LOCAL EVENT

NEWTON FFA HOSTS FIRST EVER COUNTY RODEO

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
Managing Editor

COVINGTON, Ga. — With thousands in attendance this past weekend, it did not seem like it was Georgia FFA-FCCLA Center's first rodeo. But it was.

On each night, 2,000 people were in attendance. Over 80 local businesses sponsored the inaugural event, too.

Once the dust settled, Isaac Nations, the Agricultural Program Specialist, was blown away from the turnout.

"I cannot speak highly enough for the community coming out and showing their support," Nations said. "It's amazing to me that we have over 80 businesses step up to the plate and be like, 'Hey, I want to be a part of this event and I want to sponsor what y'all have going on there.'"

The Newton County Rodeo — held at T.M. "Mort" Ewing Newton County Agricultural Center — was a two-day event across Sept. 22-23, with both days being sold out. There were so many people present that they had to "turn people away."

Based on this year's response, Nations emphatically said that this will "definitely" become an annual event. They also plan to schedule future rodeos to line up with this past weekend's timeline.

NCSO responds to 'swatting' call

STAFF REPORT
news@covnews.com

NEWTON COUNTY — On Monday, Sept. 25 at around 1:30 p.m., Newton County deputies received a call from a complainant. The complainant said someone was shot and the suspect was still armed and dangerous.

When deputies arrived at the scene of the incident, they discovered the call for service was a "swatting call."

In an email to The Covington News, Newton County Sheriff's Office's (NCSO) communications officer Caitlin Jett explained what a "swatting" call is.

"The term 'swatting' refers to someone who places a false emergency call for service, where the nature of the call causes a large police presence," Jett said. "Most often, the purpose of 'swatting' is to video record the incident. The practice of 'swatting' is extremely dangerous and puts not only the community but law enforcement officers in harm's way."

There is no danger to the public at this time, according to NCSO's statement. The resident of the "supposed incident address" was not aware of the call to NCSO and the number used to place the call for service is now disconnected.

All NCSO units have since returned to service, NCSO's statement said.

"Sheriff Ezell Brown has taken this matter very seriously, and anyone who is found to be responsible for such calls will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law," NCSO's statement said.

Harris utilizes financial knowledge to serve others

COVINGTON, Ga. — Before becoming acquainted and well versed within the world of finance, Austin Harris was a child fascinated with the inner workings of the economy despite seeing his mother struggle.

Now a financial advisor with Edward Jones, Harris strives to provide financial literacy resources for other families to combat the financial struggle he once experienced.

Growing up in Birmingham, Alabama, Harris was raised by his single mother, who worked several jobs to "make ends meet." Their financial struggles were something Harris could not turn a blind eye to despite being a child.

"Financially, we struggled big time and that is what drives me today," Harris said. "There were many resources there for families like mine to help us put food on the table, clothes

The full-rodeo event included: bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, barrel racing, steer wrestling, calf roping, team roping, breakaway roping, bull riding and calf scramble.

In addition to being the first rodeo, it was also the agricultural center's first public event that the community was invited to be spectators.

Knowing that made the rodeo much more special for Nations and the entire center.

"For us, this event was like an open house," Nations said. "So, we had the pressure of making sure we produced a really nice event for the community, but we also wanted to make sure everything went well so that people can come out and enjoy and see the facility for the first time."

Looking forward to the future already, the Newton County Agricultural Center is excited to grow and expand the Newton County Rodeo.

Not only do they want to continue hosting the event, but to make it bigger and better for years to come.

Nations believes the sky's the limit for the Newton County Rodeo.

"We want this to be one of the staple events for Newton County where everybody knows about it, all the businesses around are involved and the people that make up Newton County get to come out and participate," Nations said. "In years to come, it will be more than just a rodeo. It'll be an all-day event with different things going on throughout the day that is like a festival."

"We want this to be one of the staple events for Newton County where everybody knows about it..."

on our back and have presents to open at Christmastime. I wouldn't trade the struggles in my childhood for anything because that is what motivates me day in and day out."

Having endured financial struggles as a child, Harris felt drawn to the world of finance with a fascination with the ins and outs of the economy.

As he attended the University of Alabama at Birmingham, Harris continued his interests into his studies – earning his bachelor's degree in business. Harris then went on to attend graduate school, where he obtained his master's degree in financial planning.

In addition to his educational merits, Harris has earned several accolades and certifications, such as Certified Financial Planner, CFP certification, the CRPC, CRPS and AAMS designations.

Harris began working for Edward Jones in 2015 after being introduced to the company by his father-in-law, who has been a financial advisor with them since 1984. He most enjoys working directly with families to help them accomplish their financial goals.

Working for Edward Jones fulfills what Harris is most passionate about: helping others. When it comes to money, Harris' mentality is that money is more than currency for consumption and has the ability to "bridge" work with personal priorities.

"What I enjoy most is getting to work with families and help them accomplish what is most important to them," Harris said. "I work night and day to help my clients have the most optimal financial outcomes possible."

In a time where the economy is not optimal and cost of living is high, Harris considers financial literacy to be something beneficial for everyone.

"I dedicate a lot of my research and work to improving financial literacy among families," Harris said. "Financial Literacy is the single most important thing we need to be working towards as a country. Too many families make poor financial decisions simply because they do not know better."

Work aside, Harris resides in Covington with his wife, two children and dog. His hobbies include CrossFit and attending church at Eastridge.

Though his resume is extensive, Harris still remains eager to continue his knowledge in his financial planning – researching and writing in his additional free time.

Elect Felton Hudson for Mayor

VOIRE DIRE – We all have seen the legal follies involved with jury selection where each side is given the right to scrub any juror prospects for cause or without cause. All this theater is intended to at best produce an impartial jury hearing the case. This has evolved into each side's attorney seeking at least one juror sympathetic to their cause. This well intended drive for justice leads to a result in a loss of faith in the justice system. The term Voire Dire is a French expression loosely meaning to tell the truth.

I believe that the Board of Education, the Board of Commissioners and the City Council members are an elected jury by the people to attend their business in a fair and equitable manner and exercise extreme fiduciary care of our money and property. So far this is sorely lacking, in Covington and Newton County, at least speaking for myself.

Over 100 citizens of Correydell got a sound beatdown by the Covington City Council that overrode a 6-0 vote by the Planning and Zoning Commission to deny a local well liked citizen's plea (Bob Richardson) to have his land-(about 18 acres) rezoned from R-1 to R-2/3. Additionally, and to add insult to injury, he was granted the "right" to build a paved cut into and transit of our neighborhood.

My home is in Correydell, -an over 55 project-with the average age over 70- which has taken almost 17 years to build 72 homes. This incursion from Richardson's property will be the sole egress/ingress for 43 "tiny" homes to be built which are approximately 1100 square feet each. Don't get too excited about this helping the critical shortage supply of housing, as more likely than not, these homes will be sold to investors for rental purposes lest the purchasers are required to live there and not sell for x number of years-out the window for affordable lodging. In fact, housing will probably be more costly and as statistics show well, a breeding ground for crime hotspots.

Our problem with this despicable zoning is also shared by the longstanding homeowners north of Richardson as they know well that the tiny homes will soon become rentals and ill begotten trespassing their neighborhoods. A representative of these citizens tried to present their argument before the council-clearly different than Correydell's argument against the traffic through our neighborhood. She was given 1.3 minutes to make her case. A disgusting and demeaning treatment of a well-regarded citizen by the council and mayor. Where was the city lawyer on this one?

Our neighborhood is well maintained by the owners and an involved HOA and is our Shangri-La, free of crime and speeding cars. The most exciting thing going on there is daily mail delivery and garbage pickup on Fridays- again no crime. We play the game fairly, pay our taxes on time and obey the law. Yet we now must litigate this obscene ruling by the council and Richardson's apparent disregard for what he is doing to a good neighborhood even though he has alternatives for the development.

3 members of our group were given 15 minutes to make a case for denial and they made reasoned and compelling arguments against the cut through-we did not contest the lower-level zoning even though it hurts the neighbors to the north of Richardson. The fatal vote came within an hour for the entire proceeding and resulted in Councilperson Morgan making the motion to give the petitioner all he asked.

Fleeta Baggett almost defiantly and with some obvious heat seconded it-she was not wearing sunglasses. The third vote which carried the appeal came from Charika Davis-a late comer to the council and a relative of Morgan's. Three people, three people who did not care about us nailed us. They have hurt us! Now we go to litigation that should have been borne by the petitioner since he is the one who wanted all the enchiladas and got some home cooking I believe.

This travesty has harmed Correydell severely and will make our entry/exit onto/from the Bypass virtually impossible for most left turns and some right turns. This is not hyperbole nor exaggeration. Additional traffic coming from the 43 homes will be the coup de gras for our neighborhood. Morgan, Baggett, Davis and Richardson and his lawyer John Nix just do/did not care. Just show me the money. Now we must litigate. And I am forced into running for mayor-a venture I never saw coming. If you see something, say something and step up to the plate.

The council held all the aces but did not play any-such as granting the R-1 to R-2/3 but disallowing the intrusion into our neighborhood. Have the council and including the Newton Board of Commissioners forgotten the need to consider opposition to granting zoning that harms others? I think so. The bottom line is we need to clean house of all of them.

I need your vote for mayor. I shall tell you about myself and what I intend to do-if elected, with help from like-minded councilpersons, to stop as much as we can, this growth that is killing the infrastructure and hurting the tax digest in my next ad. Voting for the ones who created the wreck and expecting them to repair it is a wasted vote. Those who mucked it, cannot fix it. Lastly, to Councilperson Don Floyd-thank you for your service!

Georgia lawmakers to tackle fishing rights issue

CAPITOL BEAT
News Service

ATLANTA - Georgia lawmakers passed legislation on the last day of this year's General Assembly session guaranteeing Georgians the right to fish in navigable portions of the state's rivers and streams.

While the public's right to fish had been established in Georgia for generations, Gov. Brian Kemp and legislative leaders saw a need to codify it in state law after a property owner along a stretch of the Flint River known as Yellow Jacket Shoals declared fishing from the bank on its side of the river off limits. Four Chimneys LLLP sued the state, accusing the Georgia Department of Natural Resources of failing to enforce the ban.

"[Senate Bill 115] achieved a remarkable amount of clarity of [fishing] rights," said Gordon Rogers, executive director of Flint Riverkeeper, an Albany-based environmental group that supported the bill. "What remains is where do those rights apply?"

A legislative study committee will begin meeting Oct. 4 to try to answer that question. The first of four meetings the panel has scheduled next month will take place in the small town of Gay, near the area of the Flint River that spawned the controversy.

Mike Worley, president of the Georgia Wildlife Federation, said he hopes the House Study Committee on Fishing Access to Freshwater Resources comes up with legislation giving the state Department of Natural Resources the authority to define what constitutes a navigable stream in Georgia and what does not.

"I would love to see ... a map that says, 'If you want to fish here and it's green, it's OK, and the ones that are red are closed to you,' " he said.

Worley said it's clear from the locations of the four upcoming study committee meetings that the issue of fishing rights applies not just to the Flint River but throughout the state. The panel plans to hold two of its meetings in the cold-water trout stream country of the North Georgia mountains and a third in Statesboro, a city through which the Ogeechee River flows.

Rogers said the question of property rights versus the public's right to fish also has come up in recent years along the Seventeen Mile River, a tributary of the Satilla River in southeastern Georgia; the Chestatee River, a tributary of the Chattahoochee; and along the Upper Ocmulgee River above Macon.

"It could blossom anywhere you have similar properties," he said.

In fact, the legal fight over fishing already has expanded. Shortly after the General Assembly adjourned the 2023 session early last spring, a second property owner sued the state. Marker 21 LLC owns a stretch of the Flint directly across from Four Chimneys.

In a brief filed in Talbot County Superior Court in July, Marker 21's lawyers wrote that its client has a right to ban public fishing on its private property.

"The fact that some of that private property, including the river property, happens to be underwater does not negate the fact it is private property," Brooke Gram and Patrick Silloway of Atlanta-based Balch & Bingham LLP wrote. "And because it is private property, one has no more right to stomp around the river property and take fish than one has to set up a deer stand in a farmer's pecan orchard or cast a net into a neighbor's koi pond."

While both lawsuits were filed in the same area of the Flint, Worley said the issue has statewide ramifications.

"This could give practically any property owner on any stream in Georgia the right to close that stream to fishing," he said.

Rogers said a new law setting forth a way to differentiate navigable streams from those that are not navigable is needed to prevent a flurry of lawsuits.

"What we need ... to be fair and equitable to property owners and the public is to have a very clear process," he said. "Otherwise, we'll be in court battle after court battle."

Okefenokee to be nominated World Heritage Site

CAPITOL BEAT
News Service

ATLANTA - The National Park Service (NPS) has taken the first step toward a bid to have the Okefenokee National Wildlife Refuge declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

The NPS announced Friday it is asking officials at the refuge to prepare a draft nomination for the Okefenokee to become the 25th World Heritage Site in the United States.

The Okefenokee is the largest blackwater swamp in North America. The refuge covers more than 400,000 pristine acres that support hundreds of species of plants and animals, including endangered red-cockaded woodpeckers and threatened eastern indigo snakes. Okefenokee would be the first property managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to earn the World Heritage distinction.

"It's thrilling that Okefenokee is finally taking this momentous step toward World Heritage inscription," said Elise Bennett, Florida and Caribbean director at the Center for Biological Diversity. "It's a huge motivator to protect this irreplaceable, international treasure."

"From the towering old-growth cypress to the tea-colored wetlands teeming with amphibians and reptiles, every last inch of the Okefenokee deserves our recognition and protection."

"The Okefenokee National Wildlife Refuge is one of our best examples of holistic conservation in the United States," added Geoffrey Haskett, president of the National Wildlife Refuge Association. "The swamp ... sequesters vast amounts of carbon in its wet, peat soils that might otherwise be emitted and exacerbate global warming and climate change - and its list of outstanding attributes goes on and on."

The Okefenokee has been caught up in controversy for the last several years. An Alabama-based mining company is seeking state permits to mine titanium along Trail Ridge near the swamp.

While officials with Twin Pines Minerals say the project would not harm the Okefenokee, environmental groups opposing the mine say it would devastate the swamp by reducing water levels.

Legislation banning surface mining near the Okefenokee was introduced in the General Assembly twice but failed to gain support despite being cosponsored by 91 of the 180 members of the Georgia House of Representatives. However, lawmakers did adopt a non-binding resolution last year calling for protecting the swamp as a valuable tourism resource.

The National Park Service will work with the fish and wildlife service and other partners in a lengthy process to prepare the World Heritage Site draft nomination. A committee of the World Heritage Centre comprised of representatives from 21 nations will have the final say over the nomination after consulting with an advisory body.

New state patrol post to be housed at Governor's Mansion

CAPITOL BEAT
News Service

ATLANTA - The Georgia State Patrol is planning to build a new post on the grounds of the Governor's Mansion in the Buckhead area of Atlanta, Gov. Brian Kemp announced Friday.

The 1,750-square-foot facility and garage bay will house 12 troopers directly assigned to the post and accommodate up to 30 troopers while maintaining the historic integrity of the mansion and surrounding grounds.

"With this new patrol post, our dedicated state troopers will have another base of operations as they take the fight directly to criminals," Kemp said. "I look forward to seeing its positive impact on the Buckhead community."

A rise in violent crime in Buckhead prompted calls among some Republicans in the General Assembly earlier this year for creating a separate city of Buckhead. But legislation calling for a referendum on cityhood for Buckhead failed on the floor of the state Senate last March.

The Georgia House added $1.3 million to this year's state budget to fund the new post at the Governor's Mansion. Construction is due to begin next year.

"This new patrol post is a significant long-term investment in public safety by the state of Georgia," said House Speaker Jon Burns, R-Newington. "The patrol post will not only improve response times to incidents in and around the city of Atlanta but also improve coordination between state and local enforcement."

ty. Presidents George W. Bush, Barack Obama and Donald Trump all tried to hornswoggle Americans with an amnesty calling it “Comprehensive Immigration Reform.” Every Democrat is for “comprehensive immigration reform.” The plan is always the same: Amnesty NOW, meaningless promises about border security later.

In other words, the Democrats’ idea for discouraging the billions of people who live on less than $7 a day from moving here, is to give them everything they ever could have dreamed as a “thank you” for breaking into our country illegally: U.S. citizenship.

Free housing, food and medical care is not enough! We need to provide aspiring illegals the extra inducement of citizenship in the greatest country in the world. That’ll stop ‘em cold! More great ideas along these lines:

The “Comprehensive Jan 6 Plan”: If you riot at the capitol, demanding Trump be made president, Democrats will punish you by ... making Trump president!

The “Comprehensive Civil Rights Plan”: Discriminate against a black person and Democrats will not only block any legal proceeding against you, but bake you a cake!

The “Comprehensive Putin Plan”: He invades Ukraine, Democrats will give him Moldova, too! (Maybe we should make Putin a citizen.)

Democrats seriously think they’re going to snow voters with a lot of euphemisms for amnesty: “comprehensive immigration reform,” “changes to the immigration system,” “a major immigration overhaul,” fixing “our broken immigration system.”

The Times reports this nonsense as if Democrats are making a real argument:

“Democrats are trying to go on offense, ... reminding voters that [Republicans] helped stall a major immigration overhaul in Washington that they say might have prevented the latest influx.” And,

“The task may be easier for [Democratic] challengers who are taking on Republican incumbents whom they can blame for failing to enact the kind of changes to the immigration system” – i.e. amnesty – “that could curb illegal border crossings.”

If only we’d had MORE goodies waiting for illegals on our side of the border, they never would have come!

The Times also quotes Representative Pat Ryan (D-NY-18) blowing away Republicans with this argument: “[Republicans] are not actually working to resolve problems.”

Anyone who says the migrant crisis can be “resolved” by anything other than a wall is lying. New York Times headline, Sept. 11, 2023: “Once Again You Lose Me at the Wall.”

And anyone who says the migrant crisis could’ve been averted if only we’d offered illegals MORE benefits thinks you are a moron.

They’re just trying to run out the clock as the third world pours into our country. By the time voters realize they’ve been lied to, it will be too late. They’ll be outvoted by 50 million illegal aliens who’ve been granted “Comprehensive Immigration Reform.”

Washington and it would be just like them to try and destroy our way of talking. I told him I was pretty sure they weren’t involved.

Uncle Coot said he wished I would write something about the challenges of port-a-potty transportation. That had nothing to do with the subject at hand but Uncle Coot, a pioneer in port-a-potty transportation, never misses an opportunity to promote the industry.

Booger Bledsoe wanted to know why Southerners weren’t talking Southern. I said the study seemed to show that it is Generation X group, born between 1965 and 1982, that is dropping their accent. But the study shows that it is true not just in Georgia but is happening across the country in places like Boston and California and Detroit. We are all beginning to talk alike.

“Hoss, hold on a minute,” Skeeter interrupted, “them pointy-heads are saying Southerners are going to start sounding like them liberals out in California and up north? Ain’t a one of them would know a 3-point double-bottom turn plow from a sack of sweet corn. All they do is sip wine and vote for Democrats.” I could only tell him what the study indicated.

I sure wasn’t going to tell the group that one of those involved in the UGA-Georgia Tech study claims that by using transcribed audio a computer could estimate where you put your tongue in your mouth when you pronounce each vowel which would give them a quantitative metric of accent. I have a feeling they would find that obscene.

The members of the Rye Morning Coffee Club assured me they would be talking Southern now and forever and if the academics didn’t like it, to kiss their grits. I can’t imagine anyone in Boston or California or Detroit putting their tongue in their mouth and coming up with such a quantitative metric. I’m glad I called.

Q&A: Henderson discusses Aug. 25 fire

EMILY ROSE HAMBY
Staff Writer

COVINGTON, Ga. – Rep. Sharon Henderson of House District 113, which includes portions of Newton and Rockdale counties, sat down with The Covington News to give an update on her efforts in providing aid for the affected businesses.

What assistance are you wanting to bring to the businesses affected by the fire?

SH: Because this is the first time we actually experienced a fire such as this magnitude, I'm not sure what assistance is available at the state level, but I am doing research and investigating. Right now as we speak, I have my office checking on the assistance that are available to assist these businesses that had a total loss. Some businesses [did] not have total loss, they had smoke damage, but either way, the businesses should be getting assistance financially to bring them back to an open door.

What's your ideal timeline in wanting to bring assistance to those businesses?

SH: As soon as possible, because they took a loss and not only that, of course, as you know, this is a tourist area that's very busy. These businesses handle a lot of traffic. Plain Nuts is one business that's very popular with the lunch traffic. I think next door was the shoe store and all of these businesses need to be restored to reopening as soon as possible. That's my goal.

Why is it important for you to be directly involved with the rebuilding process of the fire damage?

SH: Because this is my district. This is District 113. I am the state representative for this area. And I am one that actually looks out for businesses and various entities in my district, make sure that they're taken care of. So that's my ultimate goal.

Is there anything else you want to add regarding the fire?

SH: We were totally devastated by the fire. I got a call early that morning from Ken Malcom and he advised me of the fire. We were totally devastated, but of course, Covington being a close knit community, we will persevere and we will overcome any triumph we're facing because of this fire. So we'll get through it.

What you're wanting to do with bringing assistance, are you working directly with people like Ken Malcolm, or is this something completely different by yourself?

SH: This is something different because like I said, I'm the state representative. But on a state level, I'm working in that capacity because I'm the state representative. To get whatever funding is available for my community. I'm working with churches in the community, pastors that would like to assist as well. Of course, they have members that visit these businesses and they actually cater to these businesses. And like I said, with the tourist area being so popular in this area, it takes away those businesses. Are going to take a loss because they're not open now. And we're approaching the holiday season as well. They need to be reopened.

Have you spoken directly to these businesses that have been affected? Or is there any, like, line of communication between you and, like, Plain Nuts and all them that were directly affected by the fire?

SH: Yes, we know Jim Williamson very well. He's the owner of Plain Nuts.

Jerome Henderson, Sharon's husband: During the same day of the fire since Ken called us, I went around, I talked to some of the business and what I'm doing is setting it up where my wife [is] going to go back and talk to them because they want to talk to her. They remember her face and everything else, but just let her see them.

SH: And they'll fill me in on the amount of loss they've taken and what kind of loss they had in detail. You hear it from the community, but I like to sit down with them, especially, and get it exactly what took place. No one knows the cause of the fire yet, that's still being investigated, but yes, I'm gonna be interviewing with these business owners.

NEWTON BYE WEEK

SOCIAL CIRCLE BRISTOL EVANS

WORK WEEK CONTINUED FROM A12

The mission for the team has been to, "Not take the poison."

"We always find ways to humble our guys in practice, but the main thing we have been telling our guys not to take the poison. We [tell them to] stay away from anything that tells you how good you are," Skelton said. "Our goal has not been met yet; we are still pursuing our goal."

This year's Newton team has thrived in the same areas that allowed many of the Rams' past teams to thrive.

It all starts with physicality.

"Physical, absolutely extremely physical football. When we are playing our style of ball, it is four quarters of extremely physical football," Skelton said. "[The] Defense running to the ball, playing with a certain tempo and playing with a certain smash-mouth mentality [on offense]. That goes to how we block on the perimeter and taking pride in that."

Beginning Region 4-AAAAAA play, Skelton believes the game will be won with special teams and the ability to capitalize on the turnovers.

It was the plays made on special teams that helped Newton down Westlake two weeks ago, in fact.

"We want to mentally play on the next play, we want to capitalize on every turnover the other team has," Skelton said. "Our culture is made on special teams. Our guys want to contribute, they want to be on special teams."

Newton(5-0) will look to take the momentum of "work-week" into gameday when they take on Grayson(4-1) Friday, September 29.

the Region 8-AAAAAA standings at 9-2.

Eastside has won 11 of its last 13 games, including the in-county sweep of Alcovy and Newton to claim the 2023 Newton Cup.

Nevertheless, Saunchegraw does not believe she and her teammates have played their best ball game yet.

"I've only been seeing this team go up," Saunchegraw said. "We've had some bad innings, but this team has not only grown physically, but all together. We know the talent on this team and it's really based on us and how we use it. All of us want it real bad."

The Lady Eagles' 2023 success has seemed to carry over from their 2022 run.

After finishing as the No. 4 seed in Region 8-AAAAA, Eastside downed higher ranked opponents on its way to a top six finish at state.

As a result, the Lady Eagles got to experience what playing at the South Commons Complex in Columbus is like. Having played in those particular games has motivated Saunchegraw even more.

"It's all I've been thinking about ever since Loganville beat us. I can't wait," Saunchegraw said. "It was a new experience for everyone. I've never experienced anything like it. It felt good. Obviously, there's no guaranteed shot we have going to Columbus, but we're going to do our best to get there and do our best to win it."

Six games remain on the Lady Eagles' regular season schedule. They played at Heritage on Sept. 25 then will travel to Jefferson on Thursday to face the Lady Dragons.

These games are the last round of Region 8-AAAAA matchups for the year.

From the start of the year to now, Saunchegraw has noticed her team making huge strides in their progression. By continuing that, she believes that the Lady Eagles can be a championship-contending squad.

"We've gotten better at focusing on that game. Playing it one game at a time. So, whatever happened in the last game, we're not taking it into the next game. Mentally, we've become a lot stronger," Saunchegraw said. "Everybody's realizing we're a team and, at the end of the day, we're all each other have. The only people who are going to win a state championship are us."

Rams turning 'bye week' into 'work week'

By GARRETT PITTS
Sports Editor

COVINGTON, Ga. — In the midst of their first 5-0 start since 1950, the Newton Rams football team had a week off before their Region 4-AAAAAAA opener against the Grayson Rams.

With the extra week to prepare, head coach Josh Skelton adopted the mantra of 'work-week', as they prepare to rewrite history.

"Work-week" comes ahead of their matchup with Grayson, who have bested Newton in all seven of their matchups. Despite the track record, Skelton feels that the mindset inside the locker room is right where it needs to be.

"It is about us [in this game]," Skelton said. "This team we have now, they do not care about who we are playing on Friday. They believe that playing group football will always win on Fridays."

Coming off the 27-12 win over Westlake, Skelton and the coaching staff knew how they wanted to approach their extra week of preparation.

"We have worked very hard, these have been our longest practices. We have been adding an extra 30 minutes onto the practices," Skelton said. "It is a lot of best-on-best all week. Our goal was to come out and bring the dog once again. I want to challenge each guy. We want to see those guys tired and having to keep pushing forward, it was an extremely successful week."

According to Skelton, the way that the team has practiced since spring is one of the main contributors to the team's 5-0 start.

"My belief is that, if I push the guys as hard as I possibly can every day and we practice as hard as we can, then we can have major success on Fridays," Skelton said. "Our goal as coaches is to make all our practices ten-times harder than any game we play, and I believe that has led to our success."

As hype and expectations follow those who succeed, Skelton has made the efforts of discussing those values and how the team should view it.

EASTSIDE ANSLEE SAUNCHEGRAW

Saunchegraw settling in as Lady Eagles' backstop

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
Managing Editor

COVINGTON, Ga. — Anslee Saunchegraw has filled multiple roles for the Eastside Lady Eagles in her three-year high school career. As a freshman, she played as a second baseman followed by being last year's shortstop.

In 2023, Saunchegraw transitioned to behind the plate — a position she did not see herself playing in high school.

"I came here my first two years and I played middle infield," Saunchegraw said. "But my coaches believe in me and I just want to prove to them that, wherever they need me, I'll give my 100 percent."

Being a catcher was not foreign to Saunchegraw, though. She last played in that spot on one of her travel ball teams from eight to 11 years old.

From the beginning of the season, Saunchegraw has embraced the role.

"I always loved catching. I feel like I'm in charge of the field and play a big role. I'm going to give it my best and I'm going to do whatever I can to help my pitchers and help my defense get on the right track," Saunchegraw said. "Before every at-bat, I try to tell the team where to be on bunts and talk up my pitcher, encouraging them. It's really just me and them there during the game."

Saunchegraw catches for both of the Lady Eagles' pitchers: Dezaria "Z" Johnson and Eva Davis. Saunchegraw is glad to be catching for both of them instead of competing against them.

"Both of them are very good pitchers," Saunchegraw said. "If I was a batter having to face them, it's going to be very hard to win the at-bat."

So far in this year, Saunchegraw has a .981 fielding percentage and has caught six baserunners stealing. She not only provides a boost on defense, but on offense as well.

At the plate, Saunchegraw is batting .400, a .468 on-base percentage and 13 RBIs.

When Saunchegraw is not making plays herself, though, she can be seen cheering her teammates on. That part of the game comes naturally for Saunchegraw. This year, however, the entire Lady Eagles squad began a new celebration.

After a big play is made, Eastside players will form the "Eagle pose." The idea was adopted from outside of the Lady Eagles' dugout.

"We had some opponents do it on us, so we kind of just ran with it," Saunchegraw said.

All of Saunchegraw's contributions have helped the Lady Eagles to a 13-4 overall record. They also sit atop the

Eggplant-stuffed pita sandwiches show the power of a quick pickle

KATIE WORKMAN

And, just like that, it's fall! Whatever mixed emotions you have about summer ending, if you're a football fan, this may be the most wonderful time of the year.

And while many of us will be hosting game-day watch parties, the diehards are not sitting in front of the television — they're tailgating.

The subject of tailgating food can be a very personal matter. For some people, it's "go big or go home," with feasts complete with grills, crock pots and warming trays. For others, it's just a light pre-game gathering with some take-out burgers and a cooler of drinks.

The star of many a tailgate is a submarine, or sub, sandwich. Or, depending where you're from, you might call it a grinder, hoagie, hero, po' boy, spukie or Italian sandwich. Old comic strip fans might call it a Dagwood.

Whatever the name, we're talking about an overstuffed sandwich on a roll, composed of layers of meats, cheese, condiments and so on. And while it's easy to pick up at a local sandwich joint, if you want to give your friends and family a treat, why not hit the deli, stock up on your favorite fillings and make your own? (Dressing recipe below.)

GATHERING THE INGREDIENTS
Making a fabulous sub requires minimal kitchen skills. It's all about the ingredients, and a few smart finishing touches.

The classic deli sub tends to be Italian in nature, including the meats, cheeses and some other deli staples. Favorite grinder meats in our house include sopresetta, ham, prosciutto, mortadella and various types of salami. Turkey is another option, as is roast beef.

Lots of choices in cheeses, but my favorite is provolone, with its smooth texture and light sharpness. American cheese, cheddar, Swiss, Munster, fontina and Havarti are also fine choices.

The meats and cheeses should be sliced thinly but piled high. This is not a moment for restraint.

Regarding the bread, you gotta go for the roll. This is a full sandwich, and it needs a large, sturdy roll to hold it all together. You might find rolls actually labeled sub rolls, but also look for Portuguese rolls, hoagie rolls, grinder rolls, hero rolls or Italian rolls. In New York, they sometimes call these kinds of subs wedges, so you might see rolls labeled wedge rolls.

But you can't have a sub with just meats and cheeses — it's the add-ons that make the sandwich.

Some of my favorite extras include roasted red peppers, store-bought or homemade, sliced tomatoes, finely shredded lettuce, pepperoncini and thinly sliced onion. All of those are a must.

Play around with other jarred condiments, like chopped Calabrian peppers, anything with chopped olives (think muffuletta spread or tapenade), or Giardiniera. You might even find some condiments with names like hoagie spread.

Mayonnaise and mustard are always good options. Sometimes, I swap in a spicy mayo or another sauce or spread. Try remoulade sauce, chipotle mayo or sriracha mayo as variations.

CUT TO THE CHASE: IT'S THE DRESSING

What I think makes a deli sub a deli sub is the garlicky, oregano-flecked red wine vinaigrette or "juice" that gets sprinkled on the fillings. All of the best delis, especially Italian delis, have their version of this oil and vinegar dressing, and that combined with the other condiments of your choice turn your sandwich into a masterpiece.

(If you've been to a Jersey Mike's, you've probably been offered the option of juice on your sub. Always say yes.)

Now, like tailgating, subs, too, come down to personal and in some cases regional tastes. One person's perfect grinder might cause another to shake their head. But that's the story of food! Imagine the joy of going on an overstuffed-sandwich tour of the U.S. and homing in on the ideal, perfect sub. Or, maybe... maybe there's no such thing as the perfect sub, but the search would be a very good time.

THE RECIPE

Make these sandwiches just before heading out to the tailgate. The condiments and "juice" can make the bread soggy fairly quickly. If you want to assemble the sandwiches on site, that is another idea. Or, make the subs, but bring the juice in a separate container and sprinkle it on the hoagies just before eating.

Sub Sandwich "Juice" (Dressing):

3 tablespoons olive oil

2 tablespoons red wine vinegar

½ teaspoon finely minced garlic

½ teaspoon dried oregano

¼ teaspoon red pepper flakes

Kosher salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

2 deli rolls

1 cup shredded romaine lettuce

Thinly sliced ham

Sliced salami

Thinly sliced prosciutto

Sliced provolone

Sliced mortadella

Mayonnaise

Spicy brown mustard

Roasted red peppers, store-bought or homemade

Sliced tomatoes

Pepperoncini

Thinly sliced onion

Make the dressing: in a small container combine the olive oil, vinegar, garlic, oregano, red pepper flakes, salt and pepper. Place the shredded lettuce in a small bowl, drizzle over half of the dressing and toss to combine. Reserve the rest of the dressing.

Start stacking the sandwich! You can layer up the meats, cheese, vegetables, and condiments any way you like. Save the rest of dressing to drizzle over the top of your sandwich filling before you put the top half of the roll on. Open very wide, and eat!

Officer Matt Cooper 'at peace' with retirement from the Covington Police Department

By EMILY ROSE HAMBY
Staff Writer

COVINGTON, Ga. – Officer Matt Cooper retired from the Covington Police Department (CPD) last weekend after nine years of service. Since getting shot in the head in September 2018 while on duty, Matt's resilience and perseverance has been a symbol of strength for the community for the past five years.

Twenty months following his injury, Matt returned to work at the CPD in May 2020. Though the decision to retire was his, Matt noted his gratitude for his colleagues at the CPD for welcoming him back to law enforcement with open arms.

"I think they offered me the opportunity to come back and work on a volunteer status, because I wanted to come back and have a purpose," Cooper said. "Seeing the guys do the same job that I was doing, but I couldn't physically or mentally do anymore, it kind of took a toll on my head space... It was on my terms and I was at peace with it."

The Covington Police Department held a retirement ceremony to commemorate Matt's career, which included dinner, a PowerPoint presentation and speeches from coworkers. Matt's wife, Kristen, shared her appreciation for the CPD's unwavering support and the wave of emotions felt regarding her husband's retirement.

"The retirement was bittersweet for us because it was something we grieved because it was something we thought he would do at a later age," Kristen said. "I thought [the CPD] did a really good job of honoring him throughout it all... I was kind of worried that it would just be centered around the shooting, but it wasn't. They had some funny stories prior to his injury and after, and they just did a really good job of encompassing all parts of Matt and his career."

Kristen noted how glad she was that Matt was able to make his own decision to retire, as "so many other decisions have been made for him and taken away."

The CPD's support of not only Matt, but the rest of the Cooper family as well, added to the roller-coaster of emotions.

For Matt, life in retirement so far has consisted of exploring new hobbies, such as archery and taking guitar lessons from McKibben Music on the Square. He also has been involved with the Wounded Warrior Project, which granted Matt the opportunity to attend an adaptive ski clinic in Colorado this February.

Most importantly, however, Matt is looking forward to spending time with his family.

"When I was policing, I'd take care of everybody else's families, so now I can actually work on taking care of my own family," Matt said.

Prior to his employment at the CPD, Matt served in the Army for eight years. Following his service, he obtained his EMS certification and his bachelor's in criminal justice. Matt, who has a "servant's heart," felt impelled to work at the CPD because it would offer him the same opportunities to "serve the community on a more local level."

While at the CPD, Matt embarked on multiple roles, such as patrolman, with his EMT certification doubling him as a shift EMT medic. After joining the SWAT team, he served as SWAT medic and a sniper.

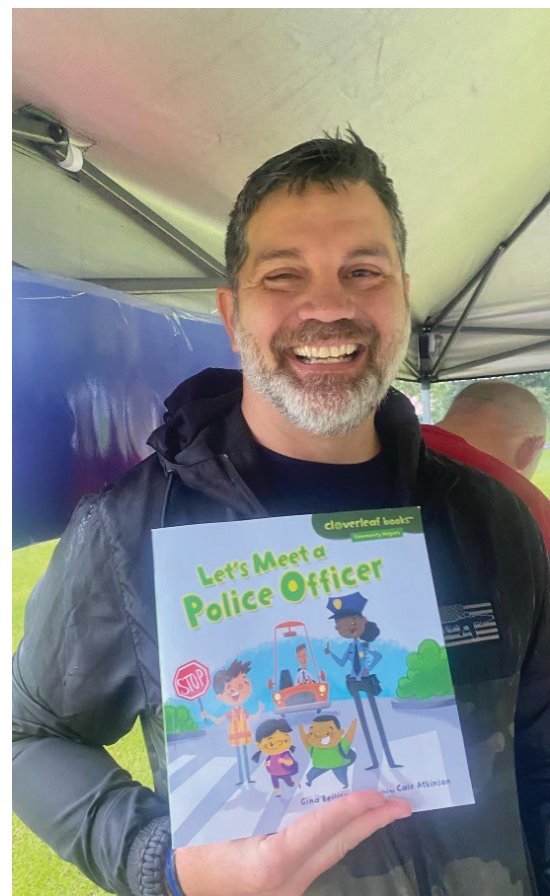

One of Matt's favorite memories during his nine years at the CPD was competing at the 2015 International Sniper Competition with his colleagues.

The camaraderie of the CPD is what Matt will miss most in retirement. Referring to the department as "a good, tight knit group," seeing each other in the best and worst times of life is what solidifies the CPD's work family environment.

"I just want to say thank you for just being so supportive of my journey," Matt said. "Like I said, for some places, it's just like, 'Hey, we can't use you, so we gotta, let's see you out of the door.' For the City of Covington, it's like, they've actually welcomed me back in and everything, so it's been great."

Through the adversity he has faced from his injury five years ago, Matt's spirit has never dampened – a testament to his character.

"There's nothing that that man took from me that God could not restore," Matt said.

BY DANA SIMPSON

Phil Keoghan in
"The Amazing Race"

Teamwork, travel and timing: 'The Amazing Race' returns for 35th season

After more than two decades on the air, "The Amazing Race" has amassed a huge following on CBS. Across its 34 seasons to date, those behind the scenes have found new and innovative ways to keep the reality series fresh and exciting year in and year out. Now headed into its 35th season on the Viacom-owned network and its streaming service, Paramount+, "The Amazing Race" is bigger than ever? Literally. Don't miss the season premiere of "The Amazing Race," complete with a new, longer format, Wednesday, Sept. 27.

First taking viewers by storm in 2001, one year after the success of CBS's other hit adventure-reality series, "Survivor," "The Amazing Race" drew viewers in with its unique worldwide scavenger hunt premise. Focusing on several teams (usually teams of two), the action-packed show films in several countries on different continents the world over and captures the stress, excitement and determination faced by each pair as they book their flights, decipher clues, compete in a series of challenges and race against time (and the other teams) for the million-dollar prize.

Until now, with the exception of premieres and finales, episodes have traditionally been limited to one hour each. Season 35, however, ups the ante by making each of the 13 individual episodes into a 90-minute special event. These extended episodes will follow "Survivor," which is also releasing a season of 90-minute episodes, for three hours of non-stop reality entertainment on CBS. Additionally, the new season returns to the much-adored format of requiring contestants to book their own flights, rather than relying on pre-booked chartered jets for travel, which was a necessary adjustment for safety reasons during the pandemic.

Despite the changes, much of "The Amazing Race" stays the same in fall 2023, including the usual $1-million grand prize and host Phil Keoghan ("Tough as Nails").

In a recent interview for CBS News Los Angeles' KCAL News, Keoghan discussed "The Amazing Race" Season 35 and his involvement in the newest season of "Tough As Nails." Clearly excited for the upcoming "Race," Keoghan noted his delight that the show is still fresh and fans continue to support it. "We just finished filming our latest season," Keoghan told KCAL News anchor Marci Gonzalez, alluding to the fact that the cast and crew are a full season ahead in their filming schedule. "I still can't quite believe we've done 36 seasons. Almost a quarter of a century I've been working on this show and it's such a privilege.

"It's a show that has just resonated," Keoghan continued. "And to still be relevant after more than two decades on a show like 'The Amazing Race' is pretty awesome."

Those who noticed the Season 36 mention should note that, yes, the show is looking ahead to a 36th season (to be released in 2024), but there is a bit more to it than that. In fact, what airs on television as Season 35 is actually the race that was filmed most recently. As a result, viewers are essentially getting to see Season 36 content first. The race filmed first will be released as Season 36 next year.

Nevertheless, Keoghan remains true to TV tradition (and his contract) and remains relatively tight-lipped about Season 35 (and 36) locations.

"What I can tell you is that we go to some countries we have never been to before on 'The Amazing Race,'" the host told Gonzalez when she asked for specific location details. "We've been to about 100 [countries] in the last 20-something years, traveled over a million miles, but ... to me, it's just exciting to go somewhere new and different that the teams have never been to before."

According to Hindi-language newspapers Danik Bhaskar and Morning News India, the show filmed in Jaipur and Amber, India, between June 22 and 24. Meanwhile, in an exclusive interview with Variety's Michael Schneider, Bertram van Munster and Elise Doganieri (both of "The Quest"), executive producers of "The Amazing Race," joined Keoghan in sharing a bit more news about other stops, including new-to-the-show location Slovenia.

"It's a really spectacularly beautiful country," van Munster of Slovenia said. "It's almost like a fairytale place."

The EPs also discussed the return of the Express Pass, "in which one team can try to leapfrog to the leg's finish line by completing a special task," and the U-Turn, "in which teams can potentially force another team to go back and complete another task" (per Schneider).

Ultimately, Keoghan believes "we're sharing the world with people," adding that it's always a pleasure to offer fans the opportunity "to see the most incredible places around the world from the comfort of their favorite chair."

So, take a seat in your favorite chair and don't miss the return of "The Amazing Race," premiering in its new 90-minute format immediately following an extended episode of "Survivor." The three-hour adventure-reality block begins Wednesday, Sept. 27, on CBS and Paramount+.

Fight to Survive
WPCH 8 p.m.

If you’ve enjoyed the nastiness and backstabbing that contestants have displayed throughout the competition series, you won’t be disappointed by the season finale as we learn the fate of survivors and whether they split $100,000 or one gets $250,000.

The Golden Bachelor
WSBDT 8 p.m.

In this series premiere spinoff of “The Bachelor,” we meet 72-year-old Gerry Turner, a widower who wants to let love back into his life. He’ll meet age-appropriate women who long for days filled with pickle ball and shopping at Costco. Jesse Palmer hosts.

The Ghost Town Terror
TRAV 9 p.m.

In this Season 2 premiere Karen calls Tim and Sapphire back to Gunslinger Gulch to look into a mind-blowing, fire-branded omen. But when Tim decides to repel deeper into The Pit for clues, a confrontation with his own demons leads to painful revelations.

LEGO Masters
WAGA 9 p.m.

Executive producer and host, Will Arnett, is back in the season premiere of this toy-brick building showcase. Teams of two must create projects that meet the parameters of each episode. Lego creative directors Amy Corbett and Jamie Berard judge.

Booked: First Day In
A&E 10:05 p.m.

"Movie: Race to the Summit" (Oct. 4)
 Ueli Steck was known as the fastest climber in the world until Dani Arnold broke his Eiger speed record in 2011. That incredible climb sparked a duel across the great north faces of the European Alps, many of which the pair climbed 'solo', without any safety equipment. This new documentary is directed by Nicholas de Taranto and Gotz Werner.

"Lupin" - Part 3 (Oct. 5)
 Now in hiding, Assane (Omar Sy) must learn to live far from his wife and son. With the suffering they endure because of him, Assane can't stand it any longer and decides to return to Paris to make them a crazy proposal: leave France and start a new life elsewhere. But, the ghosts of the past are never far away, and an unexpected return will turn his plans upside down.

"Everything Now" - Season 1 (Oct. 5)
 When 16-year old Mia (Sophie Wilde) returns home after a lengthy recovery from an eating disorder, she is thrust back into the chaotic world of sixth form only to find that her friends have moved on with teen life without her. Along with an ever-evolving bucket list, three best mates and a major new crush, Mia throws herself headfirst into a world of dating, parties and first kisses, soon discovering that not everything in life can be planned for.

"Movie: Reptile" (Available Now)
 Following the brutal murder of a young real estate agent, hardened detective Tom Nichols (Benicio Del Toro) attempts to uncover the truth in a case where nothing is as it seems, and by doing so dismantles the illusions in his own life. Justin Timberlake and Alicia Silverstone co-star.

best of ... BY JAY BOBBIN

"Love Me Tender" (1956): Presley's first movie role turned an average Civil War story into an event - and also got the picture's title altered, thanks to one of the tunes he crooned.

"Loving You" (1957): Mirroring Presley's own rise to stardom, this rags-to-riches drama boasts one of his most sensitive performances, before he entered the phase of having his songs hung on threadbare plots.

"Jailhouse Rock" (1957): The famous scene with Presley singing, and gyrating to, the title tune says it all about this classic. This is among the features Turner Classic Movies will show in a daytime marathon of Presley pictures Thursday, Oct. 5.

"Flaming Star" (1960): Guided by director Don Siegel, who later turned Clint Eastwood into Dirty Harry, Presley puts real effort into playing a man of two cultures that clash.

BEST ELVIS PRESLEY MOVIES

"Wild in the Country" (1961): Presley and playwright Clifford Odets weren't a typical combination, but credit was due the still-early movie star for being ambitious enough to tackle sophisticated material that would challenge even the most experienced actor.

"Blue Hawaii" (1961): You couldn't hope for the islands to look lovelier than in this combination of Elvis showcase and travelogue, also intriguing for Presley raising his acting game opposite a veteran talent by the name of Angela Lansbury.

"Kid Galahad" (1962): Presley is sincere as a boxer who succeeds in the ring, though he desires a quieter life.

"Fun in Acapulco" (1963): Presley in his prime; Ursula Andress, fresh off being the first "Bond girl"; beautiful Mexican shooting locations. What's not to like?

"Viva Las Vegas" (1964): Presley's ultimate star vehicle gave him an ideal acting partner in Ann-Margret and pretty much set the blueprint (he races cars!) for numerous other Elvis movies of the musical/romance variety.

"Roustabout" (1964): This arguably was the best of Presley's efforts once he got into more of a cookie-cutter mode (he's a cycle-riding carnival worker!) with his movies.

"Charro!" (1969): Commendably, Presley made an honest effort to turn his screen career around - but pretty late in the game - by not singing a note in this mature Western.

"Elvis: That's the Way It Is" (1970): It's ironic that one of Presley's final movies offers one of his most dynamic screen appearances ever, offering a look at the star before, during and after a Las Vegas concert performance.

FBI True

WANF 9 p.m.

Offering an in-depth look at cases investigated by real-world FBI agents, this episode delves into the harrowing story of a five-year-old boy who was held captive by an armed killer — a man keeping the boy in a bunker filled with dangerous explosives.

Television work was right for Bob Barker

Q: I was saddened to learn that Bob Barker died. I know he hosted "Truth or Consequences" before "The Price Is Right," but did he host any other shows before that? – Ron Gordon, via e-mail

A: Not on television, but he had his own radio program originating from Southern California, after he had worked at stations in Missouri and Florida. It was while he was working at Los Angeles station KNX – still in operation as an all-news outlet – and interacting with audience members that he came to the attention of television host and producer Ralph Edwards, who was seeking someone to front the week-day-TV version of "Truth or Consequences." The offer went out to Barker, and the rest is genuine television history.

Q: Will Derek Hough be back on "Dancing With the Stars" for its new season? – Gail Hackett, Reading, Pa.

A: He will, and with a new responsibility, since he'll assume the position of head judge that previously was held by the late Len Goodman. Hough (who's a newlywed) is sure to have some interesting interaction with the hosts, too, since his sister Julianne will join returnee Alfonso Ribeiro to preside over the contest. (Tyra Banks has left the show.) ABC will return to carrying the program for its new season, with Disney+ continuing to present it as well.

Q: I was glad to hear that "And Just Like That ..." has been renewed for a third season. Will Kim Cattrall be coming back as Samantha again? – Leslie Gray, via e-mail

A: Nothing was definitive about that at the time of this writing, but some sources indicated that it was unlikely, considering the circumstances by which she appeared in Season 2 of the Max sequel to "Sex and the City." Though her Samantha and Sarah Jessica Parker's Carrie did share a scene, it involved a phone call between them, so Cattrall – who has made no secret of her discontent over her working situation on the original series – didn't have to be on the set with the other principal actresses.

The show was able to do that once, but using the same set-up more than that might not be a well the series' makers would want to dip into again. Anything is possible, but we'd presume that a reprise of that premise is doubtful, and so is another return by Cattrall as a result.

Séance, anyone? In this 2023 film, Larry (Travis Coles) and his three best friends head Upstate for a weekend getaway at a haunted house. As they wander the dusty corridors, they recall the story of Sylvia (Veane Cox), who supposedly murdered her son and buried him beneath the floorboards – and only then do they realize that they might have more company than Larry invited. "Summoning Sylvia" premieres Tuesday, Oct. 3, on Starz. Read a full synopsis of the film at summoningsylvia.com/copy-of-contact
