Celebrating 200 Years

Happy Birthday, Newton County!

Fireworks end bicentennial year with a bang

By TOM SPIGOLON

COVINGTON, Ga. — Chairman Marcello Banes refused to let a little rain dampen his enthusiasm for the culminating event of Newton County's Bicentennial year Saturday night.

"It's a big day for Newton County to celebrate the Bicentennial," he said.

"You don't get to do that but one time and we're excited about it. Like I said, '200 years behind us and one Newton ahead of us,' so that's what we're looking for.

"We hope the citizens of this great county love the county they call home," Banes said.

Saturday's event, called the Bicentennial Birthday Bash, included a 15-minute fireworks show, classic rock and soul music from the Kollaboration band, and volunteers handing out free cupcakes, T-shirts, cups and more on the Covington Square.

It followed a year of county-sponsored events around the theme of Newton County's 200th anniversary — or bicentennial — of its founding in December 1821.

Newton resident producing TV series on state's dark history

COVINGTON, Ga. — Bob Mackey wants to make sure the world knows or does not forget a dark part of Georgia history now mostly covered by the waters of Lake Lanier.

Mackey is using the facts surrounding the destruction of the Forsyth County town of Oscarville as the basis for a TV series he helped create titled, "Oscarville: Below the Surface."

The Newton County resident said he has had interest from some streaming services — which he did not name — for the series which uses a 1912 racial incident in Forsyth County and the numerous drownings in recent years in Lake Lanier as starting points for the series' fictional storyline.

He said he plans to place the first two episodes on YouTube in February and make some announcements about its availability elsewhere at that time.

Mackey, who is executive producer, admits it is being done on a comparatively small budget. He said the show has been filming in such areas as Porterdale since January, around the schedules of its stars.

It will have elements of horror but also seeks to bring the tragedy of Oscarville to light, Mackey said.

"It has a lot of supernatural elements," Mackey said. "It's not gruesome horror."

He said he wanted the series to give viewers a glimpse into one of the dark parts of segregation-era Georgia — a white mob's destruction of a once-prosperous majority Black town in 1912 — as well as weaving in a growing urban legend about the lake's allegedly deadly nature.

"Oscarville is history," Mackey said. "We can't hide it."

Mackey said he was able to create the series because of six "angel investors from across Georgia who were inspired by the story of Oscarville and my vision of bringing the story to life."

AAA officials say county, statewide gas prices may continue fall before holidays

Average gas prices have dropped 13 cents per gallon in the past month as Newton County motorists join other Georgians in traveling during the final week before Christmas.

But it remains to be seen how the surge in the COVID-19 omicron variant will affect pump prices locally and nationwide, a regular gas price observer says.

Metro Creative

As traffic is expected to increase over the next few days for holiday travel, prices at the pump could continue to decrease, per AAA officials.

Montrae Waiters, spokeswoman for AAA-The Auto Club

Group, said, "Pump prices continue their descent, despite a slight rebound in oil prices due to waning fears of a global slowdown caused by the COVID-19 omicron variant.

"But its impact on pricing appears to be fading, so it remains to be seen if oil prices stabilize or move higher before Christmas," Waiters said.

The average cost of a gallon of unleaded regular gas in Newton County was $3.11 Tuesday, Dec. 21, compared to $3.24 on Nov. 22, according to

Board waits on making roadside cleanup workers county employees

Approves application for funding to realign Crowell Road’s I-20 interchange

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County commissioners chose not to follow one recommended method for recruiting workers to clean up roadside trash despite having trouble hiring them amid the nationwide labor shortage.

The Board of Commissioners recently voted on a bipartisan basis against conversion of 10 positions now filled by temporary workers into the same number of new full-time positions as a way to recruit employees to clean up the sides of trash-filled roads in unincorporated Newton County.

The Newton County Board of Commissioners recently voted not to convert positions for temporary roadside cleanup workers into full-time county employee positions as a way to recruit people to the job.

County Manager Lloyd Kerr said the county is only seeing about three workers show up to work in the 10 contract positions it budgeted for the job.

“Initially we were able to staff the necessary crews but as time has progressed, it has become increasingly difficult to obtain the temporary workers to keep our roads clean,” Kerr wrote to commissioners.

He said during the Tuesday, Dec. 7, meeting some employment agencies also are requiring workers to be vaccinated against COVID-19, which has increased the difficulty of finding available workers, he said.

Kerr requested creating the full-time positions as a way to recruit workers.

He also requested using remaining funds in the Contract Labor part of the Public Works budget and moving it to parts of the budget for personnel to give the new workers benefits given to other full-time workers.

He said the program is costing about $510,000 annually and about $255,000 would be needed to fund the new positions though the end of the fiscal year.

However, District 5 Commissioner Ronnie

Cowan, a Republican, said he was reluctant to support the change in part because health insurance costs may rise and make the positions more costly to fund.

“I’m all for continuing as is and looking at this in July,” Cowan said. “I think it’s the wrong time for this matter.”

District 4 Commissioner J.C. Henderson said he believed the Board should wait to consider approving the change until a new interim county manager is hired to replace Kerr, whose employment contract was not renewed after it ends Jan. 1.

Henderson has criticized the program as subsidizing a service for which the taxpayers already were paying.

He said the same money could be used to help make the county’s convenience centers free of cost.

Use of convenience centers now costs residents $165 annually, which Henderson said encourages illegal roadside dumping.

“We’re acting on stuff that shouldn’t be acted on,” Henderson said.

The county Solid Waste Management Authority began charging for the centers’ use after the county government shifted oversight of the landfill and convenience centers to the Authority in recent years to control spiraling costs.

The Board voted 3-2 against Kerr’s request, with Cowan joining Democrats Henderson and Alana Sanders in voting against it.

In other action Dec. 7, the Board unanimously approved Public Works director Chester Clegg’s request to apply for a $5.5 million grant of federal funds from the Atlanta Regional Commission for a realignment of a congested area in which two separate intersections and their traffic signals operate almost side by side.

The intersection of Access Road/Iris Drive and Crowell Road/Almon Road is adjacent to where on- and off-ramps for I-20 connect with Crowell/Almon Roads.

Its configuration and signalization creates traffic congestion, Clegg said.

The plan includes realignment of the convergence of Access/Iris, Crowell/Almon and I-20 by separating traffic signals and other changes to increase traffic flow.

Commissioners approved the use of $1.1 million in 2017 SPLOST funds to provide the required 20% match to be eligible for the grant — which will come from federal funds administered by the ARC.

In a separate traffic-related action, commissioners approved spending $48,000 for emergency repairs to the County Hwy. 213 bridge over the Alcovy River after it was struck by a vehicle in October.

The Board voted unanimously to accept Peach State Construction Co.’s bid totaling $48,097.

Clegg said the vehicle was traveling east on Hwy. 213 and did heavy damage to a concrete parapet wall on the bridge Oct. 10.

He said the vehicle driver’s insurance will reimburse the county for about $25,000 of the cost and the remainder would need to be appropriated from the budget.

Also at the final scheduled 2021 meeting Dec. 7, commissioners:

- Approved Clegg’s request to submit the county government’s resurfacing project list to GDOT for 2022 Local Maintenance Improvement Grant (LMIG) funding of almost $1.38 million. The county must provide a 30% match, or $413,000, to bring the total to almost $1.8 million.

The grant will help resurface 38 locations in unincorporated Newton County.

- Approved a $50,000 contract with Lani-

MILLINGTON, Tenn. — A Covington native is serving aboard USS Pearl Harbor, a Navy dock landing ship, currently deployed in support of naval operations to ensure maritime stability and security in the Mediterranean and western Indian Ocean. Chief Petty Officer Billy Fuson is a Navy hospital corpsman responsible for performing duties as an assistant in the prevention and treatment of disease and injury and assist health care professionals in providing medical care to Navy personnel and their families. “I enjoy knowing that at the end of the day, I have made an impact on someone’s life,” said Fuson. Fuson joined the military to continue the family tradition. “My grandfather, father and mother all previously served in the Army, and I joined the Navy to sail the seas and visit far away shores,” said Fuson. According to Fuson, the values required to succeed in the military are similar to those found in Covington. “My grandfather always taught me that hard work and dedication pays off,” said Fuson. “No matter what, I try and give 100% to every task I partake in.” Homeported in San Diego, California, USS Pearl Harbor is a Harpers Ferry-class dock landing ship (LSD) named after the attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. According to Navy officials, LSDs support amphibious operations including landings via Landing Craft Air Cushion (LCAC), conventional landing craft and helicopters, onto hostile shores by transporting and launching amphibious craft and vehicles with their crews and embarked personnel in amphibious assault operations. Serving in the Navy means Fuson is part of a team that is taking on new importance in America’s focus on rebuilding military readiness, strengthening alliances and reforming business practices in support of the National Defense Strategy. “The Navy contributes to national defense by keeping the sea lanes open allowing free flow of commerce,” said Fuson. Though there are many opportunities for sailors to earn recognition in their command, community and careers, Fuson is most proud of being promoted in rank to chief petty officer. As a member of the Navy, Fuson, as well as other sailors, know they are a part of a service tradition providing unforgettable experiences through leadership development, world affairs and humanitarian assistance. Their efforts will have a lasting effect around the globe and for generations of sailors who will follow. “The Navy has given me the opportunity to give back to people in need; from providing medical care to Iraq and Afghani nations while providing the opportunity to meet and learn about new cultures,” added Fuson.

GPTC welding team builds custom grill, trailer for use in future events

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

COVINGTON, Ga. — A custom-made grill and trailer — designed and built by students — took center stage at a cook-out at Georgia Piedmont Technical College’s Newton campus recently. Faculty and staff fired up the new grill on Dec. 6 at the Building D/Conference Center in Covington. Besides being built entirely by GPTC students and faculty, the materials needed were donated by a Newton-based small business owner. The project started with an idea and then a conversation. “This project came about by my desire to teach students more than just welding,” instructor Weygand Grant said. “I wanted to give them the chance to build something that would be used for years and years and to take ownership of it.” Grant approached local businessman Robert

Two of the four students on the project are dually-enrolled at the Newton College and Career Academy (NCCA). The project supervisor was high school junior Tanner Putnam. “Putting it down on paper and then putting it together in real life was just really incredible,” Putnam said. “To see scraps of metal turn into something like this was amazing.” The grill features temperature gauges, a smoker, custom signage, a steel prep area, and a storage bin for wood. Kerr's departure will leave hole

It was pretty clear Monday afternoon that there will be a hole to fill in the hearts of some top county employees with the loss of County Manager Lloyd Kerr.

Tears were shed and blessings given during various county department heads' remembrances of working with Kerr during his six years in the position. "You handprint is on Newton County. That will never go away," said longtime County Clerk Jackie Smith. The self-deprecating Kerr is leaving the job leading the day-to-day operations of the county government on Jan. 1.

County commissioners in November voted 3-2 not to renew his contract after disagreements over his managerial style and actions to delay distribution of federal COVID relief funds.

One by one, top county staff members and department heads recounted how their first impression of Kerr as gruff and cold gave way to the impression he was a joker at heart and worked to favor the county's employees as much as possible.

An event honored him Monday in the county commission meeting room in the Historic Courthouse.

Kerr told the crowd he had tried to keep his family as a priority for his attention in the high-level job, but also tried to assist county employees by trying to raise their pay during his time in the job.

He also hinted that he hoped to land in a new job that will work with the county government "so I can keep working with y'all."

Newton County Democrats have placed the reins of the county party in the hands of a man who has been a firebrand for his views in the past.

Gene Wills was elected chairman of the formal organization that represents the dominant political party in Newton County.

The local party's main responsibility is qualifying Democratic candidates to be on the ballot for county offices. Newton County Board of Commissioners and Board of Education seats are up for election in 2022.

Also on Dec. 16, the local party elected Board of Elections member Kelly Robinson as first vice chair and Roy Parham as second vice chair.

Wills has advocated for mask-wearing by election officials and against the Confederate statue in the Covington Square in recent years.

Christmas traditions stay close to heart

The following is my annual Christmas column, first written several years ago. It remains a favorite of mine and has probably received as much positive feedback from readers as anything I have written. I like to share it with readers each year with a few updates. I trust this Christmas will be filled with blessings for you and yours and that 2022 will be the best yet for each of you.

Many people like cold weather on Christmas or even snow. I'm the opposite. In fact, Christmas in South Florida or Hawaii or the Bahamas would be perfect for me.

I do have friends and family members who live across our great country in such states as North Dakota, Maine and New Hampshire. Their dreams of a white Christmas, or at least a frozen one, are practically guaranteed each year. That's not for me. At least here in Georgia we have a chance of nice weather.

Ready or not, Christmas is here.

The mad rush to buy presents, decorate the house, cook tons of food and mail Christmas cards (how many people still mail them?) has been at a fever pitch in recent weeks. The "Big Day" is now here.

I still have vivid childhood memories of Christmas day while growing up in the central Georgia town of Monticello. It seemed Christmas Eve was always the toughest night to go to sleep.

No matter how many times I tossed and turned, flipped the pillow over or tried to force myself into dreamland, it was no use. (I suppose I should have tried reading a book as I recall back then that was a sure-fire way to make me go to dreamland.)

Eventually, Christmas morning would arrive, and I was always blessed with new items that would be the center of my attention — for a little while anyway.

Another part of Christmas morning I always enjoyed was the visit to my grandparents' house located just down the road from where I grew up. The ritual Christmas morning visit to Pop and Nanny's house is something I still remember, cherish and miss to this day. The table would be full of all the right Southern breakfast items from scrambled eggs to biscuits to bacon. It simply couldn't be beat.

Looking back now, however, I realize what I actually enjoyed more than the food was the family togetherness we shared. My grandparents, parents, brother, cousins and other family members were always there, along with additional guests each year. I miss those times in my life.

In the future, let's hope we can all make more time for our family and not just during the holiday season.

In today's hectic, fast-paced society we can often forget those who are most important — our family. Unfortunately, family members take a back seat when we have to try and deal with our work-driven lifestyles.

As far as the weather goes, I still feel fortunate to live in a part of the country where we have at least a 50% chance of a good day on Dec. 25. While we've had to deal with some crummy weather of late, you can never completely rule out a day of sunny weather with a high in the 60s on Christmas. Nothing can beat Christmas in the South.

While I love our neighbors to the North, I would not want to be there when this time on the calendar arrives.

When the Christmas rush is finally over, we get to enjoy another holiday a few days later on New Year's, a day which has become known (to me at least) for wall-to-wall college football bowl games if nothing else. It's a time when I try to squeeze in as many games as possible before the long, long winter drought without gridiron action to watch begins.

The long-winter drought for football junkies can be downright depressing (take it from me, someone who knows personally).

Football aside, the year 2022 brings a sense of hope for better times and better events ahead. I personally hope the next calendar year will be a positive 12 months for everyone and nothing like the current one we are completing.

That's what is so great about beginning a new year. The old one, no matter how tough or trying, can be put behind us. When we flip the page on the calendar from December to January, high hopes for a prosperous new year can be felt.

I offer a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to each one of you. I thank you for taking the time to read the words in this space from time to time. Let's all gather again here next year. I wish each of you good health and the blessing that is family.

Snappy answers to stupid questions

When I was a wee lad, my older sisters shared the gift of reading with me, and this was during the heyday of magazines.

My parents subscribed to Newsweek, and Readers Digest was always in the barbershop. It was a treat to see the world through the lens of the Life magazine photographers, and my first personally paid subscriptions were to TV Guide and the Sporting News.

But the magazine that may have shaped me the most (and some would say did the most damage) was MAD. The satirical monthly made fun of political leaders, parodied the top TV shows and movies, and always featured the gap-toothed grin of Alfred E. Neuman ("What, Me Worry?") on the cover. It certainly influenced my sense of humor, and my family has had to tolerate that ever since.

One of my favorite MAD features was a series called, "Snappy Answers to Stupid Questions." Basically, the writers said in print what most of us wanted to say out loud.

For example, one cartoon panel showed a woman looking up at a drip from the ceiling, asking a plumber, "Is that from a leaking pipe?" The plumber, with a deadpan expression, replied, "No, it's from somebody watering their lawn upstairs."

Another showed a woman stopped by a traffic cop. "Was I speeding?" she asked. "No," he replied. "You're sitting still. It's the scenery that's been whizzing by at 90 miles an hour."

You may not be laughing now, but when I was 12, I was rolling on the floor.

Of course, people are still asking stupid questions today. If not stupid, many of their questions are inappropriate, or even downright rude.

My wife, the dear angel, leads her women's church group in a ministry to help provide snacks for students at an elementary school. Every week, she visits the store, and fills a shopping cart with juice boxes, chips, crackers, and fruit.

She has learned by now, it is impossible to make it to the checkout counter without bystanders offering their unsolicited commentary and questions. She accepts the banal banter with a smile, but I know what she's thinking deep down inside. I shall offer her muffled replies in parentheses.

"Well, SOMEONE's throwing a big party tonight!" ("Why, yes we are! It's at the county jail. I'm surprised you're not on the guest list!")

"Do you think you have enough chips in that buggy?" ("You know, I haven't really given that a lot of thought. Could you help me load it in my van, and then meet me at the school to unload? Only then will we have the definitive answer.")

"Let me guess: you have more grandchildren than you can handle!" ("Aw, you guessed wrong.

These are for my children. My husband and I started late. We now have 17, and another one is on the way! They're all out in the car, come see!")

Oh, the things we'd like to say, but in polite society, we just can't. Wait, what did I just say? Polite society is long gone. These days, anything goes, right? Manners are so... 20th century. So the next time I'm on the receiving end of a stupid question, I'll be ready with my snappy comeback. For instance:

When the tech repair guy on the phone asks me,

On Saturday, the six cities in Newton County either sent mayors, mayors pro-tem or city managers who presented history-related items that will be placed in a “time capsule” container and buried in the new Bicentennial Park adjacent to the Newton County Administration Building for future generations to open.

They included:

- Covington Mayor Steve Horton, who contributed a composite photo of all the city’s employees.

- Mansfield Mayor G.W. Davis Jr., who brought a list of county employees and map of Mansfield’s new city center area.

- Newborn Mayor Gregg Ellwanger,

- Oxford Mayor David Eady who contributed acorns from the historic Yarbrough Oak.

The white oak tree had famously been “deeded to itself” in 1929 and the city tended it for 73 years. Arborists estimated it was 180 years old before the city was forced to remove it in 2002.

- Porterdale City Manager Etheridge who brought a twine spool from the historic Osprey Mill. The mill was built in 1916 and was part of the Bibb Manufacturing Co. complex that employed thousands who lived in Porterdale in the mid-20th century.

- Social Circle Mayor ProTem Traysa Price who brought a replica of a ceremonial key to the city that will be placed in a time capsule.

- Sheila Thomas of the Newton County School System who brought a T-shirt with a student-designed image celebrating the county’s 200th birthday.

In addition, Banes and County Manager Lloyd Kerr presented Bicentennial Awards to individuals and organizations chosen by the public.

They included the Non-Profit Award to We Ride to Provide, represented by Holly Cripps; the #OneNewton Award shared by Dr. Laklieshia Izzard and Jackie Smith; the Hometown Business Award to longtime Covington Square retailer Fletcher’s Jewelry Inc.; the Chairman’s Award to the Rev. Motorists were parked along area roadways to watch the fireworks show, though a steady rain likely kept attendance down for the in-person show and awards ceremonies, Banes said

However, some braved the elements to listen to the music, visit and take photos with Santa Claus, or walk around the Square to partake of the various giveaways before the 7 p.m. fireworks show.

Nancy Reckamp of Oxford reclined under a vinyl cover across from Mystic Grill restaurant and listened to music. She said she and husband Paul, who wore a T-shirt with the Bicentennial logo, had come to see the fireworks.

Eric and Traci Miller and Guinn Dillard sat on a bench in the park in the middle of the Square. They were visiting from Gadsden, Alabama, but knew about the yearlong Bicentennial celebration.

“We come over here a lot,” said Eric Miller. “There’s so much to do here.”

Dillard said she was impressed with Saturday’s event.

“I love the town so much,” she said. “It’s so beautiful.”

Morgan Alloy of Sarasota, Florida, said she and her friend were visiting Covington to take the tour of “Vampire Diaries” TV show locations.

The popular show was filmed in the city and she had come to the Square to see the clock tower. They also happened upon the celebration.

“We’re absolutely in love with this town. It’s beautiful,” Alloy said.

Banes noted he and Industrial Development Authority executive director Serra Hall and Newton County Chamber of Commerce president Debbie Harper had attended Gov. Brian Kemp’s Atlanta announcement of Rivan’s planned $5 billion electric vehicle manufacturing plant near Social Circle Thursday.

He said more projects are set to be announced in the coming year.

“We’re looking for great things in this community. It’s a great time to be celebrating. You celebrate Rivan, then you celebrate the Bicentennial,” Banes said.

in-kind support,” he said.

Stevie Baggs, who also is in the Tyler Perry series “Ruthless” on BET+ and the Netflix series “Cobra Kai,” portrays main character “Coop” Cooper.

Kenisha Johnson, who appeared in the 2020 movie “Inheritance” and the TV series “Murder Decoded,” portrays Coop’s estranged wife.

Two Newton County residents, Misty Ellington and Bill Watts, also are in the cast.

Ellington portrays Agent Howard, a police detective “who continues to make rookie mistakes.” Watts plays Sheriff Ted Wilcott, according to online descriptions of the cast.

“A veteran law enforcement officer during the demise of Oscarville and the now sheriff, (Sheriff Wilcott) seeks to keep peace in the town.

“As deaths rise on Lake Lanier, Sheriff Wilcott comes under fire for keeping the death count low and for concealing evidence that led to the riots of Oscarville. His career is threatened and no one is safe.”

Its fact-based script incorporates the numerous drowning deaths in the heavily-used lake — six have been recorded this year alone — as well as legends like the “Lady of the Lake” and ghosts upset about Lanier’s waters covering gravesites.

The “Lady” legend is based in fact after two women were killed and their bodies not found for years after the vehicle in which they were traveling skidded off the side of a bridge and into Lanier’s waters in 1958. The vehicle was not found until 1990.

Meanwhile, the real-life town of Oscarville formerly existed on the banks of the Chattahoochee River in Forsyth County before Lake Lanier was created in the mid-1950s.

Mackey said he used first-person accounts of what happened in the Oscarville area, in addition to historical facts, for the non-fiction part of the script.

The 1912 series of incidents happened at a time when racial tensions were high in northeast Georgia following some shootings between Black and white area residents.

At the time, white residents were often able to take advantage of Black residents who were not treated equally to whites in the judicial system and some white political figures who used the tensions to gain support.

The incident was chronicled in the 2016 book, “Blood At The Root,” by Gainesville native and Stanford University English professor Patrick Phillips.

The book uses newspaper and eyewitness accounts to report on an alleged rape of two white women and fatal beating of one in 1912 near the town on the banks of the Chattahoochee River.

The incidents led white mobs to use arson and shootings to force 1,100 Black residents to flee their homes in the Forsyth County town over a two-month period in 1912. Afterward, most residents left and Black property deeds found their way into the hands of white neighbors without any bill of sale or transfer, according to a report on NewsOne.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers created Lake Lanier in 1956 as a source of electric power and drinking water for the then-rapidly-growing Atlanta region by building a dam at a point on the Chattahoochee River between Cumming and Buford. It created a reservoir covering 59 square miles of land, including cemeteries, a motor sports track and most of the land in the former town of Oscarville.

Forsyth County remained all-white for decades and prompted civil rights leader Hosea Williams to lead a 1987 march on the observance of the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday that included about 75 people. Some onlookers pelted the marchers with rocks and bottles.

Williams later led a march with 25,000 people that was protected by more than 2,000 National Guardsmen and police. Among Williams’ demands to Forsyth County was return of some Oscarville land taken from Black landowners in 1912.

Oprah Winfrey then hosted her nationally televised talk show the following month in Forsyth County.

“It has so many points of history,” Mackey said.

AAA.

Newton County’s average cost today was 1 cent below Georgia’s statewide average of $3.12 and 6 cents below the Metro Atlanta average of $3.17.

It also was lower than neighboring counties Butts ($3.11), Rockdale ($3.14), Jasper ($3.15) and Morgan ($3.16), according to AAA-The Auto Club Group. It was higher than Henry ($3.08) and Walton ($3.10).

Georgia’s average cost was 2 cents less than a week ago and 12 cents less than last month. However, it was $1.08 more than this time in 2020.

It now costs motorists $46.80 to fill a 15-gallon tank of gasoline; that is $9.90 more than what motorists paid in January of 2020 when pump prices hit their peak of $2.46 per gallon.

Before the omicron variant became the dominant variant of COVID-19, AAA had predicted a strong rebound in Georgia travelers compared to the 2020 year-end holiday period.

More than 3.4 million Georgians were forecast to travel between Dec. 23 and Jan. 2. The number is 3.8% fewer travelers than the record high set in 2019 but is still 34% more than last year’s 857,949, a news release stated.

In addition, 172,566 were expected to travel by air and 119,572 are predicted to go by other means, such as bus, train or on a cruise ship.

Nationally, more than 109 million people — an almost 34% increase from 2020 — were expected to travel 50 miles or more as they hit the road, board airplanes or take other transportation out of town between Dec. 23 and Jan. 2.

If that dramatic bounce-back occurs — 27.7 million more travelers than the 2020 holiday period — it would bring this year’s numbers in line with 2017 figures, and just 8% shy of 2019 — which was the highest on record.

Auto travel remains the preferred mode of transportation for 91% of holiday travelers. With nearly 666,171 more Georgians on the road compared to last year, AAA officials believe drivers in major metro areas could see more than double the delays versus typical drive times.

According to AAA, the daily worst and best times to travel this holiday season will be:

- Dec. 23 Worst travel time:

noon to 6 p.m.

Best travel time: after 7 p.m.

- Dec. 24

Worst travel time: 2 to 6 p.m.

Newton's Martin to join Georgia Premier Academy

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — News was circulating on Twitter Thursday afternoon when Jevarra Martin Jr., announced he was foregoing his senior baseball season at Newton High School.

Martin, who just concluded his senior football season as a Ram, is joining the Georgia Premier Academy (GPA) for baseball for the next two seasons.

Though the move seems sudden, Martin stressed, via his Dec. 16 tweet, how he and his family carefully considered this option. In addition to his consideration, Martin also expressed how grateful he is for his four years at Newton High School.

"I am proud of [the] growth I've had during my time at Newton High School," Martin's tweet read. "And I'm thankful for all the support during my four-year career as a Ram."

GPA offers a wide variety of services for up and coming baseball players looking for the next level.

Programs such as academy, offseason training, private lessons with qualified instructors, travel teams as well as individual and team memberships are made available.

The academy has been around since 2017 striving to help aspiring professional players for the next steps in their career.

"The goal of Georgia Premier is not only to train young men in the game of baseball but also in the game of life," GPA's website states. "Our instructors are dedicated to coaching young men to become better baseball players, but more importantly they are driven to teach young men to grow into responsible and contributing members of their communities."

More on Martin's commitment to GPA will be available in the coming weeks. Follow The Covington News as this story develops.

son Dukes (Alcovy)

Jason Dukes has been at the helm of the Alcovy football program for three complete seasons. Prior to his arrival in 2019, the Tigers were in a six-year drought for a playoff appearance, never advanced past the first round and never captured a region championship.

That changed for Alcovy this season.

On Nov. 6, the Tigers claimed the Region 3-AAAAAA championship after defeating Evans High School. They finished 5-0 in region play, too, and played Carrollton in the second round of the Class 6A playoffs.

Alcovy also has gone to the playoffs in back-to-back seasons for the first time since the 2012-2013 seasons.

All of this has been accomplished on Dukes' watch. That's why Region 3-AAAAAA coaches also voted Dukes as their Coach of the Year.

Here are the all-offensive and all-defensive selections along with honorable mentions:

Eagles suffer first region loss to Greenbrier

Eastside next to compete in Jones County Christmas Tournament

COVINGTON, Ga. — The Eastside boys basketball team lost in heartbreaking fashion on Friday, Dec. 17, against Greenbrier. Though the Eagles had numerous chances to win, they ended up on the losing end 47-45.

Eastside trailed from the very beginning and trailed by as many as nine points. However, that didn't take the fight out the Eagles.

With 2:04 remaining in the contest, the Eagles finally found themselves tied 42-42 after being within three points for the previous five to six minutes.

At that point, Greenbrier began playing the ball control game.

From the 2:04 mark to 28.3 seconds remaining, the Wolfpack maintained possession trying to set up a last second shot.

Then, all of a sudden, the Wolfpack's guard drove past Brentarious Reed and converted a layup which led to an and-1 after the foul.

The ensuing free throw attempt was successful making the score 45-42.

Following two missed three-pointers by Kassen Saunders and Timothy Prather, Greenbrier extended its lead 47-42 and seemed to give itself more breathing room down the stretch.

But the Eagles' full-court press forced two turnovers in the closing seconds, one of which led to a Reed three-pointer.

The second turnover was committed at the other end of the court forcing the Eagles in a full-court heave with just 1.5 seconds remaining.

The last-second attempt fell short and the buzzer sounded.

Despite their efforts, the Eagles came out on the losing end in a region matchup for the first time this season.

Even so, they had their chances to remain unbeaten.

Region's best make up 2021 All-Covington News football team

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — From Jay Cawthon's first season as head coach of Eastside to Alcovy claiming its first ever region championship, there were a lot of firsts in the Covington area.

Therefore, the 2021 football season was filled with a lot of monumental moments for all four programs.

So, The Covington News compiled a list of players that makes up the 2021 All-Covington News football team.

Leading this list are four awards given to individuals whose play stood out from the rest.

MVP: Dallas Johnson (Eastside)

Death, taxes and Dallas Johnson rushing for over 100 yards in a single game. All three have turned out to be sure things, especially in 2021.

Johnson, who set Eastside football's single season rushing record, had 100-plus yards on the ground in nine of the team's 12 games this past season.

As a result, the senior running back accumulated 3,696 total yards and scored a total of 34 touchdowns for his career.

Region 8-A-A-A-A-A coaches voted him as Region Player of the Year for his stellar play, too.

Offensive Player of the Year: Logan Cross (Social Circle)

This won't be the first time this season Logan Cross is recognized as offensive player of the year. Region 8A-Public coaches voted him for the same honor a few weeks back.

And deservedly so.

Completing 61% of his passes. Cross threw for 2,213 yards and had 24 touchdown passes compared to only six interceptions.

Cross' completion percentage, total yards and touchdown throws are the highest of any quarterback in the area.

Defensive Player of the Year: Nolan McCamy (Newton)

The Newton Rams hung their hats on defense for the majority of 2021. It was a complete defensive unit to keep the Rams in striking distance during most of their games.

Though it was an entire unit, Newton's defense was led by one man: Nolan McCamy.

McCamy led the team in tackles with 65 total and tallied two sacks while also collecting one interception to boot.

His contributions from his linebacker position earned him a spot on the Region 4-A-A-A-A-A-A First Team All-Region team, too.

Corey Sevier and Brooke Nevin star in "It Takes a Christmas Village" Wednesday on Lifetime.

New programs and old favorites highlight the week in yuletide TV

By now, you've been watching holiday programming seemingly since Labor Day and likely seen enough to last a lifetime. Heck, even "Rudolph" had a pre-Thanksgiving showing this year.

But now you're in the home stretch. In the run-up to Christmas this Saturday, there are still a plethora of worthy yuletide offerings to be had. So if more is what you seek, here are a few of the highlights.

Of course, any mention of holiday programming has to start with the annual "A Christmas Story" marathon. Running Christmas Eve and Christmas Day on TBS and TNT, it's the time-honored 1983 comedic story of little Ralphie (Peter Billingsley) and his quest for a Red Ryder BB gun during a mishap-filled holiday season in 1940s Cleveland.

Lifetime has been one of the leaders of the Christmas movie parade this yuletide season and on Wednesday, Dec. 22, it comes forth with the premiere of "It Takes a Christmas Village," the tale of the sparks that fly when a smalltown mayor (Brooke Nevin) tries to convince a recluse (Corey Sevier, who also directs) to let the town use his family's mill for a Christmas market.

If holiday music is your thing, PBS may have what you seek with the annual "Christmas at Belmont" special on Monday, Dec. 20 (check local listings). Broadcast from Tennessee's Belmont University, it features recording artist, host and school alumnus Josh Turner leading a concert with music students and members of the Belmont School of Music performing holiday favorites.

For sheer star power, you can't beat the "iHeartRadio Jingle Ball 2021," which has a rebroadcast Christmas night on The CW. The 90-minute musical event features performances by some of today's hottest stars, including Ed Sheeran, BTS, the Jonas Brothers, Lil Nas X and Saweetie. A blend of genres and a swingin' Christmas indeed.

Those seeking more traditional fare are also in luck. There are multiple airings of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" and "Frosty the Snowman" at different points in the week starting Sunday, Dec. 19, on Freeform, while PBS presents another animated classic, "A Charlie Brown Christmas," on Sunday and NBC airs "Dr. Seuss' The Grinch" on Wednesday.

For more adult fare, turn to ABC for "The Sound of Music," the 1965 Academy Award winner starring Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer, on Sunday. On Christmas Eve, "It's a Wonderful Life" on NBC once again, with James Stewart and Donna Reed in the 1946 Oscar-nominated drama.

And don't forget "A Christmas Carol," which airs in two versions this week: the 1938 movie with Reginald Owen as Ebenezer Scrooge on Turner Classic Movies on Tuesday and Friday; and the classic 1951 film starring Alistair Sim on FXM on Friday and Saturday.

Disney works get immortalized in food in Disney+'s 'Foodtastic'

Anyone who craves to see scenes from Disney productions depicted in food will find a competition series to their liking on Disney+.

In "Foodtastic," which premieres Wednesday, Dec. 15, teams of food artists create detailed and extravagant pieces of art depicting scenes from Disney intellectual properties, be it "Ant Man," "Star Wars," "The Avengers" or "Pirates of the Caribbean," from vegetables, fruit, nuts, melted chocolate and other foodstuffs. But unlike cake decorating shows where the final products can be consumed, these sculptures are not edible — that is, unless you like substances like glycerin mixed in with your chocolate.

The winner is determined by judges and food art experts Amirah Kassem and Benny Rivera. Emmy-winning actress Keke Palmer serves as host and the audience's guide to the action, when she's not acting in segments introducing the storylines.

"I'm literally just being my normal curious self and asking, 'What's going on? What are you using? What are you doing there?' And learning quite a lot, I might add," says Palmer, who is also an executive producer here. "But also being blown away by how these people transformed the elements of food into these unbelievable, museum-like art pieces. I just didn't know anything like that existed so I was genuinely surprised and inquisitive about how they were going to go about it — without trying to bug them too much, of course."

The backgrounds of the contestants here are varied, ranging from food professionals to architects, animators and construction workers. And the set of the show changes with the storyline, so the "Ant-Man" episode takes place in a forest and the "Pirates of the Caribbean" set will be at sea.

The one constant in this setting is the virtual sun. The contestants have from sun up until sundown to complete their pieces. In real time, that's about a day and a half, a far cry from the weeks a typical food art show allows. As the sun reaches the horizon, Palmer issues the final warning and the pressure ramps up. The reactions are all over the map.

"Some (contestants) were like, 'I'm used to the pressure, no big deal ...,' " Palmer notes. "Some became very funny and entertaining under the pressure. Other people were really having anxiety problems, stomach aches, being just stressed out. You know, it was a lot of different emotions going on. And that's my job when I put on my hosting hat, to really hopefully make them feel comfortable."

"The main thing that's important to use is everybody's safety and feeling good under this pressure. Because the reality is they usually are allotted a lot more time. ... So this was a lot of pressure for them to be under and they all excelled."

Anna Marie Dobbins OF 'CHRISTMAS TOGETHER' ON UPTV

In "Christmas Together," you play a woman who tries to get over a newly ended relationship by spending the holidays in a town that is entirely yuletide-oriented. Where did you make the movie?

We actually filmed it in L.A., when it was 90 degrees! Everything from the New York skyline to the tinsel on the trees was done there, so it was pretty cool that it involved so much movie magic.

"Christmas Together" isn't the only holiday movie you've made — there's also been "Christmas Matchmakers" — so is it safe to assume you enjoy working in the genre?

Oh, absolutely. Who doesn't love the fairy-tale quality and the magic of Christmas? I grew up watching the Hallmark and Lifetime Christmas movies, so it's nice to be able to be a part of those kinds of films now.

Though "Christmas Together" is an UPTV premiere this year, it was shown by ION Television last holiday season. With so many cable channels in the holiday-movie game now, are you glad to have your product making the rounds that way?

Absolutely, which is a blessing for us actors. So, yeah ... bring it on!

Also including Lifetime thrillers, you've made a career out of doing cable movies. Do you intend to continue in that vein?

I'm very thankful, and I've been very blessed so far. I wrapped another one in Dallas recently, then I started another one in Oklahoma, so I'm very fortunate and I hope they keep coming. I've been very fortunate to be able to travel during this crazy time, but it's all being done very safely.

tonight's PICKS

Joni Mitchell

The Price Is Right at Night

8 p.m. on WGCL

Drew Carey hosts a special primetime edition of his long-running daytime game show, this time with a holly-jolly yuletide theme. Otherwise, the show retains its familiar format, as families “come on down” to this iconic game show stage to play for festive prizes. Additionally, the episode puts an important spotlight on the issue of pet adoption, showcasing adorable animals who are looking for a “fur-ever” home during this holiday season.

The Masked Singer

8 p.m. on WAGA

The mood on this wacky music competition series is even more festive than usual in this two-hour special holiday episode, which highlights several never-before-seen seasonal performances from fan-favorite contestants. Hosted by Nick Cannon — with judges Ken Jeong, Jenny McCarthy, Nicole Scherzinger and Robin Thicke along for the (sleigh) ride — the special includes season's greetings from celebrities in the “Masked” family, some amusing bloopers and other previously unseen behind-the-scenes footage. Also: a rendition of “Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer” that no fan will want to miss.

The 44th Annual Kennedy Center Honors

9 p.m. on WGCL

Singer-actress Bette Midler and Motown Records founder Berry Gordy are among the honorees as this year's gala ceremonies return with an in-person audience to the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, after last year's event made do with smaller groups of attendees at multiple venues around the Kennedy Center grounds. In addition to Midler and Gordy, other award recipients feted during the program include operatic bass-baritone Justino Diaz, “Saturday Night Live” executive producer Lorne Michaels and singer-songwriter Joni Mitchell. This special was taped on Dec. 5.

tonight's PICKS

Name

Disney's A Christmas Carol
8 p.m. on DISN
One of the most enduring of all holiday stories gets a screen workout from director Robert Zemeckis and Jim Carrey in this inventive retelling. As expected, Carrey plays miser Ebenezer Scrooge, but thanks to the "motion capture" technique Zemeckis also used on "The Polar Express," the actor takes on several other characters of the Charles Dickens classic as well.

Rebuilding a Dream Christmas
8 p.m. on LIFE
After Abbey (Meggan Kaiser) inherits a Victorian house from her late grandmother, she returns to her hometown to find someone to make necessary repairs before she puts the place on the market. She settles on Josh (Zane Stephens), a single dad and skilled builder who also was a childhood crush, to work with her, but their joint project soon starts to bring up poignant memories of past visits to her grandmother's house. As she grows closer to Josh and his young son (Bryson JonSteele), Abbey's priorities start to change.

Christmas Cookie Challenge
9 p.m. on FOOD
The Season 5 finale of this baking and decorating competition finds Santa Claus recruiting new animals for his team, and it's up to five cookie makers to come up with the candidates.

The Survivalist
10 p.m. on SHOW
Jon Keeyes' 2021 action thriller, which was released directly to video-on-demand platforms, is set in the near future, a year and a half after civilization as we know it fell to the ravages of a deadly outbreak. In this terrifying and violent world, a former FBI agent (Jonathan Rhys Meyers) finds himself tasked with protecting Sarah (Ruby Modine), a vulnerable young woman who appears to be immune to the plague. John Malkovich also stars as Aaron, a psychopathic narcissist who is seeking Sarah for his own agenda. Jon Orsini also is featured

A Holly Dolly Christmas

8 p.m. on WGCL

Irrepressible country music superstar Dolly Parton blows away any pandemic blues with this delightful holiday special celebrating Parton's absolutely favorite time of the year. The overall mood is intimate, though, with the star performing from a candlelit set, alternating light-hearted yuletide tunes with powerful renditions of hymns reflect the power of faith and resilience. Parton also shares several favorite stories and personal recollections of the season, along with selections from her 2020 holiday album.

It's a Wonderful Life

8 p.m. on WXIA

Small-town guy George Bailey (James Stewart) defers one big dream after another to stay home, marry a local girl (Donna Reed) and run the family business. Facing financial ruin, he's pulled from suicidal despair by angel Clarence (Henry Travers), who shows him how terrible the world would have been if he'd never lived. Lionel Barrymore also stars in director Frank Capra's 1946 classic, which marks its 75th anniversary this year.

Christmas Eve Mass

11:34 p.m. on WXIA

Those looking to wind down their hectic pre-Christmas schedule in a quietly reflective mode can find that in this annual special, which features Pope Francis delivering his Christmas Eve mass to the faithful gathered in the Vatican's St. Paul Basilica. This year's mass is expected to mark a return to relative normalcy after the coronavirus pandemic restricted the 2020 Christmas Eve gathering to about 100 worshippers in a smaller rear section of the basilica.

What's Available NOW On

“Encanto” (Dec. 24)

From “Zootopia” collaborators Jared Bush and Byron Howard comes this animated fantasy about a family that lives in a magical place called Encanto that imbues each of them with extraordinary powers — except for Mirabel (voice of Stephanie Beatriz). When she learns that the magic surrounding the Encanto is in danger, she decides she might be her family’s last hope. (ORIGINAL)

“Tron: Legacy” (Available now)

Jeff Bridges reprises his role from almost 30 years earlier — and, thanks to digital effects, doesn’t look a day older in certain scenes — in this visually dazzling 2010 sequel to the Disney fantasy. His character’s son (Garrett Hedlund, “Mudbound”) plunges into the inner world of a video game to find out what happened to Dad. Bruce Boxleitner also returns from the original film.

“Mickey and Minnie Wish Upon a Christmas” (Available now)

When Mickey and the gang are separated as Christmas approaches, a mysterious jolly man shows up to tell them about the Wishing Star, which may be the answer to bringing everyone together for the holiday in this animated short that originally aired on Disney Junior.

“Mr. Popper’s Penguins” (Available now)

Jim Carrey’s co-stars aren’t merely for the birds in this 2011 comedy-fantasy based on a long-popular children’s book: They actually are birds, who get a huge assist from computer animation. Popper (Carrey) is stunned to inherit several penguins and isn’t sure what to do with them, until he sees what bonding agents they are for him and his children (Maxwell Perry Cotton, Madeline Carroll).

Happy Holidays!

Derek Hough

Disney Parks Magical Christmas Day Parade 12 p.m. on WSB

One of Walt Disney Parks' most beloved Christmas traditions is showcased from both Walt Disney World Resort in Orlando, Fla., and Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif., in this music-filled two-hour special. Siblings Derek and Julianne Hough anchor the Florida coverage, while Freeform stars Trevor Jackson ("grown-ish") and Sherry Cola ("Good Trouble") host from the West Coast. Musical performers include Kristin Chenoweth ("Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas"), Meg Donnelly ("Jingle Bell Rock"), Pentatonix ("I Saw Three Ships"), Gwen Stefani ("Cheer for the Elves") and Darren Criss ("Christmas Dance").

How the Grinch Stole Christmas!

8 p.m. on WXIA
Since its first airing in 1966, this adaptation of the Dr. Seuss children's book has evolved into an annual holiday viewing tradition. Legendary animator Chuck Jones directed the story about a green-skinned grouch who sets out to spoil Christmas for the citizens of Whoville. Boris Karloff provides narration, with additional voices by Thurl Ravenscroft and June Foray. "Fame" co-star Albert Hague was the co-composer of the theme music. This year's airing marks the 55th anniversary of the first telecast.

NFL Football
8:20 p.m. on WXIA
If they are to snag a Wild Card berth in the NFC, the Washington Football Team needs every win they can get and they'll face an uphill battle tonight at AT&T Stadium, where Taylor Heinicke will lead his mates into hostile territory against Dak Prescott and the NFC East leading Dallas Cowboys. The 'Boys are also playing for something with this game — the No. 1 seed and home-field advantage throughout the playoffs.

9 p.m. on FOOD
In a special episode called "Champion Cake Off," host Maneet Chauhan invites the reigning champion teams of "Halloween Wars" and "Holiday Wars" to compete by creating their own team mascot, then show how they will ring in the new year with a champagne-inspired cake flavor. Judges Shin-min Li and Aarti Sequeira sample the results and declare the winning team.

9 p.m. on TNT
Desna (Niecy Nash-Betts) borrows a page from the Mary Kay cosmetics business model as she launches Claws Up, her new multi-level Oxy sales operation, for which she employs some of her most loyal clients as dealers and recruiters in the new episode "Chapter Three: Ambition." Soon, however, tension starts to rise for the crew as they attempt to manage a criminal enterprise from the top. Judy Reyes, Carrie Preston and Karrueche Tran also star. Another new episode immediately follows.

9 p.m. on SHOW
Dexter (Michael C. Hall) is forced to fight for his life in the woods, leading to a desperate confrontation in an abandoned summer camp in the new episode "Big Game." Meanwhile, Harrison (Jack Alcott) finds himself torn between two father figures who can lead him down two very different paths to his destiny. Elsewhere, Angela (Julia Jones) makes some disturbing discoveries.

tonight's PICKS

Robin Roberts

Holly Hobbie

7 p.m. on DISN

Originally created for a streaming service, this delightful children's TV series begins a linear run on Disney Channel with two back-to-back episodes airing each weeknight. In the series premiere, "The Show Starter," young aspiring singer-songwriter Holly Hobbie (Ruby Jay, "The Unicorn") is dismayed to discover that her grandmother's (Sara Botsford) cafe might have to close for good, so she attempts to save the beloved family business by hosting an open mic night. Evan Builing, Erin Karpluk and Saara Chaudhry also star.

Finding Kendrick Johnson

8 p.m. on STARZ

Actress Jenifer Lewis ("black-ish") narrates writer-director Jason Pollock's 2021 feature-length documentary, which is based on a four-year investigation into the fate of Kendrick Johnson, who was 17 years old when he was found dead in a rolled-up gym mat at Lowndes High School in Valdosta, Ga., in 2013. The film explores how the victim's family hired their own forensic pathologist to examine the body after an initial and highly criticized investigation by the state of Georgia ruled Johnson's death as accidental.

The Year: 2021

9 p.m. on WSB

"Good Morning America" co-host Robin Roberts anchors this year's edition of the annual two-hour primetime special that highlights the biggest moments in an historic year. The past 12 months saw the United States still battling the COVID-19 pandemic, the Jan. 6 insurrection at the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., and the inauguration of President Joseph Biden, as well as ongoing protests demanding racial justice. In addition to Roberts, this special will feature ABC News' "World News Tonight" anchor David Muir and "GMA" co-anchors George Stephanopoulos and Michael Strahan, among many others.

tonight's PICKS

Elizabeth Stanton

Popstar's Best of 2021

8 p.m. on WUPA

'Tis the season for looking back on the year that's drawing to a close, and The CW gets in on all the other "countdown" specials with this new hour in which host Elizabeth Stanton looks back at the good, the bad and the ugly of 2021, ticking off some of the year's most memorable moments (for good or bad) and trends that dominated over the past 12 months.

Bering Sea Gold

8 p.m. on DISC

Top contenders Shawn Pomrenke and Vernon Adkison battle it out for their final haul in the face of a brutal storm that seems ready to knock them off the ice in the new episode "Leg-end vs. Underdog." Meanwhile, Zeke Tenhoff goes all in on one last, very risky move, while Kris Kelly hopes to pull enough to set up his summer season.

7 Little Johnstons

8 p.m. on TLC

In the new episode "Trent's Funemployment," Trent begins a determined search to find a new job, while Amber debates whether she wants to enroll in college and complete her studies so she can continue her career as a teacher. Elsewhere, Anna, Emma and Alex set up Emma's new photo booth and take snapshots for their online shops.

The Dead Files

8 p.m. on TRAV

Former homicide detective Steve DiSchiavi and medium Amy Allan uncover several bloody secrets that have been long-hidden in the dark corners of a haunted theater in Washington in the new episode "Bloody History." Later, they investigate a North Carolina man's panic-stricken claims that he is being terrorized by a specter in the home where he grew up.

'Law & Order' revival is seeking familiar faces

Q: Will any of the actors from the original "Law & Order" be on the new version that's coming? – Peter Kane, Sacramento, Calif.

A: At the time of this writing, Anthony Anderson was the only star of the initial show signed so far to return, which he's able to do since his ABC series "black-ish" is coming to an end. (Its final season begins airing Jan. 4.) NBC – which is positioning the return as the 21st season of the crime drama, as opposed to a remake or an update – is said to want to get others from the original show back, though some are committed to other programs now.

However, in such instances as those of S. Epatha Merkerson (now of "Chicago Med") and Jeremy Sisto and Alana De La Garza (both of "FBI"), they're on other series produced by "Law & Order's" Dick Wolf ... so it's possible that accommodations could be made. Meanwhile, Jeffrey Donovan ("Burn Notice") and Hugh Dancy ("Hannibal") have been hired as new regulars for "Law & Order," which is slated to be back starting Feb. 24.

Amy Robach

Q: I saw Amy Robach show photos of her recent trip to Antarctica, and when she showed her husband, it looked like it was Andrew Shue of "Melrose Place." Is that who it is? – Tammy Brady, Delta, Colo.

A: It is. They've been married since early 2010, several months after they met at a book party – and in fact, they wed on Robach's birthday, Feb. 6. She brought her two daughters from a previous marriage, and she has three stepsons from Shue's earlier union. Actress Elisabeth Shue is Robach's sister-in-law.

"People will come to my concerts now, and they're holding kids in their laps – and when I first saw (the parents), they were in their parents' laps, so that's awesome." – Smokey Robinson, seen recently in "Miracle in Motor City" on Lifetime

"We signed Waylon Jennings in 1964, and he always wanted to be a country artist, but I thought I could take him a little more pop. Chet Atkins was the head of RCA Records in Nashville and made overtures to him, and Jerry (Moss) and I decided to let Waylon out of his contract so he could go with Chet. We thought that would be the best move for him." – Herb Alpert, seen recently in "Mr. A and Mr. M: The Story of A&M Records" on EPIX

"I've worked pretty much the whole year from March on, so it's been steady, and I'm getting ready in the beginning of the new year to start rehearsals for the national tour of 'To Kill a Mockingbird.' I'm very excited about that." – Richard Thomas, seen recently in "The Waltons' Homecoming" on The CW
