2022 Fuzz Run

Special | Eastside High School junior Grayson Poynter, right, won the 39th Annual Covington Fuzz Run 5K Saturday with a time of 17:26. He stands with 2020 Olympics Bronze Medalist and Newton High graduate Elija Godwin of the University of Georgia track team, who was the official starter for the 5K race that attracted more than 1,000 runners of all ages, according to orionsportstiming.com.

Father and Son Runners

A running bond

Dad, son find workouts made easier through shared passion

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Robert Meller was a soccer player in England when his passion for running was born.

After moving to America, he began to take running more seriously. His son, Henry, saw that at an early age and started running himself when he was in the fourth grade.

Since then, the father-son duo has developed quite a special bond together. And, with that, they each have a running partner all the time.

“Having someone to run with is quite nice, because I would typically run on my own,” Robert said. “After all these years, having someone to run with is pretty special.”

Henry is a sophomore at Eastside and is a member of the cross country and track teams. Robert is an Associate Professor Neurobiology/Pharmacology at the Morehouse School of Medicine in Atlanta.

Robert and his family moved to Covington 12 years ago when he was offered his current position at Morehouse School of Medicine.

Robert and his wife were looking for a small town to settle in and to live in an old house. Little did they know that they were moving to such a vast running community as well.

“There’s people now we see and there’s a lot of acknowledgement and people wave when they recognize you,” Robert said. “There’s a neighborhood here and, with all of the trails, it’s really encouraging people to be out and about. When it’s race day, you’ll see a few people you’ve gotten to know.”

Henry has become so enthralled with running that, when he doesn’t do it after school, it feels weird to his daily routine. And, just like his dad, he has integrated himself into

Two killed in shooting during custody exchange

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Two people were killed Sunday night and a suspect was being held at the county detention center Monday after a shooting during a custody exchange at a residence in west Newton.

The suspect, identified as Marquez Smith, 34, turned himself in to the sheriff’s office after initially being on the run following the incident on Pebble Lane, said spokesman Sgt. Jack Redlinger.

According to Redlinger, deputies Sunday at 6:15 p.m. responded to a home at 60 Pebble Lane in reference to a report of a person being shot.

A man and woman earlier had arrived at the location in a vehicle to drop off the woman's 15-year-old daughter. However, the 15-year-old said she did not want to get out and go into the house with Smith, who is her father, Redlinger said.

The suspect then allegedly walked back into the house, retrieved a handgun, came back outside to the vehicle and shot both the man and woman, Redlinger said.

The two victims then attempted to drive away in the car but ultimately hit a mailbox — where deputies say they found them, the spokesman confirmed.

The man driving the car was pronounced dead on the scene. The woman died in the ambulance while being taken to the hospital, Redlinger said.

No information was given on the victims’ identities, nor information about if the girl was injured.

After the shooting, Smith left the scene driving a silver 2008 Ford F-250 pickup truck. He made contact with Sheriff Ezell Brown around

Newton County Tax Commissioner

Superintendent says tax collection change will cause ‘instability’

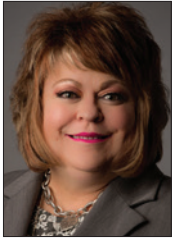

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County's school superintendent says she is concerned any change in how property taxes are collected could force it to pay interest on a loan to meet immediate operational expenses.

But Tax Commissioner Marcus Jordan told The Covington News he is not changing how his office sends the school system its monthly tax disbursements, including those from the previous month's tax collections from motor vehicles and property.

Jordan has been publicly defending the latest property tax bills sent by his office amid complaints that he is requiring payments be made in a lump sum by Dec. 20 rather than the usual method of allowing two installment payments in October and December.

Samantha Fuhrey

He also has defended his assertion that his office has never sent tax bills to mortgage companies.

Superintendent Samantha Fuhrey of the Newton County

School System said she was concerned any changes in how tax payments are collected could delay disbursements to the school system.

Such a delay would require the school system to apply for a Tax Anticipation Note (TAN) — typically a short-term bank loan on which it would have to pay fees and interest.

"Unfortunately, we have experienced delays in disbursements for the last couple of years and we have been forced to use our reserve funds to make up the difference," Fuhrey said.

Fuhrey, who has served as superintendent since 2012, said the school system "historically" received a disbursement in November from October installment payments and in January from December final payments by taxpayers.

Missing Person

Car similar to one missing woman driving found off I-20

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton sheriff's deputies said they found a vehicle off I-20 Monday, Sept. 12, that has some similarities to one Covington resident Yolanda Brown drove before she went missing recently. The vehicle was transported to the GBI headquarters in Decatur for a thorough investigation, said spokesman Sgt. Jack Redlinger of the Newton County Sheriff's Office.

Yolanda Brown

Numerous media reports also stated a body was found in the vehicle but Redlinger said he could not confirm those reports.

"I cannot comment as to the contents of the vehicle or if a body was located inside the vehicle. This is an active ongoing investigation and Yolanda Brown is still considered missing," he said.

At about 2:19 p.m., Monday, deputies located a vehicle off the roadway in the woods off I-20 westbound in Newton County, Redlinger said.

"The vehicle has some similarities as that of Yolanda Brown's vehicle," he said.

Police cruisers lined the side of I-20 near the Alcovy Road exit and a TV news helicopter hovered over the area following the discovery.

Brown has been missing since leaving the Irish Bred Pub in Hapeville in the early morning hours of Sept. 3, family members said.

Sheriff's deputies and Georgia State Patrol officers lifted off from Covington Municipal Airport Sept. 7 in a helicopter as part of the search over the Newton County area.

Deputies then searched I-20 at Almon Road on foot Sept. 8 for evidence relating to Brown's disappearance.

Brown, 53, drives a 2020 black Chevy Impala with Georgia tag CUQ6437. She was last seen wearing a black T-shirt dress with the number 10 on it in white, a bracelet, a watch and sneakers, the sheriff's office said.

WSB-TV reported

a surveillance video showed Brown leaving the bar in the early hours of Sept. 3. Family members said the video showed her talking to a man for two hours inside her car before he exits the vehicle, gets into an SUV and follows Brown out of the parking lot.

An attorney for the family said Brown's cell phone "pinged" from a location in Newton County.

Family members also are concerned about her health because she suffers from lupus and PTSD, Fox 5 News reported.

"I am concerned that another delay could potentially cause the system to need to apply for a Tax Anticipation Note, which would not be necessary if the school system received its disbursement according to schedule," Fuhrey said. "Changing the tax collection schedule results in a change in the disbursement schedule, which creates instability in our funding mechanism."

She said system officials are "working to project whether the school system reserve funds will cover expenditures through Dec. 31."

"As such, we will plan with our financial institution to move quickly should a TAN be necessary to cover operational expenses."

She said the school system already pays the Tax Commissioner's office a 2.5% collection fee totaling $1.8 million that could be used for school system operations. The additional cost of fees and interest for a TAN would further decrease needed revenues, she said.

"If the disbursement schedule did not change, the need for a TAN would not exist," she said.

Jordan said his office sends a monthly payment of money collected from the previous month's tax collections from motor vehicles and property to the school system.

Fuhrey said Jordan is "technically correct" about the monthly payment.

"However, the issue lies with the installment due dates and the lack of notification regarding any changes to the installment due dates," Fuhrey said.

"In past years, there have been installment dates listed on the tax bill falling in October and December, allowing the school system to receive a large portion of the revenue in November and the remaining portion in January. This has been our revenue pattern for many years."

"The property owners of Newton County received a tax bill without any mention of installment due dates. There is only one due payment date listed on the bill which falls in December 2022," Fuhrey said.

As a result, the school system will not receive the majority of its funding until January 2023, she said.

"So, while there is no change in the date that we typically receive our monthly funding, there will be a significant change in the amount of funding that we will receive in November 2022."

"The school system was not made aware of any changes to the installment pay structure prior to the tax bills being mailed. As a result, we will again face delays, as we have over the last two years, in receiving property tax revenue."

District 1 County Commissioner Stan Edwards recently wrote on his Facebook page that the county government was looking into whether the Board of Commissioners were legally required to approve any changes the tax commissioner makes to a collection schedule.

But Jordan told The Covington News the Board of Commissioners has never required two due dates for installment payments on residents' property tax bills since he took office in January 2001.

the running community. “On the few days I have gone straight home, it’s definitely been awkward when I realize, ‘Hey, I’ve got nothing to do now,’” Henry said. “ But I’ve met tons of people here. I can barely go for a walk without finding someone I know. It’s ingrained in me now. I know everywhere I run, I’ll probably see someone I know.” Both have been running together for close to six years. Currently, Henry and Robert still run together every other weekend, on average. According to Robert, there’s been quite the shift between their finishes from when they first started. “When we first went on runs, it would be me running ahead and having to slow down,” Robert said. “Now, he’s zooming ahead and I’m having to catch up.” Though Henry has surpassed his dad running, Henry recognized his dad as a big motivation for him to improve. Henry can recall special lessons Robert shared with him through the years. “I always remember the one thing he would tell me, ‘Run the entire thing. Don’t walk any of it.’ That was a big motivation,” Henry said. “So, everytime I run I always think of that and make sure I’m running the entire race and pushing myself to the limit every mile.” It wasn’t until Henry was entering his freshman year at Eastside when he decided to run competitively. His neighbor and teammate, Grayson Poynter, formed a friendship with Henry to help persuade him to give it a shot. After running the summer between his eighth and ninth grade years, Henry decided to join the Eagles’ cross country squad. “I knew I could run the distance,” Henry said. “I conditioned over the summer and got into it and was like, ‘OK, I’m pretty good at this.’ And I just stuck with it.”

Henry’s cross country career has taken off during his sophomore year, too. The speed he’s built through running with Robert has helped improve his finishes exponentially. In his two meets competing this season, Henry has placed in the top 10. Since Henry joined the Eagles’ cross country team his freshman year, he’s noticed a huge increase of runners participating in the program. “Our team has grown significantly,” Henry said. “We’ve got five to six new people. We’ve just been bringing people in every single year. So, it’s grown and we have a pretty good size team now.” Henry can vividly remember the moment he started gaining speed in his running. “Running the Covington 5K last year and that is when I was really taking off with my own running style,” Henry said. “I remember just splitting off from him and it seems real symbolic now that I’m at a different stage.” In fact, Robert showed Henry at a young age how to approach running hills — it’s a lesson Henry remembers today. “An old trick I used to tell him was to count strides going up the hill,” Robert said. “It’s a trick to not think of the hill, but just think of what you’re doing. When he was younger, he would count his strides up hills, but I guess he doesn’t need to now.” Now, even though Henry runs competitively with Eastside’s cross country and track teams, he debunked the idea that there’s a competition between him and his dad. Instead, it’s more of an appreciation for each other. Henry said that he is always trying to reach Robert’s level of running. But Robert feels as if his son has surpassed him as developed into his own runner. “You have to let someone find their own style — How they approach long strides, short strides, what running shoes they wear — I think he’s in a stage where there’s no point in me trying to coach him,” Robert said. “He has to really develop his own style.”

Emory, UGA, Ga. Tech make U.S. News list of top universities

BY DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Emory University ranks as the 22nd best university in the nation, while the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech are among the top 20 public universities, U.S. News & World Report announced Monday. Many of the schools ranked ahead of Emory on the magazine’s annual list are Ivy League colleges and other universities with long-standing reputations for academic excellence, including Duke University, the University of Chicago and Vanderbilt University. Emory tied at the 22nd spot with Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh. Meanwhile, U.S. News ranked Georgia Tech as the 15th-best public university in the country, while UGA is 16th, tied with Ohio State University. UGA was ranked in the 16th spot for the second year in a row, marking the seventh straight year the university has placed in the top 20 for public universities. “The consistency of our national ranking is a testament to the commitment of our talented faculty, staff and students; the generosity of and support of our loyal alumni and friends; and the effectiveness of our vision and strategy to reach new heights of academic excellence,” UGA President Jere Morehead said Monday. Georgia is one of only four states to land more than one institution among the top 20 public universities.

Who has a problem with Black hobbits?

A little over a week ago, Amazon Prime debuted their multi-million wild swing of a project, “The Lord of the Rings: The Rings of Power,” a ridiculously expensive television show set in J.R.R. Tolkien’s beloved Middle-Earth.

Rather than retelling the story, already canonized on film by Peter Jackson’s popular and award-winning trilogy, of “The Lord of the Rings,” this new show is a prequel, telling us the story of a different group of men, elves and hobbits thousands of years before Bilbo Baggins ever found a ring while wandering in the dark under the Misty Mountains.

It’s a gorgeous endeavor, nearly on par with the film trilogy values as visuals and production values go. The story is harder to judge, being only a few hours into a saga meant to last several seasons, but I’m cautiously optimistic so far.

Not everyone is as pleased. Some of the Tolkien diehards are incensed by various changes to the canon — some necessitated by what parts of the Tolkien mythos the show does and does not have legal rights to, others simply the sorts of changes any creative undertaking must make in adapting a work from one medium to another.

Listen, I already accepted I won’t enjoy every adaptation choice back in 2001, when Jackson shuffled the timeline of “Fellowship of the Ring” to cut to the chase in his shot at the saga. The show’s changes are acceptable enough in my book.

There’s another contingent of naysayers with a different complaint that have caught the skeptical attention of a weary internet audience. You see, the showrunners of “The Rings of Power” have, in the usual push for diversity, cast multiple brown and Black actors as various elves, dwarves and hobbits (or Harfoots, as these halflings prefer to be called at this point in history).

Was this ever intended by Tolkien? Hard to say. The same man who never saw a tree he couldn’t spend half a page describing in vivid detail was always a bit skimpy on character details.

Sure, Middle-Earth is essentially fantasy Europe, but if you think actual medieval Europe was lily white, you haven’t heard of things like trade routes, the Silk Road and the like. Yet these reactionaries act as if the new show is an affront to the legacy of Tolkien’s work just by casting a black guy as an elf.

There’s a word for that sort of reaction, and it rhymes with “racist.” Oh, wait, that is the word.

We’ll never know Tolkien’s reaction to this show. Probably not terribly positive — he was a perfectionist with strict ideas of what’s acceptable in fantasy, to the point he despised “Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs,” of all things. But we can judge the show for ourselves, and we can also judge those who can only accept it on white supremacist terms.

Hageman’s home-state focus beat Cheney by a landslide

Harriet Hageman is the environmental lawyer who defeated incumbent Rep. Liz Cheney by a landslide in Wyoming’s much-watched Republican House primary. Hageman, who will surely trounce token Democratic opposition in the general election, is now getting ready to take office. She was in Washington last week — not for that preparation, but to argue in a lawsuit against the Environmental Protection Agency over its disastrous actions causing the Gold King Mine disaster in Colorado in 2015. That’s the kind of thing she does in her life as a lawyer.

While in Washington, Hageman sat down for an interview about the race against Cheney — how she won, what it means, and what she plans to do when she takes office.

How did she beat Cheney? Two reasons. “One is, I’m a good candidate, and I’m going to be a good member of Congress,” Hageman said. The other was: Hageman ran a race centered on Wyoming. She discussed her 30-plus years as an attorney working on “water and natural resources issues, property rights, constitutional rights,” representing the state’s ranchers, farmers, energy producers and more. “I have been fighting for Wyoming,” Hageman said. “I wasn’t just running against Liz Cheney, which I think is what some people, especially back in D.C., might think. I was running for Wyoming. I was running to address the issues that are important to us.” That’s how to win in Wyoming.

Cheney’s biggest problem, as Hageman saw it, was that many voters believed she had become disconnected from Wyoming. Cheney was seldom in the state, Hageman said, and “never answered for her votes, never answered for the decisions she made.” Cheney, Hageman concluded, “simply abandoned Wyoming, [and] I think what it exposed was that she had used Wyoming for the last six years as a mechanism to get power, but she didn’t actually represent Wyoming’s interests.”

That’s how you lose races, when voters become convinced that you have gone Washington, that you are focused inside the Beltway, that you have forgotten the people who sent you there.

So Hageman won. Now what? A conversation with her reveals the depths of her feelings about her home state, especially its natural resources, and a broad suspicion about the motives and competence of federal regulatory agencies that routinely tell Wyomingites how to use those resources.

The state is the largest producer of coal in the nation — more than three times as much as West Virginia and six times as much as Pennsylvania — and one of the largest producers of oil and natural gas. It has huge deposits of uranium and is a major cattle producer. Hageman likes to say that Wyoming puts food on your table, gas in your car, a roof over your head, and it paves your highways, too. The problem is, a lot of people involved in those industries — coal, oil and gas, mining, beef — feel under attack from the Democratic administration and the liberal activist groups that support the administration. They feel that way, of course, because they are under attack. “Wyoming is one of the largest targets of the Biden administration in terms of attempting to destroy our economy,” Hageman says.

So her goal in Congress is to stop that, or at least fight back. Ask her for specifics, and she goes into detail not just about coal and oil and gas, but about things like the “Roadless Rule,” by which the government bans timber cutting and most other uses of federal land. (Forty-eight percent of Wyoming’s land is owned by the federal government.) She speaks at length about BLM, by which she means not Black Lives Matter but the federal Bureau of Land Management. She can discuss in great detail the issue of RFID ear tags — devices that federal regulators want to require for every head of cattle in Wyoming.

These are not flashy, sexy issues that attract news coverage in Washington, which has instead been consumed by the made-for-TV episodes of Cheney’s Jan. 6 committee. But they are issues about which many Wyomingites have strong feelings.

For years, Hageman has given a speech she calls “Regulation Without Representation.” Congress has abdicated its lawmaking role to the federal regulatory agencies, she says. It is time to cut down and pull back those agencies’ power and reach, and have Congress return to its proper role of making laws that are then enforced by the executive branch. It’s a classic conservative critique of the regulatory state and government overreach. And that is a very popular view in, among other places, Wyoming.

Harriet Hageman talked about it a lot in the recent campaign. Liz

I saw a billboard recently for a psychic who would reveal your future. I just laughed.

In my youth, while reeling from a break-up, I paid 10 bucks to have my fortune told. A young woman with a bizarre accent studied my palms.

She took my 10 bucks, and then assured me that I would reunite with my lost love, and my happiness would be restored. Nothing she said came true, and she certainly didn’t predict that I would soon begin a long marriage with a Pennsylvania girl. If she had, I would have asked for a refund, because I didn’t know anyone outside my zip code.

At that time, I was fascinated by psychics. Several nationally known psychics appeared often on TV talk shows, and were featured in local and national newspapers. They certainly seemed legitimate. One lady had claimed to predict the assassination of President Kennedy, and she cashed in on that for decades. Looking back, that would be an odd thing to have on one’s resume’, but it paid off for her.

A local TV station would occasionally interview a psychic named Doc Anderson. With his mustache, goatee, and deep southern drawl, he was right out of central casting.

He billed himself as a “psychic to the stars,” dropping names of various celebrities who traveled to Rossville, Georgia, to seek his advice. He often told of an aging actor who was no longer getting parts, and was considering retirement. Doc told him, “No, you’re about to get the offer of a lifetime.” Soon after, the actor was starring in a CBS sitcom that made him very wealthy. So when you see reruns of Eddie Albert sharing the screen with Eva Gabor and Arnold the Pig on “Green Acres,” Doc gets the credit (or the blame).

Doc even published a book, so my childhood self saved up the money to purchase a copy. I’ve kept it all these years, and dug it up the other day to see how accurate he was.

The answer: not very. The book was written in 1970, and he predicted greatness for Alabama governor George Wallace, who would “soon be elected president.” Swing and a miss, Doc.

He also predicted “a pill that would cure cancer, once and for all, by 1980.”

Among his other sure things for the 1970s: a cure for the common cold, the division of Texas into three states, and giant screen color televisions for $35.

Sadly, Doc Anderson met his own demise in 1980, drowning in the raging flood waters of Chattanooga Creek. It would be tacky for me to comment on the apparent irony of that, so you may draw your own conclusions.

I haven’t noticed any of today’s clairvoyants taking credit for their foresight of what has happened in the 21st century. Perhaps that’s because what we have lived through in recent years would have seemed outrageous if predicted in advance.

The COVID-19 pandemic was

Area leaders meet to discuss common public health efforts

STAFF REPORT

news@covnews.com

CONYERS, Ga. — Three county commission chairpersons recently got together with one goal — to sustain and strengthen bonds in public health, mental health and communications.

Gwinnett County Chairwoman Nicole Hendrickson planted the seeds for the idea of what's now named the Tri-County Collaboration Meeting.

The inaugural event, hosted by Rockdale County Chairman Oz Nesbitt, also included Newton County Chairman Marcello Banes, GNR Public Health Director Dr. Audrey Arona, and View Point Health Director Jennifer Hibbard.

"I'm excited to participate in this partnership, and I will continue to build a strong relationship with Chairman Oz Nesbitt, Chairwoman Nicole Hendrickson and Rockdale and Gwinnett counties," Banes said in a news release. "This will be great for our communities and our region as we continue to push forward together."

Hendrickson said the counties have a shared public health and mental health district which allows its leaders to talk about strategies, successes and common barriers "so we can forge solutions together."

"I am committed to strengthening this partnership with my neighboring counties because it will ultimately enhance the services for residents in this district," she said.

Nesbitt said collaborative discussions and networking "have always been important and ongoing between Rockdale, Newton and Gwinnett counties."

"The culmination of our joint efforts further solidifies our shared vision toward a unified understanding and commitment for coordinated, focused public health and mental health initiatives for our citizens; a strategic review and implementation of business development plans that positively support our communities' growth; as well as our commitment to a purposeful, dynamic understanding of the impact of future transportation, transit and housing needs," he said.

According to information from the meeting, View Point Health was successful with its co-responder model in both Gwinnett and Newton counties.

When a call comes in about a person experiencing a mental health crisis, a mental licensed clinician and police officer will both respond to the scene. This model has been adopted by several cities within the county. As a result, 98% of patients have been diverted from jail to get the care they need.

Talks also centered around COVID-19, with 24/7 PCR Test vending machines being established across the three counties. Arona said the Omicron-adapted booster will be available in September.

Concerning Monkeypox, Arona stated that misinformation about the viral disease has caused widespread panic. She said the virus is typically spread through direct, prolonged skin-to-skin contact to someone with exposed lesions.

NARCAN and the opioid crisis

A number of overdose cases have been reported across the districts. As a result, View Point Health has been working with law enforcement officers to administer NARCAN in emergencies. The nasal spray works as an opioid antagonist and can be lifesaving.

The next Tri-County Collaboration meeting will take place in Gwinnett County.

forecast only by a few scientists, who were largely ignored by government leaders.

And who would have believed that almost half the nation would blame 80-year-old Dr. Anthony Fauci for creating the virus, after 50-plus years of fighting infectious diseases? If his goal was to kill us all, why did he wait so long, and then fail to carry out his "evil plan?"

Could anyone have predicted the attack on the Capitol on January 6, 2021? And if so, would they have predicted it would be led not by foreign foes, but from forces within our own country?

Who in their right mind would have predicted millions of Americans would be in favor of "defunding" the FBI in 2022?

And did anyone predict that three decades after 78-year-old Ronald Reagan was considered ancient when he left the White House, Americans would list senior citizens Joe Biden, Donald Trump, and Bernie Sanders as their top choices in the 2024 election? Each would be well into their 80s by the end of their term.

Finally, here's an accurate prediction. I predict this bad joke will make you groan. Did you hear about the petite psychic who is on the run after being accused of a crime? Police are looking for "a small medium at large."

YORK:

Cheney talked about Jan. 6. As for Hageman and Donald Trump, she certainly benefited from the former president's endorsement. The last time the two talked was the day after the election — "He was pretty happy," Hageman says. Asked if she wants Trump to run for president in 2024 — remember that he won Wyoming with 70% of the vote in 2020 — Hageman said, "If he chooses to do that, I would support him." Asked again if she wants that to happen, she said, "I miss President Trump. His policies were really incredible for the United States, and they were especially incredible for Wyoming."

Those are obviously controversial comments outside the 70% of Wyomingites who voted for Trump. But Hageman saw, and sees, Trump in terms of issues, not controversy. She recalled that when she first met and talked to Trump when he was president, they talked about regulatory reform and energy independence. Those were, of course, two big priorities of the Trump administration, and they are two big priorities, probably the biggest priorities, of Harriet Hageman the lawyer, congressional candidate and, come next year, Wyoming's next member of the House of Representatives.

TITLE TOWN

Liberty Middle School Knights look to add to program’s historical success

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Liberty Middle School football practices have been lively and full of energy as of late and for good reason. The Knights are currently undefeated and have shut out all of their opponents in 2022.

But there’s more than just this year’s success the Knights are excited about.

Liberty’s program is built on a foundation of championships and having players contribute almost immediately on the varsity level of high school football.

Head coach Toby Davis categorized the Knights’ program using two words: Title town.

“Liberty is like a dynasty over here,” Davis said. “When you come here to Liberty, there’s a high expectation of discipline, learning, having the grades and you’re going to have success here. We’re going to lead, shape and mold to help them be successful at the next level.”

Liberty won the NewRock Championship in 2014, 2015, 2018 and 2021. It is coming off a season, too, that Liberty’s football program finished eighth in the state of Georgia.

The Knights have taken it to a new level by not losing a single

Phillip B. Hubbard | The News

The Liberty Middle School Knights are undefeated and the defending NewRock champions game in two years. This year, specifically, they haven’t even allowed a score of any kind to their opponents.

Davis explained his defensive philosophy behind the Knights’ domination.

“Nobody hasn’t even gotten close to scoring on us,” Davis said. “Our defensive success is being able to adjust and adapt to anything. We have to adjust to the run, the pass and prepare for everything. These guys we’ve got can do both. They’re more dynamic. They are prepared for any offense you throw at them.”

Davis said the carry over from last year’s success is largely due to the amount of seventh graders who returned for their eighth grade seasons.

Players such as Adryan Cole, Brandon Nolley, Martez Jones, Chris Paggett, Azeir Johnson, Makai Robinson, Jordan Brown and Tony Smith were mentioned by Davis as leaders for this year’s team.

Cole leads the team with five rushing touchdowns and, on defense, has 18 tackles and three sacks. Paggett has two touchdowns as well as 10 tackles and two sacks. Nolley recorded three touchdowns and 20 tackles defensively while forcing three fumbles. Jones has three rushing touchdowns and one passing.

Johnson, who Davis labeled as a “defensive machine,” has eight sacks and 18 total tackles. Brown also recorded 21 tackles along with three sacks.

Lastly, Robinson has a pick-six on defense that he returned 55 yards for a touchdown.

In highlighting individual players, Davis recognized that it’s been a team effort all season.

“We have kids on the field right now who are solid players who really want to learn and want to listen,” Davis said. “Even the younger players are eager to learn and understand their positions.”

The aforementioned players will be freshmen in high school next season.

Davis firmly believes they can join the long list of talent that Liberty has produced to go play varsity football and be successful.

Seeing his players go to high school and be successful is the best part about coaching middle school football for Davis.

“I like to see young men grow,” Davis said. “I want to see guys, when they leave here, they’ll be ready for the next level. And they’re going to have the IQ to play on the next level and compete.”

Before this group of eighth-graders depart from the Knights’ program next year, they have one goal in mind: Repeat as NewRock champions.

And they’ve been working hard to accomplish just that, according to Davis.

“On the field, you’re only seeing the finished product,” Davis said. “No one knows what they went through to get there. No, they’re not just good, they’re going to be great, because of all the work they’ve put into it.”

But winning back-to-back NewRock Championships won’t be easy to do.

Davis has full faith, though, that the 2022 Knights can add to the steep history of success at Liberty Middle School as long as they do their part.

“[The players] need to understand that when they go out of the field they need to continue to win,” Davis said. “Because opponents are coming to give you their best game. We always have to have the mindset to go in there playing to win, not just to sit out there and say, ‘Hey. I’m out here.’”

Freshman was spark for Rams against McEachern

Phillip B. Hubbard | The News

As a freshman, Deron Benson has moved his way to No. 2 on the quarterback depth chart for the Newton Rams.

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — In the second half against McEachern Friday night, the Newton Rams had a new quarterback under center, Deron Benson.

Benson, a freshman, came in the game and threw two touchdowns and provided a spark for the Rams’ offense.

Head coach Camiel Grant Jr. and his staff were not at all shocked with Benson’s performance in relief of junior Riley Scruggs.

“When he first arrived here in the spring, I think all of us looked at each and said, ‘This kid is pretty advanced,’” Grant said. “We’ve been aware of what type of football player he could potentially be since day one.”

The decision to insert Benson was made during halftime. Benson was notified to “get loose” at intermission and prepare to play the final 24 minutes.

Benson admitted he was nervous but, as the game progressed, he became more at ease on the field.

“After the first drive, I got all the jitters out,” Benson said. “I just got used to the game and the speed we have to play with.”

Both of Benson’s touchdowns were to junior

Marcus Calwise. Throwing touchdowns as a freshman playing Class AAAAAAA football in Georgia was quite the experience for Benson.

“I was really proud of myself,” Benson said.

Benson’s outing against McEachern has seemed to solidify his spot as the second quarterback for the Rams this season. And, since he began playing football at a young age, he’s envisioned being a Ram and leading this football team.

“I’ve been looking up to Newton since I was 6 or 7 years old,” Benson said. “Now, I’m dressing out and playing in the games as a freshman. I really like it.”

Despite substituting Benson in for Scruggs, Grant declined the notion that there is any type of competition between the two gunslingers. In fact, Grant stressed that the two complement each other well on and off the field.

“Riley is our quarterback,” Grant said. “I’ll say this about him, too, that Riley was the first one to support Deron in that situation. And they have a good relationship already. But we’re not in a Danny White-Gary Hogeboom situation.”

Spinach packs nutritional punch while being flavorful

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Spinach packs quite the nutritional punch, making it a favorite of people who want to eat healthy without sacrificing flavor. Spinach contains carotenoids such as beta carotene, lutein and zeaxanthin which can help to prevent inflammation, reduce cancer risk and prevent potentially harmful eye conditions like cataracts and macular degeneration. Spinach also is naturally rich in nitrates, which have been linked to improved blood flow and low blood pressure.

Though its health benefits are significant, spinach also makes for a flavorful and versatile addition to any meal. Spinach can be used as a topping on pizza, serve as a go-to leafy green in salads and even been enjoyed on its own as a nutritious side dish.

Anyone looking to reap the rewards of a diet with more spinach can try this recipe for “Spinach and Pumpkin Curry” from Deb Rousso’s “350 Best Vegan Recipes” (Robert Rose).

Spinach and Pumpkin Curry

Serves six

- 1 pie pumpkin, halved and seeded
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons vegan hard margarine
- 1 onion, chopped
- 2 carrots, peeled and chopped
- 1 green apple, chopped
- 1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger root
- 1-1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 2 cups vegetable broth
- 2 cups plain hemp milk
- 3 cups packed spinach

1. Place the steamer basket in a large saucepan and add water to about 1 inch below the bottom of the basket. Place the pumpkin halves in the basket, cover the pan and turn heat to medium-high. When the water boils, reduce heat to medium and cook until the pumpkins are tender, 10 to 15 minutes, adding hot water if necessary. Let cool. When cool enough to handle, scoop pulp from skins. Transfer to a food processor, add salt and pepper and puree until almost smooth. Set aside.

2. Place a large, heavy-bottomed saucepan over medium heat and let pan get hot. Add oil and margarine and when melted, tip pan to coat. Add onion, carrots, apple, ginger, and curry powder and cook, stirring frequently, until softened, six to eight minutes. Add pumpkin, vegetable broth, milk, and salt and pepper to taste, stirring well to thoroughly combine.

3. Reduce heat and simmer, stirring occasionally, until soup is slightly thickened, about 10 minutes. Stir in spinach. Taste and adjust seasonings and cook, stirring occasionally, until spinach is wilted, about four minutes.

Here are some great gift experiences for foodies

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Experiential gifts shift the emphasis from tangible items to building memories through experiences. Various studies have indicated that the memories gained through experiences may surpass the exhilaration and happiness of receiving a material item. What’s more, experiential gifts may be something that people can share together — expanding the possibilities of gift-giving even further.

There are many different experiences to accommodate people’s specific interests. People who enjoy spending time in the kitchen will undoubtedly be excited by these food-related experiential gifts.

Culinary classes

What better way to enjoy a passion for cooking than by learning more about techniques and terminology? Culinary classes can be the perfect avenue through which to gain more experience and instruction from professionals. While it’s possible to enroll in a culinary school if the goal is to change careers, many different private classes are ideal for hobbyists, such as cake decorating lessons to classes catering to children and teens.

Attend a show

Food as entertainment was first made popular by legendary television personality Julia Child. Child paved the way for many others, including professionally trained chefs and those like Rachael Ray, who honed her self-taught skills through experience. Network food shows often tape in metropolitan areas like New York and Los Angeles. Research how to purchase tickets and give the experience of being an audience member.

Food and beverage hop

To promote local businesses, many cities and towns with strong hospitality markets organize seasonal restaurant tasting tours. For a predetermined price, participants gain entry to various establishments offering samples of their offerings. Gift-givers can purchase entry to these events, gifting a few people at the same time. Then the group can sip and nibble the day away.

Personal chef for a day

Treat someone to a professionally prepared meal in his or her own home. Private caterers and personal chefs will sometimes offer their services and walk guests through the making of a meal — preparing it right before their eyes in one person’s home. It’s a great way to learn technique

"The Jennifer Hudson Show" premieres Monday in national syndication (check local listings).

Jennifer Hudson adds her own talk show to her award-laden resume

After winning an Emmy, a Grammy, an Oscar and a Tony, what you need is ... a talk show.

That's evidently how Jennifer Hudson sees it, anyway. The "American Idol" alum who became the most recently minted EGOT begins a new day job with the premiere of "The Jennifer Hudson Show" in national syndication Monday, Sept. 12 (check local listings). Utilizing much of the staff of the now-ended "Ellen DeGeneres Show," Hudson allows that it's "surreal" to her to be launching the program after a long build-up.

"It's like I'm starting a new chapter," the singer-actress-producer reflects. "I'm excited to get out there and just share life and experiences with people. I've been talking about it, and now, let's just get out there and do it!"

Also cited as the creator of the show, Chicago native Hudson says its style will be "just very open, to include everyone. I feel like it resembles a lot of my life and who I am, someone who needs other human beings. What I do for a living is full of celebrity, but I like to see the whole world come together, so the show will be a reflection of that. We all have a story, and I'm intrigued and inspired by that.

"I love people, and I love talking to people," maintains Hudson. "I love hearing everyday stories, and the show will be motivated by what I'm passionate about and what I'm interested in. If I'm there and I'm already existing with others, if a camera is there, what's the difference? Nothing should be overproduced here. If something happens, it just 'is.'"

Another "American Idol" veteran has built a daily music-performance segment into her own syndicated talk show, but Kelly Clarkson isn't necessarily a role model for Hudson in that way. "Music is a part of my life in every form, so obviously, I want that to be a part of the show in some capacity," Hudson maintains. "I can't say that it will be every day, but you will feel the presence of music. It will be organic."

Having completed her EGOT triumph by winning a Tony Award recently as a producer of Broadway's "A Strange Loop," Hudson stresses that she isn't giving up other activities for her weekday role, having also just acted in the forthcoming sci-fi-thriller movie "Breathe." In promoting such other projects, Hudson has sampled many talk shows from the guest's seat, but she claims she has "not intentionally" viewed such series as influences for hers.

"I want it to be authentic, and that is what will separate it," she concludes. "I never would have thought I would get this opportunity, but I come from a very talkative family."

MasterChef

8 p.m. on WAGA

After a season of spectacular dishes and horrifying flameouts, Gordon Ramsey has whittled the contestants down to the final three. The remaining home cooks must battle the clock to complete their final entree and whip up a gourmet dessert with some assistance from former judge Christina Tosi of the world famous Milk Bar.

America's Got Talent

9 p.m. on WXIA

Just when you think this show can't get any better, they deliver an ending so dynamic you're left speechless. And if past seasons have taught us anything, this Season 17 finale will leave everyone from Simon Cowell to Sofia Vergara with mouths agape. Will the winner be a singer or magician this time around?

Lion: The Rise and Fall of the Marsh Pride

9 p.m. on WGTV

This groundbreaking new documentary tells the epic story of the famed Marsh pride of lions as it battles for survival in Kenya's famous Maasai Mara Reserve. In a world where lions and humans are increasingly at odds, the film examines the rise and fall of the pride, which has been documented by the BBC for over 30 years. Through archival footage and testimony from those who've filmed the pride and lived alongside it, this is a powerful tale of sheer resilience.

Guy's Ultimate Game Night

9 p.m. on FOOD

Hold on. Just one more day. Singer and television host Carrie Wilson (Wilson Phillips) brings gifts of cake to Guy Fieri's Flavors Town Lounge. Cake! Then Guy joins personality Ross Mathews and DJ tWith for a series of ridiculous challenges that raise money for charity as they fight to take home the golden frying pan in the new episode "Game Day Game Night."

Bump

8 p.m. on WUPA
Dom (Angus Sampson) starts thinking about his life when an unfortunate disaster brings unexpected benefits and a new sense of hope in the new episode “Driftwood.” Meanwhile, Santi’s (Carlos Sanson Jr.) sense of rejection leads him back to Vince (Ioane Saula) for a day out of school, which doesn’t end well — nor does it help clarify his relationship with Oly (Nathalie Morris). Without Santi, Oly bonds with Bernardita (Claudia Di Giusti) and is drawn in closer to their family, but her presence upsets Santi, igniting a scuffle with a highly-wound Matias (Ricardo Scheihing-Vasquez).

60 Days In

9 p.m. on A&E

The first undercover participants move to general population at Henry County Jail and begin to form bonds with new inmates, while others find their breaking points in quarantine in the new episode “General Population.” It doesn’t take long to figure out that the men’s quarantine pod is active at night while dealing with poor conditions during the day. Meanwhile, the women’s quarantine pod continues to have medical emergencies with a slow response time from the officers and medical staff.

Atlanta

10 p.m. on FX

It seems like things are getting to be a little too much in the ATL for Earn (Donald Glover). Maybe Miami would be a safer option. In the Season 4 premiere “The Most Atlanta,” he considers getting away from it all and leaving the exes “on read” Another new episode “The Homeliest Little Horse” immediately follows and finds all grown men being petty beyond their weight class. And therapy is only a suggestion if you already know what’s wrong with you.

Dying to Win
8 p.m. on LMN
Life becomes a balance beam and then a pommel horse for gold medal gymnast Jesse (Mia Dinoto) as she gets caught in a web of lies when her mother and stepfather are found murdered in the family home. Has she backed herself into the corner of a floor routine? Jacob Taylor, Marianne Lu, Meredith Thomas, Kinnik Sky, Ernest Pierce and Devante Winfrey also star in this 2022 thriller.

CMT Giants: Vince Gill
9 p.m. on CMTV
Vince Gill has been a musical staple since he broke onto the scene in 1990 with his hit “When I Call Your Name.” Nineteen CMA Awards and 22 Grammy Awards later, he’s a member of the Grand Ole Opry and the Country Music Hall of Fame (he’s even an Eagle). He’s now being honored as a CMT Giant in this new 90-minute special that features the likes of Brad Paisley, Carrie Underwood, Chris Stapleton, Emmylou Harris, Keith Urban, Luke Combs, Maren Morris, Reba McEntire, Ricky Skaggs, Rodney Crowell and Sting.

Los Espookys
11 p.m. on HBO
More fantastic. More mysterious. More Espookier than before. That’s what we can expect for the Season 2 premiere of this bilingual comedy. It’s taken three years to get here, but the wait is worth it when we hear Tico (Fred Armisen) say “Go to the cemetery. Dig up the coffin. Look at the corpse.” This season the gang will be looking into the case of the slain beauty queen and we can expect Renaldo (Bernardo Velasco), Ursula (Cassandra Ciangherotti), Tati (Ana Fabrega) and Andres (Julio Torres) to appreciate the horror.

When galactic killer known as Gorr the God Butcher (Christian Bale) seeks to eliminate the gods, Thor (Chris Hemsworth) bands together with King Valkyrie (Tessa Thompson), Korg (Taika Waititi) and ex-girlfriend Jane Foster (Natalie Portman) to fight back in this action adventure flick from writer/director Waititi (“Jo Jo Rabbit,” “Thor: Ragnarok”). Russell Crowe, Chris Pratt and Dave Bautista also star. (ORIGINAL)

celebrity q&a BY GEORGE DICKIE

Tatiana Maslany

OF ‘SHE-HULK’ ON DISNEY+

One of the most important parts about the series in particular is Jennifer's new identity as She-Hulk and how that affects her both physically and also mentally, in her career and her dating life. Can you talk about how she deals with that?

That conflict is so fun to navigate because Jen has had her life planned out for her and has worked really hard to get to where she is as a lawyer. And to have this thing happen to her that sort of derails everything, it is a bit of an identity crisis.

And what I find really compelling about this story is how ... she's treated very differently than when she's Jen. There's a lot of having to really affirm her intelligence when she's Jen and sort of assert her role and try to get respect. Whereas when she's She-Hulk, there's this inherent sort of like awe inspired by her. And I think Jen has a conflict with that.

“She-Hulk” is a show about transformation and different ways of being seen. And it's also about a woman's experience. So how did feminism and the specific feminization of the Hulk character, which is a very masculine archetype, influence your crafting of the character.

Her anger, her largeness, like her taking up space in a room, all of that is fertile ground for us to sort of play – and play with it comedically, too, to like flip the standard on its head so that you can laugh at it but you're also aware that it's the truth of every woman walking into a space. And the sort of duality of her two bodies I find so compelling.

What is it to walk into a room as a 6-foot-7 woman and what is it to walk into a room as a 5-foot-2 woman? It's so rife. And I think because our culture is so fixated on women's bodies, whether it's aesthetically or politically or in terms of rights or in terms of autonomy. I think what we do in this show is touch on all of these concepts but through Jessica's hilarious brain. So it's really deep at the same time as it's goofy.

tonight's PICKS

Ezra Miller

Wedding of a Lifetime

8 p.m. on HALL
Darby (Brooke D'Orsay) and Jake (Jonathan Bennett) are an engaged couple in a close-knit mountain town who've been together since high school. But over the years they've found themselves in a rut and drifting apart and plan to announce their separation. When their community nominates them to compete for an all-expenses paid wedding in a nationally-televised contest in, it just may be what the couple needs to rekindle their relationship in this 2022 romance.

Justice League

8 p.m. on TNT
One of the most polarizing major releases of 2017, Zach Snyder's follow-up to 2016's "Batman v. Superman: Dawn of Justice" finds the titular league of superheroes forming to honor Superman's memory and save Earth from the villainous Steppenwolf (Ciaran Hinds). The stellar ensemble includes Ben Affleck, Henry Cavill, Ezra Miller, Amy Adams and Gal Gadot, among many others.

Aladdin

8:45 p.m. on FREE
Will Smith stars as the lovable blue genie excited to be out of the lamp in this 2019 musical directed by Guy Ritchie. Based on the animated original, Aladdin (Mena Massoud) and Princess Jasmine sing and dance their way around the vile Jafar.

tonight's PICKS

Sarah Botstein and Ken Burns

The U.S. and the Holocaust 8 p.m. on WGTV

From filmmakers Ken Burns, Lynn Novick and Sarah Botstein comes this three-part series about how the American people grappled with one of the greatest humanitarian crises of the 20th century, the Holocaust, and how this struggle tested the ideals of our democracy. The film dispels the competing myths that Americans either were ignorant of what was happening to Jews in Europe, or that they merely looked on with callous indifference. The truth is much more nuanced and complicated, and raises questions that remain essential to our society today.

Tales of the Walking Dead

9 p.m. on AMC

The Season 1 finale episode "La Dona" tells the haunting tale of an apocalypse-traumatized couple Idalia (Daniella Pineda) and Eric (Danny Ramirez) who may or may not be tormented by a haunted house. Their terrifying memories coupled with inexplicable phenomena taking place in the secluded house take a toll on the couple's psyche and their relationship that seems to be rooted in death forever.

Halloween Wars

9 p.m. on FOOD

If it tastes like terror, it must be time for this seasonal competition series, with paranormal investigator Zak Bagans returning as host, in the Season 12 premiere episode "That Voodoo That You Do." Nine teams of cake, sugar and pumpkin artists unite to prove their skills are scary good. Bagans introduces the teams to the famously haunted city of New Orleans and asks them to cast a sweet spell with voodoo queen, Marie Laveau, in an effort to scare host Eddie Jackson and judges Shinlin Li and Aarti Sequeira. Another new episode immediately follows.

Peter Krause

8 p.m. on WAGA

The end of Season 5 gave us a lot of shocking moments and we're finally getting a chance to see where all of that was headed in the Season 6 premiere. Among the questions: are Buck (Oliver Stark) and Taylor (Megan West) really splitting up? What's the status of Maddie (Jennifer Love Hewitt) and Chimney's (Kenneth Choi) relationship? Is Bobby (Peter Krause) going to hold on to his sobriety? What we do know is that Angela Bassett and Corinne Massiah will return.

The Voice

8 p.m. on WXIA

We can finally breathe again — the Season 22 premiere of our favorite singing competition returns. Last year history was made as Girl Named Tom became the first group to win. But one thing we know is that Team Kelly will not be bringing home another trophy this time around as this year's coaches include Blake Shelton, John Legend, Gwen Stefani and new coach Camila Cabello. Will the "Havana" singer have beginner's luck? Or will the newly-married Stefani pick up where she left off?

NCIS

9 p.m. on WGCL

Special Agent Alden Parker (Gary Cole) is still on the run with his ex-wife Vivian (Teri Polo), so the team investigates who might have a vendetta against him in order to clear his name. Enlisting the help of "NCIS: Hawai'i's" Special Agent Jane Tennant (Vanesa Lachey) and Computer Specialist Ernie Malik (Jason Antoon) who are in town meeting with Director Leon Vance (Rocky Carroll) in preparation for a global military exercise, the group tracks down their prime suspect, The Raven, in the Season 20 premiere episode "A Family Matter."

tonight's PICKS

Ryan Eggold

8 p.m. on WGCL
The team pivots when their sting operation to secure a massive bomb from an illegal broker leads them to discover that the device is already in the wrong hands in the Season 5 premiere episode “Hero’s Journey.” Also, Jubal’s (Jeremy Sisto) promise to be present at his son’s birthday party is put to the test as the case continues to heat up.

The Resident
8 p.m. on WAGA
With Dr. Ian Sullivan (Andrew McCarthy) and all his baggage making Chastain Memorial Hospital his new home, the dynamics of working alongside his daughter Dr. Cade Sullivan (Kaley Ronayne) is fertile ground. Add to that she’s in a love triangle with Dr. Conrad Hawkins (Matt Czuchry) and Dr. Billie Sutton (Jessica Lucas), and you can bet the Season 6 premiere will have plenty of meat on the bone.

New Amsterdam
10 p.m. on WXIA
Bloom (Janet Montgomery), Iggy (Tyler Labine) and Reynolds (Jocko Sims) rally around Max (Ryan Eggold) as he deals with the fallout from Helen’s (Freema Agyeman) decision. Bloom gives extra space to Leyla (Shiva Kalaiselvan) but she’s in for a surprise. Reynolds and Wilder (Sandra Mae Frank) help a young terminal patient realize his dream to “star” in a Bollywood show.

Supermarket Stakeout
10 p.m. on FOOD
Melt down in aisle four! The chefs stakeout carts to create the perfect hangover helper, and only the well-seasoned — and slightly inebriated — survive when Alex Guarnaschelli asks them to dish up dishes from the bayou. Someone needs to channel Paul Prudhomme fast. But one chef is toast when they can’t bring the heat, and Alex joins judge Eric Adjepong to choose the winner in the Season 4 finale episode “Boo Hoo in the Bayou.”

Raquel Welch had movie dates before dinosaurs

Q: I watched "One Million Years B.C." on Turner Classic Movies recently. Was that Raquel Welch's first film? – Ken Ryan, via email

A: "Fantastic Voyage" preceded it the same year (1966), and though she also is known for that film, it was the marketing of the prehistoric adventure – which featured a primitive-bikini-clad Welch prominently – that made her a pop-culture icon.

In fact, she also had been in several movies prior to those in small roles. In 1964, she appeared in both "A House Is Not a Home" (which had the popular Burt Bacharach-Hal David tune of the same name as its theme song) and the Elvis Presley vehicle "Roustabout." A year later, she was in "A Swingin' Summer," in which she was noticed by the wife of Saul David – the producer of "Fantastic Voyage." He helped cast her in that sci-fi tale, and her career went on from there.

Q: I heard that the game Pictionary is being turned into a TV show. When will that start? – Allie Evans, Grand Junction, Colo.

A: The syndicated weekday game premieres Monday, Sept. 12, with Jerry O'Connell presiding over two three-person teams who – in the tradition of the popular home version – create drawings as clues. Guest celebrities will be the captains of the teams. (In your area, Allie, the show will be on KFQX-TV according to the show's website.)

Speaking of captains, O'Connell will be a busy fellow this coming

TV season, since he'll also co-host the CBS reality series "The Real Love Boat" with wife Rebecca Romijn. It premieres Oct. 5, and all of his new duties are in addition to his ongoing job as a host of the CBS weekday show "The Talk."
