ATLANTA – A Newton County economic development official will be among leaders of four committees a state department announced this week "to ensure public input into a variety of factors involved in the planning stages" for the Rivian project at Stanton Springs North.

Committee members will come from throughout the four Joint Development Authority (JDA) counties as part of the state-sponsored planning process for the 2,000-acre site partly in Social Circle, said officials with the Georgia Department of Economic Development (GDEcD) Monday, March 14.

Among committee members are Asher Dozier, vice president of Economic Development for the Newton County Industrial Development Authority, who will assist with the Workforce Development Committee.

Each member volunteered or agreed to serve on the committees – whose meetings are being planned within the four-county area included in the JDA "for ease of planning and public input," the state agency said in a news release.

In response to a Feb. 18 request from the JDA of Jasper, Morgan, Newton and Walton Counties, GDEcD Commissioner Pat Wilson issued a letter and released a statement about the state government taking charge of the Rivian project in agreement with the JDA.

'Dresses 4Sarah'

Downtown art gallery event to raise funds, awareness of fight against trafficking

COVINGTON, Ga. — Linda Jesky sees her Heartland Woman's Club's sponsorship of its "Dresses 4Sarah" gala Saturday as a way to address one of society's evils.

The event is set for Saturday, March 19, from 6-9 p.m. at Southern Heartland Art Gallery at 1132 Monticello St. in Covington — at the corner of Monticello and Washington streets.

It will feature live music, hors d'oeuvres, a silent auction and more to benefit Conyers-based nonprofit 4Sarah, which helps female victims of sexual exploitation and trafficking.

"The public needs to become more aware of this (issue)," Jesky said.

The nonprofit operates a shelter for women who have been subjected to exploitation and trafficking, and their children, said nonprofit director Kasey McClure.

It also offers them opportunities for education and to learn job skills, Jesky said.

"It's not a handout, it's a hand up," she said.

Fellow club member Janice Baukmon said the club works to assist a different nonprofit annually, and its members voted unanimously to host a fundraiser for the nonprofit.

"The trafficking has really grown," Baukmon said. "We've had a few incidents here in Newton County where the girls have been trafficked."

Among the auction items are a collection of children's dresses, sizes 3-8, featuring hand-painted

Council members plan community 'Take Back' event

April rally scheduled in wake of recent shooting incidents

By TAYLOR BECK

COVINGTON, Ga. — As the rate of gun violence continues to rise, city leaders have made plans to "take back" their community.

In recent weeks, there has been a string of shooting incidents reported across the city of Covington. Nearly two weeks ago, Covington Police Chief Stacey Cotton warned government officials that shooting incidents would continue and ultimately lead to innocent deaths, should no action be taken.

After taking a strong stance against such violence and calling for change, a "Takin' Back Our Community - West Ward" rally has been slated for Saturday, April 2, in the Nelson Heights community. Councilman Kenneth Morgan, who has organized the event scheduled for 3-6 p.m. at the lot adjacent to the Nelson Heights Community Center, said the issue was one he took personally.

"This was something that was really placed within my heart and within my spirit," Morgan said during a Monday, March 7, council meeting. "While I am a city

Covington Housing Authority

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — As homes under construction at the Cottages at Walker's Bend are about to go up for sale, potential buyers are encouraged to get qualified now.

The Covington Housing Authority recently announced homebuyer workshops have been scheduled for parties interested in purchasing one of five Earthcraft energy efficient, custom designed homes. Attendance of the workshops is a prerequisite to buying a home.

The CHA broke ground on the homes in December, and they are expected to be completed within the next eight months.

Through utilization of DCA Community HOME Initiative Program (CHIP) funds, the CHA intends to price the homes between $190,000 and $220,000.

CHA Executive Director Shamica Tucker said the development was an opportunity to buy a "quality home" in a "great location." Amenities include:

- Walking to Covington's 162-acre Central Park featuring walking and biking trails, disc golf and a playground.
- Connecting to the Cricket Frog Trail on Washington Street.
- A location that is only 1.5 miles from "the Square" Covington's thriving Downtown shopping and dining district.

- A five-minute drive to the City's commercial and industrial districts and I-20.

Tucker said up to $10,000 in down payment assistance would be available.

To be eligible to purchase a cottage home, applicants must:

- Be within income guidelines — currently a max of $48,300 for a family of one and $68,950 for a family of four.
- Be able to secure financing for the purchase.
- Attend the CHA sponsored Homebuyer Workshop.

Workshops will be led by Homebuyers Employment Corporation. There are no fees to attend. The classes may be attended online or in-person at the New Leaf Center, located at 6147 SW Avery St.

There are five sessions in workshop. The workshops are scheduled for four weeks; April 3-29, and the sessions take place on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6-8 p.m., followed by a three-class session on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Attendance and the Homebuyer Workshop certification is a required in advance of submitting an application to purchase a cottage.

To request an application for the Homebuyers Workshop or learn more, call 770-786-7739 or email jkelly@covha.com.

Worker in Covington bridge collapse seeks damages against job foreman

Man has accumulated $1.2M in medical bills since October incident

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — A former construction worker says the foreman in charge of removing the Access Road bridge was "negligent" in October when he drove heavy machinery onto the structure after cuts were made to its concrete face.

As a result, the bridge collapsed because of foreman Michael Garrett's actions and the worker, Robert Mullins, sustained numerous injuries and "incurred reasonable and necessary medical expenses" exceeding $1.2 million, a lawsuit stated.

Mullins, a Villa Rica resident, is seeking "actual damages in amounts to be shown at trial" and a jury to hear the case against Garrett in White County Superior Court, Mullins stated in the lawsuit.

The former worker spent almost a month in Grady Medical Center following the incident.

He is bound to a wheelchair and has been forced to move in with relatives whose residence is not designed for a handicapped person, said his attorney, Matthew Stoddard.

"He's in a lot of pain," Stoddard said.

Mullins also was severely shaken by seeing a close friend, co-worker Demario Battle, die in the collapse, Stoddard said.

"He's clearly very badly hurt and this other person died," Stoddard said. "He's a tough guy but you can tell he's (shaken)."

The lawsuit stated the job site at the old Access Road bridge over the Yellow River consisted of "pillars coming out of the ground, multiple support beams laid across the pillars,

Report shows Newton County following national trend on housing prices, supply

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County's housing market in February showed it was following a national trend with supply decreasing and price increasing since early 2021.

The median sales price of a single-family home — the price midway between all lower and higher prices of homes for sale — in February 2022 showed a major increase from early 2021 in Newton County.

Meanwhile, the total supply of homes for sale dropped significantly compared to January 2021, according to information from Georgia Multiple Listing Service (MLS).

Dena Lynn Sosebee, president of the Covington-based East Metro Board of Realtors, said there is a "limited number of homes available for sale" in the area.

She said there are shortages in "multiple price points" — not just those in the lower end of asking prices.

"The limited supply does increase the value," Sosebee said.

The supply of housing is dependent on a number of factors, such as building material prices and available supply, according to national news reports.

Sosebee also said policies of any area's planning and zoning boards concerning housing densities and timing of growth affect the supply, as well — though she did not single out any single governmental entity in the area.

If any county governing body decided to make less land available for residential construction, the result could be higher costs because less supply of new housing would be available, she said.

Statistics from Georgia MLS show:

- The median sales price of a home in Newton County increased 33% — from $209,950 in January 2021 to $280,000 in February 2022.
- The number of homes sold, 147, was a decrease from 186 in January 2021.
- Sales volume totaled $42.3 million in February 2022, down from $44.7 million in January 2021.
- The total supply of homes for sale in February in Newton County dropped 20% compared to January 2021. Active listings of all homes for sale totaled 149 compared to 186 in January 2021.

- New listings of homes for sale in February totaled 164, which was a 23% drop from 207 in January 2021.

The National Association of Realtors' calculated average monthly cost of a mortgage in Newton County was $800 in the fourth quarter of 2021, which was up from $634 in the fourth quarter of 2020.

It said home prices increased 22% from 2020 to 2021 but lower mortgage rates made the price higher by $167 per month.

Sosebee added that the National Association of Realtors had projected the trend of rising prices and decreasing supply to continue through the end of this year.

The projection was made before the Russian invasion of Ukraine on the housing market was factored in, she said.

and concrete slabs laid out on top of the support beams.”

It stated that Georgia Department of Transportation hired Georgia Bridge and Concrete LLC — which is not a party to the lawsuit — to demolish the Access Road Bridge near exit 88 on I-20 in Newton County.

Georgia Bridge contacted B&D Concrete Cutting Inc. “and asked if B&D Concrete would come to the job site and ‘cut up the bridge’ so that Defendant Garrett could thereafter remove the bridge from the job site in pieces.”

Mullins and Battle arrived at the job site on Oct. 19, 2021, “walked out onto the bridge with concrete saws, and began cutting the bridge along certain sectional lines that were pre-marked with blue spray paint, according to the lawsuit.

“Upon information and belief, Defendant Garrett was the (Georgia) Bridge employee who premarked the sectional lines with blue spray paint.”

The lawsuit stated Garrett pre-marked the sectional lines to be cut with the concrete saws but B&D Concrete “was still in charge of the time, manner and method of Plaintiff Mullins’ work.”

Mullins used B&D equipment and the company chose the time he arrived, the order “in which to make the sectional cuts along the painted blue line,” and “retained control over how Plaintiff Mullins went about using the concrete saw to make the cut.”

He then alleged that while he and Battle were on the bridge performing their work “and after numerous cuts had been made, Defendant Garrett negligently drove a heavy large excavator out onto the already cut up bridge.”

“Defendant Garrett’s actions caused the bridge to collapse,” Mullins’ suit alleged.

It stated that when the bridge collapsed, Mullins, Garrett, Battle and “the excavator, the concrete saws, and portions of the bridge all came crashing down.”

“As a result of the bridge collapse, Plaintiff Mullins was seriously injured, and non-party Demario Battle died.”

Garrett, an employee of Georgia Bridge & Concrete LLC, in a response stated that he denied being negligent and did not violate a “duty to exercise some degree of care.”

The Cleveland, Georgia, resident, said he denied all the allegations Mullins made, including driving a “heavy large excavator out onto the already cut up bridge,” and he “breached no duty” to Mullins.

NCSO awarded $18,825 traffic enforcement grant

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County Sheriff’s Office was recently the recipient of a more than $18,000 grant to aid with area traffic enforcement.

The Sheriff’s Office is the Governor’s Office of Highway Safety’s (GOHS) coordinating agency for the Central Region Traffic Enforcement Network (CRTEN). There are currently 16 traffic enforcement networks across the state that help enforce Georgia’s year-round safety belt, speed, and impaired driving campaigns.

The grant, totaling $18,824.48, will go toward the funding of equipment upkeep and traffic enforcement activities.

“There are several parts to the grant, including the upkeep of a trailer that has a holding cell and Intox 9000 breath tests used for road safety checks; providing funds for meals during monthly network meetings at different agencies; providing funds for lodging, food and fuel to attend required training conferences; and assists with the pay of the coordinator and assistant coordinator while they are performing their job duties for the GOHS,” Communications Officer Caitlin Jett said.

The coordinator and assistant coordinator are Cpl. Patrick Gilbert and Deputy Andrew Archie, both employed by the Newton County Sheriff’s Office. Jett said the grant is awarded annually to the Newton County Sheriff’s Office as long as the coordinator or assistant coordinator remains employed with the agency, and or as long as they continue to be partners with the GOHS.

Gilbert is a 16-year veteran of the Newton County Sheriff’s Office, Jett said, and has worked in various divisions within the agency. As the CRTEN Coordinator, he is responsible for arranging the monthly network meetings, keeping up with statistics, and assisting other agencies within the network in attention to his role as a corporal with the Sheriff’s Office.

Archie has been with the Newton County Sheriff’s Office for six years. He is the CRTEN Assistant Coordinator.

The coordinator and assistant coordinator in the CRTEN region plan year-round waves of high visibility, concentrated patrols, multi-jurisdictional road checks and sobriety checkpoints as a partner in campaigns such as “Click It or Ticket,” “Operation Zero Tolerance,” and the “Thunder Taskforce.”

“We want to make sure they can continue their region-wide efforts to protect Georgia motorists from drunk and otherwise dangerous drivers,” GOHS Law Enforcement Services Director Roger Hayes said. “They’ve proven their dedication and this grant serves not only as recognition for that hard work but as means for continuing the GOHS mission of reducing crashes, injuries and fatalities on our roads.”

Newton County Sheriff Ezell Brown said receiving the grant and being recognized by the state department was an honor.

“It is not only an honor to be awarded the Traffic Enforcement Grant from the Governor’s Office of Highway Safety but to be recognized for the hard work our agency does, day in and day out, to protect the citizens of Newton County,” Brown said. “This grant provides our agency with the resources to continue enforcing Georgia’s year-round safety belt, speed, and impaired driving campaigns, without county funding. It is always our goal to lessen the burden of all taxpayers of this great county we serve. We are very appreciative of the partnership with GOHS and the partnership with all agencies and individuals involved in the traffic enforcement networks.”

RIVIAN:

Wilson said the state of Georgia would take leadership in the Rivian project and work "collectively with all four counties to ensure a unified and streamlined approach to project development to ensure consistent, uniform conditions across the site," the agency's release stated.

The action also allows state officials to work on the planned 16-million-square-foot project without having to go through local planning agencies.

However, the release said the state of Georgia will ensure the project — planned for a site straddling the line between Walton and Morgan counties — follow locally required standards pertaining to water quality, groundwater recharge and runoff, and all local environmental ordinances.

The requirements "will be built into the overarching agreement between the state of Georgia, the JDA, and Rivian," the release stated.

"Additionally, conserving buffers, wildlife habitat, and outdoor recreation around the site is a high priority for local partners and Rivian. (The department) is ready and willing to partner with local conservation organizations and area elected officials in pursuing this goal," the release stated.

Wilson also announced committees would be formed to focus on four areas:

Workforce Development; Local Business Engagement; Site Design and Environmental; and Quality of Life.

Wilson announced some committee members Monday.

"Committee members were chosen with input from both local and state officials to ensure a diversity of location and based on relevant positions related to their committees.

"Relevant state departments will staff each committee based on appropriate subject matter and technical expertise and will be assisted by a combination of private and public sector representation."

The release said meetings will be public with advance public notice given.

Wilson said Rivian selected Stanton Springs North "for a variety of reasons, including its distinctive beauty and the region’s welcoming environment."

"We will work with the JDA and the local community as Rivian continues to go above and beyond in becoming part of the fabric of the community before even one shovel goes in the ground," Wilson said.

“The four committees announced (Monday) provide diverse representation from across communities in the four counties that will each be directly impacted by this generational project.

“Many thanks to the representatives who will serve as part of this process to help ensure that local considerations and community voices are heard as Rivian begins to build its new Georgia home,” he said.

The committee system will "ensure direct coordination of considerations from across multiple jurisdictions and land parcels," and the public feedback process "will allow all communities to have a voice across the decision-making process."

"The state has committed to continuously work with city and county governments to ensure that every concern is heard, and every question is answered," the release stated.

The Rivian project was announced in December. It will create 7,500 jobs and be a $5 billion capital investment, company officials said.

A new Technical College System of Georgia training center and a new interchange on I-20 will be included.

JDA Chairman Jerry Silvio of Newton County said, “Thanks to the work of this community over the years, Rivian recognized Georgia and Stanton Springs North as the ideal place to create 7,500 American manufacturing jobs.

"This generational opportunity will bring our community better wages and better jobs that will lead to a stronger tax base to support investment in schools, roads, and the local economy,” Silvio said.

“We look forward to partnering with the state and these committees to ensure the best interests of our community and natural environment are incorporated into the plans for this project.

"While there is much work to be done, our priority is to bring the community together and unite around the benefits of building American-made, electric cars in Georgia,” Silvio said.

Information regarding the dates and location of meetings will be available at www.georgia.org/rivian along with committee assignments. Each committee will have a designated official staff lead coordinator and assistants along with a representative from Rivian participating.

After final meetings conclude, recommendations will be developed by the committees and reported to the state of Georgia and Rivian.

COMMITTEES

- The Workforce Development Committee's mission statement: "To meet current and future workforce needs for Rivian and other existing industries as well as for future prospects within the region. To effectively plan for future workforce growth and demand and address key issues like wages, in-demand careers, and industry trends with input from the private sector. To coordinate with K-12 systems, the University System of Georgia, and the Technical College System of Georgia

Inexperience good quality for elected official?

After the apparent apathy about politics seen in Georgia in recent decades, it's either a good or bad thing so many local and state candidates qualified for the May 24 Democratic and Republican primaries last week.

It's a good thing because county residents and voters appear to finally understand the role local government plays in their lives — that they should pay attention to more than the presidential sweepstakes every four years. City, county and state governments are the ones closest to Georgians. It's where decisions are made about where and when roads should be paved and widened. It's the level of government where decisions are made about the amount of property tax owed by owners of land or businesses. Decisions about school system governance and funding priorities are made here. But, others may view large groups of candidates qualifying as a bad thing. It may mean local governments are operating so poorly that many see the need to run for office to fix them.

It also may mean a number of inexperienced people will be setting our tax rates and deciding how the money could best be spent — without knowing the true needs of local government and the basic services it provides.

Incumbent District 2 County Commissioner Demond Mason, who represents part of west Newton, apparently has the hardest path to re-election in the May 24 Democratic primary.

Mason faces a challenge from Dwayne Stephens, a local pastor, and two of his 2018 opponents for the seat, Steven Rhodes and Earnest L. Simmons.

The race likely will go to a June 21 runoff between the two top vote-getters — just as it did in 2018 when Mason defeated Simmons.

However, the district has changed somewhat from 2018. The Georgia General Assembly reconfigured District 2 as part of its changes to Newton County's commissioner and school board districts in response to 2020 census data.

The district added some area from District 3 that is north of Brown Bridge Road and includes areas in the Wisteria community. It also lost a section between highways 162 and 81 to District 1.

Another race with almost no one seeing a clear path to victory May 24 is the race for the 10th Congressional District seat now occupied by U.S. Rep. Jody Hice, R-Greensboro.

Hice is leaving his congressional seat to challenge incumbent Brad Raffensperger for the GOP nomination for Georgia Secretary of State. Eight Republicans and five Democrats are seeking their parties' nominations for the seat representing a 19-county district that the Georgia General Assembly designed to remain in squarely in Republican hands.

Only one of the Republicans, former congressman Paul Broun, and none of the Democrats have held elected office at the federal level — which, again, some may view as a good thing.

We have six-term incumbent J.C. Henderson facing a challenge from Covington youth pastor Willie B. Jackson for the Democratic nomination for county commission District 4 on May 24. Three-term incumbent school board member Shakila Henderson-Baker, the chairperson this year, faces a challenge from Victoria Redding in the May 24 primary.

Two-term state senator Brian Strickland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, faces an apparent strong challenge from Rivian opponent Brett Mauldin of Madison for the Republican nomination for a Newton County seat in the General Assembly.

In other words, lots of inexperience potentially winning seats at all levels of government. Maybe it's a good thing. Maybe not.

A flawed fear of primary opposition

The comment was well meaning but was completely off base at the same time.

"Why is David Perdue challenging our Republican incumbent governor in a time when the Republican Party needs solidarity, not conflict?" the Facebook post said. "Perdue lost his Senate seat to Democrat Ossoff. What makes him think he can beat the Democratic candidate for governor?"

The opinion has several logical flaws. First and foremost, the thoughts offered imply that an incumbent, in this case a Republican, should have a free pass while running for reelection.

Once again, we seem to have a fear of competition when it comes to incumbents in the Republican Party. This isn't the first time this has surfaced.

Typically, when incumbents have primary opposition, it is of the token variety. You will have primary challengers with little chance of getting more than five percent of the vote.

The case of David Perdue challenging Brian Kemp in the upcoming GOP primary is different. Perdue is a former U.S. Senator. Yes, he lost his reelection bid. However, the fact that he held that office makes him a legitimate candidate in the 2022 governor's race.

Perdue will certainly earn more than 5% of the vote. There is no guarantee he will win, but he is as legit of a primary challenger as there can be. The endorsement of a former president also helps his chances significantly.

Certainly, Kemp and his supporters would have preferred Perdue not enter this race. The other three primary challengers combined don't cause as much worry as Perdue does.

Probably most frightening to Kemp is former president Donald Trump, who has endorsed Perdue. Trump still holds a grudge against Kemp for what he believes in his mind is failure to prevent the state of Georgia from going in the Republican side during the 2020 presidential election.

Trump had endorsed candidates in the races in Georgia for lieutenant governor, secretary of state and for Congress. Similar to the governor primary on the GOP side, Trump has endorsed a challenger in the secretary of state race rather than the incumbent.

The 10th Congressional seat is an open race. Had the incumbent lieutenant governor decided to run again, he likely would have been without Trump's endorsement. The reasons are the same.

Regardless of who endorses whom, no incumbent should have a free pass to re-election. It's difficult to understand how that rationale ever surfaced.

It could easily be argued that having primary opposition makes your campaign stronger in the long run. If Kemp does win the primary, he will have to work to bring together those who were against him, including the former president.

However, to assume that Perdue not running would magically make the doubters go away is stretching it.

Kemp has a lot of work to do in the coming weeks. Being the incumbent does have advantages. However, it will not be a cakewalk to the general election.

It's going to take more than commercials about threatening a would-be suitor of his daughter with a shotgun. Challenger Perdue has some heavyweight allies in this race. Currently, he trails in the polls but that could easily change.

Regardless, it's time for Kemp supporters to stop the bellyaching about having primary opposition and go about the business of winning the primary.

Voters always deserve a choice at the ballot box. That goes for incumbent governors and their primary races as well.

A good friend of mine who happens to be an Atlanta Falcons fan frequently tells me, "Aim low, and you'll never be disappointed."

If only I could. As an eternal optimist, I have a wish list a mile long. Sure, most of my wishes will never come true. But that won't stop me.

I wish Major League Baseball owners and players would think as much about fans as they do about themselves. From little kids to senior citizens, some folks look forward to spring each year, just to hear the crack of the bat, and to see their overpaid heroes slide into second base and dive into the outfield grass. It's too bad that baseball has fallen into the wrong hands. A 153-year tradition is fading away.

I wish President Biden would own up to the fact that he needs reading glasses. Honestly, Joe, most of us do too. We won't hold it against you. It's hard to watch you speak to the nation squinting as if you're facing the bright morning sun.

I wish former President Trump would listen more and talk less. It has been widely reported by many members of his administration that he usually ignored their grounded, common sense advice. If he gets another chance, I hope he will follow their guidance.

I wish more Americans would support our government during the Russia-Ukraine crisis. Unfortunately, a few loose-screw members of Congress and some cable network opinion hosts have convinced some folks that cheering for Putin is a good idea. Does anyone really think that would end well?

I wish fewer Americans were openly hoping Biden fails. I get it: they didn't want him to win. Many of the presidential candidates I've supported in my lifetime didn't win either. Still, I have wanted every president to succeed. Inevitably, they all failed at one time or another. Then at the end of their four-year term, we decided whether to keep them, or reject them. At this moment in time, it's kind of important that our current president makes the right moves. I hope he does, for our sake.

I wish political candidates would start appealing to people's best instincts, instead of their worst.

I wish multi-millionaire political candidates would stop posing with the ball caps, plaid shirts, hunting vests, and rifles. You're law and order, we get it. Just dress like you do when you're strolling the grounds of your gated neighborhood.

I wish voters would stop falling for the ball cap and plaid shirt routine.

I wish every president had as much control over gas prices as people think they do. If so, gas would always be cheap, wouldn't it? Speaking of that, I wish gas prices would fall as quickly as they rise.

I wish that anyone who causes a distraction at the State of the Union would have to abide by middle school rules of behavior. If you act up, you're escorted out by the principal, and will have to run 10 laps around the Capitol. This applies to all: from the lowliest members of Congress with no committee assignments, to the Speaker of the House.

I wish both major political parties would provide a presidential candidate I want to vote "for." In recent years, I just wanted to vote "against" someone. (How about you?)

I wish television viewing options could be simplified. I should be able to find the shows I want, and operate a remote control without earning a degree from MIT.

I wish whoever designs the next gas container I buy for mower gas will stop trying to drive me crazy. Those instructions also require an advanced degree.

I wish the college football national championship game would always be played on a Friday or Saturday night.

I know, this is all truly wishful thinking. As John Lennon sang so memorably, "You can say I'm a dreamer. But I'm not the only one."

New Covington company to recycle scrap from auto battery maker

news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — SK Battery America (SKBA) has selected Ascend Elements to recycle the scrap from used batteries at Ascend's new 154,000-square-foot battery recycling facility in Covington.

Ascend, formerly known as Battery Resources, will recycle both cell and module lithium-ion battery manufacturing scrap from SKBA's manufacturing facility in Commerce, Georgia, a news release stated.

The scrap material will be recycled in Covington to recover 98% of battery materials and return critical battery elements to the battery supply chain, the release stated.

"People often think lithium-ion battery recycling is just for end-of-life batteries, but waste from the battery cell manufacturing process is the biggest segment of the battery recycling market right now," said Michael O'Kronley, CEO of Ascend Elements.

"SKBA is embracing sustainability and reducing its impact on the environment by recycling every bit of scrap battery material it produces. We are incredibly proud to have our new recycling base in Covington ... and we look forward to helping SKBA conserve valuable material and keep battery production costs down.

"We are committed to continuing our work with SKBA and eventually returning the battery materials we recover to their supply chain. Lithium-ion battery recycling and materials recovery needs to become standard operating practice across the industry to minimize our dependence on mining, protect the environment and conserve valuable battery metals."

Alex Yarbrough, environmental engineer at SK Battery America, said, "Our vision is to create a circular supply chain for electric vehicle batteries from raw materials to recycling in the United States.

"We will move forward with Ascend Elements to improve the overall carbon-reduction value of EVs."

Ascend is a vertically-integrated, lithium-ion battery recycling and engineered-materials company based in Westborough, Massachusetts.

It raised $90 million in 2021 to expand its battery recycling and cathode manufacturing operations, and recently shared plans to open the Covington recycling base facility, which will be North America's largest battery recycling facility with 30,000 metric tons per year capacity when fully operational later this year.

The company will continue expanding its commercial recycling and battery materials manufacturing operations in 2022 and 2023.

Area students earn top awards at regional science fair

news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County School System (NCSS) students brought home the hardware from the recent Griffin RESA Regional Science Fair.

In fact, every NCSS student participating earned an award in the competition.

The NCSS students competed against fellow students from Butts, Fayette, Henry, Lamar, Pike, Spalding, and Upson counties.

One student, Newton County Theme School's Kathryn Wilber, not only won first place honors but also the prestigious Broadcom Master's Award — the highest award given to middle school students at the competition. Winners of this award are invited to compete in the Broadcom Masters competition in Washington, D.C.

All first place winners will move on to compete at the 2022 Georgia Science and Engineering Fair in Athens March 21-April 2. The following is a list of all Newton County School System Regional Science Fair winners:

Senior Division (High School) Science Fair Winners (all from Newton College & Career Academy):

- LaTayla Billingslea and Riley Poynter, First Place, "Drugging E. Coli: Effects of Vape e-liquids on E.Coli."
- Annslee Dunn, First Place, "Using Beneficial Bacteria to Kill Antibiotic Resistant Bacteria."
- Brianna Francis and Bailey Smith, Second Place, "CRSIPR Knockout & Restriction Digest in Bacterial Transformation."
- Kaegan Hill, Third Place, "Efficacy of Over-the-Counter Products on Bacteria-Induced Atopic Dermatitis."
- Younger Burton and Tatom Curtis, Honorable Mention, "Poisonous PCR: Analysis of the ITS Gene in Local Poisonous Fungal Species."
- Dasia Lackey, Honorable Mention, "Cellobiose/SCOBY in Biofuel Production."

Junior Division (Middle School) Science Fair Winners:

- Kathryn Wilber, Newton County Theme School, 1st Place & Broadcom Masters Award, "Which Mask Works Best? (to prevent spread of bacteria)."

Connection Initiative for funding. The news release said the project has two primary goals:

- Protect the Dried Indian Creek corridor from further degradation through land donations/acquisitions, and conservation easement purchases;
- Provide public access to the corridor via an ecologically-sensitive multi-use trail along the land acquired or secured through conservation easements.

Oxford City Manager Bill Andrew said the city has bought over 44 acres along Dried Indian Creek in the past 18 months. "The city of Oxford is working with volunteers and partners to restore this stream corridor by curtailing the spread of invasive plant species, halting erosion, and eventually opening the corridor to public use with a bicycle and pedestrian trail," Andrew said. "The vital partnership with Congressman Johnson in securing these funds is critical to realizing this vision for the Oxford and Newton County community," he said. City officials said in their request they were asking for funding to build a 10-foot to 12-foot-wide multi-use trail running 1.01 miles. It will be built in the 100-year floodplain and cross 14 properties, it stated. "Along the trail, we plan to place signage to share the history of the creek and the surrounding area. It will be a key segment in eventually providing connectivity to a neighboring city (Covington) and its trail system." Newton County Transportation Department submitted the Fairview Road Multi-use Trail project. The path is proposed to end at the Rockdale County line, but in the future could be tied together with the new multi-use trail being constructed along Ga. Hwy. 162 (Salem Road) by GDOT, the release stated. The project consists of the construction of a 2.5-mile pedestrian/bicycle trail along the south side of Fairview Road in Newton County. The trail would be 8-10 feet wide concrete and connect the communities from I-20 to the Rockdale County line, the release stated. The Newton County DOT said in its proposal that 95% of Fairview Road has no existing sidewalk. "The proposed trail would connect Clements Middle School and Fairview Elementary School with all of the communities along Fairview Road and provide a safe route for children to and from school." Fairview Road has an existing 80-foot wide right of way and can accommodate a path without the need for additional right of way acquisition, officials said. County Commissioner Alana Sanders said in July that "this project will not only provide the activity needed but safety to a community because of the absence of sidewalks." "This project will help us get the ball rolling and ease the minds of parents for them. Funds raised by the woman's club at the gala will help 4Sarah expand its now-limited residential space. It also will provide money for scholarships, or allow many victims to earn their high school diplomas, McClure said. Tickets for the gala to benefit 4Sarah are $15 before the event and $20 at the door. For more information, call 404-316-3284 or email debbyvanderbunt@gmail.com.

councilman that represents the entire city, as a West Ward candidate, [ongoing gun violence in the West Ward is] personal to me. It should be personal to Mr. [Councilman Anthony] Henderson and it should be personal to Ms. [Councilwoman] Charika Davis. That heavy crime area is predominantly people that look like us. And that's why it was important for us, the three of us, to talk to those constituents in that neighborhood so that they would hear our voices. So that they could hear the concern we have for that particular community, and not just that community, but every community. We want to do the Nelson Heights community, we want to do the Green Acres community, we want to do Jefferson Village — any area where there is crime that is going on in our city." Morgan said he believed change would only happen as long as the council and community were united. "I realize that as a community we're going to have to do this thing together," Morgan said, "because, I mean, after a recent conversation with [Cotton], I had a young lady reach out to me and her attitude was, 'Hey, that's y'all. That's y'all neighborhood. That's y'all killing each other.' And I simply told her that while it may be happening in the west right now, unless we work together as a community, it will be over in the east. For us to look the other way and say, 'OK, that's happening in your neighborhood,' that's not the way we should live as a community." Morgan said the plan was to host events as a way to build camaraderie and, most importantly, "take back the fear." "What needs to happen is there needs to be a camaraderie between everybody — the police department, those neighborhoods — where we can get information out to those people, let them know they can use some anonymous lines," he said. "We are there to try to help take back the fear from those neighborhoods. No one should ever be afraid to go outside after 6 p.m." During his spirited comments, Morgan also shared that he believed more police precincts throughout the troubled areas of the city were necessary to combat the ongoing issue. "I've been on council for six years ... I've said from day one, we need police precincts in some of the worst neighborhoods in our city," Morgan said. "I said it then and I say it now. I know people don't want police precincts in their neighborhood, but let me tell you something. As a West Ward candidate, I will be the first one to say that if it comes to the point that we have to put a police precinct in Nelson Heights and the Green Acres area, I will be one of the first ones to do it, and you know why? First of all, because I have been elected as a West Ward candidate and, whether people want things in their neighborhood or not, it is my responsibility to make sure that those people who are trying to do right are protected from the people that are trying to destroy those neighborhoods. And if people don't like what I say, when I say it, my seat comes up in two years. You have the opportunity to vote me right on out in 2024. But as long as I'm on this city council and a West Ward representative, I'm going to do everything I can to make sure we support our neighborhood, make sure that we support our police department, and, at the end of the day, we've got to do this thing together as a community. "If we don't do this as a community, it's not going to get done," he added. "It shouldn't be east-west, black-white, because at the end of the day, crime is crime, criminals are criminals. Our criminals need to be dealt with, I don't care who he is, what ethnicity he holds." Before Morgan's comments, other council members took time to discuss the growing gun violence and, again, called for action. Councilman Don Floyd said he heard several firearm discharges near his home in the East Ward, coming from what he believed was the direction of Nelson Heights. "We've got to do something," he said. In response, Cotton shared that an arrest had been made that potentially help "tamper" things down, but he said it seemed area juveniles were being involved to "do the dirty work." And those causing the most turmoil were "strangers," Cotton said, not originally from Covington. To increase police presence, Cotton said they were paying overtime for officers to have up to two patrol cars in the problematic areas at all times. Cotton said not all shooting incidents had been drug related or gang related. Most were just one person being angry or upset at another over things some might consider minuscule. Covington native Norris Freeman expressed his concerns to the council, pleading also for action to be taken. He said there were people from Miami, Florida, coming to do the shooting. "We've got to get it together," he said. "Or somebody is definitely going to get killed." Cotton then reminded Freeman and members of the public that work was being done to combat the gun violence. Davis encouraged people to attend the April 2 rally at Nelson

Heights to "show their support, offer ideas and suggestions ... ways that we can help you and help our community." Councilwoman Fleeta Baggett said the issue was one that needed to be tackled citywide, not just limited to one ward over the other. She said she planned to be at the April 2 event and support the cause. Baggett also encouraged residents that "if you hear something, say something." Keck said change would only happen when the collective mindset was changed. Moving forward, she said, her mindset would be addressing crime. "Covington is starting to see the crime that we've heard about, and it's headed east," Keck said. "And we can do everything we can to stop it, but until there's a mindset change, it's only going to get worse ... This community is going to get stronger. Together we can help make this better. It's going to take some work and it's going to take some money. And as we go into the budget session, crime is the first thing on my mind."

Collectively as a team, Alcovy batted .485 while recording 13 RBIs and only being struck out once. Meanwhile, it was a rough go on the Rams’ side.

After bringing two runners across home plate to open things up, Newton didn’t score another run until the fourth inning. By that time in the contest, though, the Rams trailed 8-3. At the end of the fourth, the Rams’ deficit grew 13-3.

Newton scored a few runs down the stretch. In the fifth inning, the Rams scored a run to cut into the deficit while they scored more in the sixth.

Leading the way for the Rams’ offense was Anthony Bynum. He went 2-for-4 at the plate recording an RBI off a solo home run. Collin Brightwell and Miguel Barbis contributed two RBIs, too, on Friday. But, according to head coach Derwin McNealy, the game was lost on the defensive end.

Final Four schedule. It switched Berkmar boys’ scheduled game to be played on Saturday, March 5 instead of Friday, March 4 like it had been scheduled for months.

According to Will Hammock of the Gwinnett Daily Post, the GHSA made the switch to let Norcross’ girls and boys team play back-to-back games on Friday, March 4, instead of playing across two days.

The move caused an understandable uproar from other teams, such as Berkmar, who labeled it as ‘blatant favoritism.’

It would’ve affected the Newton boys team, too.

With the Rams defeating Archer in the Elite Eight on Wednesday, March 2, the original schedule had them getting two days of preparation for the Final Four. However, the alteration would’ve given the Rams only one day of preparation.

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — Two Social Circle wrestlers were enjoying the view on Feb. 11 from the top of the mountain.

Social Circle High School’s Braydon Mitchell and Lance Thacker each won state titles at the traditional state dual finals in Macon.

Mitchell (106) and Thacker (126) helped lead the Mat Redskins to a second-place overall finish.

“It was a crazy experience and it is great to reach the goal I have been trying to accomplish for the past six years,” Mitchell said. “It just felt like a dream come true and I want to thank my coaches and everyone who has helped me get to where I’m at.”

Social Circle High School’s Lance Thacker captured an individual state wrestling championship last weekend in Macon. Thacker was champion at 126.

“Last year we did not have a wrestler in the finals,” Redskins head coach Randy Prater said. “This year we had five and two wrestled their way to the top to earn the title of state champion.”

Mitchell and Thacker both drew the praise of their head coach.

“Braydon and Lance, like most of our team, are very driven, hard-working young men,” Prater said.

“They have bought into Social Circle wrestling, committed to the process and put in the extra work in the offseason. They have parents who have bought in as well by pushing them through the years to help them reach their goal.”

Connor Castillo (120), Kacen Taylor (145) and Will Hames (160) were each runner-up in their respective weight classes for Social Circle while James Eldridge (152), Rowen Vandergriff

(195) and Tucker Cleary (220) were third.

Caden Prater (132) and Sean Crews (138) were fourth and Ben Bruce (285) was fifth for the Mat Redskins.

Social Circle compiled 200.5 team points to finish as state runner-up behind Trion who totaled 225.

The Feb. 11 traditional finals concluded the Georgia High School Association wrestling season for the 2021-2022 season.

Eastside’s Amos signs with Virginia Military Institute

COVINGTON, Ga. — James Amos seemed to have a huge smile glued to his face as he celebrated his commitment and signing to the Virginia Military Institute (VMI) football program on March 3.

After Amos put pen to paper, he could not hardly describe what the moment meant to him knowing his next step was solidified.

“It feels good,” Amos said. “Ever since I was a little kid, this was a dream to go DI and play football. [Signing with VMI] puts me on the right track to go to the NFL.”

VMI sits 470 miles away from Covington in Lexington, Virginia.

When asked what made his decision the right one for him, Amos highlighted how the people at VMI made him feel right at home.

“I just love the people,” Amos said. “The campus is nice and I just felt at home when I visited. I felt like it was a good move

Last fall, Amos concluded his Eastside football career finishing with 49 career starts as an offensive lineman for the Eagles.

During his senior year, Amos recorded 40 pancake blocks.

After the season concluded, Amos was voted onto Region 8-AAAAA’s First Team All-Region while also earning a spot on the Covington News’ All-Offensive team.

But Amos admitted that signing his scholarship would not have been possible without the people in his corner.

“I have a lot of supporters,”

Amos said. “A lot of people care for me and want me to do great things in life. Without so many people’s support, I wouldn’t be here today.”

Now, after his graduation from Eastside in May, Amos will be off to join the VMI football team beginning in the fall.

Upon reflection of his four years as an Eagle, Amos couldn’t find the words to describe how important the Eastside ‘brotherhood’ was to him.

“I’m going to miss high school football,” Amos said. “I miss all the fun we had in practice and all. I’m going to miss the brotherhood, too.”

Alcovy storms past Newton after bats come to life for 6-run inning

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Alcovy used a strong third and fourth innings to pull away from Newton with a 16-6 victory at home on Friday, March 11.

Being tied 2-2 at the end of the second inning, Alcovy left a lot of runners on base early in the game. Then, CJ Salmon, the Tigers' catcher, came up to the plate in the third inning.

In his at-bat, Salmon homered, giving the Tigers the advantage.

Even though it would be Salmon's lone hit of the contest, it seemed to be the spark the Tigers' offense needed, according to head coach Jimmy Hughes.

"Once CJ hit that home run, things seemed to open up a bit," Hughes said. "It was almost like it was the jolt we needed to get the party started."

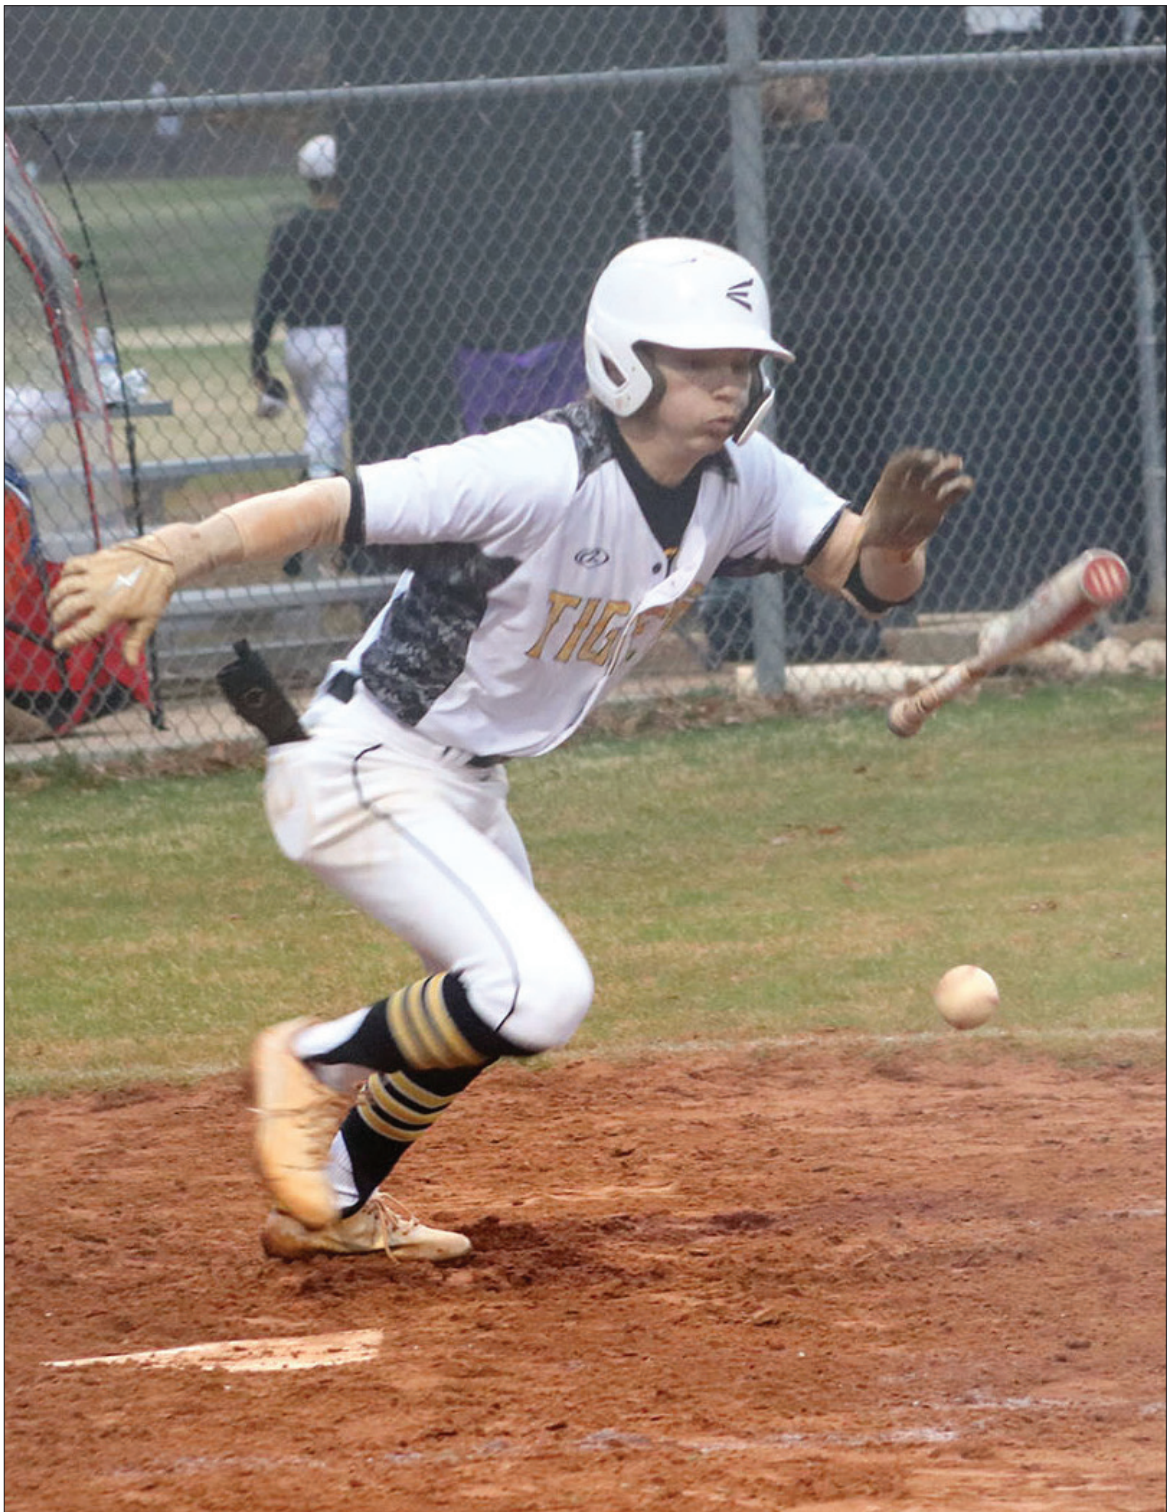

Going along with the party were the offensive fireworks that ensued after Salmon's homer.

Alcovy went on to score six runs in the third inning followed by a five-run fourth inning.

Salmon may have provided the spark for the Tigers, but Connor Coursey led the charge for most of the night at the plate and on the mound.

GHSA woes overshadow state playoffs champions

Last week, the Georgia High School Association (GHSA) crowned 16 state champions across boys and girls basketball at the Macon Coliseum.

It was anything but smooth sailing, though, as there were some noticeable blunders along the way from the GHSA itself.

I'll start with the low hanging fruit concerning the Drew Charter vs. Social Circle fiasco that occurred.

When the two teams faced in the Final Four on March 5, Drew Charter seemed to have won 70-66 in overtime. However, after watching the NFHS Network live stream, two magical points appeared on the scoreboard for Drew Charter in the second quarter.

After watching the game's full replay, the game really should've ended with a 56-54 win for Social Circle in regulation. Nothing was done about it.

Prior to the Final Four round, the GHSA made a self-inflicting move that was met with opposition.

On March 2, the GHSA announced a last-minute change to the bracket's

Eastside's Hall pitches complete game, tallies 11 Ks

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD

COVINGTON, Ga. — The 2022 season has gotten off to a rough start for the Eastside baseball team. However, one of its senior leaders had a notable performance on the mound recently.

On Saturday, March 5, Holden Hall threw a complete game on his way to striking out 11 batters and only surrendering three hits. Hall's outing helped Eastside to a 4-0 win over Jones County.

It was a memorable experience for the senior pitcher.

"I felt energized the whole time," Hall said of March 5's game.

"I just felt like I had good control over every pitch."

Upon reflection of his solid outing, Hall recognized how his pitch calling assisted with recording 11 strikeouts.

Baseball has been a fascination of Hall's for most of his life. Hall has played the game since he was 6 years old, too.

But baseball is not the only sport Hall has participated in.

At Eastside, he has been a member of the golf team and has been a forward on the Eagles' basketball team, too.

Even so, baseball has remained No. 1 for Hall.

2 red chillies, thinly sliced

“Seafood Pancakes” from “Judy Joo’s Korean Soul Food” (White Lion Publishing) are a popular Korean appetizer. Any shellfish can be substituted, but the ingredients listed help keep the pancakes crispy.

at an angle

Vegetable oil for frying

Directions:

In a large saucepan, add enough water so that it’s three-quarters full and bring to a boil. Add the mussels and clams and cook until the shells open. Remove the shellfish and set aside to cool. Retain 3/4 ounces of the cooking liquor then strain it to remove the meat from the shells of the mussels and clams and set aside.

In a large bowl, gently whisk together the rice flour, cornflour, self-rising flour, dwengjang, pepper, salt and 8 ounces of cold water and liquor from the cooked shellfish until smooth. Add the brown shrimp, mussels, clams, spring onions, garlic and red chillies (keeping the seeds, if you like more heat) and stir batter until thoroughly combined.

In a large nonstick frying pan, heat a generous drizzle of oil over a medium-high heat. Spoon in the batter and spread it evenly to form a pancake about 5 inches wide. Fry until golden brown and crispy on the base, about 3 to 4 minutes.

Carefully flip and cook for a further 3 to 4 minutes until the other side is golden. Transfer to a kitchen paper-lined plate to drain. Repeat with the remaining batter, adding more oil to the frying pan as needed.

Serve immediately with a favorite dipping sauce.

Dish up classic comfort food for St. Patrick’s Day

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Everyone has “corned beef and cabbage” on the brain come St. Patrick’s Day. But another flavorful dish might appeal to a greater number of people with Irish roots. Shepherd’s Pie is a savory dish made of minced lamb that originated in England but also made the jump to Ireland, where it became a popular comfort food. While Shepherd’s Pie can be made with freshly cooked ground meat, it also is a fine way to use leftovers from a previous meal. Shepherd’s Pie is commonly mistaken for Cottage Pie, which is very similar, yet tends to use beef as the meat of choice.

Many families have their own ancestral recipes for Shepherd’s Pie, but for those looking to cook the dish for the first time, try “Shepherd’s Pie,” courtesy of Alton Brown, which appeared in Season 12 of his hit show “Good Eats.”

Shepherd’s Pie

Yield: 8 servings

Ingredients:

1 1/2 pounds russet potatoes
2 tablespoons canola oil
1 cup chopped onion
2 carrots, peeled and finely diced
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 1/2 pounds ground lamb
1 3/4 teaspoons kosher salt
3/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
2 teaspoons tomato paste
2 teaspoons chopped fresh rosemary
1 teaspoon chopped fresh thyme
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 cup half-and-half
4 tablespoons unsalted butter
1 large egg yolk
1/2 cup corn kernels, fresh or frozen

Metro Creative

Shepherd’s Pie is a savory dish made of minced lamb that originated in England but also made the jump to Ireland, where it became a popular comfort food.

1/2 cup English peas, fresh or frozen

Directions:

Heat oven to 400 degrees.

Peel the potatoes and cut them into 1/2-inch dice. Put them in a medium saucepan and cover with cold water. Set said pan over high heat, cover and bring to a boil. Uncover, drop the heat to maintain a simmer, and cook until tender, 10 to 15 minutes.

Heat the oil in an 11-inch saute pan over medium-high heat until shimmering. Add the onion and carrots and saute just until they begin to take on color, 3 to 4 minutes. Add the garlic and stir to combine. Add the meat, salt and pepper, and cook until browned and cooked through, approximately 3 minutes.

Sprinkle the meat with the flour, toss to coat, and continue to cook for another minute. Add the tomato paste, broth, Worcestershire sauce, rosemary, and thyme and stir to combine. Bring to a boil, then decrease the heat to low, cover, and simmer slowly until the sauce is thickened slightly, 10 to 12 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine the half-and-half and butter in a microwave-safe container and nuke until warmed through, about 35 seconds.

Drain the potatoes and return them to the saucepan. Mash the potatoes (a masher is an excellent tool for this, though a hand mixer will do), then add the hot half-and-half mixture, as well as the salt and pepper. Mash to smoothness, then stir in the egg yolk.

Add the corn and peas to the meat mixture and spread evenly in a 7-by-11-inch glass baking dish. Top with the mashed potatoes, starting around the edges to create a seal to prevent the mixture from bubbling over, and smooth the top with a rubber spatula. Place on a half sheet pan lined with parchment paper on the middle rack of the oven and bake for 25 minutes, or just until the potatoes begin to brown. Remove to a cooking rack and let rest for at least 15 minutes before serving.

Chocolate bark gets nutty upgrade

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Peanut and chocolate has always been a tasty combination. The saltiness of peanuts pairs well with the sweetness of chocolate, which is why many desserts feature this combination of flavors.

Cakes and cookies may be prime outlets for pairing peanuts and chocolate, but so can homemade candies, like chocolate bark. “Caramelized Peanut Milk Chocolate Bark” from “Chocolate Obsession” by Michael Recchiuti and Fran Gage mixes peanut butter right into the chocolate to give it an extra dose of nutty flavor.

Caramelized Peanut Milk Chocolate Bark

About 24 pieces

Ingredients:

1 1/2 cups blanched whole peanuts
1/2 cup granulated cane sugar
2 teaspoons unsalted butter with 82% butterfat
1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
1 cup (10 ounces by weight) tempered 41% milk chocolate
1/3 cup plus 2 tablespoons smooth peanut butter, at room temperature

Directions:

Roast and caramelize the nuts

1) Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Line the bottom of a sheet pan with parchment paper. Spread the peanuts on the prepared pan in a single layer. Roast the nuts until they are a medium brown, about 15 minutes.

2) While the nuts are roasting, put a piece of parchment paper or a nonstick baking liner on a work surface. Measure the sugar and butter and put both of them next to the stove.

3) As soon as the nuts are roasted, place a medium, heavy-bottomed pot over medium-high heat. Use an unlined copper pot if you have one. When the pot is hot — test it by flicking a drop of water into the pan; it should sizzle and dance across the bottom — immediately add the hot nuts and the sugar. Cook, stirring constantly with a wooden spoon, until the sugar liquefies and coats the nuts. When only a few specks of sugar remain unmelted, remove from the heat. Sprinkle the salt over the nuts and add the butter. Stir until the nuts glisten and start to separate from one another.

4) Scrape the nuts onto the parchment paper or baking liner and spread them apart. Let the nuts cool completely, and then break up the larger pieces. The pieces don’t have to be uniform.

5) Store the nuts in a zippered plastic bag at room temperature if you are not making the bark immediately.

Make the bark

1) Line the bottom of an 8-by-12-inch sheet pan with parchment paper. Stir the tempered chocolate and peanut butter together in a medium bowl.

2) Pour the chocolate into the prepared pan. Spread it evenly with a small offset spatula. Tap the pan on a work surface to even the top.
3) Sprinkle the caramelized nuts over the chocolate. Tap the pan again to settle the nuts into the chocolate. When the chocolate loses its sheen and starts to set, after about 15 minutes, cut the bark with a sharp knife into 2-inch squares or other fanciful shapes of your choice. Leave the bark at room temperature until it is completely set, about 1 hour, and then separate the pieces.

4) Store in a cool, dry place, not in the refrigerator.

coverstory

BY JAY BOBBIN

The comedy "Welcome to Flatch" premieres Thursday on Fox.

'Welcome to Flatch' introduces a new Fox comedy's setting

If you're looking for a big taste of small-town life, "Welcome to Flatch."

Premiering Thursday, March 17, the Fox sitcom from veteran producers Jenny Bicks ("Sex and the City") and Paul Feig ("Freaks and Geeks") is based on the British series "This Country," taking a documentary approach as — appropriately — a documentary crew showcases the residents of the Midwestern town of Flatch. It's a quirky group, but still with a particular charm.

Cousins Kelly and "Shrub" (played by single-named newcomer Holmes and Sam Straley) provide the crew's entry point to Flatch, whose citizens also include: the local minister (Seann William Scott) and his newspaper-editor ex-girlfriend (Aya Cash, formerly of "You're the Worst"); and the historical-society chief (Taylor Ortega). Justin Linville and Krystal Smith also play "Flatchians," as Bicks refers to them.

"I think what it allows us to do," Bicks says, "and what it did in the original, is to get inside the characters' heads. It gets to be much more on the fly, so everything feels more immediate. When you have actors — as we do — who are great on the fly, you can catch things super-quickly. The comedy flows much more clearly, and that was really exciting for me."

For Feig, "Flatch" is a throwback to his own upbringing in a Detroit suburb. "I just knew I had to get out of there," he reflects, "not because I didn't like it, but because I wanted to do what I'm doing now and try to represent the Midwest. That's what I did with 'Freaks and Geeks,' and what I have been trying to do with everything that I do about underdogs. I really like to try to show the places and the people that don't normally get shown in movies and TV. That's why this show is so exciting to me."

Those who want a big dose of "Flatch" early are in luck: The same day the show makes its linear debut on Fox, the first seven episodes will be released on the network's digital platforms (Fox Now, On Demand, etc.). Cast member Cash believes the series' pace makes it digestible enough to accommodate such binge viewing of it.

"One thing that may not seem obvious about the documentary form," she reasons, "is simply how quickly it goes. I feel like there's a real pitch to be made about how you can still come up with really quality content in a really fast amount of time. It was fun to be on something where you (were finished in time so you) could have dinner some nights. I mean, I was alone in my hotel room, because it was (the time of) COVID. But it was dinner time."

Streaming offers a feast of Italian food knowledge

As winter drags on, getting away to a gastronomic paradise like Italy has a lot of appeal. And for those who want to and can't, a number of upcoming and current offerings can show what it's all about.

Few know the territory as well as Giada De Laurentiis. As host of her discovery+ series "Giada in Italy," the Rome-born chef and author brings her family on the vacation of a lifetime in Florence, where she prepares authentic recipes in an outdoor kitchen overlooking the city. It also serves as a base from which to embark on culinary adventures in places such as Sorrento, Milan, Positano and the island of Capri.

In "Bobby and Giada in Italy," also streaming on discovery+, De Laurentiis serves as a local guide for fellow chef and Food Network personality Bobby Flay for foodie adventures in the "Bel Paese." The show follows the pair as they spend a month in Rome and Tuscany, getting inspired by the history and traditions of Italian cuisine and enjoying la dolce vita. If this doesn't make you want to book a flight across the Atlantic, nothing will.

But those are merely appetizers for the volume of Italian food knowledge that can be had on streaming. So consider the following the main course, dessert and after-dinner aperitif.

"Gino's Italian Escape" (Tubi): Italian chef and TV personality Gino D'Acampo ("Gordon, Gino & Fred's Road Trip") is your host for this culinary odyssey through his home country, in which he discovers the secrets of Italian cuisine in places ranging from coastal villages to major cities like Rome and Naples.

"A Taste of Italy" (Acorn TV, Spectrum): British chef Nisha Katona takes viewers to locations throughout the country to discover the culinary gems hidden there. Among the locales she visits are Orvieto, the Umbrian village where she tries her hand at drunk chicken; Livorno, the Tuscan port town where she makes fish stew with white wine and fennel; and Catania, where she samples tuna sausage and swordfish parmigiana.

"Finding Little Italy" (Pluto): Similarly, this British series eschews the big cities like Rome and Venice for what it calls "the real Italy," the little towns and villages that have a long history of culinary mastery. So climb aboard host Luke Darracott's Vespa for a trek to places like Liguria, Toscana, Lazio, Umbria and Emilia.

Joanne Froggatt

OF 'ANGELA BLACK'
ON SPECTRUM ORIGINALS

How have doors opened for you since you did "Downton Abbey"? For "Angela Black," did you audition or did they just call you and say they wanted you?

Well, Jack and Harry (Williams, the series' writers and creators) very kindly offered me the role of Angela Black but that's more to do with the fact I'd worked with them before on "Liar," I think, as opposed to "Downton." But, yeah, of course, I mean "Downton" certainly didn't do me any harm. It's a lovely thing to be attached to. It's a lovely thing to have as such a big part of my life and as well as a big part of my career. So something I'll be forever grateful for.

Can you give a little thumbnail sketch of the character of Angela?

Well, I found Angela a fascinating role to play because when we meet her, she's placing her life where outwardly, she seems to have it all. She has this beautiful home. She's got a beautiful husband, two beautiful children. But when you scratch the surface, the reality is very, very different. And when we meet her, she's really in a place where she's lost herself and she's lost her voice, and she's lost confidence in her own sense of self really and her own mind in some ways.

So we go on such a journey with her that sort of breaks her down even further, and then builds her back up again to be able to overcome, in some ways, the situation we find her in at the beginning. So it was just such a roller coaster journey for her, and as an actor, they're the most interesting roles to play that you can really, hopefully, bring the most nuance and really get to grips with the psychology of how she's feeling and why she's behaving in the ways that she is.

tonight's PICKS

Mauro Ranallo

The Wonder Years

8:30 p.m. on WSB

While spending the night with his pal Cory (Amari O'Neal), Dean (Elisha Williams) finds himself in a strange and awkward situation when he discovers Cory's dad, Coach Long (Allen Maldonado) is in the family doghouse. Armed with that sensitive information, Dean has a hard time keeping it a secret from his best buddy. Dulé Hill, Saycon Sengbloh and Laura Kariuki also star in the new episode "The Sleepover."

Beyond the Edge

9 p.m. on WGCL

Showtime sports announcer Mauro Ranallo hosts this new reality series from the producers of "Naked and Afraid," in which nine celebrities give up their usual luxurious lifestyle to live (fully clothed) in the dangerous jungles of Panama. There are no judges or eliminations, but for two weeks the stars must cope with torrential downpours, torrid heat and potentially deadly wildlife to earn money for their favorite charities. The group includes country music stars Lauren Alaina and Craig Morgan, actress Jodie Sweetin and supermodel Paulina Porizkova.

Kung Fu

9 p.m. on WUPA

In the middle of Chinatown's Lunar New Year festivities, Nicky (Olivia Liang) tries to help her recently discovered cousin Mia (guest star Vanessa Yao) understand her new reality in "Year of the Tiger: Part 2." Later, Henry (Eddie Liu) keeps an eye on Mia at the community center while Nicky and Evan (Gavin Stenhouse) follow a lead involving one of Russell Tan's (recurring guest star Kee Chan) mercenaries. Elsewhere, Ryan (Jon Prasida) meets Sebastian (guest star JB Tadena), the new line cook at Harmony Dumpling. Ludi Lin and Annie Q also guest star.

tonight's PICKS

Gordon Ramsay
MasterChef
8 p.m. on WAGA
The hit culinary competition returns for its eighth “MasterChef Junior” edition that gives talented chefs between the ages of 8 and 13 a chance to show off their prodigious kitchen skills in a series of increasingly complicated challenges. Among this season’s featured venues for the pint-size prodigies are a historical renaissance fair and a monster truck rally. The ultimate winner as chosen by host Gordon Ramsay and fellow judges Aarón Sánchez and Daphne Oz receives a trophy and the $100,000 grand prize.

Welcome to Flatch
9:30 p.m. on WAGA
Adapted from a hit British mockumentary series, this new comedy from Paul Feig (“The Office”) and Jenny Bicks (“Sex and the City”) follows a documentary crew as it seeks to study the dreams and concerns of residents in a small American town: Flatch, a midwestern community teeming with eccentric personalities. The ensemble cast is led by newcomer Chelsea Holmes and Sam Straley (“The Kids Are Alright”) as two of the locals, cousins and best friends Kelly and Lloyd “Shrub” Mallet; Seann William Scott, Aya Cash and Taylor Ortega also star.

grown-ish
10 p.m. on FREE
Zoey’s (Yara Shahidi) relationship with Aaron (Trevor Jackson) faces its biggest test to date when she must decide between a promising job opportunity and following him on his own new career adventure in the new episode “Laugh Now Cry Later.” Elsewhere, Ana (Francia Raisa) leans on an old love for advice when she can’t decide what to do before starting law school, and Doug’s (Diggy Simmons) feelings for Jazz (Chloe Bailey) grow stronger.

tonight's PICKS

Olivia Munn

Charmed
8 p.m. on WUPA
As the new Charmed One (Lucy Barrett) begins coming to terms with her powers, she nonetheless feels reluctant to accept her strange destiny in the new episode “You Can’t Go Home Again.” Mel (Melonie Diaz), however, is insistent that everyone embrace the new Power of Three, although Maggie (Sarah Jeffery) seems aloof and even apathetic on the matter. A new threat quickly forces the three to find a way to bond, however. Rupert Evans and Jordan Donica also star.

Dynasty
9 p.m. on WUPA
Amanda (Eliza Bennett), who already is clashing with Alexis (Elaine Hendrix) where Adam (Sam Underwood) is concerned, has some strong reservations about her mother’s latest adventure in the new episode “Go Catch Your Horse.” Elsewhere, Liam (Adam Huber) finds himself in a sticky situation with Culhane (Robert C. Riley), and Dominique (Michael Michele) presents the wary Kirby (Maddison Brown) with an opportunity. Meanwhile, Fallon (Elizabeth Gillies) enlists Sam’s (Rafael de la Fuente) help as she jumps headfirst into a new project.

Violet
9 p.m. on SHOW
Former actress turned writer-producer Justine Bateman (“Family Ties”) made her directorial debut with this well-received 2021 drama that explores the frequent disconnect between a person’s public persona and their private thoughts. In this case, that person is film production executive Violet (Olivia Munn), a phenomenal success in her career who struggles with inner fears (voiced off-camera by Justin Theroux). As a result, she keeps making fear-based decisions that torpedo her interpersonal relationships. The fine cast also features Laura San Giacomo, Jason Dohring, Todd Stashwick and Bonnie Bedelia, among many others.

What's Available NOW On

“Cheaper by the Dozen”
(March 18)
Explored in 1950 and 2003 (and several sequels), this newest iteration based on the novel by Frank Bunker Gilbreth Jr. and Ernestine Gilbreth Carey stars Gabrielle Union (“L.A.’s Finest”) and Zach Braff (“Scrubs”) as the heads of a blended family of 12, who must navigate a chaotic home life while managing a family business.

“More Than Robots”
(March 18)
Best known as an actress in sitcoms such as “Community” and “Love,” Gillian Jacobs stepped behind the camera to direct this feature-length documentary that follows four teams of teenagers from around the world as they prepare for the 2020 First Robotics Competition amid a global pandemic and with limited resources. (ORIGINAL)

“Step”
(March 18)
From filmmaker Amanda Lipitz (“Found,” “Legally Blonde: The Musical”) comes this 2017 documentary that follows a girls’ high school step team as they learn to laugh, love and thrive against the backdrop of inner-city Baltimore, while pursuing their ultimate goals of winning a step championship and getting accepted into college.

“Weekend Family”
(Available now)
From France comes this family sitcom that chronicles the life of a new stepfamily that meets up every weekend, a routine upset when the father gets into a relationship with a new partner. Daphnée Coté-Hallé, Eric Judor, Annelise Hesme, Jean Bornaud and Anabel Lopez head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

tonight's PICKS

Cynthia Stroud

Great Chocolate Showdown 8 p.m. on WUPA
The season comes to a sweet conclusion in “The Finale: Good Things Come to Those Who Bake,” which finds the top three bakers confronting their toughest challenge yet: creating an epic assortment of show-stopping confections to fill their dream Bake Shop window. At the end of the hour, one skillful (and very lucky) home baker will walk away from the competition with the show’s $50,000 grand prize. Cynthia Stroud hosts.

The Many Saints of Newark 8 p.m. on HBO
Set in 1967, this 2021 prequel to the HBO series “The Sopranos” stars Michael Gandolfini as a teenage version of Tony Soprano, the character his late father, James Gandolfini, created to such acclaim. The story opens in one of the most tumultuous eras in Newark, N.J., history, as rival gangsters rise up and challenge the all-powerful DiMeo crime family. Caught up in the changing times is the uncle he idolizes, Dickie Moltisanti (Alessandro Nivola). Leslie Odom Jr., Vera Farmiga, Jon Bernthal, Corey Stoll and Ray Liotta co-star.

Love & Marriage: Huntsville 8 p.m. on OWN
This hit reality series returns as someone throws a wrench into Melody’s routine, despite the fact she finally has established some distance from ex-husband Martell, who is trying to get back on his feet financially via several possible business ventures.

tonight's PICKS

Lesley Sharp

Call the Midwife
8 p.m. on WGTV

Following an eventful Christmas special, this acclaimed period drama returns to open Season 11 with an episode set on Easter 1967. Holiday celebrations are underway, including a colorful Easter Bonnet parade outside Nonnatus House. Inside, Sister Monica Joan (Judy Parfitt) and Reggie Jackson (Daniel Laurie) are more excited about the Eurovision song contest. Elsewhere, Nancy Corrigan (Megan Cusack), who recently passed her midwifery exams, prepares to don her red cardigan for the first time.

Riverdale
8 p.m. on WUPA

While news begins to spread through the community about the bombing at the Andrews residence, Archie, Betty and Jughead (KJ Apa, Lili Reinhart, Cole Sprouse) are hit by mysterious side effects from the incident as this dark mystery thriller returns with “Chapter One Hundred and One: Unbelievable.” Meanwhile, Veronica (Camila Mendes) goes into a spiral over gossip that her father Hiram is implicated in the violence, and Cheryl (Madeleine Petsch) is haunted by guilt over whether she had a hand in the explosion, too. Casey Cott also stars.

Before We Die
10 p.m. on WGTV

A longtime PBS fan favorite for her work on the crime drama “Scott & Bailey,” actress Lesley Sharp returns to police work as Bristol detective Hannah Laing in this new adaptation of a successful Swedish series. As the story opens, Hannah is being forced to work at a desk job as part of a bureaucratic nudge for her to retire and make way for new blood. She is troubled to discover her estranged son is an undercover informant in a murder investigation. Vincent Regan also stars.

tonight's PICKS

Kelly Clarkson

8 p.m. on WAGA

Last fall's top-rated drama series returns for its spring premiere, picking up the action from the midseason finale, which saw Eddie (Ryan Guzman) at a crossroads, his future with the 118 murky. As the season resumes with "Outside Looking In," Athena, Bobby (Angela Bassett, Peter Krause) and their colleagues speed to rescue a desperate family whose pickup truck has been wired with a pipe bomb that will detonate if the vehicle drops below 55 miles per hour. Meanwhile, Buck (Oliver Stark) makes an impulsive relationship decision.

American Song Contest

8 p.m. on WXIA

Inspired by the global success of the Eurovision Song Contest, this new competition will see performers from all 50 of the United States, its five territories and Washington, D.C., vying for the title of best original song. The competition will feature professional musical artists such as solo singers, duos, or groups of up to six members, with the artists facing off head-to-head against other representatives in a series of qualifier competitions, leading to the semi-finals and the primetime final in "March Madness" style. Kelly Clarkson and Snoop Dogg serve as hosts.

Street Outlaws

8 p.m. on DISC

As another "America's List" edition of the hit auto racing series opens a new season, 25 of the most talented street racers vie in head-to-head competition on the black-top roads of South Texas. This season incorporates new rules that allows racers to move up the list faster than ever before, which means legends like Kye Kelley, Ryan Martin, JJ da Boss, Daddy Dave, Axman and Lizzie Musi will be pushing themselves harder than ever before. A new "After Hours" companion series immediately follows.

tonight's PICKS

LL Cool J

iHeartRadio Music Awards 2022

8 p.m. on WAGA
Rock and Roll Hall of Fame inductee LL Cool J (“NCIS: Los Angeles”) will host and perform during this two-hour special from the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles. Also during the ceremonies, which celebrate the most-played artists and songs on iHeartRadio stations in 2021, Jennifer Lopez will receive the 2022 iHeartRadio Icon Award, honoring her impact on pop culture. In the competitive categories, Justin Bieber, Olivia Rodrigo, Doja Cat, Lil Nas X, SZA, Ed Sheeran, Drake, Megan Thee Stallion, Taylor Swift and Billie Eilish are among the performers with multiple nominations.

Young Rock

8 p.m. on WXIA
A new episode called “Seven Bucks” opens in Alberta, Canada, circa 1996, as Dwayne (Uli Latukefu) struggles desperately to find his footing on the practice squad of the Calgary Stampede’s football team. Fretting that he’s in imminent danger of being cut, he gains a new perspective on his situation while spending a day with a teammate that ultimately will change his life. Meanwhile, in the near-future timeline of 2032, an online troll threatens Dwayne’s (Dwayne Johnson) presidential campaign.

Superman & Lois

8 p.m. on WUPA
In the new episode “Into Oblivion,” Lois, Clark and Natalie (Elizabeth Tulloch, Tyler Hoechlin, Tayler Buck) fears something is very wrong when they notice a difference in John Henry’s behavior. Elsewhere, Kyle (Erik Valdez) has an awkward encounter with Lana (Emmanuelle Chriqui) when he picks up their daughter Sarah (Inde Navarette) for school. Meanwhile, Jonathan and Jordan (Jordan Elsass, Alex Garfin) brace themselves as they realize they’re in store for a major talking-to from their parents. Dylan Walsh also stars.

How Dylan McDermott became 'Most Wanted' for 'FBI' spinoff

Q: How was the decision made to bring Dylan McDermott in as the new star of "FBI: Most Wanted"? – Jessica Connor, via email

A: Apart from his being a known commodity for his acting, it actually was quite convenient for executive producer Dick Wolf and his associates when they suddenly had to find a new lead for the CBS series (though Julian McMahon reportedly had been in talks about leaving the show for a while). McDermott already was "in the house" in a sense, given the work he had done recently for Wolf's company on NBC's "Law & Order: Organized Crime," so it likely was an easy outreach to the performer.

Q: I enjoy Erielle Reshef of ABC News. Where did she get her start? – Donna Longwell, Buffalo, N.Y.

A: Emmy winner Reshef came to the network in 2017 after having been an anchor-reporter at its affiliate in her hometown, Oklahoma City (KOCO-TV). Before that, she was based in Israel with IBA News, an English-language network distributed nationally in that country and also internationally. A graduate of Indiana University in political science and Jewish studies, her married name is Frankenstein ... really. Daniel Frankenstein is an investment banker, and the couple has two sons together.

"Knowing that Courteney was playing it, and then getting the honor to see Courteney work ... like, Courteney is so adept. She has the perfect comedic timing, always. Her delivery on everything is so good, and yet she's so real." – Mira Sorvino of "Shining Vale" on Starz, on working with Courteney Cox on the show

"We want to keep getting back to Australia, because we've written a romantic comedy that's going to be shot in Sydney. We're doing eight episodes, which is very exciting." – Harriet Dyer of "American Auto" on NBC, on her newest work with actor husband Patrick Brammall
