The city's annual Fuzz Run, which helps support the Police Who Care Fund, returns this weekend for the 38th time. Last year's event was limited to a virtual-only setting, but Saturday's event will be in-person with a virtual option.

Covington police excited for 38th annual race set for Saturday

COVINGTON, Ga. — Lt. Allen Martin, of the Covington Police Department, said he can't wait for Sept. 11.

Thousands are expected to gather at Legion Field in Covington next Saturday for the 38th annual Fuzz Run, which is a race event held to raise money for the Police Who Care Fund.

As the race was originally intended, Martin said proceeds are used to support officers who were injured or families of officers killed in the line of duty. A few years ago, the fund helped Covington's own officer Matt Cooper after he was shot in the head while responding to a shoplifting call in September 2018. After undergoing several surgeries and intensive therapy, Cooper was able to return to duty in 2020. He said the community played a major role in his recovery.

"The community really stuck behind me in this whole process," Cooper told The Covington News in 2020. "I was not able to take care of my family, but guys came by, cut our grass and helped us with stuff. Just being there as another support really helped me out, and I'm proud of that."

Martin also said the Police Who Care fund had also been used to assist law enforcement officers and other first responders in need across the metro area.

Residents of Spring Valley Estates gather Saturday evening to honor the life of Diane Johnson, who was allegedly shot and killed by her husband the week before.

Neighbors say Newton woman's shooting death 'a shame'

COVINGTON, Ga. — To her Spring Valley Estates neighbors, Diane Johnson and her husband lived a relatively quiet life for the past decade in their subdivision home south of Porterdale.

"They kept to themselves," said Dorothy Piedrahita. "I would have liked to have been on a friendly basis with them."

Gwen Harrison recalled her neighbor was always "come and go" and kept her vehicle in a garage with a door that always shut behind her.

She said she saw Diane Johnson Aug. 21 and complimented her on the appearance of her front yard — one of many in the well-manicured neighborhood.

"We talked about what beautiful flowers she had," Harrison said.

Harrison and Piedrahita spoke before a "gathering" of neighbors Saturday, Sept. 4, to honor Johnson, a Rockdale County schools nursing assistant who was shot and killed in her home a few steps from the two neighbors' homes recently.

Her husband, Albert Johnson, 70, allegedly used a handgun to shoot and kill her in their home near the end of the cul-de-sac on Spring Valley Way.

The suspect then traveled to the Savannah area where he reportedly turned himself in to Chatham County sheriff's deputies Aug. 28 — at about the same time a Newton County deputy discovered the crime described in an incident report as non-negligent or voluntary manslaughter in which a handgun was used.

Neighbors of the Johnsons gathered with Sheriff Ezell Brown Saturday night to honor Mrs. Johnson's life and acknowledge how widespread domestic abuse is in Georgia and Newton County.

Kemp directs $5.8 million to tourism

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
news@covnews.com

ATLANTA — Gov. Brian Kemp recently announced the allocation of $5.8 million in federal coronavirus relief funds to Explore Georgia, the tourism division of the Georgia Department of Economic Development (GDEcD). Kemp shared the news with tourism industry professionals from across the state Sept. 1 at the Georgia Governor's Tourism Conference, an annual industry event. During the event, the governor applauded the industry's success and recognized the impact of travel and tourism on the state.

"I'm incredibly proud of the resilience of our tourism industry," Kemp said. "While we still have a long way to go to full recovery, the fact that Georgia's tourism industry saw gains during such a difficult year is astonishing and I am committed to ensuring we maintain this positive momentum."

Covington woman killed in Athens crash

By TOM SPIGOLON
tspigolon@covnews.com

ATHENS, Ga. — A Newton County woman was killed in a two-vehicle wreck Wednesday, Sept. 1, in Athens after her vehicle made contact with another while both traveled the same direction.

Dianna Brown, 50, of Covington died in the wreck on Georgia Outer Loop Hwy. 10, Athens-Clarke County Police Department reported on its Facebook page.

Athens officers responded at approximately 7:19 a.m. to the two-vehicle crash on the highway at an overpass of Milledge Avenue.

“Initial investigation revealed that a Chevrolet Tahoe and a Ford Taurus made contact while traveling in the same direction on the Ga. 10 Loop. The Tahoe subsequently overturned and came to a rest on its roof,” a news release stated.

Brown, the driver of the Tahoe, died as a result of injuries sustained in the crash, while the driver of the Taurus was transported by EMS to an Athens hospital with non-life-threatening injuries.

Anyone who may have witnessed this crash was asked to call 762-400-7355 or via email at dustin.tilley@accgov.com.

The National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACAA) recognized Newton County’s Extension equine newsletter, “The Leading Rein”, as the National Winner in the Communication Award category. The NACAA is a professional organization for Extension professionals to encourage excellence and professionalism in their work; improve effectiveness of Extension programs; provide assistance for agents to seek and participate in professional improvement opportunities, and recognize and promote superior achievement. Ashley Best, the Newton County Agricultural and Natural Resource Agent, has always had a passion for equine. She saw a need and teamed up with Brooklyne Wassel from Pike County. Many equine owners in Georgia rely solely on veterinarians, industry professionals, or other equestrian enthusiasts for production information and advice as they are unaware of the expansive equine Extension resources available. team of University of Georgia Extension Agents collaborated to develop “The Leading Rein”, a quarterly newsletter for Georgia horse owners and professionals across all equestrian disciplines. The purpose of “The Leading Rein” is to provide equine owners timely, research-based, and unbiased information about general equine ownership and has rotating articles on forage management, reproduction, nutrition, and 4-H horse programs for youth. Two permanent segments include the “Tack Corner”, which is a discussion of tack and equipment, and the “Mark Your Calendar”, a list of upcoming events and trainings through brief explanations and clickable links to register or learn more. Quarterly articles are authored by Ashley Best, Newton County, Brooklyne Wassel, Pike County, Caitlin Jackson, Monroe County, and Brenda Jackson, Murray County, in addition to occasional scholarly contributions from UGA Extension Specialists. Each newsletter is proofread by contributing agents and specialists before being distributed electronically via both social media and an email list of equine owners and professionals. Issues of “The Leading Rein” were published in September 2020, December 2020 and March 2021 and distributed to over 2,000 people per issue. # Rights groups push for redistricting maps reflecting growth of minorities

By DAVE WILLIAMS
Capitol Beat News Service

ATLANTA — The new congressional and legislative district maps the General Assembly will draw this fall should reflect the tremendous growth of minority groups in Georgia, representatives of civil rights and voting rights groups said Monday.

The state’s Black, Hispanic and Asian-American populations increased by double digits during the last decade, while Georgia’s white population declined by 1%, Christopher Bruce, policy director for the American Civil Liberties Union of Georgia, told members of the state House and Senate committees overseeing redistricting.

The federal Voting Rights Act prohibits redrawing maps in a way that dilutes minority voting power, added Sean Young, the ACLU of Georgia’s legal director.

“When you’re looking at a map, are you making it harder for communities of color to elect a candidate of their choice?” Young said. “The Voting Rights Act trumps everything other than the U.S. Constitution.”

States must redraw their congressional and legislative district lines every 10 years to account for population shifts reflected in the U.S. Census.

The Census Bureau released local data from the 2020 Census earlier this month. The Republican-controlled General Assembly will use that data to redraw Georgia’s district boundaries during a special session this fall.

Voting rights advocates and civil rights groups representing Black, Hispanic and Asian-American voters urged lawmakers Monday to engage in a transparent redistricting process that will lead to fair maps. That was essentially the message the two committees already heard during 11 public hearings held across the state in recent weeks.

To ensure transparency, the committees should allow additional hearings after proposed maps have been drawn, let the public submit alternative maps, and provide relevant materials in a language other than English, said Lavita Tuff, policy director for Asian Americans Advancing Justice-Atlanta, which represents by far Georgia’s fastest growing minority group.

“Georgians want a fair redistricting process that results in maps that respond to the needs of citizens ... [and] that do not confer partisan advantage,” said Julie Bolen, redistricting chair for the League of Women Voters of Georgia. “Secrecy intensifies public mistrust of public elected officials at a time it’s already at a low.”

Sachin Varghese, general counsel for the Democratic Party of Georgia, said that’s not what happened in 2011 when Republicans were in charge of redistricting. He said GOP lawmakers moved Black voters out of Georgia’s 12th Congressional District to make it easier to elect a white candidate and paired Black legislative incumbents with other incumbents, creating more uncompetitive districts elsewhere.

But Sen. Bill Cowser, R-Athens, said Georgia’s 2011 redistricting maps were approved by then-President Barack Obama’s Justice Department and were never challenged in court. The same was not the case in 2001, when Democrats held majorities in the legislature, Cowser said.

“The last time the Democrats drew these districts in Georgia, they were extremely gerrymandered,” he said. “The Republican Party has handled redistricting one time in the last 100 years, and the maps were found to be fair, legal and constitutional.”

Varghese responded that he disagreed with the Obama administration’s decision on the 2011 maps, and they should have been challenged.

Janet Grant, vice chairman of the non-partisan nonprofit Fair Districts Georgia, conceded the legislature faces a difficult job balancing the need to maximize minority voters’ opportunities to elect candidates of their choice with keeping cities, counties and other “communities of interest” together.

loons they and about 10 others later released to show support for Mrs. Johnson and all domestic violence victims.

Brown told the gathering statistics also show 68% of victims in family violence incidents reported to law enforcement were female in Georgia — though 39.9% of Georgia men had experienced physical violence, sexual violence or stalking from intimate partners. He also said children were present during deaths following domestic violence in 42% of cases studied in Georgia.

"Domestic violence, not only does it affect one family, it affects the entire community," Brown said. "We're doing all we can to fight domestic violence."

According to the Georgia Commission on Family Violence, Georgia saw 136 die in domestic violence incidents in 2020 — ranking it 22nd in the nation for its rate of men killing women. That was a drop from 2019 when 166 died in domestic violence cases, ranking the state 10th in the U.S. More than 29,000 temporary protective orders were issued in 2019 alone, the Commission reported.

Piedrahita wore a shirt in support of Project ReNeWal, a domestic violence intervention program and shelter for victims that serves Newton, Rockdale and Walton counties.

She said she is a former social worker and found that, "Sometimes, people will not ask for help."

However, she said if Albert Johnson is guilty of the crime he is "where he should be."

Another neighbor, Wanda Michaux, lived closer to the neighborhood entrance off Georgia Hwy. 162. She said she did not know the victim but wanted to show her support, as well.

She said this was the first time she had experienced anything like her neighbor's murder in Spring Valley Estates — though she had heard about such incidents while living on a military base in Guam.

"I don't feel like she deserved it," Michaux said. "It's just a shame."

that I will be directing $5.8 million in federal coronavirus relief funds to the tourism industry here in the Peach State. This funding will help Georgia's travel and hospitality industry compete in a highly competitive marketing landscape, and ensure visitors and Georgia residents alike have the Peach State on their mind for their next destination."

Like other destinations around the world, Georgia experienced COVID-19 pandemic-related losses in travel spending, tourism jobs, and overall economic impact from the industry. However, overall visitation in 2020 nearly matched the record number of travelers in 2019. Domestic overnight and day trips to and within Georgia totaled 151.8 million visits, helping mitigate lost visitation from meetings, conventions, and international markets. For the year, Georgia gained significant market share nationally, rising from number 7 in 2019 to number 5 in 2020 among all 50 states for overnight visitation.

The impact of this visitation on Georgia's economy supported more than 410,000 jobs across the state and created a total economic impact of $53.72 billion in 2020. Explore Georgia's Explore Georgia from Home campaign, which ran during the height of the pandemic in 2020, recently won a top award from the U.S. Travel Association.

The Mercury Award for Virtual Programming was presented on August 17 in recognition of the state's innovative marketing campaign to keep Georgia on travelers' minds.

During the event, Kemp also announced a new slate of appointments to the Georgia Tourism Foundation Board of Directors. The group of top-level executives and business owners from across Georgia's tourism and hospitality industry will collaborate with GDEcD and Explore Georgia leadership to drive innovative and entrepreneurial strategies designed to further enhance Georgia's position in the global travel marketplace.

"This announcement underscores Governor Kemp's commitment to a complete recovery of the state's tourism sector," said GDEcD Commissioner Pat Wilson. "Georgia is a beautiful, diverse state, and despite the challenges of the last year, with additional funding and the opportunity for collaboration with the new members of the Georgia Tourism Foundation Board of Directors, there are optimistic signs that point to a tourism industry well-positioned for future success."

Year to date, the industry continues to see recovery above 2020 numbers thanks to Georgia's diversity of tourism product, balanced seasonality, and the state's tourism recovery marketing campaign titled, Ready. Set. Georgia.

While other destinations across the nation saw a sluggish rebound in website traffic after March 2020, the state's travel website has far exceeded the competition. ExploreGeorgia.org has recorded 15 consecutive months of record-breaking traffic, with more than 11 million visits in fiscal year 2021 (July 2020-June 2021), an increase of 59 percent year-over-year.

"The leadership of Gov. Brian Kemp and the General Assembly has given our tourism industry the license to operate," said Mark Jaronski, Deputy Commissioner of Tourism at GDEcD. "We're not immune to the challenges faced by destinations across the globe, but we have been successful in maximizing the travel business that does exist and leveraging it to grow Georgia's share of domestic travel and economic position."

The Georgia Governor's Tourism Conference, presented by Explore Georgia, is an annual three-day event for tourism professionals. As the first in the country, the Georgia Governor's Tourism Conference is the state's leading tourism industry event with a track record of providing attendees the opportunity to gain access to world-class marketing strategies and leadership lessons from global experts and industry thought leaders.

Sights and sounds of fall return

September has arrived and like magic the turning of the calendar instantly conjures up images of fall.

Last week I found a new edition of a magazine in my mailbox which spotlights the outdoors and the cover was truly breathtaking. Snapped in the Ozarks, the picture was bright with every fall color one could imagine. Yellow. Orange. Brown. Red. Every color associated with fall symbolically jumped off the cover, helped by being printed on high gloss paper.

For myself, I actually put up my outside fall decorations in recent days. I know fall is not officially here yet, but we are close enough.

While I am a fan of summer, by the time we reach September there is usually a longing for fall. Most of us enjoy seeing the fall colors, especially those seen in the North Georgia mountains and beyond. There's something mentally recharging about seeing the scenes of the new season.

For many of us, the start of fall means the start of a new football season. From high school to college to the pro ranks, the countdown to a new gridiron season goes hand-in-hand with counting down to fall.

High school football season, it should be noted, starts way too early now. Games in mid-August make no sense and put players at a greater degree of injury – from dehydration if nothing else. High school football should not begin until the first week of September. The earlier and earlier starts to seasons needed to be stopped.

The arrival of fall will mean plenty of festivals and other outdoor events which can be enjoyed more since the weather is not on the extreme side.

Some of my favorite childhood recollections were attending fall events at my school including football games, fall festivities and other functions. The best events were always the ones which took place outside after the summer heat had finally broken.

Many people I know enjoy using the changing of the seasons to make treks to Tallulah Gorge or Helen or even Cherokee, N.C. or Gatlinburg, Tenn. I've been to all of these destinations and hope one day to return.

When we are younger the arrival of fall also means the start of a countdown to Thanksgiving and Christmas. Thanksgiving is probably the ultimate fall holiday as it signals the pinnacle of the season.

Another benefit of fall is seeing the effort many people put into decorations for their homes and yards. From hay bales to pumpkins to nicely designed door wreaths, decorating for fall is probably second only to Christmas.

Fall, to me, has always been good for replenishing the body and soul. Hopefully it does the same for you. It's funny how the simple date on a calendar (this all occurred to me last week as we reached Sept. 1) can help change your state of mind.

I'll see you at the football field or maybe a festival or two. Hopefully I won't get lost in a corn maze. Even if I do, it will still be enjoyable to take in the sights, sounds and bright colors of fall.

Beauty of rivalries

Rivalries are a huge part of sports. In my opinion, rivalries bring about another dimension of sports.

But, the minute any rivalry becomes disrespectful and ugly, that is when rivalries can turn sour for me.

High school football is no exception.

On Friday night, I covered my first ever "Newton Cup" game between Newton and Eastside. It is a storied rivalry that has seen these two teams play 19 times now.

In this year's edition, the Rams defeated the Eagles 27-7. It was the third straight year that Newton has triumphed over Eastside.

Going into the game, I fully expected high emotion, chippy moments and a scrappy battle on the gridiron. That held true through the duration of the contest.

As a result of the intense matchup, there were a lot of errors made on both sides.

There's something that each team got right in the end: sportsmanship.

When the stadium was left empty, I looked around and saw opposing coaches and players talking, laughing and taking pictures with one another.

Eastside stuck around with Newton and, it seemed to me, that Eastside just wanted to hang out with its crosstown foe.

Earlier, as the final seconds ticked off the game clock, Newton's sideline started to celebrate. All at once, I heard a coach yell "Let's win with class!"

Both teams delivered a truly heart-warming end to the night.

To me, that's the beauty of a rivalry.

As a Georgia Tech football fan, my favorite college football rivalry is, "Clean Old-Fashioned Hate" featuring Georgia against my Yellow Jackets. The reason is because of the "clean" part of the name.

No other college rivalry has a part like that included in its title. And, in recent years, the rivalry has stayed clean.

Just like Friday night, there's been fierce competition between the two schools but, overall, the Yellow Jackets and Bulldogs have kept it civil on and off the playing field.

I was glad to see that between Newton and Eastside, too.

Even after playing a game that both teams wanted to win desperately to help its chances of claiming the "Newton Cup," they each maintained their composure in the end.

That's the beauty of a rivalry to me.

Yes, there'll be intense moments and words exchanged but, as long as the respect remains, the rivalry is preserved.

20 years later: What we learned from 9/11 attacks

The events of September 11, 2001 are so fresh in my mind. It's hard to believe that today's high school seniors were not even born when terrorists took so many lives, and changed our world forever.

A few years ago, I was asked to speak to a group of high school students about 9/11. I thought it might be helpful to show video of the news coverage from that morning, as it was broadcast live on NBC's Today Show. When the first plane hit the north tower of the World Trade Center in New York City, we all hoped and prayed it was just a random accident.

Seventeen minutes later, our worst fears came true. Another hijacked plane crashed into the south tower. This was no accident. America was under attack, in its busiest, most populated city. The news cameras captured it all: the smoke, the debris, the brave rescuers, the horrified onlookers and survivors. The images were gruesome, then and now.

Looking at the student audience, I was stunned by their reactions. To my surprise, many of them were seeing this for the first time. Many were visibly shaken, and began to sob. I'm sure they had heard the term "9/11," but perhaps they felt it was ancient history. I guess it's not all that different from how many of us learned about the Civil War, or the Great Depression. Sad events, to be sure, but with the passage of time, they became black-and-white pictures in a history book.

As the video revealed the images of the later attacks and tragedies of 9/11, from the Pentagon to Pennsylvania, all of which happened within a 90-minute time frame, we had all seen enough. It was time to discuss what we've learned, and how our lives had changed since that terribly dark day.

1. We are a good nation. Our people came together. We showed we can overcome our differences during times of great need. Churches, businesses, neighbors and strangers helped pick up the pieces of so many broken lives. As for our first responders, many of whom made the ultimate sacrifice that day, we can never thank them enough.

2. We are a strong nation. We sent a message in the aftermath of 9/11: We told the world we would defend the freedom for which our parents, grandparents, and previous generations had fought.

3. Kids care. It was heart-warming, and life-affirming to see so many young people wave the flag, send cards and letters to police officers and firefighters, and collect money for those who had lost everything. For elementary and middle school students in particular, they were reacting to the unsettling events in a nation where they had once felt so safe. Those kids are adults today. They haven't forgotten.

4. History is important. Now, more than ever, with the tools that are available, young people must learn about the world, and how we got to this point. I often regret that I paid less attention to world history than other subjects in school. You may not approve of other countries' religions and cultures, but it helps to understand why they believe as they do.

5. We should be thankful for every day. Almost three thousand Americans lost their lives on 9/11. Most of them were just regular folks, at work or on a plane. Their day started out like any other. In the blink of an eye they were gone, leaving behind grieving spouses, children, and parents. We all started hugging our children more often, telling them we love them.

My most vivid memory was on the evening of 9/11, comforting my sons, who were then 14 and 11. They were "big boys," so to speak, unafraid to swing at a fast ball or swim in the deep water. But that night, they were very small in a large, terrifying world. "Is our school safe?" "Will the terrorists return tomorrow, or even while we're sleeping?" "What will be their next target?"

I gave my most fatherly, reassuring answers. "We'll be all right. The worst is over. Soon, everything will be back to normal." Of course, I was faking it. I had no idea. I was just as worried as they were.

It's never really been back to normal, as anyone who has passed through security at an airport or a ball game can testify. We've been forced to live our lives more cautiously, with uncertainty lurking everywhere we go.

If your children or grandchildren view the events of 9/11 as ancient history, make sure they understand the loss, the sacrifice, and the lessons of that day. We're still standing 20 years later, but we should never forget.

And sadly, as we face a different deadly crisis today, we are anything but united. I will never understand that.

Fun by the Numbers

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Newton and Alcovy faced each other in softball for the first time this season with Newton winning 7-1 on Sept. 3 at Alcovy's softball field.

Lady Rams take down Alcovy

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. - The Newton High School football team wasn't the only one who enjoyed a victory over a cross-town rival on Friday. The Lady Rams defeated the Alcovy Lady Tigers on the softball diamond 7-1. This was the first matchup between the two schools in 2021. After both teams went scoreless in the first inning, Newton's offense got going in the second. In an inning in which the Lady Rams scored five runs, Kyla

Stroud provided the separation on a home run. Facing an 0-2 count with two outs, the Auburn-commit drilled a four-run shot that cleared the center field fence. Stroud's home run extended the Lady Rams' lead 5-0. Alcovy scored its one run of the game in the bottom of the fifth inning. CeCe Williams tripled on a line drive to right field that scored Kaitlyn Williams. But, by the time Kaitlyn Williams crossed the plate, Newton's lead was firmly intact. Hayden Pearson earned the win as the starting pitcher on the mound for Newton. She went seven innings, allowing seven hits, one earned run and one walk. In Friday's win, Pearson also struck out six batters in the outing. CeCe Williams was the leader for Alcovy. She went 3-for-4 at the plate while also recording one RBI. Newton's win against Alcovy brings its record back to .500 at 5-5 overall. On the other hand, Alcovy now drops its third straight game and goes to 5-4 overall.

County rivals Alcovy and Eastside are set to face off Friday night in Homer Sharp Stadium for 16th time. The Eagles lead the series 12-3 with Alcovy's last victory coming in 2013.

Eastside looks to rebound against Tigers

By PHILLIP B. HUBBARD
phubbard@covnews.com

COVINGTON, Ga. — Homer Sharp Stadium will be packed again this Friday night with Alcovy and Eastside's annual matchup on the gridiron. Traditionally, this rivalry has belonged to the Eastside Eagles who have won 12 of the 15 all-time matchups. However, since head coach Jason Dukes took over at Alcovy, the gap between the two teams has drastically shortened. In the year prior to Dukes' arrival, the Tigers lost by 28. When the Tigers squared off against the Eagles in 2019, though, the final deficit was half of 2018's final deficit. Alcovy lost by 14 points in Dukes' first year and, last year, lost by only three points. Could Alcovy finally get over the hump and defeat the Eagles for just the fourth time ever and for the first time since 2013? Eastside will have something to say about that. The Eagles aren't just going to lie down and surrender their seven-game winning streak. In the past seven games, Eastside has outscored Alcovy 225-87 which results in an almost three touchdown point differential overall. And, while Jay Cawthon is in his first season as the Eagles' head coach, he has been the offensive coordinator for the past 16 years. So, he does have experience in this rivalry game. Cawthon and his team's experience should pay dividends for the Eagles entering Friday's contest. Sept. 3 will mark another chapter in this rivalry that originated in 2006. It'll be up to both the Tigers and Eagles to see the storyline unfold at Sharp Stadium. The Covington News will be on-hand providing live updates on Twitter as well as complete game coverage. Check back in Saturday's newspaper for the full recap of Friday's game.

COVINGTON, Ga. — Since the COVID-19 pandemic began more than one year ago, it is no secret that small businesses have been put in a pinch. That's why the Newton County Chamber of Commerce is rolling out a new campaign, simply called "Save Small Business – Take the Pledge."

In conjunction with the Rockdale County Chamber and local businesses, Newton County Chamber President Debbie Harper was scheduled to officially announce the campaign's kickoff Tuesday night as she spoke to the Covington City Council and the Newton County Board of Commissioners.

"Small businesses are the backbone of our community," Harper said. "They need our support."

In another form of announcing the campaign, Harper recently sat down with Lorraine Harrison of About Marketing and Brenda Landers of High Priority Plumbing to film a promotional video and discuss the campaign.

jumpstart the campaign, recalled how the idea came about.

"I was literally sitting at my computer, about to order [coffee] from Amazon ... and something told me, 'Why are you ordering this from Amazon when the coffee shop up the street has coffee beans that are just as good as what you're ordering?'" she said. "And it hit me that during the pandemic we couldn't get out we couldn't go any place, so we got in the habit of ordering online. But now that our small businesses are back open and we can get out, we need to get out of the Amazon habit and buy from our local small businesses."

That's when she called on the local chambers and presenting sponsor High Priority Plumbing to put a program together.

As part of the campaign, Harrison said people are asked to take a pledge to make a purchase from a small business once a week for at least a 10-week period.

"You know, they're seeing the light at the end of the tunnel, but they need our help now," Harrison said of small businesses.

Besides the gratification of helping local businesses stay afloat, another incentive for taking the pledge and shopping small is a chance at prizes. Anyone participating in the Save Small Business campaign can log their purchases on a special business card that can be found at the chamber and be entered to win a gift card from a local restaurant.

Shoppers are also encouraged to post pictures of their purchases to social media with the hashtag "#SAVESMALLBIZ."

In addition to the campaign, small businesses may also enter to win a $5,000 SCB Video TV Marketing package giveaway sponsored by High Priority Plumbing.

Landers said High Priority Plumbing was thrilled to be a part of the campaign and looked forward to the positive results it could bring to the community.

"We just think together we can make such a difference," Landers said. "After all we've been through this year, we don't want to lose even one more small business."

Harrison said a Small Business Expo was scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 23, from 5-7:30 p.m. at the Randal S. Mills Pavillion in Conyers. Harper said a similar event in Newton County was being planned for October and specific details would be released once finalized.

Survey: Two-thirds of business travelers to reduce trips amid rising COVID-19 cases

news@covnews.com

WASHINGTON — U.S. business travelers are scaling back travel plans amid rising COVID-19 cases, with 67% planning to take fewer trips, 52% likely to cancel existing travel plans without rescheduling, and 60% planning to postpone existing travel plans, according to a new national survey.

The survey was conducted by Morning Consult for the American Hotel & Lodging Association (AHLA), which is the sole national association representing all segments of the U.S. lodging industry.

Despite an uptick in leisure travel over the summer, the new survey highlights the dim outlook for business travel and events, which account for more than half of hotel revenue and aren't expected to return to pre-pandemic levels until 2024.

The lack of business travel and events has major repercussions for employment both directly on hotel properties, and in the broader community. Hotels are expected to end 2021 down nearly 500,000 jobs compared to 2019.

For every 10 people directly employed on a hotel property, hotels support an additional 26 jobs in the community, from restaurants and retail to hotel supply companies — meaning an additional nearly 1.3 million hotel-supported jobs are also at risk.

The survey of 2,200 adults was conducted Aug. 11-12, 2021. Of these, 414 people, or 18% of respondents, are business traveler — that is, those who either work in a job that typically includes work-related travel or who expect to travel for business at least once between now and the end of the year. Key findings among business travelers include the following:

- 67% are likely to take fewer trips, while 68% are likely to take shorter trips;

- 52% say they are likely to cancel existing travel plans with no plans to reschedule;
- 60% are likely to postpone existing travel plans until a later date;
- 66% are likely to only travel to places they can drive to.

The survey also tested attitudes among 1,590 people (72% of respondents) who are likely to attend large gatherings, meetings, and events — all key drivers of hotel revenue. Findings among those respondents include:

- 71% are likely to attend fewer in-person events or gatherings;
- 67% are likely to have shorter meetings or events;

- 59% are likely to postpone existing meetings or events until a later date;
- 49% say they are likely to cancel existing meetings or events with no plans to reschedule.

According to a recent Deloitte survey, corporate travel is projected to remain at only 30% of 2019 levels through the end of 2021. This lack of corporate travel would cost the hotel industry an estimated $59 billion in 2021, according to leading economists, underscoring the need for targeted federal relief such as the Save Hotel Jobs Act.

There are a few tricks campers can try as they attempt to create a well-balanced, nutritious and delicious campfire meal.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

Nature enthusiasts often cherish the time they get to spend around a campfire. Whether you're telling scary stories, having a few drinks after a long hike or just relaxing and gazing up at a starry sky, time spent around a campfire is a unique experience that can make for an ideal getaway from the hustle and bustle of daily life.

There's much campers can do around a campfire, and that includes cooking. Campfire cooking may not require campers to learn advanced techniques practiced by their favorite celebrity chefs. However, there are a few tricks campers can try as they attempt to create a well-balanced, nutritious and delicious campfire meal.

- Create a menu and gather ingredients ahead of time. No one wants to take a spice rack with them into the woods. But that doesn't mean campfire cooking has to lack seasoning and other special touches that are easy to add when cooking at home. Make meal planning part of your pre-trip preparation. Measure out ingredients ahead of time and store spices and other items in their own sealed and labeled ziplock bags.

- Pack some fresh ingredients as well. Fresh ingredients like garlic cloves can be brought along without taking up much space. Vegetable lovers can chop their greens the night before their trip and store individual servings in their own labeled ziplock bags to ensure fireside meals are as nutritious as they are delicious.

- Bring some small tools along. Small cooking tools that won't take up much space can be brought along to up the flavor factor even more. For example, a garlic press is about the size of a screwdriver and can be used to peel, crush and mince fresh cloves. The garlic can then be added to the pan in which you're sauteing some fresh vegetables for some instant, easily created flavor. Another small and handy tool to take along is a portable digital food thermometer. This can ensure meats and poultry are cooked to perfection, helping campers enjoy foods that don't dry out over the flame.

- Don't forget foil. It's easily overlooked, but aluminum foil is a useful commodity for a campfire cook. Campfire cooking surfaces may not be large enough to prepare every camper's food all at once, forcing cooks to cook courses or sides one at a time. Aluminum foil can keep cooked foods hot while the rest of the meal is still over the flame. Foil also can be used as a way to cook foods like vegetables over a flame without causing them to wither or dry out.

Campfire cooking can be taken to a more flavorful level with a few simple tricks.

Seasonal flavors can come to life in chocolate treats. White chocolate filled with peppermint pieces or dark chocolate and cherry chunks are tasty pairings.

Great homemade food gifts

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

Gifts from the heart are among the most coveted and appreciated come the holiday season. Hobbyists from all walks of life can turn their passions into handmade gifts, but few gifts may be as welcomed as those that can be eaten.

Cooking and baking ramps up during the holiday season. People can turn extra time in the kitchen into opportunities to create festive treats that are ideal for gifting. But which items are the best? Even though tastes are singular, these items will appeal to most foodies and others on your gift list.

- Jams and preserves: Fruit jams and preserves are versatile foods. They are as at home on toast and biscuits as they are as fillings in cookies and tarts. Jams and preserves can be made with relatively few ingredients and work well with seasonal fruits.

- Cinnamon rolls: Warm, sticky and full of aromatic spice, cinnamon rolls are the perfect comfort foods. These rolls do not typically have a long shelf life, so be sure to present them promptly before they get stale.

- Pancakes (or cookies) in a jar: If you have a fantastic recipe that you can't resist sharing, try turning it into a gift. Measure and package the ingredients into mason jars, tie with ribbons and include directions for preparation and cooking.

- Chocolate barks or fudges: Seasonal flavors can come to life in chocolate treats. White chocolate filled with peppermint pieces or dark chocolate and cherry chunks are tasty pairings. Break apart portions of the bark or cut the fudge with cookie cutters and gift inside cello bags tied with ribbons or in cardboard candy boxes.

- Shortbread cookie ornaments: Circular shortbread cookies can be decorated with royal icing to look like Christmas ornaments. They can be eaten or even placed on trees to complete holiday decor.

- Festive cookie pops: Cookie pops can be made by mixing homemade or pre-purchased crumbled cake with frosting or softened cream cheese and formed into balls. Insert a lollipop stick and dip the balls into melted chocolate or candy melts. Top with sprinkles, nonpareils or luster dust.

Some dining trends could hang around after the pandemic ends

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

news@covnews.com

The restaurant industry is slowly getting back to normal after a very rough year that saw more than 110,000 eateries temporarily or permanently close their doors. Thanks to rising vaccination rates and other factors, including assurances from public health officials regarding the safety of dining out, consumers are once again comfortable with the idea of going to restaurants.

As restaurants begin catering to larger crowds, it's expected that certain changes implemented in 2020 are bound to become permanent or, at the very least, stick around for a little while longer.

- Reservations will be necessary. Many restaurants, even those that did not require reservations prior to the pandemic, may continue to encourage them. Not only will reservations give them greater control over the volume of patrons they host, but they also afford staff ample time to clean and disinfect tables and other surfaces.

- Outdoor dining will still be available. Outdoor dining filled an important need and presented restaurants with an avenue to generate revenue when indoor dining was restricted or prohibited. A May 2021 Morning Consult survey found that diners prefer outdoor dining to indoor dining. With that in mind, restaurants likely will still set aside outdoor areas for diners to eat comfortably, particularly those who were successful in creating attractive and comfortable al fresco offerings.

- More restaurants will offer takeout options. Even though on-premise dining had started to catch up to takeout orders for many restaurants by the spring of 2021, takeout figures to stick around to satisfy safety-minded customers who still desire curbside convenience.

- Expect increased sanitation technology. Restaurants may continue to make upgrades with safety and sanitation in mind. In addition to touchless sink features, self-flushing toilets and minimal touch or touchless payment methods, businesses may implement UVC light air purification systems and upgrades in HVAC filtration.

- Loyalty programs will grow in popularity. Many organizations have implemented loyalty programs to track how often consumers patronize a business and to offer discounts and other deals for repeat customers. Restaurants may increasingly roll out programs that reward repeat business.

Dak Prescott leads the Dallas Cowboys in the season opener against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers Thursday on NBC.

It's the Bucs vs. the 'Boys on Kickoff Thursday on NBC

Nothing gets the adrenaline flowing like the beginning of football season.

The good teams can't wait to get another shot at a Super Bowl ring, the not-so-good teams are hoping an offseason influx of talent can change their fortunes and fans are just psyched to have their NFL Sundays back.

Broadcasters are getting on their game faces, too. That includes NBC's Michele Tafoya, who will be reporting from the sidelines on Thursday, Sept. 9, when Tom Brady and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers begin defense of their Super Bowl LV crown when they usher in the 2021 season against Dak Prescott and the Dallas Cowboys. Al Michaels and Cris Collinsworth will call the action from Raymond James Stadium in Tampa, Fla., on what has become known as "Kickoff Thursday."

"That Thursday opener is special," Tafoya says. "It's a day during the week when there isn't normally football and it's that very first game and it's prime time and it's, you know, the Super Bowl champs. So yes, it feels like a special edition game for us."

It will be special for the teams on the field as well. For the Bucs, they're returning all 22 starters from the team that defeated the Kansas City Chiefs in February for the franchise's second league title. They also have a deep roster, a relatively easy 2021 schedule and of course, Brady, the seemingly ageless 44-year-old quarterback with seven Super Bowl titles on his resume.

"This one in particular was the cherry on top," Tafoya says, "and that's why it kind of seems like he's just got this attitude of, you know, 'What have I got to lose? I'm playing at a high level. I continue to play at a high level. I continue to outperform every expectation and I feel great. So why stop now?' And ... he's got (tight end) Rob Gronkowski back into his usual mode of playing, and it's just been really fascinating to watch and something we've never seen before, which makes it historic."

For the talented Cowboys, they're just looking to put a dreadful 6-10 2020 season behind them, one that saw them lose quarterback Prescott for the season after he suffered a fractured ankle in Week 5.

"That loss of Dak Prescott last year was not just, 'OK, our quarterback's out,' " Tafoya explains. "You know, he's really the face of the franchise ... and it hurt kind of the soul of that football team to see him leave the field so emotionally the way he did. And so I think they're just so ready to start this season and do what they believe they can do."

"And they're Dallas," she continues. "You know, whether you love them or hate them, everyone's interested and it's always a blast to cover the Cowboys. Always."

Send summer out in style with a clambake

For the seafood lover, there is nothing quite as satisfying as a clambake.

Be it with lobster, shrimp, mussels, various filets of fish or, of course, everyone's favorite mollusk, the sight of a pile of seafood steaming over a large pot of water and its accompanying aromas are enough to get the taste buds at attention and the mouth watering. It truly is a feast for the senses.

So if you're at a loss for what to do for your next dinner party in the coming weeks, try out a clambake, outdoors or in. It's easier than you think, especially with the guidance of the following online videos.

In a clip from NBC's "Today" (www.youtube.com/watch?vlXY2KDrGmpc), Al Roker departs from his usual weather beat to show how to do a traditional New England clambake with clams, lobster, shrimp, corn, potatoes, kielbasa, onions, white wine and various seasonings in a large pot. He also demonstrates the critical prep work that needs to be done (rinsing the sand from the clams; removing the beards from the mussels) before they go in the water.

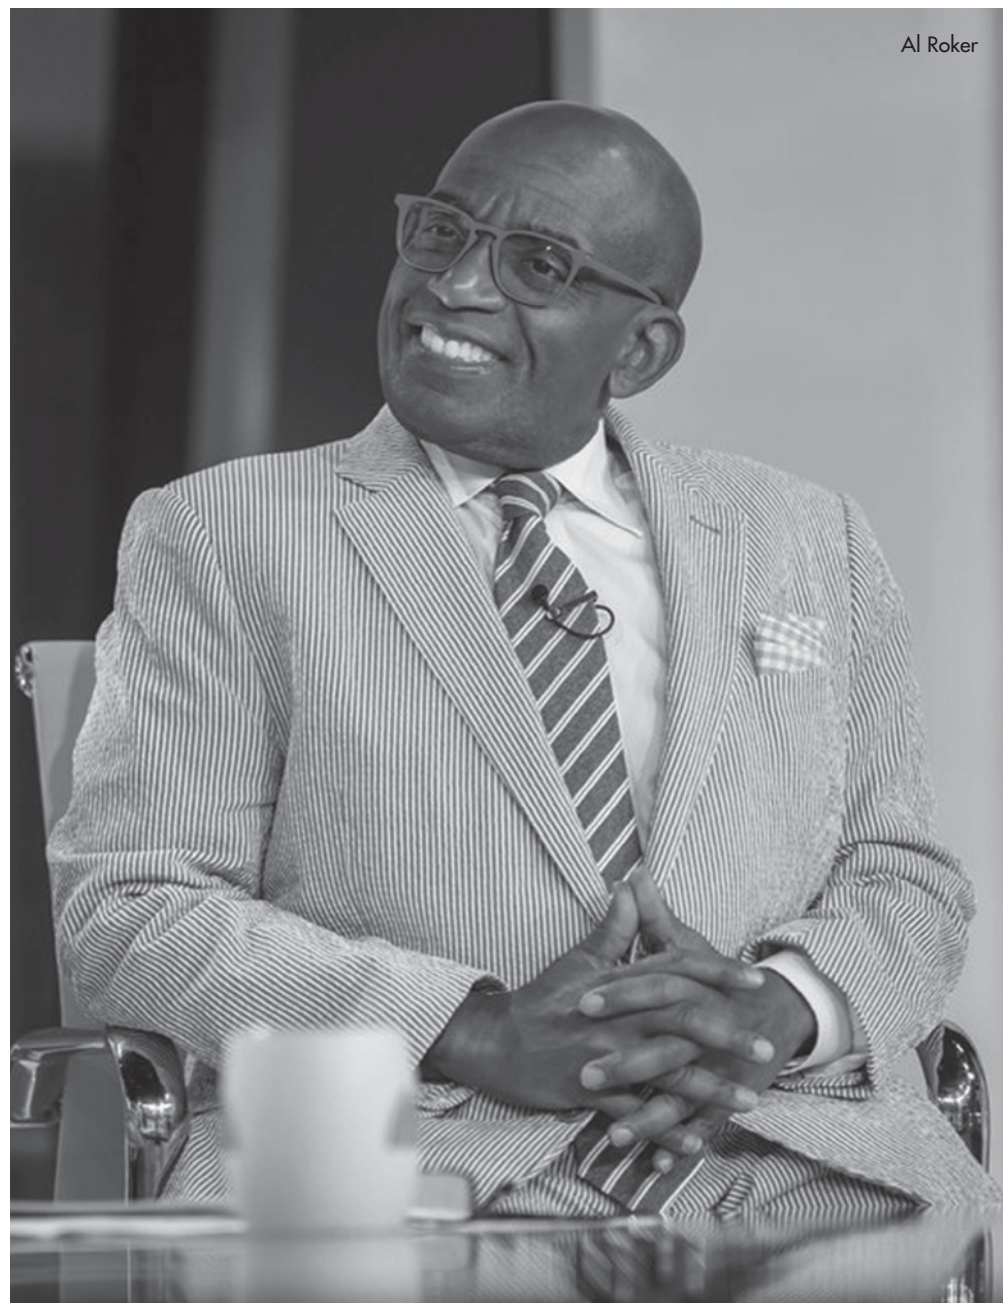

On the "Cooking Everything Outdoors Show" (www.youtube.com/watch?vW1A7uGhk9Qw), Greg from Ballistic BBQ proves you don't need to live near a beach to produce an authentic clambake. Here, he employs his Weber Kettle in which he alternates layers of charcoal and rocks to produce radiant heat. On top of that goes seaweed, which serves as the bed on which the clams, mussels, lobster, corn and other ingredients will roast, covered by another layer of seaweed. Remove from heat and serve. It looks impressive and likely tastes even more so.

If the weather outside isn't so great, New England chef Jasper White shows how you can take the production indoors in this video from Epicurious (www.youtube.com/watch?vvQFGehieNF8), in which he adapts a traditional clambake for the kitchen stove. Here, he puts his seafood, potatoes, chorizo, corn and other ingredients in a bag with his own secret ingredient, an egg, and steams in a pot of water. Fifteen minutes later, you have a New England clambake for four. Dining at its finest.

For sheer volume, you can't beat the Maine clambake in this video from Mark Wiens (www.youtube.com/watch?vZTHGIifvqf4). Here, hops a boat to Cabbage Island in Booth Bay to partake in a clambake consisting of 298 lobsters, plus piles of clams, corn, potatoes, onions, eggs and other ingredients, cooked in traditional seaweed. It's an experience that's open to anyone willing to pay the $69 charge for the meal and boat ride but make sure you make reservations early as there is a waiting list.

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Eden Epstein OF 'SEE' ON APPLE TV+

As a newbie to action, how much of your own stunts did you get to do?

I did all my own stunts. That was very important for Jonathan (Tropper, the series' showrunner). He really likes to have the actors be able to do all of their action and I did all of it. I broke a finger, I hurt my head, I had bruises all over my body at the end of fight days. This job has been the most physically trying experience of my life so far and it's extremely gratifying and rewarding but it's hard. It's intense.

It sounds like you'll need recovery time at the end of filming, no?

Yeah (laughs), that's probably true. I'll probably take a ballet class and decompress that way. Get a massage.

How was it doing scenes with Dave Bautista?

Oh, it's been such a joy. He and I were really lucky. We get along as people and he's someone who I hope will be in my life for the rest of my life, just as a friend. And so spending time with him on set was really fun, and then he's very funny and so soft-spoken, so humble and so talented. Really, he's so committed to his work and really excited by acting as an art form. And it was really wonderful figuring scenes out with him and throwing ideas at each other.

And I think that the relationship that you'll see grow over the second season is really reflective in some ways of the sort of trust and love that he and I grew for each other on a personal level in our friendship. It's a very complex relationship that does not mirror real life in its complexity but just like the baseline trust and respect was really there, for me at least, from the get-go. So it was really a wonderful experience.

tonight's PICKS

Maia Mitchell

Inheritance
8 p.m. on HBO
After the death of its patriarch (Patrick Warburton), a powerful New York political family gathers to learn how his estate will be divided among them in Vaughn Stein's 2020 thriller. Privately, however, the family's attorney (Michael Beach) gives grieving daughter Lauren (Lily Collins), a Manhattan district attorney, a message from her late father that leads her to a secret bunker where she meets a stranger (Simon Pegg) who claims he has been held prisoner for 30 years.

Too Soon: Comedy After 9/11
9 p.m. on VICE
There's an old saying that tragedy plus time equals comedy. That proved true after the Sept. 11, 2001, terror attacks on U.S. targets, after which, for a time, comedy seemed to stop completely. This new two-hour documentary from filmmakers Nick Scown and Julie Seabaugh is a look back at the 20 years since 9/11, and how comedy slowly regained its footing and eventually became more powerful than ever.

Good Trouble
9:30 p.m. on FREE
In "Closing Arguments," the 90-minute Season 3 finale, Mariana (Cierra Ramirez) interviews for a new job, while Callie (Maia Mitchell) starts to question several of her recent choices. Elsewhere, Malika (Zuri Adele) considers a job offer away from Dignity and Power Now (DPN). Meanwhile, Alice (Sherry Cola) faces a difficult decision, and Gael (Tommy Martinez) struggles to put his priorities into perspective.

Northwest Law: Uncuffed
10 p.m. on ANPL
Two elderly men are saved from their capsized boat on Puget Sound in the new episode "Clash on the Black Market." Meanwhile, a team handles a hostile gold miner with the capacity for violence, and a stakeout leads a sergeant to confront a black-market shrimp trafficker.

tonight's PICKS

Helen Mirren

Coroner
8 p.m. on WUPA
In a new episode called “Eyes Up,” Jenny and Donovan (Serinda Swan, Roger Cross) try to help a determined young girl who is seeking to uncover the truth about her father’s death. Nicholas Campbell, Ehren Kassam, Eric Bruneau, Uni Park and Andy McQueen co-star.

When Nature Calls With Helen Mirren
9 p.m. on WSB
Several unhappy animals find themselves stuck on an apparently endless Zoom conference call in “Uncle Antelope’s Truth Bombs,” a new episode of this family-friendly “docu-comedy” narrated by Helen Mirren. Among other highlights, elephants receive lessons in etiquette, and a squirrel hosting a home shopping program is stalked by a deranged viewer. Also: a searing expose on lizards who hoard.

The Outpost
9 p.m. on WUPA
Zed and Talon (Reece Ritchie, Jessica Green) see harrowing visions while exploring underneath the Outpost in the new episode “The Price of Immortality.” Meanwhile, Garret (Jake Stormoen) puts his relationship with Talon to the test, and Janzo (Anand Desai-Barochia) cracks the riddle surrounding an ancient relic.

Long Island Medium: In Memory of 9/11
10 p.m. on TLC
In the two decades since the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorism attacks on the United States, friends and families of the nearly 3,000 victims of that tragedy still are left with unanswered questions and a hunger for closure. In this two-hour special, Theresa Caputo tries to bring those still-bereaved survivors a sense of peace by meeting with them in the shadow of the World Trade Center, a site near the Pentagon and at the Flight 93 memorial in Pennsylvania to deliver messages of healing and heroism from the departed.

Meegwun Fairbrother, who plays Owen Beckbie on this legal drama, co-wrote the new episode "Where the Shadows Lie Waiting ...," which opens just one day before the disciplinary hearing. As the final hours tick down, Joanna and Billy (Kristin Kreuk, Peter Mooney) redouble their efforts to finish building their case against the mine. Meanwhile, Luna (Star Slade) looks for a link between the mine and the trafficking ring, while Taylor (Anwen O'Driscoll) vows to protect Dee (Victoria Turko) from her volatile ex-boyfriend.

What's Available NOW On

“Twenty Something” (Sept. 10)

From Pixar Studios comes this first animated short in Disney’s “Sparkshort” series that tells the story of Gia, who is trying to master the art of adulating on the night of her 21st birthday but fears she’s failing miserably — and everyone around her knows it. (ORIGINAL)

“The Owl House: Season 2” (Available now)

The most sophomore round of this Disney Channel animated fantasy series picks up immediately after the events of the first and finds the gang working to return Luz to the human realm, helping Eda confront her curse and contending with the tyrannical Emperor Belos and his minions.

“Dr. K’s Exotic Animal ER: Season 9” (Available now)

A charming baby wallaby, a rabbit with serious eye and sinus issues and a skunk with an attitude are among the cases confronting Dr. Susan Kelleher and her staff at Broward Avian and Exotic Animal Hospital of Deerfield Beach, Fla., in the most recent season of this Nat Geo Wild unscripted series.

“Disney Princess Remixed: An Ultimate Princess Celebration” (Available now)

Disney movie princesses have a long history dating back to the 1930s and “Snow White,” and this half-hour musical special celebrates their empowering qualities through reimagined performances of their most iconic songs by stars such as Brandy Norwood, Dara Renee, Julia Lester and Ruth Righi. Pete Alonso

MLB Baseball

7:30 p.m. on WAGA

The so-called Subway Series takes on added importance to-night at Citi Field, where Anthony Rizzo and the New York Yankees will try to continue their ascent in the AL East standings with a win over Pete Alonso and the cross-town Mets. While the Yankees have come alive in the season's second half, spurred by the trade deadline acquisitions of Rizzo and Joey Gallo, the Mets have done a nosedive in the NL East, done in by injuries and a lack of hitting.

9/11: Four Flights

8 p.m. on HIST

The passengers on four airline flights — American 11, United 175, American 77 and United 93 — boarded their planes and departed for their destinations with no inkling of the fateful events that awaited them. This new two-hour documentary presents a powerful and personal take on some of those innocents on board, recounted by heartfelt narratives by their surviving family members and friends.

United 93

9 p.m. on BRAVO

Much debate about the timing of the release — almost five years after the actual tragedy — surrounded writer-director Paul Greengrass' undeniably powerful drama about the events aboard one of the passenger jets hijacked in the 9/11 terrorist attacks.

tonight's PICKS

Oscar Isaac

Celebrity Family Feud

8 p.m. on WSB
“Oh, Miss Fine!” Host Steve Harvey welcomes Fran Drescher and Charles Shaughnessy, longtime colleagues on the hit sitcom “The Nanny,” who appear to raise money for their favorite charities. This time around, though, they’re playing for opposite teams, with each leading members of their family to try guessing the most popular responses to survey questions. The second round of this episode finds country singer Jessie James Decker and her husband, former pro football star Eric Decker, competing against a team led by former basketball star Chris Bosh.

Fantasy Island

8:30 p.m. on WAGA
The magical island serves as the backdrop for an unofficial ‘Melrose Place’ reunion as three co-stars of that steamy Fox nighttime soap from the 1990s guest star in a new episode called “The Big Five-Oh.” The story finds old friends Nettie, Camille and Margot (Laura Leighton, Josie Bissett, Daphne Zuniga) arriving on the island to celebrate their milestone birthdays together. Roselyn Sanchez and Kiara Barnes also star. Another new episode airs Tuesday.

Scenes From a Marriage

9 p.m. on HBO
Oscar Isaac (“Star Wars: Episode IX — The Rise of Skywalker”) and Jessica Chastain (“Zero Dark Thirty”) star in this new character-driven five-part limited series, a modern adaptation of Ingmar Bergman’s classic Swedish drama series. Chastain stars as Mira, an ambitious tech executive feeling unfulfilled by her marriage to Jonathan (Isaac), a cerebral philosophy professor desperate to save their marriage. In the premiere, “Innocence and Panic,” an already tense day takes on additional urgency because of an unexpected event.

The Price Is Right

11 a.m. on WGCL

The longest-running game show in television history opens its 50th season with a special week-long event, in which each day's episode offers a game wherein contestants could win up to a million dollars. Bob Barker was host when "The Price Is Right" premiered on Sept. 4, 1972, and the Emmy-winning daytime series has featured 108 different pricing games since then. Two new games are being introduced this week to mark the milestone anniversary, including one — "Back to '72" — that includes a retro look and feel. Drew Carey is the show's current host.

Hell's Kitchen

8 p.m. on WAGA

The Season 20 champion is crowned at the end of tonight's eventful two-hour season finale, wherein chef Gordon Ramsay arranges a heartfelt reunion for the three remaining chefs before challenging them to cook a five-course dinner service to be evaluated by a panel of celebrity judges. Then, the two finalists pick their brigades from a pool of their former competitors and compete in their final dinner service to see which of them earns the title of head chef at Gordon Ramsay Steak at Paris Las Vegas.

American Experience

9 p.m. on WGTV

Ronald Reagan's 1981 nomination of Sandra Day O'Connor to be the first female Supreme Court justice dominated that day's news cycle, and rightly so. The new documentary "Sandra Day O'Connor: The First" looks back at the Texas-born O'Connor's life and career. During her 25 years on the Supreme Court, she was the critical swing vote on cases involving some of the 20th century's most polarizing cases involving race, gender and reproductive rights, and O'Connor was the tie-breaker decision regarding the George W. Bush-Al Gore presidential election.

tonight's PICKS

Name

LEGO Masters
8 p.m. on WAGA
Three teams of brothers confront the last challenge of the season in a finale called “Master Build — Day & Night.” Host Will Arnett, along with Brickmasters Amy Corbett and Jamie Berard, gives the teams 24 hours to design and construct a master build that is pretty much anything their brains can imagine. Well, actually there is one twist: Each build needs to have two looks, one for day, the other for night. The most successful team takes home the $100,000 grand prize, the LEGO trophy and the title of LEGO Masters.

Queen Sugar
8 p.m. on OWN
In the new episode “And Dream With Them Deeply,” the Bordelons have a tense conversation with Billie (Tammy Townsend), daughter of family friend Prosper Denton (Henry G. Sanders).

Fantasy Island
9 p.m. on WAGA
An introverted bookworm who has promised herself to start saying “Yes” to life more often wants to travel back in time to meet her favorite author in the new episode “The Romance & The Bromance.” Meanwhile, a hyper-competitive survivalist discovers that the ultimate challenge awaiting him is something for which he hasn’t trained. Eric Winter, Caitlin Stasey, Gillian Saker and Andrew Richardson guest star; Roselyn Sanchez and Kiara Barnes also star.

Karen
10 p.m. on BET
Inspired by a real-life incident and an entire series of social media memes, writer-director Coke Daniels’ 2021 drama stars Taryn Manning (“Orange Is the New Black”) in the title role of a virulent racist white woman who vows to make life miserable for a Black family who recently moved into her neighborhood. Unfortunately for her, the newcomers (Cory Hardrict, Jasmine Burke) have no intention of caving to her nastiness. Gregory Alan Williams and Brandon Sklenar also star.

'NCIS' makes the move to a new night

Q: Why is "NCIS" switching nights next season? – Tom Leonard, Reading, Pa.

A: It would take something major for CBS to move Mark Harmon's hugely popular adventure-drama out of its customary Tuesday slot, and it has. With the addition of executive producer Dick Wolf's new "FBI: International" to its lineup, the network is making Tuesdays an all-"FBI" night, also including the parent show and "FBI: Most Wanted." All three series will be linked by a crossover event that introduces "International" on Sept. 21. Of course, that's in the style of what NBC does with Wolf's three "Chicago" shows on Wednesdays and two current entries in his "Law & Order" franchise on Thursdays.

As for "NCIS," which reportedly will feature Harmon on a limited basis in its upcoming 19th year, it moves to Mondays on CBS starting Sept. 20 – as the logical lead-in to "NCIS: Hawai'i," which debuts that night with Vanessa Lachey as the leader of that investigative unit. However, "NCIS: Los Angeles" will remain on Sundays, where it will start its 13th season Oct. 10.

Q: I enjoy Caterina Scorsone on "Grey's Anatomy," and I know she played a psychic detective on another series. What was that show called? – Sandy Bain, Buffalo, N.Y.

A: It was "Missing," which was filmed in the actress' native Canada and ran on Lifetime from 2003 to 2006. Scorsone played Jess Mastriani, whose visions of missing people – acquired after she literally was struck by lightning – proved very helpful to FBI agents seeking the individuals in question.

"ER" alum Gloria Reuben played Jess' partner during the show's first season, then Vivica A. Fox succeeded her for the remainder of the series' run. Other cast members included Justina Machado (later of the "One Day at a Time" reboot) in Season 1 and Mark Consuelos, current "Riverdale" co-star and husband of Kelly Ripa, in the second and third "Missing" rounds.

Church, in old school, ready to welcome the community

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Grace Monroe Church will open its new facility to the community this week. “Pursuing God’s Heart for the Restoration of All Things’ was the vision that launched Grace Monroe Church 11 years ago,” lead pastor Brian Krawczyk said. He said the same spirit continues as the church announces the grand opening of the newly restored

Denton Hall as part of its renovation of the historic Monroe High School campus at 203 Bold Springs Ave. The campus originally was Monroe High School. It sat neglected for almost a decade after Monroe Elementary School moved to its new location on Dillard Drive in 2008. While there were many plans discussed, nothing ever happened until Grace Monroe bought it in 2017. Church » Page A7

The Social Circle City Council failed Tuesday to register a show of support for Monroe in trying to keep a new county jail out of a residential neighborhood.

The council met Tuesday morning to consider a resolution “in opposition of construction and funding of a proposed new jail for Walton County,” but it failed for lack of a second. The council agreed during a work session Thursday to hold a called meeting to vote on a resolution similar to the one Monroe adopted in late July. Monroe’s resolution formally objected to the initial proposed jail site on East Church Street, which the county backed off from. Jail » Page A5

EMT killed in crash, while Monroe detective loses battle with COVID

David Clemons
THE WALTON TRIBUNE

Walton County’s public safety community is dealing with the loss of two colleagues in recent days. Logan James Wade, a paramedic from Monroe, was killed after he was struck by a pickup truck early Saturday morning when he and a co-worker stopped to help a woman who had been in a crash on Interstate 85 in west Georgia. The two EMTs were on their way to deliver supplies to colleagues who were helping victims of Hurricane Ida in Louisiana. Meanwhile, the Monroe Police Department announced the death of Detective Tracey Conroy after a fight with COVID-19.

Conroy has spent more than three years as the department’s evidence technician and had been in law enforcement for nearly 20 years.

The Georgia State Patrol said Wade, 32, and co-worker Nick Danie stopped to help the victim from a crash at about 2 a.m. Saturday, about a mile south of the Kia Boulevard exit in West Point. Safety » Page A5

Council debates downtown parking

Emergency repairs to city's water treatment plant come in high

Denise Etheridge
THE WALTON TRIBUNE

The Social Circle City Council debated Thursday how best to proceed on plans for a downtown parking lot. City leaders have proposed new parking go between the fire station and Friendship Park.

The council reviewed quotes for design concepts from three engineering firms during last week's work session.

"All three folks took a different approach to their quotes," City Manager Eric Taylor said. Taylor said one bidder offered a sketch with its quote showing 32 possible parking spaces by the fire station.

Turnipseed Engineers with offices in Atlanta, Augusta and St. Simons Island, proposed a general concept design, printed and electronic copies of plans and a detailed cost estimate for $2,500.

phase administration at a cost of $11,870.

Falcon Design, headquartered in metro Atlanta, proposed surveys, utility location, construction drawings, bid assistance and construction administration for $36,000.

Councilman Steve Shelton said he leaned toward the middle bid, commenting one quote was too high and the other appeared too low. "I think there's more work that needs to be done if we decide to do this," Taylor said.

City Attorney Tony Powell advised the council that the city could negotiate a lower cost estimate with bidders if they choose to narrow the scope of the proposed parking lot project.

Council members had voided a lease agreement with First United Methodist Church for a downtown parking lot during an Aug. 17 meeting. The council decided to follow Taylor's recommendation and explore other options for parking downtown.

Council members also discussed several amendments to the fiscal year 2021-22 budget, one of which relates to a contract with a lobbyist and another to cover emergency repairs at the water treatment plant.

Last month, the council approved a contract with Searles Consulting to advocate for state level funding for the wastewater treatment plant. The three-month consulting contract is retroactive to Aug. 1 and will cost the city $25,000.

Public Works Director Robbie Graves informed council members that emergency repairs to the water treatment plant would actually cost about $30,000 more than the initial $100,000 anticipated cost due to electrical work that must be done. The work includes installing surge protectors on new water meters. The meter replacement cost $31,560, according to Graves, and the repair quote from Crawford Grading and Pipeline came in at $97,903. The plant has been operating under temporary approval from the state Environmental Protection Division, she said.

Another budget amendment will fund the concept phase for the city's Transportation Alternatives Program Grant Sidewalk Projects. One project is for sidewalks along North and South Cherokee roads and the other will focus on Spring Street to Vine Street. Both projects will cost $214,119, with the Georgia Department of Transportation providing an 80% match reimbursement of $171,296 and the city contributing a 20% match of $42,823.

Council members later took action in a called meeting held after an executive session. No action was taken on matters discussed in the executive session after they reconvened into open session.

The two items voted on in the separate called meeting included approving a temporary moratorium on signs over 100 square feet in size and terminating the city's fuel agreement with Pump and Go.

The large sign moratorium is in effect through Nov. 30, or until a new sign ordinance can be adopted.

COVID-19

COVID-19 cases exceed January's peak

Two-thirds of patients in Piedmont Newton have the coronavirus

Tom Spigolon
COVINGTON NEWS

Little

COVINGTON — Two out of three patients now hospitalized in Piedmont Newton Hospital are COVID-19 patients, a top hospital official said.

The number of COVID patients now has exceeded by 20% the number the hospital typically saw during the last surge in January, said hospital chief medical officer Dr. Norris Little.

It was seeing about one COVID patient per day in June before the fast-spreading delta variant of the disease took hold about four weeks ago, Little said.

"It's a very significant number of people in the community who are ill," he said.

As a result, the 103-bed hospital in Covington has been forced to add extra beds on hospital floors and in the intensive care unit, Little said. Newton County has seen an increase in its seven-day average of new cases from 39 on Aug. 13 to 64 on Aug. 29, according to the Georgia Department of Public Health.

Little said the surge also is placing a strain on staff members as they work to care for the increased volume of COVID patients — in addition to other patients.

"It really puts a lot of pressure on health care systems to be able to provide the staff support to do that work," Little said. "We're getting it done but it becomes a lot of long days for people, a lot of extra shifts for our workers."

Piedmont Newton has seen a "workforce decline throughout the entire pandemic" — though at lower levels than other parts of the multi-hospital Piedmont Healthcare system, he said without offering specific numbers.

Factors in the decline have included everything from staff members wanting "to take a break," to increased competition for nurses and other medical staff throughout the Southeast.

"Florida, for example, hit the surge early and they were offering premium compensation for people to come work down there," Little said.

He said medical staff members also are experiencing the emotional burden of seeing some of the patients die from the disease.

However, the hospital has "a great workforce." Most live in Newton County and the immediate area, Little said.

"They've been very supportive through this, but even people who are very supportive can wear out," he said.

"We're trying to give them all the help and support that we can."

He said about 96% of the patients seeking treatment for COVID-19 in the ICU and on patient floors are unvaccinated. Newton County only had about a 41% vaccination rate compared to more than 50% statewide last week.

"This is a pandemic of the unvaccinated patient population," Little said.

He added that hospital officials see the need for vaccinations as a public health issue, not a political issue.

"We don't have an agenda except for the health of the community," Little said.

In previous surges, most patients coming to the Covington hospital with severe COVID-19 were chronically ill seniors.

The current surge is leading many patients in their 30s and 40s to seek treatment as well, he said.

"The delta variant is just a highly contagious variant," he said. "It has spread much more rapidly."

LOCAL AND STATE BRIEFS

Athens shooting suspect surrenders Monday

David Clemons
THE WALTON TRIBUNE

The suspect in a shooting outside a downtown Athens bar surrendered at an east Georgia jail Monday.

A fight in the area of East Clayton and North Jackson streets in downtown Athens shortly before 2 a.m. Sunday led to gunshots.

Williams

Seven people were hurt and all were treated at a hospital for injuries that were not life-threatening.

Detectives from the Athens-Clarke County police identified 21-year-old Pharoah Devonell Williams as a suspect and issued several arrest warrants related to the incident.

He surrendered Monday at the Wilkes County Jail in Washington, Georgia, where he lives, and was transferred back to Athens.

Williams was in the Athens-Clarke County Jail on Tuesday morning. He was being held without bond on seven counts of aggravated assault and on one count of possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony, under $10,000 bond.

Local man arrested, barred from Circle K

A Monroe man was arrested Sept. 1 outside a convenience store in Athens, and he won't be welcome back for two more years.

Athens-Clarke police were called to the Circle K on U.S. 29 North just before 11:30 p.m. on a report of a disorderly person.

The man — a 26-year-old Claywill Circle resident — faced a warrant out of Newton County. Officers said the man initially resisted arrest, leading to a misdemeanor charge of obstruction.

He was barred from the store until Sept. 1, 2023.

ATLANTA

Ga. joins suit aimed at transgender rights

Georgia has joined 19 other Republican-led states in suing the Biden administration over directives allowing transgender workers and students to use bathrooms and locker rooms and join sports teams matching their gender identity.

The lawsuit, filed Aug. 30 in Tennessee, accuses the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and U.S. Department of Education of issuing guidance in June that improperly expanded the scope of a U.S. Supreme Court ruling last year.

"The administration is willfully circumventing the authority of Congress and ignoring the rule of law with this regulatory overreach," Georgia Attorney General Chris Carr said. "There is an established process to change antidiscrimination law, and federal agencies lack the authority to change the law in this way."

The court decision prohibited employers from firing workers because of their gender identity or sexuality.

City looks to show ... well, something

The Monroe City Council was expected to consider a statement about the Moore's Ford lynchings Tuesday night, to say — well, I'm not sure what.

The draft of the letter Mayor John Howard was expected to read notes an "attest to the painful impact on our community that we see today from these past transgressions," and a "continued work to bring all of Monroe together."

The word "sorry" isn't in there, nor "apology." Nor is "regret."

The "past transgressions" aren't taking a pie out of Grandma's window sill. It was the brutal slaying of four Black people at the bridge over the Apalachee River at the county line.

Loy Harrison brought Roger Malcom back from Monroe, where he'd been in jail after allegedly stabbing Barnett Hester, who broke up a fight between Dorothy and Roger Malcom at the Hester farm. (Hester reportedly suspected Roger Malcom of "going with my wife.")

Roger Malcom was to be charged with misdemeanor assault and battery with intent to murder. Harrison bailed him out of jail in exchange for him coming to work in the sawmill he was starting.

In addition to the Malcoms, Harrison also had George W. and Mae Murray Dorsey in the car with him

The National Memorial for Peace and Justice in Montgomery, Ala., pays tribute to victims of racial violence. Special to The Tribune on July 25, 1946, when a mob stopped them near the bridge.

The four victims were shot more than 60 times and had cracked skulls, other broken bones and numerous other injuries.

The crime horrified the nation, including President Harry S. Truman. However, no one was ever charged as locals stonewalled the investigation.

George Walton Academy graduate Ty Seidule detailed the crime and those of previous Walton County lynchings in his 2021 book, "Robert E. Lee and Me."

Seidule noted that he never heard anything about the lynchings while he was a student. He noted the town hasn't erected markers to commemorate its lynchings as other cities, such as Annapolis, Maryland.

"The ones who are addressing their past, who look for a brighter future, are looking honestly at their past," Seidule told me recently.

The Young Gamechangers group recommended a Diversity Advisory Board, which was formed in 2020. A request has been a letter of acknowledgment and temporary Moore's Ford marker.

A good next step would be for the city or county to claim its marker from the National Memorial for Peace and Justice in Montgomery, Alabama.

Commonly known as the lynching memorial, the museum includes markers for each county that bears the shame of a lynching. The county markers remain until they're claimed. Otherwise, they stand as a notice to visitors that a county is in denial of its past.

Walton County shouldn't let that happen.

A good start would be following the lead of La-Grange police Chief Louis Dekmar, who in 2017 gave a better statement in regards to his department's role in the 1940 lynching of Austin Callaway: "I sincerely regret and denounce the role our Police Department played in Austin's lynching, both through our action and our inaction."

Dekmar gave that statement at a predominantly African American church too.

See how much more forceful that is than what Monroe had planned?

What Monroe has planned is better than nothing, but not much. It needs to go back to the drawing board, unless the point was to say nothing to offend white sensibilities — in which case, mission accomplished.

The sights, sounds of fall

September has arrived and like magic the turning of the calendar instantly conjures up images of fall.

Last week I found a new edition of a magazine in my mailbox which spotlights the outdoors and the cover was truly breathtaking.

Snapped in the Ozarks, the picture was bright with every fall color one could imagine. Yellow. Orange. Brown. Red. Every color associated with fall symbolically jumped off the cover, helped by being printed on high gloss paper.

I actually put up my outside fall decorations in recent days. I know fall is not officially here yet, but we are close enough.

While I am a fan of summer, by the time we reach September there is usually a longing for fall. Most of us enjoy seeing the fall colors, especially those seen in the north Georgia mountains and beyond. There's something mentally recharging about seeing the scenes of the new season.

For many of us, the start of fall means the start of a new football season. From high school to college to the pro ranks, the countdown to a new gridiron season goes hand-in-hand with counting down to fall.

High school football season, it should be noted, starts way too early now. Games in mid-August make no sense and put players at a greater degree of injury — from dehydration if nothing else. High school football should not begin until the first week of September. The earlier and earlier start to seasons needs to be stopped.

Some of my favorite childhood recollections were attending fall events at my school including football games, fall festivities and other functions. The best events were always the ones which took place outside after the summer heat had finally broken.

When we are younger the arrival of fall also means the start of a countdown to Thanksgiving and Christmas. Thanksgiving is probably the ultimate fall holiday as it signals the pinnacle of the season.

Another benefit of fall is seeing the effort many people put into decorations for their homes and yards. From hay bales to pumpkins to nicely designed door wreaths, decorating for fall is probably second only to Christmas.

Fall, to me, has always been good for replenishing the body and soul. Hopefully it does the same for you. It's funny how the simple date on a calendar (this all occurred to me last week as we reached Sept. 1) can help change your state of mind.

I'll see you at the football field or maybe a festival or two. Hopefully I won't get lost in a corn maze. Even if I do, it will still be enjoyable to take in the sights, sounds and bright colors of fall.

Weddings evoke hope and cement our family ties

My co-worker, Stephen Milligan, penned a sweet feature story last week about a hand-made wedding dress that was worn for four separate weddings by four different brides.

Our editor made the comment that most young ladies planning a wedding today would be horrified to contemplate wearing someone else's dress that had been wore before.

Being a fan of "Say Yes to the Dress," and seeing countless fancy weddings filmed on numerous other reality shows, I concur — not to mention the year it took to help my daughter carefully plan her wedding seven years ago.

Rachel took on much of the preparations herself, and saved money by investing time and labor. On "Say Yes to the Dress," the bride's entire dress budget generally matches or far exceeds the budget Rachel had set for her entire wedding.

Yes, weddings have become more complicated — and expensive — affairs today.

Still, weddings continue to evoke hope for a couple's future. I also believe that families are bound when their children marry, for better or worse. My husband and I, and our children, are fortunate that for the most part we — and they — get along with the in-laws. I am well aware that is not always the case.

When Frank and I married in 1982, our wedding plans coincided with final exams, college graduation and his commissioning ceremony when he became an officer in the U.S. Air Force. It was further complicated by the fact that his parents and sister lived in coastal Georgia and my folks and siblings had moved to Bend, Oregon.

Not to mention we are an interfaith couple. Interfaith marriage is more commonplace today, but nearly 40 years ago it caused a lot of emotional upheaval among some family members.

So, Frank and I ended up having two weddings. I wore the same simple wedding dress for both. (It was gorgeous; puffy princess sleeves, a sweetheart neckline and it was ivory satin. Instead of a veil I wore a wide brim hat with a slight peek-a-boo veil that just covered my eyes. It, and the hat, cost a total of $93. The shoes were an extra $20.)

My parents, bless their memory, pretty much took care of everything for the first wedding. My dad worked at Sun River Resort at the time, and having been in the restaurant business for ages had no issues planning his own daughter's wedding. Frank and I just had to fly west, collect our luggage and arrive a week ahead for a few last minute errands and a load of fun ahead of the actual wedding.

My husband's parents and sister were unable to attend the civil ceremony. They had a terrible tragedy in his dad's family just two weeks prior. Frank's uncle and first cousin were the victims of gun violence. Which is one of the reasons we held a second wedding three months later. That one was held at the Catholic Student Union at the University of Georgia in Athens. (I had no issue with the Catholic Church ceremony. When our children were born, our daughter was named in the synagogue in Cheyenne, Wyoming, and our son had a bris in Sumter, South Carolina.)

A judge officiated the ceremony in Oregon. He wore a ten-gallon cowboy hat and fancy cowboy boots in his western cut suit. My twin sister was the maid of honor. She wore a lavender gown similar in style to my dress. My brother was the best man. He, my dad and my groom wore dark blue suits. My mom wore a stylish floor length dress with matching jacket. There were no mass fittings for bridesmaids, no trips to tuxedo rental shops.

We stood on a little bridge, with the mountains and golf course in the background. As we were taking our places, a couple that was golfing walked over the bridge, golf bags in tow, congratulated us and headed toward the clubhouse. Our guests gathered to stand at the foot of the bridge.

Following our incredibly short and sweet ceremony, we took some photos and then headed into the lodge where our family and friends were already celebrating.

Our four-day honeymoon, which was spent at the lodge, cost us around $3.50 — for a phone call we made. My father's bosses and colleagues made sure we didn't have to pay anything out of pocket.

Our wedding day was just the beginning. It evokes lovely memories, but the real work at keeping a marriage healthy was, and continues to be, each day after.

Safety: EMT dies after he's hit by a truck

The driver of a Kia Forte went off the road and hit the cable barrier in the median. The paramedics parked their box truck on the shoulder and walked across the highway to help.

As they assessed her injuries on the driver's side of the Kia, the driver of a Dodge pickup truck ran into the back of the car, causing it to slam into Wade and Daniel.

Both Wade and Daniel were taken to a hospital in LaGrange.

The driver and passenger of the Dodge were flown to Piedmont Columbus Regional.

In a statement, AMR of DeKalb County said Logan and Daniel were taking supplies to teams deployed after Hurricane Ida, which struck Louisiana on Aug. 29.

Chris Valentin, a regional director of AMR, said Daniel sustained minor injuries.

As of noon Monday, 16 people had died on Georgia roads during the long Labor Day weekend.

During a county Board of Commissioners work session Thursday, Sheriff Joe Chapman says he has needed a new jail for years. The board met again Tuesday night.

Jail: City councilman cites the cost

Monroe officials also affirmed they would work with Walton County leaders and Sheriff Joe Chapman in finding what they consider a more appropriate location.

Social Circle Mayor David Keener said he had recently spoken with Monroe Mayor John Howard on the issue. Councilman Steve Shelton said he had also spoken with citizens concerned about the estimated cost of building a new jail and the burden it could place on taxpayers. Shelton said he believes the actual cost of building a jail would be higher than what is being anticipated.

The Walton Tribune's Pigskin Pick 'Em is open to everyone except employees of The Walton Tribune and their immediate families. Weekly winners ($30) are those who pick the most winning teams for each individual week. The season grand prize winner ($300) will be chosen in a random drawing of all completed entries received during the weekly contest. For the football games listed, check the box in the official entry form that corresponds to the team you think will win. A tiebreaker is also listed on the form. Guess the total number of points to be scored in the game. In case of a further tie, a random drawing will be held. Entries must be submitted on the official entry form as printed on this page. No photocopies will be accepted. No purchase is necessary. Official entry form may be picked up from our office at the address above. All judges' decisions are final. Weekly winners' names will be published each Wednesday.

Church: Grace celebrates its past, future with new home

The church began in 2009 with a handful of Walton County families attending Grace Fellowship Church in Snellville.

“They loved the DNA of Grace, with its commitment to teaching the Bible and making disciples, passion for worship and focus on reaching the ‘Neighborhoods, Nations and Next Generation,’ but wanted to reach their own community,” lead pastor Brian Krawczyk of Grace Monroe recalled.

One of those couples, Paul and Jessica Rosenthal, recently had purchased the

Rosenthal

Monroe Cotton Mills, a former economic engine for the community on South Madison Avenue that had been idled.

Grace Monroe began on Easter Sunday 2010 in that old building.

The church struggled to find its footing and in the summer of 2012 the leadership of Grace Snellville sent Brian and Sadie Krawczyk to Monroe to assess the health and viability of the church in the community — even to navigate its possible closing.

However, on a Thursday afternoon during that first summer in Monroe, Brian Krawczyk took a prayer walk around town. He stopped under a large oak tree in front of an abandoned school and picked up an acorn when he felt God speak to his heart, “Don’t despise small beginnings.”

With that encouragement, the Krawczyks moved into the neighborhood, beginning their own renovation of a condemned home in the middle of town and began to pastor the little church in the mill.

“I actually kept that acorn in the console of my truck for the first couple years we were out here,” Krawczyk said. “It was a reminder not to give up when things got hard. I just thought it was an encouragement for the season we were in.”

“I didn’t realize it was a promise for the future.”

Krawczyk said the church began to grow and its families began to claim the restoration vision, the people of Grace Monroe began to grow closer to God and pursue their own dreams — locally and through global mission partnerships.

Grace Monroe transformed the old fourth grade wing of Monroe Elementary School into a children’s area, Little Oaks Preschool and Bold Springs Coffee Co. The preschool and coffee shop opened in August. David Clemons | The Tribune

“We simply asked, ‘What could it look like if a community of people encountered God in such powerful ways that it didn’t just transform their lives, but flowed out to transform the people and places around them?’” Krawczyk said.

“I mean, that’s what we believe — that when the Gospel gets planted in the soil of someone’s heart, in the soil of a community, it changes things. Restored people restoring places.”

The growth led church leadership to begin considering other options for meeting space by 2016. This was a difficult decision, Krawczyk said, as the mill had become a treasured home and a manifestation of the Gospel: a “dead” property restored and overflowing with life.

Krawczyk said the church leadership was guided to the old school property — and back to the oak tree where God had spoken to him five years earlier.

Grace Monroe bought the former school from a limited liability corporation owned by Bobby Carrell and A.C. Marshall in October 2017. The purchase gave the church 8 1/2 acres and 75,000 square feet of space, more than addressing the church’s needs and giving it space for more ministry into neighborhoods.

The church bought the old school seven months after an arson fire at the gym.

Krawczyk said the plan is to transform the property into a multiuse campus that becomes a hub for the community, including dorms for summer intern, a community kitchen that works in conjunction with the farmers market, coworking space for nonprofits, an amphitheater, a park, playgrounds and more.

“I want there to be life here 24/7,” Krawczyk said. “I think one of the biggest wastes of kingdom resources is we build these church buildings that sit empty the majority of the time.”

The fourth grade wing was transformed into a children’s area and also designed to function as a certified preschool and a neighborhood coffee shop. Little Oaks Preschool and Bold Springs Coffee opened in the space this past August.

The “new” gym, which opened in 1996, will serve as the student discipleship center focused on middle and high school students, but also can be used for community events.

Denton Hall, the historic granite gym that was built in 1932, becomes a 450-seat worship auditorium and community center.

John L. Denton, principal of Monroe High School, encouraged the construction of a gym that became the first in town. Volunteers hauled in rock from Stone Mountain.

Guests at the dedication included Georgia Gov. Eugene Talmadge and University of Georgia President Steadman V. Sanford.

Now the church will get its own dedication with several events to celebrate its new beginning and introduce itself to the community.

The Walton County Chamber of Commerce will be on hand for the ribbon cutting at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, followed by the chamber’s monthly luncheon at noon in Denton Hall.

The September luncheon includes the kickoff for the 2021-22 United Way of Walton County campaign.

From 2-6 p.m. Saturday, Grace Monroe will partner with Walton Empowers and Ridgeview Institute – Monroe for a block party on the lawn of the church. The event will highlight Recovery Awareness Month and Suicide Awareness and Prevention Month.

The event will include food trucks, games, therapy horses and a touch-a-truck event for children with police, EMS and fire vehicles.

Sunday will include an outdoor worship and prayer gathering in the church’s courtyard at 10 a.m., and the festivities will culminate with a grand opening worship celebration at 5 p.m. That will include a community cookout with food from Smokey Gringo Taco Bar in Winder and Mookie Moo’s Philadelphia Water Ice in Monroe.

Guests then will move inside for a dedication service featuring Aaron Keyes and Andje Yassa in Denton Hall.

Make reservations online at mymonroe.gfc.tv or by calling the church office at 678-710-2334.

Regular Sunday services will be at 9 and 10:45 a.m., and streamed online at graceformonroe.com.

ELECTIONS

Local elections officials learn about state voting law's impact

Stephen Fowler GPB NEWS

It would be easy to lose track of all the changes to Georgia's voting rules made by the 98-page Senate Bill 202, but for local elections officials, that's not an option.

Across three days recently, hundreds of county supervisors, elections board members, probate judges and staff received hands-on training at the Georgia Association of Voter Registration and Elections Officials conference on Jekyll Island.

The session dealing with SB 202 ran for more than an hour, with the secretary of state's office going section by section to make sure no alteration goes unnoticed.

While Republicans, Democrats and federal lawsuits have zeroed in on a few higher-profile parts of the bill, dozens of pages of it that people aren't talking about more directly affect how local officials do their jobs.

Some parts put more pressure on them, such as tighter windows to mail out absentee ballots, new processes for verifying applications and quicker deadlines to make sure every ballot is counted. There are new responsibilities for supervisors to provide more information about total ballots cast and election processes such. Other sections give more flexibility for voting machine allocation in lower-turnout elections, allow poll workers to serve in adjacent counties and crack down on long lines at overcrowded polls.

Charlotte Sosebee, the elections supervisor in Athens-Clarke County and outgoing co-president of GAV-REO, said the conference and session was part of mandatory training required for those who run elections to constantly be on top of their game.

"It is best that we walk away with a clear understanding of what these changes are in SB 202 and how it will affect our jobs, from early voting to absentee ballots to tabulation to poll watchers," she said. "And just having a clear understanding of what is expected of us so that we can create an environment that's going to be fair and efficient for our voters as well as the elections, that we can walk away knowing that we've done the best that we can do."

Walnut Grove deserves a winner

I covered the annual Walnut Grove-Monroe Area football showdown a few weeks ago at the Purple Pit.

It was hot and muggy, the game was delayed an hour by a storm and, when action began, it was played in a steady drizzle.

What’s more, there was little doubt about the outcome as Monroe rolled to a five-touchdown victory.

And yet, looking across the field from the press box, I couldn’t help noting the visiting stands were full. I also couldn’t help thinking Walnut Grove deserves a winner — in football, that is.

The Warriors have enjoyed success in other sports, namely softball and basketball. But they’ve never been able to find any traction on the gridiron.

Now in their 12th full varsity season, they’ve cycled through four head coaches and had just one winning season and one playoff appearance.

Judging strictly by attendance, Walnut Grove football clearly doesn’t lack for support. Unfortunately, that doesn’t equate with winning. For years, the Chicago Cubs were dubbed “the lovable losers” because they regularly sold out Wrigley Field despite the team usually finishing at or near the bottom of its division.

At last Friday’s game against Social Circle, green and white-clad fans filled the home bleachers, despite the team’s 0-2 record. Fortunately, they were rewarded with a win, the

By the time Loganville begins Region 8-AAAAA play next week, it will either be battle-tested or beaten down — or maybe a little of both.

For the second straight week, the Red Devils will go on the road to face a Class AAAAAA opponent. This after they opened the season against top-10 ranked and archrival Monroe Area. Loganville will close out its non-region slate at the Big Orange Jungle in Lilburn against perennial powerhouse Parkview.

The Redskins continue their redemption tour with a trip to Eatonton to face the War Eagles. It will be their next-to-last non-region game, and maybe the toughest.

Social Circle opened the season with a win over George Walton, a team it had never beaten in five tries, followed by a shut-out of Providence. Last Friday, after having lost to Walnut Grove by 26 points a year earlier, they came within a touchdown of an upset.

Against Putnam County, the Redskins will be looking for pay-back after being pummeled 45-0 last September.

After an impressive run under Ben Reaves, the former Walnut Grove head coach, Putnam struggled for six seasons from 2012-17, managing just one winning season and playoff appearance over that stretch.

But since Shaun Pope took over the program in 2018, the War Eagles have been on a slow but steady upward trajectory. They went 3-7 and 5-6 his first two years. But they had a breakout season in 2020 with a 9-2 record.

The key for the War Eagles has been the performance of

Local teams getting geared up for region competition

Volleyball » Three schools have already hit double digit win in 2021

Chris Bridges
CORRESPONDENT

As volleyball season progresses into the month of September, Walton County teams are hoping to make their mark during their respective region schedules.

Already several players have posted standout numbers and three local squads have recorded double figure wins.

Loganville High School

The Lady Devils entered this week 12-7 overall. Some key non-region wins have been against Parkview and Dacula, which avenged losses earlier in the season.

“We have battled with some ups and downs, but I like our progress so far this early in the season,” coach Joe King said. “We had a good stretch of solid wins and some very competitive losses.”

Several players have been standouts including Allie Gubash with a team-high 153 kills, 120 digs and 28 aces.

Grace Hodges has 35 kills, 17 total blocks and nine aces. Jamie Thomas has 61 kills, 17 total blocks and 22 aces. Junior Makayla Stolarik has compiled 70 kills, 60 digs and 10 aces.

Stolarik has been sidelined with a knee injury that may possibly have her out for the rest of the season. King said he hopes to have our younger players step up to fill that role.

King’s team will begin region play Sept. 16 at Jackson County followed by a home region matchup with Clarke Central on Sept. 21.

The coach said he believes Greenbrier will be one of the top teams in the region after advancing to the Elite Eight in the state tournament a season ago. The LHS coach said Clarke Central and Jackson County should also be contenders.

“Our defense continues to improve as we prepare for region play,” King said.

Monroe Area High School

The Volley Canes have struggled record-wise in 2021 but coach Nicole Richards said the team and program are moving in the right direction.

The team is currently 3-17 overall and 0-2 in the region.

“Our record doesn’t show the small victories we have been having in the program,” the coach said. “We are focusing on serving, accuracy, communication, making smarter plays and building the trust it takes to have a successful volleyball program.”

Laura Leigh Pannell has recorded 104 kills, 213 digs and five aces. Teammate Emily Hill has 41 kills, 21 total blocks and 25 aces.

“We are working to rebuild the trust in our teammates,” Richards said. “We have to trust each other.”

In looking at the remaining region schedule, the Lady Canes coach said her team has the ability to make some noise.

“We can still be one of the top three or four teams,” Richards said. “We just have to keep working and keep improving. We are stabilizing our rotation. If we can take a couple more steps then we can be over the hump. We are competing.”

Walnut Grove High School

The Lady Warriors went into the 2021 season looking for stability.

Coach Amy Larimer said the players in the program have not had the leadership consistency in recent seasons. The team is currently 5-13 overall and has recorded wins against East Forsyth, Oglethorpe County, Monroe Area (twice) and Putnam County.

Walnut Grove opens region play Sept. 16 at home against Greenbrier. The Lady Warriors will also host region foe Johnson-Gainesville on Sept. 21. Matches begin at 6 p.m.

first season coaching the program.

George Walton Academy

New coach David Schnieders has already made an impact with the team.

A 12-5 start has the Lady Dogs set to begin play in Region 8-A Private. GWA has competed against and defeated some larger schools this season, most notably Grayson High School.

On the court, Delany Sims has registered 40 assists, 28 aces, 83 digs and 132 kills while teammate Kelsey Gasaway has 167 assists, 36 aces, 77 digs and 65 kills.

Catherine Atkinson has four solo blocks (12 total) and Abby Wright has contributed 40 digs, 24 aces, 11 total blocks and 67 kills.

Schnieders said the success GWA has enjoyed this season has been a team effort.

Loganville Christian Academy

The team has already reached double digit wins in 2021 and hopes to be a factor in its region. The Lady Lions compete with GWA in Region 8-A Private.

“We missed our last couple of matches due to COVID-19,” coach Mark Dossett said. “That likely cost us a couple of wins. We are getting ready to start our region schedule. We hope to be able to compete.”

Jordyn Towns has surpassed the 200-kill mark.

“To have that many in an entire season is a high number,” Dossett said. “She is certainly carrying us in that area.”

Madeline Bullington has been a strong setter for the Lady Lions.

“They have been our two most consistent players,” Dossett said. “We have defeated some larger schools. Hopefully, that will help us in our region. Athens Academy is probably the best team but George Walton and Prince Avenue are also solid. We usually have the most dominant player on the court in Jordan. We just need more pieces around her.”

Loganville senior Allie Gubash (23) currently leads the Lady Devils with 153 kills, 120 digs and 28 aces. Jamie Spaar | Special to The Tribune

Test: Devils visit Lilburn to face Parkview

“They are a great team and great program,” second-year Loganville head coach Brad Smith said. “But our kids don’t shy away from a challenge. And if we’re lucky enough to be one of the four teams from our region to make the playoffs, I don’t think we’ll see anything tougher than what we’ll play early in the season.”

After losing their season opener and their starting quarterback to transfer in a matter of days, the Red Devils were reeling. But a week off gave them a chance to regroup, and they traveled to Cumming last Friday and slipped past Forsyth Central.

The Red Devil used four different quarterbacks, opening with Solomon Leslie who was followed by Avery Hamilton, Cooper Kennedy and Jaylin McCray.

Cooper was 6-of-8 passing for 100 yards and a touchdown and he rushed for 110 yards and another score. Avery ran the ball 10 times for 150 yards and two touchdowns.

While it was a big win, it wouldn’t compare with a victory over the Panthers, who are led by former Loganville head coach Eric Godfree, now in his eighth season at his alma mater.

In the first meeting between the two schools last fall, Parkview trounced the Red Devils 42-0. But they were ranked No. 7 then and had a roster loaded with college prospects.

Hit hard by graduation, they look a little less formidable this fall. After being ranked seventh in the preseason, the Panthers have fallen out of the polls following losses to Mill Creek and North Gwinnett, sandwiched around a victory over Mountain View.

The Panthers’ biggest weakness is on defense, where they allowing an average of 34 points a game.

Kickoff is set for 7:30.

Knox inks with Toccoa Falls

quarterback Gerald Kilgore and running back Cedric Brundage. The duo combined for 357 yards rushing and six touchdowns in last year’s win over Social Circle.

They are back and led Putnam to a pair of impressive wins. Putnam opened the season with a 37-0 shutout of Morgan County, and they followed that up by blanking Jasper County 69-0.

George Walton

0-2 overall

at Crawford County

0-2 overall

A trip to Roberta, Georgia, might be just what the Bulldogs need.

Though two games, as expected, the Bulldogs have struggled mightily. The defense has allowed 40-plus points in back-to-back games, while the offense has contributed a total of 13 points.

Given the limited number of players, the coaches have few options to shake things up. A loss would give the Bulldogs their first 0-3 start since 2015, which was also the last time they ended the season with a losing record.

In Crawford County, the Bulldogs will meet a team with a history of struggling. In their 40-year history, they’ve had just six winning seasons. They last made the playoffs in 1998.

The Eagles have lost 15 straight and are breaking in a new head coach.

Johnson: Walnut Grove deserves a winner on the gridiron

team’s first of the season.

Walnut Grove has all it needs to build a successful program. They have great facilities, good numbers, solid support. Sitting as I am on the outside looking in, I can’t, and wouldn’t in this space anyway, make a judgment about coaching.

Of the quartet of head guys to guide the program, all seemed to be hard-working, well-meaning men who did, or are doing, all they can to turn things around.

So what’s the solution?

Call it what you will — a catch-22 or stuck between a rock and a hard place — but Walnut Grove is in a tough spot. They need more and better athletes to be a consistent winner. But in today’s climate, you need to win to attract and keep more and better athletes.

Kudos to the young men. They are true Warriors.

Over the years, I’ve seen several potential star players bail on the Warriors program for what they perceived to be greener pastures (i.e., winning programs). Had they stayed put, not only would they have likely helped they Warriors win a few more, but they would have sent a message that this is a program worth investing in.

Instead, by leaving, they sent exactly the opposite message.

But retention isn’t the only answer. Recruiting from within would be a boost. Judging just from the wrestling and basketball teams, there are some outstanding athletes roaming the halls. Many just choose to forego football.

Kudos to the young men who pour their hearts into the program and keep battling despite getting knocked down. They are true Warriors. They need and deserve some support, and not just from the bleachers on Friday nights.

A petition to terminate parental rights has been filed requesting the court to terminate your parental rights to your child. A court hearing for your case has been scheduled for Monday the 18th day of October, 2021, at 1:30 p.m., at the Juvenile Court of Walton County. A copy of the petition may be obtained by the parents from the Clerk of the Juvenile Court at Walton County Courthouse, Monroe, Georgia, during regular business hours, Monday through Friday, 9:00 o'clock am until 5:00 o'clock p.m. exclusive of holidays. A free copy shall be available to the parent. Upon request, the copy will be mailed to the requester -parents or alleged parents only. The general nature of the allegations are abandonment and failure to comply with your reunification case plan.

If you fail to appear, the court can terminate your rights in your absence. If the court at the trial finds that the facts set out in the petition to terminate parental rights are true and that termination of your rights will serve the best interest of your child, the court can enter a judgment ending the rights to your child. If the judgment terminates your parental rights, you will no longer have any rights to your child. This means that you will not have the right to visit, contact, or have custody of your child or make any decisions affecting your child or your child's earnings of property. Your child will be legally freed to be adopted by someone else. Even if your parental rights are terminated:

(1) You will still be responsible for providing financial support (child support payments) for your child's care unless and until your child is adopted; and

(2) Your child can still inherit from you unless and until your child is adopted.

This is a very serious matter. You should contact an attorney immediately so that you can be prepared for the court hearing. You have the right to hire an attorney and have him or her represent you. If you cannot afford to hire an attorney, the court will appoint an attorney if the court finds that you are an indigent person. Whether or not you decide to hire an attorney, you have the right to attend the hearing in your case, to call witnesses on your behalf, and to question those witnesses brought against you.

NOTICE OF SUMMONS AND EFFECT OF TERMINATION JUDGMENT

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN, the mother CRYSTAL DIANE ANDERSON and

TIMOTHY STEPHEN ANDERSON the father of C. M.A. and T. E. A.:

Georgia law provides that you can permanently lose your rights as a parent. A petition to terminate parental rights has been filed requesting the court to terminate your parental rights to your child. A court hearing for your case has been scheduled for the 1st day of November 2021, at 8:45a.m. at the Juvenile Court of Walton County. A copy of the Petition may be obtained by the parents from the Clerk of the Juvenile Court at Walton County Courthouse, Monroe, Georgia, during regular business hours, Monday through Friday, 9:00 o'clock am until 5:00 o'clock p.m. exclusive of holidays. A free copy shall be available to the parents. Upon request, the copy will be mailed to the requester - parents or alleged parents only. The general nature of the allegations are abandonment and failure to comply with your reunification case plan. If you fail to appear, the court can terminate your rights in your absence. If the court at the trial finds that the facts set out in the petition to terminate parental rights are true and that termination of your rights will serve the best interest of your child, the court can enter a judgment ending the rights to your child. If the judgment terminates your parental rights, you will no longer have any rights to your child. This means that you will not have the right to visit, contact, or have custody of your child or make any decisions affecting your child or your child's earnings of property. Your child will be legally freed to be adopted by someone else. Even if your parental rights are terminated: (1) You will still be responsible for providing financial support (child support payments) for your child's care unless and until your child is adopted; and (2) Your child can still inherit from you unless and until your child is adopted. This is a very serious matter. You should contact an attorney immediately so that you can be prepared for the court hearing. You have the right to hire an attorney and have him or her represent you. If you cannot afford to hire and attorney, the court will appoint an attorney if the court finds that you are an indigent person. Whether or not you decide to hire an attorney, you have the right to attend the hearing in your case, to call witnesses on your behalf, and to question those witnesses brought against you. If you have any questions concerning this notice, you may call the telephone of the clerk's office which is 770-267-1346.

WITNESS THE HONORABLE J. STANLEY RHYMER, Judge of said Juvenile Court.

This 25th day of August, 2021.
