Dog park honors Porterdale K-9 officer credited with helping rehab town

By TOM SPIGOLON

PORTERDALE, Ga. — A Porterdale canine police legend's name will greet visitors to the city's new dog park when it opens this fall.

Porterdale City Council voted recently to name the city's new dog park near the Yellow River the "K-9 Beau Memorial Dog Park" in honor of the golden retriever who worked over half a decade to help police in two cities nab crime suspects and contraband and locate missing residents.

Beau was the first K-9 officer to serve Porterdale Police Department when the city of Varnell donated him to the city in 2008, The Covington News reported in 2013.

He then served the city for five years after former Porterdale police officer Jason Cripps returned to the city from the East Point Police Department to create a K-9 program.

Brown promoted to Liberty Middle School principal

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Longtime Assistant Principal Malcolm Brown has been promoted to the principal’s position at Liberty Middle School.

At a special called board meeting for personnel action on Wednesday, July 14, the Newton County Board of Education approved the promotion of Brown, who has served as an assistant principal at the school for six years.

He will replace Keisa Vincent, who accepted the position of Newton County School System (NCSS) director of transportation.

“I am excited to step into the role of principal of Liberty Middle School,” Brown said. “I look forward to working with all stakeholders to build a culture of high expectations for all students.”

The school is located on Salem Road and had an enrollment of 1,077 in the 2019-2020 school year, according to the Governor’s Office of Student Achievement.

NCSS Superintendent Samantha Fuhrey said, “With his extensive experience, I am confident that Mr. Brown will continue the culture of high expectations at Liberty Middle School and I am sure that his knowledge, care, and commitment will lead to continued student and staff success at the school.”

Brown earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Psychology with honors from Georgia State University (GSU) in 2001 and a master’s degree in Middle School Math and Science Education from GSU in 2007.

He earned his Education

Specialist Degree in Educational Leadership from Liberty University in 2011 and is currently working on his Doctorate in Curriculum and Instruction at Liberty.

Brown began his career in education as a science teacher for the DeKalb County School System in 2003.

He later taught science in both the Henry County and Atlanta school systems before joining NCSS as an assistant principal at Liberty Middle School in 2015.

Interstate 16 reopens early at site of damage to bridge overpass

GDOT
A crash involving a trailer on the state Route 86 bridge over I-16 shut down traffic July 15 in Treutlen.

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Both westbound travel lanes of Interstate 16 in Treutlen County reopened Friday, one day after a bridge over the highway was heavily damaged and two days earlier than expected.

As of late Friday afternoon, crews were working to reopen the eastbound lanes by midnight.

The bridge on Georgia Highway 86 over I-16 was struck by a dump trailer early Thursday morning, forcing the state Department of Transportation to close the highway in both directions between exits 71 and 78.

“Georgia DOT engineers and contractors worked expeditiously through the night to safely remove the damaged bridge so that I-16 could be opened back up to traffic days earlier than expected,” Georgia Commissioner of Transportation Russell McMurry said Friday.

“My thanks goes out to the GDOT team members and contractors who worked through the night and day today to make this happen. Our sincere gratitude goes to law enforcement, and I’d like thank those communities and individuals who have been impacted by this event for their patience and support.”

An eastbound detour from I-16 will remain in place through midnight. Motorists are urged to remain patient and should pay attention to signage, follow marked detours or wayfinding apps and drive with caution on local roads.

Georgia 86 remains closed while the DOT plans the replacement of the damaged bridge. No timetable for completion of that work has been set.

COVINGTON, Ga. — Officials announced Monday evening that the city would host two Town Hall events next month to hear from residents.

The events are to allow city residents to ask questions, voice concerns, and have an open discussion about activity in Covington.

Two town halls will be hosted in the western and eastern parts of the city, officials said.

The West Town Hall meeting will be held is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 12, at 6:30 p.m. at Murray Memorial CME Church, located at 4100 West Street.

The East Town Hall meeting will be held at the Covington Place Clubhouse, located at 8363 Plantation Trace, on Tuesday, Aug. 17, at 6:30 p.m.

Newton County unemployment rate up slightly in May

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County saw its unemployment rate increase slightly in May from the previous month as fewer residents were employed and more unemployed.

The unemployment rate increased by 0.1 percentage points, reaching 4.3%. A year ago, the rate was 10.2%, according to the Georgia Department of Labor.

The labor force decreased in May by 180 to 52,715. However, that was up by 1,425 from the total in May 2020 when the pandemic was in its third month.

Newton County ended May of this year with 50,437 employed residents, which was a decrease of 233 from April to May but was up 4,375 compared to May 2020.

The number of unemployed Newton residents increased by 73 compared to April. May’s total was less than half of the total recorded in May 2020.

Newton County’s jobless rate was higher than all of its neighboring counties except Rockdale, which had a rate of 4.5%.

Other counties’ rates were Henry, 4.2%; Butts, 3.6%; Morgan, 3.5%; Jasper, 3.3%; and Walton, 3.2%.

Newton’s jobless rate also was higher than the Metro Atlanta and statewide rates for May, which were both 3.9%.

But the county’s rate was 1.2% lower than the national rate of 5.5% for the same month, the labor department reported.

Initial unemployment claims by Newton County residents also increased 9% in May from the previous month, though Georgia Labor Commissioner Mark Butler said it represented an over-the-year decrease in Newton County’s initial claims.

“This is a step in the right direction, but we need to continue to get Georgians back to work,” Butler said. “Increasing the amount of people in our labor force is critical for us to continue to improve.”

Initial claims for unemployment increased by 9% in May, from 1,285 to 1,366. When compared to May 2020, claims were down by about 85%.

Local gas price remains lower than Metro Atlanta despite increase

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton’s average price for unleaded gas this week was lower after the county increased at a slower rate than Metro Atlanta since last week.

The county’s average prices were between $2.93 and $2.97 Monday, July 19, after increasing 2 to 4 cents per gallon since July 12, according to information from two sources that track retail prices.

Metro Atlanta’s average price for unleaded regular rose between 4 and 7.6 cents per gallon during the same time period and was $3, according to GasBuddy and AAA.

Newton County’s lowest prices on Monday were reported as $2.85 at Marathon at 10260 Georgia Hwy. 36 in Covington, and $2.89 at Chevron at 3078 Georgia Hwy. 81 in Oxford, according to GasBuddy.

In comparison to its neighbors, Newton County’s average was lower than Rockdale, Walton, Jasper and Henry counties and was higher than Butts and Morgan counties, according to GasBuddy.

Newton County’s average price matched Georgia’s statewide average and was lower than the national average of $3.16 to $3.17.

GasBuddy uses information from motorists to perform a daily survey of 2,134 stations in Atlanta, while AAA surveys 130,000 stations nationwide based on credit card swipes and direct feeds.

The most expensive metro markets were Savannah ($3.03), Brunswick ($3.00), and Atlanta ($2.99), AAA reported.

Oxford man crowned 2020 TOPS Georgia King

Attributes weight loss to portion control,
exercise, support group

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

OXFORD, Ga. — After hitting his goal weight of 194 pounds, Edd Johnson said he felt like royalty.

In 2017, the Oxford resident weighed approximately 222 pounds and was considered overweight. But after joining Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS), the 77-year-old has worked to lose 28 pounds.

For his efforts, nonprofit weight-loss and support organization crowned Johnson the 2020 TOPS Georgia King during Georgia State Recognition Days held in May. This meant he had lost more weight than any other male in the program in the entire state.

Johnson said he was introduced to TOPS through his wife's involvement with the program.

"Driving my wife, a TOPS area captain, to chapter meetings, I saw many people who were working on losing weight," Johnson said. "My wife and I found a club in the area that had another man in it, so I decided to join."

Johnson attributed his weight loss success to the support he received from his fellow TOPS members, along with portion control and regular exercise.

"As I [started] to lose weight, because of my wife's role, the chapter members encouraged me and helped me to see if I wanted to get the weight off, it was up to me," he said. "With my club and others we visited, I saw a need to be an example. My wife and chapter were always there for me, and now I try to encourage others."

Which is why he's sharing his story.

Studies show one in three American adults, on average, are obese. Obesity can cause many medical conditions including heart disease, stroke, type 2 diabetes and certain types of cancer.

Johnson said TOPS is a great way to not only achieve weight loss goals, but also improve overall wellness. TOPS was founded in 1984 and currently has more than 100,000 members across the U.S. and Canada.

"Look at me now, thinner and a winner," Johnson said. "My wife always told me I was her Prince Charming minus the horse. Now I'm a king."

EMPLOYERS:

a majority in manufacturing and many on second and third shifts, said Covington Branch Manager Elizabeth Mobley.

"We're really excited," she said, in reference to the company's participation in the Job Fair.

Another participating employer, Emory University, needs support staff for what will be the largest incoming class of students in Oxford College's long history, said Doug Hicks, dean of Oxford College.

Hicks said the two-year college is hiring for positions in the areas of facilities and events management, residential life, and career and counseling services.

He said Oxford "is particularly interested in hiring from our local community."

"So we are pleased to once again participate in the annual Regional Job Fair in partnership with Georgia Piedmont Technical College and our economic development partners in Newton and Walton counties," Hicks said.

Sponsors include

Georgia Piedmont Tech, Newton County Industrial Development Authority, Covington-Newton County Chamber of Commerce, and the Development Authority of Walton County.

Mobley said Express has participated in almost all of the Regional Job Fairs since 2016 and found that it attracts a higher turnout of job-seekers than other similar area job fair events, she said.

Express is based in Athens and has four offices representing about 150 employers. The Covington office alone works to provide staffing for about 50 companies, Mobley said.

She said the Job Fair typically has drawn more people seeking administrative positions.

However, those qualified likely can be interviewed on the spot for one of the open positions Express is offering, Mobley said.

She said the company is hoping for a good turnout— especially if job-seekers are willing to be flexible in the hours they are available, she said.

Mobley said more applicants traditionally have wanted first shift positions because the hours are more favorable to family life.

However, the need for second and third shift workers has increased as industries began increasing hiring again, she said.

She said Express has participated in more job fairs this year — organized by itself and others in the area — compared to previous years in part because of the rapid increase in open positions among its clients.

As recently as mid-June, Express was having trouble finding applicants, she said.

However, Gov. Brian Kemp in recent months has gradually loosened restrictions on workplaces as vaccination rates increased and COVID-19 infection numbers dropped.

Meanwhile, state officials chose to halt Georgia's participation in unemployment programs enacted through the federal CARES and American Rescue Plan acts that were criticized as exacerbating the labor shortage in a number of industries.

The Georgia Department of Labor then made June 26, 2021, the last payable week for unemployment programs related to the pandemic in Georgia — meaning unemployed people seeking benefits once again were required to report their job searches to receive unemployment benefits.

Emory is Metro Atlanta's top employer, Hicks said. More than 32,000 work for Emory, which operates its Oxford College campus in Newton County, main campus just outside Atlanta, and hospitals throughout the region.

"Emory University is the top employer in Metro Atlanta and offers many exciting career opportunities at Oxford College," Hicks said.

"This event will give us an opportunity to reach those who are interested in joining the talented and committed team that supports Oxford's education mission," he said.

The Regional Job Fair is set for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Georgia Piedmont Technical College's Newton D Conference Center at 8100 Bob Williams Parkway in Covington.

How will future generations view the effects of the 1996 Olympics?

It's been a quarter of a century since Atlanta hosted the 1996 Olympics after it beat out Athens, Greece, for the right to be the site of the 100th Games. Many have said it changed the area for the better by bringing attention to Atlanta — especially downtown — and making it a sports destination for events like the Super Bowl and NCAA basketball's Final Four.

Others say it changed Atlanta for the worst — especially those who lived and grew up in the area before 1996.

Who's right? I guess it depends on the angle from which you view it.

One of the most visible effects of the Games can be seen today in the venues it spawned.

The one closest to Newton County is the Georgia International Horse Park off Georgia Hwy. 138.

What was once land used for disposing of sewer water became the Olympics equestrian venue. The long, narrow strip of land bordering the Yellow River between Hwy. 138 and the Newton County line includes a main arena and 10 smaller arena buildings.

It hosts events year-round, including Snapping Shoals EMC's annual Meeting of Members this week.

After the Olympics, it became a horse show facility and grew to host concerts, fairs, festivals, obstacle course races, rodeos, dog shows and more.

It is adjacent to Cherokee Run Golf Club and a hotel; and also includes the 173-acre Big Haynes Creek Nature Center that has a canoe launch, observation pavilion overlooking wetlands and nature trails.

Other places have attracted more national attention and tourism, mainly because of their proximity to major sporting events at the now-demolished Georgia Dome and the former Turner Field.

Centennial Olympic Park became the centerpiece of a rehabilitated downtown area, including an entertainment and hospitality district with new restaurants, hotels, and residential development — encouraging people to live downtown for the first time in decades.

State Farm Arena built on the former site of the Omni arena, and attractions like the Georgia Aquarium, World of Coca-Cola, the Center for Civil and Human Rights, and College Football Hall of Fame followed — all because of Centennial Olympic Park.

The Olympics rowing event venue remains in Gainesville at Lake Lanier. The Olympics beach volleyball facility became the centerpiece of the Clayton County International Waterpark.

Other venues did not fare as well, such as the Olympic tennis facility near Stone Mountain Park which was neglected for years before being demolished.

For those who never knew or cared about Georgia's Major League Baseball team, the Atlanta Braves moved into the Olympic Stadium and used it as their home for years after their original home, Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium was demolished.

The Braves called it Turner Field and used the converted stadium for years before moving to their own, custom-built stadium in the Vinings/Smyrna area of Cobb County in 2017.

Turner Field then was converted again to become Georgia State University's home football stadium.

Meanwhile, some of Metro Atlanta's largest employers saw their profile grow dramatically from the international exposure, including Home Depot, Delta Air Lines, Coca-Cola and UPS.

It also likely led to Atlanta becoming the Southeast's major business hub with numerous Fortune 500 companies setting up shop here.

But the Games also are credited, for better or worse, with leading to a rapid population increase in Metro Atlanta.

The region added about 2 million new residents in 15 years after the Games, leading to a major increase in traffic and many new residents from outside the U.S.

Construction of parts of the Olympics area led to relocation of longtime residents. And, even with a major sports stadium nearby, Turner Field actually did little to help redevelop the area surrounding it.

Metro Atlanta's population boom spilled over into formerly rural surrounding counties and transforming areas like Newton and Henry counties.

We got infrastructure, exposure and new development many cities beg for. But we also got the ill effects of very rapid growth which allowed a Metro area with few natural barriers, like an ocean, to expand dramatically.

It will be interesting to see how future historians — and future Metro Atlanta residents — view this time in the region's history.

Local students earn Horace J. Johnson 'Beyond the Bar' scholarships

To the Editor:

On behalf of the State Bar of Georgia, I would like to congratulate the 2021 recipients of the Horace J. Johnson Beyond the Bar Scholarships, presented through a collaboration of the New Rock Legal Society, Newton County Bar Association, Rockdale County Bar Association and Walton County Bar Association.

Receiving the $1,000 scholarships to further their academic careers in college or technical school are Chad Helton of Social Circle High School, Zoe Mayo of Newton County High School, James Rhee of Heritage High School, Natalia Sanchez of Alcovy High School, Gabrielle Wood of Rockdale Magnet School and Terrell Wright of Walnut Grove High School. The Beyond the Bar Foundation named the scholarships in memory of the late Alcovy Judicial Circuit Superior Court Judge Horace J. Johnson.

Georgia's local and voluntary bar associations fulfill an important responsibility in the legal profession's mission to serve the public and the justice system. We salute our colleagues in Newton, Rockdale and Walton counties for this phenomenal collaborative effort to support deserving local students.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth L. Fite

Baseball isn't dead, but it could use a hip replacement

Growing up in the early years of Major League Baseball in Atlanta, the sport was so easy to love. Teams had pitchers who could go the whole nine innings, hitters who could bunt and steal bases, and managers who could fire up an entire stadium by getting in the umpire's face.

Now, in the age of replay reviews, a manager has to take his argument to New York, where a group of umps occasionally put down their pizza to watch video and determine if their colleagues missed a call. Meanwhile, fans must watch the on-field umpires, hands on hips, headphones on ears, awaiting the decision. These long pauses provide ample time to get a sandwich, pour a drink, and take a bathroom break. At your local McDonald's.

The art of bunting, once mastered by most big league players, is now a mystery to all but a few.

The days of Maury Wills, Vince Coleman or Rickey Henderson stealing up to 130 bases each year are long gone. No player has stolen more than 46 since 2017.

Today, when a starting pitcher makes it through five innings, he leaves the field to a standing ovation. And he's too cool to tip his cap to the fans who pay his salary, which drives me crazy.

Speaking of the fans, I remember my dad making a three-hour trip to Atlanta back when I-75 was only 6 lanes in each direction, instead of the current 36. (I'm guessing, but I know I'm close).

This was when you could park your car, pay for tickets, and buy your kids a hot dog, a Coke, and some ice cream for less than a down payment on a new boat.

Yes, the past always looks brighter when gazing into the rear-view mirror, but there's no doubt that the Great American Pastime is passing some of us by.

Unlike the days of yore, most fans can now see all of their favorite team's games on relatively low-cost cable networks. For now, anyway. Trust me, this won't last.

Back in the three-channel era, it was not uncommon for the broadcast networks to show one game a week, almost always featuring the Yankees or Dodgers. A Braves game was a rare sight until the 1980s cable "superstation" days. So if we wanted to see Hammerin' Hank Aaron chase Babe Ruth's home run record, we HAD to be there in person.

Yet fans still attend games, especially in Atlanta. Attendance has been strong, even for the mediocre 2021 Braves team. The new ballpark, which should bear Aaron's name along with its corporate sponsor, is beautiful, accessible, and surrounded by a plaza with shops and restaurants. The Braves may have made some questionable player decisions, but they built their ballpark the right way.

League-wide however, attendance has steadily declined in recent years. Between 2007 and 2019, attendance dropped 19 percent, or about 6,000 fans per game.

During the same period, attendance at Major League Soccer games shot up almost 50 percent.

Are baseball team owners concerned with those numbers? You bet they are.

The commissioner's office is constantly tinkering with ways to speed up the game, in hopes of attracting and keeping young fans who seek action. It's no mystery why soccer has stronger appeal to the video game generation.

Many baseball games are simply hard to watch. Sure, purists love to study the finer points of the pitcher's delivery and the team's defensive alignment, while the game lumbers on at its traditional leisurely pace.

Recently that pace has slowed to the level of a chess match. We are seeing fewer balls in play. During a typical 3 1/2 hour game, there are precious few minutes of action. Between each pitch, batters are readjusting their helmets and batting gloves, pitchers are staring into space before waiting on the fifth different sign from their catcher, and fans are scrolling through cute puppy pictures on Instagram.

Eventually, the batter either strikes out, walks, or hits a ground ball to a third baseman who is positioned in the right field grass. Before computers were invented, that ball would have been a hit. Now, anyone who has internet access knows there's a 75% chance the batter will hit the ball to that spot. So why not put a fielder in that location? It's smart baseball, but it is also boring baseball.

Recently I tried watching a Braves game at home, with my phone out of reach while I got comfy in the recliner. I slept from the 4th inning until the 7th inning, when announcer Chip Caray started yelling about a Freddie Freeman fly ball that would soon land in an outfielder's glove far short of the fence. Well, it sounded like a home run.

Baseball is definitely not dead. But it sure could use a hip replacement.

When the 2021-22 school year begins, all 60,000 Georgia preschoolers will return to in-person instruction.

Georgia’s pre-K program returns to in-person classes

By DAVE WILLIAMS

Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — All 60,000 Georgia preschoolers will be back in the classroom when the 2021-22 term begins later this month.

During the coronavirus pandemic, pre-K providers were given the option of offering classes in-person, virtually or through a hybrid of live and online instruction. The resulting disruption in routine sent statewide enrollment plummeting from more than 80,000 students.

“Research shows that the early education of children from birth to age 5 is critical to their success in kindergarten and elementary school,” said Amy Jacobs, commissioner of the Georgia Department of Early Care and Learning, the agency that administers the program.

“We believe laying a solid foundation for academic and social emotional success in our youngest learners is also important for the long-term economic growth of Georgia by helping to build a competent and qualified workforce.”

The first day of pre-school will vary based on the local school system and the child-care provider. It starts as early as July 19 in Taliaferro County and as late as the week of Sept. 6 in Murray and Webster counties.

Most Georgia public school systems begin classes during the first week of August.

The pre-K program offers the following first-day tips for parents sending their children to pre-school:

- Send your child to school in clothes they can manage independently in the bathroom.
- Make sure your child’s shoes are comfortable for playtime: No flip-flops or tennis shoes with Velcro.
- Visit the classroom before school starts, so children are familiar with the new surroundings.
- Tell your child’s teacher about any fears she/he may have.
- Discuss any special dietary needs or allergies your child may have with the teacher and ask her/him to explain program policies relating to children’s allergies.

- Complete necessary forms or releases your pre-K provider may require for dispensing medication during the school day.
  - Locate the bathroom with your child and determine special bathroom routines the school observes.
  - Allow extra time for the first day: Make sure you have time to say good-bye.
  - Ask if your child can bring a familiar blanket for rest time: Can they bring a favorite stuffed animal?
  - Send a family photo in your child’s backpack in case they get lonely.
- Georgia’s lottery-funded pre-K program began in 1992 as a pilot program serving 750 at-risk four-year-olds at 20 locations. Because of the success of the Georgia Lottery, the program was opened in 1995 to all 4-year-olds regardless of family income.

Beau was originally a narcotics dog only. However, he worked closely with Cripps on a wide range of events in Porterdale — from serious police work involving drug arrests to community events and public safety presentations.

Cripps, who is now chief of police, noted Beau helped bring arrests and convictions of numerous suspects who had come to establish the town’s reputation as a “drug haven” in the years after Porterdale Mill closed in the historic town in the 1970s.

“Beau was an exceptional police dog,” Cripps said.

The work helped give new residents the confidence to rehabilitate many of the historic houses in the former mill town.

According to a proclamation the city council approved Thursday, July 15, Beau was a city of Porterdale K-9 Officer when he worked with the U.S. Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement at Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport.

During that time, Beau “identified the sum of $220,000 in cash that was seized as drug funds, resulting in $58,000 being awarded to the Porterdale Police Department,” the proclamation stated.

In Porterdale, the K-9 officer “assisted in multiple searches for missing residents, multiple drug enforcement actions both within the city of Porterdale and with surrounding law enforcement agencies.”

It stated that Beau also “especially enjoyed working with the community, actively engaging the public and participating in Public Safety Days and school events, including Red Ribbon Week events and FFA camp events with the children of the community.

“K-9 Officer Beau rode in a place of honor during annual Porterdale Christmas Parades,” it stated.

After 10 years of service with two different agencies, Beau retired from law enforcement to a life in the Cripps household before he “passed away peacefully on December 28, 2013.”

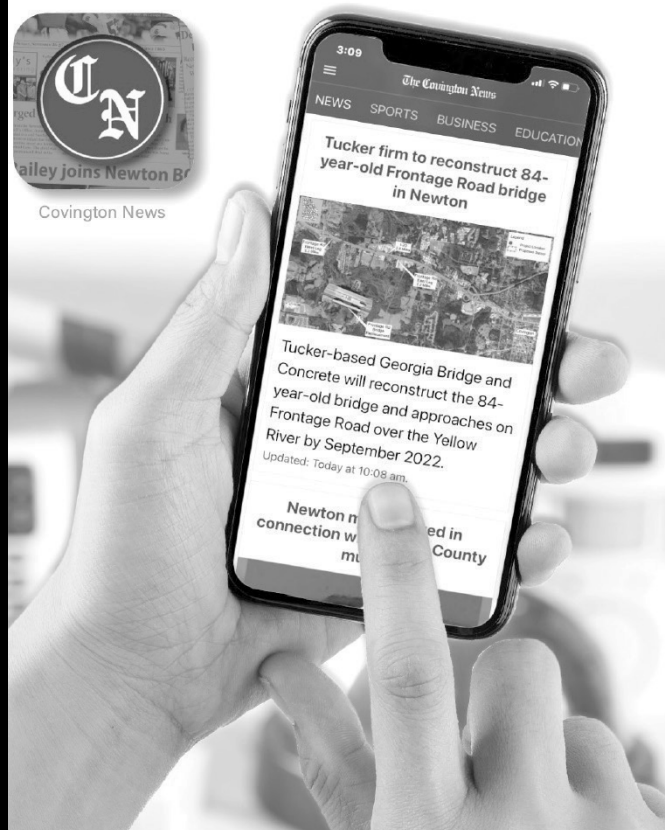

Jason Cripps said Beau was the inspiration for the nonprofit he and wife Holly founded and operate called We Ride To Provide.

It is a K-9 officer memorial organization that hosts an annual service in Porterdale honoring fallen police dogs. It also has donated first aid kits to K-9 officers around the world, Jason Cripps said.

The K-9 Beau Memorial Dog Park is tentatively planned for a September grand opening near the city’s nature preserve on the banks of the Yellow River, said City Manager Frank Etheridge.

Etheridge said city officials still have work to do on the site, including adding mulch, making sure grass is growing and adding equipment needed at a dog park like garbage cans and doggie bag stations.

Fun by the Numbers

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

up to 140 characters to 911 in the event of an emergency.

Texts to 911 should only be used in emergency situations, Henry said, when placing a call is not an option.

"For instance," a news release stated. "If the caller is deaf, hard-of-hearing, speech impaired, or when speaking out loud would put the caller in danger."

If there is an emergency and residents are unable to make a call, Henry said the 911 Center recommends the following:

- Don't text and drive
- In the first text message send the location and type of emergency.
- Text in simple words — send a short text message in English without abbreviations or slang.
- Be prepared to answer questions and follow instructions from the 911 call taker.

"This feature is a wonderful tool for our residents, should they ever find themselves in a situation where calling isn't practical," Henry said. "We clearly prefer voice calls because we can assist the caller quicker, but there are instances where the text method will prove to be very beneficial."

Henry encouraged users to not "abuse" the 911 text option.

Things to consider about the new service, Henry said, include:

- It is a crime to text or call 911 with a false report.
- A text or data plan is required to place a text to 911
- As with all text messages, messages to 911 may take longer to receive, may get out of order, or may not be received at all.
- If you do not receive a text response from 911, try to contact 911 another way.
- Photos and videos cannot be sent to 911 at this time.
- Text to 911 cannot include more than one person. Do not send your emergency text to anyone other than 911.

Monday, Aug. 2. Rockdale County students will begin their new school year just a few days later, Thursday, Aug. 5.

To help prepare students for the new year, the Newton County Sheriff's Office will host its annual Back to School Giveaway on Saturday, July 24.

Starting at noon, the sheriff's office and volunteers will hand out school supplies at Newton High School, located at 1 Ram Way in Covington, until 5 p.m., or until all supplies are given away.

In years past, the sheriff's office offered other activities for the area's youth, but due to the pandemic, only book bags will be handed out during this year's event.

Students and families in need of clothes or other specific items are encouraged to register ahead of the event at www.fojmlive.org/event.

For more information about the Newton County event call 770-685-3390, or contact Susan Young by phone at 678-218-2423.

In Rockdale County, the

The annual Salem Campmeeting drew campers and attendees from throughout the area last week to hear the Gospel taught by a series of pastors. The centuries-old campmeeting returned as a live event this year after being a virtual one in 2020 due to COVID-19.

Georgia Bulldogs

Four Bulldogs selected for Circle of Honor

University of Georgia Athletics

All-American offensive lineman Randy Johnson, women's basketball coach Andy Landers, NCAA champion swimmer Robert Margalis and softball All-American Kim Wendall will all be inducted into the University of Georgia Circle of Honor as members of the Class of 2021.

By MASON WITTNER
mwittner@covnews.com

Four Georgia Bulldog legends will be enshrined during the Circle of Honor Gala next February, the school announced this week.

Randy Johnson, Andy Landers, Robert Margalis and Kim Wendland will be inducted into the University of Georgia's Circle of Honor on Friday, Feb. 11, 2022. The ceremony for the Class of 2021 will take place in the West End Zone complex of Sanford Stadium in Athens.

Georgia's Circle of Honor exists to pay tribute to former student-athletes and coaches who earned an academic degree while also displaying excellence through both their performance and conduct.

Johnson was a three-year starter along the offensive line. A consensus All-American for the Bulldogs in 1975, he was voted the SEC's Most Valuable Player among linemen, deemed a recipient of the Jacobs Blocking Award — given to the league's top blocker — and named the Southeast Area Lineman of the Year that season.

Landers led the Lady Bulldogs basketball team for 36 seasons and is widely regarded as the program's most prolific head coach. He collected 862 victories before his retirement in 2015, becoming one of seven coaches in NCAA Division I to win at least 850 wins with one program. He helped guide the team to 20 Sweet 16 appearances, 11 Elite Eight berths, five Final Four trips and a pair of NCAA runner-up finishes in 1985 and 1996.

Margalis won the 2003 NCAA Championship in the 400 Individual Medley — perhaps the most difficult event in collegiate swimming. He went on to earn 16 All-America honors during his time with the Bulldogs, as well as Southeastern Conference titles in 2002 and 2003.

Wendland was named an All-American each of her final three seasons in Athens, from 2003 to 2005. She's the only player in program history to earn SEC Player of the Year and first-team All-SEC honors four consecutive years.

In addition to their induction in February, the quartet will be honored this fall at Georgia's home football game against Arkansas on Saturday, Oct. 2.

Prep Football

Brett Fowler | The Walton Tribune

After transferring in from Eastside, Tucker Cleary led Social Circle's defense with 127 tackles in 2020. While the middle linebacker is expected to be aided by an improved offense and more parts on defense, he's looking to come back stronger and push that number to 200 for the Redskins this fall.

Making a clear impact

By DAVID JOHNSON
The Walton Tribune

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — For all the obstacles Rob Patton had to face as the first-year head football coach at Social Circle last fall — a young roster combined with COVID-19-induced limitations — he did enjoy one major break.

During the preseason, Tucker Cleary transferred into the program from Eastside High School in Covington. By season's end, he was the Redskins' leading tackler by a long shot. He finished with 127 tackles, nearly double the next highest defender on the team.

Defense wasn't exactly the Redskins strength last fall. They allowed more than 34 points a game. Imagine how much higher that number might have been had Cleary not shown up.

"He had an incredible year," Patton said of his defensive stopper. "I just hope he won't have to make so many tackles this year."

Certainly, with the majority of last year's starters back, the Redskins should have a more experienced defense and are expected to be explosive on offense. That combination should make for a stingier unit.

So Patton might be surprised to hear that his returning middle linebacker has set his goals even higher this year.

"I'm hoping to get 200 tackles," Cleary said.

Given his obvious skills combined with his relentless off-season workouts, such a lofty goal is hardly out of reach. Besides leading the team in stats on the field, he's also among the heaviest lifters in the weight room.

He's benching 305 pounds, power cleaning 280, and squatting 500.

"Weight lifting is very important to me," Cleary said. "I want to be stronger than the guys in front of me so I can push them around."

It's that attitude, and his impressive lifts, that have led to a position shift on offense. Last year, when called on to play both sides of the ball, he was used largely as a blocking back. Given his increased size (5-10, 220 pounds) and strength, he'll be playing guard on offense.

"You've got somebody like that who can give you a push, you've got to put him there," Patton said.

Still, Cleary is expected to once again make his biggest mark on defense.

"He's the leader of that unit," Patton said. "He makes all the checks and he plays hard all the time and his motor never stops."

Although he's yet to receive any offers, Cleary has his sights set on the next level. He knows a big senior year could help reach that goal.

"I just want us to win more games, get to the playoffs, and go further than we did last year," Cleary said. "If we do that, everything else will take care of itself."

Ice-cold truth about added sugars

Metro Creative Service

Researchers suggest added sugars, often found in soda and other various food items, could be compromising people's effort to lose weight and get fit.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Added sugars could be compromising people's effort to lose weight and get fit.

A 2009 report from researchers with the American Heart Association urged people to limit their intake of added sugars while noting that Americans get most of their added sugars from sugar-sweetened beverages, including sodas. A 2010 study led by a researcher from the Harvard School of Public Health noted that consumption of such beverages has increased considerably in recent decades, which has tracked positively with rising rates of obesity over that time.

But pinning the bulk of the blame for rising obesity rates on sugar-sweetened beverages would be a mistake, as such drinks are not the only popular source of added sugars. Candy, baked goods, sugary cereals, and even some dried fruits contain significant amounts of added sugars.

Added sugars are considered empty calories, which means they're high in calories but not in vitamins, minerals and nutrients. Anyone attempting to lose weight and keep lost weight off should examine the foods and beverages they consume to determine if these items, which may be marketed as healthy or at least considered so by unsuspecting consumers, are high in added sugars. Simply checking ingredients labels for the term "added sugars" may not be enough, as the Office of Disease Prevention and Health Promotion notes that added sugars go by many different names, including:

- brown sugar
- corn sweetener
- corn syrup
- dextrose

- fructose
- glucose
- high-fructose corn syrup
- honey
- invert sugar
- lactose
- malt syrup
- maltose
- molasses,
- raw sugar
- sucrose
- trehalose
- turbinado sugar

The ODPHP notes that these sugars may be found in foods people wouldn't otherwise see as potentially unhealthy, such as pasta sauces. That only underscores the importance of reading labels carefully and learning what to look for on such labels.

Losing weight and keeping weight off is no small task. And that task becomes considerably taller when people consume significant amounts of added sugars.

Bring blueberries into your diet

Metro Creative Service

Enjoying a blueberry muffin or a cup of blueberries with breakfast are two ways to consume more blueberries. But those are not the only ways to incorporate more blueberries into your diet.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Fruits and vegetables are vital components of a nutritious diet, and few foods pack a more nutritional punch than blueberries.

Verywell Health says blueberries are touted as a superfood because they are full of antioxidants, vitamins, fiber, and phytosterols, which are micronutrients that can significantly lower LDL cholesterol and reduce the risk of heart disease. Blueberries also are low in saturated fat and may help lower triglyceride levels. A study published in the Journal of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics found that women who consume blueberries on a daily basis have lower blood pressure. Furthermore, researchers in Finland determined a berry-rich diet supports healthy aging and controls the risk of chronic diseases.

Enjoying a blueberry muffin or a cup of blueberries with breakfast are two ways to consume more blueberries. But those are not the only ways to incorporate more blueberries into your diet.

Make a smoothie. Blend blueberries into a smoothie containing frozen yogurt and other fruit. Drink it any time of the day as a filling snack or even a small meal.

Create a fruit salad. Blend together various fresh fruits into a delicious fruit salad. Squeeze fresh lemon juice on top to prevent browning of the fruits used.

Whip up overnight oats. Mix equal parts of almond milk, oats and Greek yogurt together in a container and let sit overnight. In the morning, mix in favorite some blueberries.

Add blueberries to batters. Mix blueberries into pancake or waffle batters to add extra nutrients to meals.

Flavor your drinks. Drop blueberries into water, fruit juices or lemonade for a nutritional boost.

Blueberries make nutritious additions to any diet, and there are various ways to incorporate more of this flavorful fruit into your meals.

Serve easy-to-make apple turnovers at summer gatherings

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Apple pie is a popular dish made from apples, but a close cousin to pie — turnovers — can be just as delicious. Turnovers are handheld desserts made with many of the same ingredients as pie. They are small pastries made by covering one half of a piece of dough with filling, folding the other half over on top, and then sealing the edges. Apple turnovers can be a sweet treat for July 4th barbecues or other events this summer. Enjoy this recipe, courtesy of PillsburyTM.

Easy Apple Turnovers

Serves 4

Ingredients:
1 1/2 cups thinly sliced, peeled apples (roughly 1 1/2 medium-sized apple)
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon lemon juice

1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 box Pillsbury™ refrigerated pie crusts
1 egg

Directions:

1. In a 2-quart saucepan, mix apples, brown sugar, 1 tablespoon of the water and lemon juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until bubbly. Reduce heat to low; cover and cook 6 to 8 minutes, stirring occasionally, until apples are tender.
2. In a small bowl, mix flour, granulated sugar and salt. Gradually stir into apple mixture, cooking and stirring until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; stir in butter and vanilla. Cool 15 minutes.
3. Meanwhile, heat oven to 350 degrees. Let pie crust pouch stand at room temperature for 15 minutes.

4. Remove pie crust from pouch; unroll crust on ungreased cookie sheet. Spoon cooled fruit mixture evenly onto half of crust to within 1/2 inch of edge.

5. In a small bowl, beat egg and 1 tablespoon water; brush over edge of crust. Fold untopped half of crust over apple mixture; firmly press edge to seal. Flute edge; cut small slits in several places in top crust. Brush top with remaining egg mixture.

6. Bake 25 to 35 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Serve warm or cool. Drizzle with icing, if desired.

Expert tips: Tart apples, such as Granny Smith or McIntosh, make flavorful pies. Braeburn or Gala apples provide good texture and a slightly sweeter flavor.

U.S. gymnast Simone Biles competes in the 2020 Tokyo Olympics on NBC and other outlets.

The same but different: Summer Olympics return post-pandemic

Shrouded in uncertainty and a year late, the 2020 Tokyo Olympics get going this week with as much anticipation as any in recent memory.

Kicking off Wednesday, July 21, two days before the Opening Ceremony on Friday, July 23, NBC along with USA Network, CNBC, NBC Sports Network, Golf Channel, Peacock, Olympic Channel, Telemundo, Universo, the NBC Sports app and NBCOlympics.com will provide over 7,000 hours of coverage of 33 sports. Among them are swimming, diving, basketball, gymnastics, track and field, beach volleyball and boxing, plus new sports karate, skateboarding, sport climbing and surfing and returnees baseball and softball.

More than 11,000 male and female athletes from 206 countries will be at these games, the status of which was in doubt as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. There will be no spectators at any of the venues, thanks to a state of emergency in the Japanese capital. But despite the anxiety and all the restrictions in place, Mike Tirico, NBC's prime-time studio host for these games, thinks Tokyo will make a fine host city.

"This is one of the great cities in the world," he says, "and I think tourists from around the world would've come to the games. And I think that's just the unfortunate part of this timing for the host city. You know, you plan seven years out for the games and this would've been such a spectacular games. And as you know, there's so much culture ...

"Having said that, I think they'll put on a great games," he continues. "The venues were, according to the IOC, more ready and prepared than any city that hosted the Summer Games, so we were really in for a great games. So from a preparation standpoint of the venues, the facilities for the athletes, I think that's going to be still as good as possible."

In the weeks prior to these games, Tirico has been crisscrossing the country, taking in qualifying events in various sports and making note of athletes to watch. And he's also looking at the big stories. In particular, Usain Bolt's absence means there will be a new fastest man in the world. And he sees U.S. gymnast Simone Biles adding more medals to her collection and the American swim team dominating as well.

And in soccer, the U.S. women's team will look for a modicum of redemption for their deflating loss to Sweden in the quarterfinals in Rio de Janeiro in 2016 when they face that country early in competition.

"Coming off the success of the World Cup," Tirico says, "I think the likes of Megan Rapinoe and everyone else has become extremely popular athletes in this country. And they're just one example of what I think is the overall strength of Team USA in Tokyo and that is the women's teams. ... It really will be a lot of the focus of the coverage and of America's best medal chances coming from many of those women."

Andrew Zimmern

For the unusual and the exotic, turn it to Cooking Channel and Food Network

No matter how much into food you are, you can always count on Food Network and Cooking Channel to show you something you've never seen before.

Be it a cuisine from a far-off land or a little-known protein or vegetable, there is always something that maybe you might want to try or at the very least watch someone else try it and hear what they think. So if you're bored with your own cooking and looking for new ideas, fire up the flatscreen and check out the following shows.

And nothing is more unusual than the fare that Andrew Zimmern digs into on the Thursday, July 22, episode of his Cooking Channel series "Bizarre Foods America," which lands him in Pittsburgh to try the goat heart tartare, a cutting edge dish that we won't try to describe except to say it sounds bloody interesting. Also on the menu are more conventional dishes like stuffed cabbage and braunschweiger.

A little less on the raw side are the munchies Zimmern digs into on "Bizarre Foods: Delicious Destinations" on Monday, July 19, on Cooking Channel, in which he samples what San Diego has to offer, including an octopus tostada, Filipino chicken adobo, So-Cal monster burritos and Mexican-inspired fish tacos. And San Diego is one town that knows how to do fish tacos right.

If it is small bites you seek, "Snackmasters" on Cooking Channel on Sunday, July 18, has chefs Anna Haugh and Aktar Islam trying to replicate a lunchbox favorite, a packet of Quavers, a potato-based snack from Great Britain that dates back more than 50 years and currently comes in flavors like cheese, prawn cocktail and salt and vinegar.

Over on Food Network, chef Michael Symon honors his Greek heritage on the Saturday, July 24, edition of "Symon's Dinners Cooking Out," with his own spins on two classic grilled foods: skewered chicken and pork souvlaki with a side of tzatziki sauce and homemade pita bread. Opa!

Not to be outdone, Valerie Bertinelli is testing the boundaries of cookie making on her Sunday edition of "Valerie's Home Cooking" by making cookies for any time of day, including a breakfast sandwich cookie, thyme and gruyere savory cookies, coconut chocolate chip cookies and chocolate and orange hazelnut cookies.

And on "The Kitchen" on Saturday, greens are the order of the day as Katie Lee Biegel cooks up spicy chicken eggplant boats, Alex Guarnaschelli uses every part of the carrot to prepare her roasted carrots with carrot-top pesto, and Geoffrey Zakarian goes spicy with his spinach and Swiss chard stew with coconut curry greens and lentils.

Liniker

OF 'SEPTEMBER MORNINGS' ON AMAZON

Your role of Brazilian trans singer Cassandra in Amazon's "September Mornings" was your first acting gig. How did you like the experience?

I liked it very much. Cassandra demanded a lot from me. It was a great (role), she's a great character. She had many layers of drama, so it was a first role and a great challenge that I worked very hard at because it was very important for me to give life to such a real character.

... It's the reality of a lot of people in Brazil.

What did you draw on to create the character?

I worked a lot and I had a coach following up who was incredible, who was very generous. He worked with the whole cast and he (helped build the characters). I studied a lot of lines. I looked at the character (as a human being) and the way that I wanted people to see her ... (The writers) gave a lot of space for me to bring my own experiences as a trans person, who could bring other perspectives and other experiences that only trans people and LGBTQ+ people can (bring forth) because they're the ones that lived it.

What elements of performing as a singer did you bring to your acting?

The fact that I'm a singer and an interpreter makes me understand Cassandra's passion for music. But at the same time in my process of building the character as an actress, I didn't want Cassandra to think as Liniker. I wanted Cassandra to think as Cassandra. So it was also a (case) of understanding how did the character sing? What were the ways that she had on the stage? ... Because I had my method as a singer and songwriter as Liniker but I wanted the character to have her own ownership of this place.

Olympic Dreams Featuring Jonas Brothers

8 p.m. on WXIA

The Jonas Brothers pursue their Olympic fantasy in this new one-hour special. Growing up in Wyckoff, N.J., Joe, Kevin and Nick Jonas were avid fans of the Olympic Games and, even as young boys, started fantasizing about competing at that lofty level with other world athletes. Their music careers forced those dreams off the front burner, but now, after more than a decade as pop superstars, the brothers get a chance to prove their mettle, as they are trained by some of Team USA's best athletes.

Hunting Atlantis

9:09 p.m. on DISC

Author and historian Stel Pavlou and volcanologist Jess Phoenix investigate a new trail of evidence, unearthing sunken cities, ancient artifacts and geological catastrophes, in a quest to locate the site of the fabled lost city of Atlantis in this new docu-series. The premiere, "Mystery of the Golden King," sends Pavlou and Phoenix on a trek to the Black Sea, where they investigate a 7,000-year-old skeleton buried in gold treasure. They also uncover evidence of an ancient catastrophe that could be the basis for Noah's flood and the destruction of Atlantis.

Good Trouble

10 p.m. on FREE

In the new episode "Shame," Callie (Maia Mitchell) starts to have second thoughts about whether allowing Mariana (Cierra Ramirez) to work for Kathleen (Constance Zimmer) was the right call. Elsewhere, Gael (Tommy Martinez) has some major news for everyone, and Malika (Zuri Adele) opens up a bit about Isaac (Sarunas J. Jackson). Meanwhile, Alice (Sherry Cola) and the CBTv comics are surprised to see a familiar face.

Retta

8 p.m. on FREE

After a deadly global pandemic throws the calendar for their senior year into chaos, the gang finally returns to Cal U and begin trying to reassemble their life and career plans in a new episode called “Demons.” Meanwhile, Zoey (Yara Shahidi) confronts a sobering reality that requires her to secure a viable internship in order to graduate as she originally planned. That means she has to face Rochelle (Raigan Harris), Aaron’s (Trevor Jackson) ex and a fellow Black activist, in the process.

Keeping Up With the Joneses

8 p.m. on LMN

This three-part limited event draws to a close in “The Wrong Blackmail,” as stepmother and Jones family matriarch Robin (Vivica A Fox) returns home after her ordeal at the hands of some ruthless kidnappers. While that particular crisis may have passed, however, the Jones women all are painfully aware they’re about to face their hardest challenges yet when it comes to keeping their business and family intact. Arie Thompson, Ciarra Carter, Jasmine Aivaliotis, Shellie Sterling and Ted McGinley also star; Kandi Burruss is the narrator.

Good Girls

9 p.m. on WXIA

This female-driven crime dramedy ends its run after four seasons with a series finale that airs as two back-to-back episodes. First, in “We’re Even,” the Secret Service forces the girls into a heist, while Ruby (Retta) tries to mend things between Beth and Stan (Christina Hendricks, Reno Wilson). Then, in “Nevada,” Beth and Rio (Manny Montana) form a surprise alliance without anticipating the shocking consequences of that partnership. As Ruby makes a tough decision, reality finally catches up with Annie (Mae Whitman). Matthew Lillard also stars.

What's Available NOW On

“Turner & Hooch” (July 21)

A continuation of the 1989 buddy-cop comedy of the same name, this comedy series casts Josh Peck (“The Wackness”) in the role of police detective Scott Turner, son of the detective portrayed by Tom Hanks in the film, who inherits an unruly dog who could turn out to be the partner he needs. Carra Patterson and Anthony Ruivivar also star. (ORIGINAL)

“Playing With Sharks: The Valerie Taylor Story” (July 23)

From National Geographic comes this 2021 documentary that follows legendary filmmaker and conservationist Valerie Taylor as she dives with sharks and endeavors to debunk many of the myths that are at the root of people’s fears of the creature. Which is somewhat ironic given that Taylor was one of the camera operators on the film most responsible for shark dread — “Jaws.”

“Stuntman” (July 23)

Hollywood stuntman Eddie Braun is in the spotlight in this 2018 documentary from director Kurt Mattila (“Lies and Alibis”), which follows him as he prepares for the most dangerous stunt in cinematic history, the infamous Snake River Canyon rocket jump unsuccessfully attempted in 1974 by Evel Knievel, his childhood idol.

“Ice Age: The Meltdown” (July 23)

A woolly mammoth, a sloth and a tiger (voices of Ray Romano, John Leguizamo and Denis Leary) learn their prehistoric home is about to be flooded, prompting them to try to warn their animal friends and get them to safety. Complicating things are another woolly mammoth (voice of Queen Latifah) and more lethal creatures suddenly defrosted by the climate change.

Dakota Laden

Eden: Untamed Planet

8 p.m. on AMC
Helena Bonham Carter (“The Crown”) narrates this stunning new six-part natural history series from the producers of the Emmy-winning “Blue Planet II.” The series takes viewers to the four corners of the Earth to visit the few remaining untouched lands, which still teem with mind-boggling biodiversity. The premiere, “Borneo: Sacred Forest,” focuses on the richest rain-forest island of them all, home to 60,000 species of plants and animals, 6,000 of which are unique to this location. This series will be simulcast on BBC America and AMC.

Destination Fear

9 p.m. on TRAV
Paranormal investigators Dakota and Chelsea Laden, Tanner Wiseman and Alex Schroeder hit America’s haunted highways, byways and backroads to find the scariest locations in America as they open Season 3 of this spooky docuseries. The season opener finds Dakota taking the team to Waverly Hills Sanatorium in Louisville, Ky. The now-closed facility was once a tuberculosis hospital where the death rate was so high, the staff installed a “body chute” to hide the constant flow of deceased patients from those living there.

2020 Tokyo Olympics

8 a.m. on WXIA
Men's basketball makes its first appearance at the 2020 Tokyo Olympics, with an American team including Kevin Durant, Damian Lillard and Jayson Tatum beginning its quest for a fourth straight gold medal in a group state game against France. Also, there is the road race in women's cycling plus competitions in swimming, rowing, kayaking/canoeing and water polo.

A Discovery of Witches

8 p.m. on AMC
Philippe (James Purefoy) provokes Matthew (Matthew Goode), goading him into revealing his terrifying vampiric blood rage to Diana (Teresa Palmer) in "Episode 6." Meanwhile, Diana learns of the prophecy that predicted her arrival into this time and place. Later, after Matthew tells Diana how Philippe died, the couple finally are married.

Unforgotten on Masterpiece

9 p.m. on WGTV
In the new episode 3, Cassie and Sunny (Nicola Walker, Sanjeev Bhaskar) interview each of the four suspects, but all of them deny knowing the victim, Matthew Walsh. DC Collier (Lewis Reeves) finds the storage unit, which contains a small freezer holding the dismembered head and hands of Walsh. Meanwhile, Boulting (Jordan Long) discovers that Walsh was cautioned three weeks before his death.

Kevin Can F... Himself

9 p.m. on AMC
Nick's (Robin Lord Taylor) timeline shifts just as Allison and Patty (Annie Murphy, Mary Hollis Inboden) prepare for the big night in a new episode called "Broken." Meanwhile, Kevin, Neil and Pete (Eric Petersen, Alex Bonifer, Brian Howe) start a band, but Neil soon grows paranoid that Kevin secretly has other plans when he finds a fertility clinic brochure in the trash.

2020 Tokyo Olympics

8 p.m. on WXIA

Swimming takes center stage tonight in Tokyo as hardware is handed out in the men's 200m freestyle, in which Kieran Smith represents Team USA's best chance for gold, as well as the women's 100m backstroke, where Americans Rhyan White and 19-year-old first-timer Regan Smith will vie for podium space. There are also finals in men's synchronized platform diving, men's team gymnastics and women's triathlon.

Roswell, New Mexico

8 p.m. on WUPA

Still reeling from the events of Season 2, the aliens and their human allies are drawn back together through a threat from a stranger who seems oddly familiar and a murder that has yet to happen as this cult sci-fi reboot returns for its third season. These new episodes will involve reunions, break-ups and the imminent death of someone they all hold dear. Jeanine Mason, Nathan Dean, Michael Vlamis, Lily Cowles and Tyler Blackburn are among the returnees; new recurring actors include Steven Krueger, Michael Grant Terry and Gillian Vigman.

The Republic of Sarah

9 p.m. on WUPA

Now that newcomers are petitioning to join Greylock's newly formed government, the community's fledgling congress must draw up an immigration policy in the new episode "Sanctuary." Meanwhile, a visitor from their past provokes different reactions from Sarah and Danny (Stella Baker, Luke Mitchell). AJ (Nia Halloway) shares a personal secret with

tonight's PICKS

Christopher Plummer

America's Top Dog

8 p.m. on A&E
In the new “The Tall, the Brave and the Engaged,” a Frisbee-catching veteran challenges a resilient demo dog (a pooch that assists in training sessions), while a female K9 goes up against the tallest dog featured on the show this season. Elsewhere, an engaged couple compete against each other with their terriers, who are siblings. By the end of the episode, only one dog will be sent on to the finale.

The Exception

8 p.m. on SHOW
Best known for his work in the theater, David Leveaux made his feature film directorial debut with this well-received 2016 wartime romance adapted from Alan Judd’s novel “The Kaiser’s Last Kiss.” The story is a fictionalized account of the latter days of exiled Kaiser Wilhelm II (Christopher Plummer, in another acclaimed performance). Jai Courtney (“Suicide Squad”) also stars as a Wehrmacht officer dispatched to investigate concerns that a British spy has infiltrated the Kaiser’s residence in Holland and plans to assassinate him.

David Makes Man

9 p.m. on OWN
In the new episode “Vizcaya,” after David (Akili McDowell) revisits the past with Seren (Nathaniel Logan McIntyre), he announces his true plan for Homestead Village. Meanwhile, JG (Cayden K. Williams) reveals more of his perspective on how events unfolded on the night when he was shot.

Motherland: Fort Salem

10 p.m. on FREE
Raelle (Taylor Hickson) brings Tally (Jessica Sutton) back home to the Cession, where they struggle to make peace with the past in the new episode “My 3 Dads.” Meanwhile, Abigail (Ashley Nicole Williams) finds herself confronted with a lot of unexpected family pressure when Adil (Tony Giroux) accompanies her home.

The bad news for 'Good Girls'? It's over

Q: Is "Good Girls" really ending? – Marcia Collins, via e-mail

A: It is, though NBC still had several episodes of the show's fourth and final season left to air when the cancellation announcement was made. Like another NBC series that recently ended, "Manifest," "Good Girls" – starring Christina Hendricks, Retta and Mae Whitman – was faring very well on Netflix, but that streaming service declined to continue the show with new episodes. Once that happened, it was "game over," since Universal Television wasn't going to shop "Good Girls" to other outlets. The deal Netflix made for it right from the start was significant, since NBC didn't have to foot the bill alone for the licensing fee ... which without NBC's involvement would have fallen to Netflix solely, and that likely was the breaker of any possible deal. If it's any consolation to fans, the existing episodes (including the last season) should remain available on Netflix for some time.

Q: I've seen references to Conan O'Brien having written for "The Simpsons." When, exactly, did he work on that show? – Mark Light, Columbus, Ohio

A: After his college tenure on the staff of The Harvard Lampoon, the former NBC and TBS talk-show host made several stops as a writer before reaching "The Simpsons." He worked on "Not Necessarily the News" and "The Wilton North Report," then joined "Saturday Night Live" for four years, winning an Emmy Award along with the rest of the show's writing team at the time. O'Brien's "Simpsons" tenure came after that, from 1991 to 1993, when executive producers Mike Reiss and Al Jean recruited him. And he's credited with adding a more surreal approach to the animated sitcom's stories. Among the more famous ones O'Brien wrote are "Marge vs. the Monorail" and "Homer Goes to College," and he stayed until the opportunity arose for him to succeed David Letterman on NBC's "Late Night" program. He was sought as a producer, but his agent held out to get him the host spot. The audience for his audition was comprised of other writers on "The Simpsons," and the rest is TV history ... O'Brien's, specifically. (Fox initially wouldn't let him out of his "Simpsons" contract, but NBC and O'Brien himself mutually paid to resolve that.)

"You become more human with each other. We were all there to lend a helping hand and support each other in whatever capacity we could. And who you're around is who you're around, and I think we all understood that." – Alexandra Daddario of "The White Lotus" on HBO and HBO Max, on working with the rest of the limited series' ensemble cast in Hawaii during the pandemic

"I've had the same hairstyle since I was, like, four years old. I like to have my hair down, and I like to feel feminine and girly ... and with this show, when it came to the hair department, it was just brutal (from the wind and humidity)." – Alison Victoria of "Battle on the Beach" on HGTV and Discovery+
