Rivian announcement expected soon, report says

EV plant at Morgan-Walton megasite could bring thousands of jobs to area

By DAVID CLEMONS
The Walton Tribune

MONROE, Ga. — The state will announce it has landed a large manufacturing plant for the Walton County area this week, The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reported Friday.

Citing unidentified sources, the AJC said Gov. Brian Kemp will announce Rivian is coming to a nearly 2,000-acre megasite that straddles Morgan and Walton counties. The company will make heavy-duty electric vehicles and is expected to bring thousands of jobs to the area.

Retiring Councilwoman Hawnethia Williams laughs as Mayor Steve Horton shows a clock given in her honor during a reception for Williams Monday at the Covington City Council meeting room.

'Overwhelming'

Friends, city officials honor retiring councilwoman

COVINGTON, Ga. — Mayor Steve Horton helped sum up the feelings of many at a retirement reception Monday for Councilwoman Hawnethia Williams.

“She touched my life in so many different ways, as well as the community,” he said.

Williams is leaving her seat representing the Covington City Council's West

Ward after 16 years after not running for reelection to a fifth term this year.

She said she was “just overwhelmed” by the reception Monday, Dec. 13, at the City Council meeting room, which drew about 200 people including friends, family members and city elected and appointed officials.

“My sister said I’m never without words but this is overwhelming,” Williams said.

Williams is a former 37-year educator and a devoted member of Grace United Methodist Church who was elected in 2005.

Horton worked for the city for more than three decades before retiring as city manager in 2012 — seven years after Williams first took office. He then was elected mayor in 2019.

ATLANTA — Capt. Wendell Wagstaff of the Covington Police Department recently returned from Israel after an intensive two weeks of public safety leadership training with the country's top police executives.

He trained alongside Georgia police chiefs and command staff, sheriffs, the director of the Georgia Peace Officer Standards and Training Council and a Georgia Bureau of Investigation assistant director, a news release stated.

Wagstaff was part of a 16-member delegation of senior law enforcement officials from Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina and Colorado who participated in the Georgia International Law Enforcement Exchange's (GILEE) 28th annual peer-to-peer executive training program in partnership with police in Israel.

While there, they were shown best practices and the latest technologies in policing and public safety.

Wagstaff said the trip to Israel “was a trip of a lifetime.”

Organizers seeking nominations for 2022 MLK Awards

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Organizers are seeking nominations for Newton County’s 37th Annual Commemorative Celebration of the Life and Legacy of Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Due to COVID-19, the 2021 event will again be a virtual celebration with music, song and words of inspiration consistent with the 2021 national theme of “Shifting Priorities to Create the Beloved Community.” A key feature of the event remains the recognition and celebration of individuals — adults and youth — as well as organizations that contribute to advancing “peace and unity in the Newton County community,” said organizer Gail Reid Slaton.

Awards include the I Have A Dream Award, Trailblazer Award and Young Dreamer Award. Award nominees are solicited for each award based on the following criteria:

- I Have A Dream Award — The nominee must have given at least two years of service to the Newton County community; must be a registered voter; affiliated with a church, synagogue or worship center; made contributions to the community that the individual did not profit from financially and were visible to the community; made nondiscriminatory contributions; “models a spirit of peace and unity”; is one who will initiate and support change; “must be endowed with a humble spirit”; must be steadfast in his or her convictions; and must be one who fosters and supports education on all levels, the release stated.
- Trailblazer Award — The nominee must be a longtime resident of Newton County; must be a registered voter; must be resourceful and committed to all aspects of the county; must “foster a cohesive spirit of peace, unity, diversity and love; must be a “creator of change in the community and follow through to implementation”; and the “change” facilitated by the nominee must be a benefit to the community.

- Young Dreamer Awards — The nominee must be a resident of Newton County enrolled in one of the public schools of Newton County; must be in grades kindergarten through 12; must have demonstrated “interest in fostering peace, unity, diversity, and love among his or her peers”; and must have “made a difference in the lives of others who may have otherwise been overlooked, ignored, or disadvantaged.”

Each nomination should include:

- The name, address, and contact phone number of the person making the nomination;
- The name and address of the nominee (include school and grade for Young Dreamer Award nominees);
- A typed statement of 250 to 500 words explaining how the nominee meets or exceeds the criteria for the award.

Nominations may be submitted directly online using the link <https://forms.gle/cqdfZWmH4DtV7ZBi9> or mailed to:

Students continue tradition of giving by packing boxes, cleaning trail

By DANIEL CHRISTIAN
Special to The News

OXFORD, Ga. — Oxford College students, faculty, staff, and alumni gathered at the Student Center last weekend to join in the spirit of holiday giving as part of Emory Cares International Service Day.

For the 17th year, the Oxford community packed care boxes for children and teens in the Newton County Foster Care Program. Nearly 70 volunteers showed up to fill more than 145 boxes with daily essentials and gifts, such as school supplies, activity books, gift cards, socks, hats, and more.

Supplies were donated beforehand by members of the Oxford community—including those who could not attend—and were wrapped in boxes with holiday paper and handwritten notes inside, adding a festive and personal touch to the gifts.

The Division of Family and Children Services will distribute the boxes to children and teens at their annual holiday party next month.

“It was wonderful to see so many volunteers carrying on our tradition of creating gift boxes for local children in the foster care program,” said Jenna Holton, Volunteer

Newton County

Commission denies animal rehab center, mixed-use plans

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Landowners on Crowell Road saw plans for their properties derailed after county commissioners voted to deny two zoning requests recently.

District 3 Commissioner Alana Sanders said neighbors' wishes and other commissioners' concerns about past flooding led her to seek denial of a zoning request for construction of 300 homes and a new county park overlooking the Yellow River.

Neighbors' concerns and unsuccessful efforts to bring the facility into compliance with county codes for two years also factored into Sanders' request for denial of a Conditional Use Permit sought by Nicole Kanoy for a wild animal rehabilitation facility on Kanoy's five-acre property.

Kanoy's nonprofit wildlife rehabilitation center, called Wildlife Critters Circle of Life Rehabilitation Center, includes pens for a wide variety of injured animals, including alligators and some small mammals.

Sanders said many residents called her to complain about the rehabilitation center, which housed 87 animals of all types in a residential area near Newton High School in mid-November.

"Finding out there were 87 animals and six alligators in my district in a residential area is really shocking," Sanders said. "And wolves and coyotes and bears and cows, oh my."

After the meeting, Sanders also provided a copy of a citation against someone she said represented the facility and was cited for dumping a dead pot-bellied pig on a neighboring property in late October.

She said neighbors also told her about a zebra being housed at the facility getting loose.

Kanoy said the nonprofit was allowed to operate on the Crowell Road site because it was "grandfathered in."

Development Services director Judy

Johnson said previously that the property was zoned for residential uses but the nonprofit was a "legal, nonconforming" use because previous owners kept horses and other hooved animals on the site before the county approved a zoning ordinance in the early 1970s.

Kanoy said after the meeting she planned to find another location for the animals — many sick and injured — that people bring to her. She said she invited commissioners to see the nonprofit operate but they never came.

She also was disappointed that county officials had told her she could have her animals there at one point.

"It is very disheartening that the injured and rescue animals won't have a place to go," she said.

In a separate zoning matter on Crowell Road, the Board of Commissioners voted to deny a request from Denny Dobbs to change what can be developed on a 51-acre site just south of I-20's Crowell Road exit.

It is located on a long, narrow tract sandwiched between Crowell and Harold Dobbs roads on the west and the Yellow River on the east.

Sanders said she "wanted to reiterate to developers" that she met with District 3 residents about the project.

"They did express how they felt," she said. "They weren't in favor of the project."

Properties fronting Access Road on the north and undeveloped land on the south border the site. Part of the site is in the Yellow River floodplain.

Dobbs had requested a change from Tier 1 of the overlay district, which allows only residential construction, to Tier 2 on the entire site to allow construction of a mixed-use development because part of it is in the floodplain of the Yellow River, zoning officials said.

Sanders said county commissioners in the past had placed the land "in those specific tiers for a reason."

Other current commissioners also described how Riverside Estates mobile home park that faces the site across the Yellow River often floods during heavy rains. The county sometimes is forced to rescue residents and doing the same thing for those living on the requested land would "cost the county a lot more money," Sanders said.

Gee Harvey, who was working with Dobbs to develop the site, told commissioners Oct. 19 that plans include a 300-lot subdivision on part of the site and land bordering the Yellow River that would be given to the county government for development of a public park.

Harvey showed commissioners a site plan that included a single-family subdivision with 241 single-family homes in the central and south part of the site surrounding a planned lake; and a section on the north edge backing up to Harold Dobbs Road that contained 59 townhomes.

The land is now undeveloped and is surrounded by single-family residential uses on the south and west, Riverside Estates mobile home park across the Yellow River on the east, and churches and Salem Cemetery on the north.

Development Services Director Judy Johnson said Oct. 19 the park was planned to be almost 300 feet from the river and be partly outside the floodplain.

Harvey said developers did not plan to create any direct access points to the river across an existing buffer area for those wanting to partake in such activities as kayaking.

The county's Almon, Salem and Brick Store overlay districts add extra requirements to the base zoning requirements for new construction within their boundaries and regulates such things as construction materials and the minimum distances buildings must be located from property lines.

Horton also joked about the irony of giving a commemorative clock to someone who was retiring was "you don't have to worry about the time."

Councilwoman Susie Keck joked that the first lesson Williams taught her was how to pronounce her first name.

"Haw-nee-thee-uh," Keck said.

More seriously, Keck also said Williams will continue to serve the community.

"She's done a lot and she'll continue to do a lot," she said.

Williams said she always tried to do what was best for the entire city during her 16 years on the council.

She said she planned to "continue to be an advocate for my community."

Williams also echoed Horton in saying she tried to put others' needs before her own as a councilmember.

"When you put yourself first then that's when things fall apart," she said. "Never lose your identity, but try to be what the Lord wants you to be."

She also said she planned to help her successor in the council seat, Charika Davis, adjust to her new elected position.

Williams had endorsed Davis for the position in this year's election. Davis takes office Jan. 1.

"Community, give her time," Williams said.

"I will continue to mentor (Davis)," she added. "I won't put her out there and let her swim."

Oxford Coordinator. "I couldn't be more grateful for how everyone gave what they could to serve our community and beyond."

Other Emory Cares projects included the annual clean-up of the Hearn Nature Trail. The event was planned by Volunteer Oxford, Oxford Athletics, Emory Cares, and the Tree Advisory Committee.

A group of about 30 volunteers, along with Oxford's Forest Restoration Team, assembled in the woods to pull invasive plants that negatively affect the natural ecosystem.

Since 2014, this project has contributed to Oxford's designation as a "Tree Campus" by the Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit focused on conservation efforts and education. The designation recognizes campuses that are committed to growing and maintaining their forests.

"After missing Emory Cares Day last year due to the pandemic, it was great to be back in the forest with students this year," said Michael Martin, Lecturer in biology and Chair of the Tree Advisory Committee.

"We made a lot of room for new native plants to take root and restart the natural cycles that have been interrupted in our forests by invasive plant species."

"Every year, these two events provide a great opportunity to refresh our sense of commitment to this campus and our broader community," said Latasha Brown, Assistant Director of Advancement and Alumni Engagement. "We hope the children in the Newton County Foster Care Program have a peaceful holiday season."

Are we there yet?

As a card carrying member of the “evil news media,” I can testify that my profession is not widely admired. We rank near the bottom, between “Guy with leaky bucket who will pave your driveway for a thousand bucks if you pay in advance” and “TV preacher who will mail you a vial of holy water if you send $273 to help buy a new jet.” I understand. My profession has been tainted by the cable opinion network fear mongers who masquerade as journalists. And even the reputable news reporters make our heads spin by reporting actual facts: one week they tell us the pandemic is on the ropes, like a tired boxer on his last legs. The next week, the virus has made a miraculous comeback, gaining energy thanks to a new strain, a variant with undetermined force. These news folks are merely sharing the information that is made available to them by the higher-ups in government and science. If the doctors are warning us to be cautious for safety’s sake, you wouldn’t want that to be covered up, right? Still, it’s no wonder that our heads are spinning. What can we safely do, where can we go, and when can we get there? The short answer: Nobody knows. So I’m seeking any and all signs of normalcy from the lives we led prior to

Metro Creative

David Carroll longs for the day everyone can finally put the masks away.

March of 2020. When I can check all of the following items off my list, you’ll know we have arrived. When my neighborhood Ace Hardware store cranks up the free popcorn machine. Free scoops for all! When it is back to being a fun spreader, and not a potential virus spreader, it will be time to celebrate. When we don’t have to wear a mask all day at work. After 20 months, I still forget the mask more than I should. I long for the day when the authorities say, “You may put your mask away.” When restaurants and other retailers can relax their mask regulations, so we may again see the smiling faces of servers, cashiers, and customers. The world is so much brighter when illuminated by smiles. When I can look forward to flying. Thankfully I have not had to board an airplane during the pandemic, so I have avoided the tight quarters, the delays, and the adult toddlers who throw tantrums when asked to respect the safety of others. When we can end

“virtual” fund-raising events. Same goes for work meetings and family reunions. I get it, we can do amazing things with technology, and many folks enjoy working from home. But I’m over it. I want to see you, look you in the eyes, and hug you, without anyone flinching in fear. When all the buffets reopen. Sure, it was always a health risk, with a flimsy sneeze guard, and sticky-fingered kids. But I will enjoy taking my chances again. When the “sample ladies” are back in the supermarkets. I could sometimes enjoy half a meal while roaming the aisles. Wanna try this new cereal? You bet! How about a mini Steak’umm sandwich? Don’t mind if I do. Hostess has a new cupcake. You don’t have to ask me twice! Want to wash it all down with a little Sunny D? Why yes, thank you. I’ll bet some people even put on a ball cap and a different jacket, and go back for seconds. At least that’s what I’ve heard. When I can cough or sneeze in public, without people looking at me as if I have just infected the entire zip code. People used to say “Bless you” when they heard a sneeze. Now they grab their bags and kids, and head for the next county. When we can pass the communion trays in church again. As a kid, I would envy those who participated in this communal experience, with zero fear. No matter your feelings on religion, this traditional celebration made us feel as one. It was a form of spiritual nourishment. It is another one of our comforts that has been taken away. When we can again invite family and friends to holiday gatherings, with no fears or questions about who’s vaccinated and who’s not, or which side of the political fence they are on. I long for the days when we didn’t know, and we didn’t care. When we can put away the plexiglass. When retailers and restaurants are fully staffed, and we can shop and dine-in around the clock. Finally, when we can accompany our ailing loved ones on visits to the doctor’s office, or during hospital stays, with no limits. Whether it’s a newborn child, or an elderly relative saying their last goodbye, family members should be present. We have missed so much. We aren’t there yet. But I have faith that we are getting there.

Nation’s eyes again on Georgia in 2022

The tremors caused by former U.S. Senator David Perdue are still being felt across the political landscape of Georgia this week.

Perdue announced he will challenge incumbent Gov. Brian Kemp in the Republican primary next year. It means Georgia will once again be under a bright spotlight in 2022, similar to a year ago. The 2020 election in Georgia saw Democrats break the stranglehold by Republicans as two Republican senators were defeated (including Perdue). The state also voted for Joe Biden in the presidential election. In any circumstance, Perdue would be a formidable foe for the sitting governor, something which typically doesn’t happen. State-wide elected officials do have primary challenges launched against them from time to time, but this is as legit as an opponent as one can have.

Perdue has name recognition, the financial resources for the primary challenge and perhaps, most importantly, he has the backing of former President Donald Trump. Right or wrong, Trump still holds Kemp partly responsible for how the vote unfolded in Georgia in 2020. Trump believes he won the state but blames the incumbent governor for not doing more to give him the victory. An equal amount of blame by Trump is centered on current Georgia Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger, who also has primary opposition. Trump has endorsed Jody Hice in that Republican primary. Hice, in fact, gave up his comfortable seat in Congress which has caused a flood of candidates to seek his position in Washington, D.C. Perdue, meanwhile, clearly was someone Trump wanted in the GOP primary to challenge Kemp. That has now occurred. The odds of Kemp being governor past Dec. 31, 2022 are looking less likely. Even if he survives his own primary, he would then have Democrat Stacey Abrams to contend with. Kemp narrowly defeated Abrams in the 2018 election and political followers have looked forward to the rematch. What we didn’t realize in 2018 was what would happen in 2020. Trump is no longer president. Perdue is no longer a US Senator. Kemp is still being blamed by die-hard

Trump supporters for his role, whether real or imagined, in Georgia going blue. A Republican primary poll in governor’s race was released shortly after Perdue made his announcement. It showed Kemp and Perdue deadlocked at 34% with Vernon Jones, also a Trump ally, at 10%. South Georgia educator Kandiss Taylor, who ran in the 2020 US Senate jungle primary, was at 4%. Perdue’s challenge is certainly not a welcomed thing by all Republicans in Georgia. Many have always had the belief that incumbents should not be challenged in their own primary. Some conservative talk show hosts based in Georgia have said Perdue’s campaign will only damage the Republican party. However, they are not going to prevent him from running and really have no right to do so. Remember, statewide Republicans would not allow two challengers to President Trump be on the ballot in 2020 despite both having been elected to office, including one two-term governor. Kemp has already bragged about how he has handled the COVID-19 crisis but what he fails to mention is that many businesses had to close during the health crisis because the state ordered them closed. Republicans have always touted being “pro-business” but closing the doors of businesses and putting people out of work is the exact opposite. The next several months are likely going to be one of the nastiest primary elections our state has seen. It will also be an indicator of how the 2022 presidential election might go in our state. Be prepared for lots of commercials, some paid for by the candidates and some not. If Perdue wins the GOP primary, it shows how much strength Trump still has. If Abrams is elected governor (regardless of her Republican opponent) it would show Democrats have truly flipped the state. Stay tuned. It’s going to be fascinating to watch it all unfold. One has to wonder if Kemp will be breaking out his shotgun ads again and playing up his ability to make people across the country laugh at our state. He better take this challenge serious or he will be a one-term governor fully free to ponder just how it all played out.

Reader believes ‘rogue’ Republican Party must be opposed

To the Editor: The Republican Party has gone rogue. They fear the fact that changing demographics will soon make white Americans a minority and are willing to do virtually anything to remain in power, even if it means condoning violence, restricting minority voting, shameless gerrymandering, and spreading outlandish lies and misinformation if it suits their purpose. They no longer even pretend to have a platform and instead attack Democrats and block their legislation. Under the guise of “taking back our schools,” they violently disrupt schoolboard meetings, try to control curriculum by whitewashing America’s dark history, censoring textbooks and libraries, and physically threatening board members who oppose them. They still refuse to condemn the Jan. 6 Capitol riots and instead support the groups who participated, including Q-Anon, Proud Boys, Oath Keepers, and many armed “militias.” Perhaps most dangerous and reckless is their continued obeisance to a one term, twice-impeached former president and serial liar who now chooses which Republican candidates are “loyal” enough to run and dictates the Republican stance on major issues, while he himself is governed only by greed and a lust for power. Republicans are falling all over each other to please their disturbingly large voter base, consisting largely of white supremacists, evangelical Christians, science-deniers, and those who oppose immigrants, LGBTQ rights, and democratic government in general. In short, they have evolved into a clear and present danger to the well-being of our republic, and until they return to being a responsible political party, they must be rigorously opposed.

Capt. Wendell Wagstaff of the Covington Police Department was part of a 16-member delegation of senior law enforcement officials from Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina and Colorado who participated in the Georgia International Law Enforcement Exchange's (GILEE) 28th annual peer-to-peer executive training program in partnership with police in Israel.

me and my department in policing here,” he said.

“The purpose of the trip was to learn not only the best practices and successful methods in dealing with problems in law enforcement, but it also provided me a network in which I established with 15 other law enforcement executives mostly from the state of Georgia.

“Israel every day deals with terrorism. One may say here at Covington we don’t have the problems Israel has, why would this be important? Although we don’t have the magnitude of what Israel has, things can happen on a smaller scale that we need to be prepared for.

“Each year we have large events that we could be a target for in the city of Covington. It is very important that the Covington Police Department be prepared for any act of violence in a situation like that.”

Wagstaff said Israel also works with its communities to develop successful relationships to enhance public safety.

“We at the Covington

Police Department also strive to do that as well. I learned specific things they are doing within their communities that contain high violence. They have implemented new strategies to combat and reduce violence such as developing new police stations, community interactions, and working closely with leaders from within.

“Lastly, the experience of meeting and interaction of other police executives during the trip was vital to future success for each of us. Because of new relationships made, the Covington Police Department sharpens itself to be a model agency by sharing important information with each other that makes us together more successful.

“I feel at any time I can call 15 other agencies from the relationships established, including Israeli police commanders, and get any help we may need here in Covington.”

The delegation was led by GILEE Founding Director Robbie Friedmann and GILEE Associate Director Brent Cummings.

Continuity of service joined community policing as a focus this year.

Acknowledging the more than 700,000 American police officers who have served on the front lines during an unprecedented pandemic and period of social unrest, GILEE’s delegates learned more about strategies to successfully lead ongoing, nonstop law enforcement services while building stronger, safer and better community relations through community policing.

Community policing recognizes the need for greater accountability, a greater public share in decision-making and a greater concern for civil rights and liberties, according to Professor Emeritus and GILEE Founding Director Robbie Friedmann, who formulated the definition.

“GILEE facilitates peer-to-peer professional development programs that build better networks among law enforcement professionals, allowing for stronger public safety and improved community policing across Georgia, the U.S. and internationally,” Cummings said.

“Law enforcement executives learn from experiencing first-hand how others police in a variety of cultures, which fosters growth and enlightenment on new ways to approach challenges at home, enhancing the communities we all live in.”

More than 1,100 public safety officials — most from Georgia — have participated in the program in Israel. More than 40,000 have attended additional GILEE trainings, briefings, seminars and workshops in Georgia and around the world.

“Trying to describe the meaningful impact of participating in the GILEE delegation to Israel to others is no small task,” said Chief Janet Moon of the Peachtree City Police Department, president of the Georgia Association of Chiefs of Police, and a GILEE delegate

“Observing how the Israeli Police interacted with people very diverse from them was inspirational. The Israeli Police embraced this diversity within its own ranks as well. I found the experience very rewarding in a way that led me to expand upon my commitment and resolve to utilize principles of community

Georgia at No. 3 the spot to be?

There’s been a lot of attention surrounding Cincinnati being the first Group of 5 school ever to be accepted into the top four spots of the final College Football Playoff rankings.

However, there’s a strong chance that more history could be made in this year’s playoffs by way of the Georgia Bulldogs winning it all.

Georgia earned a No. 3 seed in the 2021 College Football Playoff on Dec. 5. From weeks 10-14, the Bulldogs stood atop the rankings but, after their 41-24 loss to Alabama in the SEC championship, they fell two spots.

Now, they have a date with No. 2 Michigan down in Miami Gardens, Florida, for the Orange Bowl. The game will be played on New Year’s Eve at 7:30 p.m.

Will the drop affect UGA’s chances to take home the National Championship trophy? Well, let’s see what history tells us.

In its seven-year history, a No. 1, No. 2 and even a No. 4 seed has won the national crown. But never has a No. 3 team accomplished such a feat. They either fall just short or flat on their face.

Only three No. 3 seed playoff teams have advanced to the National Championship, too.

Two of those three times have been the previous two seasons. The third team was when Georgia was No. 3 in 2017 and lost to No. 4 Alabama.

Let’s just say Bulldog fans were well acquainted with Devonta Smith’s work long before he won the Heisman Trophy his senior season in 2020.

The 2017 game, though, is the closest a No. 3 team has ever gotten to win the National Championship.

Prior to Georgia’s overtime loss, the No. 3 seed never made it past the first round. On top of that, each No. 3 team lost its first round games by an average of nearly 34 points.

The next No. 3 team to advance after UGA was Clemson in 2019. But it went up against a Joe Burrow-led LSU Tigers and lost 42-25. Last year, No. 3 Ohio State lost to No. 1 Alabama 52-24.

But could this be the year a No. 3 seed finally breaks through to win it all?

It does seem the Bulldogs are primed to be the ones to break the mold. They have the No. 1 defense in the nation, still, and, despite the SEC Championship loss, are in the thick of things because of UGA’s dominant regular season.

We’ll just have to see when toe meets leather on New Year’s Eve.

Eagles split region opener

Eastside boys net 56-50 win over Region 8-AAAAA Apalachee, Lady Eagles fall

M. CHESNY YOUNG
Correspondent

WINDER, Ga. — It was Eastside’s Region 8-AAAAA opener when it traveled to Apalachee on Friday night. In game one, the Lady Eagles lost 46-27 whereas, in game two, the Eagles came out on top 56-50.

Despite the loss for the girl’s team, the Lady Eagles showed some progress.

It started with a strong opening quarter.

Kristy Alvare, drilled two three pointers and the Lady Eagles hustle-laden defense kept Apalachee’s offense mute. At the end of the quarter, Eastside led 9 - 7.

A 21-point second quarter by Apalachee swung momentum back its direction before the half. The high-scoring output was led by easy fast break layups mainly by Avery Akin.

At halftime the score was Apalachee 28 - Eastside 14.

Head coach Gladys King made a defensive switch at the half. King switched to a “Box and 1” formation which allowed Shankeria Reid to constantly guard against Akin’s transition scoring.

Despite the hustle and effort, the Lady Eagles could not mount a serious comeback despite the halftime change.

But Eastside did have a positive moment.

Immediately following the loss, the boy’s basketball team took the court.

Newton defense gets noticed on All-Region team

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Going into 2021, the Newton Rams named their defensive unit the “Blue Swarm.” Throughout the season, it was that unit that seemed to keep the Rams in most of their games.

It took major contributions from each level of the defense to accomplish this.

Multiple players made their presence known all season and, thus, earned All-Region honors from coaches in Region 4-AAAAAAA.

In total, Newton had 12 players recognized, seven of which came from defense.

On the first team, Nolan McCamy, Derrick Von Hubbard, Tahjae Mullix and Audavion Collins each made an appearance.

McCamy, as the team’s leading tackler, recorded 65 tackles, nine tackles for loss, two sacks and one interception from his linebacker position. On the defensive line, Von Hubbard had 54 tackles, four of which were tackles for loss as well as seven sacks. Fellow defensive lineman, Mullix, tallied 48 tackles, four tackles for loss, three sacks and had a scoop score in 2021, too.

Newton’s Tahjae Mullix (24) races to the end zone after scooping up a Brookwood fumble as Olan Robinson (8) trails.

Defensive back Collins tallied 29 tackles and collected one interception.

Second team defenders were Olan Robinson, Elijah Zollicofer and Montarrius

Reed. As a linebacker, Robinson had 48 tackles, eight tackles for loss and one sack. Zollicofer recorded 40 tackles, four tackles for loss and 2.5 sacks. From his defensive back position, Reed had 25 tackles and three tackles for loss.

Even though seven of the team’s 12 All-Region honorees came from defense, the Rams’ offense had five people recognized.

Marcus Calwise and Oro Avery earned spots on the first team.

Calwise had 332 yards receiving while averaging 12.8 yards per reception and collected three touchdown receptions. Avery was recognized as an offensive lineman.

Quarterback Jevarra Martin Jr., and running back Rontravious Perry’s contributions made the region coaches take notice of their 2021 seasons.

Completing 52% of his passes, Martin threw for 776 yards and eight touchdowns. On the ground, Martin 443 rushing yards and added another touchdown score to his resume.

Perry tallied 518 rushing yards while averaging 6.2 yards per carry and crossed the goal line five times. That also includes two games when Perry had over 100 yards rushing.

C4 Cycling donates bikes to elementary schools

Kids were all smiles when they turned the corner and saw that they were getting their own special bicycle. C4 members were overjoyed, too, seeing the smiles of the student's faces.

COVINGTON, Ga. — Over 20 years ago, the Covington Conyers Cycling Club (C4) was formed. In recent years, the club has donated 50 bikes to local elementary schools to give to underprivileged students. Members of C4 take the donated used bikes and refurbish them for use. The club spends close to $1,500 to repair the bikes to get them ready for kids to ride them.

Donations are accepted throughout the year. This year, C4 had close to 85 used bikes donated to the cause with approximately 50 able to be repaired enough to use. Half went to students at Sims Elementary School in Conyers and the other half went to Fairview Elementary School in Covington. Students also received a helmet, lights to place on the bikes and a pamphlet on rider safety. The deliveries took place on Friday, Dec. 10. According to the C4 president, John Keck, donations really start pouring in during September and October. "I start posting on social media in August," Keck explained. "So, we get a push during September and October and those are our bigger months. But it's not unusual for me to wake up in the mornings and walk outside and there's a bike someone just dropped off." At Fairview, principal Andrea King and counselor Juanita Hosch-Martin work hand-in-hand with the teachers to select the students every year. After the donation was completed, Hosch-Martin expressed her gratitude to all members of C4 who were present, thanking them. Collecting and donating bikes is one part of the three missions of C4, though. They include:

1. Create a safer riding environment for cyclists by working with local governments to establish well-marked bike lanes and routes throughout Newton,

- Rockdale, Walton and Morgan counties.
2. Actively seek to encourage people of all ages and walks of life to lead an active and healthy lifestyle through cycling and exercise.
3. Give back to the community by organizing and participating in charitable activities across the region.

In addition to the bike drive, C4 participates in other community service activities through various outreach programs. For instance, they participate in "Bike Rodeo" which is conducted in conjunction with the YMCA and the Covington Police Department. The "Faith & Blue & Bikes!" Trail Ride, the "Ride for Kai" (Kai named for someone killed by a hit-and-run driver in Conyers) and several other charitable bike rides that C4 rode in as well. Financially, C4 supports Hope Atlanta, the Boys and Girls Club, Newton Trails and Willing Helpers Medical Clinic. But, the bike donation is something Keck and C4 hopes to continue for years to come. "I think we'll be able to continue this in perpetuity, we hope," Keck said. For more information on the cycling club, visit <https://www.c4cycling.com/>. The best way to donate bikes is to message the C4 Facebook page @CovingtonConyersCyclingClub.

season, the Eagles got off to a slow start on offense. But their third quarter production propelled the Eagles to victory. After only scoring 16 points in the first 16 minutes, the Eagles found their stride. They began the second half in a full court press defense that forced the first Wildcat turnovers of the night. Then Raj Benton began drilling two-point shots from the top of the key. Benton led all scorers with 23 points. Bo Reid, Tim Porter and Kassen Saunders also contributed to the monster 18-point third quarter that shifted the direction of the basketball game. The fourth quarter saw multiple lead changes.

Eastside's point guard Reid put up eight points in the fourth quarter and, in the end, Eastside's size, skill and momentum propelled them to a six-point victory. Head coach Dorrian Randolph addressed his team's sluggish start after the game. "We have a few offensive sets that we will implemented this week in practice," Randolph said. "Our team's offense is dependent upon Benton, so finding him open looks early in the game may be the key for us." Friday's win improved the Eagles above .500 at 4-3 and, more importantly, they begin 1-0 in region play. Meanwhile, for the Lady Eagles, they drop to 1-5 overall.

‘Right to Farm’ debate to be renewed in General Assembly

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — After a year in limbo, “Right to Farm” legislation being pushed by groups representing the farming and livestock industries will be back before the General Assembly this winter.

“There’s no bigger issue to our organization than right to farm,” Will Bentley, president of the Georgia Agribusiness Council, told members of the Georgia House Rural Development Council Dec. 8. “It’s becoming more and more of an issue around the state.”

The Right to Farm Act would make it harder for property owners living in areas zoned for agricultural use to file nuisance lawsuits against nearby farms or livestock operations. The Georgia Senate passed the bill during the 2020 legislative session but it fizzled in the state House of Representatives.

After staying quiet during this year’s session, groups including the agribusiness council, the Georgia Farm Bureau, the Georgia Forestry Association and the Georgia Poultry Federation are vowing to renew their campaign in support of the measure during the 2022 session.

The need to protect

Contributed Photo

farms and livestock operators from nuisance suits has grown increasingly urgent over time, said Mike Giles, president of the poultry federation.

Year after year, more and more urban and suburban residents move to the country to enjoy the rural lifestyle, Giles said. Once they get there, some are bothered by the smells, dust and noise associated with nearby farms and livestock operations and file nuisance suits, he said.

Giles pointed to $100 million awards in nuisance suits in North Carolina that have crippled farmers.

“Trial attorneys can put farms and agribusiness out of business,” said state Rep. Robert Dickey, R-Musella, chairman of the House Agriculture & Consumer Affairs Committee. “That’s what we’re trying to prevent.”

Opponents say an earlier Right to Farm law Georgia lawmakers passed during the 1980s contains adequate protections for farmers.

But supporters of updating the Right to Farm Act say new farming operations are most in need of protection from nuisance suits because Georgia is running out of sparsely populated areas where residential encroachment has not occurred.

“There’s just no part of the state where you can put agriculture where there’s not already people there,” Bentley said.

Jacob Matthews, a governmental affairs specialist with the Georgia Farm Bureau, said Right to Farm protection is an economic issue.

“If we’re trying to boost rural Georgia’s economy, it’s important to make sure the opportunity is there for people to come in and start new farms,” he said.

Rogers said environmental organizations that oppose the updated Right to Farm Act don’t object to row crop farming or timber operations. But he said the bill’s real intention is to protect giant livestock operations like the industrial hog farm operated in North Carolina by Smithfield Foods that was sued successfully by neighbors late last year.

“Nobody wants to be next to them,” Rogers said.

The Senate amended the 2020 bill to require that lawsuits challenging farms or livestock operations must be filed within two years of when a nuisance occurs. More restrictive language in the original legislation would have required suits to be brought within two years of an applicant obtaining a permit to start or change a farm operation.

While environmental groups working the issue accepted the new statute of limitations as a compromise, it didn’t go over well with the original bill’s backers. Supporters in the House sought to strip the amendment from the measure, but when that effort failed, the legislation died.

It’s unclear whether the two-year statute of limitations will be in the 2022 bill because it is not among the measures that have been pre-filed in advance of the legislative session.

“The question is, ‘Do they want to have that same fight, or are they coming up with something more creative?’” Rogers said.

The bill isn’t expected to be introduced until after the General Assembly convenes next month.

Economist sees full recovery for Georgia next year

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Georgia’s economy will bounce back from the coronavirus pandemic next year, despite inflation and the latest COVID-19 variant, the dean of the business school at the University of Georgia predicted Monday.

“We’ve made tremendous progress getting back to normal, Benjamin Ayers of UGA’s Terry College of Business, told an audience of about 475 business leaders at the Georgia Aquarium in downtown Atlanta. “By late 2022, Georgia’s economy will fully recover from the COVID-19 recession.”

In fact, Georgia’s forecast economic growth rate of 4.3% next year will outperform the predicted increase in the nation’s gross domestic product of 4.0%, Ayers said during Terry College’s annual Economic Outlook luncheon.

That growth will be driven mainly by strong consumer and business spending and a robust housing market, he said.

Pent-up demand by consumers, particularly for services they couldn’t get during the pandemic, will result in both higher consumer spending and less saving. On the business side, companies will spend more on technology needed to facilitate remote work.

While there will less demand for commercial real estate due to the increase in Georgians working from home, Ayers expects significant increases in single-family and multi-family housing construction.

But home prices that have risen 23% during the pandemic are expected to increase more slowly next year.

“Homes have become much less affordable, and we expect mortgage rates to be higher,” he said.

Ayers said he expects Georgia’s workforce to fully recover in 2022. The state’s unemployment rate should average 3.2% next year, a point below the national jobless rate.

The most job growth is expected to occur in hospitality and live entertainment, the economic sectors hurt worst by the pandemic. Sectors such as manufacturing, health care, retail and government will grow at slower rates.

Ayers said potential headwinds that could result in lower-than-expected economic growth include supply chain disruptions, worker shortages and the lingering pandemic.

“Inflation may run higher and longer than expected,” he said. “A large increase in interest rates could trigger recession.”

But Ayers rates the likelihood of a recession as “quite low.”

Mark Vitner, senior economist with Wells Fargo Securities, who gave the national economic forecast, said states including Georgia that reopened their economies early in the pandemic are recovering faster than states that locked down over a long period of time.

Vitner said he doesn’t expect much economic impact from the spread of the new omicron variant because Americans have grown more accustomed to the virus than in its early days.

“People are less afraid of contracting the virus,” he said. “We’re likely to see less economic blowback from a resurgence of COVID.”

Still, Vitner predicted inflation will likely remain a problem for the U.S. economy for the next three to five years if not the rest of the decade.

“We’re not going to see a replay of the ‘70s,” he said. “But inflation is going to be persistent, and it will be pernicious.”

Nut-free alternative for breakfast, lunch

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

School is in session and that means busy families may be in need of a few meal solutions that fit into their schedules — particularly items to grab on the way to school or work. Granola bars often fit the bill as nutritious options in portable packages. While store-bought granola bars are convenient, they tend to be made with nuts or oats, which are not ideal for those with food allergies or intolerances.

People can easily whip up homemade granola bars that are chock-full of vitamins and minerals and can be customized to food preferences and tastes. This recipe for “Nut-Free Granola Bars” from “Eat What You Want” (Ten Speed Press) by Danielle Walker can be enhanced with raisins, chocolate chips or dried fruits.

Nut-Free Granola Bars
Makes 12
Ingredients:
2 tablespoons warm water
1 tablespoon chia seeds
1/3 cup light-colored raw honey
1 tablespoon virgin coconut oil
2 tablespoons unsweetened sunflower seed butter
3/4 cup raw pepitas
3/4 cup raw sunflower seeds
1 cup unsweetened coconut flakes
2 tablespoons sesame seeds
2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon fine sea salt
1/4 cup chocolate chips, raisins, or dried fruit pieces
Directions:
Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Lightly grease the short sides of a 9- by 13-inch baking dish or rimmed baking sheet with ghee or coconut oil. Line the bottom and long sides of the pan with parchment paper so the ends hang over the sides.

Whisk the warm water and chia seeds in a small bowl and set aside.
Melt the honey in a small saucepan over medium-high heat. Turn the heat to medium and simmer for 5 to 7 minutes, until a candy thermometer reads 225 degrees. Stir in the oil and sunflower seed butter and remove the pan from the heat. Let cool for 10 minutes.
Place the pepitas and sunflower seeds in a food processor and pulse once or twice until coarsely chopped. Add the coconut flakes, sesame seeds, vanilla, cinnamon, and salt and pulse a few more times, until coarsely chopped and incorporated. Add the chia mixture and the honey mixture and stir by hand until just combined. Immediately spread the mixture into the prepared baking dish.

Place a piece of parchment paper on top and use a flat-bottomed measuring cup to press the mixture firmly and evenly into the pan. Remove the top piece of parchment and bake for 15 minutes, until golden. Sprinkle the chocolate chips over the top. Let cool in the pan for 30 minutes, then transfer the pan to the freezer for 1 hour, until set.
Remove the pan from the freezer and lift the parchment flaps to remove the slab from the pan. Using a sharp knife, cut into 12 rectangular bars. Serve the bars chilled.
Store in an airtight container in the refrigerator for 2 weeks, or in the freezer for 6 months. Defrost in the fridge overnight.

When you have a batch of bacon, transform it into any number of different recipes, including as a variation on the classic BLT sandwich.

Bacon makes everything better

news@covnews.com

Some people may argue that bacon should be its own food group. Bacon has the potential to improve any recipe with its salty, addictive flavor, but it is equally delicious all on its own. It's found in breakfasts, lunches and dinners. Those who have tried chocolate-covered bacon also may insist that bacon holds its own as a dessert.

Bacon is a salt-cured pork product that is made from pork belly or less fatty back cuts. Just as there are many different ways to incorporate bacon into favorite dishes, there are several methods to preparing the food, including in a fryer, on the stovetop, in a microwave, or in the oven. While each chef has his or her preferences, oven cooking may produce the most consistent results.

According to The Spruce: Eats, bacon is fatty so it needs to be cooked slowly at a low temperature so that most of the fat renders away while leaving the finished product crispy and golden brown. To achieve this most easily, arrange bacon slices on a sheet pan and place in the center rack of a cold oven. Close the door and turn the oven on to 400 degrees. Check the bacon after 17 to 20 minutes. The bacon is done when it is golden brown but not excessively crisp. Cooking time will vary depending on the thickness of the bacon slices and how quickly the oven reaches temperature. Remove the sheet pan and transfer the bacon to a plate lined with paper towels to absorb any fat. Cooking bacon in this manner also enables home chefs to prepare a greater amount of bacon at one time, which can be beneficial when feeding a hungry crowd.

When you have a batch of bacon, transform it into any number of different recipes, including as a variation on the classic BLT sandwich. Enjoy “BLT Bites” from Home Made Interest, a food and entertaining blog. It's great as an appetizer for the holidays, or for mouth-sized morsels while watching a sports game.

BLT Bites
Makes 12 servings
Ingredients:
12 crackers, such as RITZ®
1 cup spring mix salad
4 slices cooked bacon
4 grape tomatoes, sliced
3 teaspoons mayonnaise
Directions:
1. Cut the bacon into 1-inch squares.
2. Chop salad mix into small pieces and mix with mayonnaise.
3. Scoop a teaspoon of salad on each cracker and place a piece of bacon on top.
4. Top with a slice of grape tomato.

Enhance appetizer selections with delectable mini pizzas

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Appetizers come in all types and flavors. When those flavors include the classic tomato, mozzarella and basil combination of pizza, appetizers are sure to fly off of the serving tray. During peak entertaining seasons, having a bevy of appetizer options at the ready helps ensure successful celebrations.

Pizza Fritte
Serves 8 to 10

Dough:
1 packet active dry yeast
1 cup warm water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon sugar

1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil, plus more for the bowl to drizzle
3 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, plus more as needed
1 teaspoon kosher salt
3 tablespoons olive oil
Combine the yeast, sugar, warm water (just warm to the touch) in a large bowl. Whisk to mix and let sit about 3 minutes until bubbly.
Coat the bowl of a standing mixer with olive oil. Arm the mixer with a dough hook, then place 2 cups of flour and the salt in the bowl. Pour in the yeast mixture and mix at medium speed about 1 to 2 minutes until a rough, sticky ball of dough comes together, adding a little more flour or water as necessary. Let the dough rest for 5 minutes in the mixer. Then mix on low about 1 minute until the dough is no longer sticky.

Oil your hands, transfer the dough to a lightly floured board or the dough to an oiled bowl and cover the surface of the bowl with plastic wrap. Refrigerate for at least 1 hour or overnight. When the dough has doubled in size, remove it from the refrigerator and bring to room temperature. (A less labor-intensive alternative to the above would be to buy some pizza dough from your corner pizzeria.)
Toppings (maintain at room temperature):

1 pound of fresh mozzarella cheese, cut into small, thin slices
1/2 cup grated Romano cheese
2 tablespoons dry Italian oregano and 1/2 cup torn fresh basil
Freshly made sauce, or Don Pepino All-Natural Pizza Sauce is a good alternative if you are pressed for time.
Working on a lightly floured board or the kitchen counter, pinch off enough dough to make a 4-inch-round mini pizza. Place it on the floured baking sheet. Continue in this manner until all of the dough has been used. Set the mini pizza crusts aside to rise for at least 30 minutes.

Add canola oil with a drop of extra virgin olive oil to a 10-inch skillet, over medium heat. When the oil reaches 350 degrees on a deep-fry thermometer, add two to three pizzas to the oil. They cook very quickly. Fry until they are puffed and golden.
At this point, turn the pizzas over and very carefully top each one with a slice of mozzarella. Remove the pizzas from the oil when the bottoms are brown and place them on a platter. Add sauce, grated cheese, oregano, and basil, if using, and a drizzle of extra virgin olive oil. Serve.

coverstory

BY JAY BOBBIN

Melissa Joan Hart stars in "Mistletoe in Montana" Friday on Lifetime.

Melissa Joan Hart offers 'Mistletoe in Montana'

Melissa Joan Hart knows what it's like to direct other actors, so she doesn't mind being directed by one ... especially if the person is a close friend.

Television's former "Sabrina, the Teenage Witch" is guided by "Life Goes On" and "ER" alum Kellie Martin in "Mistletoe in Montana," a Lifetime movie that debuts Friday, Dec. 17. Also an executive producer of the film along with her mother Paula, Hart plays the operator of a ranch resort that a single father (Duane Henry, "NCIS") visits with his children at holiday time, possibly resulting in romance. Jamey Sheridan ("Law & Order: Criminal Intent") also stars as the Hart character's father.

"This movie is actually inspired by my cousin's true-life experience going to a dude ranch," Hart explains. "She met a wrangler and fell in love, so this is the flip-flop of that. We were at her wedding in Wyoming last year, and my mother and I were on horseback ... and I said, 'This would make a great movie.' And she said, 'Well, do you want to be the wrangler or the guest?' And I was like, 'I wanna be the wrangler, 'cause I wanna really learn how to be a cowgirl.'"

Hart drew upon a summer of childhood horse-riding lessons, but she says that while making the movie on location, "I rode as many horses as I could for as long as I could, and learned about different rein techniques and different ways to respond to a horse and how horses respond to you. There were some lessons I went away for and told my husband, 'I'll see you in three hours, if you're lucky. I might not make it back.'"

Though director Martin starred in 2019's "Christmas in Montana," that actually was filmed in Canada, but she's familiar with Montana as her husband's home state. After directing a couple of her "Mystery Woman" capers, she notes her latest turn in that seat was "super-challenging. There's not a lot of film crew based in Montana, and this particular summer because of the pandemic, a lot of people were like, 'I want to get away where there are no people. Let's go to Montana!' It was surprisingly difficult to shoot there this summer.

"That being said," adds Martin, "I know Montana so well that I do feel I brought some knowledge about what it is about. I added shots of snowy owls and elk and all the things that make Montana Montana. It was nice to be able to shoot there, even though we had to acknowledge in the script that it was unseasonably warm. Which, by the way, does happen. Often, they don't get snow there until after Christmas."

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Michael Symon up for a 'Throwdown' in Food Network competition series

Michael Symon loves to teach, compete and of course, cook and he displays all three in a competition series upcoming on Food Network.

In "Throwdown With Michael Symon," a four-episode series premiering with a double episode on Tuesday, Dec. 14, the chef, restaurateur and cookbook author ventures onto the home turf of top New York chefs and challenges them to a — well, see the title — in which he takes on that chef's signature dish and creates his own interpretation of it.

The twist here is that the chef in question doesn't know this is a competition, only that they'll be filming a Food Network special. Then Symon makes his way through the crowd and throws down his figurative gauntlet. A pair of special guest judges blindly evaluates the final product and declares a winner.

So while the chef has the home crowd and the signature dish to their advantage, Symon has the element of surprise on his side.

"It's my kind of favorite show," explains Symon, who just released his new cookbook "Fix It With Food: Every Meal Easy," "where for me I get to be a chef, which I love; there's a lot of just like natural teaching moments in the show, which I love; we get to feature basically two great chefs/restaurateurs per episode, so maybe people get to discover some new places.

"And then it ends in competition, which everybody else loves ...," he adds with a laugh. "So I think it's one of those few shows that hits on all those elements."

Tuesday's opener takes Symon first to Brooklyn's Pig Beach to throwdown against chef Matt Abdoo and his signature burger. Then in the second, he shows up at the downtown Manhattan Eastern European eatery Tzarevna to challenge owners Ricky and Mariia Dolinsky in making their khachapuri, a cheesy stuffed bread from the nation of Georgia.

For Symon, the decadent dish required a substantial learning curve.

"That was a fun one for me," he says, "because it's something that I've never made, khachapuri. So you kind of go to a restaurant and learn the history of the dish and the different varieties of it and what someone who specializes in Georgia cuisine, what they think makes it special and unique. It was a great history lesson and learning experience for me and to taste all the different varieties was pretty awesome."

BY JAY BOBBIN

Natalie Dreyfuss OF 'FIXING UP CHRISTMAS' ON UPTV

Though you've done work on such series as "The Flash" and "True Blood," you've also built your career on cable movies such as the new "Fixing Up Christmas," in which you play a party planner who lands a big job at holiday time. Is that mix by design?

I really love making these movies. I find it quite an experience to make a film in 12 days. You really have to get it done, for the sake of getting the crew home to their families. I have as much respect as I can for each department, so as the No. 1 person who's in almost every scene, it really puts the pressure on to do your job well.

This movie was done in February and March, so it was still cold, and that helped. We actually got some chilly weather, which was fun. We had a little bit of snow, but we did use quite a bit of fake snow.

In your films, you have a tendency to play professional women who aren't necessarily looking for love, but make room for it if it comes along .. which is the case again in "Fixing Up Christmas." Do you actively seek those kinds of roles?

I think what's cool about doing these movies is being able to be a female lead who has such complex stories about ambition and about family. They include falling for someone, but they're more about being a partner than being rescued by a knight in shining armor. They're interesting takes on fairy tales.

tonight's PICKS

Parminder Nagra

Survivor

8 p.m. on WGCL

The coronavirus pandemic delayed production on Season 41 of this iconic reality competition series, but "Survivor" producers took advantage of that on-hold period to freshen the format of their show, which included making the season markedly shorter: 26 days, instead of the traditional 39. Set for the ninth time in Fiji, the season premiered last September with 18 new contestants, among them NFL veteran Danny McCray. Tonight's three-hour finale will crown the newest "Survivor" champion. Jeff Probst hosts.

The Enchanted Christmas Cake

8 p.m. on LIFE

In the midst of grieving the recent loss of her grandmother, Gwen (Erica Durance, "Smallville") struggles to run the bakery the two of them used to manage together, while also trying to summon some Christmas spirit. Most critically, though, she must figure out her grandmother's magical recipe for a Christmas cake that has become something of a local legend. When an elite chef comes to town to film a seasonal special, though, she agrees to help the producer (Robin Dunne). Brandon Ludwig and Kyana Teresa also star.

Intergalactic

10 p.m. on SYFY

Season 1 of this female-driven sci-fi adventure concludes with two back-to-back episodes. In the first, the Hemlock crew travels to the ocean world of Kelp to rescue Dr. Grieves (Natasha O'Keefe), who is being used as an unwilling energy source by Commonwealth leaders Rebecca Harper and Dr. Benedict Lee (Parminder Nagra, Craig Parkinson). That mission accomplished, they depart for Arcadia in the finale, but find a Commonwealth tracking device aboard the Hemlock. A second season has not been greenlit.

tonight's PICKS

Ellen Pompeo

Station 19

8 p.m. on WSB

It may be the most wonderful time of the year for many people, but for the gallant first responders in the Seattle Fire Department, it's a stressful season of emergencies and missions of mercy to ensure that visions of sugarplums don't turn into fiery nightmares. In the seasonal episode "All I Want for Christmas Is You," however, any personal grievances are set aside as the Station 19 team tries to pull off a Christmas miracle. Jaina Lee Ortiz, Jason George, Grey Damon and Barrett Doss star.

Women of Worth

8 p.m. on WXIA

Sponsored by the beauty brand L'Oreal Paris, this special returns for a second year of honoring 10 non-profit community leaders from across the United States who personify the company's tagline "Because You're Worth It." In a time of unprecedented, pandemic-driven need, all 10 honorees — each of whom receives $20,000 in funding — found innovative solutions to help the most vulnerable members of their community. Based on online public voting, one of those 10 women also will get an additional $25,000 for their non-profit organization.

Grey's Anatomy

9 p.m. on WSB

Meredith (Ellen Pompeo) and neurosurgeon David Hamilton (guest star Peter Gallagher) approach a milestone in their project as the doctors of Grey Sloan Memorial Hospital celebrate the holidays in the new episode "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear." Elsewhere, Link (Chris Carmack) is dreaming of spending a family Christmas with Amelia (Caterina Scorsone) and baby Scout, while Schmitt (Jake Borelli) is confronted with a difficult decision in the middle of a surgery.

Niecy Nash

The 89th Annual Hollywood Christmas Parade 8 p.m. on WUPA

Sleigh rides and snowball fights are rarely a part of Christmas time in Southern California, but that doesn't mean Tinseltown is lacking when it comes to the "most wonderful time of the year." Erik Estrada, Laura McKenzie, Dean Cain and Montel Williams join co-host Elizabeth Stanton for this two-hour coverage of an annual Hollywood event that showcases celebrities from the big and small screens, movie cars, marching bands, plus literally larger-than-life character balloons and colorful floats.

Mistletoe in Montana 8 p.m. on LIFE

Melissa Joan Hart is both executive producer and star of this holiday romance, which casts her as Merry, the owner of Paradise Ranch, where city slickers go to play vacation cowboys and cowgirls. She's a successful businesswoman, but romance? Not so much. That may be about to change with the arrival of handsome single father Mark Aguilar (Duane Henry, "NCIS"), who arrives for a visit with his two kids. Jamey Sheridan and Michael Grant Terry ("Bones") head a superior supporting cast.

Claws 10 p.m. on TBS

This female-driven crime dramedy launches its fourth and final season Sunday, Dec. 19, with a two-hour premiere, but TNT is giving fans a one-hour "sneak peek" at the new season tonight. For those who understandably need a refresher, given that the Season 3 finale aired more than two years ago, the casino that main character Desna Simms (Niecy Nash) and her friends were managing went up in flames via an act of revenge by Quiet Ann (Judy Reyes). Carrie Preston, Karrueche Tran, Harold Perrineau and Dean Norris will also be back.

What's Available NOW On

“Foodtastic” (Dec. 15)

Emmy winner Keke Palmer (“Turnt Up With the Taylor”) hosts in this competition series in which teams of two must create food sculptures that depict characters and scenes from Disney-related productions. Flour Shop founder Amirah Kassem and New York’s City Cakes founder chef Benny Rivera serve as food art experts and commentators. (ORIGINAL)

“Jingle All the Way” (Available now)

In this 1996 comedy, Arnold Schwarzenegger plays a dad who needs to score points with the son (Jake Lloyd) he’s been neglecting. So he sets out to find the Christmas toy that he wants most. Unfortunately, it’s also the toy every other kid wants most, and our hero has to deal with manic moms, black marketeers and another desperate dad (Sinbad) to get it.

“Diary of a Wimpy Kid” (Available now)

From director Swinton Scott (“Futurama”) comes this animated comedy movie that follows Greg Heffley, a scrawny but ambitious kid with an active imagination and big plans to be rich and famous. The problem is he has to survive middle school first. The voice cast is headed by Brady Noon, Chris Diamantopoulos and Ethan William Childress. (ORIGINAL)

“Christmas Again?!” (Available now)

This 2021 holiday comedy stars Scarlett Estevez (“If You Give a Mouse a Cookie”) as Rowena, a spirited 11-year-old who has high hopes for her Christmas celebration this year when her parents’ divorce hits a few snafus. Daniel Sunjata, Alexis Carra and Priscilla Lopez also star for director Andy Fickman (“Race to Witch Mountain”). (ORIGINAL)

The Christmas House 2: Deck Those Halls

8 p.m. on HALL

In this follow-up to the hit 2020 holiday dramedy “The Christmas House,” Robert Buckley and Jonathan Bennett return as close-knit but constantly bickering brothers Mike and Brandon Mitchell, along with Sharon Lawrence and Treat Williams as their parents. After the emotional rollercoaster they went through together last Christmas, Mike is looking forward to kicking back for a cool Yule in 2021. Unfortunately, he unexpectedly gets roped into a Christmas House redecorating reality show with gay bro Brandon. Ana Ayora, Brad Harder and Mattia Castrillo also return.

Kindred Spirits

10 p.m. on TRAV

Ghost-hunting colleagues and real-life BFFs Amy Bruni and Adam Berry return, along with frequent collaborator Chip Coffey, for Season 6 of their hit series, which finds them striving to solve the mysteries behind inexplicable paranormal anomalies across the United States. The season premiere, “The Undertaker’s Secret,” takes the trio to Easts Bridgewater, Mass., to investigate a reputedly haunted building that served as home to the secret society known as the Freemasons in the late 19th century.

tonight's PICKS

Katie Lowes and Evan Williams

The Sound of Music
7 p.m. on WSB
Julie Andrews' sweet voice fills the hills in this Academy Award-winning 1965 musical based on the true story of Austria's von Trapp family. Andrews plays Maria, the convent-trained governess of a wealthy Austrian's (Christopher Plummer) children. The score features such songs as "Edelweiss" and "My Favorite Things." Among those playing the youngsters are Angela Cartwright, Nicholas Hammond and the late Heather Menzies and Charmian Carr. Eleanor Parker, Richard Haydn and Peggy Wood also star.

Christmas Takes Flight
8 p.m. on WGCL
Pilot Jenny Beckett (Katie Lowes, "Scandal") finds herself embroiled in a battle of wills with number-crunching CEO Matt Hansen (Evan Williams) after the latter buys Jenny's family-owned regional airline. She's especially incensed when this compulsive cost-cutter callously nixes plans for the airline's annual holiday benefit on behalf of underserved children. As the stubborn Jenny rallies the community to save the fundraiser, she is stunned to find herself falling for this handsome new-comer. Andrew Airlie and Kyra Leroux also star in this yuletide romance.

And Just Like That...
8:30 p.m. on HBO
This new 10-episode revival of the groundbreaking sitcom "Sex and the City" drops in on three of that iconic show's four main characters — Carrie, Miranda and Charlotte (Sarah Jessica Parker, Cynthia Nixon, Kristin Davis) — as they navigate life, love and friendship in their 50s. Kim Cattrall, who played Samantha in the original series, declined participation in this reboot. Chris Noth, Nicole Ari Parker, Brenda Vaccaro and Sara Ramirez also are featured. Another new episode immediately follows.

Maddison Brown

Dynasty

8 p.m. on WUPA

Season 4 ended just a few weeks ago, in October, but Season 5 of this steamy soap reboot kicks off tonight with two back-to-back episodes. In the aftermath of Fallon's (Elizabeth Gillies) shooting by her unstable former assistant, estranged hubby Liam (Adam Huber) turns to Sam and Kirby (Rafael de la Fuente, Maddison Brown) for help. Elsewhere, Adam (Sam Underwood) is deeply suspicious about his long-lost sister Amanda (Eliza Bennett), who shares his mistrust. Elaine Hendrix and Grant Show also star. A new holiday-themed episode follows.

Candy Cane Candidate

8 p.m. on LIFE

After her recent city council campaign ends in a mortifying loss, Julia (Jacky Lai) returns to her hometown of North Falls for Christmas, which includes drowning her humiliation in eggnog, cookies and other pleasures of the season. Too late, she realizes that going back home almost inevitably means running into old high school nemesis Parker (Jake Epstein), who defeated her in a bid for class president. Mickey Nguyen ("Utopia Falls"), Kara Duncan and Stephanie Herrera co-star in this holiday romantic comedy.

Tough Love With Hilary Farr

9 p.m. on HGTV

Interior designer Hilary Farr ("Love It or List It") flies solo for the first time in this new home improvement series, in which she helps families improve both their lives and their homes by vanquishing indecision and maximizing their living space to ideally suit their needs. In the premiere, "Make Room for Hubby," Hilary works with a newly married couple trying to make room for their large family under one roof, a prospect that is currently compromised by a shortage of

Fantasy Island
8 p.m. on WAGA
Recently renewed for a second season to premiere in 2022, this contemporary reboot of a vintage TV series returns with a special two-hour holiday episode called “Welcome to the Snow Globe.” The story finds island host Elena Roarke (Roselyn Sanchez) tested in unexpected ways by a businesswoman’s (guest star Lindsey Kraft) fantasy of a perfect Christmas, which includes meeting “Mr. Right” (guest star Eddie Cahill). Another arrival (guest star Mackenzie Astin) is forced to confront his past, while Ruby and Javier (Kiara Barnes, John Gabriel Rodriguez) look to the future.

Song & Story: Amazing Grace
9 p.m. on OWN
Airing as part of a new series of “Song & Story” original dramas inspired by seminal songs, this first entry reflects the themes of challenge and triumph as stated so eloquently in the beloved hymn “Amazing Grace.” Bresha Webb (“The Last O.G.”) stars as Tanner, a gifted artist struggling with some formidable personal obstacles, who forms an unlikely friendship with Iris (Getenesh Berhe), an optimistic store owner. She helps guide Tanner toward forgiveness of her painful past and a way to unlock her inner strength.

Great Escapes With Morgan Freeman
10:03 p.m. on HIST
Timothy Vail, an inmate at Elmira (N.Y.) State Prison, hatched a scheme to escape from the facility by going across the roof and down the side of the building where he was incarcerated. That plan meant he had to get transferred to a top-floor cell, so he could dig up through the ceiling. He found a willing accomplice in fellow inmate Timothy Morgan, whose cell was on that floor, and the two men began stealthily sneaking tools into their cramped living space to start excavating their escape route. Morgan Freeman hosts the new episode “Fleeing Hellmira.”

Get ready for a 'Return to Hogwarts': 'Harry Potter' stars reunite

Q: I've heard about a new "Harry Potter" special that will gather many of the actors from the films, giving their memories of making the pictures. When will that be on? – Joy Donnelly, via email

A: Reasonably soon ... on New Year's Day, and then continuing to stream afterward. HBO Max has the premiere of "Harry Potter 20th Anniversary: Return to Hogwarts" slated as a holiday gift of sorts to launch 2022, with Daniel Radcliffe, Rupert Grint and Emma Watson participating along with a parade of other actors who appeared in the eight-film franchise. Ralph Fiennes, Helena Bonham Carter, Robbie Coltrane, Gary Oldman, Imelda Staunton, Jason Isaacs and Tom Felton are among them. The special also is slated to be shown on TBS and Cartoon Network – where the Helen Mirren-hosted competition "Harry Potter: Hogwarts Tournament of Houses" recently began running – in the spring.

"Harry Potter 20th Anniversary: Return to Hogwarts"

Adrienne Rose Bengtsson

Q: Who is the actress who's playing Maggie's sister on "FBI"? – Chris Banker, Providence, R.I.

A: Her name is Adrienne Rose Bengtsson, and her addiction-troubled character Erin Bell has been making life challenging for her FBI-agent sibling (Missy Peregrin) on the CBS drama, to the degree that the latter recommended their staying away from each other for at least a while. While she has done some short-subject work, Bengtsson can count "FBI" as her first truly major acting credit.
