Newborn man found guilty of 2018 murder

Johnson to be sentenced after completion of judge-ordered investigation

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — A Newton County jury on Thursday, Sept. 16, found Trea Johnson of Newborn guilty in the 2018 murder of a man who named his killer after he was shot while on a 911 call.

Johnson was convicted of Malice Murder, Felony Murder, Armed Robbery, Aggravated Assault and Possession

Of A Firearm During The Commission Of A Felony after he shot and killed Wintez Moody and robbed two other victims in November 2018.

In the early evening hours of Nov. 5, 2018, Johnson assisted in the armed robbery of two individuals he had invited to his home in Newborn, according to the Newton County District Attorney's office.

After the armed robbery, Johnson went to Moody's home, used a brick to break through the glass back door and entered the home without permission.

Moody, 22, called 911 to get assistance due to the break-in. On the 911 call at least one intruder can be heard and Moody says, "It's Trea Johnson, it's Trea Johnson." A gunshot can be heard and then Moody tells the operator, "He shot me, I'm bleeding," the DA's office said in a post on its Facebook page.

Moody died of the gunshot wound he sustained.

During the investigation,

Supply, labor shortages delay Eastside completion, Theme School renovation

COVINGTON, Ga. — School system officials anticipate the new Eastside High School facility will be completed in March and be ready for the start of the 2022-2023 school year.

County schools officials announced Friday, Sept. 17, that the Eastside facility is set to be completed by March 2022 on a 107-acre site at U.S. Hwy. 278 and Georgia Hwy. 142.

Supply and labor shortages delayed completion of the almost $60 million school beyond its originally anticipated January completion date, officials said.

However, the later-than-anticipated opening also delays the beginning of renovation of the current Eastside building for the Newton County Theme School.

After the move, Newton County Theme School at Fiquett will relocate to the current Eastside facility on Eagle Drive by the start of the 2023-2024 school year, said spokesperson Sherrie Partee.

Samantha Fuhrey, superintendent of Newton County Schools, said in a news release the school system was "looking forward" to the new school's opening.

"Although we had planned to open the (new Eastside High) school in January, the

"The school should be complete this spring to allow ample time to set up classrooms and offices with furniture and supplies in preparation for the first day of the 2022-2023 school year," Fuhrey said.

"Unfortunately, this delay will change the timeframe for renovations of the current Eastside High School (building) and the subsequent relocation of the Newton County

COVINGTON, Ga. — Sandie Albritton said in a TV interview in 2020 she loved being a teacher.

"There's no better job," she said.

Albritton, a math teacher at Alcovy High School since 2016 who touched the lives of students at four Newton County schools, died Saturday.

Alcovy Principal Kristopher Williams confirmed the passing of the school's AP coordinator and senior class advisor in a social media post.

"She was a remarkable individual that loved education, math and Alcovy. She was one of a kind. She will truly be missed," Williams wrote.

A statement from the Newton County School System said Albritton "was a much-loved teacher who absolutely adored teaching math."

"In fact, she was known by her catchphrase, 'Math rocks!'"

"Her passing is a tremendous blow for our school system and the many students and staff members who knew and loved her. She was not only a teacher but also a mentor to many. She will definitely be missed.

"We extend our sincerest sympathies to her family during this very difficult time," according to the statement.

Numerous Facebook users who expressed their condolences on social media said she died from the effects of COVID-19 but that could not be verified Monday.

One Facebook user said she formerly worked as

Covington approves lodging tax ordinance amendments

Changes follow new state law requiring 'marketplace facilitators' to pay hotel/motel tax

By TAYLOR BECK
tbeck@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga.

— Property owners who rent out their homes through platforms such as Airbnb and VRBO are now required to pay lodging taxes to the city of Covington.

Gov. Brian Kemp signed House Bill 317 into law in April, which mandated short-term home rental companies — or “marketplace facilitators” — pay hotel taxes in the state of Georgia. On Monday, Sept. 20, the Covington City Council unanimously approved a second and final reading of proposed amendments to the city's ordinance relating to lodging tax. City Attorney Frank Turner Jr. said the amendments would essentially put the city “in compliance with the state” and finally tackle a longtime issue. “This is an issue that many communities around the state have been dealing with for many years — VRBO, AirBnB — and there's numerous other ones. Some have paid motel/hotel taxes to local jurisdictions, many have not,” Turner said prior to approval of the first reading Sept. 7. “There's actually been a class action lawsuit that we're a party of and we've been getting money from one or more of them through that class action lawsuit, but the state, luckily, from our perspective, did pass a new law in the last session that it's incumbent upon these internet companies now to withhold that tax at their level so that we don't have to go out there to individual homeowners to try and get these taxes. So, we will see revenue start to come to us. This ordinance just follows the state law and says, yes, they do have to send us these funds and get on our list. And they have to notify us of the properties in our community, where they are [and], in fact, do have customers.”

Set by state law, the rental companies will be taxed $5 per night in addition to any local

Area residents among 6 arrested on child exploitation charges

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

DECATUR, Ga. — Two Newton County-area residents were among seven people arrested by the Georgia Bureau of Investigation during a coordinated effort between two GBI special units.

William Anderson, 55, of Porterdale, and David Hawkins Sr., 57, of Social Circle, were arrested on charges they committed crimes related to the possession and distribution of child pornography under the Georgia Computer Pornography and Child Exploitation Prevention Act of 2007.

Anderson, who works as a butcher, also was charged with Possession of Methamphetamine, weapons possession and other charges.

Hawkins, who works as an industrial mechanic, and Anderson were being held in the Newton County Detention Center without bond Monday, according to jail records.

Also charged for the same crimes and taken to the Clayton County Jail were William Calvin Babb, 20, of Hampton, a food service worker; Earon Everett, 42, of Jonesboro, a security guard; and Julio Cesar Rangel-Caston, 33, of Riverdale, who is unemployed. William Tornez Lucena, 20, of East Point and a food service worker, was charged and taken to the Fulton County Jail.

Tanita Babb, 21, of Hampton, was arrested on illegal drug charges only and taken to the Clayton County Jail, a news release stated.

Additional charges are possible and other arrests may occur after analysis of seized digital devices, according to the GBI.

The GBI's Child Exploitation and Computer Crimes (CEACC) Unit investigated numerous cyber tips received from the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC) and partnered with the GBI's Special Enforcement Team (SET) to execute search warrants related to those cyber tip investigations.

The cyber tips involved the possession and/or distribution of explicit child sexual abuse images, commonly referred to as child pornography, that led to several metro Atlanta counties.

Planning for the operation began approximately two months ago and culminated in four days of investigative actions to include search warrant executions, knock and talks, interviews, data and image analysis, digital forensic processing, and arrests, a news release stated.

During the effort,

10 search warrants were executed. During those search warrants 101 digital devices were previewed by GBI Digital Forensic Investigators and at least 17 of those digital devices were seized as evidence.

Thirty-three of the digital devices previewed were mobile phones — which investigators who work child exploitation investigations are increasingly seeing used as the main instrument by which predators seek out child sexual abuse material and communicate with others who are like minded, the release stated.

They are also increasingly using mobile devices to contact children online. One person arrested was also found to have been chatting online with children as young as 9 years old, the release stated.

In addition to the agencies involved in the planning of the operation, Newton County Sheriff's Office and Porterdale Police Department were among local agencies assisting.

The operation focused on persons who possess and distribute child sexual abuse images and those who are sexually exploiting children in other ways using technology and the internet, according to the release.

GBI's CEACC Unit Special Agent in Charge and Commander of the Georgia ICAC Task Force, Debbie Garner, said, “The dedicated law enforcement professionals that are part of the GBI and the Georgia ICAC Task Force will not cease searching for those who are producing, trading and collecting this graphic material.

“We will continue to work with our partners across the state and the country to find, investigate and prosecute these predators and rescue children who are being abused. We are thankful for the efforts of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children for managing the cyber tip process that produces information that leads us to children that are being sexually abused and have not yet disclosed that unspeakable abuse,” Garner said.

The Georgia ICAC Task Force made 307 arrests in 2018; 474 arrests in 2019; and 396 arrests in 2020.

Anyone with information about other cases of child exploitation is asked to contact the Georgia Bureau of Investigation Child Exploitation and Computer Crimes Unit at 404-270-8870.

NCSS test takers increased composite score on SAT in 2021

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Newton County School System (NCSS) SAT test takers posted outstanding results in 2021, increasing their total composite score by 43 points to 1035. Overall, NCSS students increased their Evidenced-Based Reading and Writing Score by 16 points to 529; math scores rose 27 points to 506. At the school level:

- Alcovy High School students increased their scores across the board in 2021, with their composite score soaring 44 points to 1018. Alcovy students increased their Evidenced-Based Writing by 24 points and their Math score by 19 points in 2021.
- Although Eastside High School saw a slight dip of two points on the Evidenced-Based Writing in 2021, their Math scores shot up 11 points which raised the school's composite score to 1086 in 2021, which surpassed the national test takers and Georgia's public school test takers.

- Newton High School students posted increases in every category in 2021. Their Evidenced-Based writing score increased 12 points and math shot up 29 points in 2021. As a result, the school's composite score saw a 40 point boost, going from 953 to 993.

The SAT is a national college entrance exam some colleges and universities utilize to measure critical thinking skills students need for academic success in college. The SAT assesses how well students analyze and solve problems. It is typically taken by high school juniors and seniors.

"I am very proud of the commitment and dedication of all of our students, teachers, and leaders," said Newton County School Superintendent Samantha Fuhrey.

"The last 18 months have been challenging for both our students and staff, and in spite of the obstacles, those students who took the SAT still posted a 43-point gain on the composite SAT score.

"Additionally, I want to recognize the students and staff at Eastside High School for surpassing the nation and their counterparts in Georgia's public schools! What a fantastic accomplishment!

"Our staff works hard to equip our students to be well-rounded and prepared for the future; therefore, we are reviewing our results to identify areas where we might make curricular and instructional adjustments to strengthen our students' academic experiences. These results, coupled with the PSAT, ACT, and Iowa results, help us to plan strategically as early as kindergarten," Fuhrey said.

excise taxes, which reach 8% in Covington. This is the same rate traditional hotels, taxis and retailers are taxed. The costs will be passed on to renters on their bills.

The lodging tax is projected to raise $17 million for the state in the 2022 fiscal year, according to a fiscal note produced by the state auditor. Local governments could receive a combined $20 million to $30 million annually from hotel excise taxes, according to the Association County Commissioners of Georgia.

Extended-stay rentals, which last more than 30 days, are exempt from the $5 per night lodging tax.

Turner confirmed there was another ordinance he had drafted that is currently being considered by city staff to further regulate short-term rental properties within the city, including the size of the properties. However, the ordinance approved Monday night only addresses the issue of marketplace facilitators paying taxes.

In other business, the council:

- Approved the adoption of an extension to increase the moratorium on the acceptance of zoning petitions and preliminary plat petitions for residential uses within the city to 180 days. The moratorium, unless further extended, will now expire Feb. 20, 2022.
- Approved a special use permit to allow a 227-unit townhome development in the Corridor Mixed District as part of the Neely Farms development to be located off Covington Bypass Road.
- Approved the final plat for Clark's Grove Phase 2b North Village.
- Approved licenses to sell alcoholic beverages to Tiffany's Hometown Buffet, Nitro 2 Go and The Wildflower Collective.
- Approved a resolution to initiate the process of adding Recreational Good Rental to the Use Table Chart in Chapter 16.16.020 Permitted Uses.
- Entered into an executive session for the purpose of discussing land acquisition.

Theme School to that building."

Michael Barr, Newton County School System's chief operations officer, said, "Although the school was originally set to open in January 2022, delays due to supply chain issues and labor shortages have resulted in a delayed completion date."

He added that the school system and general contractor RA-LIN and Associates Inc. "have worked to closely monitor conditions and make necessary adjustments as needed to ensure the project is completed as soon as possible," the news release stated.

Eastside High opened in 1994 to relieve Newton High School amid rapid growth in the county in the 1990s. It graduated its first senior class in 1998.

A 1% Special Purpose Local Option Sales Tax for Education (ESPLOST) that Newton County voters approved in 2018 is funding the project.

Newton County Board of Education approved the $59,479,353 construction contract with RA-LIN and Associates Inc. in December 2019. The school system hosted a groundbreaking ceremony in January 2020.

Its new facility will have a capacity for 1,650 students. The school system has not yet received bids for the renovation of the Eastside building for relocation of the Theme School, Partee said.

Newton County has operated theme schools since opening one each at Clements Middle and Fairview Elementary schools in 2009.

It subsequently closed the Clements location and moved the other to the former Ficquett Elementary School building adjacent to the school system headquarters in Covington in 2011.

Fuhrey said, "This project would not be possible without the support of Newton County residents, who overwhelmingly supported our school system's Special Purpose Local Option Sales Tax For Education (ESPLOST), which removes the financial burden from local property owners and distributes the cost to anyone who purchases goods in our community, including visitors.

"The funds collected through our one-penny ESPLOST directly contributed to both of these very important construction projects.

"I know the students who will attend both Eastside High School and the new Theme School in the years to come will be greatly appreciative of the community's support," she said.

a teacher with Albritton and called her the "biggest advocate and cheerleader for her students, school and department of anyone I've ever worked with."

LaTavia Turner-Williams, a former Newton County sheriff's deputy, worked as a school resource officer at Alcovy for five years and was a friend of Albritton.

She told The Covington News that one thing she will remember about Albritton is her smile.

"Her smile is one of the things that just lingers in my mind," she said.

Turner-Williams recalled Albritton as a "giving, loving" person as well.

"When I was out sick with COVID and my mom died from COVID, Sandie and (husband) Tim saw that me and my family went and/or needed nothing and I am forever grateful," Turner-Williams said in a post on social media.

While at Alcovy, Turner-Williams said she worked with Albritton to give seniors a little more recognition in 2020 as many students experienced school virtually because of the pandemic.

"She and I were both so involved with the kids at the school and I told her I wanted to make T-shirts for the seniors for graduation when COVID first started and the class of 2020 had to do virtual school," Turner-Williams said.

"We got into the groove and between the two (of) us, we made close to 600 shirts in (two to three) days and guess what? She never complained."

Albritton also helped Turner-Williams with a suicide awareness and prevention effort she established called #IMATTER.

"She became one of our committee members and nothing but love from there," Turner-Williams said.

Albritton also was a committee member for a nonprofit Turner-Williams now leads called The Opening of Closed Doors Inc., which teaches young women the value of knowing their self-worth.

The veteran math teacher had worked at Alcovy for five years and was one of the Senior Class advisors.

Albritton also served as a coordinator of the school's Advanced Placement program, which allows students to take college-equivalent courses while in high school.

Her lengthy experience as an educator included working at three other schools in the Newton County School System and in other school districts in three states, according to information from the Newton County School System.

Before Alcovy, Albritton worked as a math teacher at Clements Middle School, Indian Creek Middle School and Newton County Theme School.

Albritton also worked in the Davis School District in Utah; Fairfax County Public Schools in Virginia; and in the Houston County, Jasper County and Marietta City school systems in Georgia.

She earned a bachelor's degree from University of Texas at San Antonio; master's degree from Walden University in 2005; and Education Specialist degree from Georgia College and State University in 2009.

Settle public disputes or we'll all pay for hit to Newton County's image

It was October 2013 and the press release hit my email: a private company wanted to lease the entire, little-used airport in Paulding

County and offer commercial passenger service as part of a public-private partnership to develop the facility with aerospace-related industries. An Emory University graduate from New York led the company and his plan included small commuter and tourist airlines serving the airport, which would lead to his development of land around the airport for the industries to build and provide jobs. He had been turned down the year before for the same plan for Gwinnett County's Briscoe Field airport after protests funded by an unknown source sprang up. Commercial passenger service would have placed tiny Paulding Northwest Atlanta Airport near Dallas, Georgia, in direct competition with giant Hartsfield Jackson Atlanta International Airport and its main tenant, Delta Airlines.

Seemingly, all at once, protests sprang up — in a similar way as the year before at Briscoe Field — and Paulding County became the top story in Metro Atlanta for its fight against commercialization of the airport.

And in the county election the following year, voters elected a new majority of anti-commercial airport county commissioners who very publicly locked horns with the county chairman who backed the company's plan.

The constant conflict between the two sides during the next four years made great stories for TV news, which thrives on conflict.

Both sides were convinced they were right and representing the will of the people.

But the area they were governing was a low-wealth, bedroom community with the burden for paying for schools and basic services falling on homeowners.

It had tried for years to reverse self-serving leaders' mistakes of past years which resulted in little industrial development in the county — and 80% of residents leaving the county to find good-paying jobs.

The county in 2013 was still recovering from the housing market crash which triggered the Great Recession. Property taxes were rising annually to pay for services and the county badly needed economic development of any kind and weren't getting it.

What was going unnoticed, or ignored in some cases, was the damage constant public bickering between county officials was doing to Paulding County's image.

The county's image before 2013 was an area seemingly ripe for business development. Companies were looking toward Paulding, which hired a well-known industrial recruiter to bring them in.

Then the county commissioners began their very public displays of disharmony, including public insults, charges of conspiracies by elected officials and more.

The conspiracy theorists said individuals outside the county were fanning the flames of public conflict for their personal benefit. Nothing was ever proven despite some officials' claims.

Eight years later, the county still struggles to attract badly-needed industry that would broaden the tax base and help fund development of infrastructure needed to lure larger employers.

Its image was one of almost constant conflict in government — which is not what employers typically want when looking for new places to build.

They usually want an educated workforce, good availability of services like water, sewer, power and broadband; and a choice of building sites to accommodate their needs.

They don't want to feel like they are going into an area which does not have a fully functioning government whose leaders are mostly going in different directions.

Elected officials will publicly disagree on any government's direction from time to time — that's the nature of any governing body representing a widely diverse constituency.

But to prolong such conflict and increase it over time using social media only tells those outside your city or county you are not on the same page in your hopes for the future.

In my opinion, our elected leaders continuing to publicly spar for their own self-interests runs counter to the efforts of industrial and retail recruiters working to attract employers and industry here in Newton County.

It's time to settle simmering disputes and work toward a brighter future for Newton County — or face the prospect of being passed by for new industries to further broaden and diversify our tax base.

Stop the presses? Daily newspaper has been my window to world

When my local daily newspaper announced they were going all-digital, the response was fast and furious. Chattanooga has had a daily printed newspaper since 1869. For most of the 20th century there were two, and for a brief period, even three.

A 152-year-old habit is hard to break. Starting in June 2022, the Chattanooga Times Free Press will stop the presses, except on Sundays. On the other six days, subscribers must adapt to an online format the newspaper describes as "enhanced content."

The typeface can be enlarged with a pinch of the fingers. Some of the articles will include video, and color photographs. No more ink on your fingers, and no more stacks of recycled papers.

The newspaper will even provide an iPad for subscribers, and teach them how to use it. The publisher said in other cities, early skepticism from readers soon turned into widespread support.

For now, I'm seeing some resistance. Many readers say they don't mind the ink. They enjoy braving the elements to go out and fetch their paper.

Newsprint seems to blend well with coffee and toast. Solving a crossword puzzle isn't the same without a pencil (or a pen if you're really confident).

Many of us are now accustomed to reading news on our handheld or desktop devices. But there's something comforting about the tactile sensation of holding a newspaper, or perusing its contents as it rests on the dinner table.

Our refrigerator door is a showcase of comic strips and colorful photos that caught our eye. Our scrapbooks are filled with clippings of awards, engagement announcements, and columns that made us laugh.

It has not gone unnoticed that most newspaper readers are, well...how do I put this delicately, seasoned veterans of life. Sadly, many of the complaints about the Chattanooga paper's transition to digital begin with sentences like, "My 93-year-old mother won't know what to do."

Some older readers are expressing resentment and anger over the loss of a daily printed paper. "How am I supposed to know when my friends die?" one lady wrote. "First it was COVID, and I couldn't attend a funeral, and now this happens."

When younger people respond by saying, "Relax Granny, you just have to download an app on your smartphone or iPad," or, "It's much more consumer-friendly to digest the digital replica on your tablet," they might as well be quoting the scientific technobabble used by Sheldon on "The Big Bang Theory." It all sounds the same.

(You will not find many folks under 30 with ink on their fingers. You will, however find them wearing ear buds, with eyes aimed downward toward their tiny screen, unaware of oncoming traffic.)

Certainly not all elderly readers are afraid of the new challenge. My father loved his computer, buying and selling auto parts all over the nation. But my father-in-law refused to even touch a computer. He called it "That (expletive deleted) know-it-all." Occasionally, he would ask a question I couldn't answer. "What's the population of Guatemala?" I'd say, "Let me look it up."

"Oh," he would reply. "You have to ask your #%&# know-it-all!"

Although I can handle the basics of a digital device, this won't be easy for me. I am a newspaper addict. On vacation, I pack a roll of quarters, and I will track down the last paper rack in town. I'm the guy who grabs the newspaper you leave behind at the restaurant or the airport. I haven't yet dug one out of the trash can, but I've thought about it. How would it look to see a grown man, scavenging for the sports section? "That poor guy," onlookers would say. "He's probably hoping there are some fries wrapped up in that paper."

For decades the daily newspaper has been my window to the world. As a child, having the worldwide headlines dropped off in my rural driveway was like a daily miracle.

So why is my local paper shutting down the press six days a week? They hope a reduction in spending for ink, paper, and delivery will enable them to keep paying for journalists. They hope citizens will continue to support independent reporting.

Whether you're reading this column on paper or on a screen, be thankful for the newspaper in which it resides. It has overcome some serious obstacles. Subscriptions were once an added bonus in its bank account, overshadowed by advertising revenue and "the classifieds." Now, your annual contribution is its lifeblood. Please remember this. In many small towns and counties, local journalists serve as your only watchdog.

So however you get your news, renew your subscription, and support the advertisers. If you ever lose your local reporters, you lose much more than a companion for your coffee. You lose oversight and accountability. When that happens, we all lose.

Fun by the Numbers

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Eagles improve to 10-2 on season after weekend tournament, Rams fall to 10-11

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — In its inaugural matchup of 2021, the Eastside Lady Eagles defeated the Newton Lady Rams in a 2-1 defensive battle. Their matchup was part of the Morgan County Lady Dogs softball tournament in Madison.

In the first three innings of Saturday's contest, there was only one run scored, very few baserunners and no consistent offense from either side.

Then, in the bottom of the fourth inning, the Lady Eagles strung along some hits to score the decisive run.

Newton cut the lead in half with its at-bats in the top of the sixth inning.

Anglin walked up to the plate with Aaliyah Wilcox and Gerielle Dumervil on first and second, respectively. Facing a 2-1 count, Anglin singled to left fielder Jada Brown that scored Dumervil.

In the bottom half of the same inning, the Lady Rams got a one-two-three inning and did not allow a single baserunner. So, heading into the seventh inning, all Newton needed to do was score one run to prolong the contest or score two runs to earn the victory.

It posed a threat in doing so, too.

D'Myia Jackson was hit by a pitch placing her on first base. Immediately after, Hayden Pearson doubled on a pop fly to Stracner that advanced to third.

That put two runners in scoring position for Newton with Dumervil to bat next.

With a 2-2 count, Dumervil popped out in foul territory to third baseman Christina Grant that concluded the contest.

Both pitchers had notable execution on the mound.

Johnson earned the win going seven innings only allowing three hits, one run and walked two batters. She registered four strikeouts in the outing, too.

Pearson kept the game close with her six innings of work surrendering only four hits, two runs one of which was an earned run.

Impressively, she didn't walk anyone while striking out six batters.

Newton did pick up a couple of wins in the weekend tournament at MCHS.

Going 2-3 in two days, the Lady Rams defeated Ola High School 9-3 and Logan-ville Christian Academy 7-5. The three losses came, in addition to Eastside, against South Effingham and Dodge County.

The Lady Rams' record is 10-11 following the tournament.

Meanwhile, the Lady Eagles played in three games this past weekend.

They went 2-1 with their lone loss coming against South Effingham 4-1. Their second win was versus Houston County where they won 11-4.

Coming out of the weekend's action, Eastside sits at 10-2 overall.

All in all, it was a productive tournament for both teams. They each have a slate of games coming up that can be found in the Prep Softball Forecast below.

game, 16 total first downs, less than 200 total rushing yards and have held opposing quarterbacks to just a 29% completion rate.

On third down, their opponents have converted four times in 28 attempts (14.3%) and no one has yet to convert a fourth down try in four attempts. They've also blocked a PAT against Langston Hughes which helped win the game in Week One.

All of the defensive statistics include a regulation shutout and two forced safeties which have literally helped put points on the board.

No one player can be singled out for leading the effort on the defensive side of the ball, either. It's been a complete defensive dominance from the front four to the secondary.

Nolan McCamy has a team-high 26 tackles with four other Rams having 15 or more total tackles. Derrick Von-Hubbard leads the team with four sacks with Olan Robinson recording three tackles for loss.

Newton's lone turnover of the season came off a Nick Benton interception against Langston Hughes.

According to Grant, the entire team's identity has been centered around a strong defense.

"We're still defense first," Grant said. "That's who we want to be and stop people."

Offensively, the Rams have slowly progressed to producing better results on that side of the ball.

Through the first three games, Newton has tallied 900 rushing yards as well as 450 yards through the air. They're scoring an average of 24 points per game.

This past Friday, however, the Rams put together their best offensive performance thus far in 2021.

Against McEachern, they rushed for 398 yards on 45 attempts (8.8 yards per carry). They've officially pounded the ball by committee, too.

Rontravious Perry, Jehden Robinson, Zion Johnson and even quarterback Jevarra Martin Jr., have headlined the efficient rushing attack for the Rams.

According to Grant, having a multidimensional running game makes the Rams even more dangerous on offense.

"To be able to run the football the way we want to, it's very tough today to have one guy who can do that," Grant explained. "So, we're intentional to make sure we have several running backs who can carry the load."

Five weeks into the season, it seems as if both sides of the ball are gelling together at the perfect time, especially with region play beginning in two weeks.

Right now, the focus has been to keep the players' attention to detail to help improve upon this early season success.

As a matter of fact, Grant and his staff have given their team an interesting challenge moving forward. But, he believes, if the players answer the call, they can keep progressing throughout the season.

"One of the things we talked about in our meeting was, don't be afraid to be boring," Grant said. "Let's not deviate. Stay with the routine from the weight room, to watching film to the practice field. Let's just stay with our routine."

As a result of cancelling so many senior nights last year, I started a podcast that featured local senior athletes. It's called "The Senior Spotlight."

Undefeated Newton ranked for first time in 11 years

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — On Monday morning, the 3-0 Newton High School Rams learned some historic news.

Through Week Five of the regular season, the Rams come in ranked No. 9 in Class 7A standings released by Georgia High School Football Daily.

This is the first time in 11 years that a Newton football team has been ranked.

Head coach Camiel Grant Jr. realized the significance of being ranked, but said his team isn't letting that steal their focus.

"I know it's exciting for the kids, the community and the school," Grant said. "But the biggest challenge with any team sport is finding a way to enjoy success while, at the same time, stay hungry for where you want to go."

So far this season, the Rams have enjoyed lots of success in their non-region schedule.

And it all started with Newton's suffocating defense that has shut down opposing offenses for the most part. They've even lived up to their nickname, "Blue Swarm" by seeming to be all over the field all game long.

In the three wins, the Rams have only surrendered 11.3 points per

Resurrecting podcast to shed light on seniors

Last Tuesday night, I covered the Newton High School softball senior night where it honored its five seniors after the game.

The Lady Rams won 10-0 over South Gwinnett to help celebrate the occasion.

However, there was a moment between the final out and the first senior's recognition that was truly heart-warming.

Newton asked the seniors from South Gwinnett to meet its seniors at home plate for a presentation. Then, one by one, I saw D'Myia Jackson, Hayden Pearson, Sidney Lindsey, Katelynn Anglin and Chasidah Parker present the opposition's seniors with a special gift.

South Gwinnett's seniors were overjoyed and thanked Newton for thinking of them on "their night."

After Newton's seniors were recognized, I spoke to head coach Virginia Tucker-Smith about how the idea came about and I was even more impressed.

She told me that her team was on the receiving end of a surprise when Locust Grove hosted them for senior night. From there, Smith said her and the assistant coaches decided to make it a tradition for them.

It may sound like a small gesture, but it wasn't. They delivered a memorable moment for not only South Gwinnett, but for me as well.

There's always been something sacred about senior night and Newton reemphasized the significance of the occasion last week.

Because, when the moment occurred, my mind instantly went back to last year during the climax of the pandemic that stole a lot of teams' and players' senior nights. How devastating that was for the athletes I was covering at the time. I'm sure it ruined a lot of seniors' final season in Covington, too.

Senior night gives every athlete a moment to just embrace the love and admiration from the school, community and coaches.

That was taken away for most

$17.4 million Monticello Bypass construction project awarded

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

MONTICELLO, Ga. — Jasper County will soon have a new 3.4-mile two-lane Truck Route under construction located northeast of Monticello from State Route (SR) 16 to SR 83. The recently awarded $17,452,848 construction contract to E.R. Snell Contractor includes bridges over White Oak Creek and the Norfolk Southern Railroad.

It is forecast to reduce current truck traffic through the city by 10 to 20%. The typical sections consist of one 12-foot lane in each direction with 10-foot rural shoulders. The new intersections at SR 380/SR 16 and SR 83 will be roundabout designs (see below for preliminary layouts).

Once crews are on-site, completion is expected in Summer 2023.

Gov. Brian Kemp in spring 2021 announced the availability of $277 million in Coronavirus Response and Relief Supplemental Appropriations Act 2021 (CRRSAA) funds to the Georgia Department of

The new intersections at SR 380/SR 16 and SR 83 (pictured) will be roundabout designs, which could reduce current truck traffic through the city by up to 20%, according to GDOT engineers.

Transportation to fill in projected revenue gaps caused by the impacts of COVID-19. The CRRSAA was passed by Congress in December 2020.

These additional funds allow Georgia DOT flexibility to advance several strategic transportation improvements in predominantly rural areas in Jefferson, Jasper and Putnam counties among others outside the 27-county east central district. The Monticello Bypass advanced over one year on the construction delivery schedule by way of CRRSAA funds.

“I appreciate Governor Kemp’s recognition for crucial transportation developments in Georgia,” said State Rep. Susan Holmes (R-Monticello). “The bypass project alleviates growing traffic concerns throughout the city of Monticello and ensures that the distribution of consumer goods continues within our state.”

Georgia tax collection robust in August

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — The economic impact of the surging delta variant of COVID-19 has yet to be felt in Georgia.

Tax collections in the Peach State rose by 12.7% last month compared to August of last year, the state Department of Revenue reported Wednesday. Revenues are up 6.2% for the first two months of fiscal 2022, which began July 1.

Individual income tax receipts and sales tax collections for August showed similar healthy increases.

Individual income tax revenue rose by 13.9% partly due to a drop in tax refunds issued by the revenue agency.

Net sales tax collections were up by 11.7% compared to August of last year.

Corporate income tax receipts fell significantly, however, dropping by 134.7%, as refunds outstripped tax payments. Corporate income tax revenues typically are more volatile month to month than taxes on individuals.

Georgians paid 12.6% more in motor fuels taxes last month than in August 2020, no surprise considering the return of traffic to near-normal levels as businesses shut down during the pandemic reopened.

Drug price transparency could return as top legislative issue

By TIM DARNELL
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — Drug prices and who controls them could be back before the General Assembly this winter, as consumer advocates and pharmacy benefit managers remain at odds over issues such as drug price transparency.

Gov. Brian Kemp signed legislation last year tightening rules on third-party companies that play a role in negotiating pharmaceutical drug prices between insurers and local pharmacies in Georgia. The bill Kemp signed into law requires companies called pharmacy benefits managers (PBMs) to set drug prices within a national average, a move aimed at reining in excessively high prescription prices. PBMs act as go-betweens for prescribers and insurance companies that contract with health insurers to negotiate lower drug prices for patients. But critics have long accused them of muddying the process, prompting increases in drug prices and delays in filling prescriptions.

Now, pharmacies such as CVS are worried Georgia lawmakers, when they reconvene in January, may take further action on drug pricing.

“We are aware of efforts by some legislators to further explore drug pricing transparency,” said Leanne Gasaway, vice president of state government affairs at CVS Health. “Given the state’s enactment of PBM-related legislation nearly every year over the past decade, we would welcome the legislature to closely examine drug manufacturers’ role in drug pricing, including a notable lack of transparency in setting and increasing list prices.”

Ryan Hamilton, an associate professor at Emory Goizueta Business School, said price transparency typically causes drug prices to fall.

“The easier it is for customers to acquire price information, the greater the need for manufacturers to compete,” he said. “But the prescription pharmaceutical industry in the U.S. is so heavily regulated, those general rules may not apply.”

Hamilton said PBMs serve as an interface between drug manufacturers and pharmacies.

“Any measures to cut out middlemen from the equation are naturally going to cause protests,” he said.

Laura Colbert, executive director of Georgians for a Healthy Future, agreed the issues of drug prices and transparency, coupled with the role PBMs play in the equation, will come up again in January.

“Discussions over PBMs have been going on for several years, and the legislature seems pretty fired up over continuing that effort,” Colbert said. “But realistically, it’s hard to know if those savings are actually being passed along.”

One bill that will definitely carry over into January is HB 164: Prescription Drug Consumer Financial Protection Act. It would require health insurers to pass along at least 80% of all prescription drug rebates to enrollees.

BY JAY BOBBIN

A new version of "The Wonder Years" premieres Wednesday on ABC.

New characters live 'The Wonder Years' in ABC reboot

As a widely beloved, much-honored series gets a reboot, others live "The Wonder Years."

Though the original show's "Kevin Arnold" still is on board — since his portrayal, Fred Savage, is an executive producer now — Dean Williams is the central character, played by Elisha "EJ" Williams, in the new ABC version that premieres Wednesday, Sept. 22. The program still charts a youngster's coming of age in the late 1960s with his adult self as narrator (Don Cheadle's voice this time), but the formerly suburban setting has been changed to Montgomery, Ala.

"When you think of this time period in Black America, you don't really think of middle-class Black people," fellow executive producer Lee Daniels reasons. "You think 'impoverished'; you think of what the media portrayed us to be. This really sits with me and Saladin (K. Patterson, also an executive producer, who developed the new 'Wonder Years') because we are around the same age. This is our story, a story that hasn't been told to America."

As the 12-year-old whose eyes that time is reflected through, star Williams notes his mission is "giant, just trying to figure out how (people) maneuver, as well as just trying to learn what they learned in that time. Obviously, as history goes on, you're going to learn about what happened in those days. Now that I'm playing a character who lived in those times, it's more of an, 'OK, well, what is going on?' than an, 'OK, I remember our teacher telling us about it.'"

Dulé Hill (who also worked with Patterson on "Psych"), Saycon Sengbloh and Laura Kariuki play Dean's family (in the slots Dan Lauria, Alley Mills and Olivia d'Abo first had), while Milan Ray portrays Keisa, who is to Dean who the original iteration's Winnie (Danica McKellar) was to the long-admiring Kevin. Cheadle succeeds Daniel Stern as the comedy-drama's literal voice.

As suggested by his involvement in the new show, 1988-93 "Wonder Years" star Savage (often a TV director now) is comfortable with the changes to the initial concept, which earned the Primetime Emmy Award for outstanding comedy series for its first season.

"There's a lot of elements of this show that feel very comfortable and familiar, to me and to an audience as well," Savage says. "We're maintaining a similar tone, a similar blend of comedy and truth, the same idea of a narrator looking back on his youth with the wisdom of age ... but there are things that are incredibly unique about this show. The fact that it's a brand-new family and brand-new characters allows us to maintain some of the things we loved about the original, while also telling a wholly unique and new story."

Getting ready for fall on Food Network and Cooking Channel

It's football season, a time when the sports fan's thoughts turn to tailgating.

Food Network's "The Kitchen" is right there with them, and in the episode airing Saturday, Sept. 25, Geoffrey Zakarian is setting the stage with his upstate-style roast beef sandwich while Alex Guarnachelli gets in the spirit of the season with her apple hot toddy. Elsewhere Katie Lee Biegel hearkens back to her college days waiting tables with her Cincinnati-style chili, Sunny Anderson makes her grilled corn with Cajun trinity butter and Jeff Mauro tops things off with his giant peanut butter dark chocolate sea salt buckeyes. A spread suitable for any parking lot.

Elsewhere on Food Network, the season premiere of "Girl Meets Farm" on Sunday, Sept. 19, finds host Molly Yeh getting the day going with her hammy hot dish breakfast, followed a Mommy-and-me lunch consisting of her savory tomato basil soup with parmesan and bunny pesto cristos on the side. And for dessert, it's her mini princess cakes.

Saturday on "Guy's Ranch Kitchen," Guy Fieri is in the mood for a clambake, so Rocco DiSpirito stops by with his Southampton clambake in a can and his clam chowder jalapeno poppers to get things rolling. Jonathan Waxman offers up his seafood al cartoccio and a grilled zucchini and eggplant casserole with a pistachio pesto. And on the sweet side is a juniper-infused blueberry cobbler courtesy of Aarti Sequeira.

If it is Southern fare you crave, chef Kardea Brown has what you seek in Sunday's episode of "Delicious Miss Brown," as she hits the road to Atlanta to make her mom a meal consisting of New Orleans-style barbecued shrimp and grilled rubbed chicken with an Alabama white sauce paired with a rainbow carrot and fennel salad with apricots and washed down an unwind sangria.

Speaking of hitting the road, Andrew Zimmern is really getting out and about in the Monday, Sept. 20, edition of "Bizarre Foods: Delicious Destinations" on Cooking Channel, as he ventures to Santiago, Chile, to sample the iconic flavors and signature dishes of this culinary destination, such as Asado a la Parrilla, Pastel de Jaiba and Chacarero.

And on the Wednesday, Sept. 22, edition of Cooking's "Food Paradise," a delicious drink and a savory dish is the order of the day, which means comestibles such as a deep fried lobster mac and cheese, an oversized corned beef sandwich and a surf-and-turf po' boy are paired with libations like a liquid nitrogen margarita, a drink called a hurricane and all manner of craft beers.

Tarek El Moussa OF 'FLIPPING 101 WITH TAREK EL MOUSSA' ON HGTV

What are the things that frustrate you when coaching the rookie house flippers?

You know, it's just like Season 1. It's one of those things where I'm a professional house flipper. I've done almost 600 houses. I've been doing it on TV for 10 years and you would think by now people would trust my advice and listen to me but they still don't. And that's what I think makes the show exciting because it just shows at the end of the day people are different and they're going to do what they want to do. So it's just one of those things. And if they did take my advice on everything I advise them on, the show would be boring. So I would say that's one of the biggest things.

What do you love most about doing this?

For me, I've been a rookie flipper. I've been new to the business and I know how much real estate changed my life. I know that feeling of becoming a real estate investor and flipping a house and getting that feeling of accomplishment and honestly it's my favorite thing in the world and it's just the best feeling in the world. So for me, I'm just so excited, honestly, just to give back and watch someone else win in this industry and ... help them succeed and look at the smile on their face when they get that offer and they get that big payday that they never thought possible. You know, it gives me a chance to show someone that anything's possible.

Survivor

8 p.m. on WGCL

Previous "Survivor" editions traditionally have lasted 39 days, but as the show returns to Fiji for Season 41, its 18 new castaways must gear up for a 26-day game, which host Jeff Probst describes as "much more dangerous." He's not talking primarily about risks to life and limb, but rather to the much faster pace, which forces the players to make bigger decisions. In addition to former NFL athlete Danny McCray, this year's castaways roster includes a neurosurgeon, a rancher, a pastor, a flight attendant and several college students.

The Masked Singer

8 p.m. on WAGA

Preceded earlier this month by a half-hour preview special, this hit reality competition series officially launches Season 6 tonight and Tuesday, with host Nick Cannon welcoming returning panelists Nicole Scherzinger, Ken Jeong, Jenny McCarthy and Robin Thicke. Confirmed as guest panelists are will.i.am, Joel McHale, Leslie Jordan and Cheryl Hines. There's a significant change in the show's basic format, though, with just two featured groups of contestants, Group A and Group B. The winner of Group A will face off against the Group B winner in the season finale.

Alter Ego

9 p.m. on WAGA

Singers from all walks of life get a chance to be seen as the stars they've always wanted to be in this new reality competition series, in which the performers assume the physical appearance of motion-capture avatars as they perform their numbers. It's a combination of talent and technology, with the performances judged by a panel of judges that include Alanis Morissette, Nick Lachey, Canadian singer-songwriter Grimes, and will.i.am. Rocsi Diaz is the host.

That Girl Lay Lay
7:30 p.m. on NICK
Struggling to make her mark at school, Sadie (Gabrielle Nevaeh Green) starts to feel so lonely that she wishes Lay Lay, the avatar on her personal affirmation app, were a flesh-and-blood best friend. After Sadie officially makes that wish upon a star, her fantasy comes true in the form of a real companion (played by young rapper That Girl Lay Lay). The girls soon discover that together they can face any teen problem. Caleb Brown, Peyton Perrine III and Tiffany Daniels also star in this new comedy series.

Kids Behind Bars: Life or Parole
9 p.m. on A&E

What could drive a teenage boy to kill his father? Justin Long was just 15 when he snapped one day after years of corporal punishment and violently murdered his adoptive father, Hoyt. His adoptive siblings paint Justin as an inherently disturbed and violent young man who isn't fit to live in society at large. Justin, however, is pinning his hopes on getting a resentencing hearing and a chance to prove them all wrong.

The Hustler
10 p.m. on WSB

Host Craig Ferguson welcomes five new competitors to play this mind-bending and unpredictable show, in which the key to success lies in identifying and exposing which player is The Hustler. The other players will have to glean the information they need to do that from some of the clues provided to them. In the new episode "A Little of This, A Little of That," those clues include coffee beans, sausage and the Goo-Goo Dolls.

Law & Order: Organized Crime
10 p.m. on WXIA

After taking down Wheatley's (Dylan McDermott) drug empire and discovering the identity of his wife's killer, Detective Elliot Stabler (Christopher Meloni) prepares to infiltrate a notorious crime family scheming to take over New York's cocaine trade as Season 2 opens. Meanwhile, Sgt. Bell (Danielle Moné Truitt) is forced to work with a rival colleague when their investigations intersect. Ainsley Seiger guest stars in "The Man With No Identity."

tonight's PICKS

Will Smith

The War With Grandpa

7:25 p.m. on SHOW

Tim Hill's 2020 adaptation of a novel by Robert Kimmel Smith stars Robert De Niro as Ed Marino, a recent widower whose daughter Sally (Uma Thurman) persuades to move in with her family. When Ed reluctantly agrees to do so, he is given his grandson Peter's (Oakes Fegley) room, which forces Peter to move into the attic. Unhappy with this development, Peter embarks on a prank war he hopes will prompt his grandpa to leave. Rob Riggle, Cheech Marin, Jane Seymour and Christopher Walken also star.

Dynasty

8 p.m. on WUPA

Fallon, Sam and Kirby's (Elizabeth Gillies, Rafael de la Fuente, Maddison Brown) road trip to Los Angeles inspires a series of terrible ideas in "You Vicious, Miserable Liar," the first of two new back-to-back episodes. Elsewhere, Culhane (Robert C. Riley) is surprised by the outcome when he tries to fix Blake's (Grant Show) current mess. Then, in "Affairs of State and Affairs of the Heart," Alexis (Elaine Hendrix) confronts Dominique (Michael Michele) about her secret and proposes a deal, while Adam (Sam Underwood) calls in a favor from Sam.

I, Robot

10 p.m. on SYFY

If you're looking for a faithful adaptation of Isaac Asimov's short-story series, this is not it. If you're looking for an action-packed thriller with a likable hero, this 2004 offering won't disappoint. Set in 2035 Chicago, where people and robots coexist, it stars Will Smith as a homicide detective who defies authority to pin a murder on Sonny, a super-intelligent robot voiced by Alan Tudyk ("Resident Alien"). Bruce Greenwood, Chi McBride and Bridget Moynahan also star.

Luke Caldwell

The Zoo: San Diego

8 p.m. on ANPL

The staff at the Rhino Rescue Center turns out to welcome Arthur, a southern white rhino calf, in the new episode “Koala Boys.” Elsewhere, some koala joeys make a big move, while a young nyala must be hand-raised with personalized care before returning to its herd. Meanwhile, Connor the Malaysian tiger needs treatment for the strange nosebleeds that are a chronic problem for him.

Outgrown

8 p.m. on HGTV

In the new episode “Deploying a Renovation,” hosts Luke Caldwell and Clint Robertson try to help a family that includes two growing boys, whose sports equipment and apparently bottomless collection of toys is eating up space, even while Dad is away on a military tour of duty. Clint and Luke come to the rescue with some imaginative re-modeling ideas to find more space where none currently exists in the residence.

Thor: Ragnarok

8:15 p.m. on TBS

Director Taika Waititi earned almost universal critical praise with this 2017 Marvel superhero action blockbuster, chiefly for the way he and his cast refused to take themselves too seriously, delivering one of the most satisfying entries in the Marvel Cinematic Universe movie series. The story finds Thor (self-effacing hero Chris Hemsworth) trying to keep his terrifying older sister Hela (Cate Blanchett), the goddess of death, from destroying Asgard.

"The Simpsons"

Celebrity Wheel of Fortune

8 p.m. on WSB
Iconic hosts Pat Sajak and Vanna White return to open the sophomore primetime season of their long-running game show, now on a new night. Tonight's guests include Jason Alexander ("Seinfeld"), playing for Americans; Michael Mizanin, playing for Connor's Cure at the V Foundation for Cancer Research; and Cheryl Burke, playing for PhilDev, a Philippines-based non-profit.

The Simpsons

8 p.m. on WAGA
Kristen Bell makes a guest voice appearance in the Season 33 premiere, "The Star of the Backstage," in which Marge (voice of Julie Kavner) stages a revival of her beloved high school musical. The nostalgic glow of her happy memories is threatened, however, by the return of a rival from the past. Dan Castellana, Nancy Cartwright, Yearley Smith, Hank Azaria and Harry Shearer also are heard.

Chesapeake Shores

8 p.m. on HALL
After Evan (Robert Buckley) inadvertently throws his back out when he comes to the house, the injury forces him to spend a few days recovering on the O'Brien couch in the new episode "What's New?" What starts out as an inconvenience, however, winds up offering Evan a chance to connect with the family in a way Abby (Meghan Ory) never anticipated. Treat Williams, Barbara Niven and Brendan Penny also star.

A Professor's Vengeance

8 p.m. on LMN
Nicole Adams has a lot on her mind as she returns to graduate school to resume work on her degree, but a past affair she had with a married professor isn't at the top of that mental list. Unfortunately, someone else on campus has Nicole in his sights, and this individual knows all her secrets. He's also hellbent on ensuring she pays for what he says are her past transgressions. Lindsey Dresbach, Ross Jirgl, Crystal Day, Bryan Bachman and Kate Dailey also star in this 2021 melodrama.

The Big Leap

9 p.m. on WAGA

As auditions open for the leading roles of The White Swan, the Black Swan and the Prince, tensions quickly rise in the heat of the feverish competition for the spotlight in the new episode "Classic Tragic Love Triangle." Gabby (Simone Recasner) confronts Nick (Scott Foley) and accuses him of intentionally manipulating the process, while the producers catch Julia's (Teri Polo) husband speaking disparagingly of their marriage. Meanwhile, Mike (Jon Rudnitsky) accidentally blurts out a huge secret to Nick.

The Good Doctor

10 p.m. on WSB

In "New Beginnings," the Season 5 premiere of this hit medical drama, Shaun and Lea's (Freddie Highmore, Paige Sparda) engagement party has all their friends and colleagues in a festive mood after they return from Guatemala. Back to Life

10 p.m. on SHOW

In a new episode, Miri (Daisy Hag-gard) is absolutely convinced that John Boback (Adrian Edmondson) was the guilty party who drove into her. ## The Resident

8 p.m. on WAGA

When one of the doctors on the staff is found unconscious in an elevator at Chastain, his colleagues frantically try to re-trace his steps for clues to the cause of his condition in the new episode "No Good Deed." Meanwhile, Billie (Jessica Lucas) finds herself with a personal conflict as she comes face to face with a secret she has kept for many years. Elsewhere, Bell (Bruce Greenwood) helps Kit (Jane Leeves) make a decision about a new neurosurgeon joining the Chastain team. Vince Foster guest stars.

In Their Own Words

8 p.m. on WGTV

Fresh perspectives from family members, journalists, colleagues, biographers and admirers add layers to a candid look at former president Jimmy Carter in this new episode. After he failed to win a second term against Republican rival Ronald Reagan, Carter's presidency initially was viewed as a failure in some quarters. Since then, however, Carter has become a revered statesman and public figure who has fought for and won dramatic advances in equal rights, environmental conservation and global peace. Interviews include son Chip Carter and former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young.

Vanderpump Rules

9 p.m. on BRAVO

Lisa Vanderpump spent her time during the pandemic keeping her businesses afloat, but her restaurants finally have re-opened as this reality series returns for Season 9, allowing her to resume playing mentor and mother figure to both current and former employees. Tom Sandoval and Tom Schwartz have been focused on opening their own bar, but their partnership is imperiled when Sandoval clashes with Schwartz's wife, Katie Maloney-Schwartz. Elsewhere, new mother Scheana Shay is blindsided by a bombshell from her fiancé, Brock Davies.

TV superstar John Ritter made his mark in movies, too

Q: I was very touched by the recent ABC documentary about John Ritter. I know it made mention of "Sling Blade," but what were some of the other movies he did? – Sharon James, via e-mail

A: Ritter already had some movie credits before the sitcom "Three's Company" premiered in 1977, including the Charles Bronson police thriller "The Stone Killer" and the Peter Bogdanovich-directed "Nickelodeon." His television stardom brought him bigger theatrical-feature roles ... in fact, he played the U.S. president in "Americathon," and he also appeared in "Hero at Large," "Wholly Moses!" and another Bogdanovich project, "They All Laughed."

"Real Men" and director Blake Edwards' "Skin Deep" preceded the first really big movie hit Ritter had, "Problem Child" (which also was referenced on that ABC special by his second wife, actress Amy Yasbeck, whom he met while making that film). That logically led him into the sequel "Problem Child 2," which he followed with "Noises Off," "Stay Tuned" and "North."

Then came "Sling Blade," in an image-changing dramatic role devised for Ritter by writer, director and star Billy Bob Thornton (who had worked with him on the series "Hearts Afire"). Only a handful of other movies afterward, such as "Tripfall" and "Tadpole," made use of Ritter's more-serious acting skills before his very untimely passing in 2003. And along the way, he also starred in a great many made-for-TV movies, plus the miniseries of Stephen King's "It."

"There are so many subgenres of horror. Some are gorier than others, and some are more suspenseful and keep you on the edge of your seat. I don't really know why, but it seems to bring a sense of community around fears that we're coping with anyway."

– Diane Lane of "Y: The Last Man" on FX on Hulu

"It gives you fame, but it does not necessarily give you success. Success has to be earned, and you have to work for it really, really hard. Luckily, I had age on my side; I was 16 at the time of (that season's) finale, so I was able to invest years in building a career." – Lauren Alaina, seen recently in "Roadhouse Romance" on Hallmark Channel, about the effect of being an "American Idol" contestant
