Report: EV plant considers Stanton Springs area

Rivian Automotive in “late-stage negotiations” to build facility near Interstate 20 in Stanton Springs area

By DAVID CLEMONS
The Walton Tribune

MONROE, Ga. — A major new company is considering the south Walton County area for a plant to make electric vehicles, according to a report this week.

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reported Monday, Nov. 15, that Rivian Automotive is in “late-stage negotiations” to build the facility near Interstate 20 in the Stanton Springs area. That’s where Morgan, Newton and Walton counties come together near Social Circle.

Those three counties, plus Jasper County, are the members of the Joint Development Authority that owns Stanton Springs. The high-tech business park is home to Takeda Pharmaceuticals and Facebook Newton Data

Former inmate wins civil lawsuit against former Newton jailer

Investigators found jailer had ‘knowingly’ allowed inmates access to cell for ‘purpose of attacking’

By TOM SPIGOLON

ATLANTA — A former Newton County jail inmate has won a judgment against a former Sheriff’s Office jailer in a federal lawsuit following an attack in his cell that left the inmate badly injured in 2019.

Sean Hall won a $638,250 civil judgment against former Newton County jailer Shermaine Carlisle in U.S. District Court Nov. 9, said Hall’s attorney, Mark Begnaud.

Hall filed the civil lawsuit against Carlisle after an investigation found that Carlisle “conspired” in an attack by three inmates on Hall and it was caught on video, Begnaud said.

“Mr. Carlisle was charged with securing and protecting our client, and he did the exact opposite – he conspired with other inmates to brutally attack Mr. Hall,” Begnaud said.

The Covington resident was being held on charges of Possession of Methamphetamine and Giving False Name, Address or Birthdate to Law Enforcement Officers in the Newton County Jail at the time of the incident.

"On June 13, 2019, two inmates at the Newton County jail entered Plaintiff’s jail cell and attacked him while a third inmate held the cell door closed to prevent Plaintiff’s escape.

Newton's House districts cut to three in proposed General Assembly maps

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton’s only Republican state House member could run for election to a district with a different number in the eastern half of the county if the Georgia General Assembly approves new district maps as expected.

The House of Representatives approved a map Nov. 10 that reduces Newton County’s House districts from four to three and likely gives the county at least one new Democratic member of its legislative delegation.

The House map removes parts of Newton County from House Districts 109, 110 and 112 and moves the county into districts 93 and 114.

Republican State Rep. Dave Belton of Morgan County recently said the area he now represents, including eastern Newton County, will become part of District 114.

Newton County will remain in House District 113, now represented by State Rep. Sharon Henderson, D-Covington.

Henderson is the only Newton County resident in the county’s legislative delegation. She said she declined to comment until completion of the process.

A new House District 93 will extend from south DeKalb County to northwest Newton County and take in the northern tip of the county. The district is now represented by Rep. Dar’shun Kendrick, D-Lithonia.

The Senate map approved last week keeps Newton County in its current Senate district configuration, roughly along current lines, and continues the party split between District 43 Sen. Tonya Anderson, D-Lithonia, and District 17 Sen. Brian Strickland,

County invites public to see Christmas decorations at Historic Courthouse

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County is inviting residents into the Historic Courthouse during business hours and Thursday night's Lighting of the Square to see and take photos with the building's extensive Christmas decorations.

The county government has dressed up the historic building for the holidays with Christmas trees on two floors, human-sized nutcracker and Santa Claus figures, trimming on the bannisters of its large staircases, and a full snowscape with a variety of Christmas-themed decorations including a replica of the Courthouse.

Latonja Threats-Hamp, who is helping coordinate the county's Bicentennial events this year, said the county did a little more decorating than normal inside the Courthouse in honor of the 200th anniversary of Newton County's birth.

Threats-Hamp, who is executive assistant to County Chairman

Marcello Banes, said officials wanted to welcome back those residents forced to stay away from public events last year because of the pandemic.

"We wanted to truly bring back the holidays," she said. "We want everyone to feel welcome ... try to put some of the worry behind us."

The county hired a company, Team Bishop Events, to dust off the numerous decorations the county owned and had in storage and install them throughout the building, Threats-Hamp said.

Business hours are Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Historic Courthouse decorations will be available for the enjoyment of those attending Covington's Lighting of the Square celebration Thursday at 6 p.m., she said.

Newton County's yearlong Bicentennial celebration, which has included free movies and community clean-ups, is set to culminate in a "Bicentennial Birthday Bash" featuring live music and fireworks Dec. 18 from 5-8 p.m. on the Covington Square.

Instead of a birthday cake, more than 200 individually wrapped cupcakes will be distributed in an effort to be safe against the ongoing pandemic, she said.

Cookies and other free refreshments also will be available Dec. 18, she said.

Covington proclaims Nov. 16 as Bryant Autry Day

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Tuesday, Nov. 16, was not only Bryant Autry’s birthday, but this year it was simply “his” day.

During the Covington City Council’s Monday night meeting, Mayor Steve Horton proclaimed Tuesday, Nov. 16, 2021, as Bryant Autry Day to honor the beloved Covington native.

The 2019 graduate of Eastside High School, “has emulated what it means to be a friend, to be loyal, and to love his community,” the proclamation stated.

“He is known for his love of his school, and anyone who meets Bryant knows he has the spirit of Eastside. At every home football game, Bryant leads the Eagles cheer to start the game. He has been honored in the past for his school spirit, and has been given a letter jacket for multiple sports.”

Autry works at Flash and Dash Carwash. He also donates his time to work as a Community Relations Ambassador for J.C. Harwell & Son Funeral Home. He is an active member of First United Methodist Church of Covington where he serves as an usher.

“He welcomes everyone to church with a warmth that is characteristic of Bryant,” the proclamation stated.

Autry is an avid sports fan — he cheers for the World

Champion Atlanta Braves, the Atlanta Falcons and Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets — but he is also an athlete. Autry plays for the Miracle League Baseball Braves where he is known for “calling his shots.”

“All of his fans (and he carries quite a fanbase to games) know that when he steps up to the plate, the ball is going ‘over the fence,’” the proclamation stated.

After the meeting, several people voiced their support of Bryant Autry Day across social media.

“He’s so deserving! Bryant’s positivity is infectious!” Erin Lowry posted to Facebook.

“Bryant is my favorite human in Covington,” wrote Amber Chandler. “He helps me at work all the time, and I’m always giving him cash he tries not to take. And the candy, he always has the best candy! We love you Bryant!”

“What an outstanding citizen he has become,” George Hutchinson said.

“This is wonderful,” Linda Lux Hapner said. “So happy to see Bryant honored by this community who loves him.”

“He always has a smile,” Brian Oglesby wrote. “We all need to be more upbeat and friendly like Bryant! Well deserved!”

GEFA disburses millions to Newton entities for wastewater infrastructure

STAFF REPORTS
news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — The Georgia Environmental Finance Authority (GEFA) recently awarded two Newton County entities millions of dollars to fund wastewater infrastructure projects.

The Newton County Water & Sewerage Authority was awarded Thursday, Nov. 4, a $25 million Georgia Fund loan by the Georgia Environmental Finance Authority (GEFA) board of directors.

The award will fund construction of a new transmission main and a water storage reservoir, as well as upgrades to the water reclamation facility. The project will provide a sufficient water supply to meet industrial and commercial demands at Stanton Springs.

Stanton Springs is a 1,600 acre high-tech and bio-pharma industrial park located in east Newton County, created by the Joint Development Authority of Jasper, Morgan, Newton and Walton Counties. Stanton Springs is currently home to Takeda, Facebook Newton Data Center and Georgia’s BioScience Training Center.

The Water & Sewerage Authority will pay 0.63% interest on the 20-year loan, which is eligible for a reduced interest rate because the authority is a WaterFirst Community.

The Georgia Fund, a state-funded loan program, provides low-interest loans for water, wastewater, water conservation, and solid waste infrastructure projects. Eligible projects include water and sewer lines, treatment plants, pumping stations, wells, water storage tanks, and water meters. These projects conserve and improve water resources and facilitate economic growth and development.

The inmates beat Plaintiff savagely, leaving him lying unconscious on the concrete floor," the ruling stated.

"While the attack initially appeared to be a simple inmate-on-inmate incident, the ensuing investigation revealed that Defendant, an employee of the Newton County Sheriff's Office who was working at the jail, knowingly allowed the inmates access to Plaintiff's cell for the express purpose of attacking him."

U.S. District Judge William Ray III of the Northern District of Georgia heard the case on June 15 and Ray issued his ruling on Nov. 9.

The award against Carlisle included $150,000 in compensatory damages, $450,000 in punitive damages and $38,250 in attorney's fees.

"We are pleased with Judge Ray's award," Begnaud said.

He said Hall is still an inmate in a state prison.

"A worry in an inmate case is that the damages award will be discounted because the client is in custody — we see people who do not want to award that much money to an inmate," Begnaud said.

"Obviously, that did not happen here. We asked for $150,000 in compensatory damages and that was what Judge Ray awarded. We believe that this award is an indication of the new times we are living in — where the fact that a person is in custody does not mean that we value his or her life or injuries any less.

"We also hope that this is a warning to any corrections facilities in Georgia that misconduct can come with staggering consequences," Begnaud said.

Carlisle said in a response letter filed in February of this year he denied any part in the planning of the attack and blamed Hall for a door being left open to allow other inmates to enter.

Begnaud said his firm filed the civil lawsuit on Hall's behalf in August 2020 after Carlisle was fired and criminal charges filed against him were dismissed.

The Newton County District Attorney's office declined to prosecute after the Sheriff's Office did not cooperate in the case, Begnaud said.

District Attorney Randy McGinley confirmed the criminal warrant against Carlisle was dismissed in August 2020.

His office filed a motion to dismiss in Magistrate Court "due to insufficient investigation including failure to provide the District Attorney's office several recorded witness interviews, failure to identify all the inmates on video committing and assisting with the underlying crime, failing to provide requested inmate records from the jail, and failing to write any disciplinary reports by the Newton County Jail staff regarding the incident," the motion stated.

"In light of the quality of the investigation by the Sheriff's Office staff the District Attorney's office cannot prove these charges beyond a reasonable doubt and will not proceed with this case."

Criminal charges must be proven "beyond a reasonable doubt" while civil charges have a lower burden of proof.

However, the criminal charges could still be presented to a grand jury within the statute of limitations because the case was dismissed without prejudice.

A spokesperson for the Newton County

Sheriff's Office said the agency "separated itself from Detention Officer Shermaine Carlisle because he did not follow policies and procedures."

"We will not make further comment at this time."

1,000-acre megasites along the Newton-Walton line.

Rivian will make EVs designed for performance, off-road capability and utility — a far cry from the better known EVs such as the Chevrolet Volt and Nissan Leaf.

A recent initial public offering set the company's value at $100 billion, and the company has drawn investors including Amazon — for whom it would build delivery vehicles — and Ford.

Details on the possible deal were scarce Monday. The AJC report did not indicate the financial terms of the possible investment, or the number of jobs that might be created.

However, local officials have indicated a potential deal could create thousands of new jobs.

Rivian is based in Irvine, California, but has a manufacturing facility in Normal, Illinois.

Economic developers locally were mum.

"We don't comment on active or inactive projects," Serra Hall, the executive director of the Newton County Industrial Development Authority, said.

Shane Short, the executive director of the Development Authority of Walton County, also declined to comment Monday.

Rivian told the AJC it was "in discussions with multiple locations as part of a competitive process for siting a second manufacturing facility."

The newspaper said Georgia has been courting the company for months and also pitched a megasite near Savannah, which apparently lost out to the site in the Social Circle area.

Cleland was example we all could learn from

One of the many authors I came to see that day in 2010 was sitting outside and sweating in the hot August sun on the Decatur Square when I arrived.

The heat bothered me as I hiked from my car and tried to gain some composure in preparation for interviews during an event featuring top Georgia authors.

This was a pleasant surprise, though, to come upon such a prominent person and able to speak freely with him without public relations agents redefining his every word to gain the best publicity for his book.

I guess the heat bothered this author somewhat as he sat in his wheelchair, but it was nothing compared to what he had gone through in the jungles of Vietnam or on the campaign trail in an unsuccessful bid for re-election against a candidate hand picked by Karl Rove to tell the world how “unpatriotic” a triple amputee Vietnam veteran was.

I met Max Cleland, who died Nov. 9, just after the paperback release of his autobiographical book “Heart of a Patriot: How I Found the Courage to Survive Vietnam,” Walter Reed and Karl Rove.”

The event was for the release of Georgia Center for the Book’s “25 Books All Georgians Should Read.” The former senator’s book was on the list and he shared the stage inside a crowded restaurant with some other Georgia authors — fairly well known if you hang around Amazon’s book list or listen to NPR. Roy Blount Jr. of “Wait, Wait, Don’t Tell Me” fame was likely the best known of the others at the event.

Cleland, though, stood out in more ways than the obvious — a triple amputee and former U.S. and state senator and longtime Georgia Secretary of State.

The Lithonia native was politically prominent but was the kind of man who’d make you feel like you’d known him all your life. He recalled growing up in the south DeKalb town at a time when it was out in the country and was the site of dairy farms, before I-20 helped bring industry and Walmarts and shopping malls.

Cleland was like many young men from Georgia in the 1960s — God-fearing and patriotic, ready to serve his country when called. As the young soldier jumped off a helicopter during the battle of Khe Sanh, a grenade another soldier had dropped exploded, shredding both legs and an arm.

He returned to the U.S. missing three limbs and was confined at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for months where doctors didn’t give the wounded veteran in his mid-20s much hope of living an active life. At that point, he could have retreated into a life of despair, depression or addiction as so many Vietnam veterans did following that horrific blunder by our nation’s leaders, but he didn’t.

Instead, he learned how to be mobile and went after his desire to be a public servant. Cleland became the first Vietnam vet to serve in the Georgia State Senate. Former governor Jimmy Carter was elected president in 1976 and appointed Cleland to lead the Veterans Administration.

He went on to be elected the youngest secretary of state in Georgia history — long before the controversies surrounding the digital problems with today’s elections — and served 14 years in the post. In 1996, he was elected to the U.S. Senate.

But by his 2002 reelection campaign Republicans Saxby Chambliss singled him out as “unpatriotic.” Cleland began a personal tumble that included a return of long-dormant case of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder and he returned to Walter Reed as a patient decades after his stay there in the 1960s.

He recovered, thankfully,

High school football playoffs remain special

A similar event returned in towns both large and small across our state last Friday evening.

The state high school football playoffs began and the passion this writer has for the sport’s postseason has never faded through the decades. Regular season games are always important but the urgency gets turned up several notches once the playoffs begin.

My senior year of high school was a memorable one in terms of football. Both of the schools in my hometown had undefeated regular seasons and both looked to advance far in the state playoffs.

While the playoffs ended in disappointment for both of my local teams, that football campaign is still one edged in my memory bank. More than three decades later it seems as if it happened just a few weeks ago.

The sport of football has evolved since my days in high school and most of it is for the good. Player safety concern is at an all-time high. Equipment is better, teams have full-time trainers and the players seem faster, stronger and more athletic.

A football season is a grind. The offseason program begins almost as soon as one season ends. Once the final game is complete, whenever that may be, the offseason work begins.

Spring practice is followed by more offseason conditioning and work. Teams often attend camps and compete in 7-on-7 passing leagues.

The goal of every team is to make the postseason. Many do but certainly not all of them. For some, it all ends after the regular season.

First-round playoff games often have some mismatches. It happens when a region champion takes on a number four seed from another region.

Yet, no win is guaranteed in the postseason. Upsets do happen. It is not unheard of for a No. 4 seed to win a playoff game or two. No. 3 seeds routinely defeat No. 2 seeds in the first round.

The goal is to simply win and advance. It doesn’t matter if the victory is by one point or 30. You simply want your season to continue.

Playing at home is always special but there is also something to be said about road playoff games. Some of my earliest football memories were traveling to away playoff games with my dad. Typically, a friend or two would also make the trip with us. This meant a stop to eat on the way and, if we were convincing, a stop on the way home as well.

Hopefully your alma mater or favorite team will continue playing for a few more weeks. It’s memorable for all involved and a slice of Americana that never grows stale.

More Facebook flubs: What are you trying to ‘incinerate?’

This just in: America needs a good laugh. We’re almost done with 2021, and we now know 2020 never really ended.

I am taking a break from the gloom and doom to write about something a bit brighter. At first, I was going to devote a column to my favorite cereals, but that would be flake news.

So buckle up for my 10th edition of Facebook Flubs, Social Media Mishaps, and Auto Correct accidents. (As always, my “wise guy” comments are in parentheses.)

“Believe me, if you misspell just one word, your whole text is urined.” (Especially if it’s THAT word.)

“God must love stupid people. He made a hole bunch of them.” (Anybody we know?)

“I am litterly so

“I would love to come see y’all, but I am berried in my work.” (So you got a job in an orchard?)

From a 10th grader’s essay about her favorite memory from elementary school: “I always enjoyed showing tail.” (That might explain all those visits to the principal’s office.)

“He said the reason he asked me out, is because he loves my dairy air.” (Wait. What do you have to do with cow flatulence?)

Facebook political comment: “We need a president who can prevent a terrace attack!” (And he needs to protect the patio and veranda too!)

Facebook school comment: “That teacher says my son has 80 HD. Is that some kind of secret code?” (Not sure, but at least he’s in High Definition.)

“My husband fell and hurt his foot again today. He is truly accident porn.” (Please tell me he wasn’t making a video at the time.)

Help wanted: “I need an English Tooter for my son.” (Wish I could help. All I have is a Yorkshire Terrier and an Alaskan Malamute.)

Facebook legal question: “They want me to sign a wafer. What should I do?” (I’d hold out for a Chips Ahoy.)

“I wish Christmas vacation would get here soon. Us teachers need a brake! (I can’t top that one.)

Newspaper headline: “Mississippi’s literacy program shows improvement.” (Something tells me they’re not quite finished.)

Facebook COVID denier: “I never wore no mast.” (Those masts are kind of bulky on your face.)

Facebook argument: “So what are you trying to incinerate?” (Don’t look at me, I never play with matches.)

Facebook political comment: “I don’t like where our country is headed. We should succeed from the union.” (Like they say, nothing secedes like secess!)

Facebook comment to news reporter: “It must be a slaw news

Facebook political comment: “They’re just trying to still the next election.” (Just don’t let them still your heart.)

“It looks like they would at least give me a constellation prize.” (I mean, I’m not asking for the sun, moon, and stars.)

Facebook political comment: “If we have to, we’ll go all the way to the extreme court!” (That reminds me. I love Diana Ross and the Extremes.)

Facebook political comment: “Whether they like it or not, he’s a dooley elected president!” (Hey, leave the old Georgia football coach out of this.)

Facebook congratulations: “They are the proud parents of a brand new baby boy!” (Thank goodness. Who would want a used baby boy?)

Facebook political comment: “Why does the governor want more tax money to repair our inferstructure? Shouldn’t they fix the roads first?” (I agree. He needs to use his own common cents.)

“I’m proud of Elbert and Esmerelda. They wrote their own wedding vowels.” (That couldn’t have taken up much time. There’s only five of them.)

Facebook political comment: “They need to end this Gerry meandering.” (I know, right? Make Gerry walk in a straight line.)

“Look at my daughter. She is the most precious little angle.” (Especially from the 45 degree view. From 90, not so much.)

“I’m having a problem with my legs. It’s my very close veins.” (Hilda, you’re a great cashier, but this is too much information.)

“My doctor said I have to cut back on sweets, or I will get ‘die of beaties.’” (Those beaties are scary. Almost as bad as cooties.)

From parking lot sign: “If you park here, we will toe your vehicle.” (And Big Earl hasn’t clipped his nails since spring, so this won’t be pretty.)

Keep sending these in, so we can share the laughter, the head-shaking, and the coffee-spitting. Here’s wishing you more of those slaw news days. We’ll ketchup again next week.

Man points handgun at Dollar General cashier, demands cash

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — The Newton County Sheriff’s Office was investigating an armed robbery and apparently separate attempted robbery last week-end at two locations along Georgia Hwy. 81 near Porterdale.

The sheriff’s office issued a BOLO Friday afternoon, Nov. 12, after a man used a handgun to rob a Dollar General store before driving off.

Deputies were called to the store at 2481 Georgia Hwy. 81 South southwest of Porterdale Friday about the 5:35 p.m. robbery, a report stated.

“Upon arrival, the complainant stated that a Black male had entered the store and pointed a handgun at the cashier and removed the cash money from the register and fled the store,” the report stated.

The amount of the cash was not listed. The report stated two people were victims and numerous witnesses saw the incident at the store, which is located at the intersection of Highways 81 and 162.

The suspect, described only as a 6-foot Black man, reportedly left in a silver Honda sedan. A BOLO (be on the lookout) for the vehicle and the offender were issued, the report stated.

In a separate incident near the same location, sheriff’s deputies were searching for two suspects after a man said he was attacked in the front yard of a residence on Georgia Hwy. 81 South near Porterdale Sunday night.

A deputy reported responding to a report of an assault which occurred Sunday, Nov. 14, about 7:23 p.m. at 2129 Georgia Hwy. 81 South.

“Upon arriving, I witnessed a male with a broken ankle sitting on a chair inside the residence. Upon speaking with the victim, I was advised that he was attacked by to white males in the front yard.

“The victim stated that the subjects ‘jumped’ him and tried to take his money. The subject was transported to the hospital via ambulance,” the report stated.

The 44-year-old victim said the suspects left in a Hyundai Santa Fe. Two suspects were identified in the report.

The city of Mansfield was awarded a Clean Water State Revolving Fund (CWSRF) loan in the amount of $956,600 to finance rehabilitating the water pollution control plant. The project will ensure permitting compliance, maintain operator safety, and improve treatment effectiveness.

The city will pay 0.13% interest on the 20-year loan, which qualifies for a reduced interest rate because the city is a WaterFirst Community. The city is eligible for principal forgiveness up to $430,470.

The CWSRF provides low-interest loans for wastewater and water pollution control infrastructure. These projects conserve and improve water resources and facilitate economic development. The program is jointly funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the state of Georgia.

R-McDonough.

The House map went to the Senate for final approval.

The General Assembly redraws Georgia’s legislative and congressional district lines each decade in response to population changes and shifts found in the U.S. Census.

Majority Republicans, who drew the new maps, say the House map reduces the number of counties split between districts from 73 to 68, and preserves "communities of interest" that include Georgia residents sharing similar political interests.

It also complies with the provisions of the federal Voting Rights Act, said State Rep. Bonnie Rich, R-Suwanee.

Rich, chairman of the House Legislative & Congressional Reapportionment Committee, told House members the map creates 49 majority Black House districts, an increase of one district over the current House map lawmakers adopted in 2011, as well as 27 “minority-opportunity” districts where minority candidates should be competitive, said Rich, R-Suwanee.

The Republican map splits 69 counties, compared to 73 under the current map, Rich said. It also pairs only eight incumbent House members in four districts, she said.

Rich also said the House map Democrats drew in 2001, the last time they held a majority in the chamber, paired 37 Republican incumbents and nine Democratic incumbents, she said.

Democrats said the map favors Republicans in a state that has evolved into a 50-50 split politically between the two parties, which is reflected in the outcomes of recent statewide elections.

Some Democrats also accused Republican leaders of diluting minority voting strength by “packing” minority voters into certain districts in order to reduce the minority voting-age populations of surrounding districts — a move Rich denied.

She also denied claims the maps were drawn too hastily because the new districts needed to be delivered to local elections officials statewide to give them time to adjust, Rich said.

The maps may be found on the Legislative and Congressional Reapportionment Office website (<https://www.legis.ga.gov/joint-office/reapportionment>) under the “Proposed Plans” section.

The process to draw new district lines began in June and included 11 joint House-Senate committee hearings conducted in cities throughout the state which were broadcast online with 22 hours of public testimony. The General Assembly also received more than 700 public comments through an online portal, a news release stated.

After legislative leaders received public input, the draft map had a deviation of less than +/- 1.5% — meaning out of 180 districts representing 10.7 million Georgians, district sizes vary by less than 1,800 people "ensuring equity among voters," House Republican leaders said.

House Speaker David Ralston said, “Through an inclusive, exhaustive and transparent process, we have produced a fair and equitable map representative of Georgia’s changing demographics and shifting population centers that is in full compliance with the spirit and letter of the law."

COVINGTON, Ga. — The former home to Ginn Motors on Hwy. 278 will soon be occupied by an Atlanta-based compact equipment dealer.

Bobcat of Atlanta is set to take over the space to open its fifth Georgia location behind Atlanta, Marietta, Riverdale and Gainesville. The Gainesville location was just opened in July.

Per its website, Bobcat of Atlanta is a company “with more than 40 years of experience and know-how” in sales, rentals, repair services and parts for skid steer loaders, compact track loaders, compact excavators and compact tractors. Bobcat is a division of Berry Companies Inc., which has eight divisions with more than 46 branch locations across eight states, all featuring Bobcat, Komatsu and Hyster-Yale machines and equipment.

As the time of this publication, Bobcat of Atlanta had two job openings for its incoming Covington location including a position for experienced diesel mechanic and entry level diesel technician/mechanic. An opening date for the Covington location had not been announced.

More information about Bobcat of Atlanta can be found at bobcatofatlanta.com.

Willing Helpers launches monthly diabetic foot care clinic in Newton

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Willing Helpers, a free medical clinic serving Newton County, now holds a monthly foot care clinic for uninsured county residents with diabetes to help prevent foot ulcers that could lead to amputation.

The foot clinic typically runs from 9 a.m. until noon on the fourth Monday of every month. Willing Helpers held the first clinic in July; the next is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 29. Appointments are required.

Susan Beacham, manager of Wound Care Services at Piedmont Newton Hospital, oversees the foot care clinic; each month, a nurse who has specialized training in wound care joins Beacham. They provide foot cleansing, assessment, moisturizer application, treatment for callouses, and basic nail care. For cases that require a podiatrist, Dr. Scott Roman, accepts referrals from the Willing Helpers foot clinic.

“We wanted to meet the patients where they were and try to prevent them from ever having to come to the hospital,” Beacham said.

The goal of the new clinic is to prevent ulcers, which diabetics are prone to because they can lose some feeling in their feet due to nerve damage and poor blood flow. This means that a minor sore, like a blister from a shoe, can go unnoticed until it is an ulcer that can easily become infected and lead to amputation.

The clinic also provides educational resources about foot care to diabetic patients. Beacham’s top recommendations for day-to-day foot care are:

- Don’t go barefoot anywhere.
- Wear white, cotton socks to more easily spot wounds.
- Look inside shoes before putting them on for obstructions, like rocks, nails, tacks or needles.
- Check your feet thoroughly at least once a day. If you cannot see your feet, ask a friend or family member to help or use a mirror.

Diabetes—and diabetic foot ulcers— affect many Newton County residents. According to the Newton County Health Department, the number of residents with diabetes increased by nearly 70% between 2004 and 2010.

Diabetes can be particularly difficult to manage without health insurance. The American Diabetes Association reports that uninsured people with diabetes are six times more likely to go without necessary health care for the condition, greatly increasing the risk of amputation. The foot clinic at Willing Helpers is an important resource because about 16,000 Newton County residents do not have health insurance and some patient assistance programs require more documentation than the free clinic.

November is Diabetes Awareness Month, and Willing Helpers is striving to raise $10,000, which would provide insulin for Newton County residents in need for about a year. The clinic is selling raffle tickets for a Big Green Egg grill until Nov. 22 to meet this goal. Standard ticket bundles range from $10 to $50.

Willing Helpers, which treats many chronic conditions, is located at 4186 Mill Street NE in Covington, Ga., on the grounds of Piedmont Newton Hospital, which leases the building for $1 per year. To make an appointment, call 678-625-8317.

Newton gas prices up 4% from October

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County motorists were paying an average of 4% more for unleaded regular gas Monday compared to mid-October.

Gas stations in Newton County were averaging $3.25 per gallon Monday, Nov. 15 — up 12 cents from almost one month ago when they paid an average of $3.13 per gallon Oct. 18, according to a survey by AAA.

Lowest prices were reported at stations in Covington along Salem Road, where the lowest price at a Valero was $3.07 Sunday, according to motorists’ reports to gasbuddy.com.

However, most stations’ lowest prices in the rest of the county were in the $3.16 to $3.19 range, including stations near the Alcovy Road and Crowell Road exits off I-20, GasBuddy reported.

The national average, meanwhile, fell 2.6 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $3.40 Monday. Still, a “significant” number of motorists nationwide were rethinking Thanksgiving plans, according to a GasBuddy survey.

Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis for GasBuddy, said, “As of Sunday evening, the national average price of gasoline posted its first weekly decline in months.

“As the price of oil continues to struggle, COVID cases flare up and anxiety over demand starts rising, motorists are likely to see the declines continuing into this week,” De Haan said. “While it’s not known how long market conditions will continue to push gas prices down, it appears that the fall should last through Thanksgiving, just in time for millions of Americans to prepare to hit the road for the holiday.

“However, the damage may already be done. According to GasBuddy’s Thanksgiving Travel Survey, being released tomorrow, a significant portion of Americans say the high gas prices already led them to rethink their plans.”

Montrae Waiters, AAA-The Auto Club Group spokeswoman, said Georgians can anticipate prices to remain elevated through the Thanksgiving holiday.

“Georgia statewide pump price averages have managed to remain stable for the past few weeks.” Waiters said. “Crude oil prices are still elevated, which impacts the cost of gas.”

The current averages for Metro Atlanta were $3.285 for regular unleaded, $3.619 for mid-grade, $3.950 for premium, and $3.509 for diesel, AAA reported.

The average was $3.27 per gallon Monday, according to GasBuddy’s daily survey of 2,134 stations in Atlanta. It now costs motorists $48.75 to fill a 15-gallon tank of gasoline — $11.88 more than what motorists paid in January of 2020 when pump prices hit their peak of $2.46 per gallon, according to AAA.

AAA reported the lowest average prices in the state, $3.12, were found in two locations: Warner Robins in central Georgia, and the Catoosa-Dade-Walker area in the northwest corner of Georgia bordering Tennessee and Alabama.

The highest average price was found in southeast Georgia in Savannah ($3.32) and Hinesville-Fort Stewart ($3.29).

Some historical Nov. 15 gasoline prices across the metro: $1.97 in 2020, $2.19 in 2016, and $3.34 in 2011.

2 unique ways to cook Thanksgiving turkey

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Thanksgiving is a beloved holiday. Families may have their own unique Thanksgiving traditions, but one staple of this kickoff to the holiday season is bound to make its way to Thanksgiving dinner tables no matter how unusual families' holiday celebrations may be: turkey.

Much effort goes into picking and preparing a Thanksgiving turkey. Depending on the size of the bird, turkeys can take many hours to cook. Thanksgiving celebrants are no doubt familiar with oven-roasted turkey, which is the most traditional way to cook turkey. But this year hosts who want to expand their horizons and think beyond the oven can consider two popular alternative methods to cooking a Thanksgiving turkey.

DEEP FRYING
Deep frying is a popular way to prepare foods at outdoor events. For example, stroll through the parking lot on game day and you're liable to find football fans deep frying their favorite foods at their tailgate parties. Turkey can be deep fried and this method makes for an ideal option for hosts who want to enjoy the great outdoors while welcoming friends and loved ones to their homes. Deep frying imparts a juicy flavor that can be hard to replicate when roasting a turkey.

Metro Creative Services

This year hosts who want to expand their horizons and think beyond the oven can consider two popular alternative methods to cooking a Thanksgiving turkey.

Deep frying is a much faster way to cook a turkey than cooking it in the oven. However, deep frying also can be more dangerous, so it's imperative that cooks remain attentive when setting up the fryer and while the turkey is frying.

Where to deep fry the turkey also bears consideration. The turkey experts at Butterball® recommend deep frying the turkey outside on a flat surface that's far away from structures, including your home, garage, deck, etc.

The time required to deep fry a turkey will depend on the size of the bird, but experts note that it typically takes about 3 to 3.5 minutes per pound. Electric fryers may take significantly less time and they typically require less oil, so this is another option to consider. Many experts note that it's best to deep fry turkeys that are 15 lbs. or less, as the turkey will need to be completely submerged in oil when frying. In addition, turkeys larger than 15 lbs. may cook unevenly, which can affect flavor.

SMOKING
Smoking has grown in popularity in recent years as grills that make this method possible have become more affordable. Smoking is a "low and slow" method of cooking, so this option is ideal for people who intend to be home all day on Thanksgiving and want to infuse their birds with a smoky flavor. However, even busy hosts can still consider smoking, as electric smokers now allow cooks to remotely control the temperatures in their grills. That's important, as smoking requires cooks to periodically check the temperature on their grills to ensure it has not dropped too low or risen too high.

Smoking a turkey typically requires maintaining a temperature between 225 and 250 degrees. Cooking times for smoked turkeys are typically around 30 minutes per pound, though it can take longer if the temperature is lower. Because of the extended cooking time, hosts may want to pick a turkey that weighs around 15 lbs., especially if they don't have much experience smoking.

This Thanksgiving, hosts can try something new by deep frying or smoking their turkeys.

Chocolate cookies are a sweet finale to Thanksgiving dinner

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Holiday entertaining season begins on Thanksgiving.

Anyone who has been tasked with hosting Thanksgiving understands the commitment required to prepare a delicious meal for guests, which often encompasses appetizers, several side dishes and, of course, turkey as the centerpiece. Guests attending a Thanksgiving dinner can give holiday hosts and hostesses a break by providing dessert.

Cookies are a popular treat. Thanks to their flavor, portability and relatively short preparation and cooking times, cookies are a smart choice when bringing dessert to a holiday gathering. This recipe for offers the added benefit of being flourless. That means that even those with gluten allergies or intolerances can indulge.

Flourless Chocolate Cookies
Makes 24 to 36
Ingredients:
3 cups powdered sugar
3/4 natural unsweetened cocoa powder
1/2 teaspoon espresso powder (optional)
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 large egg whites, at room temperature
1 large egg, at room temperature
1 1/2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
Directions:
Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Line two large baking sheets with parchment paper or silicone baking mats and set aside.
In a large mixing bowl, sift the powdered sugar and unsweetened cocoa powder together, then whisk in the instant espresso powder (if using) and salt until well combined. Set aside.
In a separate mixing bowl, whisk together the egg whites, egg, and vanilla extract until fully combined.
Add the wet ingredients to the dry ingredients, and stir until the mixture is fully combined and smooth.
Using a 1-tablespoon cookie scoop, scoop the cookie dough onto the prepared baking sheets, making sure to leave a little room between each one.
Bake for 11 to 14 minutes, or until the tops of the cookies are set. Remove from the oven, and allow the cookies to cool completely on the baking sheets.
Store the cookies in an airtight container at room temperature for up to 5 days.

Mini cheese ball bites are festive app sure to satisfy

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

Thanksgiving is a food lover's paradise. Even though the turkey and side dishes are the crowning achievements on Thanksgiving, hungry guests will need something to tide them over until the pièce de résistance is ready. In such situations, bite-sized appetizers that are tasty yet not too filling can fit the bill.
Charcuterie boards and tasting menus continue to be all the rage.

In addition to a platter of fruit slices, figs, aged cheeses and crostini, treat guests to "Mini Cheese Ball Bites," which offer various textures and flavors in bite-sized morsels. Enjoy this recipe, courtesy of "Spectacular Spreads: 50 Amazing Food Spreads for Any Occasion" (Rock Point) by Meagan Brown.

Mini Cheese Ball Bites
Makes 12
Ingredients:
8 ounces light cream

cheese, softened
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
3 tablespoons drained, chopped pimentos
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon paprika
Pinch kosher salt
Pinch freshly ground black pepper
1/2 cup crushed pecans
1/4 cup chopped chives
12 pretzel sticks
Directions:
In a large bowl, stir together the cream cheese, cheddar, pimentos, garlic powder, paprika, salt, and pepper until well combined. Cover and refrigerate for at least 30 minutes.

Place the crushed pecans and chives in a small bowl. Set aside.
Roll the cheese mixture into twelve 1-inch balls. Evenly coat each ball with the pecan-chive mixture. Press a pretzel stick into the top of each cheese ball just before serving.

Prep Football: GHSA State Playoffs

Redskins bounced in first round

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

TRION, Ga. — The Redskins mounted their most successful campaign in years this season, reaching the playoffs with a winning record of 6-4 after long years of futility.

Unfortunately, the journey ended prematurely Saturday night as, despite a heated battle, Social Circle fell 55-21 to the Bulldogs of Trion.

Trion jumped ahead early, scoring a 35-yard touchdown in less than two minutes on its opening possession.

After Social Circle went three and out, the Bulldogs mounted a long drive that culminated in a 42-yard touchdown pass.

The Redskins stormed back, however, with a 62-yard touchdown pass from Logan Cross to Mason Moore. Xavier Wallace's kick was good to cut the lead in half.

The Bulldogs responded, mounting a long, time consuming drive that ate up half the second quarter and ended with a 16-yard touchdown run.

The Redskins needed far less time, scoring in a minute and three seconds, as

File | The Walton Tribune

Mason Moore had all three touchdown receptions on Friday night at Trion in the first round of the Class A-Public playoffs. He even had an 18-yard completion to Logan Cross on a double reverse.

Cross both caught the ball, an 18-yard reception from Moore on a double reverse, and threw it, connecting with Moore for a 20-yard touchdown.

The Bulldogs mounted another drive but lined up to settle for a 15-yard field goal attempt. The kick was good, but a holding penalty negated the points.

Instead, Trion threw a jump ball to the endzone to take a 28-14 lead into halftime.

Social Circle drove into Bulldog territory to start the second half, but turned it over on downs on a failed 4th and 7 attempt.

Trion took advantage and drove back the other way, scoring on a 22-yard touchdown pass.

The Redskins refused to quit, however, and responded with their own scoring drive as Cross connected with Moore yet again for a 13-yard touchdown.

It wasn't enough. Trion answered rapidly, sprinting down the field to score on a 24-yard touchdown run.

It started to spiral from there. Unable to keep up with the frantic pace after punting, Social Circle watched Trion score again on a 45-yard run, extending the lead to an insurmountable amount as time continued to tick away in the final quarter.

Trion missed the extra point after a chop block penalty pushed the kick back 15 yards, but Social Circle was unable to stop the game from slipping away.

Increasingly desperate, Social Circle attempted a reverse flea flicker, but was intercepted at the Trion 40.

With the game increasingly chippy on both sides, Trion defused things by mounting a long, slow drive that ate up more than half of the last quarter, finally scoring on a 1-yard run with less than a minute left.

Social Circle finished the season with a 6-5 record.

Area teams ready for Round 2

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Only two remain.

Alcovy and Eastside football teams are the last teams standing in the area in the Georgia High School Association state playoffs.

Even so, each team is in two very different situations.

ALCOVY TIGERS

Coming off a first round bye, the Tigers (5-4) will host the Carrollton Trojans (10-1) at Sharp Stadium on Friday, Nov. 19.

Kickoff will be at 7:30 p.m.

This will be the first time in program history that Alcovy has made it past the first round of the state playoffs. It is also only the sixth playoff game that the Tigers have ever played in.

So, this will be unfamiliar territory for the Tigers.

Adding to the unfamiliarity is their opponent.

Alcovy and Carrollton have never faced each other in their school histories.

EASTSIDE EAGLES

The Eagles defeated New Manchester last week in the first round 41-35 on the road.

Friday's matchup was much closer than when the two teams met in the second round of the 2020 state playoffs and Eastside won 37-7.

Now, the Eagles will meet up with another familiar team — a team that eliminated them from the playoffs in the quarterfinals just one year ago.

Jones County defeated Eastside 28-7 in Gray. It was the first time the two teams had met.

Gray will be site of Friday's matchup, too. The Eagles (8-3) will travel to Jones County (9-2) on Friday, Nov. 19, with kickoff at 7:30 p.m.

Grant reflects on Rams season, looks ahead to 2022

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — The Newton Rams' football season ended Nov. 5 in a 13-6 loss against South Gwinnett — a loss that gave South Gwinnett ownership of the tiebreaker to make Newton the odd man out for the state playoffs.

With the loss, the Rams finished 2021 at 4-5 overall with a 1-3 record in Region 4-AAAAAAA. Losing four straight to end the season attributed to the Rams' third losing season in the past four years.

Friday's loss also snapped a nine-year streak of Newton qualifying for the state playoffs.

Though it was a heart-breaking end to the season, head coach Camiel Grant Jr. stressed that it wasn't for lack of effort from the players.

"As a staff, we really felt like there was nothing more we could've asked from them that they didn't give us," Grant said.

"Then, I told them after the game [on Friday] that failures are not permanent. Success and failure ride on the same train. And we have to take it for an opportunity to learn."

There were some bright spots early in the season for the Rams, though.

It started with the Rams defeating Langston Hughes 7-6 after entering overtime 0-0. Two weeks later, Newton downed crosstown rival Eastside 27-7 for the third year in a row. After its third regularly scheduled bye week, Newton went on the road and defeated a tough McEachern team 39-21.

After suffering their first loss of the year against Houston County, the Rams came back home on Sept. 24 and came out on top against Parkview.

Following that week, the Rams earned its first top-10 ranking in over 11 years.

They were ranked No. 9 in Class AAAAAAA by Georgia High School Football Daily on Sept. 20, 2021.

Grant stressed how the underclassmen returning next season can use the early season success to their advantage.

"When you play a lot of underclassmen, it can be a blessing or a curse," Grant said. "For us, the blessing is they now have an expectation of how we're supposed to play. Even those losses, they were close games and we were in them. This group will now have a clear understanding of what our competition level is and I think that'll be a huge bonus."

Now, the Rams' attention shifts to next season.

Preparations for 2022 will begin in the coming months to improve upon this year's results.

Grant and his staff look to hit the ground running, too.

"First, we need to examine those things that kept us from being successful," Grant said. "Then, sitting down with our administration, even on the county level, and talking about how we can close the gap in terms of resources and facilities at the 7A level. With the players, each group dialing in on areas deficiencies in our offseason program. We'll focus in on fixing the nuts and bolts of our team position-by-position."

PLAYERS OF THE WEEK: GHSA PLAYOFFS ROUND 1

Alcovy Tigers

Alcovy did not play this week as they earned a first round bye in the GHSA state playoffs. The Tigers are back in action this week as they play host to the Carrollton Trojans.

Alcovy Tigers

Tigers' success hinges on stout defense

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — It's not going to be a one man show for the Alcovy boys basketball team in 2021. The Tigers plan to play together as one cohesive unit on both ends of the court.

So, this year, the Tigers will attack their opponents by committee, which is contrary to what they'll mainly face this season.

And, for head coach Mack Hardwick, it begins on defense.

"Most of the teams we face will have a kid that averages 16-18 points per game," Hardwick said. "With us, the highest point total we had last year was 14 points. So, our focal point will be defense."

Entering the season with a defensive mindset also helped shape offseason workouts this past summer for the Tigers.

Alcovy has prioritized getting in better condition physically to help the team succeed this year.

For Hardwick, conditioning isn't a chore for his player but a chance to become better overall athletes.

"So, what we've done this off-season is make sure that we have physical conditioning," Hard-able to force the athletes to do anything, but you want to give them opportunities to advance their game."

Once the conditioning is built up, then Hardwick plans to focus on the X's and O's of the offense.

The Tigers are coming off a 2020 season in which they finished 11-12 overall and a 4-6 region record. They lost to Rockdale County in round one of the Region 3-AAAAAA tournament to end their season.

Heading into 2021, though, Hardwick wants more out of his team. And, for Hardwick, he wants his team to focus on the little things that make a big impact on the outcome of ball games.

"We have the ability to be there," Hardwick said. "But something is holding us back. We can't afford to play close games. Statistically we've seen, when we're playing close games, we're eliminated. So, the big thing is we need to fine tune what we do and that's play defense. That's been part of our practices is trying to sharpen what we do best."

wick said. "That's one of the things we wanted them to have exposure to. Because you're not

Coaches hope focus on conditioning to make difference for Lady Tigers

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD

COVINGTON, Ga. — Fielding a team over the offseason has been no problem for the Alcovy girls basketball team. It's keeping enough players healthy throughout the season that has always hurt the team's chances every year.

Head coach Justin Hunter and his staff have prioritized strength and conditioning this summer to help the players build up greater endurance. Hunter has done this to avoid a difficult circumstance that happened a year ago.

"We knew we needed to get stronger to be able to compete and get better conditioning," Hunter said. "Those things will allow us a better opportunity to compete and play as a team. Last year, I can think back to a game where we had six people. You never want to be in those types of situations if you can help control it."

During the offseason, in which Hunter categorized as the "most active" in recent years, the players have seemed to have bought into this philosophy.

The challenge has been set forth to constantly work on being better conditioned for the season both as a team and individually away from practice.

Nevertheless, when games begin, the Lady Tigers will hang their hat on defense.

They plan to be a defensive minded team in 2021 to help give themselves a shot to win more games.

Hunter's reasoning is quite simple, too.

"If you're an offense that scores 80 points, but gives up 82 points, then, at the end of the day, that doesn't get you the result that you want," Hunter said. "But if you're a defensive team that scores 10 points and only gives up six points, then that'll help lead to more wins. So, we definitely want to lean toward that strategy."

Focusing on conditioning, strength building and defensive tactics gives the Lady Tigers hope to show progress in 2021.

They're following up a season where they only won five total games. This year, however, Hunter and the Lady Tigers aim for more success to help accomplish more of their goals.

"It's going to take consistent, persistent work," Hunter said. "I want the players' effort to be there every time. There's no excuse. Earlier on in the season, the execution may not be there, but that's what you're working toward. So, that's what I'm focusing on. First, is the effort there, then the execution. From there, we'll make adjustments for future games."

Eastside Eagles

Eastside poised to build winning culture

Phillip B. Hubbard | The Covington News
Eastside head coach Dorrian Randolph said his team would be ready to “give it our all every single play,” during the 2021-2022 campaign.

COVINGTON, Ga. — Home is where the heart is, as they say. For the Eastside Eagles boy’s basketball team, though, they want home to be the place where they win.

For head coach Dorrian Randolph, winning every home game will help establish a “culture” of winning.

“I’m trying to build the atmosphere that other schools have,” Randolph said. “Home games are the ones that most of the student body and teachers come to and I want them to keep coming.”

Eastside set up a solid foundation to build off of in 2020.

Last season, the Eagles qualified for the state playoffs. Their postseason appearance was the first in five years for Eastside.

It finished second in Region 8-A as well.

The Eagles accomplished all of this when Randolph was entering his first ever season as a head coach during a pandemic season.

Now, with a more normal offseason, the Eagles feel prepared for the season ahead. And, during preparations, Randolph has noticed more cohesiveness among players.

“The summer was good for team camaraderie,” Randolph said. “Good thing is, these guys like each other. That’s the first ingredient, to me, for building a team is that they like each other. That’ll be big for us.”

In 2021, the Eagles will look a bit different compared to last year.

They welcome four new additions to this year’s squad including a freshman that Randolph is very high on.

Be that as it may, the biggest concern Randolph has about this year’s squad is the lack of size.

stands at 6’3.”

Nevertheless, the Eagles are confident that they can overcome this disadvantage.

Over this offseason, Eastside has mainly focused on its mentality, strength endurance to play smart and fast all game long.

Randolph stressed that if the players completely buy in to this philosophy, then they can accomplish the goals they’ve set themselves.

“Our guys compete,” Randolph said. “That’s a stepping stone for us. Regardless of what the score may be, we give it our all every single play.”

Lady Eagles look to develop young talent

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — The entire 2021 season is ahead for the Eastside Lady Eagles basketball team. There are 18 scheduled games on the schedule for Eastside to compete in.

For head coach Gladys King, however, she isn’t worried about the outcome of each game falling in her team’s favor. In fact, she’s focused on developing the young group of players on this year’s squad.

“It’s not always about the wins and losses,” King said. “It’s about me seeing the growth in them and improving. That’s where we are right now. Just trying to get better.”

Since that’s the case, the Lady Eagles have spent this summer of preparation honing in on the fundamentals of basketball.

King and her team have implemented some particulars as far as offensive and defensive sets are concerned. But the primary goal is to help the overall team become better.

Led by senior point guard Lizzy Teasley, the overall Lady Eagles’ team comes into the season with limited knowledge of the game. There are some players who are actually playing basketball for the first time ever.

Though that presents difficult challenge, King is excited to see how the players develop this season.

“It’s a process and it’s fun,” King said. “And I think the girls love it to as they learn the sport and see what they can do.”

Teasley’s contributions have gone a long way in helping during this learning process.

program all four years of high school. In addition, Teasley plays all year around to improve upon her individual skills.

According to King, her point guard has displayed great leadership and been like a coach on the floor, too.

“She can help the younger kids with certain things that they’re having a tough time with,” King said. “It takes that leadership and I like how she has that.”

The goal now is to develop the inexperienced players around Teasley to help lead the Lady Eagles program forward.

With Eastside being able to play in various scrimmages, unlike last offseason with the pandemic, King believes her team has taken strides toward success.

Now, the beginning of the season here, King hopes her team continues to work toward getting better as a collective unit.

Lizzie Teasley enters her senior year as a Lady Eagle. Head coach Gladys King plans to lean on her as Eastside’s younger players develop in 2021.

“Even though we’re young, I’m still pushing for us to be in top 3 or 4 of our region,” King said. “I want us to be competitive and knock some people off. That’ll let them know that, we may not have the numbers as some of the other schools, but we’re going to build and work with what we get.”

Newton Rams

Newton ready to roll with high aspirations

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Entering 2021, the Newton Rams and head coach Charlemagne Gibbons have yet to adopt a theme for the upcoming season.

But there is a central message being preached at Rams practice: consistency.

Gibbons and his staff stressed how being inconsistent last year cost them some crucial games.

This year, that can no longer be an excuse.

“If you go back and look, last year, we had some pretty big wins over some really good competition. Then, you saw some bad losses against similar competition,” Gibbons said. “We were a very young team last year, but the training wheels are off. So, we don’t have any reason now why we can’t be a top level team.”

The 2020 season ended for Newton in the Sweet 16 round of the state playoffs with an 87-59 loss to Pebblebrook. The Rams finished with a 14-9 overall record and went 6-3 in Region 4-AAAAAAA, which gave them region runner-up.

It’s no secret that the Rams return some stellar talent, but the consistency hasn’t arrived yet. That’s primarily been the focus this offseason.

According to Gibbons, that’s the difference between his team being one of the best to one of the worst teams.

Couple the inconsistency with a key loss in TJ Clark, Newton will be seeking a player or two to step up and lead the team.

Clark was a vocal leader in the locker room for the Rams last year. Now Gibbons is looking for the next leader.

There are already a couple of candidates, too.

Stephon Castle, a junior point guard has shown strides to taking the reigns of the team. Senior Mio Kaye Grant has impressed his head ball coach, too, leading in his final season at Newton.

Be that as it may, Gibbons wants the team to use its greatest strength of playing together and as one. He said, if they accomplish that, they can make some noise toward the end of the season.

“We’ve got a really good team with a lot of talent,” Gibbons said. “So some nights it’s going to be different guys who step. Having teammates who support that is a big thing. We don’t necessarily always have that in today’s society and in sports.”

Lady Rams 'willing, ready' for state title run

Rams head coach Tiffani Johnson and her staffed have primarily focused on getting the players mentally prepared for the season head over the summer.

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. – Being ready is defined by different measurements for different teams. The Newton Lady Rams, heading into the 2021 season, are still developing what being ready means to them.

Nevertheless, head coach Tiffani Johnson has clearly set forth what this year’s team is getting ready for.

“Our theme is being willing and ready,” Johnson said. “First, what does being ready mean? What does that ready look like? We’re defining that as a team what ‘ready’ is. And the second part is are you willing to do it? So, we’re going to be willing and ready to win a state championship this year and that’s going to be our focus.”

Even so, the Lady Rams haven’t focused on the physical part of the game this offseason as much as they have the mental part. Johnson has spent this summer trying to get her players mentally prepared for the upcoming season.

So, before the Lady Rams move to the drawing board, their main concern is making sure the players are thinking clearly when they step on the court.

“Are our minds and hearts right to be able to receive the X’s and O’s?,” Johnson said. “I think we’ve done a good job in the preseason just getting the girls mentally ready for the hard work we need to get going and now for their workouts.”

Be that as it may, Johnson believes she has a well-rounded nucleus returning to the 2021 Lady Rams’ squad.

Lerekia Terrell returns as a post presence. Tre-Miyah Berry is entering her sophomore year looking to make huge contributions as well as Sanaa Tripp.

Their head coach labeled seniors Ashleigh Norris, Kyla Price and Breyonna Rhodes all leaders for this year’s team, too.

All of these players plus some will help provide a collection of puzzle pieces to help Newton make a deep run this season, according to Johnson.

With that, Johnson has high hopes for her team’s chances to make some noise in 2021.

“We’ll need commitment to accomplish our goals,” Johnson said. “Regardless of a win or loss, stay committed to the goals. We need to expect the struggle and use it as a means to get ready for the ring.”

Social Circle Redskins

Social Circle wants to play fast, build on last year's success

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — Head coach Taylor Jackson is entering his third season at the helm of the Social Circle boys basketball team.

In his first two years, Jackson admits that the team has played at a slower pace. While playing slow has rendered a lot of wins, Jackson did say that it wasn't very fun to watch.

Entering 2021, though, the Redskins have prepared all summer to play at a faster pace.

"We prioritize playing really fast," Jackson said. "And we want to shoot a lot of three-pointers. So, that's been the real focus for us playing faster and shooting the ball deeper and better."

The Redskins have done so during a summer that was "packed."

In June alone, Social Circle had 25 games in which they went 22-3. Throughout all of the contests, Jackson noticed that the team's chemistry and understanding of the game was strengthened.

Leading the charge in that department, according to Jackson, has been the Redskins' guards. He also highlighted this as the team's biggest strength heading into the new season.

"I think our guards are the best single A guards in the state," Jackson said. "I'm really excited about how our guard group looks."

KJ Reid and Tyrell Branch, in particular, are two players who have stood out this offseason, too, to their head coach.

Jackson labeled them both as two of the team's top leaders. He also has high hopes for Reid and Branch in 2021.

"They're both going to be 1,000 point scorers this year," Jackson boldly predicted. "KJ has been a four-year varsity starter this year. Tyrell is in his third year as a varsity starter. They're just tough, disciplined and they both love to win so much. They understand the flow and what's going on. I trust them completely and value what they say and their insights."

Now, the Redskins are working toward building off of last year's success.

Social Circle finished third in Region 8A-Public in 2020 with a 10-2 region record. Overall, the Redskins went 17-10. They also made some noise in the Class A-Public playoffs.

The Redskins advanced to the Sweet Sixteen after defeating Taylor County in round 1, 55-52.

This year, however, the Redskins are hungry for more. And Jackson is optimistic about his chances to make an even deeper run in 2021.

"Our expectations are to win the region championship," Jackson said. "Then, we want to make a really, really deep state playoff run. We've got the guys to do it along with the mindset. We've been battle tested. We'll put together over the course of a long year as we prepare for late January and February."

Lady Redskins head coach eyes culture change in year one

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

SOCIAL CIRCLE, Ga. — Five. The number that represents a starting basketball lineup.

Social Circle's girls basketball team surpasses that total, but not by much.

The Lady Redskins enter 2021 with limited depth having only nine total players.

Another disadvantage for them is the team's youth.

Making up the Lady Redskins' roster are three freshmen, four sophomores and only two seniors.

Head coach Dave LaBarrie recognizes both factors as major hurdles in his team way. But, LaBarrie isn't looking for his team to just give up before the first tip-off of the season.

He wants to see his players go out and put their best foot forward every game.

"I want to make sure they're competitive," LaBarrie said. "And I want to see their fundamentals improve to begin building the building blocks up for the younger players. I expect the leadership to come from the older players, but the building blocks have to come from the younger players."

Even so, LaBarrie is prioritizing changing the culture into a more prosperous one for girl's basketball at Social Circle.

For instance, it's been approximately 13 years since the Lady Redskins qualified for the state tournament, according to LaBarrie.

He's hopefully, beginning in 2021, that Social Circle can work toward changing the trajectory of the program.

"I think tradition has a lot to do with sports," LaBarrie said. "There hasn't been a winning tradition in the last 13 years. And that affects a program. So, even though we're young, this team has to establish a winning tradition with some sort of success to get it going."

Climbing such a steep mountain won't be easy for the Lady Redskins.

They'll have a tough 19-game schedule that awaits them soon. Social Circle will face teams such as Walnut Grove, Monroe Area and Jasper County in addition to their Region 8A-Public schedule.

But LaBarrie isn't too concerned. He views the schedule as 19 opportunities to continue building the foundation one day at a time.

"If they continue working at the pace they are right now, they will be better," LaBarrie said.

Pregnancy, Peter bedevil Catherine in Season 2 of Hulu's 'The Great'

A newly ascendant Catherine appears to be gaining ground in her war with Peter as Hulu's irreverent historical comedy "The Great" returns for Season 2.

Premiering Friday, Nov. 19, the 10-episode sophomore round finds a very pregnant Catherine (Elle Fanning) grappling with impending motherhood as well as trying to liberate a country that perhaps doesn't want to be. She'll also battle with her court, her team, and even her own mother to bring the enlightenment to Russia.

And then, of course, there is the lingering presence of Peter (Nicholas Hoult), the husband she despises and now has as her prisoner. He's clearly still in deeply love with her and their unborn child and as determined as ever to retake the throne, so it remains to be seen whether this couple and their love/hate relationship are indeed finished.

In addition to Fanning and Hoult (who are also executive producers), the series returns much of its first season cast, including Phoebe Fox, Adam Godley, Gwilym Lee, Charity Wakefield, Douglas Hodge and Sacha Dhawan. And as in Season 1, the profane, loopy comedy is even more in evidence this time around, driven by the chemistry between Fanning and Hoult.

"I felt like Season 2 we were really going for it and embarrassing ourselves and saying lines just trying things which then inevitably is just funny," Fanning explains. "And sometimes it works and sometimes it doesn't so we're always trying to just see what sticks. And that's what's so great about the set and the environment that we create on the set because it's very warm and loving and no judgment. So yeah, I can laugh at anyone right in their face and it's like no judgment, right? I think it's a good thing."

"There's a little bit of judgment in those moments when you're on the receiving end of it," deadpans Hoult.

The new round also has a very parental theme, as Catherine now sports a very pronounced baby bump and evinces some of the strange cravings that come with pregnancy, including one disgusting one she indulges in the first episode.

But the unborn child also serves as her shield against any harm Peter might be contemplating, which Fanning says Catherine understands very well.

"She knows if, you know, while ... (the baby is) in there, she's safe and Peter's not going to kill her with the baby in there," Fanning says. "So she's kind of understanding that and then also having to become a mother to the country. So the baby bump really symbolized a lot of things, but it was, yeah, fun to wear, I guess. It was hot at times."

Elle Fanning and Nicholas Hoult star in Season 2 of "The Great," premiering Friday on Hulu.

'Well Done With Sebastian Maniscalco' brings comedy with food knowledge

Say one thing about Sebastian Maniscalco, he'll do anything for good television.

And so it was this past summer in the premiere episode of the discovery+ series "Well Done With Sebastian Maniscalco," viewers were treated to the sight of the stand-up comic getting seasick during a fishing trip off the coast of Southern California and later butchering the fileting of a whitefish.

A gamer the man certainly is.

"I knew I had a problem with nausea when I go on a boat but I wanted to get over that fear," the 48-year-old explains. "So I figured, oh, this is a bigger boat, maybe I'll have a better result. And within five minutes, I was on the floor. It was not a good scene for me. But you know, we did the episode and it turned out to be good TV for me. I mean, I have no problems showing my weaknesses on television."

Season 2 begins streaming Tuesday, Nov. 16 (the same date Season 1 joins the prime-time lineup on Food Network) and finds the Illinois-born, Los Angeles-based comedian once again doing a deep dive into the world of food while offering up his signature witticisms and wry social commentary.

The new round of six episodes will find Maniscalco returning to his old job of bartender to create a signature cocktail for fellow comic Whitney Cummings; explore why children are picky eaters with Nick and Vanessa Lachey, learn how noodles are used in different cuisines around the world with comic Bobby Lee; and examine canine food habits with "Dog Whisperer" Cesar Millan.

Doing this series has been a blast for Maniscalco, who is into food and wine (he hates the term "foodie") though he's the first to admit he has next to no chops in the kitchen. He enjoys spending time around cooks and cooking and filming these episodes in a way has brought him back to his childhood.

"For me, food has always been a connection to my family," he says. "That's kind of where it all happened growing up, at the kitchen table. We would sit down, discuss life, what happened during the day. And that's kind of continued throughout my life, not only with my family, but my friends. So I think if we could get a little sushi night at the house and have some laughs and get blasted on sake, I think it would be a nice little evening."

celebrity q&a Jena Friedman OF 'TRUE CRIME STORY: INDEFENSIBLE' ON AMC+ AND SUNDANCETV

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Have you had anyone walk out on you during interviews for "True Crime Story: Indefensible"?

Shockingly, I actually haven't had anyone walk out of an interview. Even when I was a field producer at "The Daily Show," I mean, I've interviewed so many people or just a producer doing interviews, I've never had a walkout. There was one time in a Zoom interview I did with John McAfee where he got upset and almost clicked out of a Zoom but then I got him back. That's the only time I thought somebody was going to leave an interview.

Are there any cases in history you'd like to investigate that you obviously can't?

Sure. I would love a series where all of the killers are either in prison or dead (laughs). Yeah, I mean there are a ton of cases. And I almost think you could say this about almost every crime kind of has echoes like of the society that it happens in. So any story where the outcome is really just like more of a reflection on the culture I think is always really interesting to kind of examine or look over in a different way.

After doing this, does doing hard news interest you?

(Laughs) No. I mean, anything interests me at this point, I think, but my heart is in comedy and my background is in comedy and I think you can say so much more with it. So this was a little bit of a departure but there's so much to say right now and I love that AMC gave me the opportunity to do that with this show. But I also think having a little bit of comedy in any capacity, it gives you a little bit more flexibility to kind of editorialize what you're trying to say. Whereas in straight news, you're just beholden to a whole other set of standards that I think make it a little harder to say what you want.

tonight's PICKS

Wendi McLendon-Covey

The Goldbergs

8 p.m. on WSB

When Beverly (Wendi McLendon-Covey) discovers that Linda Schwartz (recurring guest star Mindy Sterling), Geoff's (Sam Lerner) mom, is hosting Thanksgiving this year, she feels threatened in her roles as both family hostess and — more importantly — Erica's (Hayley Orrantia) mother, in the new holiday episode "A Light Thanksgiving Nosh." Meanwhile, Pop-Pop (guest star Judd Hirsch) surprises everyone by showing up with a new "lady friend." Jeff Garlin, Sean Giambrone and Troy Gentile also star.

Nature

8 p.m. on WGTV

The two-part "Born in the Rockies" concludes with "Growing Up," in which young animals still learning basic life and survival skills confront even starker challenges as winter closes in on the slopes of the Rocky Mountains. As a grizzly mother prepares her cubs for their first hibernation together, a mountain lion continues raising her kittens and a bison calf struggles to learn how to navigate a heavy snowfall.

Hard Knocks in Season: The Indianapolis Colts

10 p.m. on HBO

For the first time in its history, this Emmy-winning sports reality franchise presents a multi-episode in-season edition that documents an NFL franchise in real time, while its season is in progress. This maiden voyage follows the Indianapolis Colts as they navigate the unpredictable challenges of an NFL season while battling it out for a spot in the playoffs. Future episodes premiere each Wednesday through the end of the Colts' season.

tonight's PICKS

Scott Speedman

Music Box

8 p.m. on HBO

This music documentary series created by filmmaker Bill Simmons ("Woodstock '99") continues with "Jagged," Alison Klayman's examination of Canadian singer Alanis Morissette and her rise to fame that accompanied the release of her landmark album "Jagged Little Pill." While the film includes some biographical context of Morissette, Klayman refines her focus primarily on the album itself, accompanied by backstage and concert footage, plus raw vocal tracks. Interviews include multiple members of Morissette's touring band, led by future Foo Fighter Taylor Hawkins.

Grey's Anatomy

9 p.m. on WSB

As Thanksgiving arrives, Meredith (Ellen Pompeo) faces weather-related complications with her travel plans, but Nick (Scott Speedman) wastes no time stepping up in more ways than one in the holiday episode "Every Day Is Like a Holiday (With You)." Elsewhere, Amelia and Link (Caterina Scorsone, Chris Carmack) reconnect, while Richard and Bailey (James Pickens Jr., Chandra Wilson) seek out emergency surgeries. Kevin McKidd also stars.

A House Divided

10 p.m. on WE

Season 2 of this juicy family drama opens with "Now You're In," which sees Cameran Jr. (Brad James) taking his best shot at Carissa (Demetria McKinney). Elsewhere, Torrance (Steph Santana) is in rest-and-recovery mode, while also keeping a secret to protect his brother. Meanwhile, Cameran Sr. (Lawrence Hilton-Jacobs) returns from exile in Panama and tries to pick up the pieces of his empire. Dominique DuVerney and Willie Albert Loman III co-star. Another new episode immediately follows.

tonight's PICKS

Leah Lewis

Nantucket Noel

8 p.m. on HALL

Christina (Sarah Power) is having a hard time moving on since the death of her mother, who bequeathed her the Nantucket toy store Christina now runs. Her mood is definitely not improved when she discovers that Andy (Trevor Donovan), a charismatic real estate developer visiting the town with his young daughter, plans to remodel the wharf where her shop is located into a new marina. If he goes through with that plan, she'll lose her last direct link to her mom in this 2021 romance.

Dying for a Good Grade

8 p.m. on LMN

Inspired by the 2019 college admissions scandal, this 2021 thriller revolves around a young aspiring college student who lets her best friend talk her into cutting some ethical corners to ensure she gets into a good college. As the police start to close in on the ringleader of the cheaters, the desperate girl turns to her mother for help with getting out of the snowballing scandal. Their attempt to distance themselves only causes things to take a deadly turn, however. Karis Cameron, Stefanie von Pletten and Rachelle Gillis star.

Nancy Drew

9 p.m. on WUPA

While Nancy (Kennedy Mc-Mann) and her crew race to find the relic that could save George's (Leah Lewis) life, Carson and Ryan (Scott Wolf, Riley Smith) find themselves under the influence of a mysterious substance that lowers their inhibitions to the level of adolescents. Maddison Jaizani, Alex Saxon and Tunji Kasim also star in the new episode "The Gambit of Tangled Souls."

What's Available NOW On

"Dino Ranch: Season 1" (Available now)

From Disney Junior comes the first round of this animated adventure series that follows two young cowboys and a young cowgirl as they travel to lands where modern-day dinosaurs rule the landscape. Ava Ro, Scott Gorman, Tyler James Nathan, Athena Karkanis and Jacob Mazeral head the voice cast.

"X-Men: First Class" (Available now)

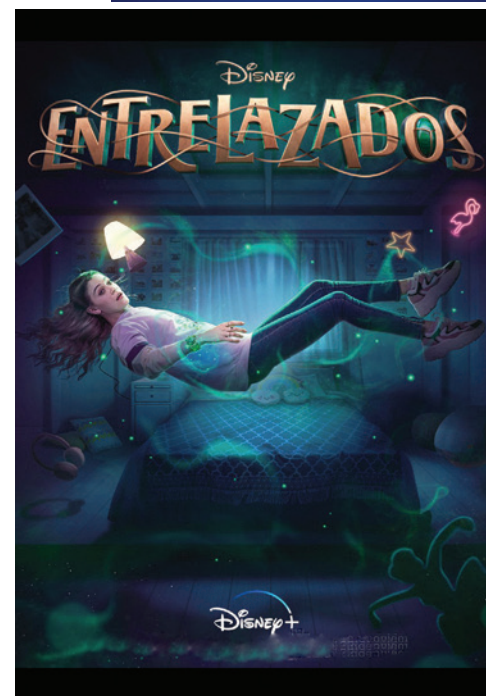

This 2011 prequel to the earlier films based on the Marvel Comics series traces the roots of Professor Xavier and Magneto before they became enemies. James McAvoy and Michael Fassbender play the duo as they bond in the 1960s to battle a common foe (Kevin Bacon), assisted by mutants determined to use their powers for good. Jennifer Lawrence, January Jones and Rose Byrne also star.

Under the Helmet: The Legacy of Boba Fett

"Under the Helmet: The Legacy of Boba Fett" (Available now)

"Star Wars" fans will certainly sit up and take notice of this retrospective that celebrates the origins of the film franchise's legendary bounty hunter in the run up to the debut of the Disney+ series "The Book of Boba Fett" on Dec. 29. (ORIGINAL)

"Entrelozados" (Available now)

From Argentina comes this comedy/drama series for the younger crowd that tells the story of Allegra, a 16-year-old aspiring actress who finds a mysterious bracelet that transports her back to 1994, the year her mother was her age and living in the shadow of her grandmother, a legendary thespian. Carolina Domenech, Elena Rogers and Clara Alonso head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

A Christmas Together With You

8 p.m. on HALL

After Frank (Harry Lennix), a widower, comes across an old photo of his first love, Claire, his young friend Megan (Laura Vandervoort) persuades him to take a road trip and try to track her down in this 2021 holiday romance. Sensing that such a trip might also get Megan's mind off a recent broken engagement, they hit the road together and head for Claire's hometown, where the reason Frank ended things with her years ago is revealed. Niall Matter and Liza Huget also star.

The 2021 Rock & Roll Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony

8 p.m. on HBO

From Rocket Mortgage Fieldhouse in Cleveland, Ohio, this three-hour special honors the latest rock luminaries to be inducted into this prestigious body. Among the performers, this year's group includes Tina Turner, inducted by Angela Bassett; Carole King, inducted by Taylor Swift; The Go-Gos, inducted by Drew Barrymore; Foo Fighters, inducted by Paul McCartney; and Todd Rundgren. Other honorees include Kraftwerk, Charley Patton and Gil Scott-Heron; LL Cool J, Billy Preston and Randy Rhoads; and Clarence Avant, who receives the Ahmet Ertegun Award, for non-performers who have had a major influence.

Olivia Rodrigo

2021 American Music Awards
8 p.m. on WSB
From Microsoft Theater in Los Angeles, music superstar Cardi B hosts this year's edition of the annual ceremony honoring popular musical acts. First time nominee Olivia Rodrigo ("High School Musical: The Musical : The Series") leads the pack of potential honorees with seven nods, followed by The Weeknd with six. Bad Bunny, Doja Cat and Giveon have five nominations apiece. In the coveted Artist of the Year category, Rodrigo and The Weeknd vie with Ariana Grande, BTS, Drake and Taylor Swift.

Call the Midwife

8 p.m. on WGTV
Season 10 draws to a close with the finale "Special Delivery," which finds the staff at Nonnatus House struggling to process Nancy's (Megan Cusack) bombshell revelation. Meanwhile, Sister Hilda (Fenella Woolgar) enthusiastically takes the reins as Sister Julianne (Jenny Agutter) begins her annual leave, and Trixie (Helen George) joins Sister Frances (Ella Bruccoleri) in rallying the others to take action concerning Poplar's escalating housing crisis. Elsewhere, Cyril (Zephryn Taitte) is forced to rethink his future after receiving some news from home.

Power Book II: Ghost

8 p.m. on STARZ
Tariq St. Patrick (Michael Rainey Jr.) is still running from a legacy that haunts him as this gripping crime drama enters Season 2. Forced to take the life of his professor, Jabari Reynolds, and with Tasha stashed away in witness protection, Tariq is ready to sacrifice everything to protect the rest of his family. That responsibility leads him to those wielding power and influence: Davis MacLean and Cooper Saxe (Cliff "Method Man" Smith, Shane Johnson), his new partner, as well as Rashad Tate (Larenz Tate).

tonight's PICKS

Jesse Palmer

The Family Chantel

8 p.m. on TLC

In the new episode "Breaking Bread," Pedro arrives in the Dominican Republic hoping to make peace among his family, but only succeeds in making matters much worse. Meanwhile, Winter and Jah host a dinner for the family to reveal their engagement. River decides to introduce Karen and Chantel to his girlfriend.

Holiday Baking Championship

9 p.m. on FOOD

In the new episode "Gingerbread Showdown: Have Yourself a Scary Little Christmas," the Abominable Snowman comes out of hiding to startle the teams and inspire them creatively for the theme of a Monster Christmas. Since monsters probably love a dessert that's on the oozy side, host Jesse Palmer challenges the teams to make an oozing caramel dessert to accompany their display. Judges Nacho Aguirre, Kardea Brown and Breegan Jane select the winner.

Wakefield

9 p.m. on SHOW

In a new episode, Raff (Ryan Corr) is understandably horrified to realize that, due to severe memory loss from her ECT treatment, Genevieve (Harriet Dyer) no longer is able to remember their wedding day. Elsewhere, Collette (Felicity Ward) confronts Linda (Mandy McElhinney) about her relentless bullying and discovers the shocking truth about her boss.

Intervention

10:01 p.m. on A&E

By some miracle, Elliot overcame a traumatic childhood, then moved as an adult to Las Vegas to pursue his dream of becoming a chef in this new episode. Unfortunately, he discovered a rampant drug culture in restaurant kitchens throughout the city. Those temptations, along with the sudden death of his brother, sent Elliot reeling into full-blown addiction. Now he's homeless and hooked on heroin.

Black and Missing

8 p.m. on HBO
This four-part docuseries from journalist and activist Soledad O'Brien, which concludes Wednesday, follows the founders of the Black and Missing Foundation as they fight an uphill battle to raise awareness of missing-persons cases involving Black victims, which routinely get downplayed by both police officials and members of the press. Participants include missing-persons activist John Walsh, FBI victim specialist Dr. Renee Murrell; Baltimore chief of police T.J. Smith; and former assistant district attorney Glenn Kirschner, among others. Another episode immediately follows.

Holiday Crafters Gone Wild

9 p.m. on OWN
Fashion expert and stylist Jay Manuel serves as host for this two-hour special in which four crafting duos show their impressive skills as they compete in a series of holiday-themed challenges. The two judges, designer Kim Myles and celebrity party planner Mikie Russo, evaluate their efforts, with the ultimate winners taking home a $10,000 prize.

Top Gear

10 p.m. on BBCA

In their fifth season behind the wheel, hosts Freddie Flintoff, Chris Harris and Paddy McGuinness hit the road again in search of challenges that will push them and their vehicles to the limit. Details on tonight's premiere will be revealed at a later date, but a new trailer for the season includes footage of the main trio attending the British Grand Prix, going electric caravanning, traveling to Iceland on an international expedition and Flintoff's attempt at zorbing (rolling downhill inside an orb).

BY JAY BOBBIN

Cindy does Christmas again: Busby has two new holiday movies

Q: One of my favorite actresses in cable movies is Cindy Busby. Will she have any new films for the holiday season? – Diane Wallace, Providence, R.I.

A: Two, in fact ... and they're both debuting on the same weekend. First, on Dec. 18, the actress stars in Lifetime's "Toying With the Holidays" as a workaholic single mother who brings her son to her hometown to experience its seasonal train ride. The vehicle is now out of commission, but a former classmate (Chad Michael Murray) tries to help her activate it again.

Then, on Dec. 19, Busby appears on GAC Family – formerly the music-oriented Great American Country, now being programmed by a Hallmark Channel alum – in "Joy for Christmas," playing a toy-drive organizer who asks a famous athlete (Sam Page) to be the face of the campaign. Since holiday movies come nonstop during the season, you also can expect to see earlier ones featuring Busby repeated on such outlets as Hallmark and UPtv.

Q: Why did Jesse Spencer leave "Chicago Fire"? – Rita Talamine, via email

A: In a press conference with television reporters (including this one) last month, just before he departed the NBC series as a series regular in the show's 200th episode, the actor explained that he has been doing series work steadily for 18 years – since he went directly from "House" into "Chicago Fire" – and he felt it was time to take a break.

It's important to note that he could resurface on "Fire" in a guest capacity, particularly since the producers will try to keep the long-distance relationship between Matt Casey (Spencer) and Sylvie Brett (Kara Killmer) going, even if Casey isn't seen on the screen. Also, at least for the time being, Spencer and his wife are keeping their Chicago residence.

Chad Michael Murray

"This (program) was supposed to be just until we got through the pandemic. No one knew what that meant, so no one knew how long this actually was going to stretch out ... but it's the dream of a journalist to do something that's for the good of the community." – Amy Robach of "GMA3: What You Need to Know" on ABC

"In some ways, I have never entirely understood Sister Julianne because she's so far from my own character, but I have looked into the sort of person she is. I understand about her faith. I understand about her dedication. I understand why she's doing what she does." – Jenny Agutter of "Call the Midwife" on PBS, on her character in the series
