Georgia Votes 2022: Primary Election

Newton County voters decide party nominees

Runoffs slated for June 21 likely in various races

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Democrat and Republican nominees for numerous county, state and congressional offices to go head-to-head in the midterm General Election in November were mostly decided after ballots from Tuesday's primary election were tallied.

In Newton County, contested races included Board of Commissioners seats in District 2 and 4, as well as Board of Education District 3.

In District 2, incumbent Democrat Demond Mason was seeking reelection to the Board of Commissioners, but he faced opposition from Democrat challengers Earnest Simmons, Steven Rhodes and Dwayne Stephens. Donnie Bryant was running unop-

Commencement ceremonies held for Newton County Schools

COVINGTON, Ga. — More than 1,300 students made up Newton County Schools' Class of 2022 — a class that many district staff and administrators believe is destined for greatness.

Commencement ceremonies for Alcovy, Eastside and Newton high schools were held this past week inside Homer Sharp Stadium in Covington. During each ceremony, Superintendent Samantha Fuhrey shared parting wisdom to each group of seniors.

"Stay focused on your goals and visions for the future," she said. "Seek advice often ... Don't be afraid to ask for help. Don't try to go it alone."

Fuhrey said there were four "life-and game-changing" words each student should remember as they embark on the next chapter of their lives.

"Listen to your parents," she said. "Your parents are wise, and their experiences and failures have equipped them to be your guide as you enter life after high school."

"Listen to them," Fuhrey continued. "Trust me on this one."

Eastside's commencement ceremony was held Wednesday, May 18. Before diplomas were presented, Assistant Principal Bart Buff shared that the class comprised of more than 320 students had been awarded $13.1 million in private, academic and athletic scholarships to date. He said that total was "the product of your hard work and perseverance."

Eastside Principal Jeff Cher voiced his appreciation of his students and their accomplishments.

"You've continued the legacy that Eastside graduates excellence, and I'm going to miss each and every one of you," he said.

Cher said he takes time each day of school to remind students that there is no such thing as an unimportant day or unimportant person. And he chose to impart that same wisdom one final time to the Class of 2022.

"We charge you to take the next steps in this world with the full awareness of the investment of time and love poured into you by your family, teachers, counselors, coaches, administrators, community members and all who have assisted in the journey thus far," Cher said. Board of Commissioners

BOC continues disagreement over COVID relief funds

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — The Newton County Board of Commissioners recently continued their yearlong series of disagreements over distribution of federal COVID relief funds.

Board members voted not to consider approving a request to amend the agenda to add projects funded with federal American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds reserved for an individual district.

County commissioners late last year agreed to have $1 million in ARPA funds reserved for each commissioner to use for projects in their districts as part of the county's $10.8 million share of first-round ARPA funding.

The remainder is being distributed in other areas, including to county residents through an application process administered by the Salvation Army for assistance with utility and housing costs related to loss of income during the pandemic.

District 3 Commissioner Alana Sanders said the Board's ARPA subcommittee recently discussed use of commissioners' ARPA funds for two nonprofits, including ViewPoint Health and the Newton County Historical Committee which organizes the annual Juneteenth celebration in Covington.

"One of those items (ViewPoint Health) was placed on the (May 3) agenda with no issues — why is there a problem now?" Sanders asked, in reference to the Historical Committee.

She noted Chairman Marcello Baner on May 3 allowed three groups to make presentations as part of his usual "Chairman's Report" section that often includes award presentations and presentations from area nonprofits.

Each group then appealed for ARPA funding during their presentations with two of the three groups — Willing Helpers free clinic and

Farmers market opens in Covington

STAFF REPORTS

news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Nearly one dozen vendors featuring a variety of produce, flowers and other products were on hand for the opening of the Covington Farmers Market on Saturday.

During its first full year of operation, the market is scheduled to open at the city's Welcome Center, located at 1143 Oak St., every first and third Saturday through the end of October. Hours of operation are from 9-11 a.m.

The city is still in search of vendors that specialize in fresh fruits/vegetables, animal byproducts, plants/cut flowers, baked goods/bread, bath and body products, pet food and treats, and meats.

Learn more about the Covington Farmers Market and vendor opportunities at covingtonfarmersmarket.com.

Economic Development

Georgia lands Hyundai EV manufacturing plant, up to 8,100 jobs

By DAVE WILLIAMS

Capital Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Less than six months ago, Gov. Brian Kemp announced plans for an electric vehicle manufacturing plant for Rivian east of Atlanta he touted as the largest economic development project in Georgia history.

That record fell Friday as Kemp unveiled an even bigger EV facility, a Hyundai plant west of Savannah expected to create 8,100 jobs when fully built out, 600 more than the Rivian project announced in December. The project also will include a battery manufacturing facility.

"We are proud to welcome Hyundai Motor Group to Georgia as we forge an innovative future together," Kemp said during a signing ceremony at the plant site off Interstate 16 in Bryan County. "With this announcement ... we will continue working to make Georgia the premier destination for quality companies who are creating the jobs of today, tomorrow, and beyond."

"The U.S. has always held an important place in [Hyundai Motor Group's] global strategy," added Euisun Chung, executive chairman of the Korean auto manufacturer. "We are excited to partner with the state of Georgia to achieve our shared goal of electrified mobility and sustainability in the U.S."

Hyundai will invest $5.54 billion in the new plant, and non-affiliated suppliers will invest another $1 billion.

State and local economic development leaders have been working on landing Hyundai for some time. The 2,923-acre "mega-site" was purchased jointly by the state and the Savannah Harbor-Interstate 16 Corridor Joint Development Authority last year.

Kemp held initial conversations back in 2019, his first year in office, when he traveled to South Korea with top officials from the Georgia Department of Economic Development.

U.S. Sen. Jon Ossoff, D-Ga., met with Chung and other Hyundai officials last November on a trip to South Korea.

"This multibillion-dollar opportunity for Georgia will create thousands of jobs and grow Georgia's reputation as a world leader in automotive and clean energy manufacturing," Ossoff said Friday.

Hyundai expects to begin construction on the new plant in January, with full production expected in the first half of 2025. Wages for the advanced manufacturing jobs the plant will create will be competitive with the local market.

In choosing Georgia, Hyundai cited speed-to-market, workforce, and the state's ability to meet the company's carbon neutrality standards. Additionally, Georgia is home to an existing network of Hyundai subsidiaries and suppliers.

Kemp's second big economic development win in less than six months came just days before the Republican governor faced former U.S. Sen. David Perdue in the GOP gubernatorial primary.

Perdue had criticized the $1.5 billion in incentives the state committed to spend to lure Rivian to Georgia. During a recent debate, Kemp responded that the 7,500 jobs the Rivian plant is expected to create justify the level of incentives the state offered.

Scholarship winners combine community service with schoolwork

news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Local students who worked in the community as well as the classroom received scholarship money from two local groups recently.

National Action Network's (NAN) Newton County chapter gave $7,500 in scholarships to eight local students during its second annual Scholarship Program.

Covington Woman's Club also recently awarded scholarships of $500 each to three area students.

Woman's Club leaders said every applicant for its scholarships had shown "a marked interest in supporting and volunteering within our local community," according to the club's social media accounts.

"Each and every single one of you should be proud of your accomplishments and your love and dedication to the Newton County community," a club social media post stated.

Covington Woman's Club scholarship recipients and their college choices included:

- Dakayla Fulton-Johnson, Newton High School, who plans to attend Howard

- Dominique Lowe, Alcovy High School, who plans to attend Missouri State University;
- Gabriela Sanchez, Alcovy High School, who plans to attend UGA.

The NAN scholarships included $1,000 each to seven high school students and a $500 scholarship to one college student.

Archie and Bobbi Shepherd were credited with leading its effort to award the financial aid. The recipients were members of NAN and most worked since ninth grade on community service projects, organizers said.

NAN scholarship recipients and their college choices included:

- Josiah Amankwah — Georgia State University;
- Rayven Banks — current Georgia State University student.
- Kyla Clay — Kennesaw State University;
- Isaiah Dawson — Claremont McKenna College;
- Jai Ferdilus — UGA;
- Kaegan Hill — Louisiana State University;
- Dominique Lowe — Missouri State University;
- Saniya Reese — North Carolina A&T University.

nomination. She will face Republican incumbent Trey Bailey, who ran unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Republican Abigail Coggin ran unopposed for reelection to Board of Education District 5.

Also on the ballot were nonpartisan races such as Superior Court judge where incumbents Layla Zon and Cheveda McCamy were unopposed.

Elections for three congressional seats were also featured on the ballot.

In a packed ballot for U.S. House of Representatives District 10, area voters chose from Jessica Allison Fore, Tabitha Johnson-Green, Phyllis Hatcher, Femi Oduwale and Paul Watson for the Democrat nomination.

Republicans chose from Timothy Barr, Paul Broun, Mike Collins, David Curry, Vernon Jones, Marc McMain, Alan Sims and Mitchell Swan.

Staying in the House, Democrats saw incumbent District 4 U.S. Rep. Henry C. "Hank" Johnson, Jr. without an in-party challenger, and Republicans had to decide between candidates Jonathan Chavez and Surrea Ivy for the nomination.

Former UGA football legend Herschel Walker was among a crowded field of Republican candidates vying to challenge incumbent Democrat U.S. Sen. Raphael Warnock for a seat in the U.S. Senate.

Georgia's top government offices including the race for governor, lieutenant governor and secretary of state were also on the ballot, as well as various General Assembly seats and other coveted state positions.

Incumbent Republican Brian Kemp faced a challenge from former U.S. Sen. David Perdue for the governor's office.

While many of the parties' nominees in all races were likely to be decided after Tuesday's election, several races were expected to go to a runoff, scheduled for June 21.

Full coverage of election results may be found online at CovNews.com and in the weekend edition of The Covington News.

Prior to election day on Tuesday, May 24, advance voting had taken place from May 2-20.

In Newton County, early in-person voting increased more than 60% compared to the 2018 midterm, nearly doubling the number of voters, according to the Newton County Elections & Registration office.

Statewide, primaries ended Friday with an all-time high of more than 850,000 voters either casting a ballot in person or returning an absentee ballot, which represented a 168% increase over early voting ahead of the last gubernatorial primaries in 2018 and a 212% jump over early voting turnout for the primaries two years ago.

Republicans cast 483,149 early ballots compared to 368,949 voters who cast Democratic ballots. Independent voters cast 5,303 nonpartisan ballots.

a Family, Career and Community Leaders of America club at a Newton County middle school — telling the Board they needed the money immediately.

Commissioners voted to give a total of $1.08 million of money reserved for their districts, based on them qualifying for the money, and later agreed to have nonprofits appeal first to the ARPA subcommittee rather than directly to the full Board.

District 4 Commissioner J.C. Henderson on May 17 said he also wanted consideration of his ARPA-funded projects placed on the agenda.

He said Banes — who controls what is placed on the agenda but is not a voting member — allowed each group to speak May 3.

Banes responded that commissioners were not asked to give the money immediately but they voted to do so anyway as an emergency measure.

Sanders said Henderson submitted the request for his projects to the Board's ARPA subcommittee in April without final action being taken to place them on an agenda for the full Board.

However, the Board voted 3-2 not to add Henderson's projects to the agenda with commissioners Stan Edwards, Demond Mason and Ronnie Cowan voting not to add the projects and Sanders and Henderson voting for it.

Discussion indicated those opposing the addition to the agenda wanted them to be approved by the ARPA subcommittee first.

Interim County Manager Jarvis Sims said the subcommittee planned to schedule a public meeting to consider all the requests from local organizations for the funding.

The Board has been at odds on the timing and method of distribution of ARPA funds since receiving them in April 2021. Former county manager Lloyd Kerr's contract was not renewed in part because of his cautious response to begin distribution of the funds. Planning for distribution did not begin until about November 2021.

In other action Tuesday, May 17, the Board voted to:

- Approve a $4.9 million bid from CMES Inc. for a realignment and replacement project for the Brown Bridge Road bridge over Snapping Shoals Creek. Funding includes 80% from Atlanta Regional Commission and 20% from SPLOST.
- Renew the county's employee health insurance with Cigna health insurance.

Worker’s legacy should be remembered where he lost his life

Demario Battle was the father of nine. His cousin, Lakeia Kiwii Ashmeade, said in October that the 31-year-old had recently taken a job with the concrete cutting company that was helping to dismantle the Access Road bridge to make way for a new, safer one.

Now, Ashmeade believes a suggestion by a group of Newton residents is a fitting tribute to someone who lost his life trying to make way for a new, safer structure for motorists. The suggestion is to name the replacement bridge for Battle. “I have spoken with some of the family members over the weekend and they think it’s a great idea to name the bridge after Demario,” Ashmeade told The News. “It would be a great reminder of his legacy to him and his children.” Battle was working hard to support his family, Ashmeade told a TV station.

“He was trying to do right,” Ashmeade said.

But Battle lost his life on Oct. 19, 2021, when too much weight was placed on an “over-stressed” section of the bridge and caused a 70-foot section of the structure to collapse.

Battle and two others fell into the Yellow River, along with the bridge section containing a concrete saw weighing more than 1,700 pounds. The saw struck and killed Battle, who was employed by B&D Concrete Cutting of Atlanta, according to a report from the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

A seven-month federal investigation by OSHA determined that Battle’s employer and a Tucker bridge company failed to follow required safety standards that could have prevented the incident.

It determined that B&D and Georgia Bridge and Concrete LLC of Tucker did not conduct a proper engineering survey on the demolition project

The Access Road bridge ran parallel to I-20 near the edge of the interstate’s eastbound lanes. It was built in 1937 and classified as “structurally deficient” which required it to be replaced, a GDOT release stated.

It carried more than 9,000 vehicles per day before traffic was detoured prior to the start of demolition work in October 2021.

Teamwork really does make the dream work

About two decades ago, the renowned phrase, “teamwork makes the dream work” was coined.

Attributed to American clergyman and author John C. Maxwell, the full, original quote was: “Teamwork makes the dream work, but a vision becomes a nightmare when the leader has a big dream and a bad team.”

But what does it all mean, exactly? Maxwell was saying that effective teamwork achieves much more than any one person could ever imagine.

In this past weekend’s edition of The News, readers learned about plans of Newton County Tomorrow, a nonprofit organization founded several years ago with virtually two simple principles in mind: Creating a neutral environment for county and city leaders to come together to collaborate, communicate and plan, and, in turn, ensure the group’s work leads to the betterment of the community and a brighter future for all Newton Countians.

In the midst of rapid growth and a surging community, it’s important to have such an organization in place now more than ever.

Our community has witnessed what teamwork can lead to.

Look at the evolution of Stanton Springs and the Joint Development Authority of Jasper, Morgan, Newton & Walton Counties. What began as simply a concept in the late 1990s has now transformed into arguably the premier industrial areas in the nation. What was once hundreds of acres in farmland and forest is now home — and future home — to billion industries such as Takeda, Meta (formerly Facebook) and Rivian.

We’ve also seen what happens without such teamwork, which was, in part, why Newton County Tomorrow was created in the early 2000s.

Before Alcovy High School was opened in 2006, district administrators developed plans for the county’s third high school without much input from other county organizations and government leaders.

After several meetings for Newton County Tomorrow’s “Growing with Grace” campaign, which included former Newton County Chairman Aaron Varner, the late, former Covington Mayor Sam Ramsey and former Newton County Superintendent Wendell Clamp, the topic of Alcovy High School came up in discussion.

“Why did the Board of Education build Alcovy High School where it did?” Varner asked, according to documents from Newton County Tomorrow. Apparently, access to utilities and public safety services in the area were not fully considered during the school system’s planning process.

“Because I thought we could use some growth down that way,” Clamp

David Carroll columnist

Reagan wouldn’t be pleased with today’s politics

At a recent book signing, a friend asked, “Who’s the most famous person you have met?”

I replied that it was a tie. Although I have seen several presidents in person, the only two I actually exchanged words with were Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan.

I have shared my experience of interrupting Carter’s 1991 Chattanooga Choo Choo vacation before (you can Google it at ChattanoogaRadioTV.com), and later chatted with him again.

In 1988, Reagan hosted a White House Dining Room luncheon with local news reporters from around the nation. I applied to attend, and somehow I was chosen. My employer at the time didn’t want to pay my expenses, but I figured this might be my only White House invitation. So I sprung for the airfare and hotel, and I’m glad I did.

It was an overwhelming experience for a kid from Bryant, Alabama, to be seated among the world’s movers and shakers. The President’s staff had arranged for his Cabinet members and other top officials to be seated at each table so that all of us local yokels could rub elbows with somebody important.

I was assigned to sit next to a well known member of Reagan’s inner circle, and he proved to be rather loose-lipped. He was surprisingly honest, and if I was one of those “gotcha” reporters, I could have gotten him into trouble. But I was not there to rock the boat, and since I was there on my own dime, I felt I was under no obligation to give my employer a free scoop.

When the luncheon began, I got up to snap a picture of the proceedings in an effort to prove to my family and friends that I was actually there. As I was aiming my trusty Kodak Instamatic, a couple of Secret Service agents hustled over to inform me that photos were not permitted. I sheepishly sat down, and the Reagan aide seated next to me said, “They don’t want anyone to know that the servers are all Black.”

The chatty insider had more one-liners as the lunch went on. “Is First Lady Nancy Reagan here?” I asked. Another attendee replied, “I already asked someone. They told me she is visiting Disneyland.” The White House official said, “That figures. Everybody knows she is (expletive) Goofy!” My fellow reporters laughed nervously, and we all nodded in agreement that this fellow should probably not be quoted. Of course, in today’s social media cesspool, his joke would have sparked a national scandal, but that was a different time. Some things were better left unsaid.

Near the end of the meal, the president himself stood at the podium, spoke for a few minutes, and asked for questions. This part was on the record, with no restrictions. Again, even though I wasn’t really on the clock, I figured this was my only chance to play Sam Donaldson. I waited for reporters older and wiser than me to break the ice, and then I raised my hand. President Reagan called on me. This wasn’t televised or recorded, so you’ll have to take my word for it.

The 1988 presidential campaign was underway, and Reagan was prohibited from running for a third term. He was 78 (around the same age as the current front runners for the 2024 election). I asked, “Mr. President, would you run for a third term if you were allowed to do so by the Constitution?” He tilted his head, smiled, and said, “Well...I guess we will never know, will we?”

While reminiscing about that day, I remembered he was an outstanding communicator. In his farewell address from the Oval Office, he said, “We’ve got to do a better job of getting across that America is about freedom: freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of enterprise. And freedom is special and rare. It’s fragile; it needs protection.”

I thought about his friendship with Democratic House Speaker Tip O’Neill, and their willingness to work together, despite their ideological differences. I longed for the days when Supreme Court Justices weren’t best known for their political affiliations.

What would Reagan think about politics in 2022? It’s just a hunch, but my guess is, he would not be pleased.

Commencement ceremonies for Alcovy, Eastside and Newton high schools were held this past week. Between the three schools, the Class of 2022 — a “special” group destined for “greatness” — earned nearly $75 million in private, academic and athletic scholarships.

around you. Because of their support and your hard work, you graduate as citizens that our entire community regards with pride. Class of 2022, you have definitely made the most of every opportunity to learn, grow, develop and reach your fullest potential. You’re an inspiration to me, the staff, our school system, the community and certainly future graduates of our great school. Never forget that there’s no such thing as an unimportant person or an unimportant day, and life passes in the blink of an eye.” Ceremonies for

Alcovy were held the following night, Thursday, May 19. Principal Kristopher Williams said the 423 graduates had received $13.4 million in private, academic and athletic scholarships and been accepted to 56 different post-secondary schools. “Throughout your high school careers, you were able to demonstrate that no hurdle was too high, no obstacle too big to keep you from achieving your goals,” he said. “This class has set the bar extremely high for every class that follows.” Williams also quoted

Martin Luther King Jr. “If you can’t fly, then run. If you can’t run, then walk. If you can’t walk then crawl. But whatever you do, you have to keep moving forward,” he said. Ceremonies for the district concluded with Newton on Friday, May 20. In an address to her more than 580 graduates, Principal Shannon Buff expressed her admiration for a group she described as “special.” “The fact that you are sitting in your blue and white gowns show your resilience and commitment to all the opportunities that being a graduate of Newton High School will afford you,” she said. “I speak collectively for the NHS administrative team when I share that there has always been something special about your class. “The way that you treat each other and the way that you treat those outside of NHS is a testament to your character,” Buff said. “I’ve been incredibly proud of your advocacy and your activism. When you’ve seen others be mistreated or marginalized, you stepped up and pushed for real change ... You give us hope.

“You are the future, and I feel confident in all that you will accomplish.” Buff later quoted former President Barack Obama to say, “Hope is that thing inside us that insists, despite all evidence to the contrary, that something better awaits us if we have the courage to reach for it, and to work for it, and to fight for it.” “You embody the hopes of this community, this state, this nation and this world,” Buff said, “and it has been my privilege to serve as your principal.” Buff said Newton High School’s Class of 2022 earned $48.3 million in private, academic and athletic scholarships, which shattered a previous record of $27 million in scholarships for the Class of 2021. Buff said there were 11 students to earn more than $1 million apiece in scholarship offers. “I believe this Class of 2022 in Newton County is special,” District 1 BOE member Trey Bailey stated on social media. “Mark me. Greatness coming out of this class.” Tom Spigolon, news editor of The Covington News, contributed to this report.

LEGACY:

February and completion date for the new structure was set at Sept. 30, 2022. B&D Concrete Cutting Inc. is a construction contractor specializing in cutting and removal within commercial, industrial, transportation, aviation and health care industries. Georgia Bridge and Concrete LLC — formerly known as Sunbelt Structures Inc. — specializes in bridge and heavy civil construction, the OSHA release stated. OSHA investigators cited B&D and Georgia Bridge — the project’s prime contractor — for not ensuring a competent person had performed an engineering survey before allowing workers to begin the dismantling project, a news release stated. Company personnel also did not ensure procedures were in place to prevent structural parts from being overstressed during dismantling operations — exposing employees to “fall and struck-by hazards,” the release stated. OSHA Area Office Director Joshua Turner said if B&D and Georgia Bridge had conducted a proper survey as required, “the tragic loss of one worker and serious injuries to another may not have happened.” “Established safety standards exist to ensure workers get home safely and don’t leave families, friends and communities to grieve a preventable fatality,” Turner said. OSHA also cited Georgia Bridge and Concrete for failing to keep a fire extinguisher within 75 feet of two equipment refueling stations. Any effort to name the bridge for Battle apparently will have to wait until early 2023 when the Georgia General Assembly convenes. Any naming of bridges on state roads, such as Access Road, requires a joint resolution of both houses of the General Assembly and the governor’s signature before the naming can be done, according to state law. Battle lived in Atlanta but he’s like a lot of Newton Countians — working hard to make ends meet while working to raise a family in trying times. He may not have been a major landowner or politician who often have such structures named for them or their families. But he’s no less deserving. Naming the new Access Road bridge for Demario Battle would keep his name alive and continue to be a “great reminder of his legacy.” *Tom Spigolon is news editor of The Covington News. replied. “Wendell, that ain’t your decision to make,” Varner said. After Clamp asked why he couldn’t be the one to make that call, subsequent discussion led to the formation of a collaborative decision-making process that later became known as the “Leadership Collaborative,” and a decision was made to pay for collaboration as a tool for conducting strategic planning. In addition, a decision was made to include all governments and the chamber of commerce — regardless of monetary involvement. After the collaborative’s initial meeting, guess what board members was discovered? “If one succeeds, we all succeed,” a Newton County Tomorrow meeting minutes stated. “We can achieve more together than we can individually.” Teamwork really does make the dream work. Our View on the Issue is an opinion of The News’ editorial board, which includes Editor and Publisher Taylor Beck and News Editor Tom Spigolon.

Eagles' Williams, Redskins' Stapp headline All-Covington News boys team

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

A few weeks ago, all area boys soccer teams finished their 2022 seasons. With that, The Covington News has drawn up a team highlighting the top performances across the Newton County area. The 2022 team begins with three special honors: Most Valuable Player, Newcomer of the Year and Coach of the Year.

Most Valuable Player
Rodney Williams,
Eastside
Williams, a four-year veteran for the Eagles, seemed to be the leader all season long in 2022. Time and time again, it seemed like when Eastside needed a huge goal, Williams would provide it in one way or another. At the season's end, Williams had a team-high 15 goals on the year as well as eight assists. His efforts earned him a spot on the Second Team All-Region team for Region 8-A-A-A-A-A. Newcomer of the Year

Jed Stapp, Social Circle

a sophomore for the Redskins in 2022, but this year he exploded onto the local soccer scene in a big way. As a sophomore, Stapp led his team in goals with 23 and contributed six assists. Region 8A-Public coaches recognized Stapp's noteworthy season by voting him onto the First Team All-Region. Coach of the Year

Jim Corasaniti,
Social Circle
With a roster with 63% of underclassmen, Corasaniti took the Redskins took unimaginable heights in 2022. Under Corasaniti's direction, the Redskins went 17-3 overall with a 13-1 record in Region 8A-Public. Social Circle also claimed the Region 8A-Public title this season. All of this was accomplished on Corasaniti's watch as the head coach. Here are the top 11 area players (in alphabetical order):

An open letter to area's senior student-athletes

Dear Class of 2022 student-athletes,
As the local sports reporter in Newton County, I've had the privilege to cover your senior seasons and I've been fortunate enough to write how your senior years went on the court or field. It's safe to say that your senior seasons have been packed with so many special occasions, historical moments and everything in between. Thank you to each student-athlete for allowing me the opportunity to share your stories, as a team and as individuals, and tell your stories to our audience at The Covington News. You all have definitely made my first school year as sports editor a memorable one where I've been all over the place to follow your success. Now, I ask one thing of each of you: Go succeed past high school in whatever you do. My job is primarily focused on covering the high schools' athletics and what is going on there, and I love doing that. However, it brings me extra joy to have an update come across my desk saying an alum of Alcovy, Eastside, Newton and/or Social Circle is doing well and succeeding in the next phase of life. So, I encourage each of you to continue putting your best foot forward in whatever you're doing past high school. And, when you accomplish something great, feel free to share it back here at The Covington News so we can continue to highlight your achievements. In the meantime, I wish you all the best with whatever's next. Good luck and God bless!

Tigers 'ready to compete' for another region title

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com
COVINGTON, Ga. — First year head coach Spencer Fortson and the Alcovy Tigers hit the ground running with spring practice the last couple of weeks. The team's spring schedule concluded with a intrasquad scrimmage Saturday. According to Fortson, it wasn't a traditional spring practice for Alcovy. "That first week [of spring practice] was more of trying to see how tough the kids are, see some of their agilities and just see what type of kids we have before we move forward," Fortson said. "The second week we were more focused on trying to do some of our basic stuff scheme-wise. So they can understand some of the things that we're trying to do." The Tigers are coming off a monumental year in 2021 by capturing

Eastside finishes 'first quarter' of team's season

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com
COVINGTON, Ga. — Every year, the Eastside Eagles football team divides their year into four quarters: Spring practice, summer workouts, the regular season and, if they qualify, the postseason. Head coach Jay Cawthon, who's entering his second year at the helm, highlighted how this year's spring practice compared to last year. "I feel more comfortable about being the head guy," Cawthon said. "We have a great staff and I trust them. We have a lot of experienced, older kids. It's been an easier spring than last spring. Our coaching staff does a great job of working the players." Throughout the spring, the Eagles had over 100 student-athletes from ninth through 12th grade come out to participate. Among that group, Cawthon said there've been the program's first ever region championship. But, the goal for the intrasquad scrimmage wasn't focusing on the 2022 regular season, Fortson said.

However, it was all about formulating an aggressive identity.

"We want to be competitive," Fortson said. "We want to find out who really wants to play football. We're looking for guys to come out here and compete and to show us what they got in a game situation."

An added attention to the Tigers this offseason has been the hiring of Fortson, who is in his first ever head coaching role. Fortson was a previously the defensive coordinator for the crosstown rival, Newton Rams.

And, while Fortson highlighted how there has been an noticeable adjustment from coordinator to head coach, he acknowledged how he and the Tigers are "excited" to see what this season holds.

"The kids have been buying into the stuff that we been telling them and introducing to them," Fortson said. "I got a bunch of men around me who is locked in and understands everything we're trying to do. We're ready to make some changes here and keep this program moving forward."

Now that the Tigers' spring practice is over and summer workouts will begin shortly, Fortson highlighted the plan for how the summer will go for Alcovy the next couple of months.

"Our main focus is to make sure to hit the weight room, get into a strength and conditioning program and and try to get about 5-10 pounds on each player. I also want to make sure they understand our philosophy and work on their techniques so we can be the best team when the season starts. We'll be able to see the product of that work and see how far our kids progress."

a lot of kids who have never played football before, too.

However, there is one big goal that Cawthon and his staff sets out to accomplish.

"In the springtime, we want to work on fundamentals," Cawthon said. "We don't worry about anybody else, we worry about ourselves. We try and work on our base stuff and get the young guys used to our verbiage. But really, it's about getting our fundamentals down."

Last season, the Eagles finished third in Region 8-AAAAA at 8-4 overall and 5-2 in region play. Eastside, then, advanced to the second round of the Class 5A playoffs before its season ended on Nov. 19. But there will be some new faces for the Eagles coaching staff this season.

Jamari Brundage will be cornerbacks coach, Casey Shubert will coach safeties and William Wallace will coach the offensive line group.

Cawthon acknowledged how the team has adjusted to the coaching changes.

"We always try and find the people who fit our culture," Cawthon said. "And these guys have fit right in. It's tough for a new coach to come in, but they've taken the bull by the horns and ran right in."

Now, with the conclusion of spring practice, Cawthon and the Eagles will transition to summer workouts.

According to Cawthon, summer work-outs, much like spring practice, is just one step toward the ultimate goal.

"I tell our kids all the time, we're not preparing for the first, second or third quarters," Cawthon said, "it's always that fourth quarter. And, in the summer time, we find out who really wants to be out here when no one is watching and it's just us. And, of course, installing some more just stuff. But, really, it's just us getting ready for the third quarter."

Taming the sweet in the potato

By LYNDA BALSLEV
Tastefood

Hasselback potatoes never fail to get a “wow” at the dinner table. These accordion-shaped potatoes are lovely to look at, and a basting method while roasting ensures that flavor permeates the potato and crisps all the fine edges. Any potato can be prepared this way, including sweet potatoes, which may be the most striking presentation, since they fan out to reveal their orange jeweled flesh while roasting.

To make Hasselback sweet potatoes, choose long, relatively stable and straight potatoes. The key is to cut as many thin slices as possible, crosswise, along the length of the potato. To do this -- without a wayward potato rolling across your cutting board -- slice a sliver of each potato lengthwise along its base to stabilize it on a work surface and in the baking dish to prevent any wobbling or tilting. Then, place the potato on a work surface with a thin cutting board snugged up on either side of it. With a sharp knife, make narrow incisions crosswise in the potato, approximately 1/8-inch to 1/4-inch thick. The cutting boards will prevent the knife from cutting through the base of the potato. If a few bits break off, no worries; just continue to slice them if you can.

Arrange the potatoes in a baking dish and brush them with the spiced oil, making sure that the oil dribbles between all the crevices. Transfer to the oven and roast, basting once or twice if desired. When sweet potatoes roast, they will soften first before they begin to crisp. The potatoes are ready as soon as they are tender. If you decide to cook them longer to further crisp and char them, note that the interiors will be very soft.

Now, a word about a sweet potato’s, well, sweetness: In addition to a being a great source of fiber, vitamins and minerals, these roots have a notable helping of starch. When heated during the cooking process, the starch converts to maltose, or sugar, which delivers and amplifies the potato’s sweetness.

I like to balance this notable sweetness with spices and fresh herbs, which rein in any rowdy sweetness and round out the flavors of the dish.

These potatoes make a wonderful and decorative side dish. For more embellishment, sprinkle crumbled cheese, such as cotija, or crisp bacon bits over the potato and call it a meal.

Hasselback Sweet Potatoes
Active Time: 20 minutes
Total Time: 1 hour,

20 minutes
Yield: Serves 4-6

Ingredients:
4 medium-large sweet potatoes
3 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
1 teaspoon kosher salt, plus extra for finishing
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
1/2 teaspoon sweet paprika
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, plus extra for finishing 1/4 cup chopped fresh herbs, such as parsley, chives or mint

Directions:
Heat the oven to 400 degrees.

Cut a very thin slice lengthwise from the bottom of each potato to stabilize it. Cut each potato crosswise, as thinly as possible (1/8- to 1/4-inch-thick slices), to about 1/4-inch from the bottom without piercing the base. Place in a baking dish or on a rimmed baking sheet lined with parchment.

Whisk the oil, salt, garlic powder, cumin, paprika and pepper in a small bowl. Liberally brush the potatoes all over and in the crevices with the oil.

Transfer the potatoes to the oven and roast until they are tender and beginning to crisp, 45 minutes to 1 hour, depending on the size of the potatoes. Baste once or twice with the oil, if desired.

Remove from the oven and season with additional salt and pepper. Garnish with the fresh herbs. Serve warm.

Help dad kick grilling game into high gear with gift of smoker

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Father’s Day is a great time to show dads how much they’re appreciated. That Father’s Day occurs each June may not be a coincidence, as the end of spring and the start of summer is when many dads kick their grilling game into high gear.

Dads once had few options in regard to how cook their favorite foods outdoors. Thankfully, grills have emerged from their dark ages and entered what must be viewed as their very own renaissance period. A stroll through the outdoor cooking section of a local home improvement retailer will reveal an assortment of grills for sale, each with its own advantages.

In recent years, many outdoor cooking enthusiasts have taken to smoking, a “slow and low” way of cooking that aims to impart smoky flavors to anything from brisket to Thanksgiving turkeys. Foods cooked on a smoker are cooked at low temperatures for long periods of time. Smokers come in many varieties, which reflects their growing popularity. But that variety can make it especially difficult to determine which smoker to purchase, especially for people looking to surprise the special men in their life this Father’s Day.

The following are some popular types of smokers that may delight dads this Father’s Day.

• Kamado grills: Kamado is the Japanese word for “stove” or “cooking range. The Big Green Egg is perhaps the most widely recognizable brand of Kamado grill on the market, though there are plenty of alternatives now available as well. Kamado grills employ vents at the top and bottom to control temperatures, as users can open and close these vents to maintain the appropriate temperatures. Charcoal, typically lump charcoal, is placed in the bottom of the grill and food and water pans are placed on grates above the fire. The oval shape of a Kamado grill directs the smoke and heat over the food, which helps to create the smoky flavor people love. Many people also use Kamado grills to cook more traditional backyard barbecue fare, like hot dogs and hamburgers, which does not require the slow and low method, and some even use theirs to bake desserts or cook pizzas.

• Drum smokers: Drum smokers won’t offer the aesthetic appeal of Kamado grills, but some grilling fans like them because of the build-your-own kits that make the entire grilling experience more hands-on. Build-your-own drum smokers won’t cost nearly as much as more expensive smokers, but Father’s Day shoppers should make sure that Dad will enjoy building the smoker from scratch. Modifications to drum smokers that make it possible to cook with a water pan might be worthwhile, as cooking without such an accessory can make it easy to dry out foods.

• Electric smoker: Electric smokers may be an ideal choice for the father who loves the taste of smoked foods but doesn’t want to spend all day worrying about temperatures and fiddling with vents. Electric smoker users can set the temperature, sometimes via their smartphones, and then spend the rest of their days as they please. A computer within the smoker controls the temperature throughout the day while wood and water pans at the bottom of the device impart a smoky flavor to Dad’s favorite foods.

• Propane smoker: A propane smoker employs gas, typically propane, and utilizes a bottom burner and vents to cook foods placed in the cooking chamber. However, propane smokers do not produce smoke on their own, so users typically place wood chips near the burner for that signature smoky flavor. Much like with electric smokers, it tends to be easier to control temperatures with propane smokers than with Kamado grills or drum smokers.

Smokers are growing in popularity and can make for the perfect gift this Father’s Day.

Pairing wine with select meat cuts

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Wine enthusiasts insist nothing can make a meal more flavorful than a good wine. A great pairing of wine and food can make for a memorable meal that people can savor long after the last dish has made its way into the dishwasher.

It’s easy for novice wine drinkers to become intimidated when tasked with pairing wines. No two cuts of meat are the same, which means a wine that pairs well with one cut may not pair as well with another.

Experts at Wine Folly (winefolly.com) say leaner cuts of meat tend to pair well with lighter wines. For fans of richer, fattier cuts of meat, high tannin wines make for a flavorful pairing.

Consider these pairing suggestions for popular cuts of meat:

Filet mignon is among the most popular and expensive cuts of meat. Wine Folly recommends pairing filet mignon with a Merlot or Merlot-based red blend, a Touriga Nacional or a Mencía. Each of these wines capably complements the subtle flavor of filet mignon and bring out its natural flavor.

New York strip steak should come out tender when cooked correctly.

Metro Creative

The meat experts at Massachusetts-based Butcher Boy Market note that a Cabernet Sauvignon-New York strip pairing is a classic combination. Though red wines are often recommended with meat, Butcher Boy Market notes white wine and champagne pairs well with New York strip steak.

A flavorful cut of steak, the Rib-eye is favored by people who like a big cut of meat. Wine Folly notes a Sonoma or Napa Valley Zinfandel pairs well with grilled ribeyes. High tannin wines can cut through the fat of rib-eyes. Wine Folly also notes wines that have a strong fruit flavor can pair well.

Sirloin is a leaner cut that can still taste great when grilled. Wine Folly recommends a range of reds, and cooks can choose one based on how they’re seasoning the meat or which sauce they’re using. For example, a French Syrah pairs well with butter sauces. Wine Folly also notes Spanish Tempranillo or Montepulciano d’Abruzzo pair well with sirloin.

Amir Arison stars in the season finale of "The Blacklist," airing Friday on NBC.

'Blacklist's' Arison looks back at Aram's challenging Season 9

Season 9 of NBC's "The Blacklist" has been an eventful one for FBI cyber expert turned interim task force chief Aram Mojtabai as well as for the actor who portrays him, Amir Arison.

So far this season, the character has dealt with a colleague's death, went after her killer, saw his software company come undone, faced off against intimidating cohort Red Reddington (James Spader), gotten promoted to a job he didn't want and had a mental breakdown.

It's a lot for anyone to endure, real or fictional. But for the actor in the role, it's a gift and the highlight of Arison's career.

"I couldn't be more grateful for the journey," he says. "When Aram started off in Season 1, I really just thought 'computer whiz with a little comic relief and algorithmic problem solving.' Never would I have guessed that in nine years he would end up being the head of the task force, having gone through multiple romances, trained in the field and facing off against Reddington on more than one occasion. And throughout that process, he's grown. Look, I personally have grown in nine years, getting to work on this show ... It's been a perfect marriage of growth of both me personally and as a character on television."

At this writing, few details were available about the espionage thriller's Season 9 finale, which airs Friday, May 27, save for Arison's cryptic warning that "things happen that you would never expect – to everyone." That sounds pretty ominous, given that the eighth season ended with the shocking death of special agent and fan favorite Liz Keen (Megan Boone).

Meanwhile, NBC has renewed the series for a 10th season and Arison expects to be back at work in the fall. He has a few things going on in the meantime, most notably directing the short film "Tati's Fashion Show," about 8-year-old cancer survivor and artist Tatianna Bernard. And he'll be getting his equilibrium back on track after some of the more difficult storylines for his character late in Season 9.

"It's bigger than I ever could have imagined but it's also even better than I had imagined," Arison says of the role. "It's harder than I imagined and better than I imagined, and so I just never would have guessed I would have had an opportunity like this when I started out as an actor."

Past favorites are 'Back to Win' in Season 12 of 'MasterChef'

There will be a better class of contestants – and thus a high standard by which they're dishes are judged – when "MasterChef" returns for its 12th season this week.

Titled "Back to Win," the new season that opens up Wednesday, May 25, on Fox, brings back some of the most memorable and talented chefs from the show's history. In all, 20 all-stars from seasons past, including two "MasterChef Junior" competitors, will be given the chance to prove they have what it takes, facing the toughest challenges and the most stringent scrutiny of judges Gordon Ramsay, Joe Bastianich and Aaron Sanchez.

In the end, the winner claims the "MasterChef" title along with a $250,000 grand prize and a complete state of the art kitchen from Viking.

"It's like seeing familiar faces," Bastianich says, "so you know the personality, you know the cooking ability. A lot of them shocked us in how much they evolved over the years. Some of them disappointed us but you get right into the meat of it very quickly because you don't have that whole get-to-know-you intro period that's very common on 'MasterChef.' So it's like a family reunion, for lack of a better example."

And these are all folks who have gone on to bigger and better since their last appearance, opening restaurants and catering services, appeared on television, written books and made names for themselves in the industry. So they're full-blown professionals now, and the judges will view their creations through that prism.

"I stop judging and tutoring as I would an amateur home cook," Bastianich explains, "and I start treating them like a line cook in my restaurant and that can be very severe. ..."

"It's just like I walked into my restaurant," he continues. "I see a guy cooking and I see how he holds the saute pan, I see how he plates the dish, I taste the dish. I hold them to that professional standard – of a line cook who makes $22 an hour or $60,000 a year that's cooking professional food that I sell for $30-40 a plate. That's the standard."

And those standards will apply as well to the former "MasterChef Junior" chefs, who for the first time will be competing as adults. For his part, Bastianich welcomed their youthful energy.

"That was the big shocker, too," he says, "the juniors and sometimes bringing the level way higher than the adults. So that was great. It was interesting to see how far some of them make it. Very, very interesting variable putting the kids with the adults. It makes for a great dynamic."

Judge Lynn Toler OF 'COMMIT OR QUIT' ON WE TV

What are your techniques for gaining couples' trust and confidence on "Commit or Quit"?

I really do listen. Most people want to be heard and I let people know that I heard them. That's what I used to do when I was a judge putting people in jail and I used to fuss at them all the time and then you could watch their eyes glaze over. So instead of starting out fussing, you start out listening and you make sure you understand and make sure that they know you understand. And once people think they're understood, they'll be very forthcoming.

You said you don't believe in the old adage of "Once a cheater, always a cheater." Why not?

Because nothing in the human world is that cut and dried. Nothing. There are people who cheat for a variety of reasons. You know, the marriage could be really bad. They could have run into the wrong – people do wrong stuff for a lot of silly reasons. And I don't think that just because you got drunk in Chicago one night (laughs) and you did the wrong thing doesn't mean that's what you'll always do. Sometimes it'll horrify you into not getting drunk in Chicago anymore.

There are also people who cheat because of their own self-esteem issues.

Oh absolutely. Yeah, we've had a couple where one person emotionally cheated so the other person cheated to get back at the emotional cheater and she ended up cheating more than the emotional cheater. And so it was like very situational and you don't know which is first, the chicken or the egg. And I just don't believe that that is necessarily the circumstance that will always continue if it occurred in a unique situation.

Martha Stewart

The Great American Tag Sale With Martha Stewart

8 p.m. on WSB
As any Martha Stewart fan would imagine, the woman who does everything more beautifully than the rest of us has amassed quite a trove of furniture, artworks, housewares and other collectibles over the years. Now, however, Stewart is looking to part with several items, and this special follows her as she puts together one of the most upscale tag sales ever held. Stewart shares stories of how she acquired some of the items, along with practical tips for viewers on how to pull off a tag sale of their own.

MasterChef

8 p.m. on WAGA
The hit culinary competition opens a new season with a history-making theme, inviting back 20 familiar All-Stars who fell short in their earlier appearance on the show, but now are seeking redemption. The mix even includes two cooks who appeared in the junior edition of "Masterchef," but now are competing as adults. Challenges include feeding hungry members of the Coast Guard and vying in a restaurant takeover challenge at Wolfgang Puck's Spago eatery. Host Gordon Ramsay joins the returning Aragón Sánchez and Joe Bastianich on the judges panel.

Chicago Med

8 p.m. on WXIA
Will and Hannah (Nick Gehlfuss, Jessie Schram) clash over the treatment of a patient in critical need of a kidney transplant in the Season 7 finale "And Now We Come to the End." Elsewhere, Crockett (Dominic Rains) faces a difficult decision while Blake (recurring guest star Sarah Rafferty) is in surgery. Meanwhile, Ethan and Archer (Brian Tee, Steven Weber) treat the son of Chicago Med's general counsel. Oliver Platt and S. Epatha Merkerson) also star. NBC has renewed the medical drama for Season 8.

tonight's PICKS

Michael Weatherly
Grey's Anatomy
8 p.m. on WSB
The two-hour finale to Season 18 opens as Grey Sloan Memorial is hit with a blood shortage, so the staff sets up a voluntary donation center. Meanwhile, Nick (Scott Speedman) asks Meredith (Ellen Pompeo) to assist him with a patient, and Winston (Anthony Hill) wrestles with the relationship he has with his brother. Owen's (Kevin McKidd) actions to help his fellow veterans come to light. Chandra Wilson and James Pickens Jr. also star. This series, the longest-running primetime medical drama in TV history, will be back for Season 19.

Welcome to Flatch
9:01 p.m. on WAGA
This quirky sitcom rings down the curtain on its freshman season with a one-hour finale called "Pyramid Scheme; Merry Flatchmas," which finds Kelly (Holmes) accidentally getting involved in a shady scheme selling green juice. Meanwhile, Father Joe (Seann William Scott) helps Shrub (Sam Straley) get into college. Later, after Kelly ill-advisedly is put in charge of her community's Christmas celebration, wholesale disaster ensues. Aya Cash, Taylor Ortega, Krystal Smith and Justin Linville also are featured.

Bull
10 p.m. on WGCL
After six seasons marred by some occasional behind-the-scenes misbehavior, this legal drama closes up shop with a series finale called, quite succinctly, "Goodbye." The story finds Dr. Jason Bull (Michael Weatherly) and the Trial Analysis Corporation team heading to court together one last time to finalize a negligent homicide defense that will change the nature of their company — and, in some cases, their lives — forever. Geneva Carr, Jaime Lee Kirchner, Chris Jackson and Yara Martinez also star.

What's Available NOW On

“Shook” (May 22)

This Disney Channel family comedy series follows Mia (Sofia Wylie, “High School Musical: The Musical — The Series”), a 15-year-old who yearns to dance professionally but is held back by responsibilities to her sister and single mother. Somali Rose, LeShay N. Tomlinson and Wayne Juice Mackins are also in the cast.

“Obi-wan Kenobi” (May 27)

From Lucasfilm comes this limited series that picks up 10 years after the events of “Star Wars: Revenge of the Sith,” where Obi-Wan Kenobi (Ewan McGregor) faced his greatest defeat — the downfall and corruption of his best friend and Jedi apprentice Anakin Skywalker (Hayden Christensen), who turned to the dark side as evil Sith Lord Darth Vader. Moses Ingram, Joel Edgerton, Bonnie Piesse, Kumail Nanjiani also star. (ORIGINAL)

“We Feed People” (May 27)

From National Geographic, director Ron Howard and producer Brian Grazer comes this documentary that chronicles the global effort of renowned chef and humanitarian José Andrés and his team at the nonprofit World Central Kitchen, as they circle the globe to provide healthy food to those affected in disaster zones. (ORIGINAL)

“Bad Boys” (May 27)

Two mismatched Miami cops — one footloose and cocky, the other a henpecked family man — must switch identities to get the cooperation of the sole witness to a murder and reclaim a consignment of drugs stolen right from under their precinct’s “nose.” Martin Lawrence, Will Smith and Tea Leoni star in this 1995 comedy.

tonight's PICKS

Planet Earth: Dynasties
Planet Earth: Dynasties
8 p.m. on BBCA
The new episode “Elephant” takes viewers to Amboseli National Park in Kenya, where a once-thriving family of pachyderms is struggling to keep their calves alive in the wake of their matriarch’s recent death. A new leader may be about to emerge in the form of a pregnant female called Angelina, especially after she gives birth to twins, an extraordinarily rare occurrence among elephants. While that may seem like cause for celebration, however, the odds that Angelina and her family can keep both new arrivals alive are slim.

Murdoch Mysteries
8 p.m. on OVA
Murdoch, Julia and Harry (Yannick Bisson, Helene Joy and recurring guest star Etienne Kellici) join Crabtree (Jonny Harris) and a motley team of amateur athletes for an out-of-town trip to a basketball tournament in the new episode “It’s a Wonderful Game.” That episode title gets an ironic twist, though, when the local mayor is found murdered and basketball’s founder, Dr. James Naismith (guest star Nigel Hamer), seems to be the prime suspect. Daniel Maslany and Thomas Craig also star.

tonight's PICKS

Gillian Anderson

National Memorial Day Concert 2022
8 p.m. on WGTV
Co-hosts Joe Mantegna and Gary Sinise lead a tribute to an absent friend and colleague as this annual PBS holiday event returns to its traditional outdoor setting on the West Lawn of the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., after two years of virtual presentations due to the coronavirus pandemic. Part of the broadcast will commemorate Gen. Colin L. Powell, who usually appeared in these Memorial Day specials before his death last October. Also set to appear are actress Jean Smart, singer Rhiannon Giddens and Broadway star Brian Stokes Mitchell, among others.

Riverdale
8 p.m. on WUPA
After they learn that Percival (guest star Chris O'Shea) is taking advantage of the new crew, Archie and Tabitha (KJ Apa, Erinn Westbrook) devise a plan to shield their workers from this exploitation in the new episode "Chapter One Hundred and Eleven: Blue Collar." Meanwhile, Jughead (Cole Sprouse) has a target on his back after Percival becomes aware of the scheme Jughead and Veronica (Camila Mendes) hatched against Reggie (Charles Melton). Elsewhere, Betty (Lili Reinhart) receives some unexpected news about a dark episode from her past.

The First Lady
9 p.m. on SHOW
In the new episode "Nadir," Eleanor Roosevelt (Gillian Anderson) doubles down on her efforts to confront racism, while Betty Ford (Michelle Pfeiffer) helps husband Gerald (Aaron Eckhart) secure the Republican nomination for reelection, even as her problems with addiction grow worse. Michelle Obama (Viola Davis) grieves after multiple gun violence tragedies and steps up her advocacy for legislative action.

tonight's PICKS

McKenna Grace

Biography: Bobby Brown

8 p.m. on A&E

This new two-part documentary, which concludes Tuesday, charts the ups and downs of polarizing music personality Bobby Brown, with special emphasis on his self-transformation from "bad boy" artist to a responsible husband and father. It has been a journey filled with drama and tragedy, much of self-inflicted, including a harrowing struggle to stay sober and the deaths of two children and Brown's first wife, Whitney Houston. Interviews include Usher, Babyface, Jermaine Dupri, Keith Sweat, and Brown's New Edition band mates Ricky Bell, Michael Bivins, Ronnie DeVoe and Johnny Gill.

Theodore Roosevelt

8 p.m. on HIST

Actor Leonardo DiCaprio and celebrated historian Doris Kearns Goodwin are among the executive producers of this new five-hour docuseries that concludes on Tuesday. The fourth in a series of presidential portraits — preceded by "Washington," "Abraham Lincoln" and "Grant" — this new presentation focuses on the man regarded by many as the first "modern" president. Theodore Roosevelt was justly celebrated as a champion of social justice, a passionate conservationist and a self-proclaimed "bull moose" who once delivered an 84-minute speech while bleeding from a failed assassination attempt.

The Bad Seed Returns

8 p.m. on LIFE

After the homicidal events that left her father (Rob Lowe) dead, Emma (McKenna Grace), now 15, is living with her aunt, Angela (Michelle Morgan), and navigating high school challenges in this new follow-up to the 2018 remake of the classic thriller "The Bad Seed." This temporary veneer of normalcy is about to crack, though, as Angela's husband, Robert (Benjamin Ayres), starts to suspect Emma may not be as innocent as she appears. Kat (Ella Dixon), a new girl at school, also may know some of Emma's past secrets.

tonight's PICKS

Tian Richards

Tom Swift

9 p.m. on WUPA

First seen in Season 2 of another CW series, “Nancy Drew,” Tian Richards returns as brilliant and fabulously wealthy young inventor Tom Swift in this radically reimagined new series inspired by the classic juvenile novels of yesteryear. As the story opens, Tom’s breezy life is shaken by the sudden disappearance of his father, thrusting Tom into a new world wherein he is pursued by a sinister Illuminati-like cabal. He is kept grounded by BFF Zenzi (Ashleigh Murray) and his faithful bodyguard, Isaac (Marquise Vilson). April Parker Jones co-stars.

Chopped

9 p.m. on FOOD

Tonight’s new episode “Desperately Seeking Sous Chef: Battle 1” kicks off a five-part tournament, each episode of which features four chefs demonstrating their culinary skills over three rounds, in which they hope to impress judges Maneet Chauhan, Scott Conant and Chris Santos. Those judges evaluate the chefs on their cooking skills, attitude, leadership and ability to multitask. The best candidate in each of the first four episodes moves on to the finale and chance to win a job offer from Chauhan, Conant or Santos to join their restaurant as sous chef.

Dancing With Myself

10:01 p.m. on WXIA

Inspired by the millions of users who follow the latest dance crazes on various social media platforms, this new reality competition series features a group of everyday people vying each week in a series of high-energy dance challenges designed and demonstrated by show creators and judges Shakira, Nick Jonas, YouTube superstar Liza Koshy and host Camille Kostek. The contestants also must undertake challenges created and submitted by other guest celebrities. Both the resident judges and the audience select which players move forward, but the studio audience picks the ultimate winner.

James Corden's forthcoming 'Late Late' exit: The reasons why

Q: Why is James Corden leaving "The Late Late Show"? – Alex Blake, via email

A: The way he put it in announcing that he'll be leaving the CBS program after next season, he wants to see if he has another chapter left in his career, and he wants the time to explore that. Corden stayed much longer at "The Late Late Show" than he expected to, and though he got to explore such other avenues as movie acting, he had to fit that into very concentrated slots when he took off time from the show.

Corden also has been away from his London home base for large chunks of what will be eight years by the time his "Late Late" run ends, so that's likely a major factor in his decision, too. However, he'll be leaving the legacy of "Carpool Karaoke" and other popular segments that will remain parts of late-night television history forever ... contributed uniquely by him.

Q: I've seen the phrase "planted pilot" used several times lately in reference to certain shows. What does that mean? – Joe Barnes, Columbus, Ohio

A: It refers to an episode of an existing series that doubles as the pilot for a proposed spinoff show. It lets the given network have a chance to determine how the projected program would work, and it's also a way to see how the new series might fare with viewers, based on the ratings for that pilot episode. ABC's "The Rookie" is among the shows to have done this recently, with a couple of episodes centered around a character played by Niecy Nash.

"I am still enjoying this wonderful ride, because we get to travel around the world and there are millions and millions of people that show up and say, 'I will help you sing that song.' It's almost like a fabulous night of karaoke." – Lionel Richie, seen recently on "Lionel Richie: The Library of Congress Gershwin Prize for Popular Song" on PBS

"I just want to wax poetically about (Mandy Moore) for a second. She's played herself from about 16 to 80-something and without batting an eyelash ... being the youngest member of our cast, but seamlessly going through time over the past six years. She's a killer, man." – Sterling K. Brown, seen recently on "This Is Us" on NBC, about his former co-star
