Six arrested in series of drive-by shootings

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — City police believe they have found who is responsible for a series of recent drive-by shooting incidents reported since Nov. 18 in Covington following the arrests of three adults and three juveniles.

Covington Police arrested three juveniles, including a 14-year-old, in connection with drive-by shootings Sunday, Nov. 21, at two separate residences, said spokesper-sons for the Newton County Sheriff's Office and Covington Police Department.

They also charged three adults each with multiple counts of Aggravated Assault following a Thursday, Nov. 18, drive-by shooting on Thrash Street, said Capt. Ken Malcom of the Covington Police.

Find updates on this developing story and other local news at CovNews.com

The three adults were arrested after Covington officers responded a report of gunshots in the Thrash Street area. Residents told a 911 operator "someone drove by and shot their house multiple times," Malcom said.

He said Officer Matt Holbrook spotted a vehicle matching a description of the suspected shooters on Washington Street.

"Officers then conducted a felony stop and while clearing the passenger area of the vehicle, could see a gun in the backseat through the window," Malcom said. "Officers secured this firearm and also discovered a rifle and a third pistol."

Covington Police charged three men who were inside the vehicle with seven counts each of Aggravated Assault.

They included driver Jamond Bloodshaw, 22, of Conyers; Deshawn Grayson, 22, of Covington; and Keith SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — A truck that tried to avoid traffic that was braking on the interstate caused several crashes on one of the busiest travel days of the year.

A tractor-trailer heading west on I-20 near the Monroe/Monticello exit topped a hill, and the driver noticed traffic was slowing down rapidly.

It happened just before 10:45 a.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 24, the day before Thanksgiving.

In an attempt to avoid another tractor-trailer head, the truck swerved and hit a black Chevrolet Tahoe in the left lane.

The tractor-trailer then swerved again and hit a black Jeep in the left lane, then struck a black Chrysler Pacifica owned by a Covington funeral home which was transporting a body.

The funeral home vehicle was stopped when the truck hit it and pushed off the north shoulder of I-20. The truck then swerved left and hit a tan Chevrolet Tahoe in the left lane,

Former Newton star arrested for having BB gun on campus

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

ATHENS, Ga. — Former Newton High School football player Nyland Green was arrested on weapons charges recently and was held in Athens-Clarke County Jail before posting bond, a newspaper reported.

Green, a freshman cornerback for UGA's top-ranked football team, was charged with two counts of Carrying a Weapon in a School Safety Zone and one count of Criminal Damage to Property, all felonies, and two counts of Reckless Conduct, which is a misdemeanor, according to jail records.

University of Georgia Police arrested Green and he was booked Wednesday, Nov. 24, at 2:49 a.m., according to jail records and The Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

A UGA police department report stated that its dispatch received a complaint Nov. 14 about a male near McWhorter Hall on the university's East Campus with what appeared to be a gun and possibly "dry firing" while pointing the gun in the direction of another male, the Athens Banner-Herald reported.

During the investigation, police determined Green was in possession of a black Beretta BB gun and later that Green also had a tan Colt M45A1 BB gun on school property in his dorm room — which led to the weapon and reckless conduct charges, the newspaper reported.

A subsequent report filed on Nov. 16 said a UGA employee reported damage to an exterior window of Busbee Hall which led to the criminal damage to property charges, according to the Athens newspaper.

Green was rated a four-star prospect by 247 Sports and among the top high school cornerbacks in the nation. He has played in three games for UGA, the AJC reported.

Birthday Bash to culminate county's yearlong 200th birthday celebration

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County is set to host a "Bicentennial Birthday Bash" this month to culminate the yearlong celebration of the 200th anniversary of its founding.

The event is set for Dec. 18 from 5 to 8 p.m. on the Covington Square and will include music, fireworks and more, county officials said.

The funds are coming from a $75,000 budget the Board approved earlier this year for Bicentennial events.

As part of the year-long celebration, Newton County government also hosted free showings of movies filmed in Newton County, such as historical dramas like "Selma" and youth-oriented films like "Diary of a Wimpy Kid II."

Volunteers helped members of the Newton County Board of Commissioners during monthly community cleanup events in each of the five Board districts throughout the year.

Newton County's Bicentennial Committee also offered commemorative "Legacy Bricks" for sale to be placed at the newly named Bicentennial Park adjacent to the Newton County Administration Building in downtown Covington.

It also asked residents to vote for winners of a 22 Bicentennial Awards "to commemorate and recognize the work and legacy of local citizens and Newton County businesses that reflect a stellar level of integrity, character, ethics, longevity in service, and community commitment."

The yearlong event celebrated the county being formed on Dec.

OBITUARY

Grace Meredith Martin Edmiston
Hightower Funeral Home
Grace Meredith Martin Edmiston, age 94, went to be with the Lord on November 27, 2021. Friends and family will be greeted at a graveside service held at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Bremen, Georgia on Tuesday, November 30, 2021 at 11:00 am with Pastor Jimmy Greer officiating. Hightower Funeral Home in Bremen, Georgia is overseeing the arrangements.

Grace was born on June 28, 1927, in Chamblee, Georgia. She was the daughter of the late Joseph Walter and Exer Martin, and the widow of Robert (Bob) L. Edmiston. Grace and Bob lived in Chamblee, Georgia and then settled in Bremen, Georgia after his retirement. They were members of the First Baptist Church of Bremen. After Bob's death, Grace relocated to Merryvale Assisted Living in Oxford, Georgia where she was residing upon her death.

Grace loved to work in her yard, sew, dance, and sing in the church choir. At Merryvale, Grace enjoyed participating in various activities but especially those involving music. She always let everyone know that she could sing the alto part. She was typically the first, and sometimes the only one up dancing if one of her favorite "oldies" songs was played. She called the side-to-side dance that she always did her "jitterbug".

Grace was preceded in death by her parents, Joseph Walter and Exer Martin; husband Robert L. Edmiston; sisters Barnice Williamson and Melbarie Greer; and brothers Loyd Martin and Shirley Martin.

Grace is survived by daughter Elisah Shephard of Eugene, Oregon; son Mark Edmiston (Donna) of Oxford, Georgia; grandsons Tyler Edmiston of Chamblee, Georgia and Matthew Edmiston of Alpharetta, Georgia; nieces, nephews and extended family.

The family extends their appreciation to both Merryvale Assisted Living and Abbey Hospice for the care and attention Grace received. State Rep. Sharon Henderson says first year ‘great learning experience’

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — District 113 State Rep. Sharon Henderson says she worked to acquaint herself with constituents and review bills that “pointed to-ward the best interest of the community” in her first year as a member of the Georgia House of Representatives.

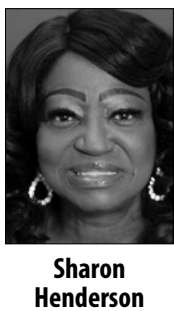

Henderson, a pastor and retired banker, took office in January of this year representing a district that included parts of Newton and Rockdale counties. She was the only Newton resident in the county’s six-member legislative delegation.

She served as a mem-ber of the House Bud-get and Fiscal Affairs Oversight Committee which was responsible for holding hearings to mon-itor the spend-ing pro-grams within the $25.9 billion state budget.

She also was a member of the Game, Fish & Parks Com-mittee and the House Retirement Committee, which oversees both the Teacher’s and State Employees Retirement Systems for the thou-sands of retired public school teachers, Uni-versity System em-ployees and other state workers.

Henderson authored legislation in the 2021 session allowing stu-dent-led prayer during a time period dedicated each day for students to recite the Pledge of Al-legiance; and co-spon-sored a resolution recognizing Newton County’s Bicentennial for its 200th year of existence.

She won the District 113 seat from incum-bent Pam Dickerson in the 2020 Democratic Primary in her third try after losing to Dicker-son in 2016 and 2018. Henderson then was elected in the Novem-ber 2020 General Elec-tion without opposition.

The Covington News asked her some ques-tions recently about her first 11 months in office as she worked during the General Assembly’s current special session on redistricting:

CN: What happened in your first year in office that made you happy you worked to win your House seat, and why?

The first year was definitely a great learn-ing experience. I got a chance to get to know and become acquainted with my constituents. I reached toward the ben-efit of our community in the areas of educa-tion, health care and the community as a whole. As a legislator, review-ing bills that pointed toward the best inter-est of the community, serving on committees and other duties that en-compasses my position as a legislator.

CN: What would you say was the most challenging part of representing District 113 this year, and why?

No part was challeng-ing because I welcome testing my abilities. With that said, I made sure I kept in touch with constituents, man-aged my time wisely, mindful of being a problem solver, vote my conscience and know where to get help if I needed it in order to be an effective legisla-tor.

CN: What were your top two or three accomplishments as a House member in your first 11 months?

Being there for my constituents, making sure they can reach me for any concerns they may have. I am their voice and I echo their concerns.

CN: Looking to the future, other than generally dealing with COVID, what is your top legislative goal, or piece of legislation you plan to sponsor or co-sponsor, in the 2022 session?

Looking to the future, it’s literally impossi-ble to state legislation other than dealing with COVID because we are living in a pan-demic and everything is associated with and surrounds COVID.

I would like to work on legislation to strengthen the econo-my, reducing mental and physical health care costs, improving edu-cation, better medical care for veterans and assisting people of un-der-served communities such as addressing their most pressing needs.

Oxford College

Following student protests, local college increases spring course offerings, class sizes

By EVA ROYTBURG and KATIE BARTLETT
The Emory Wheel

OXFORD, Ga. — Oxford College added more courses and increased class sizes in response to student protests over a lack of spring course offerings, according to a Nov. 16 email from Associate Dean for Ac-ademic Affairs Valerie Molyneaux to Oxford first-years. Additionally, Oxford added a special Add/Drop/Swap period on Nov. 19 for first-year students.

The changes came after about 40 students at Oxford gathered in front of Seney Hall to express concerns over course registration, among other student life issues on Nov. 11 and 12.

“We understand the initial registra-tion process was difficult for some students, and we are offering addi-tional academic advising hours this week to provide students with one-on-one assistance as they finalize their schedules,” Molyneaux said.

Molyneaux told the Wheel the administration considered a number of factors when planning the first course registration, including the number of enrolled students and anticipated student interest in spe-cific classes, and hired extra faculty to support the larger class. Students under-enrolled in classes that are traditionally popular, so classes were added to meet the demand.

The email said 250 additional seats have been offered. Molyneaux wrote in a statement to the Wheel that 10 classes were added in addition to seats in four existing classes.

Rachel Asante organized the pro-tests after course registration left her and others without enough courses to be a “full-time student” at Emory. Asante said she registered for 11 credits, while a full-time student must be enrolled in at least 12 credit hours of classes for the semester.

“I’m p---d to the point of tears,” Asante said. “It’s not even about planning — it’s about the fact that I don’t have my classes.”

Other students expressed similar frustrations with problems with course registration during the protest.

“I’m currently at nine credits right now,” Oluwaseun Abitogun said.

Parker, 21, of Cov-ington. Grayson and Parker also were charged with weapons violations.

Officers recovered a 9mm pistol and an AR rifle from the vehicle. Investigators found 21 shell casings on Thrash Street, Malcom said.

“There were sev-en people inside the residence at the time of the shooting and two of them were young juve-niles. It was the grace of God that no one was injured as a result of the reckless act,” Malcom said.

Covington police be-came aware of possible suspects in the Sunday drive-by shootings after a Newton County sheriff’s deputy began pursuing a vehicle Monday afternoon that had allegedly been stol-en earlier the same day from a Georgia Hwy. 81 residence.

A Newton County sheriff’s deputy report-ed a 2015 Chevrolet Traverse stolen from a residence on Georgia Hwy. 81 early Monday morning was spotted on Hwy. 36 Monday around 1:20 p.m.

"A traffic stop was started when the sus-pect vehicle refused to stop," the deputy reported. "A chase was started and the vehicle had an accident at the intersection of Puck-ett Street and Laseter Street."

The wreck occurred when the vehicle struck a Bobcat parked on the side of the road, NCSO spokesperson Caitlin Jett said.

At that point it was inside the city of Covington and "several people got out of the car," Malcom said.

"The Covington officers and New-ton County deputies worked together (and) we apprehended three of the people that ran from the car," he said.

"From that stop, we were able to determine who all was involved in the drive-by shootings Sunday night."

Covington Police charged the three juveniles in the vehicle for their alleged in-volvement in drive-by shootings that occurred Sunday, Nov. 21, at res-idences on Greenway Lane and Walnut Street, Malcom said.

Officers found one .45-caliber Automatic Colt Pistol shell casing and three 9mm shell casings in the street following the Walnut Street shooting. One round struck the res-idence and another round struck a vehicle in the driveway, Mal-com said.

In the Greenway Lane case, officers recovered 13 9mm casings and 25 .40-caliber casings from the street. A vehicle in the drive-way was struck and multiple rounds struck the residence, he said.

Malcom said Coving-ton Police was continu-ing the investigation.

"We feel that we're going to have addition-al charges on others in-volved, and we believe we're going to clear up some other cases because of the arrests," Malcom said.

centerpieces and two arches for photos at the event.

Frank Flanders, ABAC’s agricultural education program coordinator, nominated Buckner and McDonald for the team.

“Selection for the congressional design team is an honor and excellent professional development opportunity for these students,” Flanders said. “These are the type of engaged activities that ABAC encourages for stu-dents. As design team members, Maddie and Kira worked alongside some of the top design-ers in the U.S.”

He had nominated McDonald for the luncheon in 2020 and she was notified by Dave Pruitt, CEO of the American Grown Cut Flower Organization, of her selection prior to the COVID-19 pan-demic. The 2020 event was canceled because of the pandemic.

McDonald was happy to be a part of the event. It changed her outlook on the horticulture and floral design industry, she said.

“I learned that con-sumers spend almost $27 billion per year on floral products, and while the majority of consumers would prefer to buy locally grown flowers, only a small percentage sold in the United States are grown here,” McDonald said.

“As a future agricultur-al education teacher, I will try to advocate for everyone around me to look at where their gro-cery store floral bou-quets are coming from and ask their florist for only American grown flowers.”

Oaks uprooted

Seems many will miss historic golf course, columnist says

It sure seems like Newton County is going to miss The Oaks golf course for more reasons than having one fewer local golf course to play.

The Oaks recently ended operations after 32 years at the corner of Brown Bridge and Crowell roads on the north end of Porterdale.

Beyond being a nice place to play, according to its members, it hosted numerous fundraising tournaments.

Golfers, which are the life-blood of many nonprofits, literally raised millions for charities such as Cure Childhood Cancer, which benefits work to find a cure for the youngest cancer patients; and the Almond J. Turner Foundation, which funds scholarships for worthy Newton County students in need of college tuition money.

The Piedmont Newton Hospital Auxiliary often hosted its annual Bill Taylor Classic Golf Tournament at The Oaks which helps purchase needed medical equipment for areas like the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit. Other groups raised money for youth sports programs, or for the B.C. Crowell Scholarship Fund for local high school students.

Numerous such fundraisers also have used the links at Ashton Hill Golf Course, as well.

But Oaks operators Richard and Nancy Schulz continuously opened their course to fundraising tournaments when they could have just as well closed it to all but paying customers.

Richard Schulz, a Chattanooga native, was already a veteran of Metro Atlanta golf courses when an investment group formed in the late 1980s and asked him to bring the historic golf course back to life.

He said he saw the course as having a role in the Newton County community beyond being merely a place for golf. He told his other partners in the venture about his plan and they agreed.

“I told the partners ... we need to be active in the community,” he said.

The Schulzes used funds from The Oaks to help pay for a walking track at Fairview Elementary School.

Stacey Abrams missing in action

Stacey Abrams almost did the unthinkable in 2018. Abrams came within a couple of inches of winning the governorship. With every statewide office holder at the time being a Republican, it would have been an incredible political accomplishment.

In the end, Abrams lost to Republican Brian Kemp. She didn’t like it, but it was what it was, another Republican winning a statewide office in Georgia.

As we count down the final days until 2022, most political observers assumed Abrams was set to run again. After all, the Republican stranglehold on the state was broken in 2020 when Georgia elected two Democratic senators and gave our electoral votes to Joe Biden in the presidential election.

Republicans didn’t like it then and still don’t like but see the note above concerning the loss in 2018 by Abrams.

Here we are, approximately six months from the 2022 primary, and Abrams is missing in action. Political observers are starting to speculate about whether she will actually run again in the 2022 race.

Abrams is really not missing, of course, although she seems to have been scarce in this state. You see, Abrams has been traveling the country making speeches to various groups.

One would think if she is planning another run for governor that she would be making speeches within the borders of this state. For Abrams, though, she is really the only option for Democrats. Powers-that-be in the state party are working to make sure the path is free of any would-be Democratic challengers who are even remotely thinking of running.

Yet, for Democrats to have a strategy of “it’s Abrams or no one” is dangerous. There really seems to be no Plan B or Plan C. To this point not even a minor candidate has declared for governor in the Democratic primary.

Ironically, there are three announced challengers in the Republican primary against incumbent Brian Kemp. There are also some rumblings of an even higher profile candidate getting into the GOP primary in the name of former U.S. Sen. David Perdue.

A Perdue candidacy would certainly shake things up on the Republican side. There are many Republicans who don’t have Kemp on their Christmas card list. And keep in mind that former President Trump is no fan of Kemp.

Democrats gained a great deal of momentum in the 2020 election in Georgia. If their prime candidate continues to be a no-show, however, in the state then it could end up being a major wasted opportunity to continue the momentum.

At one time it seemed a

Shrinkflation has become double whammy in 2021

When my sons were teenagers, my wife worked an early morning shift for a period of time, so I was responsible for getting them ready for school. This included breakfast duty, so I prepared a nutritious daily feast of Graham crackers, covered with peanut butter and chocolate chips. (That’s me, Mr. Health Food.)

The boys visited on Thanksgiving last week, so I thought it would be fun to re-create their beloved breakfast snack. For the first time in about 15 years, I bought a box of Nabisco Graham crackers. Much to my surprise, something was very different this time. The cracker, which long ago was wide and sturdy, was now thin and brittle. It used to be about the size of my hand, but now seemed to be about two-thirds of its former width, and unless handled with care, would crack into pieces.

As any man in the kitchen would do, I immediately complained to my wife. “Is it just me, or has someone shrunk my Graham crackers?”

“Oh, don’t get me started,” she replied. She went on to detail a litany of recipe measurement nightmares. Boxes of cake and brownie mixes no longer fill the pans. Many canned products now contain less ingredients than the recipe requires.

Pop Tarts are a shadow of their former selves. Cereal boxes have been narrowed. Vanilla wafers are tiny. Ice cream sandwiches, once a substantial dessert, are now “three bites and done.” Shouldn’t they rename Brown Cows to Brown Calves? If the downsizing continues, that smiling little girl on the snack cake boxes may have to change her name from Debbie to Deb just to fit on the label. We are now apparently paying for extra air in the potato chip bags.

The 21st century retail practice is, “Reduce the size, retain the price.” Everything you buy appears to be thinner and smaller. Remember those big bars of soap? Look at them now. Check out the hollowed-out bottoms of juice bottles and peanut butter jars. They still stand tall on the shelves, but there is 10% less product inside.

This sneaky downsizing practice started several years ago. The first product I noticed was the traditional half gallon of ice cream. Suddenly, and without warning, the packaging was reduced from 64 ounces to 56 ounces, and is currently 48 ounces. The price stayed the same, and the ice cream company probably figured no one could tell the difference. Are you kidding me? It’s ice cream, for goodness sake. It reminded me of fourth grade lunch in the cafeteria. You know, when one kid would distract you, and the other kid would take a bite out of your fudge brownie, as if you wouldn’t notice. Oh yes, I noticed.

I later observed five pound bags of sugar had become four pound bags, again with no price drop. But I wanted FIVE pounds. Stop the trickery, just raise the price. At the rate things are going, I wouldn’t be surprised if the local gas station put up a big sign saying “Regular gas $2.49,” followed by “¾ of a gallon” in small print.

One sharp-eyed Facebook friend even showed proof that toilet paper rolls are not as wide as they used to be. I find this fascinating, because from my observations, Americans ARE wider than they used to be. Just saying.

Everything is shrinking. Big Macs are now, well ... Mid-size Macs. Whoppers are more like Whippersnappers. The candy bars of my youth now look more like the Tootsie Rolls of my youth. And between you and me, some items don’t taste as good as they once did, making me think they’re shorting us on sugar, flour and other ingredients too. Nutter Butters are becoming Nada Butters. I struggle to find the crème inside the Oreos, which now taste like wood chips. Animal crackers appear to be based on the critters in a petting zoo.

What’s going on? Do these manufacturers think we are this gullible? Do they read our Facebook posts, and assume we are ignorant? Wait, maybe that’s not my best argument.

There’s even a name for this: Shrinkflation. It has swiftly become a double whammy in 2021. As package and product sizes get smaller, companies are no longer shy about raising the price at the same time. In some cases, this is due to the pandemic and our supply chain issues. But in others, it is simply because they can. Their attitude is, “Everyone else is raising prices, so we will too. Customers are expecting it, and tolerating it.”

Their public relations teams are working overtime to create doublespeak. General Mills, responding to cereal box shrinkflation, admitted it had taken “pricing actions.” Charmin calls their toilet paper narrowing an “innovation.”

I have a better word for all this: “rip-off.”

ence has made such an impact on the dispatchers," she said.

"When they come into work now and they see Annie, they smile, happy to be there," she said. "Her presence just brings a different attitude to the radio room."

Operators in the 911 center often are faced with working to get accurate information from concerned and sometimes frantic callers on the scene of a violent act or car wreck and then relaying the information to authorities — in addition to telling someone how to do CPR or how to handle a stab wound until EMTs arrive.

Annie also has helped relieve the stress on staff members forced to take on extra work that likely would be done by others if all available positions in the department's dispatchers' work.

It has only 21 positions filled out of 33 total positions in the department's budget, Henry said.

Having an undermanned department is part of a trend for public safety agencies as employees seek jobs which are less stressful and more plentiful than in recent years, Henry said.

"It's the stress of the new world we're living in," Henry said.

She said the past couple of years have been "traumatic" at times as staff members dealt with the pressures the COVID-19 pandemic produced in addition to their regular dealings with county residents in tragic situations.

"I guess over the past couple of years we had a couple of incidents that occurred throughout the county — kind of dramatic calls — that affected the dispatchers. Someone or other who take the bigger calls take the bigger burden," she said.

24, 1821, from parts of Henry, Jasper, and Walton counties.

It was named for Revolutionary War hero Sgt. John Newton and the original center of activity was a settlement called Winton at the Brick Store in the eastern part of the county. However, state law required the seat of the new county to be as close as possible to its geographic center so a site between the Alcovy and Yellow rivers was designated the county seat and named Covington in honor of War of 1812 hero Gen. Leonard Covington.

The county's other incorporated towns date from throughout the 19th century, with Newborn settled around 1819 while still part of Jasper County; Porterdalesettled in the 1820s to establish a foundry; and Mansfield flourished from about 1896,

"There's not even 8 a.m. [classes] available that I'm choosing not to take; it's just that nothing is available. It boggles me."

Ned Lewis said that course registration also left him a part-time student.

"I didn't get classes on the second [course registration] split, so my financial aid could be canceled, and I could be unable to go here anymore," he said.

Kirsten Oglesby said she had to "beg a teacher to drop a prerequisite" in order to enroll in enough credits for the semester.

On the second day of the protest, students wrote out a list of concerns for the school, called the "Oxford Triple AAA Proposal." The document lists issues the protestors had in the areas of accessibility, allocation of funds and resources and accomodations.

By time of publication, 29 students had signed the document in support.

Molyneaux sent a follow up email to first years with the additional course offerings on Nov. 17, which include QTM 110 and others spanning across the humanities and social sciences fulfilling the Humanities, Art, Performance or History, Societies, Culture requirements. On Nov. 19, an additional Add/Drop/Swap period opened for freshmen so that they could make changes in accordance with these new offerings.

However, some students were not satisfied by the College's response.

Abitogun said he was frustrated that highly-demanded classes such as required writing, science and physical education classes were not added.

"I understand it is a very difficult situation to be in, but I wish they had listened to students on which classes actually needed to be expanded instead of offering courses that aren't reflective of general need," Abitogun said.

While Asante said that the changes would help students, she still expressed frustration with the original lack of course offerings and seats available. She wished that the school had better adjusted to meet the demands of the larger class.

"I really appreciate Dean Molyneaux," Asante said. "She's been doing a lot, but these things should've been done in the first place, and the classes that were opened don't seem to be helping the majority of kids here."

Special | 911 Center
Annie, a golden doodle trained as a therapy dog, has helped 911 Center staff members since August.

Henry said she was not personally a "dog person" but had seen how some dogs others brought in to visit the center affected her department's dispatchers' work.

She said she saw how one former 911 dispatcher's support dog visiting the center helped change the "attitude" of the staff.

It led Henry to consider having a therapy dog live in the 911 center to help the staff during its round-the-clock work, she said.

"I just knew this was something to consider," Henry said. "Seeing the difference that it made and seeing the calming effect — just being able to put your hand on the dog and being able to pet it just changes a person's perspective."

She said one of the goals for her dispatchers in 2020 was to have a full-time therapy dog in the center.

"When they first started that, I was like, 'That'll never work,'" she said. "As time progressed and then with COVID and the pandemic coming in — the mental stability of our people — we saw that this is probably a good time.

"Just watching how a dog can change a person's attitude and perspective and, kind of, the way they feel about things (I thought) there might be something to this," she said.

After using another therapy dog for awhile, Henry said she found Annie and a former staff member helped find a program that trained her to be a therapy dog.

Annie came from Covington-based Oval Office Therapy Dogs, which breeds and trains dogs for use as therapy and service dogs.

Henry said Annie lived with her for a while before the golden-doodle — a mix of golden retriever and poodle — moved to the 911 center. The pandemic and some other factors — such as a reorganization of the center — caused some disruptions to the timeline for introduction of a therapy dog, she said.

"Things were up in the air for a little while," Henry said.

However, Henry said she was able to receive approval from city and county governments before she brought Annie in for support for the 21 staff members.

Annie has begun to settle in as both emotional support for the 911 staff and in public appearances representing the department, which is jointly operated by Covington and Newton County governments.

Henry said Annie formerly went home with her nightly but Annie now typically does not like leaving the center for any reason.

"When I go up and get her at the center, she gets mad when I put her in the car," Henry said. "She'll turn her back to me and won't look at me."

But Annie typically becomes more friendly as she adjusts to meeting strange people, Henry said.

Her travels have included accompanying Henry to meetings at Covington City Hall and the Fire Department. She also supported Henry during presentations to civic groups like the Kiwanis Club.

She also traveled to Georgia State University's Newton campus recently as part of an educational session for criminal justice students about the benefits of therapy dogs, Henry said.

She said the 911 Center is working to gain Annie's American Kennel Club certification as a therapy dog.

The test for certification includes being able to ignore outside influences, such as children playing nearby, and focusing on the person the dog is assigned to support, she said.

"She has received her behavioral training," Henry said. "The therapy part comes in with the way she treats people and how she interacts when she's around people."

They partnered with the Newton County Parks and Recreation Department on a number of events, including raising initial funding and leading organizational efforts for the Miracle League field at City Pond Park.

"I think it created a good feeling for the community," Schulz said.

Schulz worked closely with county officials like former recreation director Tommy Hailey, who retired in 2013 after almost a quarter-century at the helm of the county Parks and Recreation Department.

Hailey essentially led his department's effort through the county government to create the Miracle League Field and was honored in 2011 with the I Have a Dream Award from organizers of the annual Martin Luther King Jr. celebration.

Schulz also recalled the good times and some bad ones recently as he prepared the course's equipment and furnishings for a massive auction Saturday, Dec. 4.

The course was able to host golfers from 48 different countries and every U.S. state during the weeks of The Masters golf tournament in the spring, Schulz said.

"It was like a celebration," he said.

Schulz said there also were times when the business struggled, like when it was paying a loan with a 21% interest rate at the height of the Great Recession. He credited his wife, former longtime county commissioner Nancy Schulz, with being the partner who had the financial wherewithal to guide the course through hard economic times.

"If we hadn't had her for a partner, I'm not sure we'd be talking today," he said.

Richard also said a March snow storm during the early years of The Oaks, in 1993, felled a forest full of pine trees, he recalled.

The course lost 3,000 pine trees in the storm "down to the stumps and all," he said.

Schulz now will work as a golf course consultant after his decades managing courses both in Covington and elsewhere in Atlanta.

He said the $215 million residential-commercial project planned for the course's 270-acre site promises to be a "jewel" for the area when completed. It even will include a nine-hole golf course — continuing the 90-year tradition of golf being played on the same site.

Schulz also said, like many businesses these days, golf course owners face rapidly increasing costs for operations — from labor to lawn maintenance equipment.

"It's a very, very thin margin in the golf business," he said.

Doing more with less: Paul Johnson's legacy on the Flats

David Tulis | Associated Press

Georgia Tech head coach Paul Johnson (right) clenches his fist and shouts, "How 'bout that high school offense?" after Georgia quarterback Hutson Mason threw an interception to Tech's D.J. White during overtime to preserve a 30-24 win in an NCAA college football game Nov. 29, 2014, in Athens.

Recruiting has become a strong focal point in the current college football landscape. That is how dynasties like Alabama and Clemson have been established because of 5-star recruits continuously being brought in.

But Paul Johnson, who stepped away as Georgia Tech's head coach three years ago, never fielded a top-10 recruiting class. His average recruiting class rank, according to 247Sports, was 46th overall. Couple that with the fact he ran his patented spread option offense and that would spell disaster for most programs.

Johnson made it work, though, for 11 years at the helm of a Power Five college program. When he stepped away from the helm of Georgia Tech football, Johnson ranked as the fourth winningest coach in school history.

And doing so defines Johnson's legacy on the Flats.

Upon his retirement, Johnson compiled an 82-59 record with three ACC Championship appearances, two Orange Bowl appearances and three ACC Coach of the Year Awards at Georgia Tech. In seven of the 11 seasons, the Yellow Jackets finished either first or second in the Coastal Division, too.

At the press conference where he addressed the media officially announcing his retirement, Johnson emphasized that he liked to deal in facts and even highlighted that he kept press guides at his desk. There's evidence in those press guides that points to Johnson's success of, in fact, being able to accomplish more with less.

The first piece of evidence is found when going up against archrival, Georgia.

Going into Johnson's first year as head coach, the Bulldogs were riding a seven-game winning streak over the Yellow Jackets.

That streak ended in 2008 when Georgia Tech came out victorious 45-42.

Georgia Tech went on to defeat the Bulldogs twice more in Johnson's tenure. The second time being in 2014 infamously known as the "Kick and Pick." 2016, Kirby Smart's first year in Athens, was the third time Georgia Tech topped the Bulldogs.

Us Yellow Jacket fans "leaped" for joy.

Defeating the Bulldogs three times in 11 years doesn't sound like a big deal. But Johnson joined Bobby Dodd (5) as the second Georgia Tech head coach to ever claim three wins over UGA in the Classic City. He is also behind Dodd (12) and William Alexander (7) and tied with George O'Leary (3) with as many as three wins overall versus the Bulldogs.

Other streaks were halted by Johnson's Yellow Jackets.

For instance, Georgia Tech hadn't defeated Florida State since 1975 prior to Johnson's arrival.

The Yellow Jackets topped the Seminoles both times in Johnson's first two years.

Let's not even mention the "Miracle on Techwood" where the Yellow Jackets defeated then-No. 9 Florida State on Oct. 24, 2015, off a blocked field goal attempt that was returned for a touchdown.

It was, indeed, "a

Sandy's Spiel ranks Rams No. 1

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD

COVINGTON, Ga. — At the beginning of every week during the basketball season, Kyle Sandy of Sandy's Spiel releases top-10 rankings for both girls and boys basketball respective to each classification. For the third week of the 2021 season, the Newton Rams came in ranked No. 1 by Sandy. Score Atlanta has the Rams atop its rankings as well.

Sitting at 4-0 to begin the season, the Rams are off to a hot start.

Newton's season began out of state at the Houston (Texas) Tip-Off Classic. In the tournament, the Rams defeated Concordia Lutheran, from Tomball, Texas, 68-37.

Coming back to the Peach state, the Rams participated in the On The Radar Showcase at Norcross High School. Newton defeated the Blue Devils 83-67 to start 2-0.

The latest tournament Newton played in was the Under Armour Hard in the Paint at Marist High School. This was a two-day tournament from Nov. 26-27.

In game one, the Rams enjoyed a 73-59 victory over Westlake. However, in its second game, Newton was closely contested.

Playing McEachern, the Rams narrowly downed the Indians 82-77.

Throughout all four games, the Rams have been led by a host of Division I commits.

The top trio for Newton has been Stephon Castle, Jakai Newton and Marquavious

Brown. They're committed to Connecticut, Indiana and Georgia, respectively. But they're not shouldering the load alone.

Mio Grant and Marcus Whitlock have made significant contributions to assist in this undefeated start for the Rams.

Another test came up for Newton as it once again took its undefeated record on the road. On Tuesday, Nov. 30, the Rams traveled to No. 9 Archer High School in a Class 7A matchup. The next game for Newton will be Friday, Dec. 3 at Rockdale County.

The first home game for the Rams will be against Eastside on Dec. 7.

Eagles stick to winning ways under Cawthon

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. – Failure to recover three straight onside kicks by Jones County ended Eastside’s 2021 season in the second round of the Class 5A playoffs. But that doesn’t mean the Eagles’ season was completely lost.

Eastside finished 8-4 overall with a 5-2 region record. It placed third in Region 8-A AAAA, too, behind Clarke Central and Apalachee.

Head coach Jay Cawthon, who completed his first season at the helm, will remember this year as a memorable one.

“[The players] came together and played for each other,” Cawthon said. “And they overcame a lot of adversity. I think that’s what makes this team a little more special.”

Multiple players on both sides of the ball led the Eagles this season.

Eastside's Kenai Grier (10) scores on a sweep play left during a GHSA 5A state playoff game against Jones County.

Offensively, it was a three-headed rushing attack with Dallas Johnson, Kenai Grier and E'Sean Arnold carrying the load.

The leading rusher for Eastside was Johnson. He finished with 1,809 rushing yards while averaging 7.5 yards per carry and scored 22 touchdowns.

Grier was the second-highest rusher with 681 yards and nine touchdowns. In addition to his running ability, Grier was also the team’s leading receiver with 24 receptions for 321 yards and four touchdowns.

Arnold had 299 yards rushing and two rushing touchdowns to add another dimension to Eastside’s offense. He also completed 61% of his passes for 680 yards, five touchdowns and two interceptions.

On the other side of the ball, Christian Benson seemed to be a one man wrecking crew.

Not only did he lead the team in total tackles with 95, but also he recorded team-high five sacks and 16 tackles for loss.

Other contributions were made on defense, too.

D’Von Duplessis recorded 88 tackles and 10 tackles for loss. Jean Claude Joseph III had four sacks on the season while Aeron Gresham and Damon Gawlinski recorded an interception apiece.

Now, following the second round exit, the Eagles will look to 2022. They graduate a senior class that won 37 games in their career and made two quarterfinal appearances on top of that.

Even so, Cawthon is optimistic about the future of the program because of the steady foundation that has been laid.

“We’ve got a saying, ‘Tradition never graduates,’” Cawthon said. “I think we’ve gotten to that point where we keep it rolling and hopefully these young guys will see what these seniors have done for our program.”

Georgia's Kario Oquendo (3) during a game against Wofford at Stegeman Coliseum in Athens on Sunday, Nov. 28.

UGA drops heartbreaker to Wofford; off to 2-5 start

ATHENS, Ga. – Georgia’ men’s basketball team fell to Wofford, 68-65, on Sunday, Nov. 28, at Stegeman Coliseum.

The loss marked the fifth straight for the Bulldogs (2-5) after jumping out to a 2-0 start to the 2021-22 season.

Sophomore Jabri Abdur-Rahim led the team with a career-high 20 points. Abdur-Rahim shot 6-for-7 from the field, including 4-of-5 from three-point range and 4-of-5 from the charity stripe, while graduate Jailyn Ingram went 6-for-8 from the field. Sophomore Kario Oquendo tallied 10 points. Oquendo went 5-for-8 and recorded a season-high three blocked shots. The Bulldogs shot 54.3% from the field and made six three-pointers on 35.3% shooting beyond the arc.

“It was clear early that it was going to be a grinder for us to get through this,” Georgia head coach Tom Crean said. “We had some (players) that gave their very best and some who just weren’t up to the challenge of it. We have to keep finding ways to make the game simpler for them, not try to make plays that aren’t there. We will. The turnovers in the second half and the amount of free-throws that they shot in the second half, those were big turning points.”

Wofford improved to 5-2 on the season.

Georgia returned to the court Wednesday, Dec. 1, to host No. 18 Memphis (5-1) at Stegeman Coliseum to try and snap their losing streak.

On Jan. 4, 2020, the Bulldogs defeated the ninth-ranked Tigers 65-62 in their last meeting. Georgia holds a 2-1 all-time series lead over Memphis.

time to be alive” as a Yellow Jacket fan.

At Bobby Dodd Stadium, Georgia Tech was 9-5 against nationally ranked opponents.

The first of those nine wins came on Oct. 17, 2009.

Georgia Tech downed Coastal Division foe Virginia Tech when the Hokies were ranked No. 4 in the country. That was the first time since 1962 that the Yellow Jackets defeated a top-five team at home.

More history was made under Johnson’s tutelage. He produced one of the program’s five 11-win seasons in 2014. Georgia Tech had four nine-win seasons with Johnson (‘08, ‘09, ‘12, ‘16). There were only seven such seasons in the 51 years prior to Johnson’s arrival.

The Yellow Jackets had two, 10-win seasons (‘09, ‘14) that made it nine such seasons total in program history.

Throughout the 11-year tenure, the Yellow Jackets led the ACC in rushing yards per game and led the nation in the same category for two years, too. (‘10 and ‘14)

Success like that propelled Georgia Tech to nine bowl appearances, which placed Johnson behind Dodd for second-most appearances by a Yellow Jacket head coach.

All of these accomplishments were on Johnson’s watch.

And, as he told reporters following the 2016 win over UGA, “that’s not bad for a bunch of 80th ranked recruiting classes, huh?”

Newton County unemployment down to 2.7%

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

Newton County's unemployment rate dropped to 2.7% in October amid the lowest statewide rate in recorded history. The county's decrease from 3% in September was recorded as almost 200 additional Newton County residents entered the labor force and almost 350 more residents found work, according to statistics from the Georgia Department of Labor.

Newton's lowest on record was 2.5% in December 1998. In October, a total of 53,079 Newton Countians were in the labor force — which is total residents working or actively seeking work — compared to 52,880 in September. A total of 51,657 were employed, up from 51,310. Unemployed residents totaled 1,422 in October compared to 1,570 in September. The unemployment rate was 6.1% in October 2020. Georgia's unemployment rate dropped to 3.1% in October, the lowest rate in Georgia's recorded history, said Georgia Labor

Commissioner Mark Butler. The rate was down two-tenths from a revised 3.3% in September. The national October 2021 unemployment rate was down two-tenths to 4.6%. Jobs in Georgia were up 21,000 over the month and are up 4.5% over the year to 4.6 million, a news release stated. "We have seen continuous job growth this year as we have gained back 90% of the jobs lost during the pandemic," Butler said. "The continual increase in employment opportunity, particularly in those areas hardest hit by the pandemic, reinforces the critical need for encouraging available Georgians back into the workforce." Since May 2021, job growth has increased by 117,400 and October's growth marks only the fifth time since 1990 that over the month job growth for October was more than 20,000 (2020, 2017, 2004, 1993). The sectors of Administrative and Support Services, Transportation and Warehousing, and Retail Trade have all recouped the jobs lost during the pandemic and have added to their respective totals. At the same time, Accommodation and Food Services, Local Government, and Religious, Grants, Civic, and Professional Services, among others, continue to struggle to fill jobs. In October, the labor force dropped 1,889 to 5.17 million, while the number of employed rose 11,008 to 5.01 million. The number of unemployed was down 12,897 to 158,107. In comparing October 2021 figures to pre-pandemic March 2020 figures, the labor force remains down 32,000, the number of employed remains down 3,000, and the number of unemployed is now down 29,000. Today, more than 208,000 job postings, resulting in a minimum of over 319,000 unfilled positions, are listed online at Employ Georgia for Georgians to access. Market salaries range from $23,000 to $103,000 with a median salary of $42,000. "The GDOL is working to ensure that every Georgian who wants a job can find a job," Butler said. "Our Business Services Unit is helping the state's employers find employees that meet their business needs, and we are scheduling in-person appointments across the state in our career centers to make sure jobseekers have the support they need to successfully find employment." Employers with over 1,000 job postings in October included Amazon 3,500, Wellstar Health System, 2,000, Home Depot, 1,800, Beech Valley Solutions, 1,600, Piedmont Health Care, 1,300, Walmart, 1,200, Anthem Blue Cross, 1,200, Deloitte, 1,100, and Southeastern Freight Lines, 1,000. Industries with over 10,000 job postings included Health Care, 26,000, Retail Trade, 21,000, Accommodation and Food Services, 13,000, Finance and Insurance, 12,000, Manufacturing, 12,000, Professional, Scientific & Technical Services, 11,000, and Transportation and Warehousing, 10,000. Initial claims were down 1,525 (-5%) from September to 27,310 in October.

Salem Road stations have cheapest fuel in Newton

By TOM SPIGOLON

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton's west side had the cheapest gas Monday, Nov. 29, as the county's average cost of a gallon of regular gas remained unchanged from last week. The county's average cost was $3.22, which was higher than the average in neighboring counties Rockdale and Walton ($3.20) and Henry ($3.18); the same as Morgan ($3.22); and lower than Butts ($3.23) and Jasper ($3.29), according to AAA-The Auto Club Group. GasBuddy.com price reports showed stations along Salem Road had the county's lowest prices — ranging from $2.96 to $2.99 Sunday. Prices rose as motorists moved east in the county, with lowest-priced gas found in central and eastern Newton along U.S. Hwy. 278, $3.14, and Alcovy Road, $3.16. Since Nov. 22, the Metro Atlanta average dropped by 2 cents to $3.24. Continue reading this article at CovNews.com.

Kemp, Republican governors take Biden to task over supply chain crisis

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Georgia Gov. Brian Kemp joined Republican chief executives from 14 other states recently in an initiative suggesting potential solutions to the global supply chain issues to President Joe Biden. The launch of Operation Open Roads coincided with a roundtable on the issue Kemp convened at the state Capitol with private and public sector logistics experts. In a chain letter to the president dated Nov. 22, the governors chided the Biden administration for gumming up the free flow of commerce with increased regulations and rulemaking, including imposing a COVID vaccine mandate on private businesses. "Disruptions due to supply shortage increased 638% during the first half of 2021 for essential products, including semiconductor chips, plastics and cardboard," the letter stated. "The delay of shipping vessels arriving to North American ports from Asia has ballooned from 14 hours in June 2020 to 13 days in September 2021. "Supermarkets are receiving approximately 40% of what they order compared to pre-pandemic fulfillments of 90%. Approximately 40% of U.S. shipping containers pass through West Coast ports that sit in a logjam, and yet our East Coast ports remain open for business." During the roundtable, Kemp cited steps to expand cargo capacity at the Port of Savannah and other strategies Georgia has undertaken to ease the supply chain crisis including streamlining the licensing process for commercial truck drivers. After the discussion, Kemp suggested the federal government work with states to lower the eligibility age for commercial truck drivers from 21 to 18, eliminate or suspend taxes that create financial disincentives for the logistics industry and suspend the federal vaccine mandate on businesses he said is contributing to workforce shortages. A federal appeals court in Louisiana blocked the vaccine mandate two weeks ago by issuing an emergency stay. Biden announced last month that the private operators of the ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach had agreed to begin working 24 hours a day, seven days a week to reduce the backlog of cargo waiting at those ports and offshore for anchorage space. The president also has defended his vaccine mandate as a temporary measure to keep America's workers safe. Governors from Tennessee, Arizona, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Texas joined Georgia in the Operation Open Roads initiative.

Baker's hands

Tips, tricks to cut cookies like a pro

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Baking is a holiday tradition in many households. The aroma of freshly baked cakes, pies and cookies wafts through the air of many homes this time of year, and that makes the holiday season even more special.

Cookies are a tradition passed down through the ages. In medieval Europe, small, spiced cookies were exchanged as treats, and people still bake and share gingerbread cookies today.

Cut cookies are some of the most popular cookies to make during the holiday season. Some families may have their share of favorite cookie cutter shapes and dough recipes. Certain techniques can make holiday baking sessions easier and ensure consistent results.

- Work on a lightly floured, cool surface, such as a cutting board or stone counter top. Never work on a warm surface, which can cause dough to spread and stick.

- Roll out the dough between two sheets of baking or parchment paper. Betty Crocker recommends a thickness of about 1/8 inch, unless noted in the recipe. This prevents the dough from sticking, and parchment enables you to easily transfer rolled-out dough to a refrigerator or elsewhere.

- When rolling out dough, portion it out into a few smaller amounts to roll out more easily. This will also help it to chill more readily.

- Cookies cut most easily when the dough is chilled. Refrigerate the dough for as long as possible, ideally an hour or more — even overnight. The more chilled, the firmer the dough will be.

- Rubber rolling pin rings that slip onto each side of the rolling pin can help ensure that the dough is being rolled out to a uniform thickness.

- Dip cookie cutters into flour with each cut. Work from the center and move out to the edges when cutting out your designs. Try to maximize space and avoid scraps and rerolling.

- Some expert bakers say that metal cookie cutters cut cleaner than plastic ones. Whichever cutter you use, cut the cookie by pressing straight down; try not to twist or jiggle the cookie cutter when using it. Doughs with a high butter content can help, as the extra grease helps separate the dough from the cutters.

- If cut cookies have gotten warmer, place them in the freezer for a few minutes to firm up again and then cook. This will guarantee the cookies will not spread or distort while baking.

Extra steps may seem like they will take a lot of time. However, the extra effort and attention to detail will help produce cookies that win rave reviews.

There have been many variations on the brownie through the years, and the lively debate whether crunchy end pieces or chewy middle slices are preferred continues.

Brownie lovers rejoice

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

It is hard to determine who created the brownie, but dessert devotees no doubt appreciate that individual's now beloved creation.

Brownies are one of North America's favorite baked treats. They actually are classified as a bar cookie rather than a cake, and the dessert earned its name from the deep, brown color of its main ingredient.

There have been many variations on the brownie through the years, and the lively debate whether crunchy end pieces or chewy middle slices are preferred continues. There may be less debate about how flavorful it can be to mix cheesecake with brownies, which is just what happens in this recipe for "Marbled Chocolate Cheesecake Brownies" from "Chocolate" (Love Food), by the editors of Parragon Books, Ltd.

Marled Chocolate Cheesecake Brownies
Makes 12
Ingredients:

3/4 cup unsalted butter, plus extra for greasing

3 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa
1 cup superfine sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup all-purpose flour

Cheesecake mix:
1 cup ricotta cheese
3 tablespoons superfine sugar
1 egg beaten

Directions:
Preheat the oven to 350 F. Grease an 11 x 7-inch cake pan and line with parchment paper.

Melt the butter in a medium saucepan, remove from the heat, and stir in the unsweetened cocoa and the sugar. Beat in the eggs, then add the flour, and stir to mix evenly. Pour into the prepared pan.

For the cheesecake mix, beat together the ricotta, sugar and egg, then drop teaspoonfuls of the mixture over the chocolate mixture. Use a metal spatula to swirl the two mixtures tightly together.

Bake for 40 to 45 minutes, until just firm to the touch. Cool in the pan, then cut into bars or squares.

Chinese tabbed as nation's most popular ethnic cuisine

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

The United States is often described as a melting pot because it's home to people from many backgrounds. That diversity is a badge of honor for many in the United States, and it's one that foodies in particular may be especially thankful for. All sorts of ethnic cuisines are available throughout the United States, and a recent analysis of Google Trends data by the international foodie magazine Chef's Pencil found that certain foods are especially popular among diners.

1. Chinese: Chinese food is the most searched for cuisine on Google. Chinese food is especially popular in the northeastern United States, and New Jersey in particular. Residents of Delaware, New York and Connecticut also are enamored with Chinese food.

2. Mexican: The U.S. and Mexico share a border, but the experts at Chef's Pencil note that Mexican food didn't catch on in the United States until 1910. Despite that, Mexican cuisine is the second most popular in the U.S. based on Google trends data. That popularity might be why 9 percent of restaurants in the United States are Mexican restaurants.

3. Italian: Italian cuisine rounds out the top three. Residents of New Jersey and New York find Italian cuisine especially hard to resist, but this beloved ethnic cuisine is wildly popular in various parts of the United States, including Tampa, Florida, and San Diego, California.

4. Thai: If the popularity of Chinese, Mexican and Italian food does not raise an eyebrow, the fourth most popular ethnic cuisine just might. Thai food does not have as lengthy a relationship with American diners as the top three styles of cuisine on this list, having not taken off until the early 2000s. But the popularity of Thai food is undeniable. Readers may be surprised that Google Trends data indicates Thai food has its highest popularity score in Alaska.

5. Indian: The popularity of Indian food is a testament to the allure of spice. Though it's only the fifth most popular ethnic cuisine in the United States, Indian food is wildly popular on both coasts. In fact, Google Trends data indicates its highest popularity scores are in New Jersey and Washington state.

It's worth noting that these delicious ethnic cuisines are not only popular in the United States. Canadians also favor many of the same ethnic cuisines that their southern neighbors enjoy. According to Chef's Pencil, Chinese food is the most popular ethnic cuisine in Canada, followed by 2. Italian; 3. Thai; 4. Indian; and 5. Mexican.

Herb Alpert (left) and Jerry Moss recall how they started the label as "Mr. A & Mr. M: The Story of A&M Records" begins Sunday on EPIX.

'Mr. A & Mr. M' recall how they built A&M Records in EPIX documentary

It was formed in a garage for the release of just one record, but the label grew to become the home of such iconic acts as Cat Stevens, Carole King, Joe Cocker, The Carpenters, Peter Dinklage, Janet Jackson, The Go-Go's and The Police.

Musician Herb Alpert and promoter Jerry Moss created the hit factory whose history is traced in "Mr. A & Mr. M: The Story of A&M Records," a documentary miniseries EPIX will show over two consecutive Sundays, Dec. 5 and Dec. 12. Archival footage and new interviews with Rock and Roll Hall of Fame members Alpert and Moss, plus many of the artists they nurtured, underscore the diversity that helped A&M attain a rare and revered place in music.

“We started on a handshake,” the pleasant Alpert recalls of partnering with Moss in an interview for this article. “We put out one record called ‘The Lonely Bull’ (by trumpeter Alpert and the Tijuana Brass), and a lot of things happened off of that. We didn’t want to just see what was happening on the charts and duplicate that; we wanted our artists to have their own personalities, and we thought they could send themselves down the runway if we gave them a chance to exercise their creativity, instead of insisting they make records the way we wanted.”

Moss says he's "extremely pleased" A&M is getting renewed attention via the documentary. "I think so many acts were so important to the company, and they carried on for quite a long time. The thing of it was always to have fun, number one, with artists doing what they liked to do. It was just a matter of finding what worked, and once we found it, we managed to make a lot out of it."

Produced in part by The Kennedy/Marshall Company, which also was involved in the California-music portrait “Laurel Canyon” for EPIX, “Mr. A & Mr. M” notes that usual instrumentalist Alpert also enjoyed a No. 1 hit on A&M as a vocalist on “This Guy's in Love With You." He maintains that success "caught me off-guard," but he adds, "It's all about the material. A great song is a great song."

Since the 1989 sale of A&M, Moss has focused on owning and breeding horses. Alpert is preparing for a 2022 concert tour after recently releasing the jazz album “Catch the Wind,” but he still reasons, “Timing plays an enormous part in the success of any artist. You have to be at the right place at the right time. If we tried to start A&M Records in today’s environment, I don’t think we’d have a chance ... but in 1962, the door was wide open for us.”

'Buddy vs. Duff' decks the halls with Christmas-themed cakes

The competition gets more festive but no less fervent when pals and rivals Buddy Valastro and Duff Goldman square off in a four-part bake-off upcoming on Food Network and discovery+.

In Season 4 of "Buddy vs. Duff," premiering Sunday, Nov. 28, the two master pastry chefs and their teams come together for a special competition to celebrate the holidays. Each group selects a theme and then has 20 hours to bring their vision to cake reality, with the final products being judged by Gesine Prado and Elizabeth Falkner at Valastro's bakery in New Jersey and Stephanie Boswell and Valerie Gordon at Goldman's bakery in Los Angeles. The overall winner receives $25,000 to be donated to the charity of their choice.

It's a scene certain to be filled with Santas, reindeers, trees and of course, lots of snow, which Goldman says is particularly tricky for a baker to create.

"If I was going to do a miniature of say like a snow-covered village," he explains, "I would probably make it smooth because when you're flying and you're flying over an area that has been snowed on, it looks like a smooth, white blanket. But if something's going to be life-size, then you want to put texture on there because if you don't then your eye kind of tricks you into thinking that it's much, much, much bigger than it actually is."

And there were other skills that Goldman had to call on. He had to pull his ice sculpting talents out of mothballs to create a sculpture for a cake. And to make Christmas ornaments, he had to reacquire himself with the fine art of blowing sugar.

"For really good Christmas ornaments you need to blow it out of sugar just like you're blowing glass," Goldman explains. "That was another thing that I hadn't done probably since culinary school, and I was like, 'Man, I gotta figure out how to do this.' I watched a video on YouTube of how to blow sugar and then made a bunch of Christmas ornaments for this tree and it was really, really cool."

Of course, at the heart of the show are Goldman and Valastro, two world-class pastry chefs who have great respect for their craft and each other. That they also get along on camera and off is the (pardon the pun) icing on the cake.

"I feel like for the scale, there's not many people that can do what we do," Goldman says, "And I think that that's really exciting, is that we are combining so many different disciplines into what we create. You know, the engineering, the building, the design, the color theory, the actual baking, the stuff we're doing with food. There's so many sort of different components it's almost like we created this like — I don't even know what to call it — genre."

OF 'THE GREAT' ON HULU

How do you and your castmates keep from cracking up from the silliness in scenes in "The Great"?

We don't. I mean, as you can see, I don't know if you watched like the trailer ... it's like Nick (co-star Nicholas Hoult, who plays Peter) walking around in the absurd like feather headdress like dancing and like walking about. You can't help but laugh at all the little things in the writing.

And I think I mean, we try to hold it together. We try to do a good job.

The costumes are gorgeous, but I would assume they were confining in a way. Did you have to act around them — especially with that giant baby bump?

I'm pregnant for a lot of the series, so we would have different stages of the bump. And it was interesting working with our costume team and making the dresses that would work and show the bump in a certain way. That was definitely a whole deal. And I did, I got to wear a prosthetic for some scenes, which I loved. I got to do a mold of my body. It took about two hours to put on, but it was really interesting. Very, very heavy, kind of hard to hold up, which I'm assuming I guess that's what it would be. I've obviously never been pregnant, but I really liked playing with that. I think it's such a big part of the season.

tonight's PICKS

Chadwick Boseman

The Brothers Grimm
6 p.m. on MAX
Ever-oftbeat director and Monty Python veteran Terry Gilliam gives fresh life to the legend of the dark-fantasy-inventing siblings in this odd mix of whimsy and terror. Matt Damon and Heath Ledger play the Grimms as traveling exorcists who try to find out why several of a village's female children have vanished. Lena Headey plays their main ally, with Jonathan Pryce and Peter Stormare as their principal enemies.

The King of Staten Island
8 p.m. on MAX
"Saturday Night Live" cast member Pete Davidson, who lost his firefighter father during the 9/11 terrorist attack on New York, received warm critical praise for his performance in this 2020 semi-biographical comedy-drama from executive producer Judd Apatow, who also co-wrote the screenplay with Davidson. The actor stars as Scott Carlin, a 24-year-old high-school dropout who lives with his mother (Marisa Tomei) on Staten Island. Bill Burr, Bel Powley, Maude Apatow and Steve Buscemi co-star.

9:15 p.m. on TBS
The story of baseball icon Jackie Robinson is recounted with sincerity and reverence in director Brian Helgeland's 2013 drama. Chadwick Boseman strikes the right notes in the central role, conveying Robinson's dignity and grace as he faced massive prejudice in breaking the sport's color line. Equally good is Harrison Ford as Branch Rickey, the Brooklyn Dodgers general manager who gave Robinson huge support after hiring him. Nicole Beharie plays Robinson's wife, Rachel.

NBA Basketball
10:05 p.m. on ESPN
An intracity and, dare we say, intra-arena rivalry plays out tonight at Staples Center, where LeBron James and the Los Angeles Lakers is the "home" team against Paul George and the LA Clippers.

A Clüsterfünke Christmas
7 p.m. on COM
Former “Saturday Night Live” performers Rachel Dratch and Ana Gasteyer co-wrote this new TV-movie send-up of formulaic and schmaltzy holiday romances. The story follows a driven New York real estate executive named Holly (Vella Lovell, “Crazy Ex-Girlfriend”), who travels to a charming small town where she hopes to buy a quaint inn and transform it into a mega-resort. That will entail persuading the spinster sisters (Dratch, Gasteyer) who own the property, but Holly becomes distracted by the hot-woodsman nephew (Cheyenne Jackson) of the old ladies. Ryan McPartlin co-stars.

Kirk Franklin’s A Gospel Christmas
8 p.m. on LIFE
Olivia (Demetria McKinney), a young assistant pastor, is excited but nervous when she gets assigned to be the lead pastor at a new church just a month before Christmas. She’s worried about managing the transition on such short notice, especially since her duties include getting the church choir ready to open the town’s annual Winter Jam-boree. Thankfully, she finds a welcoming new home with her congregation, and as things fall into place, Olivia discovers a bit of romance as well. Chaz Lamar Shepherd and Kirk Franklin co-star.

My Favorite Christmas Melody

8 p.m. on LIFE

Not that long ago, Abby (Mya) was widely regarded as a singer-songwriter with promise, but nowadays she finds herself in an unrewarding gig writing commercial jingles. When she heads home for the holidays, a local high school music teacher turns to her for help to save her school's music program, which faces budget cuts. As she pitches in, Abby regains much of her lost confidence and optimism, not to mention stumbling into some unexpected romance as well. Rainbow Sun Francks also stars in this holiday romance.

'Rudolph' will guide Santa's sleigh again soon

Q: When will "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" be on this year?– Kate Jonas, Kansas City, Mo.

A: By the time you see this column, it already will have had its first showing this year. That came earlier than usual for the long-beloved special, even before Thanksgiving – but the good news is that CBS traditionally gives it more than one airing each holiday season. Therefore, you'll also be able to hear Sam the Snowman (voiced by Burl Ives) tell the story of how Rudolph came to lead Santa's sleigh on Dec. 11 (the same night two other perennial favorites, "Frosty the Snowman" and "Frosty Returns," also get CBS repeats).

"Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer"

Q: I was interested to see Clint Eastwood's "Spaghetti Westerns" shown together on Turner Classic Movies recently, but they started with "The Good, the Bad and the Ugly" and ended with "A Fistful of Dollars." Weren't they released in the opposite order?– Dave Reach, via email

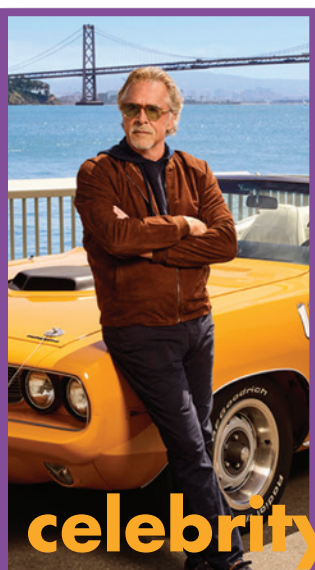

Ultimately, a list of affordable American actors included Eastwood, who was in the mood to change things up a bit from his then-current "Rawhide" television image. The rest soon became history, though legal matters kept "Fistful" from being released in the United States until 1967. By then, the sequel "For a Few Dollars More" already had been made and exhibited overseas, with its American debut following the first film's by only a few months. "The Good, the Bad and the Ugly" premiered in Italy at the end of 1966 and opened in the U.S. almost exactly one year later – so all three pictures debuted in America in the same calendar year.

"Instagram is a strange beast, as social media is in general. I have a love-hate relationship with it, as many people do. I'm often very near throwing in the towel and saying, 'Never mind.' It's like a soda shop on the corner; you can pop in if you want, or maybe you don't visit for a while." – Bethany Joy Lenz, seen recently in "An Unexpected Christmas" on Hallmark Channel
