General Assembly finalizes county's new district lines

By TOM SPIGOLON

tspigolon@covnews.com

The Georgia General Assembly has approved a redrawn map of Newton County commission and school board districts that expands the land area of two Republican-dominated districts.

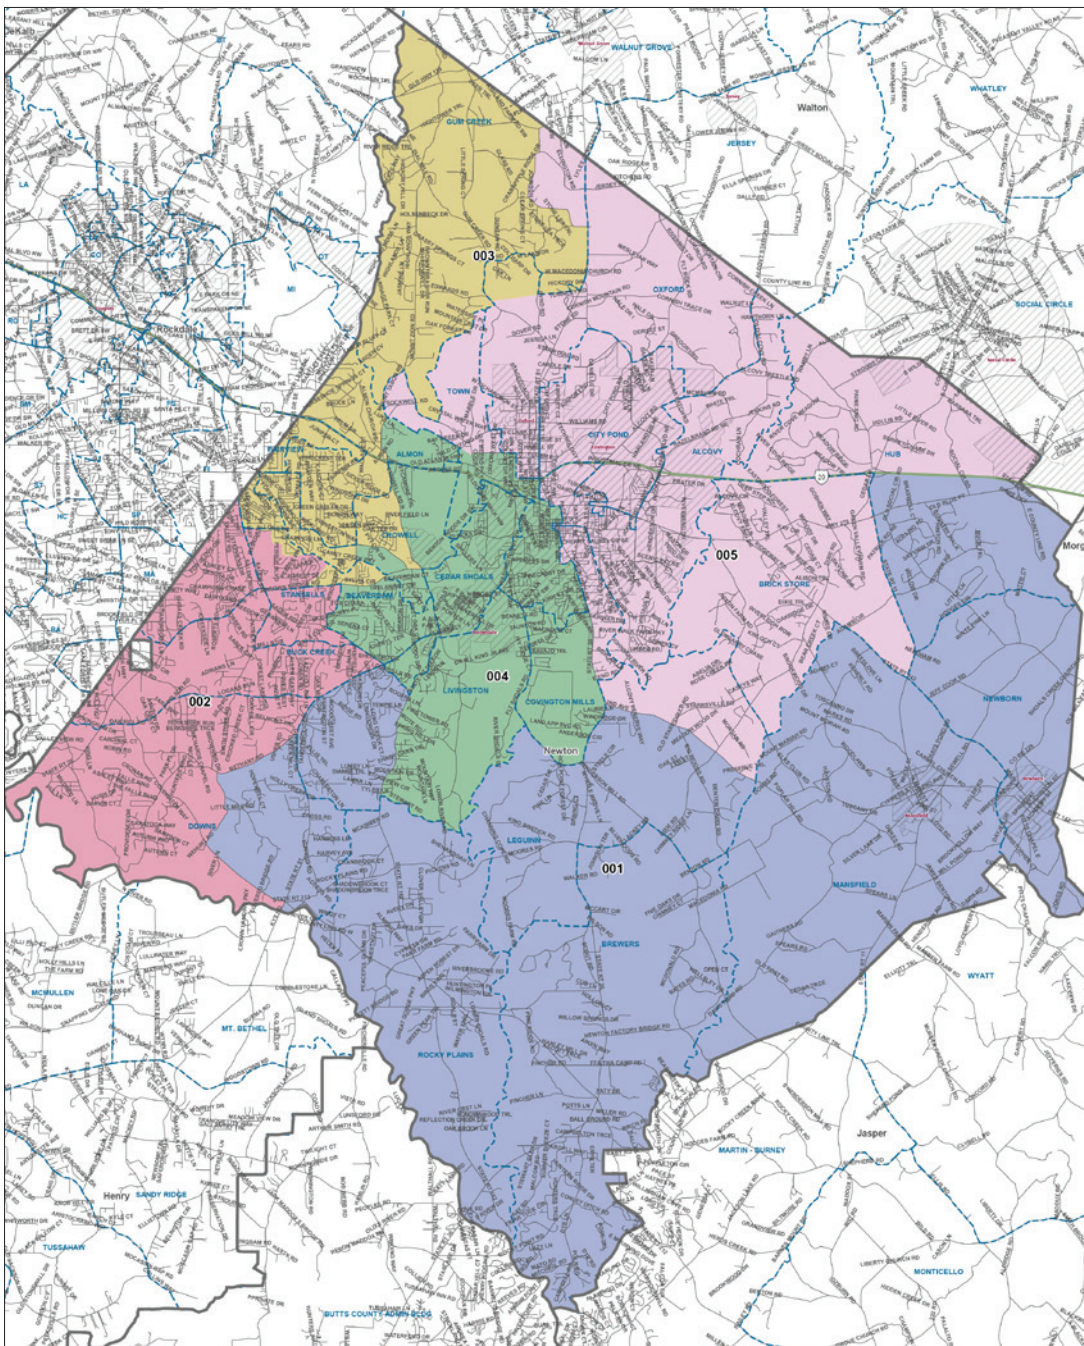

The map also keeps all districts mostly equal in population and with the same racial majorities as before, with districts 2, 3 and 4 majority Black and districts 1 and 5 majority white.

The Georgia House on Monday, Feb. 14, gave final approval to the Senate-approved version of the bills that legally define the new county commission and school board district lines that correspond to the map.

Among the changes are the city of Oxford moving into Republican-held District 5 and Springhill moving into Democrat-dominated District 4.

Newton County Board of Commissioners voted in January against agreeing to a district map drawn by the state Legislative and Congressional Reapportionment Office.

The action left it up to local legislators in the Republican-controlled General Assembly who approved a different version of a map that shifts district

COVINGTON, Ga. — Councilman Kenneth Morgan considers Black History Month a special time to reflect on the progress of the Black community, but he also believes there should be a greater effort to acknowledge Black history year-round.

Morgan, who has served on the Covington

City Council in West Ward Post 1 since 2015, told The Covington News that, "all history is important, and Black history should be treated as such."

In line with recent comments from U.S. Rep. Hank Johnson (D-Ga.), Morgan said he was proud of the progress made among

City approves industrial property sale for $1.75 million

Council narrowly votes down bond issuance for Jackson Highway housing project

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Members of the Covington City Council unanimously approved the sale of nearly 35 acres of industrial property to Newton Investments, LLC.

The 34.928-acre property, which is of Covington/Newton County Industrial Park located off of Georgia Hwy. 142, will be sold for $50,000 per acre, totaling approximately $1.746 million.

Because the city and county governments jointly own the property, proceeds from the sale will be divided evenly, Mayor Steve Horton said during a Feb. 7 city council meeting.

The property is currently undeveloped. Innovative Air Technologies and Georgia Plating neighbor the southwest portion of the property. Directly north of the property is Orchard Park subdivision. Northwest is Cinelease

Plans for the property were unknown at the time of this publication. Per the city’s resolution, it would be for “industrial development purposes.”

Newton Investments is a Georgia limited liability company that was originally formed in 2002, according to the Secretary of State’s office. A spokesperson for Newton Investments LLC did not respond to The Covington News’ request for comment.

In other business, the council voted down the Covington Housing Authority’s request to approve a tax-exempt revenue bond or note financing in the amount of $23 million for The Reserve at Jackson Highway, LP.

If approved, the monies would have been used to finance the “acquisition, construction and equipping” of a 102-unit multi-family housing development to be located at 9155 SW Jackson Highway. The city of Covington would not have been indebted or obligated to financially back the bond, if approved.

A motion to approve the request was voted down 4-3. Council members Fleeta Baggett, Don Floyd and Susie Keck opposed the motion, which led to a tie. Horton broke the tie by voting against the motion.

The request was previously tabled during a meeting held in November when some aspects of the project faced disapproval.

Hazel Doris Stowe

Caldwell & Cowan Funeral Home

Hazel Doris Stowe, of Covington, passed away Thursday, February 10, 2022, at the age of 100. Born March 19, 1921, to the late Jesse Lewis and Clara Nelms Dobbs, she was born and raised in the Almon Community. She had deep family roots at Shiloh United Methodist Church where her grandfather, John Robert Dobbs, was listed as one of the trustees on the 1908 Deed. Being a member of the church since she was 6 years old, Mrs. Stowe had her own “spot” to sit at on Sunday mornings. After graduating from Palmer Stone School, she attended Monroe A&M School in Walton County where young adults were paid to learn a trade through a government program called NYA, which was established as part of Roosevelt’s “New Deal” after the Great Depression. Since Mrs. Stowe’s mother had taught her how to sew, that’s the course she chose and was often asked to help teach the sewing class. In 1941, she married her husband, Nathan (Sam) Stowe whom she met while working in a clothing store on the square of Covington called The Leader. After 30 plus years as a dedicated employee at Oxford Manufacturing Company (The Shirt Plant) she retired from the highest paying position, setting pocket. The more pockets that you sewed in a day, the more you were paid. Between that and hemming pants and other alterations at night and on the weekends is how she raised her 4 children and paid off her mortgage on her home three years early. Sewing was Mrs. Stowe’s life, but gardening was where her heart was. Being outside digging in the dirt, watching her vegetables grow made her heart sing. Aside from gardening she loved to cook, and her family called her “the chicken and dumpling queen”. She was a great cook and did most of her cooking by memory, and by how it looked and felt. Mrs. Stowe had a great sense of humor and loved an off-colored joke. She will be missed dearly by everyone that knew her. She was preceded in death by her husband, Nathan Harold (Sam) Stowe; son, Harold Lewis Stowe; parents, Jesse Lewis and Clara Belle Dobbs; sisters, Nannie Mae Capes, Kathleen Martin; and brother, James Henry Dobbs.

Survivors include her daughters, Ilene Slaughter (Doug), Claudine Destino (Jim); son, Wayne Stowe (Deana); grandchildren, Matt Stowe, Marc Stowe, Marti Slaughter, Lori Stewart, Alex Destino, Chris Destino, Lindsey O’Connor, Jennifer Trent, LeeAnn Avery; 25 great-grandchildren, 8 great-great-grandchildren, as well as numerous nieces and nephews.

A Funeral Service for Mrs. Stowe will be held Monday, February 14, 2022, 2:00 P.M., at Shiloh United Methodist Church, 10 Almon Church Road, in Covington, with Rev. Mike Wadley officiating and interment following in Lawnwood Memorial Park. Friends are invited to visit with the family Sunday, February 13, from 2:00 – 4:00 P.M., at Caldwell & Cowan Funeral Home, 1215 Access Road, in Covington.

Gov. Brian Kemp’s latest executive order has eliminated restrictions on large gatherings; however, CDC guidelines recommend social distancing (6 feet apart) and wearing of masks while in public. Caldwell & Cowan Funeral Home requests that you observe these recommendations while in our funeral home attending visitations and/or services.

Board of Elections

Newton elections board changes five voting locations, plans sixth

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Voters in six Newton County precincts will be traveling to new locations on Election Day this year.

The Newton County Board of Elections voted Monday, Feb. 14, to approve the relocation of five voting locations, and voted for a resolution proposing to move a sixth for the 2022 elections — beginning with the May 24 primaries.

The board voted to move the voting locations in the following precincts:

- Almon — from Almon Community House to Newton Baptist Church at 720 Jack Neely Road in Covington.
- Livingston — from County Line Baptist Church to Canaan Baptist Church at 5581 Salem Road in Covington.
- Town — from Washington Street Community Center to Turner Lake Senior Center at 6185

Turner Lake Road in Covington.

- Gum Creek — from Gum Creek Precinct Building to Church Covington at 11975 Hwy. 142 in Oxford.

- Crowell — from The Potter’s House to Salem United Methodist Church at 3962 Salem Road in Covington.

It also is proposing to move the Hub precinct voting location from Berean Baptist Church to Crossroad Baptist Church at 227 Hwy. 229 in Social Circle and likely will approve the change at its March 14 meeting.

Board Chairman Phil Johnson said the election office was thankful for churches willing to provide voting locations because other locations either were unavailable or unwilling to participate.

“These facilities — it’s a real sacrifice for them to let us in,” Johnson said.

He said the voting location changes were needed for a variety of reasons, including more parking and more space inside for voting.

“These are vastly superior facilities,” Johnson said. “These will be good moves.”

Some church officials said they did not want to participate because the fee the election office pays does not cover the cost of utilities and other expenses involved in being open to the public on a non-Sunday, Johnson said.

Meanwhile, longtime voting location Washington Street Community Center is undergoing an extensive renovation and was unavailable, Johnson said.

Officials and voters had complained about lack of space and parking at previous locations, such as Porter Memorial Library, officials had said.

Meanwhile, election director Angela White-Davis said early voting locations for the primaries in 2022 will be Good Shepherd Episcopal Church at 4140 Clark St SW in Covington and Prospect United Methodist Church at 6752 Hwy. 212 in Covington.

Saturday voting during the early voting period is scheduled for May 7 and 14 from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. The board still must determine a Sunday early voting date, Davis said.

The Newton County Democratic and Republican parties will qualify local candidates in partisan races for county commission and school board March 7-11, she said.

Newton County has 85,745 registered voters on Feb. 1, of which 79,518 were active voters and 6,214 inactive, Davis said.

Election Day for the party primaries is May 24 from 7 a.m.-7 p.m. at Newton County’s 22 precincts.

Developer Keith Bauer said during the November meeting that plans for The Reserve at Jackson Highway called for 72 single-family homes constructed on the property and 30 townhomes that would be available for long-term rental.

“We were told [at the time of the land sale] that they would not be rentals,” Baggett said. Bauer responded by saying that the goal would be to work toward homeownership.

“We’ve set it up to be an affordable housing project,” he said. “It’ll start off as long-term rental of single-family and townhome units. Then our exit strategy would be to sell them as low-income, affordable homes.”

While Baggett said her displeasure was due to past dealings with the Covington Housing Authority, as well as other factors like the city being overwhelmed by growth, former Councilwoman Hawnethia Williams said she believed the real issue was the stigma that comes with the term “affordable housing” or “low-income housing.”

“Sir, there’s a real stigma here in Covington with affordable housing,” she said to Bauer in November. “They see it as too many people with low incomes, too many brown and Black people coming in with low incomes. That’s basically the stigma that has come out with low-income housing. Every time you say low-income housing, the folks just frown all over the room, saying, ‘Oh lord, here they come. There’s already too many already. We don’t want any more.’ People need quality of living whether they’re Black, white, purple, green or polka

dot. The stigma of the structure has caused the anti-feeling against affordable [housing]. Anytime we mention affordable, we get into a boxing match ... Our concern should be providing quality of living for people who [are in] need.”

Newton County GOP Chairman Brendan

Cherry said Jones was invited but indicated to district party officials he would not participate.

Former President Donald Trump endorsed Jones for the 10th District seat after Jones quit the race for the Republican nomination for governor recently.

Jones endorsed former U.S. Sen. David Perdue in his bid to unseat Gov. Brian Kemp.

The 10th District includes 25 counties in north and east Georgia and stretches from the eastern suburbs of Atlanta to metro Augusta.

The district includes the eastern half of Newton County.

The congressional seat came open in 2021 after Hice announced he would challenge incumbent Brad Raffensperger for secretary of

The district is heavily Republican and voted about 70% for Trump in the 2020 presidential election, despite Democrat Joe Biden narrowly winning statewide.

of equal population between districts, or the “one-person, one-vote standard,” to require “general population equality between districts” but without a precise number or percentage defining constitutionality.

As a result, the Court says local districts should be “substantially equal,” as opposed to congressional districts which must have “strict equality,” according to the website RedistrictingOnline.org.

The Court also generally has held that any legal challenges to maps using districts with 10% or less deviation would place the burden on the challenger to provide additional evidence about why the deviation was not permitted, according to information from RedistrictingOnline.org.

The site includes the National Conference of State Legislatures as a partner.

“The U.S. Supreme Court has declined to identify any specific percentage that would represent a violation of one-person, one vote,” according to RedistrictingOnline.

“Their reasoning is that, as soon as they did, line-drawers would have every incentive to gerrymander maps as they pleased, with no restrictions as long as they stay below the stated limit. The Court has instead used the 10% deviation measure to adjust the evidentiary burdens on the parties to the lawsuit.”

Charles Bullock of the University of Georgia recently told an Athens newspaper that a county district map could only be challenged in the court system in two areas.

A population challenge could be done based on the general rule that districts have to be within plus or minus 5% of the average population; or if any changes make it more difficult for an area represented by a minority candidate to continue electing minority candidates.

However, Newton officials have said the maps the state reapportionment office produced do not appear to violate either of those areas.

Commissioners voted in January not to approve a proposed map drawn by the legislative reapportionment committee. Before the vote, county attorney Patrick Jaugstetter told commissioners they were considering a resolution that would “indicate to the local legislative delegation and to the Georgia General Assembly your approval of the map.”

He said the law does not require a unanimous Board vote for the map but the county’s legislative delegation generally “expects” full support before sending it for approval by the full General Assembly.

“I would expect — and I can’t say this with absolute certainty — that if it’s less than unanimous, your local delegation may not pursue it diligently,” Jaugstetter said.

District 17 State Sen. Brian Strickland, R-McDonough, said in January that he felt “confident that our legislative delegation will get this done without any issues” and was unsure of what map the county commission could not agree on.

The Constitution requires the General Assembly to pass an updated redistricting map every 10 years to ensure population is roughly equal in each district based on the latest federal Census count.

Pros and cons of forming a new city

Anyone wanting to consider forming a new city in Newton County or anywhere in Georgia needs to know the pros and cons of such a move.

Yes, it potentially can address such perceived problems as haphazard zoning or lack of everything from public safety to fire service.

But it also means another layer of taxes to fund a new government and the responsibility for providing and maintaining the services it agrees to provide — not to mention whatever financial effect it has on the county government which will no longer provide some of its services.

Georgia's General Assembly must approve legislation to allow an area's residents to vote to incorporate as a municipality.

The roughly 175,000 residents of the proposed city of East Cobb appears to be on their way to voting on incorporation — even after efforts to create a separate city of Buckhead from part of Atlanta surprisingly came to naught this legislative session.

The Buckhead effort seemed to have everything going for it following an uptick in crime in recent years — especially around Lenox Mall and Phipps Plaza.

But it apparently was a victim of a combination of events: election-year politics and inroads Atlanta's new mayor made with legislative leaders to keep the wealthy area within the city.

A major culprit reportedly has been Buckhead cityhood leader Bill White's actions to create bad feelings toward the plan — from racist Tweets to "disgusting" rumors he spread about the former head of MARTA in the wake of his death by suicide, according to the lieutenant governor.

What formerly was considered a slam dunk will wait at least a year because of a leader who was unwilling to keep his opinions to himself on social media — and likely was reinforced by others in the echo chamber that social media can be.

Leaders often forget that people outside their little bubble of support often can read what they're writing on social media — unless you create your own, private Facebook pages in which only your supporters are allowed.

In the case of the city of East Cobb, the Republican-led Georgia Senate approved the bill largely along party lines 31-18 despite objections from some Democratic legislators and county officials who claim the process was rushed.

County officials say they don't know all the financial effects of adding another incorporated city to the roster, according to East Cobb Patch.

So far, it seems residents of new Metro Atlanta cities formed since 2005 have gone in with their eyes wide open to what they will be getting and the responsibilities and costs they have in keeping their cities operating.

State law requires that cities provide at least three services, either directly or by contract, from a list that includes law enforcement, fire protection, road construction and maintenance, garbage collection and management, water distribution, wastewater treatment, stormwater collection and disposal, electric or natural gas service, code enforcement, planning and zoning, and recreational facilities.

Most new cities have included zoning and building inspection departments and recreational facilities and management in the services they offer. A perceived lack of code enforcement and poor city planning were what drove these suburban towns to create their cities in the first place.

Because of the costs involved, few if any cities have opted to establish their own fire departments. Not every city has opted to include police departments in the services they offer. The costs of setting up new water and sewer systems and electric departments are typically out of the question.

So, the same cities pay the county they just left for a number of services while taking on relatively less costly ones.

The residents of an unincorporated area of Fulton County north of I-285 called Sandy Springs had been dissatisfied for years with what they felt were services not being proportional to the amount of taxes they were paying the Fulton County government.

Sandy Springs' incorporation in 2005 helped open the floodgates for new cities. Residents of parts of unincorporated Fulton County subsequently voted to incorporate the cities of Milton, South Fulton, Johns Creek, and Chatahoochee Hills in later years.

DeKalb County saw Dunwoody, Brookhaven, Tucker and Stonecrest residents vote to incorporate. The General Assembly's Republican majority had overruled the county's Democrat-dominated

Rivian project is best of the best

Good economic development takes a lot of foresight and especially community leadership with a commitment to the future of "preparing the table". It's a long-term commitment with significant investment. The payoffs are huge in terms of employment opportunities, education, quality of life, expanded municipal services, amongst others with broad participation by all. If a community is not growing, it is declining, ever so slowly. All communities go through cycles, but one tends to forget the lows during the good times.

The cooperation between the stakeholders of our region is exceptional and the envy by others within and outside of our state. The mission and purpose of the JDA, established by our forefathers, has resulted in many recent big wins, not to mention other significant projects collectively within our four counties over the last 20-plus years, and are the solid foundation for future generations.

Competition for industry, especially those with much to offer, is extremely fierce. The highly desired Rivian project is the best of the best. Their corporate focus on employees, the environment, technology, sustainability, and best practices in the industry of electric vehicles is admirable, to say the least.

The location selected has been in focus as a large project destination for many years. There are examples over recent years with big names where we came in second. This region took pride in even being considered because these types of projects are few and far between. Just being a runner up was considered a success; it meant we had the environment and team in place to add to our growing list of incredible wins, wins that will continue paying dividends for generations to come. The economic impact and benefits are and continue to be incredible!

"The president should protect our boarders!" (What dangers do your boarders face? And do they pay their rent on time?)

"They keep saying he's behind in the poles, but nobody has ever poled me!" (I wouldn't complain about that, it sounds painful.)

From a church bulletin: "On Sinday, we had our biggest turnout in years!" (Yep, there were a lot of people who usually don't come to church.)

"I'd like to buy a dog, but I want to make sure she's spade." (Just make sure she shows all her cards.)

"We fans are disgusted. All the Titans do is loose." (Obviously, they need to Titan up.)

Comment about returning from vacation: "It rained the whole time, so we had to stay in our hotel sweet." (Apparently, they had lots of chocolates.)

"Queen Elizabeth is amazing. She's been on the thrown for 70 years!" (Long may she rain.)

"I have some extra tickets to the concert. If you want to go, please massage me." (Can't that wait until after the show?)

Christmas invitation: "Bring the kids, for Breakfast with Satan!" (Wow, they must have been REALLY naughty.)

"My son has made so much progress on the piano. Please come see his rectal." (Ewww. I've heard of a dinner and a show, but this is going too far.)

"They keep saying I can watch their news 'screaming online.' I'm sorry, but I prefer my news without all the screaming!" (Newscasters, please lower your voice.)

"These TV weather people talk too much about the Golf of Mexico!" (You tell 'em Wanda. We have our own golf, and it's American made!)

"I am seeing too many commercials about reptile dysfunction pills." (See you later, alligator.)

"My kids are asking for new clothes. That's too bad, I always had to wear hammy downs." (Sure, they smelled like bacon, but I survived.)

"My husband is so accident prong." (Whatever you do, don't let him use a fork.)

"I've lived a long life. I must truly have a garden angel." (Yes, Clementine, and that also explains why your okra always wins the blue ribbon.)

Sympathy note: "My heat goes out to you." (And I'm sincere about that, I'm not just spewing hot air.)

Sign in parking lot: "We do COVID testing in the rear." (No sir! That's not what I was told.)

"These politicians need to stop this gerry meandering!" (Yes, make Gerry walk in a straight line, like the rest of us!)

That's all for now. I've been feeling weak, and my doctor says I need to stay hibernated. And according to the internets, that usually takes all winter.

Lynn Vogle of the Newton County Republican Women’s Club said she finds events like these important for connecting voters directly with candidates.

“There’s lots of people who have a message they want to get out,” Vogle said. “We try to get a lot of people from city government, city clerks, mayors, county supervisors, state house of assembly people because we find we have very lively discussions when we mix all the levels of government at one meeting.”

Wendell McNeal of Morgan County, who is running to succeed Dave Belton in the newly drawn state House District 114, said that these types of gatherings are important to him because he wants to know the issues the people of Newton County prioritize.

“I want to be the person Newton County comes to when they’ve got issues,” McNeal said. “I want to run towards a problem, not away from the problem.”

McNeal, who spoke last, centered his speech around his life experiences rather than mounting into conversation about his platform’s issues like other candidates at the forum.

A victim of a car crash head injury at a young age, McNeal said that “I think life experiences are important because you can’t do the job if you don’t have the tools in your toolbox and be able to understand and relate to people.

“I came from Gordon, Ga., and I was able to grow from that and end up being a national delegate who nominated the president and vice president,” he said, referring to his service as a 10th Congressional District delegate to the 2020 Republican National Convention.

“Everybody should live their dream — I think that’s so important — and I’ve always had a dream of being a leader.”

King, a Cobb County resident, said that his identity as a Black conservative politician puts him in position to flip votes from U.S. Sen. Raphael Warnock, D-Ga., who narrowly defeated incumbent Kelly Loeffler in the January 2021 special election runoff.

“Democrats don’t like a voice like mine because I can articulate the right message and I can win an argument,” he said.

King acknowledged the need to address the COVID-19 pandemic but criticized the way it was handled by the federal government during President Joe Biden’s time in office.

“COVID is real, I know it’s real, but COVID is not why we’re in the situation that we’re in today,” King said. “It’s the government response to the policy that was put in place around COVID, and the Democrats exploited this terrible situation for our economy.”

Other candidates chose not to discuss COVID-19, with the exception of Swan who cast doubt on the legitimacy of FDA-approved COVID-19 vaccines.

Swan, a 30-year Marine Corps veteran and a Good Hope resident, said he is running because of his concern for declining “integrity” in the U.S. government.

The candidate also drew comparisons between the current COVID-19 pandemic and New Orleans before and after Hurricane Katrina destroyed the city in 2005, as well as New York before and after the 9/11 terrorist attack in 2001.

“There’s going to be the world before COVID and the world after COVID,” Swan said. “This is the hill we plant our flag on if we want to have any liberties left at all.”

Garcia, who calls himself a constitutionalist and is a former night shift carpet worker, proposed a “constitutional reset” on systems of government.

“We don’t have to go through a whole Revolutionary War again,” Garcia said. “We have the Constitution and Bill of Rights to assert our God-given rights united as Americans, and not leaving anybody out.”

Hudson, a former probate and magistrate judge in Treutlen County, said his experience in overseeing election administration sets him apart from other candidates.

“Georgia has never had a secretary of state who has election experience,” Hudson said. “I’ve done elections across the entire state from paper ballots to the system we have now.”

Hudson said he had doubts about the results of the 2020 presidential election and claimed that mail-in ballots swung the election in Georgia in favor of Biden.

No proof of this assertion — made by several prominent members of the Republican Party — has been found despite the state counting ballots three times, including once by hand. The certified totals showed that former President Donald Trump lost to Biden in the 2020 presidential election by 11,789 out of almost 5 million votes cast.

King, like many of the candidates, stressed that his campaign wrested on the belief that the Republican Party needs to regain a voice in state and federal government.

“Our freedoms are being encroached upon,” King said.

“Our ability to disagree is being taken away from us. Disagreement is essentially democracy. I don’t have to agree with everything y’all agree with. I can have my own desires and likes and that’s OK because it’s America — we have freedom of thought.”

the Black community, Morgan said, and he was grateful for the work and sacrifice of those who came before him. But Morgan said two figures had inspired him more than others: the late Martin Luther King Jr. and former president Barack Obama.

“Without Dr. King, I can’t imagine where we’d be today,” Morgan said.

In order to achieve true equality for every American, Morgan said it would require unity among a currently divided nation.

“There’s an African proverb, or philosophy, that comes to mind: Let’s ‘harambee.’ Let’s ‘all pull together,’” Morgan said. “That’s the point we need to get to ... Look past color and see people for who they are.”

But Morgan said he believed such change that trickles down to directly impact Newton County would only start when people become willing to look inward and seek to change as an individual.

“Many of us need to look at ourselves, stop thinking and making decisions based on individual goal or agenda, and put the focus on doing what’s best for the community — and not just for the Black community, but the whole community ... it’s not just about Black lives, but it’s about all lives.”

progress and change is communication, Morgan said. It’s important to the current quality of life, and for that of the next generation.

“Another element that I feel will be beneficial is mentoring, which I feel is an important opportunity that we have,” Morgan said.

“And two young boys in our community that comes to mind is Emmanuel Simpson and Jordan Simpson that inspires me to be the best I can be for them and others for their continued growth, because it’s important to me and part of my responsibility as a person, a leader, and as a Black man I owe it to them.”

contributions and advancements of and for the Black community. Reflecting is part of the journey, and I certainly don’t take anything for granted that my forefathers accomplished before me. My days are a little bit brighter because of them and I can dream a little bit bigger.

When I think of contribution and advancements I think of Maya Angelou’s ‘Still I Rise’ and the confidence and self-respect that this poem gave me and reassured me that I deserved and needed a seat at the table. I also think about Civil Rights activist Medgar Evers who worked tirelessly for the movement and sacrificed his own life for the movement.”

At 10 years old, Davis said she became most inspired by King’s legacy of activism and leadership. More than 30 years later, she tries to emulate King’s character as a recently elected Covington City Council member representing the West Ward in Post 2.

“He was able to help end segregation through non-violence,” Davis said of King. “Even though he was mistreated time and time again, he still chose passive resistance. My favorite quote by King will always be, ‘Darkness cannot drive out darkness; only light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate; only love can do that.’ I definitely try to lead with love.”

Davis said she was fortunate to grow up in a setting she described as a good quality of life. After graduating from Newton High School, Davis was able to further her education and earn a bachelor degree in political science from Georgia College & State University and Master of Business Administration from Strayer University. Aside from her political position, Davis also works as a team manager in the insurance industry.

But Davis said she also understands that not everyone has been so lucky, and she wants to help those who may be struggling as much as she can. She wants to be a voice and sounding board for her community on all issues and concerns.

“There are many single moms and dads who are struggling financially,” she said. “Rent is steadily going up in Newton County. Loved ones are being lost to COVID every day. Groceries and gas [prices] are going up. Inflation is at an all-time high.

“I am here for my constituents,” she said. “I am a phone call away. I listen, and I try to help as much as I can and provide resources for those in need.”

DeKalb County’s unincorporated tax digest then decreased from 86% of the countywide digest in 2008 to 41% by 2020, according to information from the county government.

Will the desire for citizenship eventually move Newton Countians to

The desire for more recreational facilities and dissatisfaction with what the zoning process has produced has not gone unnoticed by Newton leaders in the western part of the county.

Time will tell if unincorporated Newton residents act in response to desires for

And when the time was right, partnering with the communities to help develop quality industrial parks. Some developments were 50 acres, but others were as large as 1,000 acres. This was an incredible win/win/win experience: industry, developer and especially the community (where revenues, once turned on, continue growing along with the other benefits). The developments along with increasing revenues continue to provide support and enhance municipal services for the benefit of those communities. I have had the privilege of directly witnessing Industry providing good jobs, and opportunities for its citizens and small businesses.

One of those communities where leadership was discovered early on is Covington. In 1979 we established such a relationship and since that time, constructed 5 million square feet of distribution and manufacturing buildings, helping increase the tax revenue sufficient to reduce its citizen’s taxes to less than 50% of the budget, not to mention adding good paying jobs. I liked the community so much, my family and I moved here in 1998, and then into the City of Covington in 2019.

My experience and passion for the area and its communities’ successes should display my support for this once in a lifetime incredible project and I am proud to have the opportunity to have participated in it, along with the community represented JDA team.

ALL WINS, NO TIES

Redskins finish
regular season 25-0, eyes on state title

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — There are some coaches who aim to reward their teams for performing to the best of their ability every season. Most coaches use their own special methods to accomplish this.

For Social Circle's head boys basketball coach Taylor Jackson, his reward comes through the dress code policy.

Normally, the Redskins would be required to dress up on game days in a shirt and bow tie. Jackson has adopted an exception to this rule since becoming head coach three seasons ago.

"If we win, we don't have to dress up," Jackson said. "So, they haven't been wearing [ties] at all [this season]. All they do is win games."

Jackson brought the "dress up" policy to Social Circle from being an assistant for three seasons under former Newton High School head coach Rick Rasmussen. Once he became head coach, though, Jackson wanted to alter the policy to give his players an award for winning games.

With their 91-33 win at Commerce on Feb. 11, the Redskins concluded the regular season with a perfect 25-0 record along with a region-leading 12-0 record in Region 8A-Public.

As a result, none of this year's players had to wear a shirt and tie on any game days.

Leading the charge for a perfect regular season were seniors KJ Reid, Tyrhell Branch and Cam

Tyrhell Branch has helped lead the Redskins to a perfect regular season with a No. 1 seed in the Region 8A-Public tournament.

Gaither in addition to junior AJ Vinson.

Reid, who eclipsed 1,000 career points this season, expressed his gratitude for the reward given to him and his teammates after every win. His preference is wearing a jogging suit due to it being more comfortable.

Branch, who also reached the 1,000-career point mark this year, said that, if given the choice, he'd rather dress up in a shirt and tie than to experience losing in the postseason.

"I can't stand losing," Branch said. "I understand losing comes with the game and you need to learn from it. But I still hate losing more than I do dressing up."

While Branch and Reid appreciate the policy Jackson has installed, Gaither and Vinson both said it's not a big deal for them to dress up.

Gaither said he enjoyed dressing up as a kid going to church on Easter in a dress shirt, tie and khaki pants. Vinson mentioned that he preferred wearing a bow tie anyway, which the "dress up" policy plays into that.

But, their love for dressing up doesn't compare to the joy they get from winning a game, according to Gaither.

"Obviously, I love winning more," Gaither said. "When you win, you get a different type of feeling."

In the 2021-22 season, Social Circle has experienced a lot of wins and most wins came in a big way.

Throughout the year, the Redskins have defeated region opponents by an average of 34 points per contest.

There were some notable performances along the way, too.

On Jan. 22, Social Circle defeated Commerce 107-44 marking the most points ever scored in a single contest in program history.

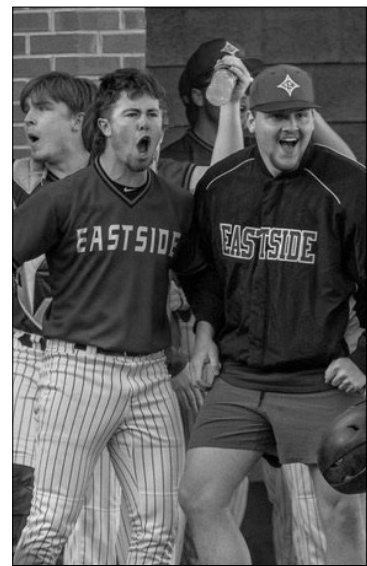

Additionally, Social Circle has gone up against higher classification schools 11 times and earned wins in all matchups. As a matter of fact, the Redskins downed three Class 7A schools in three days to claim the 2021 Hounds Holiday Hoops Championship at Pope High School on Dec. 30, 2021.

But, for Social Circle, they haven't come close to accomplishing their No. 1 goal set for this season yet. And, that is, winning a region and state title.

According to Vinson, the desire to win

It's time to put away the batting cages and get ready for regular season action for local high school teams.

All four area schools have been preparing for the start of the season with each school setting high expectations for their respective teams.

No expectations are higher than at Alcovy.

Head coach Jimmy Hughes is the longest tenured coach in the county entering his fourth season at the helm of the Tigers program. During his time, there's been one thing that has escaped the Tigers — a postseason berth.

It's been since 2013 that Alcovy baseball has made it to the playoffs.

Hughes believes his team has a strong chance to end that drought in 2022.

"We've been on the doorstep lately," Hughes said. "It's our motto this year to 'finish.' We're starting to knock on that door but, if you don't open it what are you doing? That's the next step we have to take in order to get [to the playoffs]."

Helping accomplish this goal will be two seniors who Hughes really feels confident in.

Connor Coursey and Cameron Bennett seem to have emerged as the team's leaders heading into the 2022 season. But Hughes stressed how it needs to be a team effort to get back to

Rams frontcourt vital to state championship hopes

COVINGTON, Ga. — It is no secret that the Newton boys basketball team backcourt is stacked with Division I talent. But, the frontcourt has assisted with the team's success during the 2021-22 campaign, too.

Seniors Daniel Pounds, Miokaye Grant and Malachi Hardy are three of the Rams' centers this season operating down low in the paint.

Head coach Charlemagne Gibbons believes these individuals and their impact often gets overlooked.

According to Gibbons, the Rams wouldn't be No. 1 in Region 4-A-A-A-A-A-A-A and have a definite state playoff Heading into the postseason, the Rams are 21-4 overall with an unblemished 8-0 record in Region 4-A-A-A-A-A-A-A.

As the season's progressed, though, Pounds, Grant and Hardy said they haven't worried about who's in the spotlight. Their focus has been on how the team can get better for the postseason.

Pounds, specifically, said he and his teammates are aiming to be the last team standing.

Alcovy's Johnson chooses Charleston Southern

COVINGTON, Ga. — Alcovy's Jamel Johnson signed his national letter of intent to continue his athletic and academic career at Charleston Southern University.

Johnson, alongside seven of his teammates, made it all official at a national signing day ceremony on Feb. 2.

"It felt great signing next to my brothers knowing all the hard work that was put to be on that stage. It took a lot of pressure off of me," Johnson said.

a senior season where he played a big role for the Tigers on both sides of the ball as a wide receiver and defensive back.

Following the season, Johnson was awarded the Region 3-AAAAAA Athlete of The Year as well as earning All-State honors.

"[Jamel] is quiet, but when he steps on that field, he is dangerous," defensive back coach TC Robinson said. "Before the season started, I talked to Jamel and told him that he needed to be the captain of the secondary, and that he would need to step up and play both sides. He took that in, he stayed humble, he kept his head down and he continued to grind."

Johnson came through for the Tigers when they needed him the most during his final season.

In the championship for Region 3-AAAAAA against Evans on Nov. 6, 2021, Johnson came away with an interception as well as the touchdown catch that sealed the first region title in Alcovy football history.

Johnson's success all culminated in him joining Charleston Southern in the fall.

Johnson highlighted that Charleston Southern was a good spot for him because he liked the engineering program as well as how close the university is to his hometown.

"Charleston Southern University is going to be receiving a hard-working young man on and off the field," Johnson said.

Newton's Rontravious Perry walks up to the table to sign his scholarship to Coffeyville Community College on Feb. 2.

COVINGTON, Ga. — Rontravious Perry walked onto the stage with a huge smile on his face as he prepared to sign his scholarship to Coffeyville Community College in Kansas on Feb. 2.

As he approached the table to ink the scholarship, Perry said how surreal it was living in the moment.

"For me, it was a dream come true," Perry said. "I got excited because I knew my day was coming up soon and it came faster than I thought. It's just a dream come true."

Perry concluded his senior campaign leading the Newton Rams in total rushing yards in 2021. His performance was awarded with an honorable mention for Region 4-AAAAAA as well as for the All-Covington News team.

Now that his next step is official, Perry feels nothing but gratitude for his time as a Ram.

Head coach Camiel Grant Jr., received a special mention from the running back, too.

"Coach Grant pushed me mentally and physically," Perry said. "He helps me stay on top of my academics and he's helped me as a person."

Perry continued saying that he "loved Newton" and everything the school and people have done for him.

Admittedly, Perry said his football career at Newton hasn't been all good. There have been some ups and downs along the way, he said.

However, Perry said now, looking back on the entire journey, he appreciates every obstacle that has tried to stand in his way to play college football.

"If it would have been sweet the whole four years, when I got to go college, I would have been butt hurt," Perry said. "It is not going to be like that [in college]."

After graduation, Perry is excited to become a Red Raven.

"Coffeyville kept it 100 [on the visit]," Perry said. "I told the coach, 'I'm coming up here to work.' He was like, 'Alright, let's get to work.' So, I'm planning to keep working up there."

Newton's Von Hubbard signs with University of West Georgia

COVINGTON, Ga. — Prior to the signing day ceremony held at Newton High School on Feb. 2, Derrick Von Hubbard's final decision wasn't made public.

Going into the ceremony, all people knew that he was undecided between Tuskegee University and the University of West Georgia.

When the moment of truth came, Von Hubbard announced his commitment and signing to West Georgia.

After all was said and done, Von Hubbard admitted it was an easy decision.

"I feel like the University of West Georgia would develop me better as a football player and academically," Von Hubbard said. "I think they can help me be as successful as I can be."

Even though his decision wasn't final until the actual day of his signing, that doesn't mean the occasion was any less special.

"It feels great," Von Hubbard said of his signing ceremony. "I've been working for this moment all four years. It's just magical. I just love that feeling."

Von Hubbard was a defensive lineman for the Rams for one season after transferring from Chapel Hill High School in Douglasville.

In his lone season as a Ram, Von Hubbard made noise.

He was voted onto Region 4-AAAAAA's First Team All-Region team after having 54 tackles, four of which were tackles for loss and recorded seven sacks in 2021, too.

But, since coming to Newton High School less than a year ago, Von Hubbard picked up more than tackles, sacks and accolades.

"I love my coaches and teammates," Von Hubbard said. "I've only been here a year, but they are like my family."

According to Von Hubbard, it'll be his teammates and coaches that he'll miss the most about playing football at Newton High School. Nevertheless, he plans to go to West Georgia and make a lasting imprint on the program there.

"I feel like, if I put in the work, I can go in there and dominate and make West Georgia history," Von Hubbard said.

At the end of his senior year, Russ earned a spot on the First Team All-Region team as an Inside Linebacker for Region 3-AAAAAA.

work inside of the classroom is just as important as the work on the field.

"I want to give back," Russ said. "I want to show people that if you do not make it in football, [if you] keep your grades up and maintain your GPA you will always have options."

The work in the classroom paid off, as after finishing the year with a team-leading 3.8 grade point average (GPA), Russ earned himself an acaademic scholarship at NSU.

"Talking to [Armani], going for academics is almost better than going for the sports," Alcovy defensive back coach TC Robinson said. "He has more choices. It is different from football where coaches will have to want you [for] you to come to their program. For academics it's the opposite. These schools want [Armani] because he maintained a high GPA and they will love to have him on their campus."

With the focus on academics, Russ knows exactly what he wants to do in the years to come as he goes to NSU.

"In two to four years from now I hope to have maintained my high GPA and moved on to medical school," Russ said.

postseason action.

“They’re team guys,” Hughes said. “I can trust what they’re saying is right. Their maturity is up there and I can trust that, what they’re telling me is right.”

At Eastside, they’ll be under the direction of first-year head coach Brandon Davis.

Davis quickly acknowledged the steep history of Eastside’s play on the baseball diamond. And, while he feels some people may be down on the Eagles’ chances this year, Davis is ready to see what his team can do in 2022.

“People say, ‘Oh, you lost a lot from last year’s team and have a new coach. So, you’re rebuilding.’” Davis said. “We don’t look at it that way. We’re reloading and getting ready to go again.”

Pieces of the “reloading” include various players for the Eagles this season.

Davis highlighted the entire senior class who have stepped up to lead the charge for Eastside this season while the underclassmen have taken some great strides, too.

As the season progresses, though, Davis aims to see the Eagles come together as a complete unit to improve their chances. And, even though Davis is in his first year at the helm, his expectation is set to win it all.

“The goal every year is to win the state championship,” Davis said. “If you set your goal to just make the play-offs, then you’ve set them too low. We want to be the last team standing.”

Eastside isn’t the only local team operating under a new head coach.

Newton High School will be led by first-year head coach Derwin McNealy in 2022.

For McNealy, he’s excited to provide stable leadership for the Rams program this year. Over the offseason, he highlighted how pleased he’s been seeing each player work hard in preparation for the regular season.

“The kids have bought in,” McNealy said. “We’ve done a lot of new things with a lot of young new guys. And the buy-in has been there from the beginning.”

It’ll be the same work ethic to help make this season a successful one, too, according to McNealy.

Throughout the workouts, a few players’ progression stood out to McNealy.

Anthony Bynum, Nolan McCamy, Miguel Barbis and

Lucas Ballard have gotten the attention of their new head coach with their varsity experience and talent.

However, McNealy anticipates greater strides for the team as a whole as the season wanes on.

“I want to see growth in every game,” McNealy said. “I want to start building a foundation, too, and win every game we go out to play.”

Social Circle’s baseball program is coming off a 2021 campaign that featured the Redskins advancing all the way to Sweet 16.

As the 2022 slate of games approached, head coach Kevin Dawkins believes that last year’s experience will only benefit this year’s team.

“None of the starters from last year were seniors,” Dawkins said. “They made their mistakes last year but, the big thing is, can we learn from those? We also can’t get complacent and satisfied with where we’re at. Last year was special, making it to the Sweet 16, but that can’t be enough.”

Dawkins plans to use the early part of the season, which mainly consists of non-region matchups, to give each player time on the field to see how the team is going to shape out.

Even so, Dawkins has taken note of a few main contributors who he’s high on competing at a high level this season.

Mason Moore and Mitchell McCullough have seemed to “take charge” of the Redskins this offseason, according to Dawkins.

But for now, the Redskins are looking to work toward becoming better as the region part of the schedule quickly approaches.

“Our non-region schedule is pretty packed,” Dawkins said. “But it gives us an opportunity to play better competition. So that way, when we get into the play-offs, we’re put in situations we’ve been in before.”

both championships has remained during this season.

“We want to win it badly,” Vinson said. “The region championship and making a run to a state championship is something we aimed for over the summer and we want to win them both.”

As the No. 1 seed in Region 8A-Public, the quest for a region championship will begin for the Redskins on Feb. 17. Earning a first round bye, they’ll face the winner between Commerce and Greene County for the second round of the region tournament hosted by Commerce High School.

After the tournament is over, Social Circle will set its sights on the state tournament that commences on Feb. 22-23. March 9 will mark the end of the state tournament at Macon Coliseum.

Even though the Redskins plan to win every game in the postseason, Reid said that he and his teammates just might suspend the “no dress up” rule themselves should they advance to the state championship.

“That’s a business trip,” Reid said of the state championship game. “We might dress up if we go to Macon, even if we win. That way we look like a team.”

just here to get the job done. At the end of the day, I want that ring on my finger.”

Even though all of the success seems to suggest smooth sailing for Newton this season, that couldn’t be further from the truth, Hardy said. Nevertheless, Hardy believes the team has become better as a result of some adversity throughout the season.

“We’ve come together and built a better bond,” Hardy said. “I think the chemistry has risen to another level.”

In addition to seeing progression as a team, Pounds, Grant and Hardy pointed to areas they feel they need to improve on individually.

Whether it’s building better stamina, developing better on-court awareness or just simply knocking down free throws, Pounds said no one knows the biggest areas they need to improve in more than themselves.

“We hold each other accountable for everything and hold ourselves to a certain standard,” Pounds said.

Now, with the regular season over, the Rams shift their focus to the region tournament beginning on Feb. 16. After earning a first round bye, Newton will face-off against South Gwinnett in the second round of the Region 4-AAAAAAA tournament at home.

For Pounds, Grant and Hardy, pursuing a state title has been at the forefront of their minds all season. But, now that the postseason is here for the Rams, Grant has sensed a renewed focus by he and his teammates on accomplishing the goals.

As a matter of fact, Grant said they are looking for themselves to be a catalyst for a deep run into early March.

“We are the target now,” Grant said. “We used to hunt, but now we’re hunted. We got to go in there expecting it to be a battle every night. We can’t just walk in there and expect to win.”

Meatless chili helps chase away the chill

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Warming up on cold days can be a challenge, especially when the weather outside is frightful. Bundling up near the fireplace is one way to keep warm, as is dining on hearty meals that have staying power.

Chili is a cold-weather staple that is full of delicious, fresh ingredients.

A little chili goes a long way, and it can be spiced up to increase its warming power. This recipe for “Kidney Bean Double Chili” courtesy of John La Puma, M.D., ChefMD, is a healthy take on this beloved, hearty dish.

Kidney Bean Double Chili

Servings: 4

Ingredients:
2 large poblano chili peppers, seeded,

chopped*
4 cloves garlic, minced
8 ounces frozen beef flavored crumbles, such as Boca or Beyond Beef brands
1 tablespoon chili powder, such as ancho or chipotle chili powder

by McCormick brand
2 teaspoons dried Mexican oregano
1 cup chipotle salsa, preferably Frontera brand
2 15- or 16-ounce cans no salt added kidney beans, rinsed, drained

2 medium yellow summer squash or yellow zucchini, cut into 1/2-inch chunks (2 cups)
1/2 cup reduced fat sour cream
1/4 cup chopped cilantro or flat leaf parsley

Directions:
Cook chili peppers and garlic in a large saucepan coated with cooking spray over medium heat for 2 minutes.
Add frozen crumbles, chili powder and oregano and continue to cook

1 minute. Stir in salsa. Cover and reduce heat to medium-low. Cook 5 minutes or until chili peppers are tender. Stir in beans and 1 cup water.

Stir in squash. Cover and cook until squash is tender, 8 to 10 minutes. Season to taste with salt, if desired.

Ladle into shallow bowls; top with sour cream and cilantro.

*If fresh poblano chili peppers are not available, substitute 1 or 2 jalapeno chilies, minced and seeded, and add 1 large green bell pepper, diced.

If chipotle salsa is not available, substitute your favorite salsa and add hot pepper sauce to taste. Ancho or chipotle chili powder will give the dish more heat than regular chili powder. Beef stock may replace the 1 cup water.

Margaritas inspire summer daydreams

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Margaritas are wildly popular cocktails that can be enjoyed in standard and frozen varieties. Typically made with tequila and lime juice, margaritas lend a tropical flair to most any occasion and are the ideal accompaniment to Latin-inspired cuisine.

Although margaritas commonly are consumed poolside or seen as warm-weather beverages, National Margarita Day falls during the month of February — when the weather is chilly for many people.

Perhaps sipping a margarita can evoke the coming days of sunshine and outdoor antics? That’s especially likely when you make this recipe — a favorite of author Jack Kerouac on one of his many Mexican sojourns — courtesy of “How to Drink Like a Writer: Recipes for the Cocktails and Libations that Inspired 100 Literary Greats (Apollo Publishers), writing by Margaret Kaplan.

Jack Kerouac’s Margarita

Serves 1

Ingredients:
2 ounces silver tequila
3/4 ounce Cointreau
3/4 ounce lime juice,

freshly squeezed
1 teaspoon agave nectar (optional)
Rock salt for garnishing

Lime wedge for garnishing

Directions:
Pour salt onto small plate. Rub a lime wedge around the lip of a rocks glass and dip the rim in the salt. In a cocktail shaker filled with ice, combine tequila, Cointreau, lime juice, and agave, if using.

Shake vigorously. Strain into the salt-rimmed rocks glass over ice. Garnish with the lime wedge.

Tasty twist on traditional: ‘Everything Bagels’

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Individuals who adhere to grain-free, dairy-free or nut-free diets due to health issues or other preferences may find themselves periodically craving foods that are off-limits. While people might not be able to enjoy forbidden foods in their original incarnations, an alteration here or there to a recipe can make otherwise forbidden foods fair game.

That is the thinking behind “Everything Bagels” from “Eat What You Love” by Danielle Walker. These bagels recreate the mouthwatering taste of traditional bagels, but with ingredients that accommodate grain-free diets. Slather with your favorite topping, such as dairy-free cream cheese.

Everything Bagels

Makes 6

Ingredients:
1/2 cup full-fat coconut milk
2 tablespoons finely ground golden flaxseeds
1 tablespoon gluten-free

active dry yeast
4 eggs
1/4 cup melted ghee or virgin coconut oil
1 teaspoon apple cider vinegar
1 1/2 cups arrowroot powder
1/3 cup coconut flour
1 1/2 teaspoons grain-free baking powder
1 teaspoon fine sea salt
Everything seasoning:
1 teaspoon poppy seeds
1 teaspoon dried minced garlic
1 teaspoon dried minced onion
1/2 teaspoon white sesame seeds
1/2 teaspoon black sesame seeds
1/2 teaspoon coarse sea salt

Directions:
Pour the coconut milk into a small saucepan and heat it over low heat to 110 degrees. Place the warmed coconut milk, the flaxseeds, honey, and yeast in the bowl of a stand mixer fitted with the beater attachment and mix on low speed to combine. Let the mixture sit for 4 to 5 minutes, until it begins to foam.

Add the eggs, ghee and vinegar to the bowl and mix on medium speed to combine. Add the arrowroot, coconut flour, baking powder, and salt and mix again until fully incorporated. Cover the bowl with a kitchen towel and let it sit for 1 hour at room temperature.

To make the everything seasoning, combine all of the ingredients in a small bowl and stir to combine.

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Scoop the batter into a 3 1/2-inch silicone doughnut pan, filling each cavity two-thirds full. Sprinkle the tops with the seasoning and bake for 20 to 25 minutes, until the bagels are golden brown and a toothpick inserted into the center comes out clean. Cool the bagels in the pan on a wire rack for 20 minutes, then remove them from the pan and cool completely on the rack.

Store in an airtight container in the refrigerator for 1 week, or in the freezer for 6 months.

Have a byte – cooking apps you can download right now

It goes without saying that we all can get bored eating our own cooking day in and day out. And especially in winter and the isolation of the pandemic, that distaste can turn to outright dissatisfaction.

Luckily, there is a wealth of foodie knowledge to be had that's only as far away as your cellphone. As more and more apps appear online every day, the culinary thrillseeker has never had more resources from which to draw in their never-ending search for meal ideas that excite the palate. The following are a few of the ones worth checking out.

Tasty: From digital content creator BuzzFeed comes this app it calls "your new cooking coach," offering up more than 4,000 recipes and cooking videos along with features such as a step-by-step instruction mode, a "My Recipes" page where users can store their favorite recipes and a search function that allows users to search by ingredients, cuisine or social occasion. It's handy and free but available only for iPhone and iPad.

Recipes by Cook'n: This oldie but goodie (it was created in 1992 by a starving college student) uses artificial intelligence to identify a user's personal taste preferences and recommend recipes that are a match. It also has a recipe keeper that organizes favorite recipes, functions that allows users to add recipes via dictation or taking a photo of the recipe and the ability to import recipes from Pinterest. Plus a whole lot more. It's free and available for iPhone and iPad.

NYT Cooking: Fans of The New York Times food section will want to check out this ad-supported app for Android, iPhone and iPad that allows users to search and save more than 19,000 recipes from its pages, featuring beautiful photography, and easy-to-follow instructions. It also has monthly outstanding recipe recommendations.

MyFridgeFood: The title says it all. With this unique and quite useful app, a user can input all the ingredients they have in their kitchen and then the app will make recipe recommendations based on that data. The user can then click on the recipe and get cooking details. The app itself is free and available on Android, iPhone and iPad though users will have to buy a subscription.

Allrecipes Dinner Spinner: Crowdsourcing is behind this ad-supported app for iPhone and iPad, which offers up recipes, reviews and videos from Allrecipes community members. There are also personalized recommendations, a customizable search function and the abilities to save favorite recipes and create shopping lists.

Connie Nielsen

OF 'CLOSE TO ME' ON SUNDANCE NOW

In Sundance Now's "Close to Me," you play Jo, a housewife who has trouble trusting her own perception after a fall down stairs. How did you get into this character's headspace?

I did a lot of research, obviously, about brain injury. But a lot of it really is just I think really felt. I think she reflects an experience that's shared by most women and so it wasn't a difficult thing to try to put yourself into once I understood how brain injuries work and what that feels like. I really felt it was more about getting her tone. She has a really sort of dark humor and she's kind of really funny. But like a lot of people, she's really hard on herself. She can be vicious in the way she thinks about herself and I wanted to get that tone just right, the needling but also the sort of sense that everything is a cosmic joke on her.

The opening scene with Jo lying in a pool of blood at the bottom of the stairs was quite shocking. How did you approach that?

Well, it's sort of that odd feeling of complete helplessness, that there's this complete and utter helplessness. But the moment that you're in the middle of utter helplessness, it's also a kind of surrender, a surrender to another thing. And I feel like that was kind of where I wanted to start it off, like she was surrendering herself into this particular situation.

Was this overwrought character someone you had to come down from after filming wrapped?

(Laughs) I mean, on one hand it was such a hard job. You know, we were doing it during COVID with a lot of added issues to that, which meant our schedule had to be so much shorter and so there was a lot of stress related to that. And then just the keenness and the obsession I kind of had with getting it right, it was a beautiful thing to let go of that story afterwards. But I really miss Jo. Jo is a fabulous person I think. I really liked her.

tonight's PICKS

Ken Jennings

Nature

8 p.m. on WGTV

Between May and July of each year, billions of sardines gather along the east coast of South Africa to create a shoal stretching several miles long in one of nature's greatest spectacles. As the largest biomass migration on the planet, this run — which researchers estimate rivals Africa's fabled wildebeest migration — sees the tiny fish fighting to escape the mouths of multiple hungry predators that depend on this event for food. Special underwater cameras capture this event in "The Ocean's Greatest Feast."

The Chase

9 p.m. on WSB

Season 2 of this fast-paced game show wraps up with two back-to-back episodes. First, James "The Highroller" Holzhauer returns as the Chaser for an episode called "There Is a Time and a Place for a Hawaiian Shirt," in which he tries to beat three contestants in a race against the clock. In the finale that immediately follows, "This Is My Chair of Disappointment," Ken "The Professor" Jennings takes center stage as the last Chaser of the season.

Dr. Pimple Popper

9 p.m. on TLC

Dr. Sandra Lee is busier than ever with a new caseload of patients as this somewhat improbable medical docuseries returns for a new season. Thankfully, she'll have help from new associate Dr. Betty Song, who joins the practice ready and willing to help Dr. Lee with conditions that are unusual and even sometimes baffling. Among the new cases featured are a condition Dr. Lee never has seen before, in which a male patient has a facial cyst so large that it nearly covers one of his eyes almost entirely.

Chloe Bailey

The Game Plan
7 p.m. on TNT
Shaquille O'Neal's prowess on the basketball court is well known, but he uses his equally formidable business acumen in this new docuseries as he guides and mentors small business owners in the Atlanta market. The series introduces six entrepreneurs who present their products, which run the gamut from streetwear to food and consumer packaged goods, to host O'Neal and such special guests as Killer Mike, Lisa Leslie, Big Boi and Quavo, who respond with business tips and advice on potential pitfalls to avoid. First up: Kultured Misfits, a streetwear brand.

Call Me Kat
9 p.m. on WAGA
Sheila (Swoosie Kurtz) has been feeling down in the dumps, so Phil (Leslie Jordan) joins her on a road trip to boost her spirits in the new episode "Call Me Cupcake." Fortunately, Oscar (Christopher Rivas) is only too happy to step up and fill in at the café, although it doesn't sit very well with Randi (Kyla Pratt). Elsewhere, Max and Carter (Cheyenne Jackson, Julian Gant) make a bet as they start a juice cleanse together. Mayim Bialik also stars.

grown-ish
10 p.m. on FREE

John Lurie
Secrets of Sulphur Springs
8 p.m. on DISN
Harper (Kyliegh Curran) makes a huge promise to Daisy (Curran again) in the new episode “Check-Out Time.” Later, Harper and Griffin (Preston Oliver) share an original document concerning the Tremont, and Grace (Kenneisha Thompson) makes a totally unexpected appearance. Landon Gordon and Elle Graham also star.

Antlers
8:15 p.m. on HBO
Guillermo del Toro is among the executive producers of director Scott Cooper's 2021 horror thriller, which co-screenwriter Nick Antosca helped adapt from his own magazine short story. Keri Russell stars as Oregon schoolteacher Julia Meadows, who grows concerned about the strange behavior and unsettling drawings of Lucas (Jeremy T. Thomas), one of her students. She thinks he’s being abused at home, unaware that the boy is harboring a dangerous entity in his house. Jesse Plemons, Graham Greene, Rory Cochrane, Scott Haze and Amy Madigan co-star.

Painting With John
11 p.m. on HBO
“Quirky” is probably used too often to describe unusual shows, but the word definitely applies to this offbeat series starring musician, actor, director and painter John Lurie, who returns for his second season of six episodes. A combination of fireside chat and meditative tutorial, each episode finds Lurie at his worktable, reflecting on new life insights he recently has received as he works to refine his watercolor techniques. This new season also introduces something called Cowboy Beckett and includes such Lurie meditations as his ongoing ambivalence about fame.

“Sneakerella” (Feb. 18)

This modern twist on the classic tale is set in the avant-garde street-sneaker subculture of New York City and follows El (Chosen Jacobs, “Castle Rock”), an aspiring sneaker designer from Queens who must hide his talent from his overburdened stepfather and mean stepbrothers before finding salvation in Kira King (Lexi Underwood), the daughter of a basketball star. (ORIGINAL)

“Never Been Kissed” (Available now)

A plain-Jane newspaper editor (Drew Barrymore) of 25 gets to relive the indignities of her teens when she’s assigned to go under cover as a high school student. She finds it much more pleasant the second time around but it’s just too bad she can’t tell the teacher (Michael Vartan) she likes that she’s not really underage. David Arquette and Molly Shannon co-star in the 1999 comedy.

“Torn” (Available now)

From National Geographic and filmmaker Max Lowe comes this 2021 documentary about the deaths of his father Alex Lowe and his fellow climber David Bridges in a 1999 avalanche on the Tibetan peak Shishapangma and the complex relationships that resulted in Lowe’s family in the wake of the tragedy.

“Snow Dogs” (Available now)

Baby, it’s cold outside! Cuba Gooding Jr. stars as Ted Brooks, a dentist who inherits a team of sled dogs. But he’s from Miami, and the pooches like it chilly. The good dentist has to learn how to drive the team so he can win an important race; otherwise, he loses his canine colleagues to a rival. James Coburn co-stars in this 2002 family flick.

Alison Sweeney

The Wedding Veil Legacy

8 p.m. on HALL

A romantic trilogy that originally premiered in January concludes tonight in this third installment starring Alison Sweeney as Tracy, the last of three friends to take possession of an antique wedding veil the trio purchased together. Just as she is becoming cynical about the legend attached to this item, which is said to lead its owner to true love, Tracy meets Nick (Victor Webster), who helps her save an original draft of “The New Colossus,” the Emma Lazarus poem that appears in the Statue of Liberty.

The King’s Man

8 p.m. on HBO

The third installment in the “Kingsman” movie franchise and a prequel to the two earlier films, Matthew Vaughn’s 2021 spy action comedy underperformed at the box office, mainly due to pandemic-related issues. It still delivers an entertaining yarn about how the Kingsman organization was born during the turmoil of World War I. Ralph Fiennes heads the stellar cast as Orlando, Duke of Oxford and founder of the spy network, with Tom Hollander (“The Night Manager”) pulling triple duty in multiple roles. Gemma Arterton, Rhys Ifans, Matthew Goode and Daniel Bruhl co-star.

John Oliver

Swim Instructor Nightmare

8 p.m. on LIFE

Noticing that his 10-year-old daughter, Ashley, seems to have an irrational fear of water and refuses to go swimming, Parker hires Sabrina, a professional swimming instructor, to help his daughter. Unfortunately, he doesn't realize Sabrina is dangerously unstable until it becomes clear she has an unsinkable obsession with him — and she's prepared to drown anyone who stands in her way. CJ Hammond, Sydney Hamm, Shellie Sterling and Kiara Beasley star in this 2022 thriller.

Two Sentence Horror Stories

9 p.m. on WUPA

Proving that scary things sometimes come in small packages, this series closes out Season 3 with two back-to-back half-hour episodes. First, a recent widower discovers that the home he shares with his two daughters sits on haunted land where deeply rooted horror spans generations in "Heirloom." Romaine Waite, Erin Karpluk and Alaysia Jackson star. Then, in "Homecoming," three brothers must face the demons of their past when they return to visit their dying father at their childhood home. Andres Collantes, Michel Issa Rubio and Zak Santiago star.

Last Week Tonight With John Oliver

11:03 p.m. on HBO

British-born comic John Oliver will have some familiar targets in his satirical sights — including the apparently never-ending coronavirus pandemic and the widening partisan political divide separating Americans — as he returns for his ninth season. An Emmy magnet, Oliver and his show have bagged an astonishing 23 of those trophies since this series premiered in 2014. The show also has been the recipient of two Peabody Awards, a Critics Choice Award, two GLAAD Media Awards, five Writers Guild Awards and six consecutive awards from the Producers Guild of America.

Recalling life with Louie Anderson on his cartoon series

Q: I was saddened to hear of Louie Anderson's death. When was his cartoon series "Life With Louie" on? – Emma Cole, via email

A: With Anderson voicing a younger version of himself as he recalled his family life, the show began in primetime on Fox toward the end of 1994, then moved to the network's weekend-morning lineup soon afterward and continued there until 1998. An Emmy winner twice, the series also received the Humanitas Prize three times, a record for an animated program.

Q: Is it true that Whoopi Goldberg is going to return to the role of Guinan on one of the "Star Trek" shows? – Lou Shannon, Elyria, Ohio

A: It is. Goldberg will reprise the part she originally played on "Star Trek: The Next Generation" in the second season of "Star Trek: Picard," which begins streaming March 3 on Paramount+ (after filming of it was delayed by the coronavirus pandemic). She received the invitation from "Picard" himself, Patrick Stewart, when he made an appearance with her and her co-hosts on ABC's "The View" a little over two years ago.

"It's always scary to be asked to sing or dance when you don't identify necessarily as a singer or a dancer. And they really wanted me to go for it and to try to make the song sound as much like Cher, (which) was hard. ... It was fun but it was hard (laughs). Yeah, I was sweating a lot while I was shooting that scene." – Zoe Chao on performing "If I Could Turn Back Time" in the premiere episode of "The Afterparty" on Apple TV+
