Newton County Schools Board of Education

BOE discusses new EHS completion, upgrade plans to Sharp Stadium

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Members of the Newton County Schools Board of Education heard an update of the district’s capital improvement plan April 26 concerning ongoing and future facilities projects. Discussion centered on the impending completion of the new Eastside High School, plans for the existing Eastside High School’s facility, and upgrades for Sharp Stadium, among other facilities.

A capital improvement plan is a short range plan for a district’s capital projects. Newton County’s plan is laid out over a five year period, said Chief Operations Officer Michael Barr. A plan is specifically designed to outline potential purchases, construction, planning schedules and identify options for financing the plan.

In a presentation to the board, Barr and Director of Facilities Scott Rains detailed the progress and potential timeline for numerous projects included in the plan dated July 2022-June 2026.

Goals for the district’s latest plan include “providing an optimal learning environment for students, which includes maintaining current facilities and constructing new facilities; ensure that accommodating for long-term growth; ensure students have access to technology supports and learning; provide safe and reliable transportation for students,” Barr said.

To draft such a plan, Barr said several prerequisites were conducted including facility assessments, analysis of enrollment trends and population trends, identifying and prioritizing needs, getting cost estimates and determining potential funding sources.

Project No. 1 was the replacement of Eastside High School — one that has been underway since before 2020. A new facility, located off Georgia Hwy. 142 near U.S. Hwy. 278, has been under construction since officials broke ground on the site in January 2020. Rains said the school was set to open for students and staff in time for the start of the 2022-23 school year. Board members were scheduled to tour the facility May 11. With a total budget of more than $60 million, the facility was funded with a combination of general obligation bond funds and monies from ESPLOST V.

ESPLOST V was approved in 2018 by voters to run from 2020-2024, which would draw revenue to fund projects such as the EHS replacement and various capital improvements.

After the new Eastside High School is complete, project No. 2 will feature the relocation of Newton County Theme School to the existing Eastside facility.

Rains said this could be done with a proposed budget of $13 million, which would fund roofing, flooring, lighting, classroom, restroom, auditorium and kitchen renovations. Completion of the project was anticipated for fall 2023.

Next would be a focus on maintenance and improvements to several schools across the district — specifically millions of dollars in HVAC upgrades, lighting, roofing and paving projects. Schools to see upgrades would include Clements Middle, Cousins Middle, Indian Creek Middle, the current EHS facility, Middle Ridge Elementary, West Newton Elementary, Mansfield Elementary and Heard-Mixon Elementary. Work could begin as early as this summer, Rains said, and much would be funded through the state capital outlay.

These projects were approved by the board as part of a Local Facilities Plan that the school system is required to develop by the State Board of Education to qualify for state capital outlay funding.

Big changes are also planned for Sharp Stadium, including the installation of artificial turf. The estimated cost is currently $1.7 million, potentially to be paid from the General Fund budget. However, if the board chooses to go in a different direction, ESPLOST V funds could be used, Barr said.

Rains said the timeline to get turf installed was as early as March 2023 — work getting started after the season ends in the fall of 2022.

Covington City Council

Breweries, brewpubs, distilleries now allowed in Covington

Council approves measure to allow alcohol manufacturing facilities after mayor veto

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — A text amendment that would allow breweries, brewpubs, distilleries to operate in the city limits was recently passed by the Covington City Council — even after a mayor’s veto.

The council first narrowly approved an ordinance amendment April 18 that would allow various types of alcohol manufacturing facilities to operate within city limits while meeting a requirement that food sales equal 20% of retail alcohol sales. But Mayor Steve Horton exercised his power to veto the council’s decision, as he felt the ratio was not acceptable.

Instead of overriding Horton’s veto, the council unanimously adopted a substitute motion at its May 2 meeting that included a 50% food to on-premises retail alcohol sales ratio for brewpubs, distilleries and breweries, as is the case with restaurants.

Horton said his decision to use the veto was not one exercised as a way to “dictate how people choose to live their life.” Rather, it was out of concern for the well-being of the community at large.

“I’m not against people running their businesses,” Horton told The Covington News. “And I’m not against those who choose to drink ... This veto allowed more discussion on the issue, slowed things down a bit, which is what’s great about a veto.”

Horton’s concern with the previously approved measure was the ratio first agreed on. With restaurants required to meet a 50% ratio, he felt it wouldn’t be right to only require food sales equal 20% of drink sales.

A former Covington police officer, Horton said he used to work as a “intoximeter operator” and was taught the importance of ingesting food when drinking alcohol.

“We were taught that food helps slow down how quickly someone can be intoxicated,” he said. “I don’t feel it’s in the community’s best interest to have a place to simply go stand around and drink and not require some type of food element.”

Breweries and distilleries with tastings and tours only were excluded from the 50% food to retail alcohol sales ratio requirement.

Changes to the ordinance were initially discussed during a council meeting held Nov. 15, 2021, in which the item was tabled after in-depth discussion. The reason for proposing such changes was due to a growing interest among the development community. Then-city manager Scott Andrews said some breweries, brewpubs and distilleries were interested in locating to Covington.

Funding secured for upgrades at county agricultural center

news@covnews.com

ATLANTA — Sen. Brian Strickland, R-McDonough, announced Friday he helped secure $600,000 to fund the construction of a new equine stable and trailer parking for livestock shows at the T.M. “Mort” Ewing Newton County Agricultural Center.

The funding was included in the amended fiscal year 2022 budget by the Georgia General Assembly in grants from the One Georgia Authority after Strickland made the request for the monies.

The new stable will include 100 stalls, water and electricity, and, in addition to the new trailer parking, it will help the center accommodate larger shows. The center currently only has the capacity to host small, one-day equine events.

“With this new funding, Newton County can host large, multi-day events at the agriculture center, which will not only bring more revenue to the local economy but will continue our efforts to educate future generations about the importance of supporting our farms and the agricultural community in Georgia,” Strickland said in a news release.

The T.M. “Mort” Ewing Newton County Agricultural Center, located off FFA-FHA

Camp Road, was built as a partnership between the state of Georgia, Newton County and the Georgia FFA-FCCLA Center. The facility is designed to host all types of agricultural education livestock events and activities with the goal of growth opportunities for youth.

Since its opening in 2019, the Newton County Agricultural Center has been used by many organizations and individuals from all over the Southeast and as far as Missouri.

Usage has included FFA and 4-H livestock shows such as the Newton County Classic and Hogs of Hazzard; various livestock shows such as the Piedmont Cattlemen Association Show; livestock sales such as the Southeast Boer Goat Sale, and much more.

Strickland represents the 17th Senate District, which includes portions of Henry, Rockdale and Newton counties. He also serves as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The future Davidson president also taught leadership studies and religion, beginning at the University of Richmond where he later served as founding director of the Bonner Center for Civic Engagement.

He later moved to Colgate University to serve as provost and dean of the faculty, the university’s chief academic officer, before accepting the role of dean at Oxford in 2016.

There are "really strong parallels" between Emory and Davidson, Hicks said.

One is both being liberal arts-based colleges founded one year apart in the 19th century by religious denominations — Emory by Methodists and Davidson by Presbyterians.

Both also have focused on coming to terms with their origins in the pre-Civil War South by memorializing those enslaved Americans who helped build the colleges' campuses.

"The (Davidson) campus itself has a sense of place," he said.

Although Hicks also taught a first-year seminar class at Oxford, his time as president of the Johnson III; and Emory University President Gregory Fenves.

1,900-student Davidson College will be spent leading the school and finding ways to better equip its students for future endeavors.

He said he is glad Davidson is committed to hosting top NCAA Division I athletics, such as its men's basketball team that advanced to the NCAA Tournament this year and boasts past stars such as future NBA Hall of Famer Stephen Curry.

Hicks said he felt "good for what we accomplished" at Oxford.

Programs Hicks either led or helped lead include the creation of a new general-education curriculum, including Discovery Seminars, experiential learning and a Milestone Project for every student. The college also increased the number of advanced classes and added new areas of study.

Since Hicks' arrival, applications to Oxford more than doubled to over 20,000 in 2022 which allowed the college to attract a more diverse and academically proficient student body, Emory officials said recently.

It also added a new dining hall and student center and renovated the historic Phi Gamma, Pierce and Humanities buildings.

He also led the college as Oxford’s endowment nearly doubled since 2016 despite part of the time being spent under COVID restrictions that prompted Emory leaders to close the university. Oxford has already surpassed $70 million raised toward an $80 million 2036 Campaign goal.

An endowment is the amount of money a college receives in donations which it then has available for a range of uses — from scholarships to upgrading facilities and hiring top professors.

Oxford College operates on the original campus of Emory University, which moved its main campus to western DeKalb County near Atlanta in the early 20th century. It kept its Oxford location as a campus for first- and second-year students before they continue work toward bachelor’s degrees through Emory College of Arts and Sciences, Goizueta Business School or Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing.

Hicks worked to strengthen ties with Emory’s main campus and create a smoother transition for students in such areas as the Mellon Humanities Pathways Program.

He said he sees the Newton County campus evolving toward new programs to help its students prepare for 21st century life. However, he does not believe Oxford will ever totally break away from an affiliation with Emory.

"Future leaders will determine that course," he said. "I don't see near-term shifts."

Since he came to Oxford, Hicks said he has worked to be involved in the community. He was an active leader in the Arts Association of Newton for six years and a member of the Newton Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Hicks also was named to a committee that will help advise state leaders in determining workforce needs at the planned $5 billion Rivian electric vehicle plant near Social Circle.

The Oxford dean also was the first to secure the name of a Black community leader on an Emory University academic building when Johnson Hall was dedicated in October 2021 to the late Newton County Superior Court Judge Horace Johnson Jr..

He agreed Johnson was his "most important mentor" in the community after Hicks' arrival in 2016. Johnson was an Oxford and Emory alumnus who died of COVID-related complications in mid-2020.

He said Johnson's wife, Michelle, "was kind enough" to call and congratulate him after he was announced as Davidson's new president.

"I miss Horace every day," Hicks said. "He was such a wise friend."

Our View on the Issue

Financial literacy requirement is no-brainer

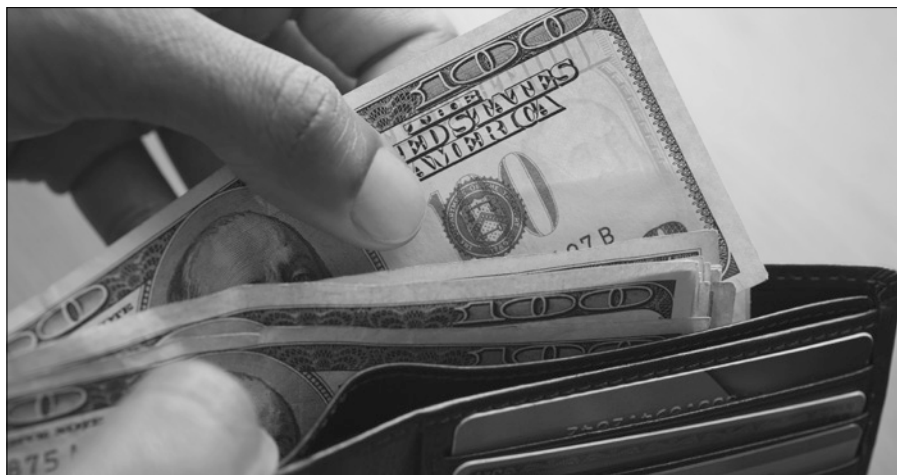

In a flurry of what has been deemed “controversial” education bills recently signed into law, there’s one piece of legislation that should not be overlooked: SB 220.

Gov. Brian Kemp recently signed a bill that would guarantee all students are at least exposed to a financial literacy course before they graduate high school. Starting in two years, school year 2024-25, all 11th and 12th grade students will be required to take at least a half-credit course in financial literacy before they graduate.

Apparently, Georgia is the 13th state to enact such a requirement. The Peach State joins Florida, Nebraska, Ohio and Rhode Island as states that passed similar bills within the last year.

During a signing event recently, Kemp said the legislation would “ensure that [students] learn financial literacy in our schools, like the importance of good credit and how to budget properly so that they can be better prepared for the world beyond the classroom.”

Considering Georgia has the sixth lowest average FICO score in the U.S., this is a good thing. And if we’re being honest, less than half of Newton County’s high school students probably don’t know how to write a check and/or balance a check book. And who knows? There are likely many adults living in Newton County today that don’t know how to do this either.

A financial literacy course requirement is one that is needed in Georgia's public schools.

Metro Creative

But let’s back up. What is a FICO score? A FICO score is a specific credit score that was created by the Fair Isaac Corporation (FICO) in 1989. FICO scores factor into more than 90% of the credit decisions made in the U.S. and are the ideal figure for assessing the financial health of a given area.

Why does good credit matter? Lenders see having a higher credit score as a sign that a borrower is more likely to repay their debts. Not only can it affect whether or not you’ll qualify for insurance or a loan, but it can also affect how much you’ll pay overall.

Lenders charge those with lower credit scores higher interest rates and premiums to account for the increased risk to lenders.

Here are the FICO Score ranges:

- 850-900 is considered “exceptional.”
- 799-850 is considered “very good.”
- 739-799 is considered “good.”
- 680-739 is considered “fair.”
- 580-680 is considered “very poor.”

In Georgia, the state average FICO score was 693 in 2021. The national average was 714.

How do you raise your credit score? The short answer is — you guessed it — financial literacy. It’s knowing how to create and live on a budget and manage your money so you can live your life without worrying where your next meal comes from or how you’re going to pay the bills each month.

Thank you to our legislators and Gov. Brian Kemp for shining the spotlight on financial literacy. In our view, making such courses now a requirement for our state’s students is a bipartisan no-brainer.

Lost in criticisms, Rivian offers great opportunity

There has been a great deal of news lately about the new development in Stanton Springs — Rivian. What everyone seems to be missing is the incredible opportunity it promises for our children.

I sympathize with the small minority who is upset. Their concerns about the environment are certainly warranted. But the JDA has clearly demonstrated with its previous tenants that they are environmentally friendly. This newest addition — a “green energy” company if ever there was one — is certain to be even more committed.

Of course, I’m concerned about growth. But speaking with legislators around LaGrange, I’ve learned that the KIA plant did not cause problems. Instead, by standing strong on their local zoning, and with the ample dollars that those new jobs provided, the locals were able to mold their community into exactly what they wanted it to be. And — like Takeda and Facebook — most of the workers at KIA did not move to LaGrange. Instead, they drive to work from the same small towns that they were raised in.

Which is exactly the point. When I ran for office eight years ago, the No. 1 thing I heard from the voters is that they didn’t want their children to have to move away to get a decent job. I heard it so much that I made it the theme of my campaign; “I want our children to have the quality jobs to raise their children; back Here, back Home.”

Stanton Springs does that. This Super Site was created more than 20 years ago with the stated goal of creating jobs for our children. It was strategically located next to a very busy interstate and a very convenient railroad. People who later moved next to that same Super Site that was next to that busy interstate and convenient railroad can hardly be surprised when the goal of that Super Site was finally realized.

Over the next 25 years, the combined tax revenues from all the Stanton Springs companies will generate upwards of $900 million to our local communities. That means our schools — our children — are huge winners. Thus, if you are against this facility, then you are opposed to providing hundreds of millions of dollars to our schools and communities.

As a longtime public servant, and former member of the Morgan County School Board, I know that these new revenues will more than offset new expenses. I’m heartened by the opportunity to lower property taxes, as gobs of clean, manufacturing dollars come pouring in. But most of all, I’m excited what these new partnership will mean for our schools, and the whopping salaries our children will command with this cutting-edge technology.

I know that change is hard. I admire the passion of the opposing side, and am grateful at their veracity. Because their argument belies a fundamental flaw...they

Clichés turn up too often in the news world

As a TV news anchor, I try to avoid clichés, because they turn up on the news too often.

I grimace when I hear that “officials are tight-lipped.” In fact, I usually tighten my own lips, to no avail.

Sometimes, we tell you that someone in the news is “finally speaking out!” I suppose they are tired of whispering. In fact, they may be “breaking their silence.” That one makes me laugh, because my wife accuses me of doing that shortly after I wake up each morning. (Think about it.)

If I had a nickel for every time I’ve ended a crime story by saying, “The investigation is continuing,” I’d have some serious cash. I mean, that should be obvious. We all know that cops aren’t going to leave the scene and say, “You know what? I’m stumped. Let’s just forget about it, and maybe this will blow over.”

“Police talk” in general can be entertaining. Occasionally I’ll hear an officer say, “We’re looking for the gentleman who held up the XYZ Bank.” Sir, if he’s robbing banks, he’s no gentleman.

When the police are in pursuit, we are often told that they stopped the car, but the man got out and “fled on foot.” This reassures me that he did not flap his wings and fly away.

Of course, those of us who are paid to read words correctly are frequently the culprits. We offer safety tips about your “hot water heater.” Now seriously, why would anyone need to heat their hot water?

You’ve often heard us describe “an ATM machine robbery.” That means we’re talking about an Automated Teller Machine machine.

If we say, “canine dogs,” should we also say, “human people?”

A reporter will stand on a street corner, and proclaim, “As you can see, I’m on the ground here in East Tumbleweed.” Thanks for proving me right. I am comforted to know that my eyes are not deceiving me.

(These reporters are not to be confused with the ones who warn you to stay away from the dangerous tornado zone in which they are standing, shortly before their hat flies into the ocean, and the wind pulls their mouth around to the back of their head.)

This reminds me of the word, “reeling.” As in, “Gas went up a nickel, sending motorists reeling.” Since “reeling” is defined as, “losing one’s balance and staggering or lurching violently,” I fear what will happen when it goes up another dime.

My TV news friends have also said, “Take a look at this new ride: It is definitely not your father’s Buick!” I can vouch for that, because he never owned one.

We love to say, “Tonight there are more questions than answers.” Unless, of course, you’re watching “Jeopardy.”

We’ve told you about people who were in a “terrible accident,” as opposed to a wonderful accident. We describe a “senseless crime” so you’ll know it wasn’t a meaningful crime. We tell you that an injured person was taken to a “local” hospital. Aren’t you glad the paramedics didn’t take him to a hospital thousands of miles away?

Sometimes we use a lot of words when just two will do. Doesn’t “totally engulfed in flames” mean the same thing as “on fire?”

The weather people also slip up. From the Department of Redundancy Department, they’ll say, “Currently right now in Marietta, it’s 71.”

I try to avoid “literally.” As in, “Police are — literally — combing this neighborhood for clues.” That must be one huge comb.

Remember when “Breaking News” was truly something important? For instance, a major earthquake, or an explosion. Now, the cable “news” channels, yapping for attention like puppies at feeding time, will trumpet their “Breaking News” banner to inform us that “Swimming Pools and Diarrhea Don’t Mix.” Who knew?

So here’s the very latest. Something in your home may be killing you. And there are only two places you can find the cure. We have information that can save your family, so watch Monday night at 11, when we will tell you to look inside our app.

At the end of the day, here’s the bottom line: it remains to be seen. Because only time will tell.

Dewberry each scored a run to give the Panthers a 9-1 lead.

With Dewberry making the move to centerfield in the sixth, the Warriors were finally able to get back into the run column with a triple from Scavelli that brought one runner across.

Down 9-2, the Warriors brought Eli Crump out to relieve Geiger.

The Panthers capitalized despite the pitching change as Crump hit Panthers' batter Tyler Loew with the bases loaded to force in a run.

Whitfield took advantage of the bases loaded jam and walked the game off with a two-run double to give the Panthers the win in game one due to the mercy rule.

Dewberry finished game one by pitching five full innings while allowing only two hits and striking out 11 batters.

In addition to his solid outing on the mound, Dewberry had a solid game at the plate. He finished with two hits and two RBIs, as well as two walks.

Whitfield put together a good game at the plate in game one, as he tallied three hits, three RBIs, and one walk.

“When you talk about baseball players, that is [Amman and Dillon],” Peachtree Academy head coach Kevin Boeckman said. “They have been seeing the ball so well, and they absolutely contributed to [the championship]”

After catching all of game one for the Panthers, Whitfield took the mound in game two to face Scavelli, who made the switch from third base to pitcher for Cherokee.

After both Dewberry and Whitfield reached in the first, Boeckman’s line drive to left field was mishandled by the Warriors’ left fielder, which allowed all three runners to score on the inside-the-park home run to give the Panthers an early lead against Scavelli.

Peachtree Academy did not stop there as they were able to bring across six total runs in the opening inning.

“We wanted to get on their fastball and be aggressive, especially in the second game [with Scavelli],” coach Boeckman said.

With a 6-0 lead in the first, Whitfield found himself in a jam early on as he faced the bases loaded with only one out. A quick strikeout followed by a groundout to second allowed him to escape the jam without allowing a run.

“[Dillon] is a baller,” coach Boeckman said. “That is what I think won us the championship. We go and put a six spot on their No. 1 guy, and we are able to get out of bases loaded with one out. He grinded it out and made the pitches when he needed to.”

After the first two batters for the Panthers reached in the second, Gothard scored both a two-run single. Later in the inning, Loew scored one more to give Peachtree Academy a 9-0 lead going into the second.

With Cherokee Christian’s back against the wall, they were able to score two runners in the bottom of the second to reduce the deficit to 9-2.

The Panthers did not go away, however, as they added three more runners in the top of the third as another costly error by the Warriors gave up runs.

Following a sacrifice fly by the Warriors in the bottom of the third, the Panthers led 12-3.

Another Warriors’ error in the fifth allowed Panthers’ Ethan Caldwell to score to give Peachtree Academy a 13-3 lead.

With Gothard on the mound in the bottom of the fifth, the Panthers got the final three outs to force a second straight mercy rule victory to put Peachtree Academy back on the mountain top with another baseball championship.

“It is awesome [to win another championship],” coach Boeckman said. “I knew we had a special team; I knew if they worked hard then we could finish off with a championship.”

ically across the formation. Ironically, though they played defense, they each scored three goals in 2022, too.

Arguably the most difficult position to find a player for in soccer is goalkeeper. Well, the Lady Redskins seemed to have found the cornerstone of their defense in freshman Addie Stracner. Whenever the Lady Redskins needed a crucial save or stop, Stracner would seemingly always be in the right place to make a play.

State championships don’t come easy for any team in any sport. A lot of things have to fall in place for a team to attain the ultimate prize. The same thing is true for this year’s Lady Redskins squad.

Timing played a huge part in Social Circle capturing the state title. I firmly believe that, if any of the players mentioned above were missing, this season would’ve played out totally different.

Now, I’m not saying they wouldn’t have made the playoffs or something in that nature. However, it would’ve significantly impacted this year’s result.

Yes, the 10 seniors provided much needed senior leadership and experience and the younger players seemed to provide the spark. But, if there was only senior leadership and no spark or vice versa, a state title dream may not have come to reality for the Lady Redskins.

Every player served in an integral role in the Lady Redskins going 24-1 overall and winning the region and state titles. I have to say, too, to close out this column that it was super fun following this team most of the season.

You could tell this team genuinely cares for one another and their coach and they each would’ve done anything to help accomplish the ultimate goal. On top of that, each player seemed to have the time of their lives while out there playing the sport they love.

And that ladies and gentleman is what makes a state championship team.

PANTHERS SWEEP FOR STATE TITLE

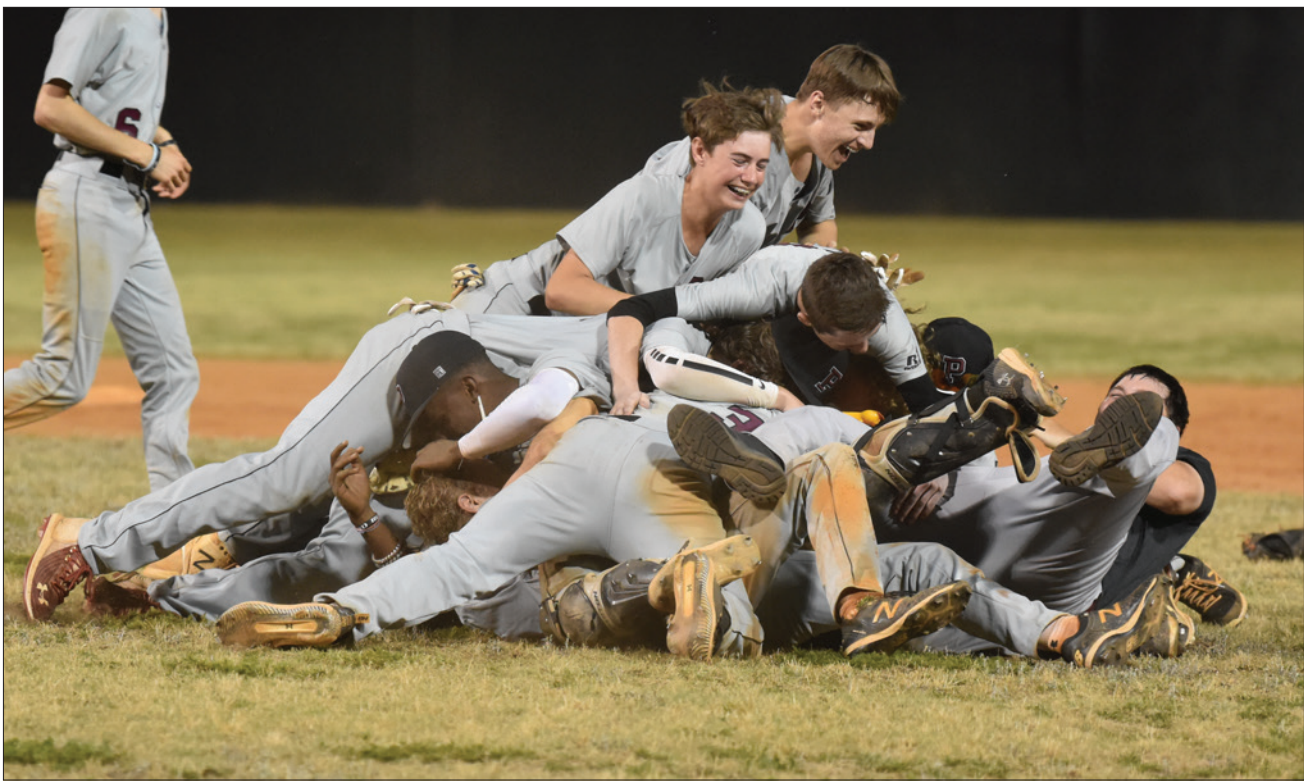

Peachtree Academy defeats Cherokee Christian for third championship in five years

By GARRETT PITTS

COVINGTON, Ga. — Peachtree Academy swept both games of a doubleheader May 5 to take down Cherokee Christian and claim the Division 2 GAPPS State Championship. It is the third title for the Panthers in the past five seasons after winning games one and two 12-2 and 13-3, respectively.

Peachtree Academy accomplished this behind two solid outings from Amman Dewberry and Dillon Whitfield.

Dewberry took the mound for the Panthers in game one and the left-hander got into a rhythm immediately. After giving up one run on an RBI single from Brandon Scavelli in the first, Dewberry surrendered only one more hit

The Panthers were able to add one more run in the third inning on an RBI single from Zach Gothard.

Peachtree Academy broke the game open with a five-run fifth inning.

AJ Lingerfelt provided ample production from the nine spot with a bases clearing double to put the Panthers up 7-1. A triple from Whitfield and a single from

Handful of qualities makes a championship team

Down in Macon last week, the Social Circle Lady Redskins added to an already monumental season by capturing the 2022 Class A-Public state championship. After falling down 3-1 in the first half, the Lady Redskins forced overtime and completed a 6-4 comeback victory.

It was, indeed, a remarkable sight to see. Was I impressed? Absolutely. Was I shocked? Not one bit. Because head coach Heather Richardson told me before the season even began that she was excited for this team.

Furthermore, Richardson compared the 2022 squad to the one she coached at Social Circle in 2017 — a team that was knocked off in the semifinal game. Richardson said she believed that this year's team could go even further and they did.

But, what made this collection of players the team to win it all for the Lady Redskins? In my opinion, it's three-fold.

Senior Leadership
In 2022, Social Circle had 10 seniors on its roster with a good portion of the class exemplifying stellar leadership. Each senior contributed in one way or another.

It all started with Tess Preston and Rory Stowe.

All throughout the year, Richardson recognized Stowe as the one who helped "hold it down" as the leader on defense. Preston seemed to be the all-around leader for the Lady Redskins this season.

Then, there's Kaylee Connell and Taylor Wright on the wings. The left footer Connell seemed to always be the one delivering impressive crosses from the left side of the formation while Wright was doing the same from the right.

Adding senior leadership to the back line of defense was Morgan Chambers, who helped rattle opposing offenses through most of the season. Midfielder Olivia Cross heavily contributed to the team's success with timely passes, goals and plays she made throughout the year.

Not to mention Gracie Barts, Emma Shane, Aubrey Egle and Amelia Leigh who each stepped in their own way and played a pivotal role in the state championship run.

Young stars make presence known

Complimenting all the aforementioned senior leadership were some underclassmen who really made names for themselves in 2022.

The first two names that come to mind are Peyton Brooks and Alana Ferguson.

Ferguson, a freshman, seemed to be flying all over the field this past season. She never gave up on the ball, even if it was hopeless for her to catch up. But that determination helped her score on many occasions. Sophomore Brooks exploded onto the scene leading the team in scoring but, like Ferguson, Brooks' determination and quickness on the field assisted with her final tally at the season's end.

Defensively, the Lady Redskins have freshmen Faith Young and Claire Ray returning to lead them on the back end of the formation. Young seemed to play toward center-defense while Ray played sporad-

Cleary inks scholarship with Birmingham Southern

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — Redskins linebacker Tucker Cleary signed his scholarship to Birmingham Southern recently, continuing his football career at the collegiate level.

When he inked the deal in the Social Circle High School's media center, Cleary expressed his confidence in signing to become a Panther.

"Birmingham Southern felt like a home to me as soon as I got there," Cleary said. "The people were all super nice and welcoming. The campus gave me a homey feel and I've already made friends with a lot of the students and athletes down there."

Cleary said when he visited the campus, he fell in love with the size of the school as well as the opportunity to meet the current players and making connections while there.

Even so, Cleary acknowledged the impact Social Circle has made on him as he prepares for his next step.

"Social Circle has taught me a lot as the coaches and players motivated me more and more," Cleary said. "They showed me that if you keep pushing through the bad that there's a lot of good that will come out in the end. Social Circle was the greatest thing to come to my life."

In addition to being a linebacker for the Redskins' defense, Cleary was a member of the Redskins' wrestling team, too. Doing so allowed Inside Social Circle High School's media center, football standout Tucker Cleary signs his scholarship April 13 to play college football at Birmingham Southern.

Cleary to be mentored by numerous coaches during his time as a Redskin.

With that, Cleary recognized all the coaches who have helped him along the way.

"Coach Patton and them have definitely prepared me for the next level," Cleary said. "They pushed me like no one else has. They challenged me like no other. They've definitely set my mind right better than anyone else."

Cleary plans to major in exercise science in pursuit of a chiropractic care degree at Birmingham Southern.

But, departing from the Redskins' football and wrestling programs comes with a bittersweet feeling for Cleary.

"I'm going to definitely miss all of the guys and the coaches," Cleary said. "They're more than just teammates, they're all family. We all have close bonds to each other and we all play around and talk like brothers. They'll forever be brothers to me."

Treat mom to a classic Italian pasta dish

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Moms often work tirelessly to care for their families, with many juggling careers and time spent at home. It’s a balance that is sometimes tricky to manage, and at times mothers need to have their loads lightened. Children or spouses who learn to cook can take some pressure off of mom. Pasta dishes generally are easy to prepare and can feed a crowd. Such is the case with this recipe for “Carbonara” from “Rachael Ray: Memories and Meals From a Sweet and Savory Life” (Ballantine Books) by Rachael Ray.

Carbonara
Serves 4

Ingredients:
1/4 cup approximately EVOO
1/3 pound chunk of meaty pancetta or guanciale, cut into 1/4-inch dice
4 large cloves garlic, thinly sliced or chopped

Metro Creative

Pasta dishes generally are easy to prepare and can feed a crowd.

1 1/2 teaspoons coarsely ground black pepper
1 cup white wine
6 large egg yolks
1 cup grated Pecorino Romano, plus more to pass
Salt
1 pound bucatini or spaghetti
1/2 cup fresh flat-leaf

parsley, finely chopped (a fat handful of leaves)
Directions:
Bring a large pot of water to a boil for the pasta. In a large, deep skillet over medium heat, heat the EVOO, four turns of the pan. Add the pancetta or guanciale and render for about 3 minutes. Add the garlic and pepper and stir 1 minute more. Add the wine and reduce by half (about 7 minutes), then reduce the heat to low. In a medium bowl, combine the egg yolks and grated cheeses to the liberally salted boiling water and cook to 1 minute less than al dente per the package recommendation. Remove about 1 1/4 cups of starchy cooking water from the pot and whisk it into the egg yolks in a steady stream to temper them. Reserve an extra 1/2 cup of starchy water just in case. Drain the pasta or transfer it with a spider or tongs to the pan with the pancetta and garlic. Remove the pan from the heat and add the tempered egg yolks and parsley. Toss to combine. If the sauce seems too thin, return the heat to the lowest setting and, stirring constantly for 2 to 4 minutes, until the sauce thickens. Add salt to taste. Note: Many recipes for this dish include heavy cream. Such recipes may be delicious, but they’re not authentic. The creamy consistency here comes from tempering the eggs and emulsifying them with oil, cheese and cooking water.

Even though beef is often the meat of choice when making burgers, any ground meat can be used in its place. In fact, leaner meats, such as lamb, pork or chicken, may help people stay the course as they try to eat healthy.

It’s finally burger season!

Break out the grill for this chicken burger, kiwi salsa recipe

Grills are firing up all across the country and the savory aroma of smoky foods are wafting through neighborhoods far and wide. Burgers a staple of grilling season, and grill-masters have a lot of leeway when it comes to what goes into their creations. Even though beef is often the meat of choice when making burgers, any ground meat can be used in its place. In fact, leaner meats, such as lamb, pork or chicken, may help people stay the course as they try to eat healthy. This recipe for “Chicken Burgers with Kiwi Salsa” from “125 Best Chicken Recipes” (Robert Rose), by Rose Murray is sure to please. To add even more variety in recipes, choose kaiser rolls, focaccia bread or pretzel rolls instead of plain hamburger buns.

Chicken Burgers with Kiwi Salsa
Serves 6

Ingredients:
1 egg
1 1/4 pounds ground chicken
1/3 cup dry bread crumbs
3 tablespoons milk or cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 pepper
6 toasted hamburger buns
Directions:
In a bowl, beat the egg; mix in the chicken, bread crumbs, milk, salt and pepper. Form into six patties, about 3/4-inch thick. Place on grill and cook, Dietary cleanses, sometimes referred to as “detoxes,” have emerged in recent years. Cleanses are purported to help individuals cleanse their body of toxins while also helping them to lose weight.

All there is to know about dietary cleanses

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Dietary trends come and go. A trend that’s popular today could be gone tomorrow, leaving both advocates and adversaries in its wake. Dietary cleanses, sometimes referred to as “detoxes,” have emerged in recent years. Cleanses are purported to help individuals cleanse their body of toxins while also helping them to lose weight. Women are urged to speak with their physicians prior to beginning a new dietary regimen, including cleanses. Women curious about cleanses also can learn more about them prior to speaking with their physicians.

What do cleanses entail?

The National Center for Complementary and Integrative Health notes that cleanses and detox diets may include one or any number of these approaches:
• Fasting
• Drinking only juices or eating only certain foods
• Supplementation
• Using herbs
• Using a sauna
Juice cleanses are one example of a cleanse or detox diet that has piqued the curiosity of many individuals in recent years. Juice cleanses differ, but many involve consuming only fruit or vegetable juices and water. Individuals engaged in juice cleanses may stick to that regimen for days or even weeks.

What does the science say about cleanses?

The NCCIH indicates a need for more substantive research before the efficacy of cleanses and detox diets can be confirmed. The NCCIH notes that, thus far, studies have been too small or too low-quality for scientists to say with certainty that cleanses and detox diets are safe and effective. Women considering cleanses also should know that various companies selling cleansing and detox products have been accused by the Federal Trade Commission of making false claims about their products and/or producing products with potentially harmful ingredients. Such actions underscore how important it is that women discuss cleanses and detox diets with their physicians prior to beginning any new dietary regimen. When speaking to a doctor about a cleanse or detox diet, women should be as specific as possible, noting which products they are considering. Doctors can examine the products to determine any risks associated with them. For example, the NCCIH notes that juices made from high-oxalate foods such as spinach and beets could increase risk for kidney disease if consumed in significant quantities. Doctors also may note that some cleanses and detox diets that limit calories may produce short-term weight loss, but that any pounds shed may only be regained when women return to their normal diets once the cleanse ends. Women considering dietary cleanses or other detox diets should discuss them with a physician prior to beginning a regimen. Doctors may recommend more proven dietary strategies that can help women get healthier and stay that way over the long haul.

Estelle Getty (left) and Bea Arthur star in "The Golden Girls," airing Sunday on Hallmark Channel and TV Land.

Remembering Mama: Television's gifts for Mother's Day

Mothers come in all forms, but each year, they all share one day ... and this time, it's on Sunday, May 8.

Similarly, moms are represented in various ways in different media projects, as demonstrated by many series and movies to be televised on that special occasion. Here are some of TV's highlights slated for this Mother's Day.

“Mom” (CMT): With that title? Of course. A marathon of the sitcom that ended last year featured Allison Janney in her much praised and honored portrayal of Bonnie, a mother who has plenty of challenges to deal with.

“The Golden Girls” (Hallmark Channel, TV Land): Bea Arthur and Estelle Getty, as live-in daughter and mother Dorothy and Sophia, made up half of this enduringly popular quartet ... with Betty White and Rue McClanahan comprising the other half.

“The Brady Bunch” (MeTV): Whatever the given episode, this classic sitcom boasts one of the best TV moms ever, Florence Henderson’s Carol Brady.

“Reba” (CMT, Hallmark Channel): Country-music icon McEntire became a full-fledged TV star as a divorced mom always ready with a wry quip.

“Naked and Afraid: Tough as a Mother” (Discovery): Sure, “Mother” is in the title, but a marathon of this unscripted series makes rather liberal use of the term.

“I Remember Mama” (Turner Classic Movies): One of the most famous of all parental tales, director George Stevens’ 1948 drama casts Irene Dunne as the “Mama” recalled by her writer daughter (later “Dallas” star Barbara Bel Geddes).

“Bad Moms” (FXM): As the title implies, the women played by Mila Kunis, Kristen Bell and Kathryn Hahn may not be the best parents, but they sure are funny in this 2016 film.

“The Beach House” (Hallmark Movies & Mysteries): Andie MacDowell and Minka Kelly portray a newly reunited mother and daughter in this affecting 2018 adaptation Mary Alice Monroe’s bestseller.

“Soccer Mom Madam” (Lifetime): Part of a full day of movies based on true-life stories of mothers, this 2021 drama casts Lifetime staple Jana Kramer as the unlikely linchpin of a prostitution ring.

“Snatched” (FXM): This 2017 comedy casts Goldie Hawn and Amy Schumer as a mother and daughter whose shared vacation ends up getting them kidnapped.

“Places in the Heart” (Turner Classic Movies): Sally Field earned her second Oscar for best actress as a Depression-era widow and mother fighting to save her Texas farm in writer-director Robert Benton’s 1984 drama.

“Bridget Jones’s Baby” (TBS): Renee Zellweger returns as Bridget, the Englishwoman who becomes pregnant – without being sure who the father is – in this 2016 comedy.

“A Quiet Place Part II” (EPIX): Emily Blunt plays a mom who defines the term “fiercely protective” again sound-sensitive creatures in this 2020 horror sequel.

West African cuisine in the spotlight on CLEO TV's 'Global Gourmet'

There are a lot of misconceptions about West African food and Essie Bartels aims to clear them up – along with show how delicious it can be – in a cooking series currently airing on CLEO TV.

On “Global Gourmet,” airing Wednesdays, the chef and Ghana native walks viewers through the preparation of some of her favorite West African dishes, such as tagine chicken, peppered goat and a peanut butter soup. Along the way, she also shares stories of her travels around the world to places such as Morocco, Jamaica, Thailand and France and even makes meals from those nations as well.

Long considered unhealthy for its reliance on carbs and peanut oil, West African cuisine has come into vogue in recent years among those interested in healthy eating for being plant-based. And integral to that, for Bartels, is palm oil, a much-misunderstood ingredient that has been shrouded in controversy.

In Asia, its mass production has been blamed for deforestation and destruction of wildlife habitats. But in Africa, where it's grown and harvested sustainably, Bartels says it's a delicious and unique addition to many recipes.

“Palm oil has a lot of carotenoids, the same ingredients that are found in carrots that give it that beautiful orange color and it has even higher levels of it,” she explains.

“It's such a rich hue of orange. Outside of that, the flavor is so delicious. It's very thick, it has a very high heating point so you can heat it very high unlike, let's say a vegetable oil or a canola oil or an olive oil that you can't heat to high temperatures. So palm oil can be heated really high and then it has a beautiful nutty flavor and finish that you can't get with any other oil. It's not similar to anything.”

In addition to teaching about ingredients such as palm oil, grains of selim (akin to a black pepper), folio (similar to quinoa) and alligator pepper, Bartels demonstrates techniques like cooking in a tagine and mixing ingredients using a molcajete, which is not unlike a mortar and pestle.

Bartels learned how to cook from her mother and grandmother and many of the 32 dishes she prepares in Season 1 are family recipes. She hopes they and the series will pique viewers' curiosity enough to head to their local international food store and give Western African a try.

“Forget everything you think you know about West African cuisine – just throw it all in the bin ...,” she says. “Just come with open minds, come with fresh eyes to learn, listen, enjoy and just get out of your shell and just be ready to explore and go on this journey.”

Vanessa Bayer

OF 'I LOVE THAT FOR YOU' ON SHOWTIME

Can you talk about the performance technique of home shopping hosts as an actor? Because they suck you in and they keep you there for the longest period of time. How do they do that? Is it fear of missing out? What is the goal?

I think they genuinely enjoy doing it. I think that is the goal. I had looked at some of the backgrounds a little while back of a lot of the hosts, and a lot of them were in broadcast journalism and stuff. So a lot of them had done those kinds of jobs beforehand.

But truly, I think that part of the reason that we're so drawn to watching them is because ... while they're selling things to you, they're so conversational that it really does make you feel like you're watching a friend who's just kind of talking to you. And I think a lot of people, you know, keep it on their TV; sleep with it on. I mean, it's just there's this incredible power for them to speak through the TV and make you feel like you're just hanging out with them.

Have you bought a lot of junk?

Sometimes, you do buy stuff you don't need. I will say they have a lot of really great brands. ... If you watch it all the time, you end up buying a ton of stuff you don't need because they make it seem so great. And, you know, they say you can wear this to your daughter's graduation (and) you know, I don't have a daughter and she certainly doesn't have a graduation, but I'm like, “Yeah, I could wear this to my daughter's graduation,” you know what I mean? (Laughs.) ... They just make you feel, like, “Yeah, that is what I need. I do need that for that.” (laughs)

Then, "Dinosaur Apocalypse: The Last Day" shows the team discovering tiny pieces of the death-dealing asteroid that wiped out the dinosaurs.

Secrets of the Whales

8 p.m. on MAX

Best known to many for her series roles in “Call the Midwife” and “The Crown” (playing Camilla Parker Bowles in the latter), Emerald Fennell made a formidable feature directorial debut with this 2020 black-comedy thriller, earning an Oscar nod in that capacity and taking the award itself for her screenplay. Carey Mulligan scored a best actress nomination (along with several other accolades) for her fearless performance as a 30-year-old medical school dropout who embarks on a vigilante crusade against men who victimize women. Bo Burnham, Jennifer Coolidge and Alison Brie co-star.

The UnXplained

9 p.m. on HIST

The new episode “Mysterious Tombs” examines the centuries-old human ritual of burying the dead, whether it be a simple interment or placing the remains in a cave, a pyramid or some form of tomb. In China, for example, a vast necropolis was constructed as a way for the living to have a sense of contact with their departed past. This episode considers the question of what human beings seek in following these rituals, as well as what secrets may remain hidden in tombs even today.

A Black Lady Sketch Show

"Sneakerella" (May 13)

This modern twist on the classic tale is set in the avant-garde street-sneaker subculture of New York City and follows El (Chosen Jacobs, "Castle Rock"), an aspiring sneaker designer from Queens who must hide his talent from his overburdened stepfather and mean stepbrothers before finding salvation in Kira King (Lexi Underwood), the daughter of a basketball star. (ORIGINAL)

"The Simpsons: When Billie Met Lisa" (Available now)

The Billie of the title of this animated short is none other than chart-topping artist Billie Eilish, who invites Lisa Simpson to the studio to jam with her and her brother Finneas O'Connell after discovering her as she was searching for a quiet place to practice her saxophone. (ORIGINAL)

"30 for 30: Fernando Nation" (Available now)

He may not fit the image of the blond-haired, blue-eyed kid from central casting, but Los Angeles Dodger rookie Fernando Valenzuela's performance in 1981 certainly qualified him for the role of hero. Filmmaker Cruz Angeles tells the story of the pudgy Mexican lefty who pitched the Dodgers to a title and helped revitalize a neighborhood torn apart by the building of Dodger Stadium in the 1960s.

"Expedition China" (Available now)

From DisneyNature and the makers of the 2016 film "Born in China" comes this feature-length documentary that brings viewers to the Central Asian nation to follow a team of adventurers as they explore the world's most remote wildlands within the Chinese frontier. Actress Maggie Q ("Pivoting") serves as narrator.

Natalie Hall

Finding Dory
8 p.m. on WSB
In this sweet 2016 sequel to the 2003 animated blockbuster “Finding Nemo,” Ellen DeGeneres reprises her beloved voice performance as the title character, a plucky little fish with profound short-term memory problems. Moviegoers clearly remembered how much they loved the original movie, though, since they flocked to this follow-up, which racked up the highest global gross of any 2016 animated release and became the third highest-grossing Pixar film ever. The voice cast also includes Albert Brooks, Kaitlin Olson, Ty Burrell, Diane Keaton and Ed O’Neill.

Road Trip Romance
8 p.m. on HALL
Margo (Natalie Hall) is overjoyed to be the maid of honor in her sister’s wedding, which is taking place in Wichita, Kan., in three days. Margo needs to be there as soon as possible, though, to oversee the bachelorette party and the rehearsal dinner before the big day. Sharing the ride with her is Alden (Corey Sevier), who competed with her throughout high school and is also due in Wichita for her father’s retirement celebration. Julia Borsellino and Elana Dunkelman also are featured in this 2022 romantic comedy.

tonight's PICKS

Vanessa Lachey

9-1-1

8 p.m. on WAGA

A workday gets off to a characteristically weird start for the members of the 118, who race to a cliffside wellness retreat to rescue its resident guru after his disciples turn on him in the Season 5 finale "Starting Over." Later, they respond to a distress call at an upscale hair salon. On a more personal note, Maddie (Jennifer Love Hewitt) ponders returning to work, while Eddie and May (Ryan Guzman, Corinne Massiah) make plans for their future and the 118 gathers for a surprise wedding.

Downton Abbey

8 p.m. on WXIA

Many original cast members from the blockbuster PBS historical drama series returned for this 2019 big-screen sequel, for which "Downton Abbey" creator Julian Fellowes contributed a screenplay that somehow managed to satisfy legions of fans and a majority of film critics as well. The film opens in 1927, as the household staff prepares for a visit by the King and Queen (Simon Jones, Geraldine James). Returning cast members include Hugh Bonneville, Elizabeth McGovern, Maggie Smith, Michelle Dockery, Laura Carmichael, Jim Carter, Brendan Coyle, Joanne Froggatt and Phyllis Logan.

There's no 'Match' for Baldwin this time

Q: Given the news of recent months concerning Alec Baldwin, will "Match Game" be back this summer? – Joel Rogers, via email

A: Apparently not. It isn't on ABC's roster of returning game shows, and that's not all that surprising under the circumstances. Baldwin would have had to have been making new episodes recently as both host and executive producer, and anyone who keeps up with the news knows that he has had other concerns.

From the network's standpoint, it's also a matter of whether it wants to showcase a Baldwin who appears lighthearted and wisecracking – which is his "Match Game" persona – while he's involved off-camera in other matters widely known to be deeply serious. The show always could come back with someone else presiding over it, as Baldwin did in succeeding Gene Rayburn, but that doesn't appear to be in the cards for the immediate future.

Q: Will "Billions" be back for another season? I thought I heard it would be, but after the latest season finale, nothing was said about it on the air. – Don Wallis, via email

A: Yes, it will return to Showtime for another round ... and since nothing of it has been filmed yet, that's probably why nothing was shown. However, you can bank on – spoiler alert! – the presidential aspirations of tycoon Mike Prince (played by Corey Stoll) getting a big focus. Chuck Rhoades' (Paul Giamatti) fate has gone in the opposite direction, which is known to happen on "Billions," but don't count on it staying that way forever.

"Just being able to go sit at the piano and find the intervals and the chords that helped me express how sad I felt or how kind of discombobulated I felt ... you know, that's still where I go. It's that thing that changes the molecules, that gives me a way out." – Sheryl Crow of "Sheryl" on Showtime
