Mae (Crowe) Womack; and brothers, Randy Womack, Charles Womack.

The presence of Janice and the love she gave will be profoundly missed in the lives of her daughter and son-in-law, Jessica and Tim Faulkner; sons and daughters-in-law, David Carlile, Howard, Jr., and Kerrie Carlile, Tony and Tina Carlile, Shane and Sharon Carlile, Chris and Karen Carlile; 10 grandchildren, four great-grandchildren; sister, Cathy

Over the next several decades, Marie and Frank ran several food industry businesses together, including Stumpy's, the Split-T Drive-In, and Self Service grocery in Atlanta. After moving to Covington, they founded One Stop grocery, Frank's Restaurant, and later, Best Septic Tank Service. Marie and Frank enjoyed going to plays at the Fox Theatre in Atlanta and spending time at their dream vacation home in Daytona Beach Shores, Florida. Marie was a member of St. Augustine Catholic Church in Covington for 50 years. In addition to her parents she is preceded in death by her husband of 57 years Frank Phillip Castellana Sr., their infant daughter, and her sister Catherine Ann Chisnell. Dorothy Elizabeth Alston Stevenson

Dorothy Elizabeth Alston Stevenson was born Jan. 13, 1923, on a farm near Swanwick, Illinois, to Henry and Bessie Alston. She passed away on Oct. 25, 2020, in the Golden Ivy Personal Care Home in Jonesboro, Georgia. She was the widow of Carl Lee Stevenson, who died in 1984. She had two sisters, Ruth Dick-ey and Florence Alston, who both preceded her in death.

Dorothy graduated with a teaching degree from Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Illinois, and taught all 12 grades in a one-room country schoolhouse for one year, then decided that was not what she wanted to do with her life. She moved to St. Louis, and started as a secretary during WWII, gradually changing jobs and moving up until she went to work for the Federal Government, where she was assigned to the U.S. Army as a civilian. She retired as an E-15. Her crowning achievement was as the procurement specialist and financial liaison for the Blackhawk helicopter, making sure the correct parts for the helicopter were obtained and paid for. She referred to it as "her" helicopter.

Dorothy lived a life of service to others. She was active in her church, John Knox Presbyterian of Florissant, Missouri, for many years as a Deacon and Elder. She had a hand in many missions until she was unable to attend.

She was very active in Eastern Star for 25 years, and served as Worthy Matron of the Florissant chapter in 2003. She held a variety of offices in that organization, and was a strong and dedicated leader. In 2005, she served as Grand Representative of Australia in Missouri for Retha Squires.

She helped countless friends in countless ways over the years with her time, her generosity and her keen intellect.

She is survived by her niece, Mary Ellen Austin and her husband, Roger Austin, of Jackson, Georgia, where she spent the last four months of her life.

A memorial service will be held in her home in St. Louis at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 1, 2020. Interment will be at Caledonia Cemetery in Sparta, Illinois. In lieu of flowers, please consider a donation to Shriners Hospitals for Children, or the charity of your choice in Dorothy's name.

Those desiring may visit the online guest registry at www.haistenfuneral.com to leave messages and condolences for the family.

Haisten Funeral Home of Jackson is serving the Stevenson family.

COVINGTON, Ga. – As with many things this year, Halloween may look a little different for the ghouls and goblins wanting to enjoy spooky tricks while snacking on tasty treats. However, Dr. Samira L. Brown, a pediatrician with Piedmont Physicians Covington Pediatrics, said there are plenty of new, safe ways to enjoy Halloween while minimizing risk.

"Although the COVID-19 pandemic has changed the types of Halloween activities children and families would typically participate in, like haunted houses or indoor Halloween parties, there are still ways to have fun while keeping yourself and others safe," Brown said. "The CDC has provided guidelines that outline the risk of specific activities, and I think families will find there are many low risk activities they can do together."

Referencing the CDC's guidelines, Brown suggested families participate in lower-risk activities such as carving or decorating pumpkins and then displaying them, having a family Halloween movie night. Another lower risk activity that can be done with friends and neighbors is to hold a virtual costume contest.

"The lowest-risk activities are going to be those where you are interacting in-person with only those in your immediate household," Brown said. "Even doing socially-distanced activities outside with friends or neighbors creates more risk."

The CDC also outlines activities considered to pose moderate or higher risk to possible COVID-19 exposure. Moderate-risk activities include costume contests held outside, even when attendees are socially distanced six feet or more apart; having a socially distanced outdoor movie night with local friends and neighbors; and participating in one-way trick-or-treating where individually wrapped goody bags are displayed for trick-or-treaters to grab and go.

Higher-risk activities include traditional door-to-door trick-or-treating and attending indoor parties and haunted houses. A full list of activities and their levels of risk can be found by visiting www.cdc.gov.

Whatever your Halloween plans, Brown said to be mindful of the three "Ws" — Wear your face covering; Wash your hands; Watch your distance. "The COVID-19 pandemic has encouraged us to get more creative in how we interact with one another," Brown said. "We want everyone to be safe and limit risk, while also having fun and creating new memories."

latest reporting period covering July 1 through Sept. 30, and the same amount of contributions overall throughout the year.

His expenditures during the period, July 1 to Sept. 30, totaled $26,398 for mailers, advertisements and other campaign needs — leaving him $3,001 on hand on Sept. 30.

The campaign’s top contribution was a $5,000 loan Brown made to himself from The Brown Group, which is a masonry contractor and residential property management company Brown has operated since 1976.

Brown’s top contributors also included convenience store operators Krunal Patel of Jonesboro, KMW Best Value of Riverdale, the JK Group of Companies LLC of Spalding County, and Friends Group 2020, doing business as AK Express in Macon; amusements company Epic Amusement of Spalding County; and Dixit B. Patel of Piscataway, New Jersey, who gave $2,800 each.

Other top contributors included Community Fellowship Baptist Church of Covington, which gave $1,900; and $500 each from R. Mark Simpson of Maryland and J.O. Anderson of Covington.

State law limits individual campaign contributions to $2,800 each during a general election, according to information from the Georgia Government Transparency and Campaign Finance Commission.

Brown’s Republican challenger, Covington Police Capt. Ken Malcom, received $49,128 in contributions during the Sept. 30 reporting period and $140,591 in contributions overall.

Expenditures of $19,489 during the period and $86,519 throughout the year left him with $54,071 on hand on Sept. 30, according to the disclosures.

Among Malcom’s top contributors were Reginald McFarland of Social Circle, $2,000; Alliance Corrugated and Display of Madison, $1,000; Covington attorney Bryan Pulliam, $800; Jared Rutberg of Covington, $650; Janton Custom Works of Sugar Hill, $540; Covington Hearing Associates, $500; and South Covington Square LLC, $500.

Malcom’s expenditures went for social media, T-shirts, campaign consulting and more.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Former assistant district attorney Destiny Bryant reported contributions of $19,980 during the period ending Sept. 30 and $34,867 overall.

Bryant, a Democrat, reported expenditures of $15,959 during the period and $24,979 to date, leaving her $9,888 on hand on Sept. 30.

Her top contributors included Patricia Stansfield of Covington, $2,800; Adrian Welch of AW Trucking in Conyers, $2,800; AT&T technician Willie Loftley of Conyers, $1,500; DeKalb County District Attorney Sherry Boston, $1,000; and $500 each from Negalign Kassage of Clarkston and attorneys Justin Kenney of Conyers, Careton Matthews of Lithonia, and Noah Pines of Atlanta.

Bryant’s opponent, acting District Attorney Randy McGinley, reported $28,025 in contributions this period and $46,410 throughout the year.

He spent $14,002 during the reporting period and $23,785 overall, leaving the Republican candidate $22,624 on hand on Sept. 30.

McGinley’s top contributors included Monroe law firm Preston & Malcom, $2,800; and Joe Crump of Loganville, $2,500.

Other top contributions included $1,000 each from Monroe attorney David Dickinson, Atlanta appraiser Robert Hendley, Michael Cote of Loganville, and the election campaigns of Walton County Sheriff Joe Chapman and State Rep. Barry Fleming of Harlem; and $600 each from Lowe Enterprises of Loganville and Monroe law firm Atkinson Ferguson LLC.

NOISE:

The ordinance, as first read Friday, was amended in several sections, specifically targeting motor vehicles and mufflers. It was amended to state, “No person shall operate a motor vehicle at any time in such a manner that the exhaust noise is plainly audible at 200 feet.”

The definition of “plainly audible” was introduced as a new addition to the ordinance, which “means any sound that can be detected by a person using his or her unaided hearing faculties.”

Sanders said the amendment was not calling for a ban on “loud mufflers or loud vehicles.” Rather, it would simply give the city’s police department authority to write citations for “extensively loud vehicles” regardless of what muffler system — or lack thereof — a vehicle has. Citations would be issued at the officer’s discretion based on the ordinance’s guidelines, Sanders said.

Currently, police can only write a citation if the motor vehicle does not meet adequate equipment standards outlined in the ordinance.

Another amendment to the ordinance was to further specify the legal meaning of a “motor vehicle” to include “any motorcycle.”

Violators of the ordinance could be fined up to $1,000 or face up to 30 days in jail. Per the ordinance, offenders may be granted 15 days to address the vehicle’s sound issue.

Measured with a sound level meter using the A-weighting network (dB(A)), the maximum permissible sound levels throughout the city are as follows (listed by Receiving Land Use Category):

- Residential, noise-sensitive area, public space: 60 dB(A) from 7 a.m.-10 p.m.; 55 dB(A) from 10 p.m.-7 a.m.
- Multifamily dwelling: 50 dB(A) from 7 a.m.-10 p.m.; 45 dB(A) from 10 p.m.-7 a.m.
- Commercial: 65 dB(A) from 7 a.m.-10 p.m.; 60 dB(A) from 10 p.m.-7 a.m.
- Industrial: 75 dB(A) at all times

For reference, a conversation in a restaurant or office, background music or an air conditioning unit heard at 100 feet measures 60 decibels, which is half as loud as 70 decibels, according to IACacoustics.com. A vacuum cleaner’s output measures 70 decibels. Upper 70s are “annoyingly loud to some people” according to the website. A motorcycle heard at 25 feet registers 90 decibels, which is “four times as loud” as 70 decibels.

Specific prohibitions include:

- Horns, signaling devices — the sounding of any horn or signaling device on any motor vehicle continuously for a period in excess of 60 seconds, except as a danger warning.
- Street Sales — the offering for sale by shouting or outcry within any area, except by permit issued by the city.

- Animals — the owning, possessing or harboring of any animal which frequently howls, barks, meows, squawks or makes other sounds that create excessive and unnecessary noise.
- Powered model vehicles — the operating of, or permitting the operation of, powered model vehicles in such a manner as to exceed the levels set for public space land use, measured at a distance of not closer than 100 feet from the operator.
- Emergency signaling devices — except in case of an emergency or training, the intentional sounding of any alarm; the testing of any alarm for a period in excess of 60 seconds at any time; the testing of a complete emergency signaling system more than once in each calendar month, and the sounding of said emergency signaling system for a period in excess of 15 minutes.

Exemptions from the sound level limits include:

- Domestic power tools, lawn mowers and agricultural equipment, when operated with a muffler.

- Noises resulting from any authorized emergency vehicles when responding to an emergency.
- Noises resulting from the operation of the Covington Municipal Airport.
- Noises made during an event by persons having obtained an appropriate permit issued by the police chief.
- Any noise resulting from activities of a temporary duration, for which a special permit has been granted pursuant to this chapter, and which conforms to the conditions and limits stated thereon.
- Noises from bells or chimes emanating from places of worship.

A second reading of the amended ordinance will be read for approval at the council’s next meeting, Monday, Nov. 2.

During the meeting, the council also voted 4-3 to amend the 2021 Budget for the $30,000 donation to the Newton County Board of Commissioners for homeless shelter assistance. Council members Susie Keck, Fleeta Baggett and Don Floyd were opposed; Mayor Steve Horton broke the tie.

Can Republicans keep it together?

Even if Doug Collins somehow gets into a runoff and wins Georgia’s U.S. Senate seat now held by Kelly Loeffler, what are the chances he can mend the wounds being created in this race among Republicans?

Will the old political adage, “Democrats fall in love, Republicans fall in line,” hold true? The split among Republicans is evident down to the county level, pitting county party leaders against sheriffs in some cases.

For those living under a rock, U.S. Rep. Doug Collins of Gainesville is giving up his safe 9th Congressional District seat to battle against Loeffler, who was Gov. Brian Kemp’s appointee to one of Georgia’s two U.S. Senate seats.

Collins was a very vocal and visible supporter of President Donald Trump during impeachment hearings in January against Trump in the last days of pre-COVID America. Longtime Georgia congressman and U.S. senator Johnny Isakson disclosed in 2015 he was diagnosed with Parkinson’s disease but decided to seek re-election in 2016. He won but, as the disease progressed, he announced he would resign Dec. 31, 2019, which was three years before his term ended.

Kemp — some would say surprisingly — selected Loeffler, the ultra-wealthy wife of the head of a company that owns the New York Stock Exchange, in an effort to regain the support of suburban women who supported Democrats in Georgia in the 2018 election.

Loeffler also owns Atlanta’s franchise in the Women’s National Basketball Association and pledged to spend millions of her own money on the race.

Collins was well-liked by Republican state lawmakers after serving three terms in the Georgia House before his election to the U.S. House. Trump lobbied Kemp in the early stages for Collins, who also won the public support of House Speaker David Ralston and former governor Nathan Deal.

On the other hand, Kemp and Lt. Gov.

Geoff Duncan are among the Republicans supporting Loeffler.

Polls in Georgia races have proven to be not as generous to Republicans as the final outcome showed. Case in point: polls generally showed Republican David Perdue and Democrat Michelle Nunn neck and neck in support days before the 2014 election for U.S. Senate. Yet, Perdue prevailed with 53% of the vote.

Polling in this year’s Senate race show Loeffler and Collins battling for second place and a spot in a runoff with Democrat Raphael Warnock, who is the leader at this point and someone Georgia Democrats have united behind. Warnock appeared to gain the lead under the radar as Loeffler and Collins waged their well-watched battle royale. The Democrat is from Savannah and leads Atlanta’s historic Ebenezer Baptist Church. He, like Loeffler before, has no political experience.

During a recent debate, Loeffler accused Collins of backing liberal proposals during his time in the House. She also has criticized him for work as a defense attorney for indigent clients whom judges assigned to his law firm.

Collins claimed Loeffler is a former liberal who hosted people like Democratic gubernatorial nominee Stacey Abrams at an Atlanta Dream game. Both went after Warnock for not publicly criticizing groups like Antifa, which was alleged to have been in the middle of violent protests this summer. Warnock said he was against any form of violence during otherwise peaceful protests.

I believe either Loeffler or Collins retain the advantage in this race if either get into a runoff against Warnock. Georgia is still an overall Republican state despite strongly Democratic pockets in the metro areas. The question will be whether Collins or Loeffler will be able to keep the party together if either wins.

Other areas are seeing the same divisions within the GOP. Look at the 14th Congressional District in northwest Georgia where Alpharetta transplant Marjorie Greene moved and defeated a local physician, John Cowan, for the Republican nomination. She is the de facto winner of the seat after her Democratic opponent dropped out of the race.

The race split Republicans in northwest Georgia at a time when voters in the district — which runs from suburban Chattanooga in the north to suburban Atlanta in the south — need to keep the party together amid changing demographics that favor Democrats.

The GOP has held power in Georgia for roughly 18 years after centuries of Democrat rule. In the final years of Democrat power, the party held on through a loose coalition of rural whites and urban Blacks. It fell apart with incumbent Roy Barnes’ loss in the 2002 governor’s race to a then-unknown state senator named Sonny Perdue.

This Senate race and subsequent runoff will be a test of Republicans’ penchant for uniting and being motivated by their hatred for whatever Democrat is in power.

Sincerely,

Dawn M. Jones

Rep. Dave Belton Georgia House of Representatives, District 112

America can do better with proven outsider

In 2009, the White House was confronted with the H1N1 or “Swine Flu” virus.

President Obama reassured the public that there was “no need to panic” and placed Joe Biden in charge.

“We did every possible thing wrong,” admitted Biden’s chief of staff. “60M Americans got H1N1 during that time, and it is purely a fortuity that this isn’t one of the great mass casualty events in American history. It had nothing to do with us doing anything right. It just had to do with luck.”

Experts have concluded that if H1N1 was as lethal as COVID, the US would have had 2 million deaths. They also predicted 2.2M deaths from COVID. Thanks to Trump’s rapid response, we’ve only had 10% of that.

Like SARS, the Bird Flu, H1N1, and the Asian flu; COVID-19 came from China. The Communists knew last December how deadly the virus was, yet they lied to everyone, saying it was not a threat as late as February.

As early as January Trump created the Corona Task Force. Days later, he issued a ban on travel from China.

Biden called this “xenophobic.”

Trump then issued rules for nursing homes, lifted restrictions on telemedicine, enacted the Defense Production Act, created billions of pieces of PPE, and shut down the economy. He created hospitals like the Javits Center in New York City, deployed the hospital ships USNS Comfort and Mercy, and ordered GM to make ventilators. He also passed four different relief packages, pumping $3 trillion into the economy in the largest stimulus package in history.

It worked. US hospitals were never overrun, and not one American who needed a ventilator didn’t get one. Governors across the nation applauded the president, saying they got everything they asked for. “Promise made; promise kept,” said California Gov. Newsome. “We needed help, and they were there,” admitted New York Gov. Cuomo.

The result? The U.S. case fatality rate of 2.7% is lower than most other major country, save for Japan and South Korea. Many Europeans nations’ mortality rate is twice as high, three times as high, even four times worse.

It’s true that the US has a lot of cases. That’s because we’ve tested way more people than any other country: over 100 million souls. We are now distributing another 150 million tests that can be administered in 15 minutes. That means 3/4 of the US will be tested.

Normally, it takes years to develop a vaccine. Because of “Operation Warp Speed,” we have four different vaccines at the final stage of testing. That is nothing short of remarkable — and yet another example of what American businesses can accomplish when government bureaucracy gets out of the way.

The truth is, Trump has done more in 47 months than Biden has done in 47 years. He’s rebuilt the military, defeated ISIS, and signed three historic peace treaties in the Middle East. You rarely hear about that troubled region anymore, because he took off the handcuffs of our military and let our soldiers win. Far from starting more wars, Trump is bringing our troops home and making NATO pay its fair share.

Trump has been very hard on Russia and China, imposing severe sanctions and tariffs.

He also armed Ukraine against Russia. He got us out of the horrible TPP and re-negotiated NAFTA in to a much better deal.

Thanks to fracking, the U.S. is energy independent for the first time in 75 years. That means we aren’t beholden to Arab nations. It also means the price at the pump is nearly half of what it was. Biden has repeatedly said he’s against fracking, and pledged to end the oil industry; handicapping one of America’s biggest strengths into an expensive, job-killing weakness.

Let me say that again: Biden said he would kill 10 million American jobs and nearly 9% of our economy.

Trump garnered the lowest unemployment rate in history for women, Blacks, Hispanics and Asians. He created the fourth largest job growth in history, nearly three times better than Obama’s. He had a monster GDP growth rate of over 3%, and brought many manufacturing jobs back to America. He also gave us a huge tax cut, helping 82% of middle-class families — and low-income workers — much more than the rich.

Biden vows to take away that cut. That means higher taxes for every middle-class family.

Trump cut hundreds of regulations, letting business work again. He also removed the burdensome Obamacare Mandate — a horrible system that raised premiums and separated people from their doctors.

If you have any doubt about who runs the country better, consider this: unemployment rate in blue states now is 11%. In the red states it’s nearly half at 6%. COVID deaths per capita are, by far, worst in four blue states. Massachusetts and Connecticut are nearly double Georgia. New York and New Jersey are triple.

Joe Biden is the ultimate insider, and one of the longest-running career politicians in American history. His only message is fear, pledging a “dark winter” for America. The only legislative accomplishment he’s ever had — in nearly 50 years — was a Crime Bill that disproportionately threw tens of thousands of Blacks in prison. He now says it was a terrible mistake.

America can do better: with an outsider with proven results.

Fun by the Numbers

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED

Piedmont Academy capped off its dream season by winning the Georgia Independent School Association Class AA state championship. The Lady Cougars finished the year 18-3-1 and were unbeaten in the postseason.

Lady Cougars win GISA Class AA state championship

By CHRIS BRIDGES

Correspondent

The Piedmont Academy fast-pitch softball team can now say “mission accomplished.”

The Lady Cougars (18-3-1) swept Briarwood Academy 7-1 and 10-5 in the GISA Class AA state championship series in Dublin last week for the second state championship in program history. Piedmont went undefeated in the postseason and stopped a strong Lady Buccaneer team.

“This has been a season to remember for sure,” coach Joe Johnson said. “This group of young ladies have worked very hard since the third week of June and they definitely earned this state championship. I couldn’t be any prouder of them for it.”

After Piedmont won game one in the best-of-three series on Thursday, the teams ventured to Dublin once more on Saturday. Briarwood took early control of game two of the series, leading 5-1 after the top of the third inning.

The Lady Cougars, however, would score three runs in the bottom of the third, fourth and fifth innings. Briarwood was unable to push any additional runs across home plate and Piedmont was able to celebrate winning the state championship trophy.

Emily McEwen helped pace the Lady Cougars at the plate in the series-clinching game, driving in four runs. Maddie Waddleton also had two RBI while Haley Ann Frank collected two hits including a triple and an RBI. Marissa Holder drew two walks.

Averi Camp went the distance in the pitcher’s circle recording two strikeouts.

Piedmont overcame four errors in the contest.

“Saturday’s game was a bit different from the first one in the series,” Johnson said. “The first couple of innings we couldn’t do anything right defensively, gave up some runs early. We finally settled in and started getting the ball in play for the win and the championship.”

GAME ONE

In the first game of the series on Thursday the Lady Cougars led 1-0 after the top of the first inning. That lead held up all the way until the sixth when Briarwood tied the score.

The top of the seventh inning saw Piedmont score six runs to take control. The Lady Cougars finished the game with nine hits compared to only three for Briarwood.

In the seventh, Holder singled to score Emily Whitwell for a 2-1 lead. Ava Anglin then drove in Frank and Holder. A sacrifice fly by Fleming Sealy scored Teagan Satterfield.

Waddleton then had an RBI single to bring home Anglin. Jayden Young also had an RBI single in the inning to score Waddleton.

Frank had three hits on Thursday while Waddleton connected for two and Holder added one. Frank and Waddleton both drew walks.

Anglin finished the game with three RBI while Holder and Waddleton both had one.

SUMMARIES OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

PURSUANT

TO requirements of the Georgia Constitution, Attorney General Christopher Carr, Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger, and Legislative Counsel Richard C. Ruskell hereby provide the summaries of the proposed constitutional amendments that will appear on the November 3, 2020, general election ballot for consideration by the people of Georgia (short captions are those adopted by the Constitutional Amendments Publication Board):

AUTHORIZES DEDICATION of fees and taxes to their intended purposes by general state law.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 164
RESOLUTION ACT No. 597
GA. L. 2020, p. 919

“() YES

“() NO
SHALL THE Constitution of Georgia be amended so as to authorize the General Assembly to dedicate revenues derived from fees or taxes to the public purpose for which such fees or taxes were intended?”

SUMMARY

THIS PROPOSAL authorizes the Georgia General Assembly by general law to require that fees or taxes collected for some specific intended public purpose be used as so intended. It requires any such general law to identify the specific public purpose, name the state agency to administer the funds, require the agency to make annual reports of revenues and expenses, and automatically end the fee or tax within ten years. It prohibits the General Assembly from designating funds when total revenues so dedicated equal or exceed one percent of the total state revenues based on the previous fiscal year’s appropriated state revenues. It exempts such general laws from certain state constitutional restrictions. It requires that such general laws, including amendments, be approved by two-thirds of each chamber of the General Assembly, but allows for repeal of such general laws by simple majority vote. It prohibits attempts to reallocate dedicated funds through any appropriations act or amendment. It provides for temporary suspension of such general laws by the Governor or by the General Assembly in the event of a financial emergency, subject to certain limitations. It amends Article III, Section IX, Paragraph VI of the Georgia Constitution by redesignating the second subparagraph (o), relating to the dedication of the excise tax on the sale of fireworks, as subparagraph (p), by redesignating subparagraph (p), relating to the Georgia Outdoor Stewardship Fund, as subparagraph (q), and by adding a new subparagraph (r).

A COPY of this entire proposed constitutional amendment is on file in the office of the judge of the probate court and is available for public inspection.

WAIVES STATE and local sovereign immunity for violation of state laws, state and federal constitutions.

HOUSE RESOLUTION 1023
RESOLUTION ACT No. 596
GA. L. 2020, p. 917

“() YES

“() NO
SHALL THE Constitution of Georgia be amended to waive sovereign immunity and allow the people of Georgia to petition the superior court for relief from governmental acts done outside the scope of lawful authority or which violate the laws of this state, the Constitution of Georgia, or the Constitution of the United States?”

SUMMARY

THIS PROPOSAL waives state and local sovereign immunity so as to allow citizens to sue the State of Georgia, its departments and other agencies, and its local governments in superior courts and authorizes superior courts to order state and local officers and employees to cease violations of the Georgia Constitution, the laws of the State of Georgia, or the United States Constitution, beginning with violations occurring on or after January 1, 2021. It requires that such suits be brought only against the State or Georgia, or in the case of a local government, against the specific local government. It requires superior courts to dismiss any such lawsuit that names any individual state or local public officer or employee as a defendant. It maintains the ability of superior courts to dismiss such suits based on other appropriate legal or equitable grounds or limitation on review in superior court. It prohibits any type of monetary award, including attorney’s fees or costs of litigation, unless authorized by an Act of the Georgia General Assembly. It does not prohibit the General Assembly from further waiving certain other immunities provided for under Georgia’s Constitution, though it does not waive any immunity provided for by the United States Constitution. It amends Article I, Section II, Paragraph V of the Georgia Constitution by rendering the current text subparagraph (a) and adding a new subparagraph (b).

A COPY of this entire proposed constitutional amendment is on file in the office of the judge of the probate court and is available for public inspection.

SUMMARIES OF PROPOSED STATE-WIDE REFERENDUM QUESTIONS

PURSUANT To Code Section 21-2-4 of the O.C.G.A., the Secretary of State is authorized to include with the summaries of proposed constitutional amendments summaries of any state-wide referendum questions to be voted on at the same general election:

PROVIDES TAX exemption for certain single-family homes owned by tax exempt charities.

HOUSE BILL No. 344
ACT NO. 149
GA. L. 2019, p. 438

“() YES

“() NO
SHALL THE Act be approved which provides an exemption from ad valorem taxes for all real property owned by a purely public charity, if such charity is exempt from taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the federal Internal Revenue Code and such real property is held exclusively for the purpose of building or repairing single-family homes to be financed by such charity to individuals using loans that shall not bear interest?”

SUMMARY

THIS PROPOSAL authorizes a new exemption from ad valorem taxes for all real property owned by a purely public charity, if such charity is exempt from federal taxation and such property is used only for building or repairing single-family homes to be financed by such charity to individuals using zero interest loans. It amends Code Section 48-5-41 of the Official Code of Georgia Annotated by deleting “and” at the end of paragraph (14), by replacing the period with “; and” at the end of paragraph (15), and by adding a new paragraph.

IF APPROVED by a majority of the voters, the Act becomes effective on January 1, 2021, and applies to all tax years beginning on or after that date.

Rams brace for stampede

Newton plays host to unbeaten Broncos in Region 4-AAAAAAA matchup

By MASON WITTNER
mwittner@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — The road to victory may not be much easier for Newton this week, but it could at least be much closer to home.

The struggling Rams will return to the friendly confines of Sharp Stadium for the first time in a month on Friday night when they welcome red-hot Brookwood to Newton County.

After opening the season with double-digit victories over Alcovy and Eastside, Newton has hit a rough patch. The club took off for a three-game road trip and came home empty-handed after suffering losses to McEachern (8-7), Houston County (21-7) and Parkview (35-7).

During the Rams' most recent setback, an early turnover allowed momentum to swing in favor of the host Panthers.

"We drove down the field with an opportunity to tie the game up, hit a big play to Nyland [Green] on a vertical route, and then got down inside the 10 before throwing an interception in the end zone," Newton head coach Camiel Grant Jr. recalled this week. "And then for the rest of the night it was just kind of like that. We'd make a good play, and then we'd drop a pass, or we'd miss a protection, or we'd miss a block."

Newton's defense did the best it could to keep the team in the game. Unfortunately, the offense was never able to get out of its own way for long enough to mount a comeback against a powerhouse like the Panthers.

"The biggest thing was just that we ran into a real good football team," Grant said, "and we made way too many mistakes to stay in the football game against a good ball team."

Newton's next test could perhaps be its most difficult one of the season. Brookwood is sitting at 6-0 on the year with victories over the likes of Dacula (40-34), Walton (43-32) and Marietta (56-42) already under its belt.

Going into last week, Brookwood quarterback Dylan Loneragan led the state with 1,774 passing yards. The sophomore gunslinger now sits third behind Prince Avenue Christian senior Brock Vandagriff (1,878), a University of Georgia commit, and Mount Vernon senior Blake Kytle (1,942).

The Broncos enjoy airing the ball out and have the necessary weapons to find success in doing so, which will put Newton's elite secondary to the test for four quarters. However, in order to slow down the air raid attack, the Rams believe they must first focus on keeping Brookwood honest in the ground game.

"Anytime you go into a ballgame you know you've got to stop the run, and that'll be no different for us facing Brookwood. But I think the first thing for us is taking a look and seeing what they're doing in the passing game and how we can slow that down," Grant said. "And if we'll be able to do that without adding extra guys to the box."

Newton will also try to piece things together on the offensive side of the ball this week.

The Rams have looked sharp in spurts through the first five games of the season. Junior quarterback Jevarra Martin Jr. possesses the proper arm strength to push the ball down the field, the Rams' stable of running backs have the speed to evade defenders and the receiver corps is loaded with talent.

At the end of the day, it comes down to execution.

"When we go back and look at the tap, what we're seeing is just a lack of finishing and execution," Grant said. "We've got loess guys in the wrong place than we had a couple of weeks ago. They're getting to the right spots but then they're not finishing."

So, how can that be fixed? Newton will begin by drilling home the importance of the small things.

"We're going to spend a lot of time this week on making those difficult plays like contested catches and moving the ball in difficult situations," Grant said. "I really feel like the way that the momentum of a ballgame goes, if one of those plays is made early on, your confidence level changes. It just changes the whole feel of what you're trying to do."

Kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Follow The Covington News on Facebook and @CovNewsSports on Twitter for live updates.

Tigers ready to spring back into action

By MASON WITTNER
mwittner@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — At long last, the Alcovy football team will be competing on a Friday once again.

When the Tigers walked off the field following a 39-7 loss to South Forsyth on Oct. 9, they knew they'd made it through the first half of the season. What they didn't know at the time, however, was that their next two opponents, Lowndes and Colquitt County, would have COVID-19 outbreaks that would force them to cancel their games.

Consequently, Alcovy found itself on a two-week hiatus.

The extended break will come to an end this Friday night when the Tigers (0-5, 0-0) hit the road to open Region 3-AAAAAA play at Grovetown (1-5, 0-1).

"It's really important for us to get back into it this this week, especially when we have region play," Alcovy head coach Jason Dukes said. "We were looking forward to the competition of going down and playing against Lowndes and Colquitt County, but unfortunately they had an outbreak that prevented us from doing that. Now, it's really important for us to get back in competitive football mode."

Alcovy used the last two weeks to get players healthy while also hammering down the fundamentals.

The club found success with the ground attack in each of its last two games, but struggled to sustain it for four quarters. That's one of the areas the Tigers have sought to improve entering region play.

"Against Eastside we ran the ball really well. We ran the ball, at times, really well against South Forsyth as well. But consistency and efficiency are important," Dukes said.

Still in search of their first victory of the year, the Tigers remain encourage. Non-region games are crucial for development, but Alcovy understands its chances of earning a playoff spot will be determined solely by what unfolds in the weeks ahead.

"We never minimize the importance of a game, regardless of if it's a region game or not. They're all important," Dukes said. "But with the goals of being competitive and winning our region, those goals are still in front of us."

Grovetown has had issues putting the ball on the ground through this season. Look for the Tigers to be opportunistic and try to turn the table early in the turnover department to set themselves up for run-happy situations.

made a lot of big plays to keep them from scoring. Offensively we couldn't put much together until the top of the seventh when we finally started putting some hits and some good base running together to score six runs. We then held them three-up, three-down in the bottom of the seventh for the win."

McEwen pitched seven innings for Piedmont with three strikeouts. Madison Kay pitched well for Briarwood, especially in first six innings, finishing with several strikeouts.

"This was definitely the most stressful series not just because it was for the state championship, but because Briarwood was going to bring some new challenges," Johnson said. "They had four slappers in their lineup and two really good pitchers so we went to work on last Monday trying to get ready for that."
