State takes control of Rivian site to 'streamline' process

By DAVID CLEMONS
The Walton Tribune

MONROE, Ga. — At the request of the JDA and its four member counties, the state will take the lead on bringing Rivian to the area — and claim title to the land. This move, first reported by The Walton Tribune, will erase the need for local governments to conduct public hearings on zoning and other controversial measures.

Commissioner Pat Wilson of the Georgia Department of Economic Development wrote Joint Development Chairman Jerry Silvio and the chairmen of the Boards of Commissioners in the four counties that comprise it, saying a “robust public advisory process” would be undertaken.

Wilson proposed four committees: Workforce Development; Local Business Engagement; Site Design and Environmental; and Civic Engagement, Public Benefits and Land Conservation.

Wilson said the state agreed Rivian Inc. must comply with local standards for water quality, groundwater recharge and runoff.

He was responding to a request Friday from Silvio and Chairmen Bruce Henry of Jasper County, Ben Riden of Morgan County, Marcello Banes of Newton County and David Thompson of Walton County.

Gov. Brian Kemp announced Dec. 16 that Rivian had chosen a nearly 2,000-acre site straddling Morgan and Walton counties — with a portion inside the Social Circle city limits — for its next electric vehicle plant.

The company pledged investment of $5 billion and said it would hire about 7,500 people. But from the time word first leaked,

COVINGTON, Ga. — A forum featuring 10 Republican Congressional candidates was able to expose a few differences for voters despite all displaying ultra-conservative views of government needed to appeal to voters in the eastern Georgia district. The candidates differed wildly in private sector and governmental experience — which all said would be a benefit in one form or another for the 10th District and Georgia Republicans. They also differed on such issues as term limits, their top priorities if elected, and their top choices for

BOC hires Jarvis Sims as interim manager

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County commissioners selected a former Georgia city official for the position of interim county manager Monday.

The Board of Commissioners voted to name former Augusta deputy city administrator Jarvis R. Sims for the job overseeing the day-to-day operations of the Newton County government.

Commissioners voted 4-0 with one abstention for Sims for the position.

The county manager is responsible for submitting the annual budget to the Board and overseeing day-to-day operations of the parts of county government not supervised by constitutional officers — the sheriff, probate judge, tax commissioner and Superior Court clerk.

In addition to deputy administrator, Sims served as Augusta’s interim administrator for more than 18 months.

What It Means: A Black History Month Series

Williams says Black history is tantamount to perseverance, tenacity

By TAYLOR BECK

COVINGTON, Ga. — When former Covington City Councilwoman Hawnethia Williams worked as a teacher, she said there were no textbooks with a “comprehensive rendering of Black history.” In order to teach about Black history in her social studies class, she spent extra time conducting her own research to prepare lesson plans that were inclusive. “I wanted to emphasize in my class that Black history and its importance is not synonymous with suffering, but is instead tantamount to perseverance, achievement and tenacity,” Williams said. “Despite today’s opposition to teaching critical race theory, it is important to give all students the facts about Black history and their contributions to American society,” she said. That is one of the many reasons Black History Month is so important, Williams said. It is more than a celebration. It is about educating and raising awareness about the Black community’s struggles in addition to achievements. “Black History is important to me because it highlights not only the experiences but the courage that allowed those before me to impart wisdom on to their own and future generations,” Williams said. “Black History Month is important because it is woven into the fabric of American History and can guide the future by helping us to learn lessons from our past ... The importance of Black History Month is helping to insure that history is more inclusive, even though it is the shortest month of the year. I believe that Black history should be a part of American history throughout the year; therefore, this allows for all students to learn about Black history within the education system. Black History Month can raise awareness for past events. No one deserves to be misrepresented. Black History Month is more than a celebration of Black heroes and

$464,800 grant awarded for Hwy. 278 CID Master Plan Phase I

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Renderings for medians, signalized RCUTs and roundabouts along U.S. Hwy. 278 through Covington are one step closer to becoming a reality.

A Surface Transportation Block Grant in the amount of $464,800 was recently awarded to Hwy. 278 Community Improvement District (CID) and the city of Covington to cover preliminary engineering costs of Phase I of the Hwy. 278 CID Master Plan.

The Master Plan is a strategy that the Hwy. 278 CID partnered with engineering consultant firm Thomas & Hutton to draft a few years ago. Hwy. 278 CID Administrator Kathy Morgan said the plan would serve as a road map for various improvement projects along the corridor with the goals of enhancing public safety, developing a community identity, encouraging new development or redevelopment, and maximizing property owner investment. Some of those improvements currently call for roundabouts to replace various signalized intersections and installing medians along the corridor.

The grant amount of $464,800 was awarded through an Atlanta Regional Commission (ARC) Transportation Improvement Program (TIP) 2019 solicitation and is funded by the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) and Georgia Department of Transportation (GDOT). To receive the grant, matching funds up to $146,000 were required. Morgan said the Hwy. 278 CID would provide 55% of matching funds with the remaining balance to be divided between the city of Covington and Newton County.

The total projected cost of the Hwy. 278 CID’s portion of Phase I, which spans from Turner Lake Road to Emory Street, is $7.07 million. There are four components to Phase I: preliminary engineering, right of way acquisition, utilities relocation, and construction.

Morgan said the grant would fund just the first step to complete Phase I.

“To strategically design the Hwy. 278 CID Master Plan, we worked with the stakeholders, community representatives, city of Covington, Newton County and GDOT,” Morgan said. “This collaboration allows us the opportunity to ‘twin’ the project with the GDOT project for safety improvements in Phase I... The shared resources offer significant cost reductions for both projects. We are fortunate to partner with them for improvements to Phase I.”

Bell murder 2019 conviction overturned

By DAVID CLEMONS
The Walton Tribune

ATLANTA — A state appeals court has tossed the murder conviction of a woman found guilty of killing her newborn daughter.

Courtney Bell and Christopher Michael McNabb were found guilty of the death of 15-day-old Caliyah in a 2019 trial in Newton County Superior Court.

The child died two years earlier after going missing from a trailer park near Covington.

After a trial, Chief Judge John M. Ott sentenced Bell to 30 years with 15 to be served in prison on her convictions of second-degree murder, second-degree cruelty to children and contributing to the deprivation of a minor.

McNabb received a sentence of life without the chance of parole, plus 10 years, after conviction on eight counts including murder.

Courtney Bell

Bell appealed her conviction asserting insufficient evidence to support the verdicts. The state Court of Appeals agreed in a ruling issued Friday.

The court vacated the murder and child cruelty verdicts but sustained the deprivation conviction.

Bell was arrested Jan. 7, 2018, about three months after Caliyah’s death and after McNabb had been charged with murder. She maintained her innocence.

Although the Superior Court denied Bell’s request for a new trial, the appeals court agreed with her argument that the evidence did not show sufficient evidence she had anything to do with the trauma that killed Caliyah, and therefore she did not engage in conduct that rose to the level of cruelty to children in the second degree.

But the Court of Appeals did agree Bell’s conduct in the days leading up to Caliyah’s death warranted the conviction of contributing to the dependency

Bailey to seek reelection to Newton BOE District 1

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Trey Bailey has announced his intention to run for reelection to the Newton County Schools Board of Education as the representative for District 1 as a Republican.

“After much prayer and consideration, my friends and family agree that I should seek reelection in November 2022 to serve District 1 on the Board of Education,” Bailey said. “We have #UnfinishedBusiness.”

Bailey was appointed by the Newton County Board of Education on March 15, 2016, to serve the remainder of Stan Edwards’ term after he resigned to run for Board of Commissioners District 1. He was elected for his first full term in November 2018.

Bailey is a native of Newton County and has lived in District 1 for more than two decades. He is married to his wife of over 20 years, Alonda Hodges Bailey — a teacher at Mansfield Elementary School. They have three daughters Anna Beth, Kaitlyn, and Kristen, who all currently attend schools in the Newton County School System.

“As a lifelong resident of Newton County, child of a retired teacher, husband to a successful educator for 26 years, and father to three kids in public school, I believe that I can serve this community to the fullest, with heart and soul,” Bailey said. “Cut me and I bleed Newton County.”

Bailey is the executive pastor at Eastridge Church. After graduating from Newton County High School in 1992, he attended the University of Georgia before graduating from Mercer with a bachelor’s degree in Business Information Systems. He is currently working on his Master of Divinity at Luther-Rice Seminary.

Bailey has served the Covington Newton County Chamber of Commerce as chairman of Leadership Newton County with five years’ service and three years on the Special Events Committee. He and his family have a great appreciation for the arts and have volunteered with both the Covington Regional Ballet and the Arts Association of Newton County.

“I am not seeking to be a politician; I am seeking to make a difference for our kids,” he said.

With proven executive leadership in both for-profit and nonprofit sectors in Newton County, Bailey has demonstrated his dedication to the improvement of local public education. He exhibits integrity in decision making and is not afraid to stand up for his beliefs.

Bailey has a passion for learning and leading. His life mission statement is to be a catalyst for change in whatever opportunity is presented.

“The last two years have been extremely difficult for any leader, but we pushed through and are now headed in the right direction,” Bailey said. “As a school system, we aren’t where we want to be yet, but we are ready for the challenge. I feel like there is much work to be done, and I would appreciate another term to work toward achieving some of the goals I see as important.

“District 1, I would appreciate your consideration, your support, your prayers, and your vote in November.”

Voters can learn more about Bailey and his stance on a variety of issues by visiting his website, treybailey.us, or connecting with him on Twitter: @treybailey333.

Residents blast Rivian site developer for lack of public dialogue

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — A spokesman for residents opposing Rivian’s planned production facility termed as “hogwash” a developer’s assertion it has “continued to listen and engage in dialogue with the public” in planning for the project.

Chas Moore also called efforts to cull public favor so far a “circus” and criticized comments in a Joint Development Authority (JDA) news release.

In a statement released Friday before Monday’s announcement of state government involvement, the JDA said it and Rivian “have continued to listen and engage in dialogue with the public over the last several weeks regarding how best to plan for the proposed electric vehicle assembly facility.”

Preliminary plans — which JDA officials have noted were subject to charge — show the proposed 16-million-square-foot industrial complex is planned on a 2,000-acre site bordering northeast Newton County and straddling the line between Walton and Morgan counties.

“With an economic development opportunity of this size and scope, it is critical that we work together to ensure that the public’s input is properly incorporated into plans,” JDA officials said.

Moore represents the group Our Communities Oppose Rivian Assembly Plant, which has questioned Rivian and JDA efforts to meet zoning and environmental requirements.

He disputed any JDA and Rivian claims about willingly seeking public input.

“They have not made the first effort to contact and have dialogue with us,” Moore said.

“We have forced it through litigation efforts,” Moore said. “This is delayed because Our Communities with (attorneys) Stack & Associates forced it.”

The JDA recognized “this project is unprecedented for our community, as well as the state, and there are unique issues that are associated with it,” the release stated.

“As a result, our legal, environmental, and planning experts are thoroughly evaluating issues raised by both the public and the recent reports from the city of Social Circle and Morgan County Planning and Development. We have been assessing how to fairly address these questions in our planning process.”

It said some areas of both reports “have merit” but the Morgan County Planning and Development report includes some “incorrect zoning conditions and inaccuracies that we believe invite inconsistency of decision-making.”

It gave one example as what it said was the report’s inaccurate assessment of the Northeast Georgia Regional Commission’s (NEGRC) Developments of Regional Impact (DRI) “Final Report.”

JDA officials said a NEGRC press release stated that DRI reviews often occur very early in project development “which was the case with our project.”

“The proposal’s details and designs were still in-process when submitted for a DRI Review. It is not uncommon for a project to undergo design changes after a DRI Review has already been performed and, if necessary, resubmitted.

“It is also incorrect that a DRI report must be completed before a Planning Commission vote. That rule applies to the City Council only.”

The NEGRC press release also said: “...a number of environmental, traffic and other studies and analyses are currently underway, which is common for projects undergoing DRI Reviews. It is fully anticipated that the proposal will be adjusted, as appropriate, to address any findings and mitigating effects.

“Due to the heightened interest in this specific Final Report, the NEGRC will issue an amended report once new information becomes available, to accurately capture the proposed project’s evolution,” JDA officials noted.

The JDA also said “comments about a lack of information related to environmental issues simply means those studies were not available or complete at the time — this does not mean there will be problems.”

“We are confident we can reach a mutually beneficial outcome for all parties; however, we believe the areas mentioned above in the Morgan County Planning and Development report require additional clarification and review.

“Progress has been made with respect to the completion of assessments, plans and supporting materials including a groundwater recharge plan, independent groundwater assessment, site plan, and over three dozen letters of support.

“We believe all these materials, and additional reports and studies that are in process, will help clarify many issues for the public and relevant planning commissions.

“Regarding traffic impacts, the Georgia Department of Transportation (GDOT) has administered a traffic study to evaluate traffic impacts and planned improvements. That study will be made public once GDOT has completed it.”

But Moore said the JDA’s release is “full of untruths and I use that word so that they do not sue me for slander.”

He said the JDA only requested the delay as a response to the group’s attorneys’ requests that it be delayed or denied because the JDA’s applications were incomplete.

“These people thought they could come in here with their circus,” Moore said.

“They had no idea how incredibly talented Our Communities are and that we do not want them as neighbors bleeding the Georgia taxpayers and local citizens dry like vampires invading in the dark of night.”

of a minor. Bell failed to use proper care by using drugs and having the child in the presence of McNabb, who had used methamphetamine daily.

McNabb also used brass knuckles in an altercation with a man shortly before Caliyah’s birth.

Monroe attorney Eric Crawford represented Bell on her appeal. He said he anticipates Bell’s case will be placed on the Newton County Superior Court calendar for resentencing, unless the state appeals the Friday ruling to the state Supreme Court.

In a statement to his office’s Facebook page Friday, District Attorney Randy McGinley said he would review the court ruling and make a decision on whether to appeal, but noted the count that stands still carries a prison sentence of up to 10 years.

“Either side, including the state, may appeal the ruling to the Supreme Court,” McGinley said. “If neither side does, then Bell will be resentenced to the offense that was affirmed.

“Any decision on whether to appeal to the Supreme Court of Georgia will be made after a thorough review of today’s opinion by the Court of Appeals.”

Layla Zon was the district attorney during the 2018 trial of McNabb and Bell. Gov. Brian Kemp appointed Zon to a Superior Court judgeship in 2020.

Bell is serving her sentence at the Emanuel Women’s Facility in Swainsboro, to be released no later than Jan. 5, 2033.

about $8.8 million. Per the current plans for Phase I, GDOT would install two roundabouts — one at Emory Street and the other near Turner Lake Road — and a median through-out, with exception to West Street where they will install a signalized RCUT (Restricted Crossing U-Turn Intersection).

The Hwy. 278 CID will be tasked with funding everything “outside the curb,” which includes in the right of way to design the final plan for sidewalk or multi-use trail, utility relocation, right-of-way acquisition if needed, lighting and landscaping.

Morgan said property owners of the Hwy. 278 CID self-imposed an additional millage rate of 5 mills to fund the improvements. A grant for right of way has been recommended for 2023, and additional grants for utilities and construction also have been considered within this timeline, she said.

the city of Covington, Morgan said. Tasks would include writing the request for proposal (RFP) and compliance of the guidelines and specifications of the grant.

The preliminary engineering is expected to be completed within one year, barring any adverse findings in regards to utility placement, environmental studies or other criteria, Morgan said. As preliminary engineering gets underway, regular public meetings are planned to ensure property owners and other stakeholders have ample opportunities to receive plan updates and discuss public impact, she said. Phase I of the Hwy. 278 CID Master Plan is planned for completion in 2026.

“Working together with our partners, GDOT, ARC, City of Covington, and Newton County, this project will finalize the engineering to begin Phase I,” Morgan said.

“The next step is right of way acquisition, utilities and construction. This will create safe transportation alternatives such as cycling and pedestrian access, creating a welcoming entrance to Covington, connecting the Cricket Frog Trail to safe access to the park/ride lot as well as shopping, dining and job opportunities along the Highway 278 corridor.”

City and county leaders were excited to see Phase I of the Hwy. 278 CID Master Plan finally get underway.

“This grant award represents a major strategic funding step aimed at improving pedestrian and traffic safety along the U.S. 278 Highway Corridor,” Covington Mayor Steve Horton said in a news release. “The Covington City Council and I extend our appreciation to the Atlanta Regional Commission for awarding us this grant. We also want to thank Administrator Kathy Grant, the local, state and private partner staff, and all those who worked long and tirelessly to get us to this point in the overall project’s progress.”

Unsung hero of Black History Month

With the month of February recognized as Black History Month, it is a good time to look back at a person who not only made history but helped clear a path for future political candidates and campaigns.

Shirley Chisholm doesn't get a great deal of recognition for her role in the history of American politics, but she should. It was in 1972 that Chisholm launched a bid for the presidential nomination of the Democratic Party.

Even before her historic bid for the presidency, Chisholm was already a historic political figure. She was the first African-American woman elected to Congress in 1968. It was a seat she would end up holding until 1983.

Her campaign for president saw her become the first African-American woman to seek the nomination of one of the major parties. Her campaign was one that faced long, if not impossible, odds but she stayed in the race until the 1972 Democratic Party convention in Miami.

The 1972 Democratic primary had enough candidates that you needed both hands and both feet to count them all. U.S. Sen. George McGovern, former vice president Hubert Humphrey, Alabama governor George Wallace, U.S. Sen. Edmund Muskie, U.S. Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson, U.S. Rep. Wilbur Mills, North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, New York Mayor John Lindsay, Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, U.S. Sen. Eugene Shirley Chisholm – the first African-American woman elected to Congress – doesn't get a great deal of recognition for her role in the history of American politics, but she should. She launched a bid for the presidential nomination of the Democratic Party in 1972.

Chris Bridges |
Special to The News

McCarthy and U.S. Sen. Vance Hartke were the major players in the contest.

The nomination eventually went to McGovern although it was a race that went deep into the primary season.

Chisholm compiled more than 430,000 total votes and won the New Jersey primary. In the California primary, she compiled more than 150,000 votes. She never officially dropped out of the race until the convention where she had long discussions with her delegates about whom they should support moving forward.

In a time when the Civil Rights movement was still fresh, Chisholm's campaign was not always warmly greeted. It was reported she received death threats although it was not until after an attempt on Wallace's life that she gained Secret Service protection.

Chisholm was also the first presidential candidate that year to visit Wallace while he was in the hospital having survived a would-be assassin's bullets. It was a gesture that the long-time Alabama governor did not forget. Several years later, when Chisholm worked on a bill to give domestic workers the right to a minimum wage, Wallace helped gain votes of enough Southern congressmen to push the legislation through the House.

It was difficult for Chisholm to receive respect or support in her campaign from Democratic Party insiders. She was quoted as saying she was discriminated against more for being a woman than for being black. Her campaign motto of "Unbought and Unbossed" is still remembered today, decades after her campaign.

She made another piece of history in 1972 by becoming the first woman to appear in a presidential candidate debate although she gained access under threat of lawsuit.

Despite all of her historical achievements in 1972, Chisholm never ran for the White House again. She passed away on Jan. 1, 2005.

Chisholm paved the way for future female candidates for president and vice president, regardless of party or color. Her place in history is firmly set but it still seems she is not truly credited for all she did 50 years ago.

While she didn't get the nomination, there can be little arguing that she wouldn't have fared any worse than McGovern did in the general election later in the fall of 1972.

Not so fast, says opponent of Rivian

What others don't understand is Our Communities are thriving and happy. We don't need a 16 million square-foot behemoth or more employment opportunities.

JDA Chairman Jerry Silvio stated, "The payoffs are huge in terms of employment opportunities, education, quality of life..."

Georgia's 2.6% unemployment rate has businesses scrambling for staff. There are thousands of unfilled high paying positions throughout the region, including industrial and engineering positions. A new training center and related coursework paid via Georgia Taxpayers, not Rivian, sounds great, except these courses do not align with that of the regional workforce. UGA is a Top 3 university in agriculture and our high school touts a robust agricultural program supporting a community that centers around farming. Investing in improvements to the current curriculum would better serve our communities.

Heavy industry and quality of life are not compatible. Rivian and Morgan's Comprehensive Plan is like water and oil. The NEGRC recently released a report that warns of "hazardous waste such as paints, solvents, adhesives, batteries...that are typical of such manufacturing facilities" and "requirements may not be sufficient to protect residents and local environmental resources."

Such anxieties don't improve quality of life. This project threatens significant groundwater recharge areas and negatively impacts those that rely on wells with no access to municipal water. This proposal will shift municipal planning and take decades to implement infrastructure to keep residents safe.

This whole process lacks transparency by failing to inform the community of the overarching plan.

There was no solicitation of input from the general public and the property was marketed on a state level.

Vehement opposition grows as more learn of the catastrophic impacts.

Site selection occurred without proper vetting and most agreed developments of this magnitude should be on a referendum for a vote. Choosing an existing industrial site like: Rivian in Normal, Porsche in Hapeville, Tesla in Austin and GM recycling Saturn plants is more suitable. The "Brownsfield" Act in 1996 outlined reuse of abandoned industrial sites. Rivian could CHOOSE to take a Brownfield and make it "Green." It can help clean up prior contamination, thus avoiding contamination in other regions not impacted by heavy industry. The negative impacts here would be irreversible by an untested company in a competitive sector. "We are not the kind of company that just comes in and invades your space" - Zach Deitmeier, Rivian rep., and yet, that is exactly what they are doing.

Alternatives exist!

Local leaders should evaluate performance

Mark Funkhouser, writing in the Dec. 21, 2017, issue of Governing magazine, quotes Ralph Becker, former mayor of Salt Lake City, on the idea that former local government leaders should assess their job performance by documenting how they did in five areas: (1) finances; (2) social capital; (3) infrastructure; (4) shared prosperity; and (5) involvement in regional work. The question to be answered: "Did I leave my community in better shape than I found it?"

Funkhouser, himself a former mayor, suggests that current local government leaders should evaluate their performance in the same five areas. For them the question might be: "Will my community be better off because of my service?"

I was interested in Funkhouser's article as I was reviewing my local government service after 14 years on the Oxford City Council, including 12 years as mayor, and my 10 years representing Newton County's municipalities on the Northeast Georgia Regional Commission – including two years as Regional Commission Board Chairman.

Funkhouser emphasized that evaluations should be evidence based. For example, if you say you lowered cost and improved service, then provide data in support of your claim.

Listed below are the suggested five areas for self-evaluation. I have added a few sub-topics to start the process.

FINANCES

Financial Sustainability Plan (1 – 5 years) (10 years)

Management of Government Funds and Enterprise Funds

SOCIAL CAPITAL

Social Capital - Community Trust in Leadership

Building Trust with Communication, Compromise, and Collaboration

INFRASTRUCTURE

Planning Short-term and Long-term Infrastructure needs

Selecting the best Financial tool - Loans, Bonds, SPLOST, Grants, Taxes

SHARED PROSPERITY

Providing Public Services Equitably

Providing opportunities for self-improvement

REGIONAL INVOLVEMENT

Regional, Municipal, and County participation in Leadership Collaboration

Intergovernmental Agreements to improve delivery of services

FINAL EVALUATION

Is your community better off because of your service? Serving as an elected official is an honor and a privilege granted by those who render final evaluations – the voters.

opposition sprang up particularly in the Morgan County town of Rutledge. Foes cited the potential impact on the environment and the influx of workers on a small town.

Both the JDA — which is serving as the developer for the project — and an attorney representing the opposition asked the Walton County Planning Commission to delay its Feb. 3 public hearing on rezoning about a dozen properties that would become part of the Rivian project.

Late last week, the JDA said it would ask for delays from the Social Circle and Morgan County planning boards as well.

Now, the JDA will rescind those requests as the state takes over that part of the project.

A spokesman for the JDA issued this statement:

“The JDA is grateful for the state’s partnership on the Rivian project and believes that the path forward will allow for more meaningful public engagement and cohesive regulation of the project. The state’s commitment to create four committees to engage key community stakeholders is a welcome approach that the JDA will assist with as needed.”

In a statement Monday, Wilson said the Georgia Department of Economic Development and the JDA of Jasper, Morgan, Newton and Walton Counties announced his department would establish “a consolidated approach for environmental compliance, public input and community benefit” on the project.

“By taking these steps together, our goal is to streamline the entire project process,” Wilson said, “giving community members a strong voice throughout.

“We will continuously work with our city and county governments to ensure that every concern is heard and every question answered.

“We will collaborate with local leaders to build out a robust process for structure for local advisory committees to give area residents a voice as plans develop.”

Doing so will eliminate the public hearings — and votes — before local boards and commissions. A JDA official estimated the project would require 17 applications and 34 public hearings before completion.

Construction is scheduled to begin on the Rivian site this summer, with the first vehicles expected to roll off the line in 2024.

Wilson pledged state government resources to support the Rivian project and said his office would announce details and timelines “in the near future.”

The JDA will meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Board of Commissioners meeting room at 150 E. Washington St., Madison.

er and DeKalb County CEO Vernon Jones, who was endorsed by former President Donald Trump; Monroe businessman Marc McMain, who was endorsed by Walton County Sheriff Joe Chapman; retired police officer and security specialist Charles Rupert of Monroe; former Air Force colonel Alan Sims of Winder; and former Marine colonel Mitchell Swan of Good Hope.

Candidates ranged in age from Alvey, who is 25, to Broun and Rupert, who each were 70 or older.

Moderator Ken Harrell questioned candidates about their stands on such issues as the effect of federal deficit spending, presidential use of executive orders, top priorities once they get to Congress, and more.

There were few fireworks during the mostly cordial, two-hour event after 10th District organizers warned the candidates not to attack each other.

However, there were some indirect potshots.

Collins said in his closing statement he was “born, raised and, yes, I can vote in the 10th District” — a slap at fellow candidate Vernon Jones who recently entered the race with former President Donald Trump’s endorsement.

Jones is a resident of DeKalb County and longtime Democrat who switched parties at the end of 2020 in response to Trump’s loss in Georgia. Trump endorsed him after Jones ended a race for governor and endorsed former U.S. senator David Perdue in his bid to unseat Gov. Brian Kemp.

Some top priorities for candidates included:

- Alvey, Collins, Curry and Swan — a balanced budget and immigration;
- Barr — anti-abortion legislation and reining in the federal budget;
- Broun — balanced budget and and dissolving the Department of Education.
- Jones — Republican control of Congress and term limits;
- McMain — more assistance for law enforcement;
- Rupert — enforcement of existing immigration laws and completing the Keystone pipeline.
- Sims — national defense and energy independence;

The one committee each wanted to serve on:

- Alvey — House Agriculture Committee;
- Barr — House Government Oversight, to gain better control over government spending.
- Broun — House Science Committee, to investigate and give the public the “truth” about the origins of COVID;
- Collins — Transportation Committee, because of his experience in the industry;
- Curry — House Veterans Affairs, to help veterans have better access to health care;
- Jones — House Intelligence Committee, to find out about investigations into Trump and others;
- McMain — House Budget Committee, to attack the federal debt.
- Rupert — House Homeland Security, because of his background in the security industry.

- Sims — Energy and Commerce Committee.
- Swan — House Armed Services Committee, to help improve the “fighting spirit” of the military.

On term limits, Collins and Jones specified they would only spend six years in Congress.

“The longer you stay, the drunker you get,” Jones said.

However, Swan noted at least 15 years would be needed to learn how to pass meaningful legislation because of the ongoing system in Congress.

Broun said he would have seniority if he is elected because of the four terms he already served.

Congressmen and senators typically gain more powerful positions and committee assignments the longer they are in Congress.

The 10th District was redrawn in response to population shifts found in the 2020 census. It includes most of Newton County and parts or all of 18 other counties in north and east Georgia.

The congressional seat came open in 2021 after Hice announced he would challenge incumbent Brad Raffensperger for secretary of state.

The district is heavily Republican and voted about 70% for Trump in the 2020 presidential election, despite Democrat Joe Biden narrowly winning the statewide vote.

Candidate Matt Richards, a Barrow County businessman, was at the event but chose not to participate. He announced Monday he was dropping out of the race and endorsed Collins.

Another candidate, Patrick Witt, former deputy chief of staff in the U.S. Office of Personnel Management in the Trump administration, did not attend.

Mercer University and an online certification in government digital transformation from Harvard University, according to the Chronicle.

He also was a finalist for city manager of Forest Park in Clayton County and served as manager of capital projects and the public safety administrator for the city of East Point.

County Attorney Patrick Jaugstetter and Chairman Marcello Banes interviewed six of the original 19 applicants for the position before determining who they believed were best candidates to participate in a final round of interviews for commissioners to determine at least one finalist.

District 3 Commissioner Alana Sanders, the lone abstaining board member, said she did so because she objected to the hiring process.

She said the county charter does not prohibit commissioners from taking part in interviews prior to a finalist being named.

The Board chose Sims over Washington deputy mayor Lucinda Babers, who has worked as Washington's deputy mayor for operations and infrastructure since March 2019 and serves as first vice chair of the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) Board of Directors.

Sims will replace Lloyd Kerr after commissioners voted 3-2 in November not to renew his contract after it expired Jan. 1.

Board members did not disclose a salary for Sims. Kerr earned $135,000.

heroines, but learning about the struggles and injustices of these persons. Despite many adversities they met those challenges with courage not only in the past but also today, paving the way for ordinary people during extraordinary things.”

Williams said there were many Black men and women, “who did not let oppression, rejections, racial bias and violence against them stop them from pushing forward with resilience and spirituality,” that inspired her to pursue a role in leadership.

Williams said her father, Nathaniel Mitchell Sr., was one she admired most. Mitchell was a minister and was principal of Washington Street School before integration.

Like her father, Williams earned an undergraduate degree education from Clark College — Now Clark Atlanta University. She also earned a master’s degree from Georgia State University. Mitchell had earned a master’s degree from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, “despite difficult times of segregation,” Williams said.

“While at Clark, I always had my father in the back of my mind in terms of my determination to do well,” she said. “He and my mother (Ruby Mitchell) were my constant encouragers and supporters in every way. My parents believed in education as the way to a successful life.”

Williams said her father’s influence molded her into the type of teacher and leader she later became. Williams worked more than 30 years in education. She taught in Pike County before integration; Monroe-Area High School for more than 20 years; and then joined staff at the “original” Newton High School before retiring in 2001.

“I wanted to be like my father in being a hands-on teacher that had a major positive impact on my students,” she said. “Even my desire to run for Covington City Council was steeped in my father’s leadership. I wanted to be a servant as he had always been — always doing for others. During my entire 16 years as a Covington City Council member, I have always strive to do as much as I could for others carrying the legacy of my father with me.”

Another “main encourager” for Williams was the late T.K. Adams, who she described as an “icon of Newton County.”

“During the years of my teaching and as a Covington City Council member, [Adams] would always say to me, ‘Muh and Daa (as my parents were affectionately called) would be so proud of you,’” Williams said. “My life has been, and still is, propelled by so many loving people. As my daddy used to say, ‘No man (or woman) is an island. You didn’t get here by yourself.’”

Though retired from teaching and public service, Williams still strives to be an influence in the community she grew up, working to continue the improvement of the Black community’s quality of life.

“In many ways the quality of life for many Blacks in Newton County has and is quite positive (e.g. jobs, housing, leadership positions),” she said. “But unfortunately, there are many Blacks whose economic situations are still somewhat inadequate, such as inadequate housing that often leads to generational poverty and entrance into crime and esteem issues.”

Many families have persevered in spite of “economic trials” to provide a decent life for their families, Williams said, but there is still an economic divide between persons of color and other groups.

“Many Blacks in Newton County have been able to enter the middle class and also earn undergraduate and advance degrees, therefore receiving higher wages,” she said. “However, these outward signs of improvement mask deep inequities such as fewer opportunities to achieve health and well-being.”

Despite Newton County being a wonderful place to live, work, play and raise a family, Williams said “great disparities” remained. However, she and others are trying to make a difference.

“I, along with many other concerned Black residents, am continually talking to others about having pride in the neighborhood regardless of their economics,” Williams said. “This pride translates to doing better in how you carry yourself, so that young people will want to emulate that kind of behavior. Many older persons before me used to repeat to us as children, ‘Your attitude determines your altitude’ — in other words, how high you can go.”

Social Circle still undefeated, wins region title, top seed

By CHRIS BRIDGES
The Walton Tribune

COMMERCE, Ga. — After the Redskins rolled through the regular season, winning their Region 8-A public games by an average of 35 points, the league tournament seemed to be a fore-gone conclusion.

And it was as they swept a pair of games to take the region’s top seed into the state tournament.

They defeated Commerce 86-53 in the semifinals and Towns County 69-39 in the finals to remain unbeaten on the season.

Now, Social Circle begins its quest for history, trying to become the first boys team from Walton County to win a state title.

They are ranked No. 1 by MaxPreps and No. 4 by the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

They will host Atlanta Classical Academy, the fourth seed out of Region 6A-Public on Wednesday, Feb. 23 at 6:30 p.m., to begin the state playoffs.

Lady Redskins

For the first time in six years, the Lady Redskins are back in the state tournament. They entered the Region 8-A public tournament as a three seed and will be the same at state.

Slow start derails Newton’s title quest

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — It was deja vu for the Newton Rams on Friday night. The Rams lost to Grayson 71-61 in the Region 4-AAAAAAA championship game. Friday’s loss marks the second consecutive season Newton came up short against Grayson on the same stage.

This time around, it was a strong end to the first quarter by Grayson that propelled it to victory.

Early on, Friday’s contest went back-and-forth with each squad trading buckets. Then, things started going south for Newton.

It began with Grayson’s ability to consistently connect on its 3-point shots.

A host of Grayson players found the bottom of the net from long range in the closing minutes of the first quarter. In the first half alone, Grayson connected on eight, 3-pointers.

Then, following one of those 3-pointers, a Grayson defender intercepted Malachi Hardy’s ensuing in-bound pass intended for Ashton Pennamon.

Anthony Banks | The News

Newton’s Jakai Newton (0) puts up a shot against Grayson’s Kylan Fox (1) during the Region 4-AAAAAAA championship game Friday.

Grayson converted the wide-open layup.

To cap off the opening quarter, Giccari Harris nailed a long, 3-pointer as the buzzer sounded.

Harris’ shot near half-court gave Grayson a 25-11 advantage at the end of the first quarter. Three minutes earlier, Newton’s deficit was just three.

Head coach Charlemagne Gibbons pointed to his team’s sluggish beginning as the difference in the game.

“We got off to a slow start,” Gibbons said. “But between us missing free throws, layups and not shooting the ball well, you get down early. That’s what happened and we were having to dig back into the game.”

At halftime, the score stood 45-29 in favor of Grayson.

Nevertheless, after trailing by as many as 22 points in the second half, the Rams kept battling.

Nearly every Ram player contributed to cutting the deficit to as low as nine points. But it was a case of too little too late.

Unlike Grayson, Newton never seemed to be able to put a run together enough to draw the score closer.

In the final minutes of the contest, Grayson maintained possession of the ball to help

Legacy of Rev. Billy Graham

For my column, I decided to step outside of the sports world and discuss an individual who left a lasting legacy globally, nationally and even on me.

Monday, Feb. 21 marked four years since the passing of the Rev. Billy Graham.

From his first crusade in 1947 to his death four years ago, it is safe to say that Rev. Graham touched many lives throughout his ministry. He dedicated his life to preaching the Gospel and spreading the message to the entire world.

Rev. Graham preached in 185 countries and territories which encompassed around 215 million people.

In the United State of America, he often gave counsel to sitting U.S. Presidents from Harry Truman to Barack Obama. Rev. Graham’s willingness to do so earned him the title of “America’s Pastor.”

In addition to his preaching, Rev. Graham wrote 34 books which received numerous accolades.

Throughout all of his impact and success, what I admired the most about Rev. Graham was his humbleness.

A few months before Rev. Graham passed away, I was honored to visit his home and library located in Charlotte, North Carolina.

The entire tour of Rev. Graham’s library was awe-inspiring to go throughout his life and ministry to see what all he did.

A part of the tour was a room dedicated to showcasing most of Rev. Graham’s TV interviews through the years.

There was one particular television that showed an interview Rev. Graham did with Greta Van Susteran of Fox News when he was 92 years old. Susteran asked: “If you were to do things differently, would you do them over again?”

I vividly remember thinking to myself: “This is Billy Graham. He shouldn’t have any regrets with all that he accomplished and witnessed.”

But, what Rev. Graham had to say sent chills up my spine.

“I would study more. I would pray more. Travel less. Take less speaking engagements, because I took too many of them,” Rev. Graham said. “And, if I had to do it over again, I would spend more time in meditation and prayer and telling the Lord how much I loved Him and adored Him. And that I look forward to the time we’re going to spend together for eternity.”

Now, Rev. Graham is four years into eternity, but his legacy remains.

I remember Graham for all he meant to this world and the willingness he had to spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

He was, in my opinion, a great man. But, that’s all

Alcovy's Boyd signs with Judson University

By GARRETT PITTS

COVINGTON, Ga. — On National Signing Day, Alcovy's Reggie Boyd made the decision to continue his playing career up north at Judson University.

Boyd made his decision alongside his teammates, as they became part of the biggest National Signing Day in Alcovy High School history.

Boyd played a pivotal role for the Tigers at outside linebacker, being able to make plays in the run game as well as in coverage. Boyd's senior season

Linebacker spot for Region 3-AAAAAA.

Along with his talent on the field, Boyd credits his coaching staff with showing him how the effort inside of the classroom is just as important as the work he put in on Friday nights.

"I learned a lot from the Alcovy coaching staff, I mainly learned that student comes first in student-athlete," Boyd said.

After making his official visit to Judson University in January, Boyd knew that it was the right fit when he walked onto the stage to make it official on National Signing Day.

"The welcoming coaching staff [at Judson] and the beautiful city of Chicago sold me on my decision," Boyd said. "It has been a long journey; I have put in a lot of hard work and appreciate the opportunity to go to [Judson University] to play football."

As his senior year comes to an end, Boyd looks ahead to the fall where he will make the 800-mile long trip north to suit up for the Eagles on Saturdays.

"[Judson University] will be getting a versatile defensive player with a high IQ, who is eager to learn, and is ready for work," Boyd said.

Newton's Benton 'blessed' to sign with Independence

COVINGTON, Ga. — As part of an eight-player National Signing Day ceremony hosted by Newton High School, Nicholas Benton officially signed his scholarship to Independence Community College.

While Benton walked onto the stage, so many emotions came over him.

Upon reflection of his career as a Ram, Benton considers himself 'blessed' for the chance to play college football.

"A lot of people don't have the opportunity to play after high school," Benton said. "It's a blessing and all God.

I'm thankful every day and put in the hardwork and prayed. It goes to the man upstairs."

During his senior campaign, Benton recorded 38 total tackles and collected one interception on the season. His contributions for the Rams' defense earned him a spot on the All-Defensive team for The Covington News.

But his Ram career means more to Benton than statistics and recognition.

Benton recalled 5 a.m. workouts and tireless effort driven by his coaches to prepare him for what's next.

"The bar was set high by everyone else who was successful from Newton," Benton said. "I felt like [past players] set a bar that I had to get to that level. The work is different, but it's that work that's gotten me to this point."

Now, the senior Ram is off to join the Independence Community College football program in Independence, Kansas beginning in the fall.

With his next step solidified, Benton feels prepared as ever for whatever lies next. And he thanks Newton for that.

"Coach [Josh] Skelton is invested seven days a week," Benton said. "He takes time out of his day and he has kids, too. And it's a real family here at Newton. I'm thankful for that."

Westbrook's dream comes true with Highlands Community College signing

COVINGTON, Ga. — Tanner Westbrook took part in Newton High School's National Signing Day ceremony on Feb. 2.

As one of eight Rams penning their letters of intent, Westbrook officially signed to Highlands Community College in Virginia.

Even after his signing, Westbrook was shocked that he went through such a ceremony.

Westbrook said he's been thinking of this moment for a long time.

"This was always a dream of mine growing up," Westbrook said. "Seeing past seniors sign and now I'm here. It's just surreal."

Westbrook stressed how there were many factors that went into his final decision to sign with Highlands Community.

But, according to Westbrook, there was a moment where everything became clear.

"It was the visit for me," Westbrook said. "The coaching staff showed real love. You could tell that they care about player development, getting your education and they put education first.

Tanner Westbrook officially signed his national letter of intent to play college football at Highlands Community College beginning in the fall on Feb. 2 at Newton High School.

"They care a lot about making sure you get a degree. I'm really comfortable out there."

With his next step finalized, Westbrook reflected on his time as a Newton Ram.

This past season, Westbrook recorded 31 tackles in eight games played from his safety position. But, according to Westbrook, Newton has meant more to his career than any statistic could suggest.

"It's been everything for me," Westbrook said. "I remember coming in as a freshman and I was just a kid. My coaches and the faculty and staff care a lot about the players and getting every player to the next level."

Westbrook continued to express his gratitude for everything that Newton has done for him as a player and as a student.

Above all else, though, Westbrook remains appreciative of one thing.

"Just the love that is shown here," Westbrook said.

"I know I'm not going to find that anywhere else I go. This school has helped me become a good leader and I hope people remember that and that I was a good person."

Lady Eagles show progress in 2021-22

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Over the off-season, head coach Gladys King knew this season would be a rebuilding one for the Eastside Lady Eagles. But that didn't discourage her or the players from giving it their best shot night in and night out.

Each player's dedication to the game of basketball is what King believes made the team better as the year progressed.

"We never stopped," King said. "We practice everyday. We don't take days off. In order to get better you have to stay in the gym. I have a lot of girls that don't have the experience of playing like some previous players, so every second in the gyms helps them."

The Lady Eagles finished the 2021-22 season at 6-16 overall with a 4-10 record in Region 8-AAAAA.

In the six wins, Eastside downed Johnson High School twice, had a come from behind win at Clarke Central and earned its most decisive win against Apalachee during the play-in round of the region tournament.

The 70-43 win against Apalachee earned the Lady Eagles a spot in the winner's bracket facing Walnut Grove on the road.

Eastside's season came to an end at the hands of the Lady Warriors losing 64-46 with no state playoff berth.

Even so, King and her staff are optimistic for the future of the program based on this year's progress.

"This group [of players] is unique because of the lack of experience," King said. "But the growth that I was able to see was overwhelming and rewarding. When you spend days and nights pondering what to do with the different levels of skills it's challenging. It's also rewarding to see the improvement. As I say to the girls, 'all is not lost.'"

Eagles come up short for playoff bid

Coach plans to look at all parts of program moving forward

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — The Eastside Eagles 2021-22 campaign came to an abrupt end at the hands of the Clarke Central Gladiators. In the second round of the Region 8-AAAAA tournament, the Eagles suffered a 56-44 loss to the Gladiators at home on Feb. 16. As a result, the Eagles won't be advancing to the state tournament for a second straight year. For head coach Dorrian Randolph, it was indicative of how the season played out for his team. However, he hopes the returning players remember a lot about what transpired this year. "It's been an up and down season," Randolph said. "At times, it looked like we could be heading to do something great, but then there were times where we were not playing as much as a team. So, I hope the returning players see how they can buy into the system of being a team player." The Eagles' season ends with a 13-12 overall record as well as an 8-6 record in region play. Prior to the region tournament, Eastside ended the regular season winning three of its last four games. A win over Clarke Central on Feb. 8 gave the Eagles the fourth seed in the region tournament, too. But, even though Randolph labeled this season as an 'up and down' one, he and his team plan to get work as soon as possible to learn from this year. Randolph said he plans to look at every part of the program to build for better success moving forward. "I'm hoping this year causes us to come back hungry," Randolph said. "We went to state last year and didn't this year, and I want us to work to get back there. And that goes for us coaches as well. We gotta get back to where we were last year. I'm looking for us to improve in all facets of the game, including myself."

Even in the loss, though, Gibbons recognized that his team learned a lot about itself on Friday. "If you don't do the little things, you'll be at home early in the playoffs," Gibbons said. "We've got to do the little things and, tonight, we didn't do that until it got urgent. But we're going to get ready to live another day. We're in the state tournament and we'll get ready to rock and roll."

As a result of the loss, the Rams were named region runner-up for Region 4-AAAAAAA and will enter the state tournament as a No. 2 seed. State playoffs begin on Tuesday, Feb. 23 with Newton hosting McEachern in round one. Lady Rams The Newton Lady Rams entered last week's tournament having to face South Gwinnett in the play-in round. All it needed was to win that contest for a ticket into the state playoffs. Newton accomplished just that downing the Lady Comets 55-47. In the next matchup with Grayson, the Lady Rams fell 65-42, but that didn't deter them in their quest for the three seed. Facing Parkview on Friday, Feb. 18, Newton defeated the Lady Panthers 45-41 to claim the three seed out of Region 4-AAAAAAA. Therefore, the Lady Rams will travel to Pebblebrook on Wednesday, Feb. 23 at 6 p.m. for the first round of the state tournament.

he was to me and to this world — a man. I don't look upon the life of Rev. Graham as if he was perfect. If I did, then I missed his message entirely. Rev. Graham preached Jesus. When I remember

Rev. Graham, I think of his ministry, his words of wisdom and the many sermons he preached across this world. But I remain focused on the One who he was preaching about. As a minister myself, I want to thank and show appreciation for all that Rev. Graham meant to me. In my opinion, there'll never be another Billy Graham, but his legacy will live on through his books, library in North Carolina, his undying message of Jesus Christ and, for me personally, the impact he had on my life. "The legacy we leave is not just in our possessions," Rev. Graham once stated. "But in the quality of our lives."

What to look for in post-retirement job

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

The notion of relaxing on a beach all day in one's golden years is still a retirement dream for millions of adults across the globe. But many individuals also harbor a desire to keep working after retiring. Whether it's a volunteering gig or a part-time job retirees are looking for, certain qualities can make an opportunity uniquely suited to a post-retirement job.

- Flexibility: Retirees may be looking to contribute to their communities or simply earn a little spending money, but they will likely still want the freedom to travel or spend time with their families whenever they choose. So flexibility is something to look for in a post-retirement job. This is what makes consultant work so attractive to retirees. In-person hours may not be required of consultants, who can then offer their input while visiting their grandchildren or traveling the world.

- Socialization: Though the ability to work from home can make it easier for retirees to earn some extra money, some seniors aren't concerned about their finances but want to work so they can get out of the house. In that case, look for a job that offers the opportunity to socialize and meet new people. Socializing as an older adult is a great way to fend off loneliness. In addition, one study published in 2007 in the journal of the American

Metro Creative

Whether it's a volunteering gig or a part-time job retirees are looking for, certain qualities can make an opportunity uniquely suited to a post-retirement job.

Public Health Association found that social support networks have a positive effect on cognition among older adults. So a post-retirement job that enables retirees to socialize could delay or reduce the severity of age-related cognitive decline.

- Engagement: A job seniors find engaging also is more likely to provide the types of benefits seniors are looking for in post-retirement work. For example, researchers at Boston College's Sloan Center on Aging and Work found that seniors who find a job or volunteering opportunity truly engaging are more likely to benefit psychologically from those experiences than those whose post-retirement work is not engaging.

If seniors find themselves simply going through the motions with their post-retirement work, they can look for opportunities that they can be more enthusiastic about.

- Pressure-free: Regardless of what retirees did for a living prior to calling it a career, chances are they dealt with work-related stress. In fact, the American Stress Institute reports that 83% of workers in the U.S. suffer from work-related stress, while Statistics Canada reports that 62% of Canadian workers say work is their main source of stress.

After a lifetime of confronting work-related stress, individuals who want to work in retirement should look for pressure-free opportunities. This is an important quality, as the ASI indicates that stress has been linked to increased rates of heart attack, hypertension and other disorders.

The right post-retirement job may differ from what individuals looked for during their careers. Various qualities can combine to make for a post-retirement gig that benefits seniors in myriad ways.

There are various ways to combat rising cost of living

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Cost of living is a significant component of financial planning.

The cost of living may dictate where people live and work, and a high cost of living can influence how individuals spend their free time.

Data from Statistics Canada indicates that consumer prices rose 4.1% and 5.3% in August 2021 in Canada and the United States, respectively.

As Canadians headed to the polls in late September, a survey from Abacus Data found that 38% felt reducing their cost of living was a key factor affecting their vote.

Similarly, a 2020 survey from TD Ameritrade found that 47% of Americans feel that cost of living is the biggest threat to their financial security and long-term investments.

It's worth noting that the survey was conducted prior to the pandemic. Since the onset of the pandemic, cost of living has increased considerably.

Though the fight against a rising cost of living can feel like an uphill battle, individuals can take steps to prepare for such increases.

- Apply lessons learned during the pandemic. A recent Pew Research Center analysis of U.S. government and Eurostat data found that roughly 9.6 million workers in the United States lost their jobs in the first three quarters of 2020.

That period coincides with the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. When forced to confront sudden and unexpected job losses, millions of individuals learned how to get by on less income.

Cost-saving measures adopted during the pandemic can be continued or reimplemented, helping individuals to combat higher energy costs and other rising expenses.

- Look for a new job or fresh income streams.

A rising cost of living is a concern for people from all walks of life, but it may be especially concerning for retirees or individuals with costs like childcare that can be hard to pare back.

In such instances, individuals can look for new a job or fresh income streams.

According to the Q3 2021 CNBC | Momentive Small Business Survey, 50 percent of small business owners say it's gotten harder to find qualified people to hire compared to a year ago.

And nearly one-third of survey respondents indicate they have open roles they have not been able to fill for at least three months.

Individuals can explore local employment opportunities in an effort to find a new, more lucrative job that can help them combat a rising cost of living.

Others who want to remain in their jobs can look for part-time work to supplement their existing income.

- Consider relocating. The pandemic forced many companies to transition from in office working to remote working overnight.

That trial by fire could have lasting results. A 2020 survey of 317 Chief Financial Officers and leaders in the finance industry found that 74% will move at least 5% of their previously on-site workforce to permanently remote positions after the pandemic ends.

The survey, conducted by Gartner, Inc., also found that nearly one-quarter of respondents will move at least 20% of their on-site workers to permanently remote positions.

That could make it possible for millions of working professionals to relocate to regions with a lower cost of living than their current towns or cities.

The cost of living might be on the rise. But individuals can combat that increase in various ways.

Camryn Manheim is among the stars of NBC's revival of "Law & Order," premiering Thursday.

Camryn Mannheim helps maintain 'Law & Order' in original series' revival

When Camryn Manheim says that joining the revival of “Law & Order” brings her “full circle,” she really means it.

The Emmy winner for “The Practice” had several of her earliest television roles – three different ones – as a guest star on executive producer Dick Wolf’s long-running, franchise-spawning drama series. She returns to it as a regular for what NBC is calling its 21st season starting Thursday, Feb. 24, reinforcing Wolf’s “Chicago”-show and “FBI” tradition by opening an all-“Law & Order” night that also includes the “Special Victims Unit” and “Organized Crime” spinoffs.

Merging returning cast members and new additions, “Law & Order” now casts Manheim as Lt. Kate Dixon, the boss of the New York police detectives played by returnee Anthony Anderson (fresh off “black-ish”) and “Burn Notice” alum Jeffrey Donovan. Sam Waterston reprises his role as District Attorney Jack McCoy, and Hugh Dancy (“Hannibal”) and Odelya Halevi (“Good Trouble”) also are new to the series as prosecutors.

"I'd just gotten my master's degree from New York University," the friendly Manheim recalls, "and like every New York actor, it was my dream to get a guest shot on 'Law & Order.' I did a lot of Off-Broadway theater, and everyone would write in their program bio who they wanted to thank ... and at the end, they would write how many times they'd appeared on 'Law & Order.' For several years, I couldn't say that, and it was probably one of my proudest moments when I could add, "Law & Order: One episode.' And then, 'Two episodes.' And then, 'Three episodes.' "

Now, Manheim says, "I'm not going to lie, I'm still in a little bit of shock. I'm moving from Los Angeles to New York, and I would not have done it for any other show. 'Law & Order' has such a special place in my heart, and it's not just me, but all of New York. Actors dream to be on it, crew members' lives were made by it, and the city was vitalized by it. It's very profound for me."

Manheim's Dixon effectively is the successor to Lt. Anita Van Buren, played through most of the original show's run by S. Epata Merkeron (now on NBC's and producer Wolf's "Chicago Med").

“I think it takes a certain kind of woman to hold down this fort and make sure that everything works in tandem,” Manheim notes, reasoning that Dixon “has to keep the D.A.’s office happy, she has to keep the police chief happy, and she has to get her detectives to do the work: And I think that with how bossy I am in general, they sensed that I could bring her to life.”

Comfort foods are the word on Food Network

It's late February and if you're like a lot of Americans, you've been dieting since the calendar turned to 2022.

So after nearly two months of keeping yourself on the straight and narrow, you're entitled to a cheat day. And that comes Saturday, Feb. 26, on Food Network, when the cablenet offers up a morning full of programming devoted to comfort foods.

It begins bright and early with "Barefoot Contessa: Back to Basics," in which Ina Garten shows how to prepare an easy dinner consisting of rigatoni with sausage and fennel, roast chicken cobb salad, risotto and an iced tea. Not a bad way to start.

She follows that up on "Barefoot Contessa" by revisiting flavors from her past and updating them, skewing up a split pea soup with crispy kielbasa, a lamb stew with spring vegetables and fresh raspberry mini corn muffins. Hungry yet?

Also that morning on "The Kitchen," a celebration of comfort foods is in progress as Katie Lee prepares her luscious lobster pot pie and Jeff Mauro makes his melting sweet potatoes. Also on the menu is a barbecue braised brisket with sweet potato and carrot mash. Yum.

Speaking of celebrating, Ree Drummond is doing a little of her own in the first of back-to-back episodes of "The Pioneer Woman." In the first, she pays tribute to the foods from her grandma's house by making retro Salisbury steak in gravy, skillet scalloped potatoes and green beans, plus a dessert of apple crisp. Then in the second show, she recruits help from the ranch to prepare a Tuscan chicken soup, a casserole with cheesy greens, fried crispy potato balls and an easy Neapolitan cake. Who can resist?

In late morning, the crew of "The Kitchen" is back, this time adapting their childhood favorites for the adult palate. This includes a mortadella and fig pizza bagel and a Chicago-style deep dish pizza bagel from Jeff Mauro, Alex Guarnaschelli putting her own spin on pigs in a blanket by adding pretzels and mustard sauce to the equation, and Geoffrey Zakarian topping things off with a peanut butter and jelly creme brulee. Creativity gone to the next level.

Finally at noon, Mary Berg takes viewers to school on "Mary Makes It Easy," teaching a crash course in French cuisine and taking the mystery out of classic techniques. She then sets about making a croque madame (a sandwich with ham, gruyere cheese and eggs) with caramelized onions, steak frites, a peanut butter and jelly mille-feuille (a pastry similar to a Napoleon) and an omelet soufflé. Ooh la la!

Morgan Spector OF 'THE GILDED AGE' ON HBO

Did the costumes and the beard help get you into the ruthless industrialist mindset of George Russell?

Yes, absolutely (laughs). When I initially was cast, there was some talk about (19th century railroad magnate) Jay Gould, who if you look at images of him, it's mostly what you find in these caricatures of him looking kind of like Satan with an extremely long goatee. So I thought something that sort of nodded toward that would be good.

Did you get rid of the beard when shooting was done?

I did because I had to grow the beard – we were supposed to start shooting right at basically the week that the world locked down, so I had my beard all ready and I'd been growing it for months so that they would have a lot to work with. And then we punted. I mean, we didn't really know it was going to happen, right? I think when we went into lockdown, it was sort of inconceivable that anything like a set would ever really work again. And then miraculously the unions and the producers got together and figured out a set of protocols that actually worked pretty well.

tonight's PICKS

Sergio Peris-Mencheta

The Wonder Years

8:30 p.m. on WSB

The family spends spring break with Lillian's (Saycon Sengbloh) parents in the countryside, where Dean (Elisha Williams) tries to impress his cousins by lying about his exciting city life in Montgomery in the new episode "Country Dean."

NOVA

9 p.m. on WGTV

The new episode "Augmented" follows the dramatic personal journey undertaken by biophysicist Hugo Herr as he works to create brain-controlled robotic limbs. At 17, Herr's own legs were amputated following a devastating climbing accident, and he quickly grew frustrated with the prosthetic limbs he was given in their place. After years of research, Herr now is teaming up with another injured climber and a Boston surgeon to test a new surgical amputation approach that allows prosthetic limbs to move and feel like the real thing.

A Million Little Things

10 p.m. on WSB

On the road trip to Albany, Gary (James Roday Rodriguez) learns some new things about Maggie (Allison Miller) in the new episode "Any Way the Wind Blows." Meanwhile, Eddie (David Giuntoli) helps Rome (Romany Malco) in his time of need, while Regina (Christina Moses) establishes some necessary boundaries with her father.

Snowfall

10 p.m. on FX

Season 5 of this historical drama opens in 1986, with Franklin Saint (Damson Idris) and his whole family rich beyond their wildest dreams. The ground begins to fall out from under their feet, however, just as they seem on the verge of getting everything they've ever wanted. The sudden death of basketball star Len Bias due to an overdose thrusts the rock cocaine epidemic into the nation's headlines, giving both Democratic and Republican lawmakers a convenient target. Sergio Peris-Mencheta also returns.

tonight's PICKS

Paul Damico

Undercover Boss
8 p.m. on WGCL
Taking its cue from the classic Arthurian legends of the Knights of the Round Table, Round Table Pizza has carried the moniker of “Pizza Royalty” for 60 years, thanks to its homemade dough, signature three-cheese blend and the freshest toppings. Now company executive Paul Damico, who appeared on this series in 2013 while affiliated with Moe’s Southwest Grill, goes back under cover in this new episode to gain insights for expanding this West Coast pizza company to the rest of the country.

Brain Games: On the Road
8 p.m. on NATGEO
A fan-favorite National Geographic series takes a road trip in this new 20-episode series, which will air four episodes per night over five consecutive Fridays. With Philadelphia-born comic and radio personality Chuck Nice as host, each episode pits teams of everyday Americans against each other in an IQ showdown that encompasses mind-bending puzzles and brain teasers, color perception, memory tests and more. In the first of tonight’s four consecutive episodes, the Raise Gospel team takes on the Accidentals Quartet in such games as Upside Down Frowns and Trictionary.

Magnum P.I.
9 p.m. on WGCL
A bail bondsman hires Magnum and Higgins (Jay Hernandez, Perdita Weeks) to track down a woman who skipped out on her $250,000 bond in the new episode “Run, Baby, Run.” After they find the body of another private eye who had been pursuing the same quarry, they team up with Detective Lia Kaleo (Chantal Thuy) on the case. Meanwhile, T.C. and Katsumoto (Stephen Hill, Tim Kang) work together to find Cade’s (Martin Martinez) mother. Tim Griffin and Veronica Diaz Carranza also guest star.

What's Available NOW On

“Free Guy” (Feb. 23)

Shawn Levy's pandemic-delayed, sweetly funny 2021 action comedy scored a substantial success when it eventually hit theaters, charming many critics as well. Ryan Reynolds stars in the title role of Guy, a mild-mannered bank teller who discovers quite belatedly that he's actually a non-player character (NPC) in a massive online video game. Jodie Comer (“Killing Eve”), Utkarsh Ambudkar (TV's “Ghosts”) and Taika Waititi co-star.

“The Proud Family: Louder and Prouder: Season 1” (Feb. 23)

The saga of the Proud family continues with this new series of comedic animated shorts, which picks up the story of central character Penny Proud and her madcap family of parents Oscar and Trudy, twin siblings BeBe and CeCe, and grandmother Suga Mama. Kyla Pratt, Tommy Davidson, Paula Jai Parker and Cedric the Entertainer head the voice cast. (ORIGINAL)

“The Chicken Squad: Season 1” (Available now)

Originally aired on Disney Junior, this animated comedy adventure series follows a trio of young chicken siblings—Coop, Sweetie and Little Boo—and their retired search and rescue dog mentor, Captain Tully, as they team up on problem-solving adventures, help their animal friends and model what it means to be good community helpers. The voice cast includes Yvette Nicole Brown, Ramone Hamilton, Gabriella Graves and Maxwell Simkins.

“The New Air Force One: Flying Fortress” (Available now)

After three decades, Air Force One is due to be replaced. This documentary series from National Geographic follows the creation of the new presidential aircraft and gives an inside look at the cutting-edge technology that transforms the plane into a top-secret command center and the “flying White House.”

Anthony Anderson

Murdoch Mysteries

7 p.m. on OVA

Season 15 of this period mystery series gets off to an eventful start in “The Things We Do for Love,” the first of a two-part episode, which finds the criminal organization known as the Black Hand feverishly searching for Anna Fulford, an old flame of Murdoch’s (Yannick Bisson) and the mother of the son he only recently learned about. Meanwhile, George Crabtree (Jonny Harris) is kidnapped by two deranged sisters, and an Asian family is in turmoil after their daughter is murdered by her white husband.

53rd Annual NAACP Image Awards

8 p.m. on BET COM MTV PARMT TVLAND

A seven-time Image Award winner himself, Anthony Anderson (“Law & Order”) hosts this year’s celebration of Black excellence, which will take place without a live audience presence again this year due to the unpredictable course of the coronavirus pandemic. HBO’s recently concluded sitcom “Insecure” leads in nominations for the television and streaming categories, while singer-songwriter H.E.R. received the most nods in the music recording categories. Performers vying for Entertainer of the Year are Jennifer Hudson, Lil Nas X, Megan Thee Stallion, Regina King and Tiffany Haddish.

American Idol

8 p.m. on WSB

Ryan Seacrest, who has been with "American Idol" since its 2002 premiere on Fox, returns as host as this Emmy-winning music competition series opens its historic 20th season, which is expected to include guest appearances by former contestants as it unfolds. Also back are judges Katy Perry, Luke Bryan and Lionel Richie, who have been with "Idol" since it moved to ABC in 2018. Production details are still in discussion, but the show is expected to continue the format it has used since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Helen Mirren will receive the SAG Life Achievement Award during this year's ceremonies, simulcast on both TBS and TN1 live from the Barker Hangar in Santa Monica, Calif. The award, presented annually to an actor who fosters "the finest ideals of the acting profession," is only the latest accolade for Mirren, whose many previous honors include an Oscar, three Emmys and a Tony Award, among several others. In the competitive performance categories, "House of Gucci" and "Power of the Dog" lead the movie nominations with three nods each.

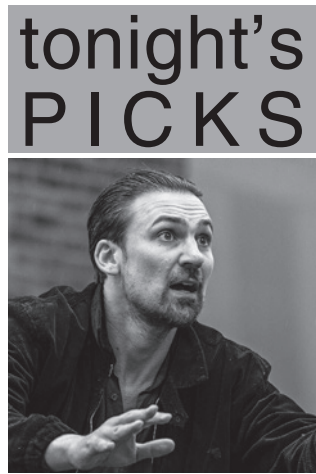

8 p.m. on BBCA
Eve, Villanelle and Carolyn (Sandra Oh, Jodie Comer, Fiona Shaw) each finds herself in an unfamiliar emotional place as this multi-award-winning thriller returns for its fourth and final season, which comprises eight episodes. After their meaningful exchange on the bridge at the climax of Season 3, Eve (Oh) embarks on a revenge mission, while Villanelle has found a new community as she struggles to prove she's not a monster. Elsewhere, Carolyn continues pursuing The Twelve and the person who ordered the hit on Kenny.

Spring Baking Championship

8 p.m. on FOOD

A beloved seasonal kitchen competition returns for Season 8, with host Molly Yeh challenging the 12 of the best bakers in the world to create and elevate springtime desserts that will impress judges Kardea Brown, Duff Goldman and Nancy Fuller. In the two-hour premiere, "Everything's Coming Up Floral," Yeh tasks the newly arrived bakers to make fruit tarts that showcase their personalities, then create floral bonanza cakes. Look for some major twists, not to mention double eliminations, as the season unfolds.

NCIS

9 p.m. on WGCL

While they are investigating the death of an intruder at Quantico, Jimmy and Kasie (Brian Dietzen Diona Reasonover) find themselves exposed to a deadly neurotoxin, prompting the rest of their team to enlist the help of Dr. Carol Wilson (guest star Meredith Eaton) in a race against the clock in the new episode "The Helpers." Meanwhile, Torres (Wilmer Valderrama) has his hands full trying to distract Jimmy's young daughter, who had been spending the day at the office with her dad. Sean Murray also stars.

Ragdoll

10:02 p.m. on AMC

The production team from "Killing Eve" also is behind this dark new six-part thriller series, about a serial killer stalking London. The madman's six victims have been murdered and dismembered, then sewn into the shape of one grotesque body hanging from the ceiling in a block of apartments. The grisly case is assigned to newly reinstated Detective Sgt. Nathan Rose (Henry Lloyd-Hughes, "The Irregulars"), Detective Inspector Emily Baxter (Thalissa Teixeira, "The Musketeers") and new recruit Detective Constable Lake Edmunds (Lucy Hale, "Pretty Little Liars").

President Joe Biden

Superman & Lois

8 p.m. on WUPA

Lois (Elizabeth Tulloch) alerts Clark (Tyler Hoechlin) that she and Chrissy (Sofia Hasmik) are going to dig deeper into the workings of the Inverse Society in the new episode “Tried and True.” Meanwhile, Lana (Emmanuelle Chriqui) and her daughter Sarah (Inde Navarrette) comfort each other in the wake of ugliness at the latter’s quinceañera, and Jordan (Alex Garfin) notices something suspicious in Jonathan’s (Jordan Elsass) book bag. Elsewhere, Lt. Mitch Anderson (guest star Ian Bohen) comes under fire for the deterioration in the Department of Defense’s working relationship with Superman.

Lady Buds

8 p.m. on STARZ

Filmed before the COVID pandemic settled in, filmmaker Chris J. Russo’s first documentary feature focuses on a small group of women who emerge from the shadows of the pot-selling business and try to secure a piece of the pie that is this recently legalized industry. They’re a diverse group of personalities, with a lot of business savvy and expertise, but almost immediately they run into the kind of hurdles smaller local community businesses face from big money and well-organized political machinations.

The State of the Union

9 p.m. on WAGA

Joe Biden, the 46th president of the United States, gives his first State of the Union Address to the 117th United States Congress in the chamber of the House of Representatives. Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi and Vice President Kamala Harris, in her capacity as president of the Senate, are expected to preside over this joint session, which would be the first time two women will be seated behind the president during a State of the Union address. The speech will be carried by the Big Four broadcast networks and major cable news outlets.

'Ghosts' is scaring up a second season

Q: Will "Ghosts" return for another year? – Stephanie Flack, via email

A: It will, and the recent news that CBS has renewed it for a second season came as absolutely no surprise. The Rose McIver-starring comedy has been an unqualified hit with viewers and critics alike since its premiere, so the much bigger surprise would have been if it hadn't been renewed ... which simply wasn't going to happen. Moreover, the show's ratings have kept improving, and that sort of growth is what any network wants to see in one of its series – particularly one with the potential to stay strong for a while. More good news for ViacomCBS is that "Ghosts" also fares extremely well on the Paramount+ streaming service, so rest assured that it will be around for some time to come.

Q: Now that Lori Loughlin has acted again in "When Hope Calls," will she be making more movies, too? – Marianne Bond, Fruita, Colo.

A: We would expect so, and that likely would be for GAC Family, which picked up "When Hope Calls" after its first season on Hallmark outlets. As is widely known, Hallmark eliminated all Loughlin-related content – to the extent of editing "When Calls the Heart" episodes to remove her scenes – after her connection to the college-admissions scandal became known.

Former Hallmark Channel chief Bill Abbott now runs GAC Family, and he's made a point of luring as much Hallmark talent as he can. Social media has confirmed that Loughlin still has a sizable fan base, which likely contributed to Abbott's decision to bring her into "When Hope Calls," so it seems probable that he also would offer movie work to her.

celebrity quotes

"I grew up with 'The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air.' It was the No. 1 show to watch in my house; we had the six seasons on boxed DVD sets, and they would just be on 'repeat.' " – Jabari Banks of "Bel-Air" on Peacock

"Tonally as a show I find it to be tricky. I think if we can get it, though, and we hit it right, it's hopefully very rewarding because my favorite kind of shows are the ones that make you laugh until you cry." – Sofia Black-D'Elia of "Single Drunk Female" on Freeform on balancing humor with very serious subject matter
