Police: Millard died of overdose in Louisiana

The Covington-area man who went missing in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, in February likely died of a drug overdose before someone who allegedly supplied the drugs dumped his body in a deserted lot, police said Monday.

The Advocate newspaper of Baton Rouge reported Derick Perkins, 45, was arrested Monday, March 20, on a charge of unlawful disposal of remains and other counts in connection to the death of Nathan Millard, whose address is Covington in Walton County.

Millard, 42, an employee of a Conyers construction company, was in Baton Rouge for a business trip Feb. 22 when he was last seen. He had gone to an LSU basketball game and a downtown bar with a client before heading to his nearby hotel.

However, he was later seen on security video leaving the hotel and Baton Rouge police say Millard visited several local businesses later that night and did not seem to be in distress, The Advocate reported.

Arrest documents say that on the same night, Millard and an unidentified man and woman met with a known drug dealer called "Stanka" and rode with him to a convenience store, the newspaper reported.

WSB-TV reported police said Millard arrived at a Greyhound Bus station on Florida Street less than a mile from the bar at about 11:30 p.m. and was with the unidentified man, according to warrants. He used an ATM card to withdraw cash.

A security officer spotted him and asked Millard if he needed help. Millard refused and told the employee that he lost his cell phone. The employee offered to call a rideshare for him or take him back to his hotel room but Millard refused — telling the employee he was looking for “something to make him feel better,” according to a warrant.

Covington-area farm's beverage competing for best in Georgia

By TOM SPIGOLON

COVINGTON, Ga. — A Covington-area blueberry farm’s beverage product was among 36 selected for the final round of competition in an annual contest spotlighting Georgia-grown food products.

Deer Creek Farm saw its Blue Harvest Tea product selected to compete Tuesday, March 28, in the Beverage category of the finals of the annual Flavor of Georgia contest in the final round of competition at The Classic Center in Athens

Those entering the event were all based in Georgia and competed among 12 categories. Judges tasted 124 products entered by 82 Georgia businesses in the first round of the contest March 10.

Blue Harvest Tea earned the right to compete in the finals against Ginger Beer created by Yardie Beverages of Suwanee; and a product called “Energize Original” by HIBO of Bishop.

Deer Creek Farm has operated since 2007 on County Line Road in Covington. It is a farm operation that allows the public to pick their own blueberries.

Though blueberries are its specialty, it has expanded over the years to include muscadines, figs and a variety of garden vegetables, according to its website.

Merlon Harper, who owns and operates the farm with husband Joe, said she is excited to be a finalist in the contest.

“It feels really good to have our Blue Harvest Tea recognized and spotlighted,” she said.

“We married the flavors of two of Georgia’s favorites — blueberries and tea. The flavors will remind of a summer day, sippin’ tea on the front porch, enjoying a simple moment in time,” she said.

Judges for the final round of the contest will include food brokers, grocery buyers and other food product experts. Entries are evaluated by category based on their Georgia theme, commercial appeal, taste, innovation and market potential.

Finalists in the competition — hosted by the UGA College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences — will face a “Shark Tank”-style panel of judges to pitch their products, according to a UGA news release.

Contestants will provide samples to judges while pitching their products in a three-minute presentation.

news@covnews.com

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. — To stand out in a crowd of thousands of students is no easy feat, but Gwinnett Technical College student Ryan Moore has done just that.

Moore, a resident of Covington, was recently named Gwinnett Technical College’s Georgia Occupational Award (GOAL) of Leadership winner. The Surgical Technology student was one of 80 students nominated for the honor at Gwinnett Tech this year.

Moore was born in Brooklyn, New York, and raised in the countryside of Georgia in Newton County. Since childhood, he has always loved helping people and was fascinated with science. The combination of this, plus his favorite shows, Scrubs and House, brought the aspiration to become a doctor. Moore overcame tribulations growing up, but with advice from his brother at one of his lowest points, “that he was rooting for me and to stay strong,” is what keeps me humble. Moore pushed on to graduate from high school and then Morehouse College, where he graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Biology.

“To be a GOAL winner, one must exemplify a leader. Someone who can be placed in any position and strive amongst their peers. For me to be

Newton County Economy

County, Metro Atlanta see higher jobless rate in January

STAFF REPORT
news@covnews.com

ATLANTA — Newton County recorded a 3.7% unemployment rate in January, up 0.7% from 3% in December.

Georgia Labor Commissioner Bruce Thompson said Thursday that Metro Atlanta recorded an unemployment rate of 3.2% in January, up 0.6% from a revised 2.6% in December.

A year ago, the rate was 3.3%. Due to seasonal factors from December to January, data that is not seasonally adjusted typically show an increase in unemployment — a seasonal trend that occurs each year.

“Despite a nationwide pandemic and challenging economic times, continued investments in Georgia’s labor force and thriving business community have kept our economy strong,” said Commissioner Bruce Thompson. “As labor commissioner, it is my No. 1 priority to help more Georgians get back to work and fill the jobs that our businesses need.”

The labor force increased in Atlanta by 12,564 and ended the month at 3,212,484. This number increased by 41,610 when compared to January 2022.

The number of employed decreased from 6,051 to 3,109,494 in January from December. From January 2022 to January 2023, the number of employed was up by 44,086.

The number of unemployed was up by 18,615 to 102,990 in January. From January 2022 to January 2023, the number of unemployed was down by 2,476.

Atlanta ended December with 3,018,200 jobs. Jobs were down 30,100 (-1.0%) over the month and up 117,500 (4.3%) over the year. Jobs were up in Management of Companies and Enterprises, 2,000; Health Care and Social Assistance, 1,100; and Professional, Scientific, and Technical Services, 600.

The sectors with the most over-the-year job gains included Arts, Entertainment, and Recreation, 14,500; Computer, Data Processing, and Related Services, 12,600; Accommodation and Food Services, 10,000; Real Estate, Rental, and Leasing, 9,800; and Construction of Buildings, 8,700.

The number of initial unemployment claims went up by 62% in Atlanta in January.

Newton schools nutrition program earns USDA award

news@covnews.com

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) recently recognized the Newton County School System’s School Nutrition Program as a Turnip the Beet Award Silver-level recipient for its commitment to providing quality and nutritious meals during the summer of 2022. It is the second consecutive year the program has received the award. The USDA Turnip the Beet Award recognizes outstanding program sponsors nationwide who work hard to offer meals to children that are appetizing, appealing, and nutritious during the summer. High-quality summer meals provide daily energy to ensure children are healthy and ready to learn when they return to school after their summer break.

Sponsors also facilitate stakeholder input regarding menu development and provide evidence-based nutrition education targeting increased program participation and development of life-long healthy nutrition habits.

Abdul Lindsay, director of school nutrition for the school system, stated, “children need good nutrition all year long to ready them for learning and becoming well-rounded and prepared for the future.” The school nutrition team plans to enhance its 2023 summer feeding program operations by incorporating more farm-fresh, flavorful, and tasty meal choices. Given recent parent and student feedback, Abdul Lindsay stated, “our team must foster continuous quality improvement as it relates to exceeding food and nutrition service expectations of our stakeholders.”

Dr. Michael Barr, the district’s chief operations officer, expressed his appreciation for the opportunity to support the community stating, “We are proud to partner with the USDA and the Georgia Department of Education to provide free, nutritious meals to our children during the summer months. It is an honor to serve our community this way and ensure our students have access to the resources they need to thrive and succeed.”

As a proud partner with the USDA and the Georgia Department of Education, the Newton County School System is preparing to serve our communities during the operation of its 2023 Seamless Summer Option Free Meal Program. The program is available for children 18 or younger or 21 and younger with a disability from June 2023 through the fourth of July holiday at various Newton County Schools and community locations. More information on Newton County School System’s 2023 Seamless Summer Option Free Meal Program will be available soon. Please call (770) 788-3120 or

State Senate panel approves compromise truck weights bill

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — A Georgia Senate committee further scaled back legislation Monday that would raise the weight limit on trucks plying state and local highways.

The Senate Transportation Committee voted 7-4 in favor of a compromise version of House Bill 189 to let certain commercial trucks exceed the current legal weight limit of 80,000 pounds by 10%, for a total of 88,000 pounds, on roads other than interstate highways, which are subject to federal restrictions.

The legislation would apply only to trucks carrying timber or agricultural products. Representatives of the logging, farm and livestock industries have complained that having their trucks limited to 80,000 pounds would hurt their businesses by forcing them to make more trips.

Commercial trucks have become accustomed to carrying loads weighing up to 95,000 pounds since the pandemic struck Georgia three years ago. However, an executive order Gov. Brian Kemp issued during the early days of the pandemic to allow heavier trucks expired last week.

The version of the bill the state House of Representatives passed two weeks ago would have allowed commercial trucks hauling additional types of loads – including granite, concrete, and solid waste – to exceed the 80,000-pound weight limit. The original legislation introduced early last month would have applied no matter what a commercial truck was hauling.

But representatives of local governments and state Department of Transportation officials warned as the bill went through the committee process that heavier trucks would do tremendous damage to state and local highways, forcing them to devote large portions of their budgets to fixing existing roads rather than building new ones.

chosen as the winner is a great honor, and I hope to continue to exemplify a GOAL winner throughout my educational journey,” stated Moore. After graduation, Moore plans to serve his community as a surgical technologist and continue his education to receive his

MD.

Nominated by TC Parker, Surgical Tech Program Director, Parker states, “Ryan exudes a rare quality. It is a mixture of confidence and compassion, an innate talent to connect and relate to patients in an intentional way. He works for a non-profit to aid homeless veterans and assists with food distribution for food-deprived people. His passion for his fellow man is inspiring.”

The Technical College System of Georgia sponsors the GOAL program at the state level to recognize technical education’s importance. Students are nominated annually by their instructors. As the local winner, Moore will represent Gwinnett Technical College in the spring’s regional and statewide competitions. In addition, the state’s GOAL winner will serve as the student ambassador for technical education in Georgia.

Esteemed lawmakers call for bipartisanship

Listen up, North America. In the blur and bluster of partisanship and polarization, there are wise words of counsel to consider. Often they come in valedictory speeches, the musings of political figures who are completing their service. Some of them were uttered in the Canadian Parliament the other day.

The remarks of Marc Garneau, stepping away from Parliament Hill in Ottawa after 14 years in the House, have great meaning on both sides of the border. They join two other valedictory speeches on the American side that are both a lament for our times and a bracing prescription for healing.

In the words of these three -- lawmakers I have known and respected for their discernment, discretion and determination -- are both reflection and recommendation. One a Canadian Liberal, one an American Democrat and the third an American Republican, their remarks comprise the wisdom of the ages and are a sagacious commentary on our own age.

Listen up, North America, to what Mr. Garneau -- who in the fall of 1984, as an astronaut on the space shuttle Challenger, viewed the continent with special perspective, from Earth orbit -- said of his partisan rivals as he concluded 14 years in office:

"To those sitting across from me, I want to say that I enjoy the thrust and parry in this chamber. I have always viewed those members not as enemies but as adversaries, and there is a difference. I know that every single one of them comes here wanting to make Canada a better place. We might have different views about how to do it, and that is fine, but when all is said and done, there is much more that unites us than divides us."

Then Mr. Garneau delivered a summons to action that is as appropriate on Parliament Hill as it is, 556 miles south, on Capitol Hill:

"Let me issue a challenge to everyone in this chamber. Arrive each day in this House with the firm intention of showing respect for colleagues and for this extraordinary place. Be dignified. We must remind ourselves that when emotions run high, as they do for all of us, those emotions need to be channeled in a positive way, whether when supporting something or criticizing it."

Could Mr. Garneau have been speaking of Washington as well -- might he have seen the spectacle of the 15 ballots to choose the speaker of the House this winter -- with this critique of legislative comportment?

"We all know that we are capable of dignified behavior. We all know that we are capable of being critical without resorting to yelling at the top of our lungs. We all know that we want to be heard and even listened to when we ask a question or give an answer. God knows that the Speaker of the House reminds us of this often."

Now listen to Massachusetts Democrat Paul G. Kirk's valedictory remarks on the Senate floor as he departed the chamber on Feb. 4, 2010:

"Bipartisan comity and collaboration must replace the polarization that threatens to poison the atmosphere and impede the work of this body. The United States Senate is in need of its own form of climate change, and only United States senators of good will and good faith of both parties can bring that change about."

Mr. Kirk, who worked for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and served as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, had a nonpartisan message for his colleagues:

Grateful for my own good 'influencers'

Influencers" are described these days as social media icons with large followings. Not for me. My heroes influenced me the old fashioned way.

I've been told that my humor writing is similar to that of Lewis Grizzard, the Georgia newspaper columnist whose books sold millions of copies.

OK, I've only been told that once, but still it was a huge compliment.

To say that Grizzard was a huge influence on me is like saying Elvis Presley made an impression on a thousand impersonators who dress up like him. No matter how hard they try, there's only one King.

In fact, even Grizzard's book titles are hilarious. My favorite is "Elvis is Dead, and I Don't Feel So Good Myself." First runner-up is "Don't Bend Over in the Garden Granny, You Know Them Tater's Got Eyes."

I was fortunate enough to be able to tell him how much I admired his work. Not long before he died in 1994, he did a book signing in Chattanooga. I covered the event for my TV station, and I recently looked up the video. I had forgotten how sick he was. He was only in his 40s, but a series of heart surgeries had weakened him considerably.

Like the trouper he was, he signed autographs and posed for pictures, but everyone could tell he was hurting. When I told him I had stolen some of his funny lines for my everyday conversations, he modestly said that he had lifted a lot of his material from family members and acquaintances. Maybe so, but no one else ever put those words together so well.

One of my favorite Grizzard columns was his list of funny country music song titles. It was my first exposure to "You're the Reason Our Kids Are Ugly," and "Flushed from the Bathroom of Your Heart." If he were here today, he would surely add "How Can I Miss You if You Won't Go Away," and "She Got the Ring and I Got the Finger."

I found that column in a folder I had saved with other clippings from my youth. Every time I open it, I'll read a column by another classic Atlanta writer, Dave Kindred. I always say, "Oh. This is what good writing is supposed to look like. Be more like Dave!"

I smile when I think of other good influences in my life. It starts with my amazing family. Grandparents, parents, sisters, aunts, uncles, cousins, and now a wife and sons. All have inspired me in so many positive ways.

As a child of TV and radio, I was strongly influenced by those I heard and saw, both real and make-believe.

I give Sheriff Andy Taylor of Mayberry a lot of credit for any parenting success I've had. I know he's just a fictional character, and Andy Griffith always emphasized that he was not like Andy Taylor in real life. But he and his writers taught me a lot about how to be a good dad.

Professionally, the first voice I ever heard on the radio was also

Your Letters to the Editor

County's arts nonprofits also asking for support

Dear Editor,

We read with interest the open letter from the Metro Atlanta arts community. Though we are sometimes considered a part of the larger metro Atlanta area, as your local nonprofit arts providers, we were not asked to sign this letter and therefore, wanted to provide a local non-profit arts perspective:

We are your LOCAL nonprofit arts providers. We all enjoy being close to Atlanta and its offerings, but we offer arts programming, classes, a gallery, and performances right here in your backyard. Take advantage of not having to commute to enjoy the arts.

We depend on our local individual and corporate donors and sponsorships. Often, we are not eligible for donations out of the Metro Atlanta area. If you want to make a gift to keep the arts alive, please consider doing so to your local arts nonprofits. We continue to be so grateful for the generous individuals, corporations and foundations who see our impact on our community and continue to support us!

We do make a difference in the economic development as well as community development of our county and our cities in our county. We pay artists, we provide income to artists and arts providers and support staff to live, work and play here. We are a part of the local economic engine of our community through jobs, taxes and tourism revenue.

We change lives. The students who take our classes and participate in our art shows and performances learn about channeling their gifts for the good, employing their creativity, brains, hard work and discipline to be student artists. # Bill toughening penalties on gang recruitment OK'd

By REBECCA GRAPEVINE
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — The Georgia House of Representatives passed legislation Monday imposing mandatory minimum prison terms for gang recruitment.

The bill, which originated in the state Senate, would require judges to impose prison sentences of at least five years on those convicted of recruiting gang members. It also would require tougher penalties for those who recruit someone under age 17 or someone with a disability to a gang, requiring at least a 10-year sentence. Republican Gov. Brian Kemp has made cracking down on gangs an important part of his legislative agenda this year. The bill is one of a number of measures aimed at that goal.

The bill would also require judges to look at the history of people accused of serious crimes to see if they have previously jumped bail or failed to appear in court before allowing the accused an “un-secured judicial release.”

However, Democrats opposed the measure, arguing that mandatory minimum sentences will not solve Georgia’s gang problems.

The House passed the bill 99-74, primarily along party lines. Because the House amended the bill in committee, it now heads back to the Senate.

for each category, the overall grand prize and a people’s choice award, which will be chosen by event attendees.

Manpreet Singh, head of the UGA Department of Food Science and Technology, said the Flavor of Georgia contest “is a unique opportunity for the Department of Food Science and Technology to engage with food entrepreneurs from around the state of Georgia.”

“The contest serves as a resource to assist the local food industry with product development and prepares entrepreneurs to have their products market-ready,” Singh said.

For the first time, the award ceremony and reception will be open to the public, the release stated.

“Attendees will get to sample the cream of the crop from the competition before the winners from each category and the overall contest winner is announced.”

The 16-year-old competition has acted as a launching pad for small businesses and as many as 1,650 products around the state since it began in 2007.

Past finalists report that participation in the contest boosts their annual sales by about 20% on average and may contribute to more than $5.6 million in annual revenue for the Georgia economy, according to a follow-up survey of previous finalists and winners from 2015 to 2019, a news release stated.

Isa Gutierrez, program coordinator for the Department of Food Science and Technology Extension office, plans the yearly event.

“It’s really good to connect with all these small businesses and see the innovation of some of these people,” Gutierrez said.

Gutierrez referred to the experience of a company that captured first place in the Jams and Jellies category at the 2022 finals.

“There was a company that made strawberry lemonade marmalade at last year’s competition called We Bee Jammin’ — now known as Christie B’s Jams and Jellies,” Gutierrez said.

“It was so fun to watch people come up and say, ‘Whoa, how did you think of this?’ ... It’s great to see how these businesses bloom after the competition.”

on the same night, Millard and the unidentified man and a woman met with a known drug dealer called "Stanka" and rode with him to a convenience store, The Advocate reported.

Afterward, Millard and the man — later identified as Perkins — drove to a house on Lorri Burgess Avenue in Baton Rouge where they took drugs and Millard accidentally overdosed, according to an affidavit as reported by The Advocate.

Police spokesman Sgt. L’Jean McKneely told the newspaper Monday it was not clear yet whether Perkins provided the drugs that proved fatal and does not yet face homicide or drug charges. The investigation into Millard's disappearance and death is ongoing, The Advocate reported.

The affidavit states Perkins later wrapped Millard's body in plastic and put it in the trunk of his car which was later found burned near the place where Millard's body was found behind a former funeral home.

Perkins also faces counts of obstruction of justice, simple criminal damage to property and failure to seek justice. He was already in jail on a count of access device fraud because police say he used Millard's credit card the evening he disappeared, the newspaper reported.

Perkins is also accused of stealing the blue 2003 Toyota Camry that he put Millard's body in from an unrelated victim on Feb. 3.

The documents say Perkins removed the vehicle's bumper sticker and attempted to sand down the spot where the sticker had been, around the time that Millard's case began to garner national attention.

among the most influential. Luther Masingill of Chattanooga was on the air for 74 years. (This is not a typo.) He proved that a radio announcer was good for more than just playing music. He tried to help people between every record. He would find their lost dog, warn them about impending bad weather, or help them if their home had burned down. Best role model ever.

Another influential broadcaster was Bob Todd (Chickamauga Charlie). He was a rarity in radio.

He carefully scripted every word he said. Every story and every joke was literate and clever, with a beginning, a middle and an end. He taught me to be prepared.

When I got into television, I tried to be as good as Dick Clark, Bob Costas, Bob Barker, and Charles Osgood. They each did thousands of hours of live TV, often with no script, and they made it seem like nothing ever went wrong. Believe me, things do go wrong. I always strive to be as smooth and articulate as those guys.

And if I can occasionally make you laugh like Mr. Grizzard did, that’s a bonus.

SHRIBMAN:

“We are among the very few who are privileged to serve in this historic body. As I complete my own duties here, I could not leave with a clear conscience without urging all my colleagues to seize this opportunity and this mutual obligation, to take the long view, to put partisan politics aside, to come together in good faith and good will to better serve this institution we revere, the people we represent, and the nation we love.”

Now pause for a moment and listen to the valedictory remarks of Sen. Lamar Alexander, delivered in December 2020 only weeks before insurrectionists at the Capitol invaded the very floor where the Tennessee Republican offered his critique of partisanship:

“Our country needs a United States Senate that works across party lines to force broad agreements on hard issues — creating laws that most of us have voted for and that a diverse country will accept.”

One of Mr. Alexander’s Tennessee mentors, former Senate majority leader Howard H. Baker Jr., believed deeply in bipartisanship and tried to create a Senate chamber where that would flourish. He liked to quote the South Carolina firebrand John C. Calhoun, who often found himself at odds with, and occasionally allying with, his gifted colleague and rival from Kentucky: “I don’t like Henry Clay. He is a bad man, an imposter, a creator of wicked schemes. I wouldn’t speak to him. But by God, I love him.”

A former president of the University of Tennessee, Mr. Alexander was asked what a group of teachers visiting the Capitol should tell their students. His answer is simple, and inspiring in its simplicity:

“Please tell them that I wake up every day thinking I may be able to do something good for our country and that I go to bed most nights thinking that I have. Please tell them that it has been a great privilege to be a United States senator.”

In his first inaugural address, delivered in 1861 as the Civil War beckoned and as the scaffolding on the incomplete dome of the Capitol stood as a symbol of an unfinished nation, Abraham Lincoln spoke of his hope for a time when “the mystic chords of memory” would in the future “swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature.”

And so could it have been a coincidence that Mr. Garneau, who from 240 miles above the Earth had 133 opportunities to view his home continent -- devoid of national boundaries, green in its splendor, beautiful in its serene isolation in the heavens -- chose to share with his parliamentary colleagues the eternal words of the 16th American president?

“My challenge to members is to find their better angels and put away the anger and false indignation. Criticize by all means, but do it with respect and maybe even wit. Make Canadians proud of this House and the people in it.”

‘Coach Moe’s’ return to Lady Eagles ‘fell in her lap’

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
Sports Editor

COVINGTON, Ga. — One day a few years back, Morgan Turner — though many people may remember her by her maiden name Morgan Green — was in need of some soccer equipment. So, she called her former high school head coach Joel Singleton to see if he could help her out.

Singleton agreed to help Turner, but the former Lady Eagle got more than she bargained for. He asked her if she wanted to return to her alma mater and be the head junior varsity coach.

“It’s pretty cool coming back. Singleton coached me and we’ve stayed in touch all this time,” Turner said. “I actually asked to borrow some equipment one time and he was like, ‘Hey, we need some help.’ Then it just worked out and it’s been fun being back.”

Timing has played a pivotal role in Turner’s return.

After completing her four-year career with the Lady Eagles, Turner signed to play soccer for Georgia Military College. Two seasons later, she transferred to Reinhardt University and played for one year.

Turner didn’t compete in her final year of eligibility, though.

“I ended up coming home and coaching kind of fell into my lap, so it all worked out,” Turner said.

Turner served as the head junior varsity girls soccer coach the past four years, but this season Singleton promoted her to be an assistant varsity coach.

Once again, the timing of Turner’s promotion was key.

“I think it was time,” Turner said. “I actually just had a baby also, so being an assistant took a little bit of pressure off me being the head coach. It was just good timing.”

Turner played for the Lady Eagles from 2012-

2016. During her high school career, she was a four-year varsity starter and served as captain for three years.

At the end of her sophomore season, Turner led Eastside in goals and assists followed by her junior year where she had the most assists. Turner was named Second Team All-Region as a sophomore and First Team as a junior, too.

Compared to her playing days, though, Turner has noticed one main difference.

“They are a lot better now than we were when I played skill level wise,” Turner said. “We’ve got more to choose from these days and more people play soccer. We just didn’t have a lot of players who played club ball. A lot of our players now play club and play in the offseason.”

At Georgia Military College, Turner was a contributor to the Lady Bulldogs’ Region XVII championship and their spot in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division I National Championship tournament as a sophomore.

Turner can’t remember a time she didn’t enjoy playing soccer as she has played since she was 4 years old.

Nevertheless, Turner admitted there’s been an aspect of coaching that she finds challenging in her transition.

“The hardest thing for me is I know how to do it, but it’s trying to explain how to do it to the girls,” Turner said. “I know what they need to do and how they need to do it, but it’s trying to find the words in coaching terms to relay that to them.”

No matter if she’s playing or coaching soccer, however, one thing that remained — Turner’s nickname “Moe.”

Turner’s coaches and teammates have always called her “Moe,” but now there’s a twist to it.

“I’ve been ‘Moe’ for all my soccer years for as long as I can remember,” Turner said. “Then, when I first started coaching, I’ve always been ‘coach Moe.’”

‘Coach Moe’ has thoroughly enjoyed her time serving in her new role as varsity assistant for her alma mater.

And, even though there have been some changes since she graduated in 2016, the feeling of being an Eastside Lady Eagle hasn’t.

“It’s home. We’re all a big family,” Turner said. “Because I did coach JV for so long, I’ve coached every one of these girls before they got up to varsity. It’s good to have been able to watch them grow.”

but we didn’t give up.”

Five games remain on the Lady Redskins’ regular season schedule.

After March 21’s battle against Duluth, Social Circle will close out its Region 5A-Division I lineup at Oglethorpe County on Wednesday and the region finale on Friday at Prince Avenue.

The final two games of the regular season will be home matches against Eastside and Putnam County.

All of the experiences this season have the Lady Redskins confident heading into the season’s home stretch. Nevertheless, Brooks believes her and her teammates’ desire matches their confidence.

“We have to have the right mindset, because we definitely have the talent. Everyone just has to come and work together. We just all have to want it,” Brooks said. “We just want to learn from our past games and see what we need to work on. We want to go all in for it.”

worked with drills to help with passing.”

All of those matches are behind them now, and the Redskins are setting their sights on possibly obtaining a second straight region crown this week.

On Wednesday, March 22, Social Circle will travel to face-off against Oglethorpe County and will finish the week at Prince Avenue on Friday.

In the final week of the season, the Redskins are welcoming Eastside and Putnam County to their home turf as the final tests before the post-season commences.

Knight stressed that, despite the desire to win the region, the Redskins aren’t overlooking the significance of each remaining match going toward their bigger goal of a playoff run.

“We need to shape up,” Knight said. “The non-region games we have are very tough and we need to take that opportunity to learn before playoffs.”

“We need those games.”

High this school year where she provides a host of services to the Rams’ student-athletes.

The six domains of athletic training are: Prevention, Clinical Evaluation and Diagnosis, Immediate and Emergency Care, Treatment and Rehabilitation as well as Organization and Professional Health and Well-Being.

And, though Watkins enjoys what she does, she recognizes there are some facets of the work that can be challenging.

“Not having enough resources to not really do your job 100%. That’s tough like, for me working at Newton High School, being a 7A school, it can be tough sometimes,” Watkins said. “You want to give it your all and you do, but you just don’t have every resource in the handbook to do everything you can. You do your best, but the No. 1 thing is the lack of resources and lack of staff.”

Nevertheless, Watkins stressed how being an athletic trainer is much more than just helping student-athletes deal with injuries.

In fact, Watkins described being an athletic trainer as a “full circle thing.”

“Sometimes it’s admin, paperwork, charting in addition to treatment. You’re clinically diagnosing, assessing and rehabbing,” Watkins said. “We see it from the beginning, but we have the scope of practice to fully return them back to play, which is very unique. Not many fields have that where you can diagnose, assess, treat, rehab and return to play all in one spectrum. It’s very cool to me.”

And, three years into this profession, Watkins is grateful for the impact she makes on local student-athletes.

“I had no clue what athletic trainers were, even though we had them in high school. I never really asked any questions,” she said. “But once I went to college and understood their role and the impact they could have, I wanted to be a part of that. I think athletic trainers play such a huge role, especially at the high school level.”

ON THE TITLE HUNT

Lady Redskins competing for back-to-back region crowns

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
Sports Editor

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — Competing for a state championship has been the expectation once again for the Social Circle Lady Redskins in 2023.

Being in a four-team region guarantees their spot in the state playoffs, but the Lady Redskins want more.

This week, Social Circle has the possibility to win a second-straight region championship which, according to Peyton Brooks and Faith Young, holds tons of significance for the team.

“Winning the region is a good first step to possibly going to state,” Brooks said. “It’s like if we win the region, we know we can do it going into the playoffs.”

Brooks, a junior, has scored a team-high 39 goals this season with Kambrie Morrow and Aubrey Spruell tied for second-most with four each.

Meanwhile, Young, a sophomore, leads Social Circle with 14 assists, and Brooks is second on the team with seven assists.

Goalkeeper Addie Stracner has collected 40 saves on the season, too.

But there’s another important aspect of the Lady Redskins’ season that they believe will play a huge role in a region title win and beyond.

“We need to become more comfortable with each other by listening,” Young said. “Don’t take things to heart, but understand we’re just trying to work together and build a team.”

The Lady Redskins have leaned on a key motivational factor all year — winning last year’s region and state titles.

Brooks doesn’t think the feeling behind bringing home both banners will “ever go away.” However, she and her teammates want to experience that all over again.

“It makes us want to step up more and be leaders,” Brooks said. “It makes us want to work harder, too, knowing that we did that.”

So far so good for the Lady Redskins’ pursuit toward a region crown as they stand at 4-0 in region play.

They began Region 5A-Division I play with a 4-2 win over Prince Avenue along with two wins against Jasper County 11-1 and 10-3, respectively. Last Friday, Social Circle enjoyed an 8-2 victory over Oglethorpe County, too.

Currently, Social Circle is riding a six-game winning streak, as a result.

The start of the season with the Lady Redskins’ non-region slate wasn’t as kind.

The Lady Redskins opened the year 0-3 with a 10-0 loss against Northgate, a 4-0 defeat at Walnut Grove and a 6-3 road loss against Athens Academy. They got in the win column with a 10-0 rout of Newton followed by a 10-1 triumph at Georgia Military College.

The two-game winning streak was halted by a 5-1 defeat at George Walton Academy.

Though the non-region slate only produced one win, the Lady Redskins learned a valuable lesson from each match.

“It helps us know that we can lose. It was very humbling, but that also motivates us,” Young said. “Because our record was 1-4, SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — Social Circle athletics had a banner year during the 2021-22 school year. Multiple programs won region championships, one of which was Social Circle’s boys soccer team.

However, last year’s region title celebration was short-lived once the Redskins were bounced from the state playoffs in round one.

Returning players Jude Nelson and Ethan Knight feel like, as a result, their region championship has been watered down.

“I don’t think people know we won the region last year,” Nelson said.

Another region banner is within reach once again for this Redskins squad currently being 4-0 in Region 5A-Division I.

After experiencing how last season concluded, Social Circle has bigger aspirations than to just win back-to-back region championships.

“I’d much rather win a playoff game plus two or three more playoff games and make it far,”

Knight said. “We won region last year, but we’re focused on making a run, hopefully to the Final Four, of the playoffs.”

Despite being in the driver’s seat of Region 5A-Division I, the Redskins have had some close calls. For instance, three of their four region wins had to be won in overtime.

In Social Circle’s region opener, it downed Prince Avenue 3-0 on Feb. 23 in overtime. Then, the Redskins played an extra period at Jasper County on March 14 and won 2-1 followed by the same result on March 17 versus Oglethorpe County.

Knight recognized how the team remained focused throughout each 100-minute overtime match.

“In the games we went to overtime, we’ve been knocking on the door the whole time waiting for a goal,” Knight said. “Against Prince Avenue, it was shot after shot the entire time and we just couldn’t get them in. And we knew something was going to happen. That’s what keeps us going.”

Nelson and Preston Guy are tied for the most goals this season with five apiece while Knight, Cambyl Johnson and Jordan Leigh each have two. Guy and Drake Wilkerson lead Social Circle with two assists each as well.

Meanwhile, Jase Peters has registered 800 game minutes — 40 of which have been in overtime — and has tallied 108 saves. That’s an average of nine saves per match.

In addition to their region schedule, the Redskins have gone up against some noteworthy non-region opponents.

In fact, they began the season facing Northgate, Walnut Grove and Athens Academy as well as Newton and Georgia Military College.

And, even though Social Circle didn’t collect a win during that stretch, Nelson believes those matches are paying dividends now.

“The harder teams set us up to play better against our region,” Nelson said. “I think we got better with the team chemistry. And we

Athletic training career found Watkins in unique way

COVINGTON, Ga. — Jendayi Watkins originally enrolled at Trinity International University in Deerfield, Illinois, to play basketball for the Lady Trojans. She was a power forward for the team all four years.

However, one incident changed Watkins’ life in more ways than one.

During a basketball game, Watkins hit the court hard and sustained a concussion — a concussion that went undiagnosed for a week until the Trojans’ athletic trainer stepped in. According to Watkins, her athletic trainer “really saved her life.”

“At first in college, I had no clue what I wanted to do,” Watkins said. “Initially, I wanted to be a nurse. But after playing college sports and suffering a couple of knee injuries and a concussion, it changed my whole perspective on healthcare and the world of athletic training. I think athletic training found me in a sense.”

Watkins completed her bachelor’s in athletic training from Trinity International University in 2019 and, a year later, earned her master’s degree in nursing at Augusta University.

She is currently the athletic trainer at Newton High School through her employment with OrthoAtlanta and has been an athletic trainer for three years total.

Though there are many aspects of what an athletic trainer does, Watkins highlighted one specific area she enjoys the most.

“I actually enjoy the recovery portion of athletic training. Being able to see an injury, see them rehab it and see them back all in that same year time frame is really cool,” Watkins said. “And being able to be a part of the process. I played college sports myself, and I think that’s why it’s so important to me.”

ATLANTA — Newton County’s average gas price has dropped 17 cents since the end of January but was still higher than almost all of its neighboring counties Sunday.

Newton’s average price of $3.22 for a gallon of unleaded regular gas on Sunday, March 19, was 6 cents lower than in mid-February and 17 cents lower than on Jan. 30.

The average price in Newton matched the statewide average in Georgia but was higher than all but one neighboring county, according to information from AAA-The Auto Club Group.

Newton’s average was higher than all contiguous counties except one. Prices ranged from $3.23 in Butts County to $3.14 in Henry County Sunday.

The Metro Atlanta average prices were $3.23 for regular unleaded, $3.60 for mid-grade, $3.97 for premium, and $4.24 for diesel. All were lower by 2 to 3 cents from a week ago.

The most expensive Georgia metro markets were Savannah ($3.29), Hinesville-Fort Stewart ($3.27), and Brunswick ($3.26). The least expensive Georgia metro markets were Warner Robins ($3.16), Catoo-sa-Dade-Walker ($3.15), and Albany ($3.08).

Georgia’s statewide gas price average of $3.22 decreased by 4 cents at the pump compared to a week ago. It was exactly the same as a month ago, and 96 cents less than this time last year.

It now costs $48.30 to fill a 15-gallon tank of regular gasoline — almost $15.00 less to fill up at the pump compared to a year ago.

“Georgians felt some relief at the pumps this weekend,” said Montrae Waiters, AAA-The Auto Club Group spokeswoman.

“Slow demand and the price of crude oil plunging into the low to mid $60 per barrel, a level not seen since August 2021, contributed to the decrease in gas prices.”

Since last week, the national average for a gallon of regular gasoline has decreased by 3 cents to $3.44.

Port of Savannah sees dip in container trade despite highest ever U.S. market share

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Container trade at the Port of Savannah was down last month even as the Georgia Ports Authority reported its highest ever national market share.

Savannah handled nearly 395,000 twenty-foot equivalent units (TEUs) of containerized cargo in February, the agency’s second busiest February ever but significantly below the record 460,400 TEUs that moved through Georgia’s ports in February of last year.

Inflation, rising interest rates and high warehouse inventories were important factors in the container trade dip, port officials said.

Meanwhile, logistics data provider PIERS reported the Georgia Ports Authority now handles one out of every 8.8 loaded TEUs in the U.S., its highest national market share ever.

The Port of Savannah had moved 11.4% of the nation’s loaded international containers during fiscal year 2023 through December, with more than 2 million TEUs. The ports authority’s share of the U.S. container trade constituted an increase of 0.7%.

“Our global economy is facing headwinds, but Georgia’s deep-water ports continue to deliver dependable performance to keep business thriving,” authority Executive Director Griff Lynch said Tuesday. “As the nation’s top gateway for American farm and factory exports, the Port of Savannah serves as a hub for global commerce.”

At the Port of Brunswick, trade in autos and heavy machinery increased 18.5% last month to 52,720 units of Roll-on/Roll-off cargo.

“Volume and market share trends show that despite a slowing economy, Georgia is outperforming the competition,” authority board Chairman Joel Wooten said.

“Cargo owners and their logistics providers are mitigating uncertainty through the reliability and connectivity of our deep-water ports.”

Parts supplier to build in Chatham

STAFF REPORT
news@covnews.com

ATLANTA — Gov. Brian Kemp recently announced that PHA, a global auto parts manufacturer that will supply the Hyundai Metaplant in Bryan County, will create 402 new jobs and invest more than $67 million in a new facility in Chatham County.

PHA is a Tier-1 automotive parts supplier for Hyundai Motor Group, Kia, and many other original equipment manufacturers (OEMs). PHA is a Korea-based company with locations throughout the world, including multiple facilities within the United States.

PHA’s new facility will be located at the Savannah Chatham Manufacturing Center, a Georgia Ready for Accelerated Development (GRAD) Certified site.

The new manufacturing facility will produce door modules, tailgate latches, and hood latches for OEMs, including Hyundai Motor Group Metaplant America. Operations are expected to begin in 2024.

Georgia General Assembly

TikTok ban advances

By REBECCA GRAPEVINE
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA – A Georgia House committee unanimously approved a bill March 15 that would codify a ban on the use of TikTok on state-owned devices.

The bill would codify into state law Republican Gov. Brian Kemp’s directive last year prohibiting the use of TikTok, a highly popular video hosting service that runs user-submitted videos, and other similar applications.

TikTok is owned by a Chinese company, Byte Dance, and there is concern that its ties to the Chinese government could expose sensitive state data to a foreign government.

The bill would also apply to similar social media platforms that are directly or indirectly owned by foreign adversaries.

However, it provides exceptions for law-enforcement investigations, cybersecurity research and for other governmental purposes.

If passed, Georgia would join at least 25 other states that have banned TikTok on state-owned devices.

In other social media news, a separate House committee March 15 approved a proposal to create a study committee focused on social media accountability.

The study committee would be tasked with reviewing foreign influence on social media platforms in Georgia, the potential impacts of social media on youth mental health and censorship of speech by social media companies.

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Bob Odenkirk stars in "Lucky Hank," premiering Sunday on AMC and AMC+.

Bob Odenkirk brings 'Lucky Hank' to ornery life in AMC/AMC+ dramedy

Hank Devereaux Jr. is a man who is stuck.

As played by Bob Odenkirk in the half-hour dramedy "Lucky Hank," premiering Sunday, March 19, on AMC and AMC+, he's the chairman of the English department at Railton College, a badly underfunded school in the Pennsylvania Rust Belt.

Like his employer, which he calls "mediocrity's capital," Hank is also struggling. He's not really happy with academia nor his department and his position in it, and his do-nothing approach seems to scream "fire me." But he has people who care about him, especially wife Lily (Mireille Enos, "The Killing"), who truly loves this curmudgeon and is entertained by his antics. But that doesn't hold true for everyone.

We meet Hank as he's delivering a spirit-crushing critique to a spoiled student, which gets the attention of school administration. With his chairmanship and ultimately his job now in jeopardy, Hank appears outwardly happy about the prospect of being forced to move on. But is he?

The eight episode series was created by Paul Lieberstein ("The Office") and Aaron Zelman ("Silicon Valley") from the novel "Straight Man" by Richard Russo, and features a tour-de-force performance by Odenkirk, who found the character to be a complete and welcome departure from his "Better Call Saul" role of shady lawyer Jimmy McGill/Saul Goodman.

"While he's a curmudgeon," the actor explains, "he is like a lot of curmudgeons kind of beloved for the way he's a crab. Like his wife finds it funny, people find him funny. They don't take it seriously and they get a laugh out of it and he knows they get a laugh out of it, so he knows he can kind of indulge this crabby side of himself and everyone will just go, 'Oh, that's Hank. That's funny. Just laugh at it.'"

"And he has a daughter, they fight like crazy but they love each other. And he has a wife, they've been together for like 25, 26 years and they love each other. So I loved playing a character who was funny, smart, good with language and had love around him and a life worth saving. So that really appealed to me an awful lot and for me made the character so fundamentally different from Jimmy McGill."

But like Jimmy, Hank is a complicated guy with an estrangement in his life, in his case his much more successful father Hank Sr., a renowned film critic, which haunts him and is a relationship the series will explore.

"There's an emptiness inside him that he's very afraid of," Odenkirk says, "afraid of feeling it, afraid of thinking about it but it's very present. It drives him in a lot of ways."

tonight's PICKS

LaVan Davis

Tyler Perry's House of Payne

9 p.m. on BET

Let's just call it food for thought. Curtis (LaVan Davis) suspects his food truck was blown up intentionally and he starts investigating the incident. But it could have been just bad gas. And Calvin (Lane Gross) must get to the bottom of Calvin Jr.'s (DeMille Cole-Heard) mischievous deeds in the Season 12 premiere episode "Like New Money." Cassi Davis, Keshia Knight Pulliam and Larramie Doc Shaw also star.

Tyler Perry's Assisted Living

9:30 p.m. on BET VH1

We're in need of some serious affirmations and positive thinking. Phillip (Alex Henderson) learns about being accountable for one's actions and putting life's obstacles in perspective. Then Reginald (Damien Leake) must pick himself up out of his slump and find the strength to believe in love again in the Season 4 premiere episode "Believe." Other stars include J. Anthony Brown, Na'im Lynn, Tayler Buck, Tamela J. Mann and David Manna.

Digman!

10:30 p.m. on COM

Somewhere, in an alternate animated universe, archeologists are superstars with huge followings and rabid fans. And in this universe, no one is bigger than archeologist Rip Digman (voice of Andy Samberg) who follows his gut but is successful anyway in this series premiere. Guest voices happen to be superstars as well as Jane Lynch, Maya Rudolph and Daniel Radcliffe are just a few to be heard. Melissa Fumero, Mitra Jouhari, Tim Robinson and Tim Meadows also lend their voice talent.

The Young and the Restless

12:30 p.m. on WGCL

The beloved daytime soap is turning 50 this week and celebrations expect to be over-the-top in Genoa City. Old faces such as Michael Damian, Patty Weaver, Tricia Cast, Barbara Crampton and Veronica Redd return over the weeklong celebration. Since it began in 1973, the series has been the highest-rated daytime drama and given a start to stars such as Eva Longoria, David Hasselhoff, Tom Selleck and Paul Walker. It also featured guest appearances by celebrities such as Katy Perry, Lionel Richie, Wayne Gretzky, Il Divo and Enrique Iglesias.

Station 19

8 p.m. on WSB

Things get out of hand and the team is forced to make a risky call that could cost them dearly after Tomás' barbershop catches fire. Diane (Tracie Thoms) drops by the station and is called back into action alongside Vic (Barrett Doss) and Carina (Stefania Spampinato). And Beckett (Josh Randall) makes a decision about his future in the new episode "Could I Leave You?" Jaina Lee Ortiz, Jason George and Grey Damon also star.

Dolittle

9 p.m. on SYFY

Based largely on "The Voyages of Doctor Dolittle," Hugh Lofting's second book in his classic children's series, this 2020 fantasy adventure stars Robert Downey Jr. as the Welsh veterinarian who can communicate with animals. As the story opens, however, Dr. Dolittle has retreated from human society following the death of his beloved wife. Antonio Banderas, Jim Broadbent and Michael Sheen are among the human co-stars; the posh animal voice cast includes Oscar winners Emma Thompson, Rami Malek, Octavia Spencer and Marion Cotillard.

Dwayne Johnson

Jumanji: Welcome to the Jungle

8 p.m. on FX

More than 20 years after the adventure comedy- fantasy “Jumanji” blew the roof off the box office, this 2017 sequel follows some teenagers who find themselves whisked into the world of what is now a video game, where they play as their chosen grown-up avatars, trying to overcome the game’s magical power and win their release to return home. Dwayne Johnson stars as Indiana Jones-style archaeologist Smolder Bravestone; the other avatars are played by Karen Gillan, Jack Black, Kevin Hart and Nick Jonas.

Twisted Sister

8 p.m. on LIFE

It seems like Emily (Mena Suvari) has it all — a beautiful daughter, a successful PR firm, an inheritance from her parents, and a wonderful marriage with her husband. But, everything begins to crumble when Lily (Joy Nash) appears and claims to be Emily’s half sister. Once Lily joins Emily’s world, everything goes sideways in this 2023 thriller. Enya Flack and Darren Dupree Washington also star.

Network

9:45 p.m. on TCM

One of writer Paddy Chayefsky’s more histrionic black comedies, this 1976 film tells of Howard Beale (Peter Finch), a news anchor who goes over the edge and lashes out at his omnipotent network. Faye Dunaway is terrifying as Beale’s spiritually bankrupt boss. The premise is no longer shocking: Today, few would blink at a show combining news and psychic predictions, or one devoted to terrorist attacks. Chayefsky, Dunaway and Finch all won Oscars for the movie, which inspired a stage version starring Bryan Cranston as Beale.

“Movie: Noise”

From the Netherlands comes this mystery yarn about a man who moves his family into his childhood home and uncovers dark family secrets while investigating a local factory accident linked to his father. Ward Kerremans, Sallie Harmsen, Johan Leysen and Jennifer Heylen head the cast for director Steffen Geypens (“Logger”). (ORIGINAL)

“We Lost Our Human”

For the younger set is this interactive comedy adventure about two pets who wake up one day to discover that every human on Earth has disappeared, forcing them out into the world for the first time and ultimately on a wild trip through the universe, where they encounter strange creatures. (ORIGINAL)

“Waco: American Apocalypse”

Timed to coincide with the tragedy’s 30th anniversary, this three-part documentary gives an immersive look back at the 51-day siege at the Branch Davidian complex in Waco, Texas, in 1993 that ended with a firefight between cultists and federal agents that left 86 dead, including cult leader David Koresh. (ORIGINAL)

“The Night Agent”

Based on the novel by Matthew Quirk, this thriller series stars Gabriel Basso (“Hillbilly Elegy”) as Peter, a low-level FBI agent working in the basement of the White House manning a phone that never rings. Then one night it does, plunging him a dangerous conspiracy that may extend all the way to the Oval Office. Luciane Buchanan, Hong Chau and Sarah Desjardins also star. (ORIGINAL)

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Guy Pearce

OF 'A SPY AMONG FRIENDS' ON MGM

How was it working with Damian Lewis as a scene partner?

Well, just delightful. I mean, Damian is such a gentleman and very smart and I felt an incredible sense of sympathy for Damian before we started, obviously because of the recent passing of his wife, Helen (McCrory, "Peaky Blinders"), who I had worked with 20 years prior when we did "The Count of Monte Cristo." And I adored Helen. She really was a delightful, wonderful, incredible sort of striking woman and I got on very well with her. And we had a good old laugh when we were filming that film, and she always stuck in my head as this fantastically smart woman. And I never saw her again. But over the years, I saw that those two had gotten together and that they were married, and so I just knew that.

And then of course, I'd heard that she was unwell and then I heard she passed away and then I knew I was working with Damian and just went "Ohhh!" He didn't want and need sympathy from me but I couldn't help but feel like I just wanted to give him a big hug as soon as I met him. Do you know what I mean? So on some level, that was certainly for me quite a bonding, very personal sort of connection.

Your rendition of "Are You Lonesome Tonight" in the premiere was quite impressive.

(Laughs) Oh yes, well thank you. I love making music, and in fact just before ... I was literally putting a synthesizer back together that I pulled apart. So I was out in the studio trying to screw that thing back together again.

 If not me, then who? I have always been passionate about helping children find their voice and be heard. As a two time cancer survivor, I was no longer able to work, but I still wanted to make a difference. You don't have to have experience in child welfare, you just need to want to make a difference in a child's life. I mean, who wouldn't want to do that, right?

tonight's PICKS

“Everything Everywhere All at Once”

The Glenn Miller Story
5:45 p.m. on TCM
James Stewart has the title role in this 1953 biography about the famous bandleader whose music energized an entire generation. The film follows his early career and personal life until the time he died. June Allyson, Harry Morgan, Charles Drake, Irving Bacon and Kathleen Lockhart co-star. Frances Langford, Louis Armstrong, Marty Napoleon, Babe Russin and Arvell Shaw are among the stars making cameo appearances.

Everything Everywhere All at Once
10 p.m. on SHOW
With her laundromat teetering on the brink of failure and her marriage to wimpy husband Waymond (Ke Huy Quan) on the rocks, overworked Evelyn Wang (Michelle Yeoh) struggles to cope with everything, including tattered relationships with her judgmental father Gong Gong (James Hong) and her daughter Joy (Stephanie Hsu). She must also brace herself for an unpleasant meeting with Deirdre (Jamie Lee Curtis), an IRS auditor. But an inexplicable multiverse rift becomes an eye-opening exploration of parallel realities in this 2022 action adventure comedy.

tonight's PICKS

Andie MacDowell

The Mark Twain Prize for America Humor

8 p.m. on CNN

The man who gave us “Happy Gilmore,” “The Wedding Singer” and “The Waterboy,” Adam Sandler, is to be honored for his contributions to American comedy. The event will feature appearances by Jennifer Aniston, Judd Apatow, Drew Barrymore, Steve Buscemi, Conan O’Brien, Chris Rock, David Spade and more as they celebrate Sandler, who has entertained audiences for more than three decades, starting with his time on “Saturday Night Live” through to his critically-lauded turns in films such as “Uncut Gems” and “Hustle.”

The Way Home

8 p.m. on HALL

The family that grieves together, heals together. Kat (Chyler Leigh) and Alice (Sadie Laflamme-Snow) attend Colton’s (Jefferson Brown) funeral. Then Del (Andie MacDowell) goes to the grief group and makes peace with her memory of Colton. Kat has a new theory about Jacob (Remy Smith) in the season finale episode “Not All Who Wander Are Lost.” Evan Williams, Alex Hook, Marnie McPhail and Samora Smallwood also star.

Ride

9 p.m. on HALL

Isabel (Nancy Travis), Missy (Tiera Skovbye), Cash (Beau Mirchoff) and the rest of the McMurrays are part of a rodeo dynasty going back a generation. But they’re struggling to keep their beloved ranch afloat. After a tragic loss, each of them embark on a journey of transformation and self-discovery, while also uncovering a twisted web of secrets, threatening to tear the family and their small Colorado town apart at the seams in the series premiere opener “Legend of the Fall.” Sara Garcia, Jake Foy and Tyler Jacob Moore also star.

tonight's PICKS

Zach Shallcross

The Bachelor

8 p.m. on WSB

We're down to the final rose and if history is any kind of teacher, something is probably going to go off the rails in the Season 27 "Finale and After the Final Rose." Bachelor Zach Shallcross has proven to be a bit of an enigma. The ladies love him. But do they love him enough? And has COVID-19 caused too much of a headache in Zach's search for true love? Also, someone keep an eye out for Rachel.

Spring Baking Championship

8 p.m. on FOOD

Come prepared for pranks and pastries because it's April Fool's Day in the kitchen. Host Jesse Palmer asks the remaining bakers to create "fool for love" tarts and embrace the holiday of tricks and gags by serving judges Kardea Brown, Nancy Fuller and Duff Goldman cakes that look like pies in the new episode "Fool for Love." Each one will probably claim to be fat free.

Goodbye, Mr. Chips

8 p.m. on TCM

Hello, Mr. Oscar. In a year that also saw the releases of "Gone With the Wind," "Stagecoach" and "The Wizard of Oz," Robert Donat's indelible performance as the shy British schoolteacher who guides many students to adulthood snagged a 1939 Academy Award for best actor over competition that included Clark Gable's Rhett Butler. Greer Garson also stars.

The Watchful Eye

10 p.m. on FREE

Condo associations are always rife with scandal and politics. But in the Season 1 finale episode "Hale Fellow Well Met," alliances are tested and new ones are formed. But the Greybourne will never be the same after a tidal wave of truth finally comes out. Will Elena (Mariel Molino) gain an upper hand or struggle to make sense of her position? Warren Christie, Jon-Michael Ecker, Amy Acker and Aliyah Royale also star.

tonight's PICKS

Richard Nixon

Cool Hand Luke
8 p.m. on TCM
What we've got here is the ultimate prison movie, which set the standard for the genre and earned Paul Newman an Oscar nomination. His Luke is a rebellious World War II vet who lands on a chain gang for beheading some parking meters in a fit of rage. Newman didn't win, but George Kennedy was named best supporting actor for his performance as the hulking Dragline.

American Experience
9 p.m. on WGTV
The new episode "The Movement and The 'Madman,'" explores how two perfectly orchestrated antiwar protests in the fall of 1969 — the largest the country had ever seen — pressured then President Nixon to cancel what he called his "madman" plans for a massive escalation of the U.S. war in Vietnam, including a threat to use nuclear weapons. Protestors had no idea how influential they would be and how many lives they may have saved.

Will Trent
10 p.m. on WSB
A horrific trailer park massacre leaves a young boy without his family, and Will (Ramon Rodriguez), strongly opposed to leaving him, becomes his temporary guardian. Meanwhile, Faith (Iantha Richardson) receives a visit from her mother, and Angie (Erika Christensen) spirals from incidents of her past in the new episode "Pterodactyls Can Fly."

Under the Banner of Heaven
10 p.m. on FX
It's a race against time, faith and insanity as Ron (Sam Worthington) and Dan (Wyatt Russell) are looking to continue their killing spree with the help of both God and Lady Luck. But Det. Jeb Pyre (Andrew Garfield) is having an existential crisis of his own while hunting the killers with partner Bill Taba (Gil Birmingham). Tune in to see if faith saves the day in the Season 1 finale episode "Blood Atonement."

HBO's line of 'Succession' will end soon

BY JAY BOBBIN

Q. Is it true that "Succession" is ending? – Howard Crain, via email

A: Evidently. Series creator and executive producer Jesse Armstrong says the fourth season of the much-acclaimed HBO drama – which begins Sunday, March 26 – will be its last. As he pointed out in making the announcement, the show's title infers that things won't remain the same. That certainly will be the case for fans who have gotten used to the business machinations and power struggles of the program's Roy family (portrayed by stars including Brian Cox, Jeremy Strong and Kieran Culkin). The advice to those viewers is to enjoy the upcoming episodes as much as possible, since it appears that those will mark the end of the road for the series. With that being said, though, there have been reports that Armstrong may be considering doing a "Succession" spinoff of some sort.

Jeremy Strong

Q: I thought I heard it said that Margaret Hoover of "Firing Line" is a relative of President Herbert Hoover. Is that true? – Eric Barnett, Reading, Pa.

A: She is the great-granddaughter of America's 31st President, and she maintains that family tie by serving on boards at both the Hoover Institution at Stanford University and the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library Association. She also served for another chief executive as Associate Director of Intergovernmental Affairs for President George W. Bush. In addition to her weekly role on PBS' "Firing Line," Hoover is a contributor for CNN ... where she frequently makes tandem appearances with her husband, political insider John Avlon.
