DA will not prosecute charges against deputies

McGinley believes jury would be unable to find two deputies guilty of assaulting YouTubers

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Two men's actions surrounding the filming of videos at Newton County Sheriff's Office headquarters in recent months hurt their credibility to the point the district attorney believes a jury would be unable to find two deputies guilty "beyond a reasonable doubt" of assaulting them.

District Attorney Randy

McGinley on Friday, Dec. 3, said he was taking the unusual step of publicly releasing a detailed statement explaining how he decided actions by Joshua Brian Randolph and Roderick Sellers led to him finding his office would be unable to convince a jury the accused deputies were guilty of assaulting the two.

The incidents allegedly occurred as Randolph and Sellers filmed their interactions separately in September and October at the facility on Alcovy Road.

McGinley said because of the "nature of the incidents" and numerous phone calls and emails his office received, in addition to social media comments and local media coverage, he found it "appropriate to make my decision and reasoning public."

Randolph, a Gainesville resident, uses a video camera to make "First Amendment audits" of sheriff's office and police department headquarters throughout Georgia for a YouTube channel called "Georgia Guardian."

Georgia General Assembly

New congressional map shrinks Democrat district in Newton County

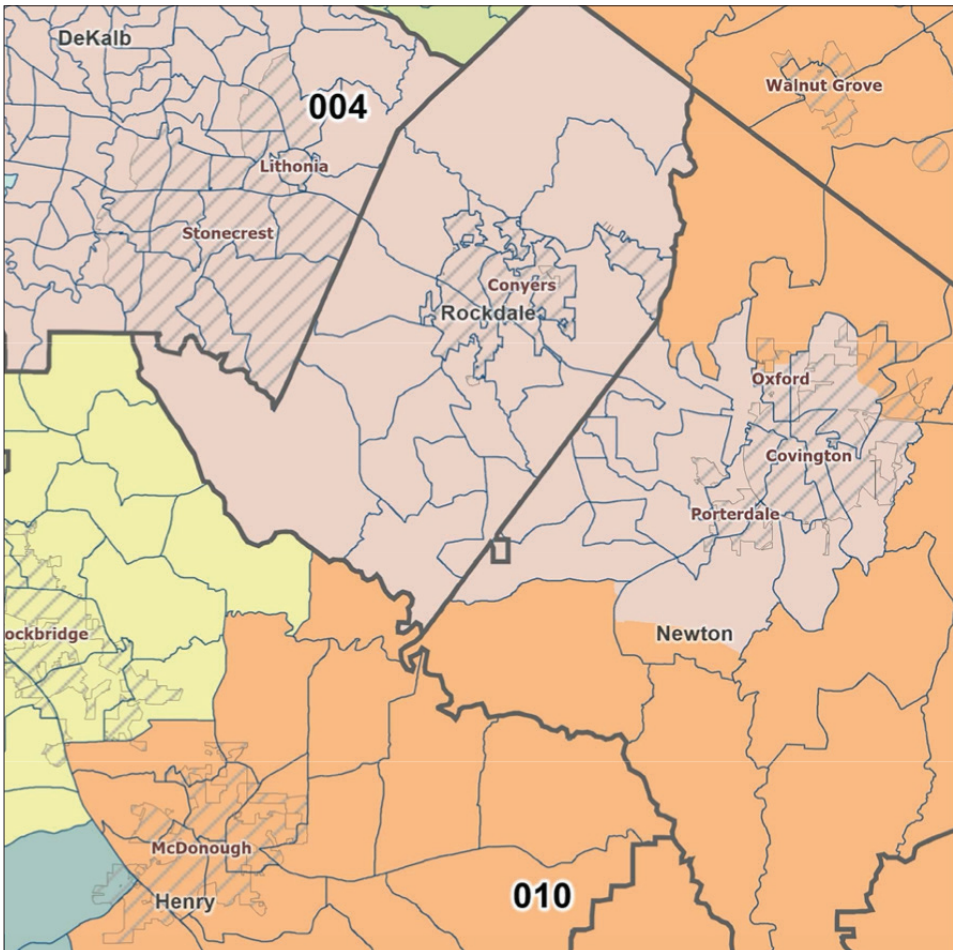

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

ATLANTA — Part of the heavily Democrat-ic 4th Congressional District in Newton is moving into the 10th District and likely giving most county residents a Republican congressman after the 2022 elections.

The General Assembly approved a new district map for Georgia recently as part of its final act in redrawing state and congressional boundaries in accordance with new 2020 U.S. Census population data.

House and Senate Republicans released the map recently that moved north and southwest Newton County from the 4th Congressional District into the heavily Republican 10th Congressional District.

Hice is challenging Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger in the 2022 Republican primary. At least 13 Republicans are seeking to succeed Hice in the congressional seat representing parts of east central and north-east Georgia.

A slight majority of Newton voters have selected Democratic presidential candidates in every election since 2008. They also selected Democrats in all contested races for county-level positions in 2020 for the first time in years.

Janel Green, who is the Georgia Democratic Party's 4th Congressional District chair, said transfer of parts of Newton County to the 10th District was part of the effort to move

Georgia State University

Interim dean named for Perimeter College in Newton

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Georgia State University President M. Brian Blake recently announced several changes to the university's senior leadership team to lead key areas, including its Perimeter College campus in Newton County.

• Cynthia Lester, senior associate dean for academic affairs at Perimeter College, will serve as interim dean of Perimeter College. During her tenure in academic affairs, Lester implemented the first Department Chairs Onboarding Academy and the New Faculty Lunch and Learn Series, led department chair search processes which resulted in the successful hiring of five new department chairs and provided leadership for faculty search processes which yielded the successful hiring of 45 new faculty.

Lester, a professor of computer science, previously served as associate dean of the Division of Math, Computer Science and Engineering and as associate dean of Georgia State's Clarkston Campus.

Lester replaces Nancy Kropf, who will step into a new role as senior vice president for strategic initiatives. She will begin the new position Feb. 1.

Kropf has been dean at Perimeter since 2019 and has led the college to record graduation rates and unprecedented success.

She joined the university in 2006 as a director and professor in the School of Social Work, then became an associate dean in the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies in 2013.

In 2015, then associate dean for research and strategic initiatives in the Andrew Young School, she was appointed dean of the Byrdine F. Lewis College of Nursing and Health Professions.

• Nicolle Parsons-Pollard, associate provost for faculty affairs, has been appointed interim provost and head of academic affairs.

Parsons-Pollard has been at Georgia State since January 2020 and is responsible for creating and implementing faculty development programs to support and strengthen faculty in teaching and research, and leadership programming for department chairs and other administrators.

She is responsible for developing and implementing faculty policies and procedures, managing university awards and recognition for faculty, and assisting with the promotion and tenure process.

Prior to her role at Georgia State, she was the vice provost for academic and faculty affairs at Monmouth University in New Jersey. At Monmouth, she was the state academic affairs representative and the regional accrediting body liaison officer. She also oversaw faculty affairs responsibilities, including interpreting the union contract and professional development for faculty, department chairs and deans.

Parsons-Pollard was also appointed as the inaugural chair of the President's Advisory Council on Diversity and Inclusion.

• Corrie Fountain, director of faculty development, will serve as interim associate provost for faculty affairs. In her current role, Fountain's responsibilities include the planning, implementation and evaluation of professional development workshops, seminars and other trainings for faculty, and assisting with faculty recruitment and retention efforts.

She has a Ph.D. in educational policy studies with a concentration

City of Covington

Council tables code changes for breweries, brewpubs, distilleries

City staff says developers interested in bringing establishments to area; could add “vibrancy” to community

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Planning and Zoning Manager Mark Beechuk said statistics showed in 1990 there were less than 50 breweries located in the U.S., but today that number had dramatically increased to 6,500.

In Georgia alone, there are approximately 69 breweries, according to a 2018 report from JLL Atlanta Research. City Manager Scott Andrews said some of those breweries, or even brewpubs and distilleries, were interested in locating in Covington, but it would take the city council’s approval.

During its Nov. 15 meeting, the Covington City Council discussed a proposed text amendment to the city’s ordinance that would allow for breweries, brewpubs and distilleries to operate within city limits.

“A lot of projects recently have shown an interest in brewpubs, and it’s something that we’ve even heard some of the development community mention,” Andrews said. “We’ve had some talk and some interest of different breweries, but we just don’t have our ducks in a row to recruit someone in the way that we might be able to. We’ve had some buildings looked at already, and we just were unable to secure that. It didn’t make sense for the development community and some of the places we looked at.

“So this is less about the stigma that comes with alcohol and more of an economic development driver,” he added. “More of a promoter of adding vibrancy to the community.”

Beechuk said the proposal was centered on two major changes.

“The big distinction here between what we currently have in the code versus what we’re asking [the council] to look at is the difference between the food,” he said. “So brewpubs would have food. We’ve [added] that in here that they would be allowed a few more places. They’re actually allowed to sell more alcohol because they have more food.”

Current minimum food to booze sales ratio requirement was 50-50, he said. Beechuk clarified that on top of any city ordinance, breweries, brewpubs and distilleries were “heavily regulated” by state and federal rules.

“And then the other difference is that breweries and distilleries are manufacturing facilities that are allowed to sell on site,” Beechuk continued. “So we’re not asking you guys to put a bar ordinance in here, which I don’t think would go over as well. We’re asking you guys to look at the craftsmanship of this industry. The way they are used for event space, gathering space, [and] functions, in the way they can help projects grow and be the focal point of a project.”

Before any discussion among council members was had, Councilman Kenneth Morgan said he believed the council should table the issue. He felt the group needed more time to analyze the proposed text amendment before making a decision.

“I’m not saying it’s something that can’t be done,” Morgan clarified. “I just feel like we need to vet it a little bit more as a group, and my suggestion ... would be that until we can actually get together as a council and kind of vet through it a little bit with you and Scott that we table this item until we can get through that process.”

Councilwoman Fleeta Baggett disagreed. She felt the council could comfortably make a decision to move forward with the process.

“As someone who owns part of a distillery, I can assure you that the process to go about to get your licensing to be able to do this far outweighs anything that you could possibly imagine,” she said. “The checks and balances on it — what we let slide tonight with liquor licenses concerns me far more than distilleries and breweries. It’s something that’s regulated by the feds. It’s regulated by the state. I think that it’s something that we can go ahead and comfortably move forward with because it’s not something that’s going to roll in here and roll out real fast. I have a bigger problem with some of the people that got licenses tonight that I know don’t go 50-50 on the food and booze. That’s my personal opinion. There are way more checks and balances with distilleries and breweries than there are with your day-to-day open container.”

But Councilwoman Hawnethia Williams was in agreement with Morgan’s point of view.

“I, too, feel that, because of the culture, I would like to know more about it,” she said. “I want to get a little bit more informed about it so I can make an informed decision.”

Williams said she believed the council would be moving too fast if voted on during the Nov. 15 meeting.

Mayor Steve Horton later asked if the “plan” was “to just be a place to hang out and drink?”

Beechuk said it was “certainly a component of it” but said these establishments weren’t likened to a bar or saloon.

“Almost all of the ones I’ve ever been to are family-oriented, gathering space type places,” he said.

“I probably haven’t been to those,” Horton replied. “I don’t know how many of y’all have worn a uniform with a badge on it and went to a club or somewhere there’s been a bad altercation or somebody hurt or killed while alcohol has been involved, but I have. And, you know, it’s not necessarily against alcohol, I just think that if you make an environment that all they got to do is stand around and drink, you might not have a problem every day, but one day you’re going to have a problem. And you can’t take that bell. And so that’s a concern to me.

“I have heard some of those [developers] that have said, ‘Well I’d put this there or that there’ if they could, but they can’t today the way the ordinance is written,” the mayor added. “But what I do know is that there’s people lined up to develop here right now. And we’re sitting here trying to figure out how we’re going to deal with traffic and manage the growth... I don’t see anybody leaving because we can’t do distilleries, brewpub, breweries, but I have young people and people of different ages say that they were concerned with the kind of traffic that we’ve got. Said they moved here from somewhere else to get away from all of that. Might have to move somewhere else.”

Horton said he felt like it would go against his conscience not to speak his opinion on the issue, despite not having a vote unless a tie among the council.

“I tend to think, my biggest concern is managing growth and managing traffic instead of worrying about how to make it easier for somebody to drink,” Horton said. “We’ve got people sitting all over the Square ... that are able to eat and drink and go about their business. If you were talking about restaurants, we’re already set up to handle those. But if you’re talking about just a place to stand around and chit chat and drink, I personally don’t think it’s a good idea. In fact, I think it’s a real bad idea and especially a real bad idea for Covington.”

As a point of clarification, Beechuk said he did not believe a brewpub could be located in Covington under current code.

Baggett said it was in her experience that most people who visited a distillery were not there to drink, but to see the manufacturing process. She said the distillery she partly owns does not allow people to drink.

Councilwoman Susie Keck said she had been to a brewpub and described the environment as “not where people go to drink too much.” She said it was often a place young adults could go to eat, drink a beer and let their kids play.

staff and all of us just growing and developing together.”

Jordan was elected tax commissioner in the Nov. 3, 2020, General Election after garnering 53% of the vote to unseat Dana Darby. Before stepping into the role of tax commissioner, Jordan had worked as the county’s chief appraiser in the tax assessor’s office since 1999.

As his inaugural year comes to an end, Jordan said he was proud of the work he and his staff have been able to accomplish.

His crowning achievement, so far, was seeing the tax commissioner’s website be overhauled. In addition to a sleek redesign, the updated website, newtoncountytax.com, offers a plethora of information about the various services offered and conducted within the tax commissioner’s office. And, most importantly, Jordan said, it’s user-friendly.

In addition to the new website, Jordan was also happy to lead the transition to a new accounting software for the office called Georgia TCS, which is a Windows-based system. The previous system had been in use for at least the last 25 years, Jordan said. He said the county was just the second in the state to switch to the new software. Jordan said the new software would “enhance the online payment options and allow for future expansion of various county services.”

Another change for the tax commissioner’s office was the phasing in of new policies “as it relates to collections and procedures.” In making these changes, Jordan said his office had been able to make significant progress in collecting delinquent taxes.

“In the initial phase this year, we sent out letters to people with delinquent taxes, and of that, we’ve been able to recoup over $7 million,” Jordan said. “Now we’re getting ready to go into our second phase where we will aggressively pursue those people who still owe.”

On that note, Jordan said, there was about $2.5 million in uncollected taxes that would likely have to be written off.

“We’re going to have to address that and send that to the board of commissioners, because we’ve got to clear the books,” Jordan said. “We’re sitting here with, probably about 20 to 30 years of taxes that haven’t been collected, and we can’t collect because it’s not forcible collections and they fall outside the seven-year period.”

However, once the second phase begins, Jordan said his office would be able to collect up to another nearly $2 million in delinquent taxes.

“We’re definitely looking forward to doing that and cleaning that up,” he said.

“Our sole purpose is to make things better for the community, and we definitely we want to make sure everyone is paying their fair share. That’s one thing we will do.”

Looking ahead to the final three years in his term, Jordan said he intends to focus on “revamping” homestead exemptions.

In Covington, where homestead expeditions have never been observed, Jordan said he has been working with city leaders to change that, starting as early as next year.

Standard homestead exemptions can typically save homeowners $300, on average, Jordan said. For homeowners age 65 and older, such exemptions can save up to $800, on average.

Jordan’s goal is to increase homestead exemptions countywide for residents’ benefit, but he said it would take working with the Board of Commissioners and the Board of Education to make it happen.

“I have a vision of revamping homestead exemptions to increase them across the board,” he said. “But at the same time, other elected officials are going look at that and say, ‘Well where are we going to get this money from?’ So, that’s where we have to sit down and say, ‘Well maybe if we phase in these exemptions we’ll be able to increase these exemptions.’”

“As you know, our values have went up,” Jordan continued. “We were fortunate this year when the county adopted a little less than a rollback rate to kind of offset some of that for the citizens. But I think going forward, I feel like our market is strong, and we need to look at ways of giving back to the citizens by way of homestead exemptions... We may not be able to do it all at once, but I think there’s a way to phase this in to where its beneficial to all parties.”

Jordan said anyone with questions could call his office at 770-784-2020 or stop by one of the two tax commissioner’s office locations:

- Newton County Administration Building, 1113 Usher St. NE, Suite 101 in Covington.
- Newton County Westside Location, 3612 Salem Road in Covington.

Both offices are open Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Jordan said he looks forward to the next three years and hopes his leadership can help pave the way to a brighter future for Newton County.

“We’re just excited about being here and we’re going to do the best we can in these four years,” Jordan said. “And going forward, when we leave here, we want people to say, ‘Man, things really changed and changed for the better.’ That’s my goal.”

Fund local journalism to help communities

A portion of the Local Journalism Sustainability Act (LJSA) was included in the recent Build Back Better bill. The LJSA, which has bipartisan support in the House, provides needed support for local journalists across the U.S.

While there has been tremendous support for the LJSA overall, there have been some pundits who have questioned whether government support for local journalists will maintain a free press.

One such claim recently came from The Wall Street Journal in an opinion piece asserting the LJSA is “a subsidy for local journalists, most of whom are left of center.” It’s important for local newspaper readers to understand this claim is not only misleading but is also incorrect.

While the writers at The Wall Street Journal or The New York Times may be interested in demonstrating how right or left of center they are, most journalists at local newspapers are dedicated to the news of their community without a slant in either direction.

One of the reasons the LJSA has gained so much support is the focus on protecting local journalism. The LJSA is designed to help local journalists in local communities and not the national media. Outlets such as The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, Huffington Post, CNN, Fox and others won’t qualify for support as they have too many employees or don’t produce local news.

The creation and consumption of local news is different than national news, and according to a 2019 Knight-Gallup study, more people believe their local news organizations are accomplishing most of the key tasks of informing their communities, significantly higher than national outlets. Without a local news organization, where else can a community get information about their local school board, the mayor’s race and other important components of community life?

The LJSA also provides even the smallest newspapers with a bridge to continue their digital evolution. Most local newspapers receive no compensation from Big Tech companies such as Facebook or Google for use of their content.

While The Wall Street Journal may be able to negotiate a deal with Google to be paid for use of its content, most small newspapers don’t have that option, and they are challenged to find the resources to provide the news that is critically needed by their communities. This additional resource will provide the local news industry time to continue its transition to a more digital future and to work out a better arrangement either through legislation or other means to be paid when Google and Facebook use their content.

The LJSA is also not a permanent handout for the industry. It’s a tax credit that sunsets in five years and is structured to incentivize all local news organizations to retain and even hire more journalists to cover their communities.

While some hedge-fund owned newspaper companies and other major corporations will benefit from the tax credits, the real winners will be the communities they serve.

For the thousands of small independently-owned newspapers across the U.S., particularly in rural communities without other viable news sources, the LJSA will mean that they have a much better chance of staying afloat.

We are appreciative of Sen. Maria Cantwell, D-Wash., and the many co-sponsors of the Build Back Better bill who understand how important it is for all communities to have a strong local news voice; when it is lost, everyone loses.

And that has no slant to the right or to the left.

Help for veterans in need still lacks

One of the issues candidates running for statewide or national office like to champion is help for veterans.

Promises made on the campaign trail, however, typically don’t see results once those candidates are in office. The VA hospital system continues to be not up to par and it’s not necessarily because of those working there. You can only stretch certain things such as staff and funding so far.

So in the end veterans continue to go without the care they need, both physical and mental. It’s a continuous blight on our country that has been going on much longer than any of us have been alive.

One veteran I know says things have been improved some. “I guess we should be thankful things aren’t worse,” he told me.

Another veteran told me recently it’s really the same overall when dealing with the VA.

“It’s such a large mess that no one president would ever be able to fix it,” said a former classmate of mine who has served several tours overseas, often in combat zones.

The number of veterans with PTSD is at an all-time high. That will continue as our country, since the early 1990s, has been involved in wars that seemingly have no end. That means more returning servicemen and service-women are going to need medical and emotional care.

Waits for doctors within the VA system are still too long but veterans are able to seek assistance at other medical locations.

Suicide continues to be the ultimate dilemma for veterans. That number, according to numerous reports, is also at a record high. It’s tragic is so many ways because veterans should never feel like they have no hope or have no one speaking up for them. Many veterans also face issues such as being homeless and that is often has a direct link to the PTSD they deal with.

Campaign talk is always cheap. The real story should be what is done when a candidate gets elected. Did he or she keep their promises or were they just giving shallow talk?

We need to continue to stress to our elected officials (and those campaigning for office) that action is more important than talk when it comes to our veterans. Until then we continue to disrespect all those who paid such a high price so we could live in the greatest country on this planet.

Many advocate free health care for life for all veterans, whether they served in combat or not. If we can afford to send our servicemen and women into combat then we can afford to help them for what they have sacrificed.

Columnist responds to mail from plethora of readers

No doubt you’ve noticed that some newspaper columnists occasionally do a “From the Mail-bag” column, serving up readers’ comments, questions, and corrections. I am one of those columnists. You might think this is a lazy way to fill space during a week in which I am not inspired to write a single-topic column. You might be correct about that.

Still, it has become apparent to me that your words are usually better than mine, so why not use them? Let’s go to the mailbox:

DEAR DAVID: I just read your column on “Shrinkflation,” about products getting smaller while the price goes up. My house was built in 1972. In our downstairs bathroom, the toilet paper holder is cemented in the wall, an original part from 50 years ago. I just noticed that a new roll of toilet paper bought today, is just half the width of the holder! Signed, Ron.

Dear Ron: I received several similar responses about the shrinkage of toilet paper. The two most commonly used words were “thinner” and “narrower.” Ironically, these are the two least used words about the trend in American rear ends these days.

DEAR DAVID: I just wanted you to know that my wife and I enjoy your column. We actually have a weekly routine. I read the column aloud to her during breakfast in the morning. It’s just a thing we started, and now we do it each week. Do you find this unusual? Signed, Jim.

Dear Jim: It’s funny you should mention this. I also read my column to my wife. However, we do this at night. She sometimes has trouble sleeping, and apparently my column is like verbal Ambien.

DEAR DAVID: Maybe you can explain this to me: Anybody who wants a job can get one. Gas, although pricey, is plentiful. Our kids are back in school. We’re back in church, we eat out, we go shopping. My 401k is growing steadily. We can attend sporting events again. Soon, our country will finally begin to rebuild crumbling bridges, and repair and widen outdated highways. Most people are finally getting vaccinated, and fewer of us are getting seriously ill, or even dying. Yet most people I know are angry, and want to overthrow the government. Why is this happening? Signed, Angela.

Dear Angela: Certainly we can all find something to complain about, and many of us do. It’s human nature, of course. Sadly, for many of us anger is oxygen, and we find a never-ending supply on the TV channels and websites that ring up huge profits when their opinion hosts get folks riled up. Add to that the heaping helping of misinformation that gets shared on social media, and you have a recipe for discontent. People were also angry in rural Alabama when I grew up in the 1960s. Thankfully, their ranting and raving was largely confined to their homes, or the nearest barbershop. Now, it’s on the internet for everyone to see. Some people call that progress. Not me. So yes, good things are happening, but as we’ve noticed in recent years, whoever is in the White House can seemingly do nothing right. As I’ve often said, if the president (any president) came to your town and healed the sick and afflicted, about half the residents would be thrilled. The other half would call him a no-good so-and-so and scream, “What took him so long?”

DEAR DAVID: I just wanted to point out a typo on one of your recent Facebook posts. You were promoting an upcoming personal appearance, and you invited us to your “Book Singing.” I was wondering if you would be singing hymns, hip-hop, or rock ‘n roll. Please let me know. Signed, Jan.

Dear Jan: You are correct, I typed in the wrong word. That particular event was actually a Book Sinning. It drew a huge crowd.

DEAR DAVID: I have a comment on “Shrinkflation.” You mentioned several grocery items, but you left out a very important product that is also shrinking. I have bought size 36 jeans for many years, but I have noticed lately that they no longer fit the way they used to. They are now much tighter around the waist. Do you think that Wrangler is using less material these days, and they’re trying to fool me into thinking their jeans are still Size 36? Signed, Joe.

Dear Joe: I have noticed the same problem with my jeans as well. And I don’t think it has anything to do with the fact I’ve been eating twice as many Little Debbies to make up for the reduced snack cake sizes. In fact, from what I’ve heard on TV, there’s a good chance Dr. Fauci has something to do with this scheme.

Until next time, keep those cards, letters, and e-mails coming!

reliably Democratic precincts from the 6th Congressional District to make it difficult for U.S. Rep. Lucy Mc-Bath, D-Roswell, to win re-election.

"It's too bad people in Newton County are being used as pawns in gerrymandering," Green said. "They've had confidence in Congressman Johnson for 10 years and they're going to lose that."

Green said she was a "big fan" of drawing districts that better reflect the current demographic and political makeup of Metro Atlanta and Georgia following Democratic 2020 election victories that showed the state's voters were basically split between the two parties.

Recently, lawmakers passed new state House and Senate maps amid protests from Democrats that the maps were drawn in secret and without enough time for public comment.

House Speaker David Ralston, R-Blue Ridge, said that House and Senate Republicans "released a proposed map that reflects Georgia's growing, diverse population, respects jurisdictional lines and communities of interest, and conforms to applicable legal standards including the Voting Rights Act."

"Unlike the unconstitutional maps drawn by a Democratic majority in 2001, we have sought to plan for Georgia's future rather than cling to its past. And we have done so in a manner that has been thorough, transparent and inclusive.

"That process has already included 11 hearings, more than 20 hours of public testimony and an online portal that has received more than 1,000 comments."

Republican lawmakers' Congressional map made Mc-Bath's 6th Congressional District in north Metro Atlanta less friendly to Democrats by drawing in more white voters, while U.S. Rep. Carolyn Bourdeaux's 7th District in Gwinnett County remained a minority-majority district.

McBath announced she planned to run for the 7th District seat in 2022, which will pit her against Bourdeaux. Federal law allows congressional candidates to live outside the district they will be representing.

U.S. Rep. Sanford Bishop's 2nd district also appears to have been drawn to include more white voters, which could make the southwest Georgia district more competitive for the GOP.

After much discussion, Williams said she still believed the council should discuss the issue further, possibly in work session.

"This is big. This is huge," she said. "I've talked about the culture of our community. We need to take that into consideration. Even though we're growing, we're changing, people moving with different philosophies and ideas about life in general ... we also have to think about the general population of our community and the culture that we have here. Every city is different, and the culture of Covington is different from metro Atlanta — not that we would deny this or prohibit this ... but I would like to know more about it so I can make an informed decision about it ... I just can't vote not knowing that much about it."

Morgan then motioned to table the matter to Jan. 18. The motion was approved 4-2.

The city council's next meeting is Monday, Dec. 13 — its final regularly scheduled meeting of the year.

PROSECUTE:

He accused Deputy Timothy Smith and Sheriff Ezell Brown of assaulting him and knocking his camera to the ground as he shot video outside the county's Law Enforcement Center Sept. 28.

Randolph later filed a federal lawsuit against the sheriff's office, accusing it of violating his constitutional rights. He also asked McGinley to investigate the incident for possible criminal charges.

McGinley said Randolph's actions during and before the September incident in Newton County "show a consistent approach by Randolph of antagonizing and attempting to bait" law enforcement officers into taking action against him, McGinley wrote.

"Any prosecutor must evaluate how facts would be interpreted by a jury, not just how the prosecutor personally interprets them," he said. "Further, neither this office nor I shy away from prosecuting anyone based on their status in the community or a position they hold in the community."

He said he compared the sheriff's office incident reports with Randolph's video of the incident and "nothing in the reports about this incident appears to be demonstratively false."

"Mr. Randolph has suggested otherwise in his YouTube videos and in emails to me, but that appears to be based solely on his interpretation."

McGinley said security "is of an upmost concern for the Newton County Sheriff's Office" at the Law Enforcement Center. It houses both law enforcement officers and a jail with dozens of prisoners, including some convicted murderers, for which the sheriff is responsible for protecting.

"Randolph's actions of filming into vehicles and the general nature of the area he was filming while wearing a mask and hat with only his eyes visible would reasonably cause concern even if later shown to be legitimate," McGinley wrote. "This includes filming cars; and it would not be unreasonable that someone could have believed he was looking into non-official vehicles as well.

"Further, the video and path Randolph took starts to go to the secure area of the jail, meaning where the (building) pods are located behind the secure fencing areas, when he was approached by the Sheriff."

He also said Randolph appeared to be seeking to profit from his actions either through appeals for money on his YouTube channel or "by fishing for a lawsuit, and not based on Randolph's claimed concern about the Constitution."

"Jurors tend not to give much credibility to situations where there is an obvious or even a perceived financial motive," McGinley wrote.

In addition, Randolph's prior convictions for fraud related to a fraudulent Hall County newspaper business in 2013, for which he served more than six years in prison through March 2021; and prison time for a previous conviction for impersonating an officer would be a problem for a jury, the DA said.

"People make mistakes," McGinley said. "However, the nature of his previous charges does not suggest that Randolph's prior crimes were mistakes, but rather that he has a history of fraudulent activities."

Randolph responded on his YouTube channel that his prior convictions have nothing to do with a deputy's alleged violation of his lawful right to film in the public areas of a sheriff's office.

He also said McGinley's decision not to prosecute a law enforcement officer was part of a pattern of district attorneys being unwilling to prosecute officers in their judicial circuits because of close relationships between their offices.

The DA, in his statement about his decision, also said a jury likely would not find a deputy guilty of assaulting Roderick Sellers in part because Sellers carried a sign calling the sheriff a derogatory name while filming in numerous areas outside and inside the lobby of the complex in October.

Sellers accused Maj. Sammy Banks of Simple Battery when the officer pushed down a camera to see Sellers' face.

"Any jury would find Sellers' interactions with Sheriff's Office employees as at least rude, if not worse. Being rude or even cussing at an officer is not a crime. In my experience, however, it clearly would not be well received by a jury," McGinley wrote..

"A YouTube video posted by Sellers would be admissible at trial. In my opinion, a jury would not be impressed by this video well due to his mocking and telling individuals to "go

---- yourself." McGinley wrote that Banks "lightly, and non-aggressively attempts (to) move down the camera Sellers was holding in his hand so that Banks can look at Sellers's face while speaking to him."

"Nothing from Maj. Banks' interactions with Sellers even comes close to any crime ... reasonable people viewing the interaction would find that Maj. Banks acted appropriately in dealing with an individual who was being rude and appears to be more concerned about baiting someone than any legitimate concerns," the DA wrote.

Sellers, though, on Saturday said in a video he posted on YouTube that he planned to continue to pursue charges of Simple Battery against Banks and claimed McGinley's description of the incident proved Sellers' claim.

"I didn't want to put my hand down and he touched me intentionally," Sellers said.

Georgia law states a person is guilty of the crime of Simple Battery if he or she "intentionally makes physical contact of an insulting or provoking nature with the person of another; or intentionally causes physical harm to another."

Piedmont finishes the season 9-4 overall in head coach Clint Satterfield's first season with the program.

Leading 13-6 at halftime, TJA (12-1) took the second half's opening possession but could not add to its lead. Piedmont's defense stopped the Jaguars on a fourth and seven from the Cougar 36. Gavin Mask made a big tackle to force a fourth down attempt.

Taking over at its 32, Piedmont gained its initial first down of the game but a personal foul call pushed the ball back to the 27. The Cougars then converted a fourth and four from their 29 to keep the drive alive.

Piedmont, sensing the urgency of the possession, reached the end zone on a 49-yard pass from Justin Reynolds to Michael Joseph with 5:31 remaining in the third quarter. Landon Conner evened the score with the extra-point kick.

With the score now tied, Thomas Jefferson began at its 15 and marched 85 yards to regain the lead on a 56-yard TD by Beans Hunt with 45 seconds remaining in the third quarter. The Jaguars went for two but the Cougar defense stopped the attempt.

TJA then stopped Piedmont's ensuing drive with an interception by John Durden at the Cougar 36-yard line on the first play of the fourth quarter. The Jaguars proceeded to work the game clock down to 5:25 before John Durden crashed in for another touchdown.

Thomas Jefferson converted two fourth downs on the scoring drive to kill even more clock. A successful 2-point conversion put the Jaguars in front 27-13.

The Jaguars finished with approximately 36 minutes in time of possession.

Piedmont had its chances early to jump out with a lead.

On the game's opening possession, the Cougars nearly connected on a home run pass play before going three-and-out at its own 41-yard line.

Thomas Jefferson, on its first drive, methodically drove down the field and Durden punched it in from a yard out.

The Cougars held tough throughout the game, but their offense simply wasn't able to maintain possession enough to score points.

That was the ultimate difference in the game.

Afterward, Thomas Jefferson's head coach paid respect to Piedmont in their three straight state titles matchups.

"It has been a great rivalry for the last four years," TJA head coach Terence Hennessy said. "I'm not sure what the future will hold in terms of us continuing to play but it is something we definitely would like to do if at all possible. For us to win three state championships in a row is special. We had a great group of seniors. I thought Coach Satterfield did a great job of preparing his kids for the rematch. Games typically come down to four or five plays."

Eagles earn third place finish at Tiger Plunge

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

ADAIRSVILLE, Ga. — The Eastside High School swimming team made a splash Saturday, Dec. 4, at the Tiger Plunge meet hosted by Adairsville High School. When the competition ended, the Eagles earned a third place finish out of 14 teams.

The boys team, specifically, tallied 147 points that earned them a fifth place finish. Meanwhile, the girls finished second with 339 points.

It was a team effort to accomplish this. However, the Lady Eagles were led by Alice Kennedy.

Kennedy scored 40 points which was the top female points in the meet. Additionally, Kennedy finished in first place in both the 100 Butterfly as well as in the 500 Freestyle.

Molly O'Brien broke her own school record in the 100 breaststroke with a 1:23.15 final time. That placed her second in that competition. She also finished first in the 200 Individual Medley.

Overall, the Eagles saw 16 improvements in final times at Adairsville High School.

Other players made contributions to the Eagles' third place finish.

Murphy O'Brien placed first in the 200 freestyle and second in the 500 Freestyle. Maggie O'Brien finished third in the 100 Breaststroke while Rai'Jene White placed third in the 50 Freestyle.

In the Girls 200 Medley Relay, the Lady Eagles took first place with a final time of 2:10.70. Maggie and Molly O'Brien as well as Kennedy and White made up the team.

The Eagles have six meets remaining in the season.

Head coach DeAnna O'Brien is optimistic about her team's growth as the season progresses.

"We had a great showing among both our boys and girls teams," coach O'Brien said. "Even with having to make sacrifices traveling to Monroe for practice four nights a week, the Swimming Eagles are looking good and demonstrating their dedication to the sport. I have no doubt we will see more school records fall and additional qualifications for state."

Top-ranked Bulldogs fall to Alabama in SEC title game

Georgia earns No. 3 seed in College Football Playoff

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
The Associated Press

ATLANTA — Bryce Young's stellar play proved to be too much for Georgia's defense that has led them all season long. The sophomore, Heisman hopeful threw three touchdowns and ran for another to down then-No. 1 Bulldogs on Saturday 41-24 in the SEC Championship game.

With the final result, UGA falls to No. 3 in the final College Football Playoff.

Heading into the matchup, the Bulldogs dominated their opponents only allowing an average of 6.9 points per game. Thus, they cruised the regular season with Tennessee scoring the most points against them all year (17).

Young made them look like a scout team, surely bolstering his Heisman Trophy chances as well as moving on to an even bigger game on the final day of 2021.

Alabama (12-1, No. 3 CFP) had six offensive scoring drives — five covering at least 75 yards, the other 62 — and finished with a staggering 536 yards against a team that was giving up just under 231 per game.

The Tide's defense wasn't too shabby, either, essentially sealing the victory with Jordan Battle's 42-yard interception return to the end zone with about 12 minutes remaining.

Georgia's Stetson Bennett threw for 340 yards and three touchdowns, but he also had two crucial picks. Freshman Brock Bowlers made 10 catches for 139 yards.

Now, Georgia will be heading to Miami

Gardens, Fl., to face No. 2 Michigan in the Orange Bowl on Dec. 31.

Michigan (12-1) and Georgia (12-1) are two of the more storied programs in college football, but they have faced each other only twice before. They split the two meetings, one in 1957 and the other in 1965.

This year's other semifinal matches No. 1 Alabama (12-1) against No. 4 Cincinnati (13-0) in the Cotton Bowl. The winners play for the national championship Jan. 10 in Indianapolis.

GSU to face Ball State in TaxAct Camellia Bowl

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
GSU Athletics

ATLANTA — Georgia State's third straight bowl game is a matchup with Ball State in the TaxAct Camellia Bowl on Dec. 25 in Montgomery, Ala.

The game at the historic Cramton Bowl will kick off at 2:30 p.m. ET and will be nationally televised on ESPN.

Tickets for the bowl game will go on sale tonight at GeorgiaStateSports.com/Bowls.

The Panthers (7-5, 6-2 Sun Belt), who finished second in the Sun Belt East Division, enter bowl season as one of the nation's hottest teams after winning six of their last seven games.

Mid-American Conference foe Ball State is 6-6 overall, 4-4 in the MAC. Georgia State is 1-1 against the Cardinals, including a 31-19 victory at Ball State in 2015. Ball State won the 2016 game in Atlanta, 31-21.

Georgia State is playing in a third straight bowl game for the first time in program history, and the Panthers have earned bowl berths four times in five seasons under head coach Shawn Elliott. Playing just its 12th season of football since launching the program in 2010, GSU is going bowling for the fifth time in the last seven years. The Panthers earned their first bowl victory in the 2017 AutoNation Cure Bowl and are 2-2 in bowl games.

Meanwhile, Eastside's offense was forced long-range shots, which resulted in multiple misses. The Lady Eagles' leading scorers were Jailyn

With the win, Alcovy improves to 3-5 on the season. Eastside falls to 1-3.

Most of our scoring has happened late in the games this season."

Be that as it may, the Eagles did something that most teams never do: Score points before the game even starts.

According to GHSA rules, no team is allowed to dunk 20 minutes prior to game time. Alcovy did so twice within that time frame and awarded Eastside four free

County rivals split Saturday matchup
Eagles pull away from Alcovy boys in overtime

By M. CHESNY YOUNG
Correspondent

COVINGTON, Ga. — It took an extra period, but the East-side Eagles ultimately topped the Alcovy Tigers 61-52 on Saturday.

Down the stretch in the fourth quarter, the game went back-and-forth and came down to the wire.

In the closing seconds, Ben Hodges of Eastside connected on a buzzer-beating layup to send the game to overtime tied at 49-all.

From there, the Eagles took over and outscored the Tigers 12-3 with the win. Two 3-pointers in overtime seemed to seal the deal and put the game out of reach for Alcovy.

Hodges led the Tigers in scoring with 23 points. A lot of his points came off put backs after collecting offensive rebounds.

Alcovy led at the half 28-23.

Momentum shifted to Eastside in the second half.

Freshmen Tim Prather contributed 15 points, Raje Benton contributed 18 points and Kassen Saunders 17 points. Most of these totals were racked up in the second half and by the time the fourth quarter came around, the score was tied.

Head coach Dorri-an Randolph wasn't shocked by a slow start for his offense.

"We are notoriously a slow starting team," Randolph said. "Our guys are out there getting to know each other."

COVINGTON, Ga. — County rivals Alcovy and Eastside girls basketball teams clashed on the hardwood Saturday.

The Lady Tigers defeated Eastside 55-18. Their win over the Lady Eagles was fueled by superior ball-handling skills and inpenetrable full-court pressure defense.

With both teams beginning the game with full-court defenses, many substitutions had be made in the first half. Both teams' benches were utilized early.

The Lady Tigers shut down Eastside's offense Saturday in a 55-18 victory — the third win of the season for Alcovy.

As the game progressed, the Lady Tiger's offense was able to handle the press defense better than the Lady Eagles, which made the difference.

Janae Hutcherson, Mae Head, Alicia McAlpine and Tajah Jackson all handled the basketball very well for Alcovy. Head coach Justin Hunter said that their ability "could be attributed to the amount of hard work these girls put in."

Even so, it was the scoring from Luv Llewellyn that helped in the win. Llewellyn finished with 11 points.

The Lady Tigers offensive attack was how the team prepared, according to Hunter.

"We want to take as many high percentage shots as we can, which means driving the ball to the basket," Hunter

Gluten-free holiday treats

Enjoy decadent dessert with health in mind

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

What would the holidays be without decadent desserts? In fact, the season is synonymous with cookies and other baked treats, so much so that families often incorporate holiday baking into their annual traditions.

People who avoid gluten for health reasons may feel left when the bevy of desserts is distributed during home visits or office holiday parties, as they probably cannot indulge in these sweet treats. This recipe for “Mint Slims” from Danielle Walker’s “Eat What You Love” (Ten Speed Press) ensures that even those who have gone gluten-free can enjoy some holiday sweets.

Mint Slims
Makes 25

Ingredients:
2 cups blanched almond flour
2 tablespoons coconut flour
1/2 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon fine sea salt
1/4 cup maple sugar
1/4 cup light-colored raw honey
1/4 cup expeller-pressed coconut oil
2 ounces unsweetened chocolate, chopped
1/2 teaspoon pure peppermint extract

Coating:
10 ounces dairy-free and soy-free semisweet chocolate chips
3/4 teaspoon expeller-pressed coconut oil
1/4 teaspoon pure peppermint extract

Directions:
In the bowl of a stand mixer fitted with the beater attachment, or using a food processor, combine the almond flour, coconut flour, cocoa powder, baking soda, salt, and maple sugar and mix thoroughly on medium speed.

People who avoid gluten for health reasons may feel left when the bevy of desserts is distributed during home visits or office holiday parties, as they probably cannot indulge in these sweet treats.

In a saucepan, combine the honey, coconut oil, chocolate, and peppermint extract and cook over low heat, stirring until melted. Pour the melted chocolate mixture into the dry ingredients and beat on medium speed until fully combined.

Using your hands, pack the dough firmly into two balls, then flatten each into a thick disk. Roll each disk into a 1/4-inch-thick circle on a piece of parchment paper. Stack the pieces (with parchment paper in between) on a baking sheet and refrigerate for at least 1 hour, or up to 2 days. (If chilling for more than 2 hours, cover the top piece of dough with another piece of parchment paper.)

When you’re ready to bake the cookies, preheat the oven to 350 degrees and line two or three baking sheets with parchment paper or silicone baking mats.

Remove one of the dough pieces from the refrigerator. Use a 2-inch-round cookie cutter to cut out circles and place them on a prepared baking sheet. Repeat with the remaining dough, rerolling and cutting circles until all the dough is used.

Bake one sheet at a time for 8 minutes, rotating the sheet halfway through baking. Cool the cookies on the sheets for 5 minutes, then transfer them to a wire rack to cool completely.

To make the coating, melt the chocolate chips and oil together in a double boiler or a heatproof bowl set over a saucepan filled with about 1 inch of boiling water. Stir the mixture frequently until the chocolate melts. Stir the peppermint extract into the melted chocolate. Turn off the heat and remove the bowl from the pan.

Dip each cookie completely into the melted chocolate and use a fork to lift it out. Tap the fork gently on the side of the bowl to allow any excess chocolate to drip off. Place the dipped cookies on the prepared baking sheets, then refrigerate the cookies for 1 hour to help the chocolate set. Serve chilled.

Soup can be customized with flavors that evoke the spirit of autumn.

Ladle up a warm and hearty soup

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

As the days cool, autumn cooking starts to heat up. If soup hasn’t yet been on the menu, then now is the time to explore new recipes that can warm us up from the inside out.

Soup can be customized with flavors that evoke the spirit of autumn. Ingredients like pumpkin, warming spices like cinnamon and cayenne and peanut butter come together in this recipe for “Vegan Pumpkin Peanut Butter Soup,” courtesy of The National Peanut Board and Abra Pappa of “Abra’s Kitchen.”

Vegan Pumpkin Peanut Butter Soup
Serves 10

Ingredients:
2 large leeks, sliced
1 tablespoon coconut oil
8 cups fresh pumpkin puree
1 cup creamy peanut butter
4 cups vegetable broth
14 ounces coconut milk (1 can)
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons Chinese five-spice powder (or 1 teaspoon cinnamon)
1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper

Toppings:
Sriracha sauce
Vegan coconut yogurt

Fresh roasted pumpkin:

Purchase a “pie pumpkin” (also called a “sweet pumpkin”), which are typically around 2 to 4 pounds.

On average, each “pound” will yield about 1 cup of pumpkin puree. Using a sharp knife, carefully cut the pumpkin in half lengthwise. Use a sharp spoon or ice cream scoop to scoop out all seeds and strings (reserve the seeds for roasting). Drizzle the pumpkin with olive oil, salt and pepper. Line a cookie sheet with parchment paper and place the pumpkin halves skin side down. Using the tip of a sharp knife, carefully place a few slits in the skin of the pumpkin. Roast in a 375-degree oven for 40 minutes to 60 minutes. It will entirely depend on the size of your pumpkin. Remove from oven and allow to cool. When cool enough to handle, scoop out the flesh and set aside.

Pumpkin soup:

In a large pot over medium-high heat, melt coconut oil. Add sliced leeks and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Sauté for 5 to 8 minutes or until leeks are soft and creamy. Add vegetable stock, pumpkin puree, peanut butter, coconut milk, and spices to pot. Stir well to combine, and allow to simmer for 15 minutes. Working in batches, add soup to a high-speed blender and blend until smooth, return to pot and taste for seasoning adding more salt if needed. Serve with a drizzle of sriracha and a spoonful of vegan (plain, unsweetened) coconut yogurt.

Flavorful appetizer is ideal for holiday entertaining

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Holiday entertaining revs up in autumn and continues into the new year. The prepared host or hostess understands the importance of having plenty of crowd-ready recipes on hand. Delicious, easy-to-prepare appetizers certainly should be in home cooks’ bag of holiday hosting tricks.

Few can resist the salty allure of bacon, which adds appeal to an appetizer tailor-made for any event. This recipe for “Bacon-Wrapped Figs,” courtesy of the Kansas Pork Association, is sweet and savory.

Bacon-Wrapped Figs
Serves 12

Ingredients:
6 strips bacon, halved crosswise
12 figs, stemmed
12 pecan pieces, toasted
3 tablespoons maple syrup
1/8 to 1/4 teaspoon ground cayenne

Dip
1/4 cup soft goat cheese (2 ounces)
1/4 cup cream cheese

Few can resist the salty allure of bacon, which adds appeal to an appetizer tailor-made for any event.

(2 ounces)
3 tablespoons milk
2 teaspoons fresh thyme leaves finely chopped, or 3/4 teaspoon dried thyme

Directions:
Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Place four layers of paper towels on a microwave-safe plate. Top with bacon slices. Cover with two or more layers of paper towels. Microwave on high 1 to 2 minutes to render fat from bacon but not crisp. While bacon cools, slice each fig twice, starting at stem end, and cutting three-quarters of the way to bottom. Stuff each fig with a pecan piece. Wrap a half strip of bacon around each fig and secure with a toothpick. Place on a foil-lined baking sheet. Bake 10 minutes. Turn. Return to the oven for 5 minutes or until the bacon is sizzling and begins to crisp. In a small bowl, combine syrup and cayenne pepper. Brush mixture over appetizers.

For dip: Combine all dip ingredients in a small bowl. Cover and chill until serving time. Makes about 1/2 cup. Serve appetizers warm with dip.

Will Smith hosts “Welcome to Earth,” premiering Wednesday on Disney+.

‘Welcome to Earth’ spotlights the subtle awesomeness of nature on Disney+

It may have the title “Welcome to Earth,” but the new Disney+ documentary series might well be subtitled, “Phenomena in Nature You Never Considered.” Because it’s that eye-opening.

Premiering Wednesday, Dec. 8, on the streaming service, the series from National Geographic follows host Will Smith as he embarks on an awe-inspiring journey to reveal the secrets behind some of the most extraordinary and unexplained events in nature.

So in the six episodes, viewers will learn how swarms of hundreds of thousands of birds or honeybees can move as a single unit without any apparent communication; how smell, the most powerful of the senses, leads sea turtles back to an island in the South Pacific to lay eggs; and how deserts move slowly beyond human perception.

Smith, who had previously worked on the NatGeo series “One Strange Rock,” acts as the eyes and the ears of the viewer here, taking in the action as it unfolds before him and speaking wide-eyed in narration and to the camera.

“He doesn’t pretend to be a scientist or a volcanologist or an expert in anything,” explains Jane Root, an executive producer of the series for her production company Nutopia. “(His attitude is,) ‘I’m the person who’s there seeing what you can see about the planet.’ And the thing he also talks about (is) what you can see about the planet on the other side of fear. He says his grandmother always said to him that the best things in life are (discovered) once you get through being scared of them.”

Fear certainly played a role in the opening episode “The Silent Roar,” in which Smith, explorer Erik Weiheymayer and the crew went to Tanna Island in the South Pacific near Vanuatu to film and listen to the active volcano of Mount Yasur rumble. But the group actually got more than they expected when it erupted, spewing forth lava and boulders.

Needless to say, it was one of those life experiences that all who witnessed it will never forget.

“Some of the boulders were the size of, you know, small cars and they’re kind of just exploding out of the ground,” Root says. “And you see Will joking about it, like ‘I’m wearing this helmet but that’s not really going to help, is it?’

“We had probably at the top of that volcano like 12 different safety people and every safety precaution we could take but this is still really challenging stuff to film,” she continues. “You know, there’s still a sense of, ‘Wow! Am I actually here while this is going on? That’s incredible.’ And the noise and the intensity of it, I think that’s why we put that episode first because it’s one of those moments where we just appreciate the awesomeness of it.”

Creative ideas for your ho-ho-holiday dinner courtesy of Food Network

It's three weeks before Christmas, a time when the discriminating foodie goes on the lookout for holiday baking or meal ideas.

Food Network is there to help, offering up an array of new and repeat episodes on everything from appetizers, entrees and beverages adult and otherwise to cakes, pies, cookies and all manner of pastries – from here and abroad. So check out what's in store for the coming week.

On the subject of international foods, Giada De Laurentiis puts an Italian spin on things in her "Giada's Holiday Handbook" on Sunday, Dec. 5, throwing a holiday party complete with a family-style meal that includes roasted fennel, creamy lobster pasta and chocolate almond cheesecake. Try to resist.

Also that morning on "Girl Meets Farm," host Molly Yeh prepares a day's worth of Scandinavian meals in honor of her farming family. For breakfast, she bakes a spiced cardamom wreath and for dinner, it's a menu consisting of meatballs and lutefisk (a lye-cured fish), and a fluffy Norwegian cream cake. Expand your horizons with this exotic fare.

Kardea Brown is also in the holiday mood that morning on "Delicious Miss Brown," which finds her in her coastal South Carolina kitchen preparing a dinner for family that consists of a brown sugar glazed ham with cloves, red rice perloo and a green bean casserole. And for dessert, it's an apple cider cobbler. Southern fare from the heart of Low Country.

Later in the week on the morning of Saturday, Dec. 11, Ina Garten is busy at work on "Barefoot Contessa: Back to Basics," preparing a seasonal brunch of morning glory muffins, a fresh fruit platter, shakshuka with feta and a spicy bloody Mary. Sweet and savory – hard not to like this.

Then on "The Pioneer Woman," Ree Drummond gets in a festive spirit with a menu of apple, brie and mushrooms en croute, a traditional eggnog in a ginger crumb-rimmed glass and an ugly sweater cake. She also prepares a berry basil vodka and festive marinated olives for a happy hour gift basket. A decidedly adult meal.

Also that morning, the chefs of "The Kitchen" are in the holiday spirit, highlighted by Sunny Anderson's pesto and ricotta crostini and Geoffrey Zakarian's tostones with tuna tartare and adobo chili. Certainly, outside-the-box ideas for your holiday table.

And on "Trisha's Southern Kitchen," host Trisha Yearwood does her holiday party right with a menu consisting of a holiday biscuit wreath, red and green holiday deviled eggs, a grits and greens casserole and milk and cookies fudge. Yum!

OF 'THE HOLIDAY FIX UP' ON LIFETIME

Your character in "The Holiday Fix Up" is a do-it-yourself personality who uses social media extensively in her job. You have a strong online presence yourself, so did you always intend to build that into your role?

My whole entire life is social media, so that was kind of fun to do that. But also, I think we showed how it can bring people together. For me personally, what I took away from the movie the most is actually about putting the phone down ... back in the day when we didn't have cell phones, and we were able to just disconnect and be in a room together and not be glued to Instagram or the phone.

That's what I took away from it the most, having that distraction away to really just be present with the people in front of me. That's something that I would like to lean more into.

Maria Menounos also appears in "The Holiday Fix Up." She's known principally as a host and interviewer, so what did you see in her for her to act in this?

I was like, "Oh, that's going to be easy to play best friends with her," because every time I see her, I feel like she's such a close friend. And then with Ryan, it's like we had that brother-sister, fun banter. It's that good energy, so that part was really easy, to have the chemistry. We were all teammates together.

Christmas Around the World

8 p.m. on WUPA

Dean Cain and Laura McKenzie host this new one-hour yuletide special that showcases how Christmas is celebrated around the world, by highlighting traditions that reach back into ancient times and extend into the modern day. That overview, not surprisingly, also extends to what various cultures have come to regard as "Christmas foods."

Christmas With a Crown

8 p.m. on LIFE

When Cassie (Lisa Durupt) travels home to help revive her family's traditional Christmas special, she finds herself working with Nicolas (Marcus Rosner), a charismatic stranger who has volunteered his service. She has no idea this dashing gentleman actually is an incognito prince, who is hoping his masquerade will help him get into the authentic Christmas spirit in this 2021 yuletide romance.

Crossroads

8 p.m. on CMTV

Multi-platinum singer-songwriter Brett Young returns to the Crossroads stage for the first Christmas-themed episode in this acclaimed music series. In this one-hour offering, Young appears alongside an all-star lineup of friends and collaborators including Boyz II Men, Chris Tomlin, Colbie Caillat, Dann Huff, Darius Rucker, David DeGraw and Maddie & Tae.

CMT a Tennessee Kind of Christmas

9 p.m. on CMTV

A superstar lineup of country music greats including Amy Grant, Billy Ray Cyrus, Pam Tillis, Sara & Olivia Evans, Steve Wariner, Tracy Lawrence and Wynonna celebrate the Christmas season from several iconic venues and outdoor locations in and around Nashville, Tenn., in this new one-hour special. In addition to performing beloved songs of this festive season, the stars also share stories of their personal Christmas traditions and favorite holiday memories.

A black and white photograph of a man with short, wavy hair, smiling broadly. He is wearing a light-colored, short-sleeved button-down shirt. He is standing outdoors in a field with some vegetation in the background.

A Fiance for Christmas

8 p.m. on LIFE

As the holidays approach, Sawyer (Amanda Payton) is so depressed to find herself with no romantic prospects that she makes a fake online wedding registry, hoping that a vigorous session of retail therapy — preferably with a scan gun — will boost her spirits. Unfortunately, her make-believe registry soon attracts notice, followed by well-wishers who start planning a big bridal shower for her. Mortified by the attention and unable to come clean, Sawyer finds a fake fiancé to help conceal her secret. Marie Osmond and Adam Gregory also star.

8 p.m. on HBO
John Maggio's music documentary "Mr. Saturday Night" chronicles the meteoric career ascent of Australian entrepreneur Robert Stigwood, who was so inspired by a magazine article on the Brooklyn night club scene that he made a movie about it. That movie, "Saturday Night Fever," became nothing less than a cultural touchstone for 1977, turning actor John Travolta into a global superstar in the process. The platinum-selling soundtrack also gave a shot of adrenaline to disco, thanks to four number-one hits from the Bee Gees.

This steamy nighttime soap closes out Season 2 with two back-to-back episodes, starting with "Willing to Sacrifice," in which Summer (Parker McKenna Posey) loses control and begins to act out. Elsewhere, Cameron Sr. (Lawrence Hilton-Jacobs) faces a new threat from Nigel (Chris Attoh), while Tito (Cisco Reyes) foolishly tries to back Carissa (Demetria McKinney) into a corner. Later, Cameron Sr. confronts his son (Brad James) about his secrets, and Carissa and Stephanie (Paula Jai Parker) face a common threat in Alexis (LisaRaye McCoy). The finale immediately follows.

tonight's PICKS

“Arthur Christmas”

Shark Tank

8 p.m. on WSB

The tank is overflowing with comfort and joy in this new holiday-themed episode, in which the resident panel of Sharks entertain some seasonally appropriate pitches and products from tonight's guest entrepreneurs.

Penn & Teller: Fool Us

8 p.m. on WUPA

God rest ye, merry magicians! Illusionists Penn & Teller are joined by host Alyson Hannigan for a special yuletide edition of this hit reality competition series. Apart from the Christmassy decor, costumes and some other surprise elements, fans of the show will find the familiar format pretty much unchanged, as Penn & Teller watch as aspiring magicians try to impress them with a trick, then try to replicate the illusion based on one viewing.

Arthur Christmas

8 p.m. on DISN

Santa is known to “save” some youngsters' holidays, but his youngest son goes to the rescue in this animated feature from the studio that also was behind “Chicken Run.” If Arthur doesn't come through, a British girl may not get the bicycle she desires ... but he'll have to get past his own foibles to complete the mission. The voice cast includes such notables as James McAvoy, Hugh Laurie and Bill Nighy.

A Dickens of a Holiday!

8 p.m. on HALL

In this delightful 2021 yuletide romantic comedy, Cassie (Brooke D'Orsay), tasked with coordinating the 100th anniversary of her hometown's justifiably celebrated Victorian Christmas festival, has been racking her brain for something that will guarantee this high-profile event will be a success. In a flash of nostalgic inspiration, she decides to invite her former high school classmate Jake (Kristoffer Polaha) to play Ebenezer Scrooge in a production of Charles Dickens' “A Christmas Carol.”

What's Available NOW On

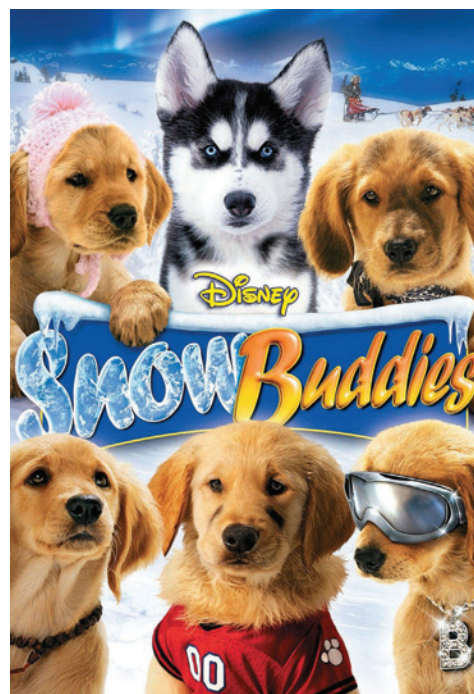

“Welcome to Earth: Season 1” (Dec. 8)

From National Geographic comes this documentary series that follows host Will Smith as he ventures to far-flung locations worldwide to do a deep dive into often-overlooked phenomena in nature such as how flocks of birds can move in unison, the role the sense of smell plays in South Pacific sea turtle reproduction and how deserts move slowly beyond human perception.

“Duck the Halls: A Mickey Mouse Christmas Special” (Available now)

This 2018 episode from the Disney Channel series “Mickey Mouse” finds Donald going against his instincts to fly south for the winter, instead opting to stay home for the holiday. To celebrate the occasion, Mickey endeavors to make Donald’s first Christmas the greatest ever.

“Snow Buddies” (Available now)

This 2008 spinoff of the “Air Bud” franchise follows five pups who as they trail a shipment of ice cream to a transport plane. Accidentally trapped aboard the flight to Alaska, they wind up helping a canine friend and a boy who need five dogs for a big race.

“The Search for Santa Paws” (Available now)

When Santa loses his memory during a trip to New York, it’s up to Paws, an orphaned girl and a group of talking dogs to save him and show the world what Christmas is about in this 2010 prequel to 2009’s “Santa Buddies” from director Robert Vince (“MVP: Most Valuable Primate”). Kaitlyn Maher, Madison Pettis and Richard Riehle star.

Happy Holidays!

tonight's PICKS

Jana Kramer and Ryan McPartlin
Christmas Déjà Vu

8 p.m. on BET
Amber Riley ("Glee") stars in this new yuletide comedy as a young woman who yearns for nothing so much as finding success as a professional singer. Fate, alas, has not been kind to her so far, and following years of disappointment and hard knocks, her milk of human kindness has curdled and filled her with a sour taste for Christmas. This year may turn out differently, though, as an angel finally hears her wish.

The Holiday Fix Up
8 p.m. on LIFE
Sam, the fan-favorite designer on a hit home renovation show, returns to her hometown during the holidays to help renovate an historic local inn. There's just one problem: Coop, the lead contractor assigned to work with her, is an old flame who broke her heart years ago — and although Sam doesn't know it, he still has some complicated feelings about her, too. Jana Kramer, Ryan McPartlin and Maria Menounos star in this 2021 holiday romance.

Saturday Night Live
11:29 p.m. on WXIA
Singer-songwriter Billie Eilish — the youngest artist in Grammy Award history to win all four general field categories (record, song and album of the year, plus best new artist) in the same year — pulls double duty as she makes her debut as host of this Emmy-winning comedy series, while also returning as the night's musical guest.

70th Miss Universe
7 p.m. on WAGA
The reigning Miss Universe, Andreea Meza of Mexico, will crown her successor at the climax of this three-hour special, from Eilat, Israel, hosted by returning host Steve Harvey. More than 75 contestants will participate in this year's competition, which includes two especially noteworthy candidates from the Middle East and North Africa. This year's pageant will mark the first time a delegate from the United Arab Emirates has competed, and Miss Universe Morocco returns to the event for the first time in more than four decades.

8 p.m. on HALL
A companion piece to last Sunday's "Sister Swap: A Hometown Holiday," this 2021 romantic comedy finds real-life sisters Kimberly Williams-Paisley and Ashley Williams reprising their roles as, respectively, siblings Jennifer and Meg Swift. While the former takes a trip back to their hometown, Meg holds down the fort at Jennifer's busy restaurant, where the staff is competing with workers at the city's other eateries to win money for their chosen charity. She also clicks with Joe (Keith Robinson), the taciturn restaurant manager. Kevin Nealon also stars.

Down-on-her-luck chef Maria Winters (Jessica Camacho) is running low on cash, so she agrees to pose as the girlfriend of Julian Diaz (Adam Rodriguez), an ambitious Seattle attorney who plans to use a Christmas visit with his relatives to position himself as the ideal candidate to take over the family law firm. Complications ensue when the magic of the season strikes some real-life sparks between these faux lovers. Luisa D'Oliveira, Jaime M. Callica and Claudia Ferri co-star in this new romance.

tonight's PICKS

Ronnie Rowe and Humberly Gonzalez

20 Years of Christmas With the Tabernacle Choir

8 p.m. on WGTV

Their Christmas music specials have become a favorite holiday tradition for many music lovers, and now the Tabernacle Choir and Orchestra at Temple Square gives audiences an intimate and unprecedented look behind the scenes of their annual yuletide concert with this two-hour special. Tony Award-winning Broadway baritone Brian Stokes Mitchell, a longtime friend of the choir, serves as host, taking viewers on a nostalgic journey from Christmases past to present, remembering some of the highlights of the past two decades.

Maps and Mistletoe

8 p.m. on LIFE

Emilia Martin (Humberly González), a cartographer who creates school maps, plans on spending a quiet Christmas at home until her boss dumps an urgent last-minute assignment on her: designing a novelty treasure map of the North Pole. Instead of just making up the whole thing, Emilia gets ambitious and decides to get advice from an authentic North Pole explorer: Drew Campbell (Ronnie Rowe), who reluctantly agrees to help her. Michael Gordin Shore, Simon Webster and Justine Christensen also star in this Christmas romance.

American Auto

10:01 p.m. on WXIA

This new workplace comedy from "Superstore" creator Justin Spitzer officially starts its NBC run in early 2022, but in the spirit of the season, the network airs the first two episodes tonight. Set in Detroit, the series stars former "Saturday Night Live" powerhouse Ana Gasteyer as Katherine Hastings, the dynamic new CEO of Payne Motors, tasked with leading the company through changing times. If only she knew something, anything really, about cars. Jon Barinholtz ("Superstore"), Harriet Dyer, Humphrey Ker and Tye White co-star. Another episode follows.

tonight's PICKS

Echo Kellum

Grand Crew

8 p.m. on WXIA

This new ensemble comedy from members of the “Brooklyn Nine-Nine” creative team gets a two-episode preview tonight before officially starting its NBC run in early 2022. The show revolves around a close-knit group of young professionals in Los Angeles who always find time to “wine down” at their favorite bar. The gang includes hopeless romantic Noah (Echo Kellum), who’s eager to settle down and Nicky (Nicole Byer), an aggressive real-estate agent who approaches dating fearlessly. Justin Cunningham, Aaron Jennings, Gracie Mercedes and Carl Tart also star. Another episode follows.

A Christmas Stray

9 p.m. on OWN

A work-obsessed executive is hopelessly stranded in a small mountain town on Christmas Eve after he swerves his car and runs off the road to avoid hitting a stray dog. The adorable mutt immediately attaches himself to this stranger, who would like to do the same with the free-spirited town veterinarian who frankly could use some real Christmas magic herself. Andra Fuller, Rhyon Nicole Brown, Melissa Murray-Mutch and Chris Shields star in this holiday romance.

Throwdown With Michael Symon

9:30 p.m. on FOOD

Iron Chef and restaurateur Michael Symon travels to the home turf of some of the best chefs in the game to challenge them to a throwdown with their signature dish in this new culinary competition. Tonight’s premiere, which includes two back-to-back episodes, begins as Symon takes on former fine dining chef Mike Abdoo from Pig Beach, a dining hotspot in Brooklyn, N.Y., who slings a mean burger piled high with pulled pork.

This is almost the end for 'This Is Us'

Q: When is "This Is Us" coming back? – Heather Post, Wheeling, W. Va.

A: Very early in the new year. The beginning of the end for the NBC drama starts Jan. 4, as it returns to its customary Tuesday slot to open its final season. Mandy Moore, Sterling K. Brown and company will be on for a month, then off for a few weeks while the network televises the Winter Olympics ... and then, the series will be back for its last stretch of episodes. Creator and executive producer Dan Fogelman has said that he has known for a long time how the show will end, and now that we've reached this point, everyone else also will know relatively soon.

Q: Will Ryan Seacrest host New Year's Eve on ABC again this year? – Pam Dolan, via email

A: Absolutely. The plan for "Dick Clark's New Year's Rockin' Eve With Ryan Seacrest" is the same as usual, with a two-part special in primetime followed by another two parts after late local news, and the traditional Times Square ball drop covered at midnight Eastern time. Seacrest will have a little more competition beyond such traditional rivals as NBC, Fox and CNN, since CBS is getting back into the New Year's Eve game for the first time in a long time with an all-star music special originating from Nashville.

celebrity quotes

"I come from a very strong family background. I have a lot of confidence and self-belief because of my background, and because of the love and strength I have with my giant family."
– Jeremy Renner of "Mayor of Kingstown" on Paramount+

"Sometimes, something transcendent happens where you leave your body a little bit and you don't know what's going on, and something magical happens between you and another actor."
– Melanie Lynskey of "Yellowjackets" on Showtime, on what she deems the best moments of the acting process
