New State Laws

New, expanded state tax credits take effect

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Most bills the General Assembly passes each year take effect on July 1. But a smattering of new laws enacted during the 2022 legislative session kicked in Sunday, Jan. 1, including a bill making it easier for food trucks to do business and several new or expanded tax credits. The food truck legislation does away with a current requirement in Georgia law that food truck operators obtain a permit and inspection in every county where they do business. “Almost all food trucks operate in multiple counties,” said Tony Harrison, board president of the Food Truck Association of Georgia. “That means multiple permits and fees. It’s just insane.” Under House Bill 1443, which members of the General Assembly passed unanimously last March, food truck operators need only notify county health departments when they open for business in their communities. “We do not have to go through all the paperwork and fees,” Harrison said. “We’ve already seen an increase in food trucks popping up before the law has even taken effect.” While the tax credit bills technically became effective last summer, they didn’t really become reality until New Year’s Day, the beginning of the tax year. Three of the measures create new income tax credits. House Bill 424 will provide a tax credit to Georgia taxpayers who contribute to nonprofit organizations that help foster children about to age out of the foster care system. More than 700 young men and women age out of the system each year. Senate Bill 361, which was

Hice looks to life outside elected office

By STEPHEN MILLIGAN
The Walton Tribune

MONROE, Ga. — Jody Hice left the U.S. House of Representatives at the end of December but promised he’s not leaving the fight behind for a future informed by conservative values. “It’s bittersweet,” Hice said as he bids farewell to the House after four terms as Georgia’s congressman for the 10th District that includes part of Newton County. “It’s been the honor of a lifetime to represent ... the 10th District in Washington for the past eight years. I ran on term limits and I believe in them.” Hice said it was too soon to formally announce his future plans on leaving office but insisted it would keep him on the front lines of the conservative struggle.

Jody Hice

“I will stay active and involved in fighting for our conservative values,” Hice said. “I’m going to stay in the battle in a different capacity.” Hice is leaving office after choosing not to run again for Georgia’s 10th Congressional District seat in the House — which will soon be occupied by Mike Collins — but instead mounting an unsuccessful bid for the Georgia Secretary of State seat. Hice lost to incumbent Brad Raffensperger in the primary and now finishes his last term in the House with pride as he reflects on his battle for a variety of issues. One of those in particular was close to the heart of the former pastor. “Religious liberty has been a major issue for me,” Hice said. “We had a few big battles that brought national attention to the fight against the IRS.” Hice in particular has been a major advocate for repealing the Johnson Amendment, which restricts churches, among other nonprofit organizations, from discussing politics. See HICE, A2

Angela Nave, right, enjoys her retirement celebration Dec. 28 with husband, Tom, at Pruitt Healthcare in Covington.

Angela Nave says she never expected to retire from only job in 46 years

By ABBEY GRACE VENHAM
news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — After 46 years of working at Pruitt Healthcare, Angela Nave is finally ready for some time off the clock. Retiring was a decision that didn’t come easy to the Covington resident. But having been with this company since the 1970s, now is her time, she said. As the job industry has evolved over the years, a person working just one job in one place for as long as Nave did is almost unheard of now. But what kept Nave at Pruitt Healthcare for literally her entire life — she began working at Pruitt and its predecessors at age 15 — is her passion for the residents. Although she spent almost half a century devoting herself to her career, every remarkable moment and memorable resident she experienced is treasured equally to her. “It’s very meaningful knowing that you are helping residents and their families in a time where you know they need it,” Nave said. Pruitt Healthcare purchased the facility in July of 2013, but it was formerly known as the Covington Manor. Nave started working at the Manor when she was just 15. She attended Newton High School — the county’s only high school at the time — in the late 1970s, and she would get off the school bus to clock in at work. At only 15, she followed her mother’s footsteps, as she was a nurse for the Covington Manor. Nave got a job working alongside her mother and happened to be the first part-time employee in the Manor’s history. Nave has been present for all the changes over the years, and never once left for other opportunities. She worked in various capacities at Pruitt, resting in her final position for the company as its financial counselor. “I started out as a nursing assistant, and I think it was about (1982) I became activity director. Then about ’88, social activity director,” Nave said. “Then in ’97, the owner of the company at that time wanted me to become office manager.” Originally, the facility was only for long term nursing home care, but throughout her employment, Mrs. Nave has seen the adoption of a rehab program. Pruitt now offers long-term care and short-term rehabilitation for residents. Although her memories of Pruitt are all held close to her, the most fun she had was during her time as activity director. Moments that stood out to her may seem small to others, but she witnessed the gravity of her work on the residents.

“We took some residents to the airport because some had never been on an airplane, and this is back when you could go and watch the airplanes take off,” Nave said.

“We went to the mall, and some of them had never been on an escalator. There’s lots of little things that stand out.”

The average worker in 2019 had 12 jobs in a lifetime and only remains at a job an average of 4.1 years, according to career website Zippier.

Nave’s long-range loyalty to Pruitt Healthcare was not always the plan, but she’s overly grateful for her decision to stay for so long.

She said she was never in it for the money —hence her contentment to remain instead of searching for more lucrative opportunities — but she remained modest and enriched the lives of many residents over the years.

“It satisfied me, it satisfied my heart and soul, and I was just content,” she said.

Since 1976, the industry has evolved into what’s best for every resident, and Nave evolved with it every step of the way. After giving everyone in her path the care they needed, Nave now plans to begin her own self-care.

“First thing, turn off the work alarm, and live on Angela time,” Nave said.

She is retiring from Pruitt Healthcare a year earlier than she expected to, which also means she is retiring as a weekend warrior. Weekday boaters at Lake Oconee should not think it strange to find Nave relaxing by the water on a day that isn’t Saturday or Sunday.

Although she will miss working for Pruitt Healthcare, she says she’s more than ready to wake up at her leisure and live for her next chapter.

“I will miss it in one aspect, but in another aspect, after 46 years I’m ready,” Nave said.

“It took me a year to come to this decision. I was going to wait until I was 62, and I’m giving myself a year of early retirement.”

Georgia Research & Development Tax Credit

Audit finds R&D tax credit a poor return on investment

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Georgia’s Research & Development Tax Credit has not been a good investment when it comes to quantifiable dollars and cents, according to a new audit.

But the program is paying off in intangible ways, the Carl Vinson Institute of Government at the University of Georgia concluded in a report commissioned by the state Department of Audits and Accounts.

Businesses can receive a state R&D tax credit worth 10% of the company’s year-over-year increase in qualified research expenses. Between 2015 and 2020, the program cost the state from $190.5 million to $302.5 million in annual lost tax revenue, according to the Georgia Department of Revenue.

The incentive the tax credit provides resulted in only minimal additional spending on research and development. Since the credit increased R&D spending by only 5%, the audit concluded that 95% of what businesses are spending on research and development would have been spent even if the credit didn’t exist.

As a result, each $1 the state loses in tax revenue to the credit generates only 56 cents in economic impact, the audit found.

“Even after extrapolating indirect and induced economic impacts, the value proposition of Georgia’s R&D tax credit is low,” the audit concluded.

But that doesn’t tell the whole story. The audit asserted that some benefits of a research and development tax credit are intangible and can’t be tied to a single recipient of a credit.

“Research and development may elevate the profile of the state and local business environment,” the report stated. “While traditional economic impact modeling is designed to capture the effect of increased employment, spending, and taxation within a region, it may fail to fully account for the clustering effect of businesses, suppliers, and customers.”

The audit cited as an example two companies that relocated to Georgia so they can more easily collaborate on research and development.

“These relocations may also add to the state’s reputation as a good place to conduct business, another intangible that cannot be captured by a traditional quantitative impact,” the audit found.

The report also concluded that money companies invest in educational systems to help grow a pipeline of employees is another benefit that can’t be quantified.

The audit was the result of legislation the General Assembly passed in 2021 requiring periodic evaluation of Georgia tax credits and exemptions on a rolling five-year basis.

zations, from making political endorsements to preserve their tax-free status. Hice was proud to say he voted twice to repeal the Johnson Amendment in House votes, though neither attempt was able to pass the Senate to become law.

“I continue to hope we can see this happen at last someday,” Hice said.

Among recent accomplishments, Hice said he was very proud to finally see the Kettle Creek Revolutionary War battlefield site in Wilkes County made a national park, a fight multiple congressmen have taken up over the years and finally happened just this year.

“We’re extremely honored to get this across the finish line,” he said.

Hice said he was also thrilled to see the Supreme Court finally rule against the idea that abortion is protected by the Constitution, fulfilling the dreams of pro-life activists like himself after decades of struggle.

“Seeing Roe v. Wade overturned was a huge accomplishment,” he said.

Still, Hice points to a multitude of issues that must still be addressed, including the border crisis, energy needs, economic relief and much more.

“There are so many issues,” Hice said. “But we have a House of people left behind to continue the battle.”

And Hice hopes to contribute too in a new role, but for now he reflects on how grateful he is to everyone who supported him over the past eight years and helped him work to make America a better place.

“I’m deeply grateful to Walton County and all the people throughout the 10th District,” Hice said. “We wish to express a hearty thank you and incredible gratitude. We’re forever grateful.”

championed by Lt. Gov. Geoff Duncan, will provide a dollar-for-dollar income tax credit on contributions to public safety initiatives in the taxpayer’s community.

Law enforcement agencies will be able to use the money for police officer salary supplements, to purchase or maintain department equipment and/or to establish or maintain a co-responder program.

Senate Bill 87, the Jack Hill Veterans’ Act, honors the late state Sen. Jack Hill of Reidsville, who died in 2020.

It provides income tax credits in exchange for contributions to scholarships for service-disabled veterans through the Technical College System of Georgia Foundation.

The General Assembly also expanded Georgia’s rural hospital tax credit through House Bill 1041, which increases the annual statewide cap on the credit from $60 million to $75 million.

Rural hospital administrators and the program’s legislative supporters originally sought to raise the cap to $100 million but were forced to settle for the lower figure.

Fiscal conservatives in the General Assembly have launched efforts in recent years to bring closer scrutiny to Georgia’s tax credits to ensure they’re worth the hit to state tax revenues.

But tax credits that incentivize taxpayers to contribute toward popular causes that need financial help have tended to survive unscathed, said Kyle Wingfield, president and CEO of the Georgia Public Policy Foundation.

“There don’t seem to be a whole lot of problems with them,” Wingfield said.

Another bill that will take effect on Sunday, Senate Bill 332, also known as the Inform Consumers Act, is aimed at preventing criminals from selling goods stolen from retail stores on any online marketing platform.

It establishes financial and contact information requirements for high-volume sellers to online marketplaces and requires such platforms to establish an option for consumers to report suspicious activity.

“Here in Georgia, we will do everything possible to curb crime and make life difficult for those who break the law,” Gov. Brian Kemp said last May as he signed the bill.

“We’re dealing another blow to the organized gangs that steal from Georgia shops and stores by making it much harder for them to profit from their heists.”

Georgia’s Cumberland Island

Preservationists: New plan will ruin pristine seashore

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Fifty years after the Cumberland Island National Seashore was established, the National Park Service (NPS) is pushing a plan that essentially would double daily visitation to the remote barrier island.

While the NPS is selling its Visitor Use Management Plan (VUMP) as a way to provide access to the island’s unique natural beauty to a wider range of visitors, preservationists say the plan would ruin what makes Cumberland special. “The VUMP Plan is a disaster for the island,” Carol Ruckdeschel, a biologist and environmental activist who has lived on Cumberland Island for decades, wrote in an email to Capitol Beat. “The NPS must be required to do a complete Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) and not be allowed to sneak by with only an assessment. Much of the plan seems to follow no rules or guidelines. It is outrageous.”

Cumberland Island, Georgia’s largest and southernmost barrier island, stretches for nearly 18 miles of pristine beaches and wilderness. At its southern end are the ruins of Dungeness, a mansion built by steel magnate Andrew Carnegie’s brother Thomas in the 1880s.

Toward the northern end is the First African Baptist Church, built by former slaves in the 1890s and rebuilt in the 1930s. The church was the site of the wedding of John F. Kennedy Jr. and Carolyn Bessette in 1996.

The island is reachable only by private boat and ferry service that operates twice daily from downtown St. Marys, with a return trip three times a day.

Under the current visitation plan, which dates back to 1984, the ferries limit access to 300 visitors a day. The new plan calls for delivering up to 600 visitors each day to two docks on the western shore near the southern end of the island and potentially another 100 at a dock at Plum Orchard, an estate in the middle of Cumberland’s western shore.

Gary Ingram, the national seashore’s superintendent, said the genesis of the idea for increasing the number of visitors allowed on Cumberland came from Camden County residents who complained to him that the ferry trip is too expensive.

“Many born and raised in our local area have never been to Cumberland Island,” Ingram said last month during a public meeting on the new plan. “This group is far more diverse than the majority of people who visit the park. ... We are hopeful this small increase in visitation will lower the price of the ferry.”

Andrew White, a visitor use management specialist with the NPS Planning Division, said the island already has proven capable of sustaining more than 300 daily visitors without adverse impact because of the number of additional visitors who travel to the island by boat each day or camp overnight.

“We know our current management is for more than 300 people on the island on a busy day,” he said.

Ingram said the new plan would give visitors who now stick mainly to the southern end of Cumberland greater access to more of the island, particularly if the NPS opens ferry service to Plum Orchard. He said limiting the ferries to the two docks at the southern end of Cumberland causes congestion at times.

To better disperse visitors, the NPS plan calls for adding two new campsites on the northern end of Cumberland and opening Hunt Camp near Plum Orchard to the public.

The plan also would add pavilions with open sides at two beaches, a bathhouse at Nightingale Beach, kayak and canoe rentals and retail sale of “health and safety” items including sunscreen and bug spray.

A beach access area with a boat landing would be added at the southern end of the island near a shorebird protection area that would be off limits to the public. Bicycle use would be expanded further north.

“It is our hope that this plan not only enhances the visitor experience but also protects the valuable one-of-a-kind resources on Cumberland,” Ingram said.

But preservationists say such amenities would violate the purpose of Cumberland Island National Seashore envisioned when it was established in 1972.

“The seashore, as reflected in its originating legislation, is intended to be a primitive experience for ALL visitors – not only those who seek a wilderness experience,” the nonprofit group Wild Cumberland wrote in a statement.

“If we don’t exhibit the restraint necessary to ensure that places like Cumberland Island remain undeveloped now – none will remain in the future.”

While a public comment period on the new visitation plan ended on Friday, Dec. 30, the NPS isn’t expected to issue a final decision until this summer.

And, of course, there were no members of the committee who might have been even a little skeptical of the Hutchinson matter, and who might have asked questions to elicit more about the events in question. Yes, there were two Republicans on the committee — Cheney and

Rep. Adam Kinzinger — but they were fully on board with everything Democrats did. To do otherwise, to be even a little skeptical, would be “obstructionist.” A new account in the New York Times that relied on significant access to the committee put it this way: “The lack of obstructionist voices on the committee meant that the panel could proceed with a clean, uninterrupted narrative about the events of Jan. 6.”

Real life is never quite as clean as the narrative that the showrunners of the Jan. 6 Committee wanted to create. Which brings things back to the question: Will the public get to see the full picture of what the committee gathered? Chairman Thompson doesn’t have to show Americans anything else. He doesn’t have to reveal anything that would complicate the “clean, uninterrupted narrative” that he and his colleagues created. Maybe he will, and maybe he won’t.

But what about the public’s right to know? Of course the public has a right to know. But that doesn’t mean it will know.

Now that’s comedy, and I would hope even Biden fans would get a laugh out of it. But Mr. Barry is an equal opportunity humorist. During another part of his tribute to 2022, he wrote this: “New York Attorney General Letitia James filed a lawsuit accusing Donald Trump of falsifying business records, issuing false financial statements and failure to pay $327 million worth of parking tickets. Just for fun, Trump declared that he’s guilty.”

As regular readers of this column may have noticed, I have often advocated for new blood in 2024. I can find admirable qualities (and lesser ones) in both Biden and Trump, but as Dave Barry also noted, “both are older than the Adirondack Mountains.”

So here we are, ready to dive head first into 2023. The good news: it is NOT an election year. The bad news: so much campaigning will take place, it will SEEM like an election year.

If you have already chosen your side, and already drawn your line in the sand, that is your right and privilege. That lonely figure in the middle will be me, hoping someone with energy, honesty, compassion and in-

Hope in the new year

There is “no better place to find God, and to help others to find him, than in the hearts of the women and men” of our time.

The assertion — sometimes hard to believe, in today’s social media-saturated age — about opening our eyes to God in the lives of those around us is an insight of St. Francis de Sales, who died 400 years ago on Dec. 28. De Sales wrote the book on seeking to live a holy and even contemplative (speaking of things that seem impossible these days) life — “Introduction to the Devout Life” — which remains today as helpful and necessary as when he wrote it in the 17th century.

The “devout” or contemplative life can seem so exotic. I put a book together just before COVID hit called “A Year With the Mystics: Visionary Wisdom for Daily Living,” precisely to try to demystify mysticism a tad. Not everyone is Catholic, but the Catechism of the Catholic Church can be a little useful on this front, explaining that mysticism is about every person’s journey to union with God — which is the point of our lives. Intriguing, at the very least? Insightful about questions of meaning and happiness and what comes next, too?

In a recent letter about de Sales, Pope Francis wrote: “We are struck by how Francis recognized the importance of concern for the human dimension. At the school of the incarnation, he had learned to interpret history and to approach life with confidence and trust.”

Pope Francis recently also asked the world to pray for the Pope Emeritus, Benedict, whose health was rapidly declining. By the time you read this, he may or may not have left us. When Benedict resigned as pope, he showed us not only what humility looks like, but humility in prayer. Who gives up the papacy? Well, Benedict did, because he believed that was what God was asking of him. It bewildered and angered people, but Benedict was at peace. I thought it was an incredible example to those of us schooled in the faux importance of achievements — even as a core part of our very identities.

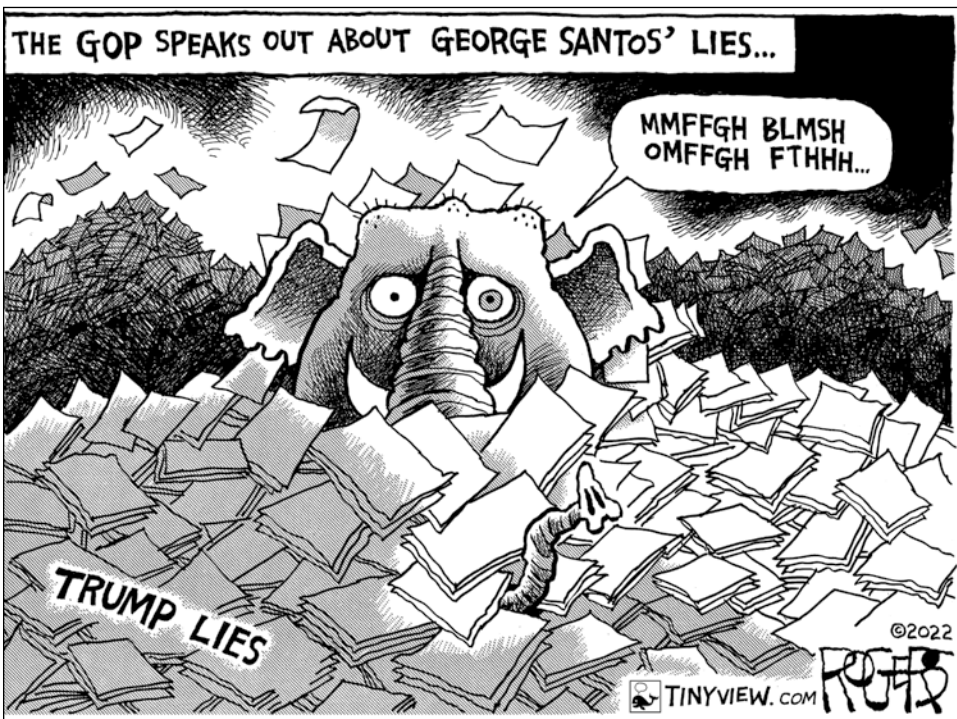

“At the very thought of God, one immediately feels a certain delightful emotion of the heart, which testifies that God is God of the human heart,” de Sales wrote in his “Treatise on the Love of God.” Pope Francis elaborates: “An experience of God is intrinsic to the human heart. Far from a mental construct, it is a recognition, filled with awe and gratitude, of God’s self-manifestation. In the heart and through the heart, there comes about a subtle, intense and unifying process in which we come to know God and, at the same time, ourselves, our own origins and depths, and our fulfillment in the call to love.”

I can’t do justice to de Sales or Pope Francis’ reflections on him here, but suffice it to say, it’s all about love. And most of the negative impressions people have of organized religion is of believers not showing their love, and often

Time for transparency running out for Jan. 6 Committee

Republicans take control of the House of Representatives this week. When that happens, the Jan. 6 committee, with all its members selected by outgoing Speaker Nancy Pelosi, will go out of existence. Now, it appears the committee’s demise will leave some significant unanswered questions.

The biggest such question is: What happens to the material the committee gathered? By its own account, the committee interviewed more than 1,000 people. Some reports put the number as high as 1,200. Many of those interviews were recorded on video and transcribed, and even those that were not were memorialized in notes by committee investigators.

The committee’s 10 hearings, all made-for-TV affairs, featured brief snippets of video interviews. A few witnesses appeared in person for the purpose of repeating for the cameras what they had earlier told investigators. In the public show, at least, all the Pelosi-chosen members agreed on all issues, so there was no public debate or disagreement between members, nor were there any meaningful unscripted exchanges with witnesses. It was all a tightly controlled affair. The public saw only what committee leaders wanted it to see. In total, it was a small fraction of all the information the committee gathered.

Now the issue is: Will the videos and transcripts and notes of the more than 1,000 interviews be released? Here’s the most important thing to remember: The committee can do what it wants. The chairman, in this case Democratic Rep. Bennie Thompson of Mississippi, decides what records the committee will archive and what records it will destroy. The House resolution creating the committee says that, upon termination of the committee, “the records of the Select Committee shall become the records of such committee or committees designated by the Speaker.” But the chairman decides what is a “record” and what is not. There are inside players on Capitol Hill who believe the Jan. 6 Committee will destroy a lot of its work. It will never see the light of day.

Thompson has been vague about what he will do. At times, he has said the committee will release “hundreds” of transcripts. Most recently, just before the release of the committee’s final report, Thompson said the committee “intends to make public the bulk of its nonsensitive records before the end of the year.” He added, “These transcripts and documents will allow the American people to see for themselves the body of evidence we have gathered and continue to explore the information that has led us to our conclusions.”

What does that mean, precisely? It all depends on the meaning of “intends” and “bulk” and “nonsensitive.” There is a lot of wiggle room in Thompson’s words. The committee might well keep all sorts of things secret.

One thing is clear, and that is the committee’s public disclosure has gotten off to a slow start. On Dec. 21, at the same time it released its final report, the committee released transcripts of 34 interviews. On Dec. 22, it released five more. On Dec. 23, it released 46 more. That is 85 transcripts, meaning that are at least 900, and perhaps as many as 1,100, more to be released in the next week. That period includes the New Year’s holiday, so the time is particularly limited.

So far, the releases have been highly selective. For example, the committee’s star witness is Cassidy Hutchinson, the former aide to former White House chief of staff Mark Meadows who on June 28 offered bombshell testimony that she heard a White House official say that then-President Donald Trump become violent when, after his Ellipse rally on Jan. 6, he demanded to be driven to the Capitol.

It was sensational testimony, and it made Democrats and many in the press very, very excited. Then the public learned that Hutchinson had done multiple transcribed interviews with the committee before her June 28 appearance. In those interviews, she apparently did not discuss the limousine incident. Then, in late June, she got a new lawyer and remembered it in great detail. She revealed it in a new interview with staff and committee vice chair Rep. Liz Cheney, the Republican who has made the committee a personal crusade against Trump. Cheney and Thompson rushed Hutchinson to the microphone in a hastily produced public hearing. After that, Hutchinson did two more transcribed interviews with the committee in September.

So far, the committee has only released Hutchinson’s two transcripts from September. It has released nothing from Hutchinson’s original testimony, nor has it released any record of her interview with Cheney that led to the June 28 special hearing. Also, her account obviously leads to questions about testimony from Ornato and Engel. What did they say? That’s pretty important. Each has conducted multiple interviews with the committee

It’s lonely in the middle

In the 1930s, President Herbert Hoover’s second-in-command was Vice President Charles Curtis, who had once been a powerful senator. A magazine article about Vice President Curtis is credited with coining a phrase that has endured for almost a hundred years: “It’s lonely at the top.”

According to the Outlook and Independent magazine, “Vice President Curtis has discovered that it is always lonely at the top. His old poker and racetrack pals have fallen away since he became vice president. Now he must press his pants and polish his shoes.” Evidently, that was a turn-off for his poker and racetrack friends.

Still, other successful types have found solace when they hit the big time. Actor Aldo Ray, upon celebrating a major award said, “Yes, it’s lonely at the top. But to be honest, the view is good.”

These days, I’m sure it’s still lonely up there, although most of us will never know. I’ve always been amused by mega-celebrities who scratch and claw to get to the top. Once they have achieved the fame and fortune they have sought, and are on the receiving end of adulation from the masses, they crave the peace and anonymity they once had.

One current political figure comes to mind. Never shy about capitalizing on the misfortunes and shortcomings of others, this elected official recently made the news due to a family breakup. Suddenly there were cries of “give me my privacy.” This is what happens when you’re at the top.

It’s actually rather comforting not to be at the top, and I can rest easily knowing I will never get there. I lack three traits that have propelled the Taylor Swifts and Tom Cruises to the top of the world: the desire, the drive, and the ability. I consider myself to be among the overwhelming chunk of Americans in the middle. I have tried to avoid the bottom, although that’s a daily battle for us all. And I can assure the “one percenters” at the top that I’m no threat to crash their party.

While the middle is a crowded place when it comes to income and status, it’s a lonely island in the political world. If over the holidays, you tried to play the middle card, chances are your relatives were aghast.

“Wait, you don’t have any beliefs at all?” they would cry. “Well yes, I just don’t lean far left or far right.” In most cases, this effort at moderation does not achieve the desired result. It just makes everyone else mad. “You HAVE to be on one side or the other!” they say.

Not me. I’m firmly entrenched in the middle. The great columnist Dave Barry made me laugh with his annual New Year’s Eve review of the year gone by.

For example, I find this funny: “President Biden announced a massive program to forgive hundreds of billions of dollars in student loan debt. Also everybody who failed college chemistry will get bumped up to a B-plus.”

Butts inks deal to officially join Carthage College football next fall

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — Mehki Butts was one of thousands of athletes to sign a national letter of intent to play football on Early National Signing Day, recognized on Dec. 21.

During a ceremony held in Social Circle High School's media center, Butts inked his scholarship to play college football at Carthage College in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

The moment was surreal for Butts.

"It feels good signing today," Butts said. "It feels like I accomplished a long time dream of mine."

Butts' signing comes two years after he decided not to play football his freshman and sophomore seasons. But, he did play his junior and senior years with the Redskins.

In his senior year, Butts was third on his team with 59 total tackles. He also had 14 tackles for loss. Butts found his way to opposing quarterbacks with 1.5 sacks and five quarterback hurries.

Butts was a hungry, 5-foot-11, 200-pound linebacker for the Redskins, too. Of the three fumbles he forced, Butts recovered all of them to help set up Social Circle's offense.

According to Butts, he'll miss playing for the Redskins after he graduates in May.

"Coach [Rob] Patton guided me a long way and taught me a lot of stuff," Butts said.

Once he graduates high school, Butts will travel 840 miles to become a member of the Carthage College Torchies. When he arrives on campus, Butts also plans to major in either business or sport management.

Butts has great excitement with the next step of his career being just around the corner.

"I've always had a strong support system," Butts said. "I can't wait to get started with whatever is next for me."

off two back-to-back wins over Ohio-based teams in a Florida tournament. The win also extends Eastside's winning streak to 11 games with their last loss coming on Nov. 19 losing to Tucker 58-53.

But there have been some close contests along the way.

Eastside edged Ola 47-45 at home on Nov. 26. Then, on Dec. 13, Kassen Saunders' buzzer-beating 3-pointer lifted the Eagles over region foe Heritage. Three days later on Dec. 16, Eastside went on the road and won 52-51 over Clarke Central.

The Eagles return to their region schedule going to Jefferson on Jan. 3 followed by a home game against Flowery Branch on Jan. 6. Windler-Barrow is the next matchup after that on Jan. 10.

Head coach Dorrian Randolph wants to see a mindset shift in his players moving forward.

"We want to get the guys to understand that we're fortunate to be where we are, but want to find something that keeps us hungry," Randolph said. "We want them to have the mentality as if we're the seventh seed still fighting for that first seed."

Rams enjoy 74-57 win over Dougherty

Newton Rams (9-5, 1-0 Region 4-AAAAAAA) competed in the final game at the Big South Shootout as they defeated the Dougherty Trojans 74-57.

UConn commit Stephon Castle led the Rams with 20 points and he scored the first seven points for his team, too. The Rams finished the game making 13 threes with senior David Freeman hitting five of them, finishing the game with 17 points.

The Rams have won six of their last seven games. They traveled across the country competing in multiple tournaments against some of the top teams in the country like the Duncanville Panthers, who are currently ranked the No.1 team in the country, according to Max-Preps.

Gibbons already feels that his team is ready to compete in Class AAAAAAA.

"To get ready for region play, we had to have a tough non-region schedule," Gibbons said. "Hopefully all the travel and different types of opponents we played has put us in position to make another run at the region title."

The Rams will now turn their focus to region play. They already secured a region win over the Archer Tigers, 54- 50 on Dec. 6.

The Rams will start to look to add to their three-game winning streak when they take on the South Gwinnett Comets, who are currently 10-3 on the early season. The game will take place on Jan 6.

Redskins lost to Putnam 74-68

Social Circle lost to Putnam County 74-68 in a back-and-forth battle throughout the whole game.

Senior combo guard Lamarius Jackson and junior forward Justin Russell both led the team in scoring with 19 and 17 points, respectively.

The Redskins were in the lead for the majority of the game, but the fatigue started to settle in.

The War Eagles forced a couple turnovers on consecutive possessions to finally take the lead in the fourth quarter.

The Redskins' loss drops them below .500 with a 5-6 overall record. Regardless of the record, head coach Taylor Jackson is proud of the way his team has fought early in the season and hopes that his starters can play essentially the entire game.

"We really struggled with the depth that Putnam had to offer because we only play five to six players on a nightly basis," said Jackson. "The challenge for the guys who have been playing is, can you become physically and mentally conditioned to go for 32 minutes?"

Looking ahead, coach Jackson and his team have everything still in front of them. They have eight non-region games left on their schedule and then region play will kick off.

The Redskins' next game is a home non-region matchup against the Lamar County Trojans on Jan. 3 followed by a road game at Eastside on Jan. 13.

all I needed to know for the legend car," Buice said. "And then when I went to pro late models, I had a coach that taught me everything I needed to know and helped guide me."

On top of her coaches' guidance, Buice has been 100% committed to the sport she loves. And that means she's missed out on proms, football games and outings with friends for her pursuit of a racing career.

There's never a question about fear of missing out with Buice, and she wants her spectators to notice that in her ability. Missing events, training on an at-home racing simulator called IRace, and watching videos to fully prepare for a race are the ways Buice is proactive in her training.

Her dream is to keep speeding and hopefully shift into gear on a NASCAR track someday. At her current velocity, the professional circuit is around the next curve.

"I think she'll do something professionally someday, whether that be for NASCAR or on a smaller team, but I know Laynie," Amy Buice said. "Laynie is very strong willed and very determined. I fully believe and have no doubt in my mind that her dreams will come true in some way, shape, form, or fashion."

ing since they held their tryouts in March. Unlike other squads, Alcovy's cheer squad is year round and services all athletic events.

According to Durden, each cheerleader takes the process seriously.

"Cheerleading is a very physical, and time-consuming sport," Durden said. "It requires a lot of practice to perfect the skills and synchronize as a squad. We start with the fundamentals and then build from there."

Not only have the Tigers built off the fundamentals of cheering, but they also have seen a growth spurt in recent years.

Just a few years ago, Alcovy had only 15-20 cheerleaders across its varsity and junior varsity teams. This season, 62 members (32 varsity and 28 JV) make up the team. On top of that, those 62 cheerleaders were selected from 120 students who tried out.

Durden credited social media as the fuel behind the group's growth.

"We are blessed to have a great following on Tic Tok and other social media platforms," Durden said. "It's been a lot of fun reviving a program to its former glory and adding a new swag to it as well."

While the Tigers focus on the fundamentals, first, they also follow a few of their own rules.

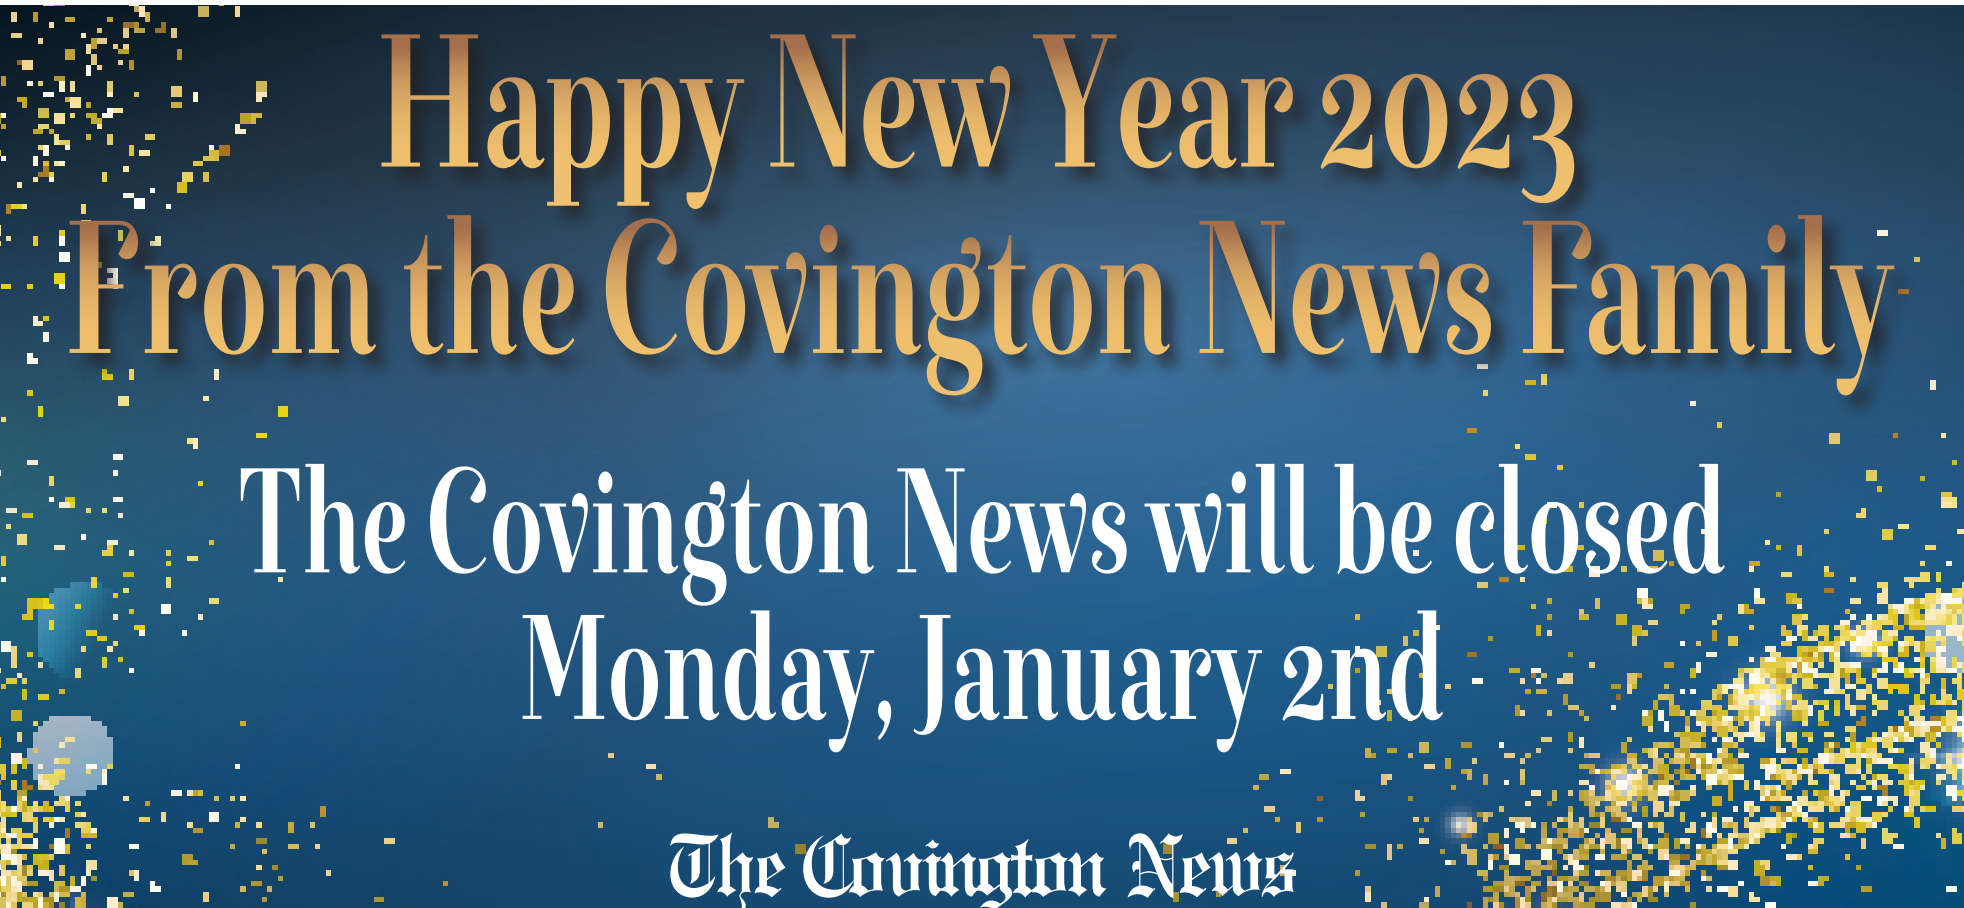

For instance, the team doesn't repeat any of their cheers during games and they have a custom cheer that is tailored to their group.

Durden believes her cheer squad's impact on Alcovy's basketball environment is "major" and she's proud of what her team has developed into today.

However, she hopes her cheerleaders don't overlook the most important thing being a part of a cheer squad can bring them.

"Students can learn sisterhood, work-ethic, perseverance and dedication," Durden said. "At the end of the day it's the fun of belonging to an elite group of athletes and performing to the best of your abilities."

COVINGTON, Ga. — All four of the Newton County area teams competed in the 6th Annual Big South Shootout tournament hosted by Newton High School on New Year's Eve.

Alcovy, Eastside and Newton enjoyed wins in the tournament with Social Circle being the only area team to suffer a loss.

According to Newton head coach Charlemagne Gibbons, the entire tournament was a success.

"I would love for some of our neighboring schools to capitalize on some of the attention our program has received," Gibbons said. "It'll help them get into some events for more promotion of their programs. I was proud of that and each team played extremely well."

Tigers defeat Glenn Hills 65-58

Alcovy kicked off the tournament on Saturday with a 65-58 win over Glenn Hill from Augusta. The win improves the Tigers' record to 6-9 overall with a fourth place, 3-2 Region 3-AAAAAA record.

Kendarrius Spear led all Tigers with 24 points followed by Nick Durham with 13. Jakori Pinelle had eight points along with Keyrone Hendrix's seven points.

Saturday's win marks the second straight for Alcovy after a 92-67 win over Lamar County on Dec. 30. After beginning region play 0-2, Alcovy downed Rockdale County, Forest Park and Morrow.

The Tigers hit the road for the next three games. They play at Monroe Area on Jan. 3 and, for the first time since Dec. 13, Alcovy will face region opponent Lovejoy on Jan. 6 with another away matchup against Mundy's Mill on Jan. 10.

Head coach Mack Hardwick hopes to see more consistency from his players as they reenter region play.

"These non-region games have been extremely important," Hardwick said. "We're used to a certain level of talent that we'll be ready for these upcoming region opponents, because they're going to be tough."

Eagles down Butler 57-30

For the 12th time out of their 13 total games this season, the Eagles walked off the court victorious. The latest win came on Saturday against Butler out of Augusta with a 57-30 domination.

Eastside improves to 12-1 overall — the program's best start to a season since its 11-1 record to open 2019-2020 — with a Region 8-AAAAA leading 3-0 record.

Brentarius Reed led all Eagles scorers with 13 points along with Jayvon Johnson's 11 points.

Alcovy cheer brings "swagger" to basketball games

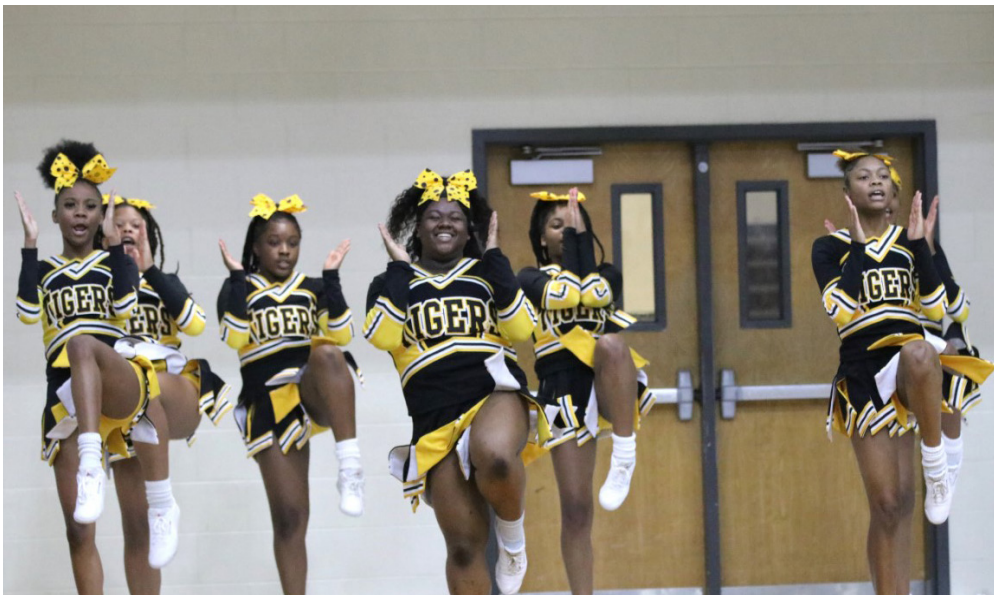

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — No matter what game fans attend this basketball season, they are sure to have quite the experience. Part of that experience is the local cheerleading squads tasked with keeping fans and the atmosphere of the game in their home team's favor.

The same goes for the Alcovy Tigers' cheer squad, too. But coach Kymberli Durden recognized that the Tigers accomplished this goal with a flare of their own.

"We have five coaches on staff and, between us, we have 97 years of cheerleading experience," Durden said. "Since we vary in age, we have the benefit of experiencing the art of cheer through several generations. That allows us to marry our styles and create a unique swagger that is all our own."

"We have fused the traditional cheer styles, with the stomp n' shake style made popular by HBCU's."

Laynie Buice holds her first place trophy alongside her race car in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Buice speeding toward NASCAR career

By ABBEY GRACE VENHAM

MONTICELLO, Ga. — While other Piedmont Academy female students are spending time in traditional sports, Laynie Buice is chasing a unique dream. The 16-year-old racing prodigy wants to be a professional race car driver one day.

So far, she's shown progress by recently winning a race among all of the state champion racers across the country in Las Vegas, Nevada.

"I've done soccer, gymnastics, basketball, softball, cheerleading, I've done it all," Buice said. "Racing is the thing that I've just loved the most, and I just like being at the track. I like everything about it."

It wasn't until Buice was 10 years old and obtained her first go-kart that her passion was ignited.

Buice was with her father, Gregg Buice, while on his way to work when they passed a go-kart shop in Lovejoy.

After checking the place out, Buice acquired her first go-kart and, soon thereafter, began racing her dad at the Lamar County Speedway in Barnesville.

Since then, Buice has worked her way up to racing legend and pro late models in places such as Atlanta Motor Speedway and in Florida and South Carolina, too.

She mainly raced legend cars — which are 10 feet long and three feet wide with 148 horsepower — at Atlanta Motor Speedway and across the south in places like Florida and South Carolina.

Buice also raced the pro late model — a car that's similar to NASCAR with a 404 horsepower — in Cordele, and she plans to race a late model stock car in the Carolinas in 2023.

The competition she faces poses lots of different obstacles for Buice. In fact, Racing primarily with boys — only two or three females usually competing alongside her — has been one she's seemed to overcome.

Her mom, Amy Buice, highlighted how her daughter hugs the track regardless of her competitors.

"No boy wants to be beat by her," Amy Buice said. "And I can't tell you how many times they've punted her when she was winning the race."

Buice doesn't do it alone.

Along with her family's support, Buice recognized the impact each coach has had on her career to this point.

"When I raced legends I had a coach then that taught me

Relationship between milk, health

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

“Drink your milk” is a familiar refrain in households across the globe. Though that statement is often directed at children, adults also may feel they need to drink more milk. But the relationship between milk and overall health is a complex one that’s only been made more complicated by some long-held but potentially misleading beliefs about milk.

Milk and bone health

Calcium, vitamin D, phosphorous, and protein have all been linked to bone health. Milk contains each of these nutrients, so it’s natural for people to think milk can help to establish and maintain healthy bones. According to the International Osteoporosis Foundation, evidence strongly supports the sentiment that dairy products promote healthy bones and muscles. However, a 2001 study published in The American Journal of Clinical Nutrition found that countries with the highest intakes of milk and calcium had the highest rates of hip fractures. Two separate meta-analyses of prospective cohort studies, one in 2011 and the other in 2019, did not find an association between milk consumption and hip fracture risk. So what do these studies have to say about milk and bone health? That’s uncertain, and acknowledging that uncertainty is important for people who are looking to milk to build strong bones. In such instances, individuals should look to additional measures aside from drinking milk, such as daily exercise and avoiding tobacco, which the Mayo Clinic reports has been linked to weakened bones.

Milk and long-term weight control

The Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health notes that research does not support the somewhat popular notion that milk helps with long-term weight control. Though studies have found that milk and dairy could help to reduce body fat in the short-term when it was included as part of a calorie-restricted diet plan, that benefit was not evident when individuals stopped restricting their calorie intake.

Milk and cancer

The potential relationship between milk and cancer also is complicated. A meta-analysis of more than 100 cohort studies by the World Cancer Research Fund found that higher milk intake lead to a reduced risk of colorectal cancer, though this benefit was mostly in men. However, the Chan School of Public Health notes that other studies have linked

Slow cooking creates free time

news@covnews.com

Who couldn’t use a little more free time in his or her day? Slow cookers can create that by enabling home chefs to set their ingredients to simmer early in the day and then head to work, school, recreational activities — pretty much whatever they need to get done — as the food cooks. Not being beholden to the kitchen is a benefit slow cookers offer.

Since slow cookers cook foods slowly at low temperatures, they are quite handy and even can help people save money. Tougher cuts of meat or poultry tend to cost a little less, and they can be cooked to perfection in the slow cooker. The long, moist cooking environment tenderizes the ingredients during the cooking process.

Stews and slow cookers often go hand-in-hand. Enjoy this recipe for “Chicken Stew with Herb Dumplings” from “Crock*Pot® 365 Year-Round Recipes” (Publications International, Ltd.) by the Crock*Pot Test Kitchen.

Chicken Stew with Herb Dumplings

Makes 4 servings

- 2 cups sliced carrots
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 large green bell pepper, sliced
- 1/2 cup sliced celery
- 2 cans (about 14 ounces each) chicken broth, divided
- 2/3 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 pound boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1 large red potato, unpeeled and cut into 1-inch pieces
- 6 ounces mushrooms, halved
- 3/4 cup frozen peas
- 1-1/4 teaspoons dried basil, divided
- 1 teaspoon dried rosemary
- 3/8 teaspoon dried tarragon, divided
- 1/4 cup heavy cream
- 3/4 to 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper

Metro Creative

Enjoy this recipe for “Chicken Stew with Herb Dumplings” from “Crock*Pot 365 Test Kitchen Year-Round Recipes.”

- 1 cup biscuit baking mix
- 1/3 cup reduced-fat (2%) milk

- Combine carrots, onion, bell pepper, celery and all but 1 cup chicken broth in the slow cooker. Cover; cook on low 2 hours.
- Stir remaining 1 cup chicken broth into flour in small bowl until smooth. Stir into vegetable mixture. Add chicken, potato, mushrooms, peas, 1 teaspoon basil, 3/4 teaspoon rosemary and 1/4 teaspoon tarragon. Cover; cook on low 4 hours or until vegetables and chicken are tender. Stir in cream, salt and pepper.
- Combine baking mix, remaining 1/4 teaspoon basil, 1/4 teaspoon rosemary and 1/8 teaspoon tarragon in small bowl. Stir in milk to form soft dough. Add dumpling mixture to top of stew in 4 large spoonfuls.
- Cook, uncovered, 30 minutes. Cover; cook 30 to 45 minutes or until dumplings are firm and toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Serve in shallow bowls.

Use a slow cooker to create game day pick-me-ups

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

No matter which teams fans support, they’re sure to get hungry watching the action play out. That’s why game day hosts need to plan for various foods to keep guests satiated as they follow the scores.

Dips, small bites and other finger foods are staples when the game is on because they can be eaten easily in front of the big screen. Utilizing one or more slow cookers to prepare such items creates more time to watch the game, stock the cooler with refreshments and ready the home theater.

Slow cookers also can keep meals warm on the buffet table.

Pepperoni Pizza Dip with Breadstick Dippers

Serves 8

- 1 jar or can (14 ounces) pizza sauce
 - 3/4 cup chopped turkey pepperoni
 - 4 green onions, chopped
 - 1 can (2-1/4 ounces) sliced black olives, drained
 - 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
 - 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded mozzarella cheese
 - 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- #### Dippers
- 1 package (8 ounces) refrigerated breadstick dough
 - 2 teaspoons melted butter
 - 2 teaspoons minced fresh Italian parsley

- Combine pizza sauce, pepperoni, green onions, olives, and oregano in a 2-quart slow cooker. Cover; cook on low 2 hours or on high 1 to 1/2 hours or until mixture is hot.
- Stir in mozzarella and cream cheese until melted and well blended. Serve with warm Breadstick Dippers.
- For dippers, bake breadsticks according to package directions. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with parsley.

BY JAY BOBBIN

Reba McEntire lays down the law in Lifetime's 'The Hammer'

Once again this season, Reba McEntire has made television a major part of her career menu.

After her runs in the sitcoms "Reba" and "Malibu Country," the country-music icon has gotten back into the series game with a regular role on ABC's "Big Sky" (now subtitled "Deadly Trails"). While also doing concert dates that resume in March, she has a new cable movie, too:

Lifetime presents the fact-inspired story "Reba McEntire's The Hammer" Saturday, Jan. 7, casting McEntire as Nevada judge Kim Wheeler (based on the real-life Kim Wanker) who metes out her own brand of justice while traveling between multiple courtrooms.

"She is quite the character," McEntire says of Wanker, with whom she communicated largely by text and phone since the judge was about to start "a pretty serious trial" while "The Hammer" was being filmed. "She's amazing. She's strong. She's a little, bitty gal, but what she does and how she stands up to people who have done other people wrong ... she makes it all fair. And it's a learning experience."

As an executive producer of "The Hammer" as well, McEntire has given herself a couple of familiar co-stars. Rex Linn, her significant other off-screen and also her "husband" on "Big Sky," plays something of a mystery man; and McEntire's former "Reba" colleague Melissa Peterman now plays her sister, a brothel operator who becomes a murder suspect. Kay Shioma Metchie also has a significant role as Judge Wheeler's bailiff.

"It's very easy, and I trust her," Peterman reflects of working with McEntire. "I almost feel like we can read each other's minds, as far as what we want from a scene and what we want to accomplish. All of us were staying at the same place, and we'd run lines at night with Rex; he was a very good coach, an amazing coach, actually. I probably owe him money because he's so good at it, and it was fun. When you've got chemistry with somebody, you just have it, and (McEntire is) a great acting partner as well as a great friend."

Juggling her singing and acting careers has come down to something of a science for McEntire. "Whatever we've been working on, when it's time for it to develop and be produced, then we do it," she explains. "It's all about scheduling and timing, and thank the good Lord that so many opportunities have come my way."

Whether those include more "Hammer" chapters remains to be seen. "It could be a limited series, it could be a series, it could be movies continuing on," notes McEntire. "Kim does have so many great stories to tell, and Melissa said several times, 'Oh, my gosh, we could do this again.'"

tonight's PICKS

Phil Keoghan

Celebrity Wheel of Fortune

8 p.m. on WSB

Pop-culture legends Pat Sajak and Vanna White bring celebrities to the Wheel for a star-studded spin on America's Game in the new episode "Janelle James, Sheryl Lee Ralph and Chris Perfetti." The stars of ABC's smash hit comedy "Abbott Elementary" will spin the world's most famous Wheel and solve word puzzles for a chance to win more than $1 million for a charity of their choice. Will they do Abbott proud?

Special Forces: World's Toughest Test

8 p.m. on WAGA

It's the ultimate celebrity social experiment. Household names take on some of the harshest, most grueling challenges from the playbook of the actual Special Forces selection process. There are no votes, and no eliminations — just survival in this new series. These 16 celebrities, including Mel B., Tyler Florence, Dwight Howard and others, who are so used to being in the spotlight, quickly learn the meaning of "no guts, no glory" — and no glam. Training exercises are led by Directing Staff (DS) agents Rudy Reyes, Mark "Billy" Billingham, Jason "Foxy" Fox and Remi Adeleke.

Tough as Nails

9 p.m. on WGCL

The best essential workers test their life skills at real job sites, including construction, welding, fishing, farming, carpentry and more in the Season 4 premiere episode "Welcome to Catalina Island." One by one, they are eliminated from the individual competition until a winner is crowned, but what sets this apart is that nobody goes home. Contestants who "punch out" of the individual competition continue to compete until the end of the season in a team competition with a chance of winning additional cash prizes. Phil Keoghan hosts.

Marcia Gay Harden

Young Sheldon

8 p.m. on WGCL

Becoming a dropout should be for much better reasons. Sheldon (Iain Armitage) considers dropping out of college to focus on building his database. Then, George Sr. (Lance Barber) is frustrated when someone else gets credit for his football wins, in the winter premiere episode "College Dropouts and the Medford Miracle." Also stars include Zoe Perry, Montana Jordan, Raegan Revord and Jim Parsons.

A Love Song

8 p.m. on SHOW

Faye (Dale Dickey) is a lone traveler biding her time fishing, birding and stargazing at a rural Colorado campground, awaiting the arrival of Lito (Wes Studi), a man from her past who is navigating his own tentative and nomadic journey across the West. Like the country music that has traditionally channeled the heartbreak and resilience of people in search of themselves, this 2022 romance showcases the transformative act of being alone — and reminds us that love can nourish and mystify at any age.

Ghosts

8:31 p.m. on WGCL

Sam (Rose McIver) and Jay (Utkarsh Ambudkar) are ecstatic when they find a highly qualified assistant for the B&B in the winter premiere episode "The Perfect Assistant." However, their new employee comes with some surprising baggage. Also, Thorfinn (Devan Chandler Long) tries to help his son, Bjorn (Christian Jadah), deal with a bully.

So Help Me Todd

9:01 p.m. on WGCL

Margaret (Marcia Gay Harden) finds herself on the verge of losing a prominent case involving the murder of an investigative journalist, so Todd (Skylar Astin) seeks help from an unlikely source: his imprisoned ex-girlfriend, Veronica (Eliza Coupe), in the winter premiere episode "The Devil You Know."

8 p.m. on WGCL
When faced with a series of random shootings, one SWAT member's family connections could be the key to stopping the next attack. Also, Hondo (Shemar Moore) prepares to meet Nischelle's (Rochelle Aytes) parents for the first time, and Tan (David Lim) helps Luca (Kenny Johnson) navigate a sensitive situation in the winter premiere episode "Pariah." Alex Russell, Jay Harrington and Patrick St. Esprit also star.

Boys in Blue
8 p.m. on SHOW
This four-part docuseries from Emmy-winning filmmaker Peter Berg ("Friday Night Lights," "Lone Survivor") focuses on the North Community High School's Polars football team, where mostly Black student-athletes are coached and mentored by members of the Minneapolis Police Department. The series follows the team as they navigate life after the police killing of George Floyd, an event in American history that set off a national movement for social justice and police reform.

Nancy Drew, Detective
8 p.m. on TCM
As part of TCM's night of female detectives: Is That You Nancy Drew? Nancy (Bonita Granville) and Ted Nickerson (Frankie Thomas) try to solve the kidnapping of a wealthy dowager (Helena Phillips Evans) who recently made a large donation to her alma mater. Ted disguises himself as a nurse while Nancy impersonates a widow in order to locate the elderly woman in this 1938 mystery.

Fire Country
9 p.m. on WGCL
Every rescue is an opportunity for disaster. An internal investigation is launched after a difficult rescue went awry and a life was lost, in the winter premiere episode "No Good Deed." Just who, if anyone, is at fault? The series stars Max Thieriot, Billy Burke, Kevin Alejandro, Diane Farr, Stephanie Arcila, Jordan Calloway and Jules Latimer.

“Kaleidoscope”

Loosely inspired by a real story, this limited anthology series spans 25 years as it follows a crew of masterful thieves and their attempt to crack a seemingly unbreakable vault for the biggest payday in history. Giancarlo Esposito, Rufus Sewell, Paz Vega, Tati Gabrielle, Peter Mark Kendall, Rosaline Elbay and Jai Courtney are in the solid cast. (ORIGINAL)

“Madoff: The Monster of Wall Street”

Oscar-nominated filmmaker Joe Berlinger (“Paradise Lost 3: Purgatory,” “Conversations with a Killer”) is the creative force behind this documentary series that reveals the truth behind Bernie Madoff’s infamous $64 billion-dollar global Ponzi scheme, the largest in history, that shattered the lives of countless individual investors. (ORIGINAL)

“Woman of the Dead”

The eponymous novel by Bernhard Aichner served as the basis for this revenge-driven thriller series from Austria about the lengths to which a woman will go when her husband is killed and the good and evil that exists in everyone. Anna Maria Muhe, Felix Klare, Simon Schwarz and Robert Palfrader star. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: The Pale Blue Eye”

At 1830 West Point, a world-weary detective that the world would later come to know as Edgar Allan Poe must contend with a code of silence as he investigates the gruesome murder of a cadet in this movie thriller from director Scott Cooper (“Crazy Heart,” “Out of the Furnace”). Christian Bale, Harry Melling, Charlotte Gainsbourg, Robert Duvall and Lucy Boynton head a stellar cast. (ORIGINAL)

What's Available NOW On

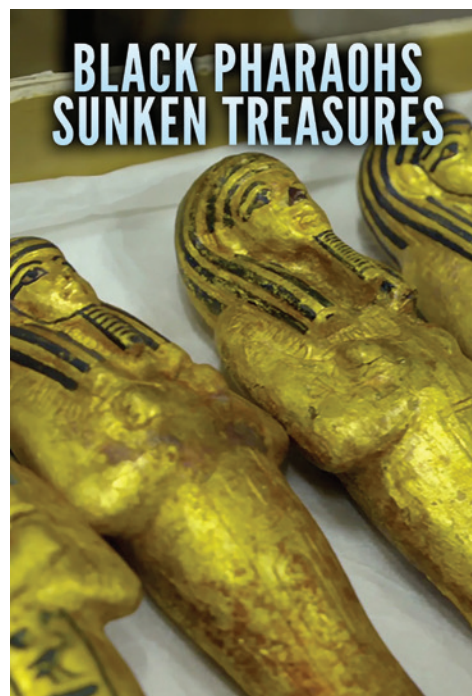

“Magic of Disney’s Animal Kingdom” (Jan. 4)

This series gives viewers an all-access pass to explore Disney’s Animal Kingdom Theme Park, Disney’s Animal Kingdom Lodge and The Seas With Nemo & Friends at EPCOT, paying tribute to an array of more than 5,000 animals and their animal care experts who keep things running. Fan-favorite Josh Gad narrates.

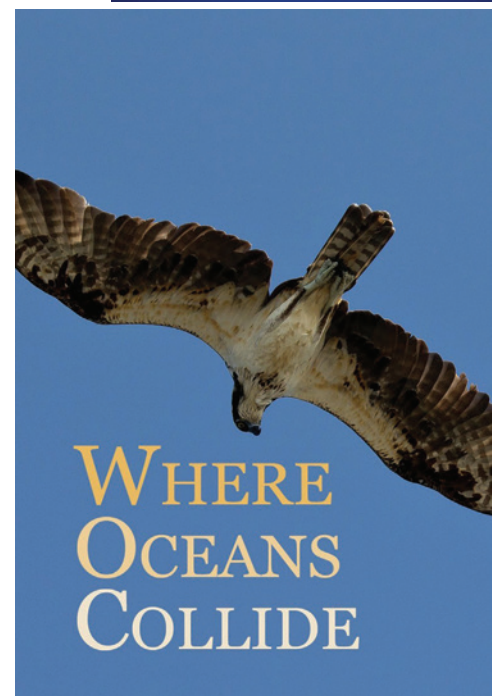

“Star Wars: The Bad Batch: Season 2” (Jan. 4)

The 16-episode second season of this animated adventure series picks up months after the events on Kamino and finds the Bad Batch taking on a variety of mercenary missions that will take them to unexpected and dangerous places as they continue to navigate the Empire after the fall of the Republic. Dee Bradley Baker, Michelle Ang and executive producer Dave Filoni head the voice cast. (ORIGINAL)

“Black Pharaohs: Sunken Treasures” (Available now)

From National Geographic comes this 2019 documentary that follows archeologists as they dive inside a submerged 2,300-year-old royal pyramid tomb of a Nubian pharaoh near the east bank of the Nile River in northern Sudan in the hopes of shedding new light on the ancient Nubian kingdom who overthrew the pharaohs and ruled over all of Egypt for 75 years.

“Where Oceans Collide” (Available now)

Central America, a strip of land shaped by volcanic forces, storms and powerful seas, is home to some of the most diverse wildlife in the world. This documentary from National Geographic captures scenes such as tuna on the hunt, parrots nesting in an active volcano and tropical army ants feasting on any creature that falls to the ground.

celebrity q&a

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Imani Hakim

OF ‘MYTHIC QUEST’ ON APPLE TV+

Has this series taught you more than you ever thought you would know about videogame creation?

Yeah, I have a lot more respect for what goes into the process, especially game testers. They sit and test games for hours on end and people just assume that that game would be fun because you think you get to play games all day but that’s not what’s really going on. Their goal was to break the game, to find the bugs so you’re trying to shake it up a little bit. And they don’t really make a lot of money in that.

So overall I have so much respect because they work through the holidays and it’s this time commitment and they’re able to create something for us that works so well. But these games have evolved so much where it’s like they feel like movies sometimes.

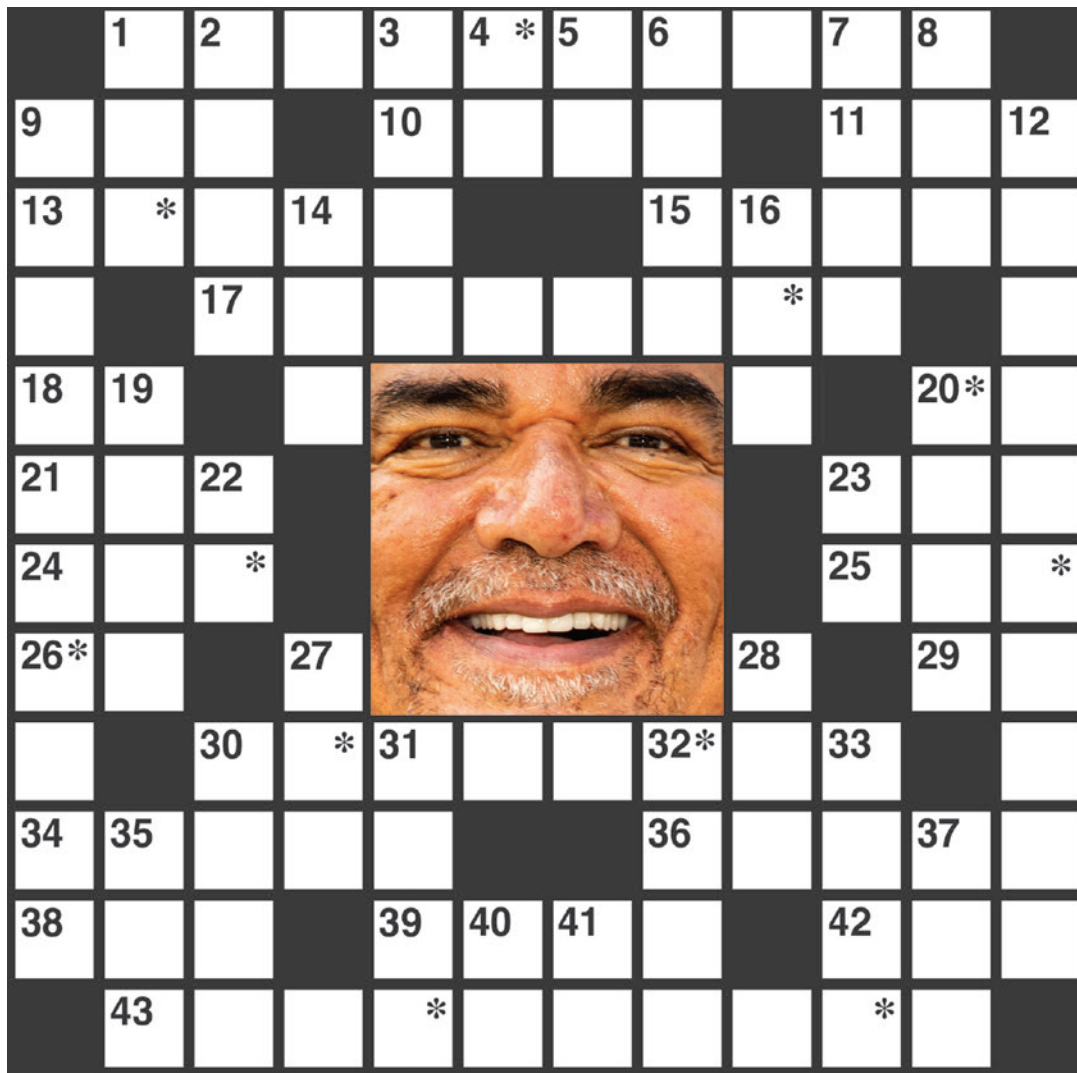

Are you a gamer yourself?

Loosely. You know, Charlotte (Nidao), who plays Poppy, would say that I’m a gamer a little bit. But I definitely am not a gamer compared to Ashly Burch. But I enjoy playing videogames casually here and there.

Do you have a favorite?

I honestly enjoy playing games with my partner. So we played a game called “It Takes Two” and then we played another game, I think the name was “A Way Out,” and so it’s sort of like a two-person game where you have to work together to escape and it’s sort of like a puzzle set-up. But during quarantine, my favorite game to play was “Rocket League” And yeah, I’m still discovering what my taste in gaming is but I pick up the controller every once in a while.

tonight's PICKS

Reba McEntire

The Wedding Veil Expectations
8 p.m. on HALL
Avery (Lacey Chabert) and her husband Peter (Kevin McGarry) are renovating their old house, but it's proving to be a bigger undertaking than they anticipated. Meanwhile, Avery's mother-in-law, Grace (Karen Kruper), reconnects with a former beau, which concerns Peter. But Avery is lucky to have Emma (Autumn Reeser) and Tracy (Alison Sweeney), who offer support from afar as well as in person when they decide a video chat won't suffice in this 2022 romance.

Reba McEntire's The Hammer
8 p.m. on LIFE
Kim Wheeler (Reba McEntire) is one of the few traveling judges left in America. After the reigning judge passes away under suspicious circumstances, Kim finds herself covering a circuit that stretches between Las Vegas and Reno — a rugged, often desolate area where anything and everything can happen. With gavel in hand, she lays down the law with a no-nonsense brand of justice, that quickly earns her the nickname “The Hammer.”

Rico to the Rescue
9 p.m. on HGTV
Builder Rico Leon steps in to help Denver homeowners salvage renovations that have gone off the rails in this new series. Driven by his parents' past experience with a crooked contractor, Rico is an advocate for desperate families who need an empathetic expert to fix their stressful situations.

Alert: Missing Persons Unit 8 p.m. on WAGA

Police officers Jason Grant (Scott Caan) and his ex-wife Nikki Batista's (Dania Ramirez) work in the Philadelphia Police Department's Missing Persons Unit (MPU). Each heart-pounding, life-or-death search for a missing person tugs at their heartstrings as they continue their personal quest to find out the truth about their long-lost son in this new series.

Miss Scarlet and the Duke on Masterpiece

8 p.m. on WGTV

Eliza (Kate Phillips) finds herself in fresh and surprising mysteries, ranging from a disappearing magician to police corruption, as she struggles to build her detective agency. Growing competition from a rival agency creates new problems, and all the while she is still juggling her relationship with Inspector William Wellington, the Duke (Stuart Martin). And she has a new challenge on that front: a beautiful woman from her childhood has caught the Duke's eye in this Season 3 premiere.

East New York 8:30 p.m. on WGCL

You can never be certain where someone was aiming. With Bentley (Lavel Schley) fighting for his life, Haywood (Amanda Warren) and team race to track down the shooter, whose true target may have been another one of their own in the winter premiere episode "10-13."

Mayfair Witches 9 p.m. on AMC

Neurosurgeon Rowan Fielding (Alexandra Daddario) discovers she is the unlikely heir to a family of witches in New Orleans who are guided by a spirit called Lasher (Jack Huston). The arrival of Rowan into the family makes her the 13th witch and completes the coven, making Rowan the key, as she contends with a sinister presence that has haunted her family for generations in the series premiere episode "The Witching Hour."

NCIS

8 p.m. on WGCL

It's a triple threat, as for the first time the NCIS universe brings together "NCIS," "NCIS: Hawai'i" and NCIS: Los Angeles" in a special three-hour crossover. The opening episode "Too Many Cooks," centers around a case to take down a mysterious hitman. Team members from the different NCIS divisions come together in Washington, D.C., to celebrate a beloved professor who taught multiple members of each of the squads. The professor is found dead of an apparent suicide, but his former students suspect foul play. Vanessa Lachey and Noah Mills guest star.

Bake It 'Til You Make It

9 p.m. on FOOD

Name recognition can be the key to a successful career in the world of baking. And in this new episode sometimes you get that name recognition through interesting tactics: let's just say wild people enter baking competitions. The contests in Texas, California and Delaware are serious business for three wacky bakers all aiming to be Best in Show, and their creations have to be seen to be believed. Duff Goldman narrates.

The Boston Strangler

10:15 p.m. on TCM

The infamous case of the serial killer and rapist known as the Boston Strangler is dramatized in this 1968 film. Tony Curtis stars as the murderer, with George Kennedy as Detective Phil DiNatale — a cop with a serious determination to bring the Strangler to justice. Henry Fonda, Sally Kellerman, William Marshall and Hurd Hatfield also star.

Joker

10:30 p.m. on TNT

The first R-rated film to earn more than $1 billion at the box office, Todd Phillips' deeply unsettling 2019 psychological thriller polarized critics over its depiction of violence and mental illness. That didn't keep the film from winning multiple global accolades, however, including a best actor Academy Award for Joaquin Phoenix, starring as failed stand-up comic Arthur Fleck, who gradually sinks into madness.

Jerrod Carmichael

Venom: Let There Be Carnage

6:30 a.m. on STARZ

Tom Hardy — who stars as main human character Eddie Brock and voices Eddie's CGI alien alter-ego Venom — also co-wrote the story that became the screenplay for director Andy Serkis' 2021 superhero adventure sequel to 2018's hit "Venom." The film follows Eddie as he and the hitchhiking alien symbiote who shares his body are forced to confront serial killer Cletus Kasady (Woody Harrelson) after the latter becomes the host of a murderous symbiote named Carnage.

FBI

8 p.m. on WGCL

Bell (Missy Peregrym), "OA" (Zeeko Zaki), Valentine (Jeremy Sisto) and Castille (Alana De La Garza) must jump into action when JOC analyst Kelly Moran (Taylor Anthony Miller) is taken hostage by unknown assailants in the winter premiere episode "Heroes." John Boyd, Katherine Renee Turner, Vedette Lim, James Chen and Roshawn Franklin also star.

80th Annual Golden Globe Awards

8 p.m. on WXIA

One of the few awards ceremonies to recognize both motion picture and television achievements, the Golden Globes are watched in more than 220 countries and territories around the world. Jerrod Carmichael will helm this year's three-hour telecast from the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Finding Your Roots With Henry Louis Gates, Jr.

8 p.m. on WGTW

Historian and educator Henry Louis Gates Jr. takes actors Claire Danes ("Homeland," "Fleishman Is In Trouble") and Jeff Daniels ("American Rust," "The Newsroom," "Dumb & Dumber") on a journey into their family trees, uncovering primal scenes from our nation's past in the new episode "Salem's Lot."

'Cheers' wasn't Kirstie Alley's first series

Q: I was so sorry to hear of the passing of Kirstie Alley. Was "Cheers" her first TV series? – Kate Jenkins, via email

A: She had done an ABC espionage series called "Masquerade" with Rod Taylor and Greg Evigan during the 1983-84 season, and she also was a star of the first two "North and South" miniseries before she got the call to succeed Shelley Long on "Cheers" ... a job that netted her the first of her two Primetime Emmy Awards. (The second was for the 1994 TV movie "David's Mother.")

Incidentally, though some obituaries referred to Alley as having been on "Star Trek," she never was on the television series. Instead, she appeared in the 1982 feature film "Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan," playing Vulcan officer Saavik in her first major screen role. That was her one encounter with that universe, with Robin Curtis assuming the part two years later in "Star Trek III: The Search for Spock."
