Me,” 2009); and Tennessean singer/songwriter Kelsea Ballerini (“Miss Me More,” 2017).

As the artist’s fans compete across several rounds to figure out who will come out as the one and only “superfan,” they each get the opportunity to interact with their favorite artist, thus making their music fandom dreams come true just by taking part. By the end of each episode, the artist in the spotlight will crown their No. 1 fan and present to them a unique set of prizes.

While discussing his excitement about co-hosting the new show, Burleson stated that “Superfan” “perfectly captures the energy of concert vibes and competition,” adding that “as a host, I get to meet music icons and watch everyday fans compete for a dream prize.”

As far as the at-home audience’s interaction with the fun goes, Burleson notes, “You will dance, laugh and even cry by the end of each episode, but more importantly, you’ll walk away a superfan yourself.”

And Burleson isn’t the only person delighted to be taking the game show genre to new heights; creators Knight and Roth also expressed their own love for the series in the CBS news release.

“We felt like it was time that fan bases across all genres of music get the love and recognition they deserve,” the pair said. “‘Superfan’ gives celebrated musical artists a chance to honor their fans by engaging with them one-on-one and surprising them with once-in-a-lifetime prize packages. It’s a feel-good show that everyone will enjoy.”

"Untold: Hall of Shame"

This new installment of "Untold" tells the story of Victor Conte, whose name is synonymous with the biggest doping scandal ever to rock the sports community, ensnaring top athletes such as baseball great Barry Bonds and track-and-field legends Marion Jones and Tim Montgomery. For 16 years, Conte swears BALCO Laboratories, his supplement and nutrition company based in the Bay Area, never dabbled in illegal, performance-enhancing drugs. But by 2000, he went to the dark side and became the go-to guy for athletes in search of steroids, fame, and world records.

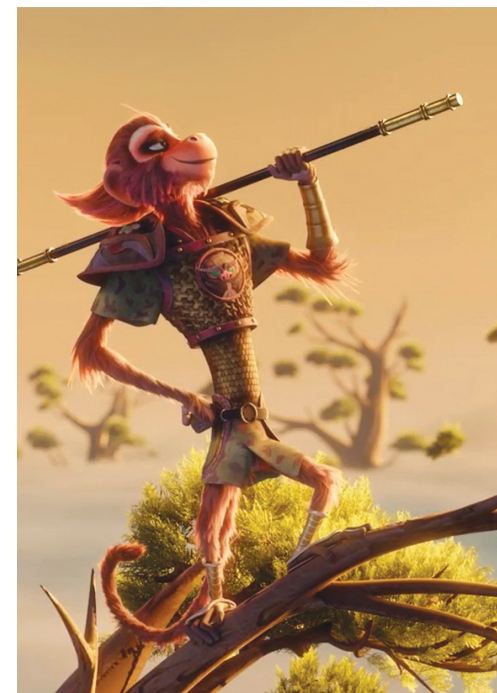

"The Upshaws" - Season 4

Bennie Upshaw (Mike Epps), the head of a Black working class family in Indianapolis, is a charming, well-intentioned mechanic and lifelong mess just trying his best to step up and care for his family — wife Regina (Kim Fields), their two young daughters (Khali Spraggins, Journey Christine) and firstborn son (Jermelle Simon), the teenage son (Diamond Lyons) he fathered with another woman (Gabrielle Dennis) — and tolerate his sardonic sister-in-law (Wanda Sykes). In this upcoming part, the Upshaws continue to ride life's ups and downs, including new jobs, bigger dreams, health struggles and some major life surprises but still hanging on with the love that comes with family.

"My Dad the Bounty Hunter" - Season 2

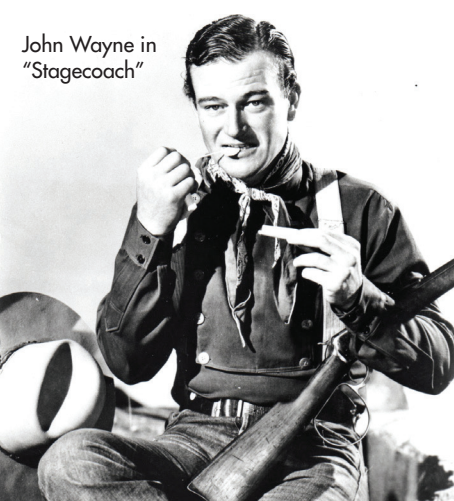

This animated action-comedy series follows close-knit siblings Lisa (Priah Ferguson) and Sean (Jecobi Swain) as they stow away for spacebound adventures with their dad (Laz Alonso), an intergalactic bounty hunter. Yvette Nicole Brown, Rob Riggle, Kari Wahlgren and Yvonne Orji also voice star.

"Movie: The Monkey King"

This action-packed, computer animated family comedy follows a charismatic Monkey and his magical fighting Stick on an epic quest for victory over 100 demons, an eccentric Dragon King, and Monkey's greatest foe of all — his own ego! Along the way, a young village girl challenges his self-centered attitude and shows him that even the smallest pebble can have a big effect on the world.

John Wayne in "Stagecoach"

BEST WESTERN MOVIES

"Stagecoach" (1939): An early entry in the many collaborations of John Wayne and director John Ford made the actor a star.

"Red River" (1948): A rancher and his adopted son (John Wayne, Montgomery Clift) clash over the execution of a cattle drive in director Howard Hawks' genre great.

"Winchester '73" (1950): James Stewart is the star of this classic that involves the title rifle, but the picture also is worth watching for early performances by Rock Hudson, "Anthony" (later "Tony") Curtis and Shelley Winters.

"Shane" (1953): The title gunfighter (Alan Ladd) being beseeched to "come back" by a young fan (Brandon de Wilde) is one of the most famous and affecting endings in movie history, courtesy of director George Stevens.

"The Searchers" (1956): One of the most beautifully filmed of all Westerns, John Ford's masterpiece teams him again with Wayne, playing a Civil War veteran seeking his abducted niece (Natalie Wood).

"Gunfight at the O.K. Corral" (1957): There's star power to spare as Burt Lancaster and Kirk Douglas play Wyatt Earp and Doc Holliday in this re-creation of an Old West legend.

"Rio Bravo" (1959): A sheriff (John Wayne) and a drunken deputy (Dean Martin) lead the effort against those wanting to spring a rancher's arrested brother in another Howard Hawks-directed genre staple.

"The Magnificent Seven" (1960): Director John Sturges' revision of Japan's "Seven Samurai" casts Yul Brynner as the leader of a specially skilled septet defending Mexican villagers against bandits.

"How the West Was Won" (1962): It took three directors (including John Ford) and an all-star cast to assemble this epic originally shown in the Cinerama process, giving viewers direct perspective on being aboard a runaway raft (among other experiences).

"The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance" (1962): John Wayne and James Stewart expectedly made a potent starring duo in John Ford's drama fueled by the killing of town bully Valance (Lee Marvin).

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" (1969): Paul Newman and Robert Redford lent plenty of humor and charisma to this fanciful profile of the legendary bandit duo.

"True Grit" (1969): John Wayne's Oscar-honored portrayal of eyepatched lawman Rooster Cogburn is enough to give this tale a place among bona fide Western classics.

"The Outlaw Josey Wales" (1976): Clint Eastwood made a notable addition to the annals of movie Westerns as both director and star of this saga of a vengeance-propelled farmer turned gunfighter.

"Dances With Wolves" (1990): For his feature-directing debut, Kevin Costner earned an Oscar while also starring as a Union Army officer who experiences a major cultural awakening.

"Unforgiven" (1992): Arguably the last great movie Western made to date, director and star Clint Eastwood's Oscar winner echoes his "Josey Wales" in profiling another farmer turned outlaw. Co-star Gene Hackman earned his own Academy Award here.

Why 'The $100,000 Pyramid' seems very familiar sometimes

Q: Are this summer's episodes of "The $100,000 Pyramid" new? I saw one with Lindsey Vonn that I thought I had seen before. – Gary Andrews, Lancaster, Pa.

A: Most of them are new, but there's been a mix ... and yes, that Lindsey Vonn episode aired a couple of times earlier. The ABC game show hosted by Michael Strahan is running new episodes on Sundays, and if repeats show up, those generally are on other nights such as Wednesdays. The same thing happened with an encore installment that featured Sara Haines of "The View" and "The Chase," who had been a co-host of the weekday "GMA3" with Strahan before that show changed format during the coronavirus pandemic.

Part of the gift of game shows such as "The $100,000 Pyramid" is that they are so repeatable, which is why they've also become staples of Game Show Network. And certain celebrity players return from season to season – Cedric the Entertainer and RuPaul Charles are among those who have played multiple times – so it sometimes can be confusing as to whether an ABC broadcast of the game is a repeat or not.

A: She certainly was, and she was rewarded amply for it. The actress – who also has starred in primetime in such shows as "Salvation" and "Tyrant" – played the role of Bridget Forrester on CBS' "The Young and the Restless," and she earned three Daytime Emmys for that portrayal in three consecutive years (2002, 2003 and 2004). She left that serial to focus on nighttime series, with guest stints on "Crossing Jordan" and "The Dead Zone" among her credits before she landed her first series leads in the sitcom "Committed" and the law drama "Close to Home."

Q: Why does Lifetime seem to use so many of the same actresses in its movies? – Donna Craig, Lake Charles, La. A: It's for the same reason that Hallmark Channel and other outlets do – and, frankly, for the same reason that certain performers get so much work in general. If they prove popular enough, networks want to keep using them in projects to draw the person's fans.

Whereas it's typically love stories in the case of Hallmark movies, the norm for Lifetime is thrillers ... and that network also has let some of its popular talents branch into other areas, such as Brittany Underwood and Lindsay Hartley, who now direct movies for that network as well as act in them. And Sarah Drew wrote and produced a Lifetime holiday movie that she also starred in.
