Girls In Aviation Day held at Covington airport for second consecutive year

By EMILY ROSE HAMBY
Staff Writer

COVINGTON, Ga. - Rain did not halt the festivities at Covington Municipal Airport this past weekend. On Saturday, the Wheels Down South chapter of Women in Aviation International (WIA) hosted its annual Girls In Aviation Day event for the second consecutive year at the airport.

This year's event accumulated 226 attendees - 133 of which were students. Though all school-aged children are welcome, Lexi Caverly, outreach chair and representative for the chapter, explained the importance of gearing the event towards girls.

"The percentage of women in aviation is so small," Caverly said. "Before COVID, it was six percent. It's changed a lot since then. So, the goal is to grow women's presence in aviation, but we found students just don't know it's a possibility."

Representatives from Delta, Aerodox, Endeavor Air, the Commemorative Air Force, the Federal Aviation Administration's (FAA) Technical Women's Organization and more provided activities for event participants to become acclimated with the field of aviation.

Some of the activities included making bracelets out of airplane parts, air traffic control (ATC) language workshops and representatives discussing the many opportunities women have in the

PROFILE ARLINE CHAPMAN

Chapman 'attached' to Porterdale and its community

By CHIP MATTHEWS
Correspondent

PORTERDALE, Ga. - Porterdale is a small town where the streets intersect and the heartbeat of the community resonates. Heading up the city is Porterdale's mayor Arline Chapman.

From her humble beginnings to her current role, Chapman's journey and accomplishments have shaped her into the person she is today.

In her lifetime, Chapman has worn many hats. Under the pressure of her parents, she attended an exclusive women's college that trained her to work as an administrative assistant.

"I wanted to go to art school when I graduated from high school, and my parents did not think that was such a good idea," Chapman said. "Back then, you did what your parents told you to."

So, she spent a short time working as a secretary but quickly grew tired of that role.

"I was ready to fly the coop, and the family had known a woman that was a flight attendant," Chapman said. "I decided that is what I wanted to do."

Eastern Airlines hired Chapman as a flight attendant, which eventually landed her in the Atlanta area. Chapman worked in that position until she married, at which point she focused on raising her two sons.

Chapman rejoined the workforce after raising her family. This time, relying on the skills she gained from college, Chapman found a temporary clerical position with the Georgia House of Representatives during a legislative session.

That position led to others.

Chapman worked with legislators like DuBose Porter, who served as the Administration Floor Leader for Governor Zell Miller, and also Thurbert Baker, the first African American Attorney General of the U.S. state of Georgia. Years later, it was Baker who swore Chapman into office during her first term.

Chapman moved to Porterdale with the suggestion of a friend and Walter Davis, the developer who purchased and revamped the mill at Yellow River.

"They had the perfect place already picked out for me; they had it all planned," Chapman said.

Once here, Davis insisted Chapman run for office. "[Davis told me] you need to run for city council here," Chapman said. "The place is a mess."

EDUCATION LEADERSHIP

Q&A Dr. Badia Ahad, Oxford College's new dean

By EMILY ROSE HAMBY
Staff Writer

OXFORD, Ga. - On Aug. 1, Dr. Badia Ahad began her tenure as dean of Emory University's Oxford College. Ahad previously served as vice provost for faculty affairs and professor of English at Loyola University Chicago.

A native of Chicago, Ahad's roots in education are strong, stemming from a lineage of teachers and administrators in her family. She earned her bachelor's in English literature from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and both her master's in English Language and Literature and doctorate in English Literature from the University of Notre Dame.

Ahad has two children - Lauren, a junior at Spelman College and Nathan Jr., a senior in high school. Her husband runs one of the largest youth development organizations on the south side of Chicago.

Ahad sat down with The Covington News to chat about her transition from living in Chicago to living down south, her academic research and her plans as the college's new dean.

Where are you from? And what was your childhood like growing up?

BA: I am from Chicago, Illinois and I grew up in Hyde Park, which is a small community on the south side of the city. It's the same area where you have the University of Chicago. My childhood was pretty idyllic. It was a great neighborhood to grow up in. We did a lot of things outside. The university actually played a pretty big role in my childhood as well. We used to play hide and go seek in the Frank Lloyd Wright House, the Robie House. There was a program called academic games at the university on Saturdays, so my friends and I went to that. Professors used to come to our classroom and talk to us about their work. So it was a really great childhood.

What brought you down to Oxford from the Chicago area?

BA: It was tough and it's a very different environment. But I think that also says a lot about how wonderful Oxford and Covington are, that you were able to lure me from Chicago to this space. Everyone always talks about how Oxford is such a special place. I heard it a lot during my interview and I heard it a lot after the interview. And I thought, 'Do they pay people to say that?' Because everybody says the same thing. Alumni, students, faculty, staff. Now that I've been here for about six weeks, here I am.

Oxford is such a special place. But what really attracted me to Oxford in particular, was just the sense of care and concern and attention to students. It's a truly student centered environment and that is incredibly important to me. Being in an environment where there is, again, undivided attention to students from faculty, all the staff, all the curricular, co-curricular activities, that was something that was really attractive to me - the sense of kind of educating the whole person. That was, I would say the primary draw, but the people for sure convinced me that this would be a good place to reside.

What sparked your interest in education - especially administration at the higher level?

BA: When I was a sophomore in college, I went to my professor, because I thought I wanted to be a journalist and there was an internship in New York and I wanted him to write a recommendation for me to do this internship. He said, 'I'll do it, but I want to tell you about this other program that I think you would be really good for.' It was called the Summer Research Opportunities Program. It was a program that was meant to expose underrepresented students to life in academia. It was a six week program where I would do research with him over the summer, so it was a mentored research opportunity. And I said, 'Okay, well, I was hoping to go to New York and do this journalism thing, but I guess I'll stay in Champaign, Illinois to do this.' I mean, I loved his class, which is why I was asking him for the recommendation, but he seemed really interesting and he was interested in working with me and I was very flattered by that.

I hadn't really thought about going into higher ed

BOY SCOUTS MATT GABRIEL

Gabriel achieves Eagle Scout rank

By EMILY ROSE HAMBY
Staff Writer

NEWTON COUNTY – Matt Gabriel, a sophomore at Eastside High School, attained his status as an Eagle Scout last week. Gabriel has been involved in Boy Scouts for the past 10 years. Becoming an Eagle Scout and continuing his participation in Boy Scouts over the last decade is both rewarding and relieving for Gabriel. “It kind of feels like a weight’s lifted off you...

It’s an accomplishment that’ll really help you in life,” Gabriel said. “It also kinda helped show me what I want to do with my life, career wise.” According to the Boy Scouts website, to become an Eagle Scout, a Scout must earn at least 21 merit badges, fulfill leadership roles and display outdoor skills, demonstrate by example the Scout Oath and Law and complete a comprehensive service project in the community. For his Eagle project, Gabriel built bat houses for the water treatment plant at Cornish Creek in Newton County. Gabriel chose this as his Eagle project after researching the benefits of bats in nature, which fulfilled Gabriel’s goal of working on something that would help the environment. Despite obtaining what the Boy Scout website refers to as the “highest and most prestigious achievement a Scout can achieve,” Gabriel intends on remaining an active Scout.

FAA and the education required to obtain those roles. Caverly shared that one of the participants’ favorite parts of the event is how women from the Commemorative Air Force dress as Rosie the Riveter and discuss women in history, particularly how women built airplanes during World War II. From pilots, flight attendants and officers to plane mechanics, learning about how to make those careers become a reality is something Caverly considers to be one of the event’s goals. “I think our goal is just to make sure students and even their parents or their chaperones or some of the adults in their world know that this is an opportunity and it’s not as complicated as people might think to get into those different career choices,” Caverly said. Beginning in 2015, the annual Girls In Aviation Day event has been held in Covington for the last two years due to its convenient location, as most attendees of events in the past are near the area, according to Caverly. The Covington airport also provides opportunities for students to experience planes firsthand by seeing and sitting in them. Caverly shared that WIA plans to host the event again next year and that they strive for “education and inspiration for the future of aviation.”

Chapman’s sons also thought it was a good idea. Over the years, she’s helped countless children learn to read by volunteering her time and resources. She thinks of herself as a grandmother to Porterdale’s youth. “I have a handful of them [they’ve] rotated over time,” Chapman said. She partnered with officials to rid the city of blight properties and shared her knowledge and talent gained from the art classes she took weekly at the former Atlanta College of Art. According to Chapman, this is her last term in office, but that won’t stop her service. She plans to continue teaching art classes on Wednesday nights, along with spreading love, joy, and the occasional snack to the young children who stop by her home frequently. “I’m very attached to the people of Porterdale,” Chapman said.

and I loved it. I loved every single minute of it. We worked on a project that focused on Toni Morrison and William Faulkner, another famous Southerner. We did a lot of research in the stacks, which [I’m] aging myself there. But also, I just liked being able to enjoy a career that was wholly focused on my area of interest. Being a faculty member, you get to focus on things that really matter to you and you get to share that enthusiasm and expertise with students and I really could not think of a better career. So, that’s what pulled me in.

You’re a scholar of African American literature and a researcher of the intersection of cultural studies and positive psychology. What’s your favorite aspect to research about those topics and why?

BA: My research, I would say, was animated by a desire to want to show the fullness of African American life. I think that a lot of times, and I experienced this even when I was teaching, there is a tendency to focus on the traumatic aspects of Black life, which are important to understand and to know. But I think that when you follow that through line, that also paints Black life as very one dimensional. I didn’t see a lot of representations in literature or in visual art or even in film, of representations of Black people that were just happy and pleasurable and enjoying their lives and doing interesting things that weren’t related to racism or overcoming racism.

Part of my research was really about – what do we know and what can we say about Black life that isn’t mired in kind of, sites of injury, if you will. That’s really what sparked my own interest in positive psychology because it’s actually a field that doesn’t really take race into account. It’s kind of a race neutral area. But it’s all about resilience and well being and flourishing and thriving all of those concepts emerge out of positive psychology. By putting those with African American studies, it was just a great framework for me to kind of talk about those more positive aspects of Black life.

You also wrote several books. Can you list some of them?

BA: It’s only three. My first book was, “Freud Upside Down: African American Literature and Psychoanalytic Culture.” So again, that was a book about putting two things that don’t go together, together. Basically, psychoanalysis had been really inattentive to matters of race and so I wanted to actually just show that this is something that African American scholars and writers have been talking about for quite some time, about a century at least. And then, I co-edited a monograph called “Difficult subjects: Insights and strategies for teaching about race, sexuality, and gender and that’s really about teaching race, gender, and sexuality in the college classroom.” My latest book, “Afro-Nostalgia Feeling Good in Contemporary Black Culture,” was really about what feeling good or positive psychology kind of looks like across a range of fields. I talk about literature, visual art, performance and even food.

What are some of your ideas and initiatives you plan to contribute to Oxford?

BA: To get a sense of the vision, the ideas and the aspirations of the people who are here. So for example, I had a really wonderful meeting and tour of the farm last week with Daniel and he’s been here for 10 years. We talked about, ‘Okay, well, that was the first 10 years of the farm, what does the next five years look like for you for the farm. What are your dreams for the space? You’ve grown it from nothing to what it is now. So where can we take it from there?’ Part of it is just collaborating with faculty and staff and their respective spaces to get a sense of what they’d like to see over the next few years.

But in terms of, I would say opportunities that I see for Oxford, certainly I’m always interested in increasing opportunities for students, financial and otherwise. How can we increase access to Oxford for students, but also how can we enhance, what I like to call, ‘beyond the classroom experiences?’ How can we get students more engaged with internships and experiential learning, community engaged learning? That’s something that I definitely want to advance during my time here. Also, I want to enhance Oxford’s visibility. This is, I think, one of the best kept secrets in higher education. I want the word to get out that we have amazing staff, amazing faculty, great programs, [and] really innovative pedagogy. I want to make that more visible.

Outside of work, what do you like to do? What are some of your hobbies?

BA: Golf is my hobby for sure. I love watching tennis – not playing – watching tennis. The U.S. Open is on right now, so it’s very exciting. Honestly, it sounds boring, but spending time with my friends and family. Brunch is my favorite meal, so having brunch with my friends is one of my favorite things to do. And when I get a chance, I love to travel, but, don’t get to do that as much as I would like. It’s something that I really enjoy.

U.S. Soccer to move headquarters, build training center in Atlanta

CAPITOL BEAT
News Service

ATLANTA – The U.S. Soccer Federation is moving its headquarters from Chicago to Atlanta and building the first-ever National Training Center in the metro area, the organization announced Friday.

The Arthur M. Blank Foundation is contributing $50 million toward the state-of-the-art facility, which will house U.S. Soccer's nine teams. The money also will be used to grow the game of soccer across the U.S.

"America's top athletes deserve the best when it comes to preparing them for competition on the global stage," Blank said. "Atlanta's incredible passion for soccer, corporate community and unmatched infrastructure make this a natural home for the National Training Center."

"For many decades, sports have been an essential part of Georgia's history and culture,"

Gov. Brian Kemp added. "From hosting visitors to training the next generation of athletes, we're glad that this project will create new opportunities for local businesses and hardworking Georgians."

The Coca-Cola Co., which announced a long-term partnership with U.S. Soccer in July, played an important role in bringing the National Training Center to Atlanta.

U.S. Soccer CEO and Secretary General J.T. Batson is leading the search for a site in the Atlanta area for the new center. A final decision on the location will be made in January.

Besides the popularity of Major League Soccer's Atlanta United with local fans, Atlanta will be among the host cities for soccer's World Cup in 2026.

Since-suspended state gasoline tax propped up August revenue report

CAPITOL BEAT
News Service

ATLANTA – Georgia tax collections rose by 1.1 percent last month compared to August of last year but only because the state wasn't collecting the sales tax on gasoline and other motor fuels a year ago.

Not counting the $181.6 million in fuel taxes that came in last month, tax receipts for August were down by 4.8 percent compared to August of last year, the Georgia Department of Revenue announced late Friday.

Individual income taxes declined by 5.2 percent, a drop-off driven by an increase in refunds issued by the revenue agency combined with a decrease in payments.

Net sales tax receipts decreased by 10.1 percent in August. Typically more volatile corporate income taxes fell by 103 percent. As with individual income tax revenues, the decline resulted from the state issuing more refunds while receiving less in payments.

Tax collections in Georgia now have declined in four of the last five months. Then-state economist Jeffrey Dorfman predicted last January that Georgia tax revenues were likely to drop this year because last year's huge increase in capital gains tax payments was unlikely to be repeated.

However, the state finished fiscal 2023 at the end of June with an estimated budget surplus of nearly $4.8 billion built up during the last three years. With that much black ink, Gov. Brian Kemp is allowing state agencies to request 3 percent spending increases in both their fiscal 2024 midyear and fiscal 2025 budgets.

Kemp also suspended the gasoline tax again earlier this week, citing rising prices at the pump. That loss in tax receipts will be reflected in next month's revenue report.

General Assembly looking to fine-tune dual enrollment program

CAPITOL BEAT
News Service

ATLANTA – Georgia lawmakers have taken steps in recent years to rein in the costs of the state's increasingly popular dual enrollment program, which lets high school students receive credit for taking college courses.

But they're not resting on those achievements. Given Georgia's growing workforce demands, two legislative committees are working this summer to find ways both to ramp up the program and make it financially sustainable.

"The whole point of this study committee is developing more highly skilled talent at younger ages," state Sen. Matt Brass, R-Newnan, said last month at the first meeting of a joint House-Senate study committee on dual enrollment he co-chairs. "The idea is to get [students] certified faster and into the workforce faster."

"We're not trying to fix something that's broken," added Georgia Rep. Matt Dubnik, R-Gainesville, the study committee's other co-chairman. "We're simply trying to take a good program and make it even better."

The cost of the dual enrollment program, which had about 49,000 students enrolled as of last year, peaked at $105 million in fiscal 2020. That had been reduced to $76 million by the time the General Assembly adopted the fiscal 2024 state budget last March.

The difference is House Bill 444, which the legislature passed in 2020, capping the dual enrollment program at 30 hours.

Until then, dual enrollment students were free to take as many college courses as they wanted while still in high school, Irene Munn, a board member with the Georgia College and Career Academies Network, told the study committee.

"It was just way too much," she said. "We set parameters on the amount of money [the state is] investing in dual enrollment."

But Munn said House Bill 444 created "stumbling blocks" that needed to be addressed. Students were having to wait until they hit the 30-hour cap to begin taking technical college courses.

The General Assembly responded this year by passing Senate Bill 86, which lets dual enrollment students use funds from the state's HOPE Grant program to pay for those career courses and earn an associate degree.

"It's allowed us to get qualified students into the workforce sooner," Munn said. "We're getting kids into well-paying jobs at 18 and 20."

Getting students into the workforce quickly is proving critical to meeting Georgia's workforce demands. A wide range of professions are suffering shortages of workers.

"More nurses are retiring every year than are coming into the practice," Scott Steiner, president and CEO of Phoebe Putney Health System in Albany, told members of the joint study committee. "We'll be 80,000 short in Georgia by 2030 if we don't turn it around."

The number of trained workers is also failing to keep up with demand in other careers, including the skilled manufacturing trades.

Part of the problem is the stigma that surrounds blue-collar jobs. High-school counselors tend to steer students toward four-year colleges, as do many college-educated parents.

Rep. Stacey Evans, D-Atlanta, said the state needs to do more outreach to show students and parents the benefits of a skilled trade.

"I think we should really focus on how do we put some budgetary money into advertisement through social media, reach the kids where they are and show how attractive this is," she said. "A big part of that is showing how much money you can make."

"If you can take a 17- or 18-year-old graduate from high school coming from a family that's in generational poverty ... that's transformational, not only for the student but for that family," added Dan Weber, a former state senator now serving as executive director of the Georgia Charter System Foundation. "They can come out making $45,000 or more a year."

Rep. Chuck Martin, R-Alpharetta, chairman of the House Higher Education Committee, suggested the state do more to spread the word about the advantages of a technical college education by creating an online "decision tree" that would steer students and parents toward trades they might be interested in pursuing. The GA-Futures and Georgia Degrees Pay websites may not be enough, he said.

"There are still a lot of parents and students who don't know they're out there," Martin said.

Greg Dozier, commissioner of the Technical College System of Georgia, said the system is working to expand the number of technical college courses that allow students to transfer credits seamlessly to a University System of Georgia institution.

Dozier said more technical college students are entering the system directly out of high school rather than waiting until they make mid-career switches. As a result, the average age of a technical college student in Georgia has dropped in recent years from 36 to 26, Dozier told members of a second ad hoc committee on dual enrollment formed by the House.

"We no longer have that lost decade," Dozier said Friday.

The two committees will continue meeting this fall to develop recommendations for the General Assembly to consider during the 2024 legislative session starting in January.

Freedom itself was attacked

“Freedom itself was attacked this morning by a faceless coward...and freedom will be defended,” said President Bush. The day was September 11th, 2001; the worst day in American history. It’s a day that we vowed we would never forget. Everyone, except for Joe Biden.

Biden can’t be bothered with 9/11. He’s the first president to NOT attend one of the three sites on that tragic anniversary.

Instead, he was abroad, insisting that he would NOT try to shore up our allies’ common defense of the free peoples of the Far East.

Half of the world lives in tyranny today. Half of the world does NOT elect its leaders, does NOT enjoy justice, does NOT have equal rights.

You would think the “Leader of the Free World” would aggressively defend the free peoples who are left in the Far East.

No. Instead, he issues conciliatory statements to make sure that our biggest competitor – a nation who’s leader won’t even speak to him – isn’t too mad at him. Then, he lied about being in NYC the day after the attack.

Even worse, he chose the anniversary of 9/11 to be the day he released $6B of ransom money to Iran, the number one state sponsor of terrorism. The same Iran that is under US sanctions for trying to develop a nuclear bomb, and is actively supplying Russia with weapons to kill Ukrainians.

You cannot make this up. It’s important to remember that the USA was at peace before 9/11.

Then, without provocation, 19 Radical Islamic Terrorists murdered thousands of innocent American civilians.

Osama Bin Laden thought otherwise. He hated our culture of freedom, tolerance, diversity and equity so much that he slaughtered twice as many American victims as Pearl Harbor.

Days later, Bush famously declared, “I can hear you. The rest of the world hears you. And the people who knocked these buildings down will hear from all of us soon.” The nation rallied, as did our NATO allies, fulfilling their commitment that “an attack upon one of us, is an attack upon us all.”

That’s why dozens of European nations were in Afghanistan when Joe Biden abruptly pulled out in 2021.

DAVE BELTON

Did Biden consult our NATO allies in advance of our ignoble retreat?

No. In fact, they were stunned and angered by our craven surrender.

German Chancellor Merkel said, “For those who believed in democracy and freedom, especially for women, these are bitter events.” The Washington Post called it “a moral failure”. The United Nations warned of a “humanitarian disaster”. And British Prime Minister Tony Blair called it “imbecilic”.

Biden answered by lying about the disaster, claiming that his generals approved of his plan.

Later, these same generals testified that they advised him against it. Indeed, a former CENTCOM general just admitted that our shameful retreat was “a fatal flaw” that history would judge harshly. “I have a lot of regrets about how it ended,” he added, giving Afghanistan back to the same terrorist organization that killed over 6000 of our citizens.

“This is not the end of our troubles, it is a beginning of a new and more dangerous era,” said a large group of generals in a open letter at the time. “The damage to the US is indescribable...we are seen, and will be seen for many years, as an unreliable partner...trust in the US is irreparably damaged.”

“China benefits the most,” they warned two years ago, “followed by Russia.” They also predicted that, “terrorists around the world are emboldened and able to pass freely into our country through our open border with Mexico.”

How right they were. Just a few months after our shameful retreat, Putin invaded Ukraine because he knew Biden was weak.

Now, on the 22nd Anniversary of 9/11, the Taliban is back in control, celebrating their success. Bragging about their new “cradle of jihad”, they are armed with $83 billion of US weapons that Biden left behind. “The world should have learned its lesson,” says a Taliban spokesman, “this is the enjoyable moment of victory.”

Let that sink in.

Reflections on a grandson who left us much too soon

My oldest grandson, Zachary Earl Wansley, died 15 years ago this past week while on a training run for an upcoming marathon. He was 21 years old. I am not sure what he would be doing today were he here, but I am positive whatever it might be, he would be a success. He always was.

As to what happened, I do not know. Zack was at the peak of physical condition. The results of the autopsy were shared with his parents, my daughter and son-in-law. I never asked because it wouldn’t bring him back.

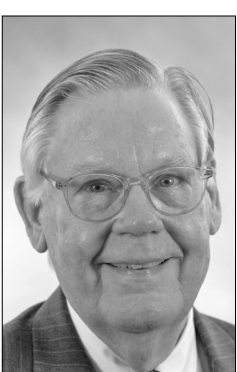

One of the first calls I received when word got out that my grandson had died was from former Gov. Carl Sanders, who had lost his own grandson after a long and debilitating illness. No one, he told me, should ever outlive their children or grandchildren. Wiser words this great man never spoke.

But outlive Zack, I have done. And now I am left with the memories of an exceptional young man who was the epitome of an achiever. He was an honor student, president of his high school senior class, captain of the cross-country team and winner of the Journal Cup as the school’s Outstanding Graduate. None of this went to his head. If there was a vote for Most Likeable, he would have won that, too. Zack was the total package.

Both of his grandfathers were graduates of the University of Georgia as were his father and mother, so there was no question as to where Zachary would be going to college. And off to college he went – to The Georgia Institute of Technology. Not a spur of the moment decision, either. This kid was always an unrepentant and unapologetic Yellow Jacket, who could more than hold his own with all the Bulldogs in his family.

As with everything else he did, Zack excelled academically at Tech and was a member of the cross-country team until he chose to participate in the institution’s co-op program, where he would work a semester and attend classes a semester. And, of course, he was highly regarded by the firm for whom he worked and who made a sizeable donation to Georgia Tech in his memory when he passed away.

When our four grandsons turned 10, the Beloved Woman Who Shared My Name decided we would take each on a trip of their choosing in the U.S. No parents allowed. Zack and his younger brother, Nicholas, wanted to ride a domed train overnight from Seattle to San Diego. One of their cousins, Brian, wanted to go fly-fishing in Montana, and the other, Thomas, chose Boston.

DICK YARBROUGH

The trips were such a success we decided to do it again before the grandboys were grown and gone. This time, Nicholas decided to go to Scotland where his grandmother’s ancestors had lived. Brian opted for the bright lights of New York City, and Thomas, a visit to the D-Day beaches at Normandy. That left only Zack.

As the oldest grandson and the one I had loved the longest, I told him we would go anywhere on this planet he wanted to go. Just name it. His request? He wanted to go to Yankee Stadium to see the New York Yankees play and then to Boston’s Fenway Park to see a Red Sox game. I reiterated that I was talking about anywhere on this planet. He reiterated he was talking about Yankee Stadium and Fenway Park. So we went to Yankee Stadium and Fenway Park.

It was, appropriately, the trip of a lifetime. We had our own private box at Yankee Stadium. In Boston, we were treated like royalty by the fans around us when they discovered a grandfather and his grandson had traveled up from Georgia to see their beloved “Sox” play. Four months later, Zack was gone. But that memory is forever.

Three months after Zack died, Cameron Charles Yarbrough made his appearance as the family’s first great-grandchild and, soon to be 15, is showing much of the same drive to succeed as the cousin he never got to meet. Cameron is an excellent student and a promising high school cross-country runner. I have reminded him he could have no better role model than Zachary Earl Wansley.

There is no use questioning why someone so special with so much potential was taken from us so suddenly. It happened and nothing can change that fact. All I know is that no one should ever outlive a child or grandchild. And I have.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Recently letters from two Correydell residents have been printed involving critical zoning that three members of the Covington City Council approved concerning land juxtaposed to the North of our over 55 neighborhood. This ruling directly affects us most harmfully. I would like to further expand my neighbors no hyperbole and factual concerns they stated.

Despite a 6-0 vote by the zoning commission (Mayor Horton also voiced an opinion in our favor due to traffic concerns) to deny

Mr. Bob Richardson’s petition to have his land zoned from R-1 type homes to R-2/3 houses that would include 43 “tiny” homes of about 1100 square feet and about 20 others more comparable with Correydell’s homes, he got all he asked for. Why does this commission exist if its opinion is totally ignored? Richardson’s victory gives him the vulgar right to cut into our neighborhood for the only access for the small homes. The 20 others would use an existing road that he or his family have used for over 75 years and which at some additional costs could have been used for the 43 “tinies.” Perhaps Mr. Richardson’s anguish and determination to sell his property with the council’s approval, despite the harm done to many, stemmed from an unbelievable zoning made by this council which is allowing 3-400 apartments be built directly across Jackson Highway from him. This unfathomable ruling literally boxes him in, as his will do to us.

Some may applaud the approval as there is no doubt a critical shortage of affordable housing availability in Covington/Newton. But are they, or will they be affordable due to construction costs and the topographical modifications required. With money now tighter and more expensive to borrow, I am concerned even if this hideous approval is allowed by the courts, that eventually the homes will be entirely of the rental nature (becoming hot spots for crime) and being taxed according to income generated. This means of course as is with apartments, the tax burden load will be off loaded to the single-family homeowners.

Councilpersons Morgan, Baggett and Evans slammed the

OBITUARY LINDA PARKER

CALDWELL & COWAN FUNERAL HOME

Funeral Home

Linda Carole Parker (Edwards) of Covington passed away on September 15, 2023 at the age of 75. She was born in Athens on February 2, 1948 to the late James Harold and Mary Lois Edwards.

Linda was introduced to Jesus at church at age 14, and that relationship shaped the rest of her life. Experiencing the love of Jesus in her own life enabled her to love others well. This began with her family, and extended to anyone who knew her. She was an excellent wife, mother, and “Baboose” to her grandchildren. She was a mighty prayer warrior who prayed for many daily. The ripple effect of those prayers is still being felt in her children’s and grandchildren’s lives, and will continue for generations to come. In addition to loving her family, she loved others as well. As a teenager she taught GAs at church. She led women’s Bible studies, and later, after raising her own children, her heart turned to mentoring young mothers. Her legacy lives on in her family and in the many lives she touched.

Linda worked as a legal secretary for Judge Greely Ellis before staying home to raise her children. She was an entrepreneur at heart, and her creativity and desire to help others led her to start several businesses over the years. In her later years, that creativity was expressed in her cooking. She loved to try a new recipe, and she won several recipe contests over the years. Many family memories center around a table full of her favorite people and her delicious dishes.

Survivors include her loving husband of 53 years, Ruel Parker, children, Lydia Parker of Covington, GA, and Adam and Carrie Parker of Marietta, GA, her seven grandchildren (Johnny, Joshua, Daniel, Caleb, Joel, Noah, and soon arriving granddaughter) who were the delight of her life, sister, Kathryn Pearson of Pendleton, SC, brother Greg (Melanie) Edwards of Athens, GA, and numerous nieces and nephews.

A Funeral Service for Linda will be held Wednesday, September 20, 2023, 2:00 P.M., at the Chapel of Caldwell & Cowan, 1215 Access Road, in Covington, with Pastor Aaron Boeving and Adam Parker officiating, with interment following in Lawnwood Memorial Park. Friends were invited to visit with the family at the funeral home on Monday, September 18, from 6:00 - 8:00 P.M. In keeping with Linda’s heart for children and mentoring young mothers, in lieu of flowers, please consider a donation in her memory to Newton Pregnancy Resource Center (www.newton-prc.org) or Promise686 (www.promise686.org).

hot spots for crime) and being taxed according to income generated. This means of course as is with apartments, the tax burden load will be off loaded to the single-family homeowners.

Councilpersons Morgan, Baggett and Evans slammed the door shut on 72 residents of Coreydell and many more domiciled for decades residents to the north of Richardson’s property. Three ill(non)-considered votes have literally ruined the lives of many people who have played the rules according to Hoyle. Morgan made the motion to accept, and Baggett almost jumped out of her seat like a jack in the box screaming her seconding it-she wasn’t wearing any sunglasses that I could see. Only MS Evans can define her vote.

We of Correydell cannot live with this hideous ruling and perhaps some home cooking for Mr. Richardson and his lawyer Mr. John Nix. Mr. Nix seems to be the favorite legal representative for those with questionable zoning issues and usually bats 1000. His legal persuasion and homily pleas seem to connect with the County and City leaders, mesmerizing them to make such important decisions and compelling them to forget their obligation to ensure zoning also protects the rights of surrounding property owners.

There were legal questions involved with Richardson’s request that are far out of reach of the council and should have been left up to the courts at Richardson’s cost as he is the one insisting on all the enchiladas-including the intolerable cutting a road into our complex. Yes, it does actually make our already painful egress/ingress into our homes more dangerous and difficult. And what about the degradation to our home values?? Now to add insult to the injury of this finding, we must also pay for the litigation needed to reverse the council’s ignoring our pleas.

Zoning is a two-way street and should always be the guidepost for making significant changes. Covington’s and Newton’s helter skelter erratic zoning is forever changing the landscape and support necessary for servicing the tax digest, plus stretching the infrastructure to the point all of us should be sharpening our standards as to whom we elect to these positions.

Bagget and Morgan now vie for the mayor’s position and my rep MS Keck led the way to increase the council pay by 33% now making each of the 22 annual meetings worth 12,000 dollars annually to them or 545 dollars per normal 2-hour meeting for each of the 6 members. This is a tad beyond altruism in my mind. Mr. Morgan said he did not think that the citizens would mind if they “took” a little extra money. Yes Mr. Morgan, we mind, we really mind considering the current dismal state of the citizens pocketbook and costs of living. For these two reasons alone, I have decided to run for Mayor too and without taking a salary as I see the job as an honorarium and altruism not plunder. Am I running out of revenge-maybe, but I also have a long history of love for my hometown that is being mauled.

I know fully that I nor the council/Commission can stop all zoning and the building of hundreds of apartment units, nor do I want to. But this explosive growth needs to have the brakes applied, at least for the time needed to access our ability to provide for all this growth. I don’t think I need to elaborate on this for anyone. Deep down where the sun doesn’t shine, we all see the dilemma we face. Neither Baggett nor Morgan has the skills needed to fix what they have helped break. If I am not satisfactory to you in this critical voting matter, there are two other worthy candidates for your choosing. If you see something, do something!

Sincerely,

Felton Hudson

RUN GAME CONTINUED FROM A8

They form a backfield that has played many downs on Friday nights.

Four games into the season, Durden leads the room with 301 yards on 60 carries. Hardge follows behind with 109 yards on 18 carries while Bolden has 55 yards with 13 rushes. Robinson has been able to get involved in the offense as well while also playing a big role in the defense at linebacker.

Having tailbacks who have been involved in the last few years makes things easier for Jarrett. He feels good about the group and where they are at.

"[The room] is very deep," Jarrett said. "There are a lot of kids that are really athletic and physical and that have a lot of experience."

When assessing the four backs individually, Durden is seen as a clear leader, according to Jarrett. Durden's presence is felt both on the field and in the locker room.

"We are a physical group that is not selfish," Durden said. "We know that we have other guys on the sideline that are willing to do the same thing as the guy on the field."

Durden has been a four-year starter for the Redskins.

The senior has taken the majority of his reps at running back and outside linebacker. He is viewed as one of the pillars that helped Social Circle reach the playoffs in recent years.

"He is a four-year guy who knows what he is doing," Jarrett said. "He is strong, fast and a really good player. He knows about those situations that come up in games that you do not always practice for. He knows they are coming because he has been there. He has played over 35 games in his high school career."

The only non-senior, Hardge, has received praise from Jarrett and others for his athleticism and ability to get those big plays on the outside.

Hardge has seen an increased snap count inside the offense this season, too. The junior has been able to get big yardage as a second option to Durden.

Jarrett sees Bolden, another four-year player, as a back who provides a different style to the run game in comparison to the other three guys in the room.

"Demascio is fast, big and strong. He is more of a slasher type," Jarrett said. "He has been another vocal kid for us."

Robinson, who joined the team in the offseason, has produced many flashes that have impressed the coaches. That includes a 75-yard touchdown run in the scrimmage prior to the season.

As the offense continues to lean on the ground game with a plethora of running backs, the coaching staff feels that the offense is in good hands when they are able to play their style of football every Friday night.

This Friday, the Redskins (1-3, 0-0) will put the ground game to the test once again. This time, they will hit the road to face Lamar County in non-region action.

"The offense fits their skill set," Jarrett said. "They are all still learning but they are doing great with it. [The run game] is what the offense is built around, getting those first downs, and holding the ball for big chunks at a time. When we are getting first downs like that, we are playing the game the way we want to play it."

PITTS CONTINUED FROM A8

I have been fans of those three teams for a very long time and I have had the pleasure of being able to watch all of them play home games in their respective stadiums which are memories I will never forget.

If you go around Covington often, you might have seen me before as the manager of Your Pie for the last few years. Being right on the square has allowed me to meet with many great individuals who make this city great and I cannot wait to meet even more in my new role.

I have been a correspondent for The Covington News since 2019 and that has already allowed me the opportunity to meet some of the great athletes and coaches in this area. In my time as a correspondent, I have been honored to have been awarded two awards from the Georgia Press Association.

As I look ahead to Newton County athletics, I am very excited to get more hands on with these teams in order to tell their stories and triumphs.

I still believe Newton County is criminally underrated when it comes to athletics and I am going to make it my mission to highlight the great teams and athletes that play for these schools.

Overall, I am ready to get out there and meet all of you and dive into these sports seasons as football and softball continue to ramp up with basketball and wrestling looming in the distance.

In the meantime, follow me on social media to get news from all of your favorite school's teams. My X account is @GarrettPitts9, but also make sure to be following the Covington News Sports account @CovNewsSports.

And as always, if you see me at a game or event do not hesitate to come introduce yourself or even to debate on some of your favorite sports topics.

Let's do this!

Social Circle's veteran run game at the forefront

By GARRETT PITTS
Sports Editor

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — Four games into 2023, the rushing attack for the Social Circle Redskins has played a larger role. The offensive scheme has shifted from years past to put an extra emphasis on the ground game. Over the last few seasons, the Redskins' offense used their air attack with four-year starter Logan Cross behind center with weapons on the perimeter. The departure of Cross and those weapons allowed the offense to change schematically. Running backs coach Andrew Jarrett has been the one in charge. His main responsibility is to make sure the backs are prepared and ready to go in the new scheme. "Since shifting offenses, they have had to learn a whole new [scheme]," Jarrett said. "All four of those guys have been in a totally different offense for the past three years so they have had to pick up a new offense with new footwork, new plays, and new reads. That has been the emphasis and they have done an awesome job of picking it up." It's a four running back committee room with seniors Kam Durden, DeMascio Bolden and Coi Robinson who join together with junior Jameccus Hardge.

OUR THOUGHTS GARRETT PITTS

GARRETT PITTS

Ready to get started as new sports editor

As some would say, this is my first drive, first inning, first round.

This is my first column as sports editor of The Covington News and I could not be happier to be in this position.

Before we all dive in together with the games and stories that take place in Newton County, let me first introduce myself.

My name is Garrett Pitts, and I am Covington native. I grew up here and went to school here my whole life.

During my years at Alcovy High School, I began to write for the school paper as my aspirations of becoming a sportswriter started to grow and get bigger by the day.

After graduating from Alcovy in 2018, I went to school at Kennesaw State where I am earning my degree for Journalism. For me, writing is just a part of this journey because the true vision is the opportunity to tell the stories that you are not always able to see or hear from the bleachers or the sideline.

Sports are one the things that bring me the most joy in this world.

Growing up, I spent a lot of time (some would say too much time) watching SportsCenter and other sports shows instead of the typical shows and movies people my age would have watched growing up.

Now that I am older, there is nothing I love more than to debate sports with friends and family. My biggest rival when it comes to debating sports is my brother, who is one of the biggest Atlanta Braves and Georgia Tech fans I know.

As far as my favorite teams, it is as weird and odd as it gets.

I will get the normal one out of the way first, and it is that I am a big Georgia Bulldogs fan. Growing up and see multiple different years of heartbreak such as 2012 and 2018 was worth it after being able to see what that team has been able to accomplish (and what they will continue to accomplish) over the last two seasons.

After the bulldogs, my next two favorite teams are the Packers in the NFL and the Cubs in the MLB (Like I said, it is odd). My entire family are big Packers fans but unfortunately, I am the only Cubs fan. This means I have to sit in agony and watch a large amount of Braves fans ride the wave of their historic season.

EASTSIDE WRESTLING

Caleb Payne named head coach for Eastside wrestling

By GARRETT PITTS
Sports Editor

COVINGTON, Ga. — The Eastside wrestling program will be under new leadership for the 2023 season, with the announcement of Caleb Payne as the new head coach.

With two months until Eastside's first match, former head coach Sam Miller stepped down due to personal reasons, according to athletic director Champ Young. The move opened the door for Payne, who had been an assistant coach for Miller the past two wrestling seasons.

"I was at the school when coach Young told me [of the promotion]," Payne said. "I am excited to get going."

Payne's coaching career began at Luella High School, before heading over to Eastside to become a member of the wrestling and football coaching staffs.

Payne referenced the love of wrestling as one of the main things he learned in his time on Miller's staff.

Now that Payne is the head coach, he feels like the team is in a good spot despite the coaching change close to the start of the season. In his short time as head coach, Payne is establishing and culture of not settling for less than being the best.

"One thing for us this year is being able to take a step up in being competitive," Payne said. "Like I told them [in practice], we have a lot of talented guys. It is about being able to get first in everything we do because we have a lot of guys that can make state."

Speaking on his team and the season, Payne talked about many wrestlers for Eastside that have the chance to make state and their overall volume of talent on the roster. Even with the goal of making state still in place, Payne has been trying to establish that the team does not need to stop at just that one goal.

"We want to be one of the teams that are talked about in wrestling."

"One thing I have been telling them is to not be satisfied getting back to state," Payne said. "We want to be one of the teams that is talked about in wrestling."

The expectations will be higher for the Eagles going into the new season, coming off a 2022 run that saw them place in the top eight in state for the first time in a decade.

As Payne gets the Eagles team ready ahead for the 2023 wrestling campaign, he plans on nailing down his expectations and standards that he has set for a team. He feels the team can do more than just get to state.

"I do not accept second best," Payne said. "I have told them that, even if we get beat, we better make sure that they earn it because we have a lot of talented guys coming back."

Former head coach Sam Miller could not be reached for comment at the time of this publication.

Eggplant-stuffed pita sandwiches show the power of a quick pickle

CHRISTOPHER KIMBALL

One pillar of Milk Street’s approach to cooking is contrast — we pair tangy flavors with sweet, and creamy textures with crispy ones. And that’s why we often use quick pickles in our cooking; they cover many of those bases at once.

In this recipe from our book “Tuesday Nights Mediterranean,” which features weeknight-friendly meals from the region, we tuck quick-pickled sliced onion and tomato into vegetarian pita sandwiches inspired by an Iraqi-Israeli hand food called sabich.

Traditionally, fried eggplant is stuffed into a pita bread along with tomato-cucumber salad, hard-cooked egg, hummus and amba, a pickled mango condiment. For our much-simplified version, we broil slices of za’atar-seasoned eggplant, and briefly soak sliced red onion and tomato in vinegar and salt with a little sugar to substitute the sweet and sour amba.

The briny vegetables balance the savory meatiness of roasted eggplant, and their crispiness adds textural interest to what otherwise would be a soft filling. A harissa-spiked tahini sauce adds spice and richness.

Other items you may want to tuck into the sandwiches to make them more sabich-like: sliced hard-cooked eggs, hummus, parsley leaves and cucumber pickles.

And don’t worry about the amount of oil brushed onto the eggplant. Three tablespoons may seem excessive, but the oil adds both flavor and richness while helping with browning.

CHARRED EGGPLANT PITA SANDWICHES WITH SPICY TAHINI
Start to finish: 30 minutes
Servings: 4

½ cup white vinegar

¾ teaspoon white sugar

Kosher salt and ground black pepper

1 small ripe tomato, cored and chopped

½ small red onion, thinly sliced

1½ pounds eggplant, cut into twelve ½-inch-thick rounds

3 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil

4 teaspoons za’atar

¼ cup tahini

2 tablespoons lemon juice

2 to 3 tablespoons harissa paste

Two 8-inch pita rounds, each cut into half-rounds

Heat the broiler with a rack about 6 inches from the element. Line a rimmed baking sheet with foil and mist with cooking spray. In a small bowl, stir together the vinegar, sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt until the sugar and salt dissolve. Stir in the tomato and onion; set aside while you prepare the eggplant.

Brush both sides of the eggplant slices with the oil, then sprinkle with the za’atar, along with salt and pepper. Lay the slices on the prepared baking sheet and broil until well charred and a skewer inserted through the center meets no resistance, about 12 minutes, flipping the slices halfway through.

Meanwhile, in another small bowl, whisk together the tahini, lemon juice, and ¼ teaspoon each salt and pepper. Whisk in the harissa and 3 tablespoons water; set aside.

When the eggplant is done, set the baking sheet on a wire rack. To fill each sandwich, open a pita half and spread 2 to 3 tablespoons tahini sauce inside. Place 3 eggplant slices in the pita, followed by a quarter of the onion-tomato mixture.

BY DANA SIMPSON

Mishel Prada in "The Continental: From the World of John Wick"

The 'Continental' experience: John Wick franchise gets three-night TV stay

For many of us, when we book a stay in a hotel (particularly a luxury one), comfort ranks above all else. Though the meaning of the word "comfort" varies from one person to the next and could encompass anything from the thread count of the bedsheets to one's proximity to the bar, "comfort" in the world of John Wick is most closely associated with personal safety.

Those familiar with the John Wick franchise will already be aware of The Continental's most important rule: the assassins seeking refuge within the hotel shall not conduct any "business" on the grounds. Put simply, no hits will be tolerated on the premises.

That said, NBC/Peacock is certainly hoping for a hit of its own (granted, a "hit" of a different kind) when the new miniseries "The Continental: From the World of John Wick" begins streaming Friday, Sept. 22, on Peacock.

John Wick (Keanu Reeves, "The Matrix," 1999), the trained assassin who lends his name to the franchise supported by The Continental Hotel, first made audiences fall in love with him in the 2014 film, simply titled "John Wick." Despite his former career as a hitman, Wick exhibits a soft side while taking care of a new beagle puppy in the wake of his wife's death. However, when a group of gangsters breaks into Wick's home and the puppy is targeted, Wick loses all sensitivity and comes out of retirement to avenge his furry friend. And while Wick's situation may change from film to film, one thing that remains a constant throughout the franchise is The Continental; and this is where Peacock's newest series comes in.

Created by Greg Coolidge ("Ride Along," 2014), Shawn Simmons ("Wayne") and Kirk Ward ("The Turkey Bowl," 2019), "The Continental: From the World of John Wick" is a three-part noir-action miniseries that focuses on the history of the mysterious hotel chain that operates as "neutral territory for members of the criminal underworld" (per IMDb).

Colin Woodell ("The Flight Attendant") stars as a young Winston Scott, the manager of The Continental's New York division and a character already known to franchise fans thanks to the work of "Deadwood" actor Ian McShane. The role of Winston is a meaty one for Woodell, filled with lots of backstory for both character and setting as the series' events dive deep into real-life New York crime history.

While the specifics of the miniseries are being kept a secret for obvious reasons, there has been word that the events take place over three nights at The Continental in the 1970s and that there is a correlation to both the Winter of Discontent and the rise of the American Mafia.

Additionally, audiences can expect to see a few familiar faces along the way; most notably that of controversial actor Mel Gibson ("Braveheart," 1995). Joining Gibson and Woodell on the small screen are Nhung Kate ("The Housemaid," 2016) as Yen, Katie McGrath ("Supergirl") as the Adjudicator, Jessica Allain ("The Laundromat," 2019) as Lou, Adam Shapiro ("Never Have I Ever") as Lemmy, Jeremy Bobb ("The Knick") as Mayhew, Dan Li ("Luther: The Fallen Sun," 2023) as Orphan Master, Sallay Garnett ("Conversations with Friends") as the Concierge, Peter Greene ("Pulp Fiction," 1994) as young Uncle Charlie (portrayed later in life by "Twin Peaks" reboot actor David Patrick Kelly), and new talent Ayomide Adegun as Charon, a role made famous by beloved actor and TV personality Lance Reddick ("White House Down," 2013), who died earlier this year.

Kelsea Ballerini from "Superfan"

MasterChef
WAGA 8 p.m.
In this season finale the remaining amateur chefs face their last cooking challenge and have to put all of their skills to use in order to impress chefs Gordon Ramsay, Christina Tosi, Graham Elliot and Joe Bastianich. The title of MasterChef awaits.

Expedition X
DSC 9 p.m.
Phil and Jess continue their investigation into Utah's infamous Uintah Basin, where reports of UFO encounters have terrified locals in this new episode. The team uncovers stunning new evidence when attempting to contact extraterrestrials.

Superfan
WANF 9 p.m.
The fans have already proved their mettle with the likes of LL Cool J, Shania Twain, Pitbull, and more, but in this season finale fans need to up their game in order to know the music that matters and get the right to hang with their favorite performer.

American Horror Story: Delicate
FX 10 p.m.
After numerous IVF attempts fail, actress Anna Victoria Alcott (Emma Roberts) wants nothing more than to start a family in this season premiere. But she worries something may be targeting her and her pursuit of motherhood. Kim Kardashian joins the cast.

Archer
FXN 10 p.m.
The final season continues with a new episode. Lana (Aisha Tyler) is compelled to join fellow agency members Archer (H. Jon Benjamin), Pam (Amber Nash) and Cyril (Chris Parnell) on a mission that takes a chaotic turn due to an unexpected vacation.

tonight's PICKS

Julie Chen Moonves from “Big Brother”

Big Brother
WANF 8 p.m.
Ahh, roommates. They’re enough to make you want to live in your car. The house continues to be a mess as the alliances shift and realign. And if you’re keeping an eye on the live stream feeds, you know that things are getting weird. Julie Chen hosts.

Fight to Survive
WPCH 8 p.m.
Season 1 continues with a nail-biting new episode, documenting as competitors try to survive 25 days on a remote island, combatting brutal conditions while battling one another for essential tools and resources in the fight to outlast their rivals.

Love After Lockup
WE 8:30 p.m.
In the latest “Where Are They Now?” Johnna and Garrett spill details on their messy breakup. Johnna reminisces about a secret hookup with Garrett. Then, true to form, Garrett introduces his new love. And Johnna talks about a fresh start in Kansas City.

Interrogation Raw
A&E 9 p.m.
Stories of dramatic murders and serious crimes unfold through intense suspect interrogations. In the season premiere, detectives embark on a multi-state hunt for a suspect who may be the only person with answers on the whereabouts of a missing priest.

Botched
E! 10 p.m.
This new episode concludes a “Botched!” marathon. Tired of hiding her recurring keloid, a woman asks Dr. Nassif to rid her ear of the massive growth. A fan looking to emulate a famous celebrity’s trademark figure can’t seem to get his booty big enough.

“Movie: The Wonderful Story of Henry Sugar” (Sept. 27)

Director and writer Wes Anderson brings a beloved Roald Dahl story to the screen in this short film. It chronicles a variety of stories, but the main one follows Henry Sugar (Benedict Cumberbatch), a rich man who learns about a guru who can see without using his eyes and then sets out to master the skill in order to cheat at gambling. Ralph Fiennes, Ben Kingsley, Dev Patel, Richard Ayoade and Rupert Friend star.

“Encounters” (Sept. 27)

Taking a closer look at some extraordinary true stories, this new, four-part docuseries travels the globe to explore encounters with otherworldly phenomena. Looking into strange lights in the sky over small-town Texas; submersible space crafts haunting a coastal Welsh village; an alien encounter with schoolchildren in Zimbabwe; and non-human intelligence reportedly interfering with a nuclear power plant in Japan, the stories are told from the perspective of firsthand experiencers.

“Movie: Street Flow 2” (Sept. 27)

Two years after his brush with death, Demba (Kery James) tries to turn his life around and resist the desire for revenge. Noumouké (Bakary Diombera) gets involved in brawls between rival neighborhoods, and Soulaymaan (Jammeh Diangana), torn between his convictions and ambitions, takes his first steps as a lawyer. Can the three brothers resist the wave of violence and the brutality of the events that befall them?

“Movie: Love Is in the Air” (Sept. 28)

Dana Randall (Delta Goodrem) is an ultra-committed pilot for non-profit air service, Fullerton Airways, located in picturesque Far North Queensland. When a London-based financial representative, William (Joshua Sasse), is sent to Fullerton Airways to review the organization's finances, Dana welcomes him, aware that they rely heavily on his company's subsidies. What Dana doesn't know is that William's audit is to confirm the business's financial struggles and to prepare for its closure. As William spends time with Dana and the island community, his loyalty is torn his job and a blossoming romance.

Frank Sinatra and Debbie Reynolds in “The Tender Trap”

BEST FRANK SINATRA MOVIES

“On the Town” (1949): Sinatra, Gene Kelly and Jules Munshin live it up energetically as sailors who pack in all the fun they can while on a 24-hour leave in New York.

“From Here to Eternity” (1953): Sinatra's fight to land the role of Maggio in this military drama about the Pearl Harbor attack paid off big, since he won a supporting Oscar (as did co-star Donna Reed).

“Suddenly” (1954): In this intense melodrama, Sinatra plays a captor of a family as he invades their home and waits to assassinate the U.S. president.

“Guys and Dolls” (1955): Sinatra is gambler Nathan Detroit in the screen version of the famously sassy hit musical.

“The Tender Trap” (1955): A major highlight of this romantic comedy is the opening, in which Sinatra shows off the wide screen by walking toward the camera singing the title song.

“The Man With the Golden Arm” (1955): A stunning Sinatra plays a recovered heroin addict struggling to keep from resuming the habit in Otto Preminger's drama.

“High Society” (1956): “What a swell party this is,” indeed, as Sinatra teams with Bing Crosby and Grace Kelly in this musical take on “The Philadelphia Story.”

“Pal Joey” (1957): Sinatra has the title role in the Rodgers and Hart musical about a singing womanizer whose deepening affection for a chorus member (Kim Novak) doesn't keep him from trying to use a former flame (Rita Hayworth).

“The Joker Is Wild” (1957): Sinatra is terrific in the true story of comedian Joe E. Lewis, who incurred the wrath of mobsters in a drastic way.

“Ocean's Eleven” (1960): This popular casino-heist caper, the first of Sinatra's “Rat Pack” movies, was reborn as a franchise for George Clooney and company four decades later.

“The Manchurian Candidate” (1962): A Korean War veteran's (Sinatra) hunch that a former comrade (Laurence Harvey) is being prepped to commit an assassination fuels this controversial thriller, which Sinatra also produced.

“Robin and the 7 Hoods” (1964): Sinatra introduced his song standard “My Kind of Town” in this highly entertaining gangster spoof featuring much of the “Rat Pack,” plus Bing Crosby and Peter Falk.

“Von Ryan's Express” (1965): This excellent military drama casts Sinatra as a prisoner of war who engineers an escape for many of his fellow captives. Turner Classic Movies shows the film Monday, Sept. 25.

“Tony Rome” (1967): Sinatra is suited ideally to the title role of a laid-back Miami private eye who becomes entangled with a wealthy, troubled family. A sequel, “Lady in Cement,” was released a year later.

“Pupstruction” - Season 1, New Episodes

This imaginative and vibrant new animated series follows the adventures of the Pupstruction team — a hard-working construction crew that includes Phinny, the crew leader, an innovative young corgi; Luna, a comically spontaneous sheepdog; Roxy, a can-do rottweiler; and Tank, a lovable, snack-obsessed mastiff. Although Phinny might be the smallest pup on the crew, he proves that you don't need big paws to have big ideas. Together, the Pupstruction crew uses mud, sweat, drool and plenty of heart to build and create.

“To Catch a Smuggler” - Season 5

Millions enter the US through airports each year, and hid amongst them are a stream of contraband. DHS will stop at nothing to catch these smugglers. This series takes a behind-the-scenes look at the work of U.S. Customs and Border Protection, who protect the country from criminals.

“Marvel Studios Legends” - Season 2, New Episodes (Sept. 29)

This series showcases individual characters from the MCU, whom viewers have come to know and love over the years and revisit some of their most iconic moments. In the 2 newest installments from Season 2, “Variants” and “TVA,” the series digs into the mysteries and intricacies of the world of “Loki” in anticipation of the series’ second season (set to premiere Oct. 6).

“Disney's Launchpad” - Season 2 (Sept. 29)

“Disney's Launchpad” program selects filmmakers from underrepresented backgrounds and gives them the opportunity to share their stories and visions. The newest round of shorts include: “Beautiful, FL,” from director Gabriela Ortega and writers Joel Perez and Adrian Ferbeyrel; “The Ghost,” from director Erica Eng and writer Kevin Park; “Black Belts,” from director Spencer Glover and writer Xavier Stiles; “Maxine,” from director and writer Niki Ang; “Project CC,” from director Cashmere Jasmine and writer Jasmine Johnson; and “The Roof,” by director Alexander Bocchieri and writer W.A.W. Parker.

“Movie: Totally Killer” (Prime Video — Oct. 6, Premiere)

35 years after the shocking murder of three teens, the infamous “Sweet Sixteen Killer” returns on Halloween night to claim a fourth victim. 17-year-old Jamie (Kiernan Shipka) ignores her over-protective mom's (Julie Bowen) warning and comes face to face with the masked maniac and, on the run for her life, accidentally time travels back to 1987, the year of the original killings. Forced to navigate the unfamiliar and outrageous culture of the 1980s, Jamie teams up with her teen mom (Olivia Holt) to take down the killer once and for all before she's stuck in the past forever.

Kings of BBQ

A&E 1 p.m.

Anthony Anderson and Cedric the Entertainer complete their BBQ-loving road trip during this season finale. Heading out determined to discover the best techniques, flavors and traditions of the trade, the duo now hope to build their own BBQ empire.

Retreat to You

HALL 8 p.m.

This film joins Abby (Emilie Ullerup) and Sean (Peter Mooney), a pair of former best friends who run into each other at a retreat after years of no contact. The duo tries to stay apart, but must rely on each other after separated from their hiking group.

Spy

HBO 8 p.m.

CIA analyst Susan Cooper (Melissa McCarthy) spends her days as a desk jockey, working with dashing agent Bradley Fine (Jude Law). But when Bradley is assassinated, Susan gets her first undercover assignment.

All Rise

OWN 9 p.m.

Court is in session. Season 3 of this legal drama continues with a new episode, following as Los Angeles-based judges, prosecutors and public defenders work to achieve justice for the people amidst a flawed legal process and an overflowing system.

tonight's PICKS

Rudy Reyes from “Special Forces: World’s Toughest Test”

Kitchen Nightmares
WAGA 8 p.m.
What do you do when your restaurant is at the end of its rope? In this season premiere you call world-renowned chef Gordon Ramsay to come in, yell at the top of his lungs, and turn around your establishment so people are willing to eat there.

The Voice
WXIA 8 p.m.
It's the most important chair turn of their lives. America's most talented undiscovered singers need to catch the ear of at least one of four musical icons in this season premiere. Judges include Reba McEntire, Niall Horan, Gwen Stefani and John Legend.

Run the Burbs
WPCH 8:30 p.m.
A new episode airs, documenting suburban life for the Phams — a young, bold Vietnamese family eager to take a different approach to life. Andrew (Andrew Phung) worries about his parents' relationship as the Phams celebrate Vietnamese Lunar New Year.

Special Forces: World's Toughest Test
WAGA 9 p.m.
Ever thought you could be a part of Seal Team 6? The Season 2 premiere finds a new crop of celebrities putting themselves through tough training and challenges at the hands of drill sergeants. The series doesn't have eliminations, celebrities quit.

The Irrational
WXIA 10 p.m.
This series premiere follows world-renowned professor of behavioral science Alec Mercer (Jesse L. Martin) as he helps governments, law

Whitney Way Thore from “My Big Fat Fabulous Life”

Lone Star Law
ANPL 8 p.m.
Texas has a vast amount of recreational areas and relies on a large group of game wardens to keep everyone safe. Retired game warden Benny Richards returns with a challenge for game warden Randolph McGee. Then officers react to save a wakeboarder.

My Big Fat Fabulous Life
TLC 9 p.m.
Whitney wants to participate in her dad's bucket list, but indoor skydiving has a weight limit. Glenn prefers to have his feet on the ground as he tries to build a dollhouse for his new great-granddaughter. Then, Whitney gets Jessica outside her comfort zone.

The Swarm
WPCH 9 p.m.
For viewers who love ecological thrillers about the delicate interconnectedness between mankind and our planet, this nail-biter based on Frank Schatzing's bestselling novel will leave them rethinking their place (and role) in how the world works.

Frontline
WGTV 10 p.m.
This new episode follows the story of one journalist's battle to defend free speech in Vladimir Putin's Russia. With amazing access, it follows Nobel prize-winner Dmitry Muratov as he fights to keep his newspaper open and his reporters safe from harm.

Behind the Music
MTV 11 p.m.
This series takes an intimate look at the personal lives of influential artists. This time: PINK speaks about her relationships, struggle with drugs, childhood and her wild ride navigating through the world of popular music on the way to the top.

Damian Lewis gets his "Billions" payoff

Q: Damian Lewis's return to "Billions" is very welcome. Why did he leave the show in the first place? – Steve Dayton, Orlando, Fla.

A: When the actor signed off as Bobby "Axe" Axelrod after the first five seasons of the Showtime and Paramount+ With Showtime drama, his wife – actress Helen McCrory ("Peaky Blinders," "Skyfall") – had recently passed. He hasn't addressed that as the specific reason for his leaving, but it undoubtedly had a contributing impact. In terms of his coming back to "Billions," it likely was appealing to Lewis to know that he would have a limited run, since this is the final season of the show. It also lets Axe get back to work, since this round will do much to determine the character's enduring legacy, which could continue (though it hasn't been guaranteed) if he resurfaces in one of the "Billions" spinoffs that are being planned.

Q: It's nice to see Molly McCollum back on The Weather Channel. It seems like she was off for a long time. Where was she? – Donna Crain, via e-mail

A: She was on maternity leave. She and her husband welcomed their first child, a son, in May. If she had been missing her career, McCollum – who previously worked at stations in Atlanta, Ga. (which also happens to be The Weather Channel's home base), Tulsa, Okla., and Wichita, Kan. – came back to plenty of activity, since she spent the early days of her return covering the aftermath of the wildfires in Maui and the then-approach of Hurricane Hilary in Southern California. The first week, McCollum did some fill-in work for Alex Wilson on the weekday program "Weather Underground," then she was back the following weekend for Hilary coverage as that storm was reaching its peak. Now that she has returned, expect to continue seeing her in various places around the channel's schedule.

Q: I always enjoyed Katy Mixon on "Mike & Molly." What has she been doing lately? – Janice Roberts, Myrtle Beach, S.C.

A: Not a great deal, as has been the case with so many actors, given the SAG-AFTRA strike. Her most recent credits were the Primetime Emmy-nominated series "George & Tammy," which Showtime presented (Paramount Network and CMT also ran episodes of it), and last year's Renee Zellweger-starring NBC show "The Thing About Pam" ... and before those, she had the starring role for five seasons in the ABC sitcom "American Housewife." Prior to "Mike & Molly," she co-starred in HBO's "Eastbound & Down." Mixon also is known for her voice work for animated projects, as in the movie "Minions" and the television ventures "Big Hero 6: The Series" and "Rapunzel's Tangled Adventure." Her other films have included "Hell or High Water," "State of Play" and "Four Christmases."
